Good Girl

by vagician

Summary

What happens when your needy cat-wife goes into heat and your inferior biology can't manage to keep up with her?

Glorious improvisation happens.

Or: Adora has Entrapta enchant a phallus with the ability to feel sensation and then has the inventor whipping up a bracelet that acts as an aphrodisiac for the duration it's worn. I hope you know where I'm going with this.

(Now featuring custom fanart from Batatadeuces!)

Notes

I wrote this on my birthday and I have absolutely no regrets. Hopefully you don't either. Enjoy!

Huge shoutout and thank you to Batatadeuces for the amazing fanart! 😍❤️ Seriously I can't thank you enough!

"And I think that just about does it for inquiries." Glimmer announced at the head of the war table, Bright Moon's queen addressing the trackerpad she held loosely in her hand more than the council of princesses presently circled around her.

At least two hours had passed since they'd all huddled into the war room, and if Catra spent a minute longer in this claustrophobic nightmare she was certain the walls would gobble her up and swallow her whole. Though with the current level of boredom she was working with, she'd likely welcome her end with open arms at this point.

Oh, thank the damn stars. the feline muttered internally from her claimed spot on the sofa. A sofa that happened to be a fine piece of furniture the slothful hybrid was growing rather fond of. It took a sizeable amount of convincing to get the alliance to approve of having something as leisurely and needless as a 'lounging couch' dragged into their main base of operations, but the feline would like to think her efforts (cough constant bitching) paid off nicely.

Now not only does she get to avoid all those overly-concerned complaints from her peers about her aversion for social interactions, but it also meant she could have her prize of a wife still within her sights, which in Catra's eyes, was always a good thing. The same wife who happened to be sitting on this couch in a much more sophisticated posture than the half asleep magicat-

"And now we'll move onto kingdom restoration progress." Glimmer's voice heralded what Catra was thoroughly convinced would be her untimely end.

No..

"Perfuma, would you like to start?"

Nonono.

"Oh, I'd love to!"

Yep, this is it. This is how my wife becomes a widow.

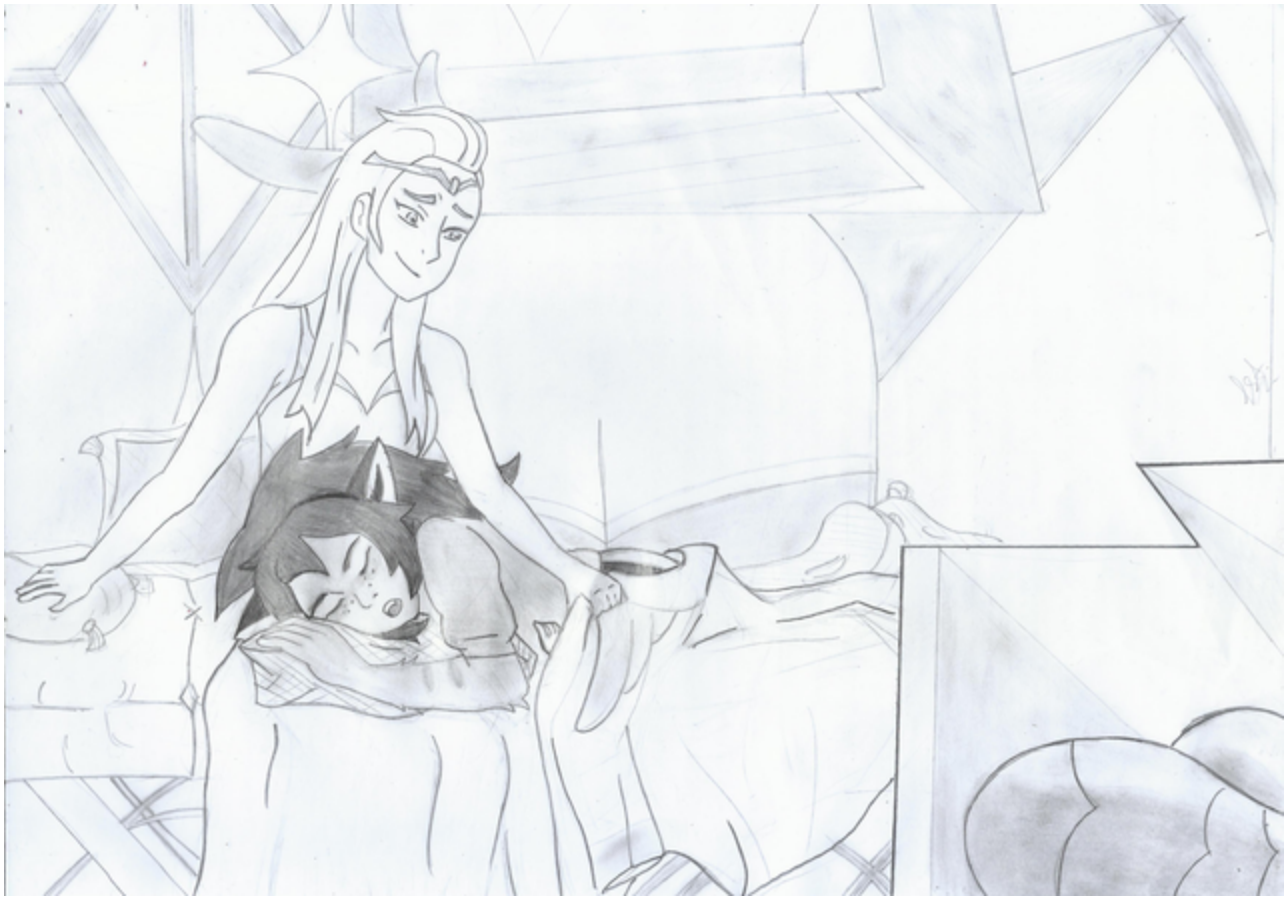

Whatever was left of Catra's dwindling attention span clocked out after that. Don't get her wrong, she didn't have any beef with any of the princesses here. (aside for a slight dislike towards Mermista, though Catra couldn't really call it a full-on beef. She just couldn't find herself vibing with anyone who had that much control over the one unfairly abundant liquid that haunted even the darkest corners of her nightmares.)

So yeah, no beefs of any sort. She just couldn't take listening to the hippie princess go into intricate detail over her prized plants yet again, especially after the catnip incident. One simple wedding gift turned into a week of Catra bouncing off every damn wall in the palace before they finally acknowledged it was the plant making her go nuts. Then there was also the time Perfuma suggested using some 'special' herbs to spice up things in the bedroom. That one? Didn't go so well either.

Catra knew Perfuma's intentions held no malice but damn if that didn't feel like a personal insult to her image. Okay so maybe there were a few other areas in her life that could possibly use some minor improvements, but that specific subject definitely wasn't one of them. If she was truly blessed with nine lives then she's easily spent at least eight of them just railing her wife into the mattress at any opportune moment, which she could have been doing now, but y'know, responsible adulting and what not.

Hell, their naked escapades didn't even need to be limited to solely the mattress. Mattresses were meant for small thinkers, and Catra? Catra liked to think big around here. She'd like to think she's flexible enough to make any challenging environment work in her favor if the end result meant getting her wife out of sight of prying eyes. And now that she thought about it, why weren't they doing that again? Did she mention she hates these meetings? Stupid lame meetings. Stupid hot wife.

"Wishing we were somewhere else right now?" Adora leaned down to card her fingers through the tufts of her mane, the warrior's lap essentially becoming the feline's improvised pillow. Her mane was finally at the length she had it before Prime had her chipped and unkindly ruined all of her years of patience and hard work, and now that it was back in all of its glory, her wife couldn't get enough of it.

Adora was always finding reasons to bury her fingers through it any chance she was able. That and finding any convenient excuse to scratch and exploit that weak spot just below the base of her ears. She insisted she wasn't petting her but the feline knew better, always outwardly complaining about it when deep down she knew she loved every minute of it.

I mean come on, she was half cat, okay? What rational feline in their right mind wouldn't enjoy having their own insufferably hot princess of a wife fisting her fingers through their fur with such dedicated enthusiasm? It seemed like a win-win situation to Catra.

Catra trapped the purr in her throat wanting to kickstart under the appreciated display of affection, knowing she'd never hear the end of it if it started up on her now. The last time she purred in public Arrow Boy wouldn't let her live it down for at least a week, and Catra was in no mood to provide the man any more ammo. If she heard any more words relating to "cute" and "kitty" spew out of the archer's mouth one more time, Catra would ensure he learned first-hand that this 'kitty' came fully equipped with claws.

"You already know the answer to that one, princess." Catra sluggishly yawned, her ears twitching involuntarily when she caught wind of the approaching footsteps scrambling ungracefully down the hall, her scent having the hybrid identify the new company without needing a visual beforehand.

Right on cue Entrapta burst through the doors with enough chaotic momentum to have Catra instinctively hissing in alarm at the violent intrusion, the smooth fur of her tail puffing out against her will as it thrashed about. Adora being the oh-so-supportive wife that she is, bit the inside of her cheek to keep herself from laughing at her startled spouse, but the upturned corners of her lips were starting to give her away her condemning grin. Bow looked equally as entertained as the rest of them, the archer barely containing his fit of laughter.

"So that's where the term scaredy cat comes from. It all makes sense now!" he exclaimed, as if Catra's distaste for loud and sudden noises was some kind of revolutionary scientific discovery and not common fucking sense.

"Making fun of someone's triggers isn't very nice, Bow. I think-" Perfuma's considerate lecture halted prematurely when the purple-haired conjurer to all this mayhem finally came waltzing into view, the tech-savvy princess carrying a questionable-looking box under one of her arms. Catra wanted to mention that she looked noticeably lost in her surroundings, but then again that tended to be the inventor's default expression the majority of the time.

"How nice of you to join us Entrapta, considering you've missed the last four council meetings in a row." Glimmer noted, underlying annoyance in her tone. Entrapta gave her that one signature blink that basically said 'I have no idea what you're talking about but I'm going to keep nodding and smiling anyway since it's the appropriate thing to do.'

"Huh? This is the first time I'm hearing any news about a meeting." the inventor used her index finger to thoughtfully scratch the side of her temple, as if the gesture would somehow be successful in jogging her memory.

Spoiler alert: It wasn't.

"When is it again? I'll mark it down in my tracker pad." Entrapta diverted her attention to her pad to set a reminder, the distracted princess missing the exasperated facepalm the queen flung in her direction. Catra went stiff with unease when she glimpsed Hordak waiting outside the doors for the inventor, their eyes briefly locking with each other before the former superior of hers swiftly looked elsewhere, appearing equally uncomfortable.

They seemed to hash it out with the former Prime minion and were on somewhat pleasant terms as of now, but just seeing someone look so eerily similar to the one person who nearly forced his will on her just continued to rub her fur the wrong way.

She wasn't exactly in any position to fault him for his past misdoings, since Catra was no girl scout herself, and at one point in time had every intention of picking up right where he left off. But all that aside, the hybrid still had a very justifiable reason to hate the unpleasantly familiar face, so hate she did.

"Oh, I almost forgot! Has anyone seen Adora? I have that thing for her." Entrapta asked, despite the princess in question plainly being in her line of sight.

"Over to your right, buried under a pile of pussy. You know, as per usual." Mermista informed her in her typical uninterested fashion, gesturing with a nod to the scowling feline in Adora's lap, the mermaid serving the hybrid half a smirk in return. Glimmer tried to cover up her escaping laughter with her hand, hurriedly straightening up when Catra's displeased glare redirected onto the queen.

"Thing? You're going to have to be more specific than that, Entrapta." Adora gently nudged the grumbling magicat far enough off her lap so she could stand and stretch her legs.

"Uh, are you sure? Even if it's that thingie you told me not to mention out loud because you didn't want anyone knowing what-"

Catra had never seen her wife move so fast in her life, the panicking blonde quickly covering the inventor's mouth with her hand before she could out her even more, the color draining her face causing Adora's complexion to turn ten more levels of pale, now on the verge of ghostly. Naturally, Catra's full attention diverted over to the mystery box in question, her interest now notably piqued.

"Right! Heh, that thing. Thanks a bunch, Entrapta. I'll take it from here." Adora relieved her of the box Catra was now actively staring down with curious intent, the princess of power giving the inventor a friendly nudge out of the room as she slammed the doors behind her the minute she was able. As soon as Adora turned back around, the hypothetical crickets began chirping in the room, several sets of eyes looking at the blonde expectantly.

"Do I even want to know what that was about?" Glimmer warily questioned, having a feeling this would be an inquiry she'd immediately regret asking. Adora, who still looked about as paranoid as a cockroach under a flashlight, went with the nonverbal route, shaking her head in a vigorous no.

The blonde quickly retreated back to the relative safety of the couch, clutching onto the box like her life depended on it. Now feeling quite parched, Adora sacrificed one hand to reach for the cup of water on the table in front of her, hurriedly downing the liquid. Water and Catra may have had a complicated dynamic, but the stray drop that managed to spill out of the corner of her wife's lips and down to the valley between her breasts may or may not have had her greedily licking her lips. (It was definitely the first.)

"Ten silvers says it's a sex thing." Mermista wagered, prompting Adora's entire drink to go spraying out of her mouth in a violent wave of water and backwash, partially misting the feline next to her. Catra couldn't even get mad at the unwanted friendly fire coating her face, since her entire focus had reverted itself to figuring out what the hell was in that god-forsaken box. As much as she hated agreeing with the aloof mermaid, Adora's reaction seemed to point to that conclusion.

"If you all are done poking fun at each other, then perhaps we can get back to the task at hand? Perfuma, you were saying?" Glimmer tried to be a reasonable adult and maintain at least some sort of structure to this meeting, allowing the floral princess the floor once more.

As Perfuma droned on about Plumeria's progress, Catra discreetly slid closer to the anxious mess that was her wife, casually resting an arm around the back of the couch as the other deliberately neared the box. When Catra tried to pry it open to get a guilty peek for herself, Adora instantly smacked her hand away, whispering a quiet "Later!".

Giving an irritable twitch of her tail and in no mood to determine when exactly 'later' would be, the hybrid decided to abandon that route, forced to reformulate her strategy. Catra cutesyed up her voice, leaning directly into her wife's ear.

"So, what's in the box, princess?" Catra pestered her, mismatched eyes boring into the side of the blonde's temple.

"Never heard of curiosity killing the cat?" Adora shot back in a hushed whisper, her cheeks blazing redder than the cherry red half jacket she was sporting. Catra smirked.

"Never heard of satisfaction bringing it back?" Catra countered, feeling quite victorious when the quip had her wife stifling a small laugh, prompting Glimmer to shoot them both a disapproving look. No words accompanied the look but if Catra had to make a guess, it'd probably be something along the lines of "Do I need to come over there and separate you two?"

"Fishgirl was right, wasn't she?" Catra ignored the warning and whispered into Adora's ear, relishing in the minor shiver that ensued from the warm breath ghosting her skin. The grip on the box only tightened its hold, and by Adora's continued silence, Catra already had her answer.

By the time the meeting ended, Adora was rightfully antsy, and why shouldn't she be? Her wife had made several attempts to pry open the box and when those didn't work, she was there whispering crude guesses into her ear for the entire length of the meeting. All of them had been wrong of course, since this nature of device was something neither of them had ever gotten around to discussing before. But communication was key in any successful marriage and-

"You snooze, you lose princess!" Catra all but yanked the box out of her wife's arms, the hybrid already halfway down the hall before Adora could process what the hell just happened. In Catra's defense, Adora really should have seen this coming.

"Really, Catra?!" Adora yelled loud enough to have the other departing princesses throw her a perplexed look at the outburst. Cheeks flushing with another layer of embarrassment, Adora sighed before taking off after the hybrid, narrowly avoiding colliding with two of the castle's guards in the midst of her pursuit.

"Sorry about that!" the princess hurriedly shouted over her shoulder, in no position to slow her step and grace them with a proper apology. The chase itself was overall pointless, since her wife had the (highly) unfair advantage of a headstart and a limber feline anatomy to work with, but Adora wasn't about to take that L without giving it her all.

Twisting around one of the incoming columns, Adora made a sharp left just as the magicat down the hall made it to their quarters, her diabolical cackle fading when Catra swiftly kicked the door shut just as Adora made it over.

Expecting it to either be locked or for Catra to show some resistance, Adora put far more of her weight against the door than necessary, resulting in the poor princess to go barreling into the room, the momentum of her charge causing her to trip over her own two feet.

The faceplant would have been enough to do some damage if it weren't for the pink shag rug graciously breaking the majority of the fall. Adora huffed when she heard distant snickering to her left, gradually lifting her head out of the rug to find her wife fully perched on the dresser (because apparently Catra, like any other typical feline, had a major superiority complex, always seeking out the highest vantage point to lounge on when and where she could.)

At least she hasn't opened it yet. Adora silently deduced as she blew a stubborn strand of hair out of her face, unceremoniously rising from the rug gravity and her clumsiness had her plummeting into. Now that Catra had her attention, she flashed a toothy grin of victory, finally allowing her fingers to lift the lid off the box.

The minute she acknowledged its contents, Catra's expression began cycling too frequently for Adora to properly gauge her reaction. It went from puzzled, to briefly excited, back to puzzled again, before she finally narrowed her eyes in suspicion.

"The bracelet is kinda pretty I guess. But what's with the glowing boomerang?" Catra finally questioned, grabbing them both before she carelessly chucked the box aside, hopping off the dresser with a gentle thud. Adora had enough heat rising to her cheeks to rival the fusion of a star, struggling with how to word her answer without making a complete idiot out of herself in the process.

"It's.. not a boomerang." Adora answered, giving herself a mental pat on the back for not tripping over her own words like she managed to do with rug. Gathering up some courage, she relieved the item from her wife's grasp, turning it over in her hands to demonstrate.

"It's a phallus designed to be pleasurable for both wearers. The small curved side would go into me, and the bigger side would go into you.." Adora timidly explained, her breath hitching in anticipation when the gears in Catra's head finally began turning. "I'm in no way implying that we have to use it if it's something you aren't comfortable-"

"Who says it's going in me?" Catra interjected, her ears flattening defensively as the fur on her nape bristled with unease. Even though she should have predicted this, Adora still felt blind-sighted, the nefarious smirk Catra served her not helping her case at all.

"I.. uh. I mean it doesn't have to go in you… It could also go in.." Adora trailed off, her voice weaker than a whisper. "Me.." she finished, knowing those damn words would be there for her to trip over eventually. And trip she did. Catra made an approving hum, tactfully placing her palms on the stuttering blonde's shoulders to begin backing her into the bed.

"Now we're getting somewhere." Catra drawled, looking far more enthusiastic now that she had control of the situation. "Still doesn't explain why it's glowing.. Let me guess, next you're going to say you had Entrapta enchant it with magic?" Catra screwed with her, the statement meaning to be a joke but the way Adora's eyes guiltily averted themselves elsewhere had Catra pausing. "Holy shit, you did, didn't you?"

"I can explain.." Adora tried to defuse the situation, setting the glowing phallus aside on the mattress. She convinced herself if she wasn't looking directly at it, this conversation would be a little more easier to work around.

"Get to it, then." Catra ordered, nearly slipping the bracelet on her wrist before Adora abruptly smacked it out of her hand a little harder than she intended. Catra gave her a puzzled blink, about to give the blonde a piece of her mind for the rude display but the conflict in Adora's face had her deciding against it, her face softening with underlying worry for her partner.

"Alright, princess. What's going on with you? I know you're a spazz, but you're usually never this jumpy." Catra retreated from her hovered position to settle back on her hips, allowing the princess beneath her to sit upright. Adora sighed in defeat, knowing beating around the bush wouldn't get her anywhere but right back to square one.

"I know it seems odd, but I had them both made for a reason. It's…"

"...It's?" Catra prodded, still appearing apprehensive but the consideration in her voice made it a little easier for the warrior to effectively weave her way around such a sensitive subject.

"For when you're in heat.." Adora quietly finished, sitting with the words for a minute before she finally braved a glance up at her wife. When Catra didn't immediately answer, Adora took the window of opportunity to elaborate further.

"The enchantment allows it to physically connect with the user and have them feel any sensation or stimuli being experienced through it.. Essentially becoming an extension of the wearer." Adora nervously rambled, her stress levels only increasing with her heart rate when Catra looked even more confused than she did before providing her an explanation.

"Okay… Now try it again and explain it to me like I'm five." Catra requested, warily eyeing the glowing toy in her peripheral vision. Adora swallowed, giving her a curt nod while switching up tactics.

"It becomes a part of your body for as long as it's on. Meaning you can feel.. everything happening to it." Adora barely got the words out before realization clicked for the feline, her grin turning filthier than Adora currently felt. Which considering the circumstances, was pretty damn filthy.

"So in other words, you're saying it's a removable dick?" Catra questioned, humming delightedly at the shy nod it earned from the princess. "And you're sure it works? It's not going to short circuit and blow to pieces like the majority of the junk Entrapta throws together?"

"She ensured it works. She tried it out on herself just to be sure.." Adora mumbled, the disgusted shudder from the feline having her quickly correcting herself. "She tested the original on herself! Then once she confirmed it to work she replicated the design and, yeah."

"I think I could have lived a long and happy life without ever needing to know that bit of information.." Catra muttered in protest, her brows knitting together after a moment. "It still doesn't explain the bracelet or why you smacked it out of my hand."

"I was getting around to that part.." Adora informed her, braving herself for the other half of this conversation. "It's designed to increase the libido of the wearer.. Essentially making it a temporary aphrodisiac for however long it's worn.." Adora clarified, but by the look on Catra's face, she knew it wouldn't be enough for Catra to piece the puzzle together.

"And in layman's terms?" Catra asked, picking up the enchanted piece of jewelry to observe it more closely.

"It'll spike up my… uh.. sex drive.. So you know.." Adora stopped when Catra's ears perked up at the information, her normally slitted pupils now dominating the majority of her mismatched irises.

"No, I'm afraid I don't know. You'll have to explain it better than that. Use your words, princess." Catra teased, letting her tail scuff the underside of Adora's jaw for a brief flick before it settled back at her side. Adora bit her lip, the warm pressure on her waist making it increasingly difficult to concentrate, let alone conjure a coherent explanation.

"It'll help me.." Adora looked elsewhere when Catra's grin stretched further. "Keep up with you.. So I uh.. don't tap out so quickly.."

Catra didn't exactly give her the reaction she had been anticipating. While there were still traces of smug amusement in her expression, there was something else in there that Adora couldn't really put her finger on.

"Adora, you didn't have to go and do all this. What makes you think you don't take perfectly good care of me already, hm?" Catra asked, sealing her lips with a reassuring kiss before Adora could provide her an answer.

Catra wasn't exactly wrong. During her heats, Adora always made sure her schedule was cleared for the next few days in advance, and would dedicate herself to being there for her wife in any way that was needed.

Sometimes that included simply kissing until their lips went numb while other times it consisted of Adora having her head buried between the hybrid's legs for hours on end, tending to her wife until she lost all feeling in her jaw. (Not that she was complaining, mind you.) But Catra had a tendency to feel guilty once Adora finally reached that point where keeping her needs sated bordered on the impossible, so the bracelet was a key item for nipping that specific problem in the bud.

"I know I didn't have to. I wanted to. I want to be able to give you what you need, Catra. I don't want you to think me taking care of you is just a chore to me, since I don't feel that way at all. Just think of it as a way we can both thoroughly enjoy ourselves." Adora answered between a barrage of feverish kisses, an embarrassing whine fleeing her lungs when she felt her lower lip get caught between a firm set of fangs.

"You're such a dork." Catra ended her endearing insult with a slight tug of the blonde's lip. Relief coursed through Adora when Catra finally seemed to be on board with the questionable solution, arms looping around her shoulders when the hybrid sprawled out on top of her.

"I may be a dork, but I'm your dork. And I'm kinda your wife now, so yeah. There's that too." Adora smugly reminded her, tilting her neck invitingly when Catra's lips navigated to the expanse of flesh that connected neck to shoulder.

"Damn right you are."

Life went on as normal for the next few weeks. (As normal as one could get in the strange world of Etheria.) Much to Adora's delight, Catra only continued to express interest in the newly acquired toys in their arsenal, to the point where Catra kept hinting that they necessarily didn't need to wait until her heat to test them out. But Adora held strong, insisting the experience would be more thrilling if they didn't know what they were in for. Catra predictably argued with her reasoning, but after several failed attempts at coaxing her, the feline finally ceased her efforts.

Catra wouldn't have to wait much longer though. Fast forward to the present moment and Adora would have found this night just like any other night with her wife, snoozing soundly in the other's arms. Or, she was snoozing. Until a wet pressure enveloping her thigh had her blinking her eyes open, squinting through the darkness as her eyes tried to adjust to her surroundings.

She peered down only to see a grunting Catra mounted on top of her thigh, her legs seizing it in a death grip as the feline continuously rutted against the muscled limb, striving to attain some friction. Every frantic rock forward had Catra's knee deliciously hitting her center, causing the blonde to worry her lip, her hips instinctively twitching forward in response. The entire display would have been incredibly hot to Adora, if it weren't for the look of pure embarrassment accompanying the feline's face, making Adora's entire being flood with sympathy for her partner.

"I-I can't stop.." she said with a whimper, ending her admission with a weak "I'm so sorry." Adora was floored that her wife felt any need to apologize, since in all honesty, this was the sort of shit she kinda lived for. In the midst of Catra's heat was where Adora could truly thrive, since it was the only occasion Catra would completely drop her guard and allow Adora to nurture and care for her to the best of her ability, knowing she was in safe hands. Not to mention Catra grew far more impulsive and animalistic during this time, which meant her fellow switch of a wife could bask in the anticipation of potentially being manhandled (cathandled?) at any given moment.

"I don't want you to stop, Kitten. Take whatever you need from me." Adora reassured her, her encouragement resulting in a conflicted mewl as Catra put more force behind the thrust of her hips, unsheathed claws firmly pinning her lower half to the mattress.

"Can I kiss you?" Adora asked, avoiding the temptation to reach for her. She could never determine what degree of sensory overload her wife was dealing with during these times so she always made sure to ask before doing something that typically didn't require permission.

Adora didn't have to wait long for an answer, pleasantly delighted when Catra feverishly darted downward, greedy lips colliding with a pair that were equally as hungry for attention.

Whatever strained noise left the blonde was promptly swallowed by the feline's oral assault, the rough surface of her tongue melding with her own as Catra licked into her mouth.

Her heart swelled with love when the claws at her shoulders began kneading gentle biscuits into her skin, a full-body purr of approval rumbling through the hybrid. Adora knew any chance of moving to get the toy out of the drawer was off the table until Catra finished working her first climax out of her system, so the princess was perfectly content with lying there and allowing Catra to use her in any way she saw fit.

"You're so fucking perfect. Fuck, how did I get so lucky?" Catra panted into the gaps between her lips, eliciting a muffled moan from the princess at the praise. That was another nifty little thing about Catra's heats. They tended to turn her wife into quite the emotional sap, which was a rare side of her Adora would never be able to get enough of. Not that typical Catra didn't have the capacity to be romantic, because she most certainly did. Catra just had her own unique little ways of showing her love.

"Not nearly as perfect as the beauty I have the privilege of having on top of me right now." Adora cooed back at her, the compliment only having the tempo of the feline's hips spike higher at the praise. "All that I am, all that I was, and all that I'll ever be, is solely and completely yours. I love you, Catra. More today than I did yesterday, and tomorrow I'll love you even more."

Adora murmuring sweet nothings into the labored breaths of her mouth was more than enough to physically drag Catra's first orgasm right out from under her. Adora felt the warmth of more slick spill down the top of her thigh, the heat enveloping her leg a pleasant contrast to the chilled temperature of the room. Catra's hands fled her shoulders just before she could lose control of her reflexes, her claws raking harshly into the headboard as the wood splintered around them.

"Fuuuck. Adora, I'm-"

"Shh. I know. Let it all out, Kitten. I'm right here with you." Adora soothed her, letting her arms fall to the small of her back, rubbing small circles just above the base of her tail. Catra arched into the sensation, her tail thrashing aimlessly before her hips slammed down for a final time, furred thighs holding the blonde's leg in a vice grip.

Adora eased her through the aftershocks, letting her grip ascend back up to her shoulders so she wouldn't overstimulate her. Catra's back was sensitive even before she climaxed, but that sensitivity always amplified tenfold in her post-orgasm haze. As her panting subsided, her purring picked right back up, nudging Adora's head to the side.

A furred cheek nuzzled against the surface of her neck, the princess shaping a giddy smile when she realized Catra was claiming her with her scent. Some might find the trait possessive but Adora was all for it. To her, it said " This is my person and you bet your sweet ass I'm making sure the whole world knows it."

"Fuck, I don't think I'll ever get tired of this." Catra spoke first, pressing a lingering kiss against her throat. Adora bit back a laugh, the lips at her neck threatening to steal away her attention.

"That makes two of us." Adora agreed, her breath pausing in a hitch when she felt the delicate pressure of fangs scraping against her pulse point. Adora knew Catra's instincts were tempted to claim her with a mating bite. Just the thought of knowing she was holding back was enough to unearth a deeply buried whine in the princess. The lips at her throat curved into a smug smirk as Adora offered up more of her neck to her, fingers fisting through the soft tufts of fur at the hybrid's shoulders.

"Should I get the toy or did you want to wait a bit?" Adora murmured, trying to raise the issue before she became too distracted with the lovely cat-wife she had pinning her into the bed. Catra's snort suggested she wasn't on board with that plan at all.

"As fucking if. You aren't moving an inch until I've had my fair share. Got it, princess?" Catra growled, her canines pressing firmly into her neck. It wasn't enough to break the skin, but it did earn the feline one hell of a heinous moan.

"I thought I was the one supposed to be taking care of you." the blonde half-heartedly protested, her abs tightening in response to the sly set of fingers slipping beneath the hem of her shirt.

"You are. And part of taking care of me is giving me what I want, right?" Catra dragged her lips up to her ear, confiscating the tender lobe between her teeth before beginning to suck in earnest. The deliberate tease was a bit unfair on Catra's part, but Adora was hardly in a position to argue.

"Yes, Catra. Anything. Just say the word and it's yours." Adora mindlessly sputtered out, the desperation in her tone plenty apparent as she squirmed in place, the hands at her ribs ascending to her breasts, her eyes rolling back when she felt an unsheathed claw cautiously drag over the peak of her left breast, while a determined hand seized the right.

"What I want is you, princess. Think you can handle that?" Catra continued, slipping a knee between her thighs, pressing her weight forward to apply a measured amount of pressure. Adora's cheeks burned in embarrassment, knowing Catra could likely tell how worked up she was just from the mess the blonde was already beginning to create on her thigh.

"Absolutely." Adora groaned back, hand leaving her sides in a moment of weakness as she went to hurriedly discard of her shirt, tossing the dreaded garment into irrelevancy. Catra hummed in a sing-song voice, plenty pleased with how easy it was to get the princess to unravel.

"Good. Because I wasn't giving you a choice." Catra informed her, pausing to take in the beauty that was shirtless Adora. After taking a lengthy detour at her chest, Catra's gaze dropped down to the thigh Adora was guiltily grinding on, the friction combing the damp fur there in each and every direction.

"Haven't even put the bracelet on yet and you're already this needy, aren't you princess?" Catra taunted, her grip venturing down the taut plane of her stomach until her fingers converged right at the center of her sleep shorts, lazily skimming a nail along the waistband. "Think you can be a good girl and sit still long enough for me to take these off?"

Adora's reaction was instantaneous, already feeling the switch inside her effortlessly click as she let herself slip into the serenity of that headspace. The space that would have She-Ra conquering an entire galaxy ten times over just to be able to hear that she was Catra's good girl. That praise was her driving source, almost her life-blood if you will. It was more habit-forming than any drug you'd find on the market, and Adora had devolved into a full-blown addict.

She and Catra were both dominant when it came to giving, but they both had a tendency to submit to the other whenever they were receiving. It was the best of both worlds really, so Adora let her wife momentarily take the reigns from her, knowing and trusting that she would get them back eventually.

The princess obediently nodded, willing her hips to a stop as she tried not to squirm. The pride she sensed in her wife's eyes was just the extra icing on the cake, gently lifting her hips off the mattress so Catra could bunch her shorts down her legs. A small part of Adora sobbed when the feline didn't make any effort to grab the panties hugging her hips, keeping them on her before she set a hand on each one of her knees, gradually urging them to spread.

Adora knew Catra had to smell her arousal by now. Her wife's sense of smell was practically unrivaled and she always made sure to remind her of it, especially during sex. Much like she was doing now. Catra made herself cozy between the juncture of her thighs, pressing her nose to the wettest part of her panties. And then she sniffed. Like, really sniffed.

"Fuck, all of this just for me?" Catra purred, using her nose to press the fabric into her clit, the brief contact having Adora's hips twitch forward on reflex, her hands struggling for something to cling to. She settled with the disheveled sheets beneath her, brain short circuiting as Catra continued to drink in her scent.

"Catra, please. Don't make me beg.." Adora pleaded, trying to grind her hips up to increase the pressure but the firm hands pinning her in place made that feat impossible. When she felt a pair of lips purse ever so lightly over the indentation of her clit, Adora was pretty sure she lost it.

"Beg for what?" Catra pondered, her nature to be a tease not allowing the poor blonde off the hook so easily. Normally Adora wouldn't mind it, hell, she was pretty into it. But now? Right now she needed substantial contact. Nothing less would suffice.

"Your tongue.." Adora gasped when Catra kissed her hood a bit more firmly this time, forcing her legs to spread further.

"What about my tongue?" Catra continued, pausing her nosing to give her a firm bite to the inside of her thigh, sucking the life back into the faded love bite that resided there. The blonde choked out another strained noise, fearing if she suffered any more hormonal turmoil she was sure her volatile state would involuntarily invoke a transformation.

Not that Catra ever complained about it. Quite the contrary actually. The first time it happened she boasted for weeks about how she literally fucked the warrior princess right out of her. Adora just didn't know how to control her own strength in that form, and she wasn't looking to break yet another bed of theirs. Because yes, it's definitely happened. More than once.

"I-I need it." Adora answered, though it sounded more like a pitiful whimper. Catra released the tender bit of flesh between her teeth, pulling back to admire the fruits of her labor.

"Where?" Catra prodded, letting the tips of her claws hook in the waistband of her panties, dragging the drenched fabric down at an intentionally unhurried pace.

Adora shut her legs just enough to aid her wife in stripping her bare, the drenched garment soon long forgotten as Catra resumed her position just above her center, the tickle of her labored breaths blanketing her hood.

"Fuck .. Inside me.." Adora mindlessly pleaded, dying from the effort it took to keep her hips from jerking forward. She knew if she didn't stay still, Catra would only continue to drag this out.

"Doing?" Catra let her nose brush against the blonde little wisp of hair above her clit, a low groan shaking throughout the feline as her scent hit her nostrils with more potency than before. Adora couldn't stand it anymore.

"Filling me. Fucking me.. Claiming me.." Adora blurted out, already experiencing a cramp in her hand from how tightly her fingers wove around the sheets. Catra hummed.

"Good girl."

Yesyesyes!

Catra sprung down with the speed of a panther, (I'm sure there's a cat-related pun in there somewhere, I'm just too lazy to think of one) flattening her tongue to ensure no inch of her would go uncovered. She started right at the source of the nectar, slickened lips parting around her tongue as she dragged it upward, paving a path that ended right at her clit. Adora's eyes rolled to the back of her head when the rough barbs of her tongue got caught against her hood, creating a delicious stretch upward that nearly had her keening.

"Fucking hell. It's like an endless pot of honey. But way fucking sweeter." Catra buried a groan into her, the feline's hand sneaking back down her own torso to take care of herself. Her mewls grew more desperate to match the feverish pace of her tongue, drinking in every inch of nectar that spilled from Adora's petaled lips. Adora, now actively writhing beneath her and losing all control over her vocabulary, darted her hands down to the top of Catra's mane, clinging to her fur as her hips surged forward with purpose. And just when Adora couldn't stand it anymore, the feline's lips formed a seal right at the base of her clit, and sucked.

"Nggh. Catra! Close!" Adora warned her, assuming it would have Catra picking up her efforts, but boy could she not have been more wrong. Almost as quickly as it happened, Catra released her clit with a wet 'pop', blowing a cool stream of air against her swelling hood.

"No cumming yet." Catra purred, and Adora nearly threw a tantrum right then and there. This definitely wasn't part of the plan, but with Catra taking it upon herself to mount the blonde's chest, Adora hardly had the will to complain.

"You're doing so great, princess. Now be a good girl and get your kitten purring again. I promise to make it worth your while" Catra encouraged her, carding her fingers through her hair as her hips slotted past her shoulders. Invigorated by the praise, Adora lunged upward, causing two very different sets of lips to come into contact with each other.

The princess groaned at the amount of slick coating her wife's fur, greedily probing her with her tongue for a better taste. A scandalous moan made itself known when Adora felt the moment Catra's claws came out to play, the filed-down extensions lightly sinking into her scalp. It wasn't enough to break the skin, but just enough to consistently be made aware of the danger of their presence.

"That's it, princess. Just like that.. You're doing so good, baby." Catra praised her, grabbing the headboard with her free hand to steady herself.

"Pinch my thigh if you need to stop and catch your breath. Pinch it for me now so I know you heard me." Catra instructed her, receiving an approving vocalization as well as a slight pinch to her thigh. "That's my girl."

Catra failed to realize that her wife literally possessed the ability to breathe in the vacuum of space, so Adora doubted she'd need to come up for air, especially with the field day she was currently having down here. She hooked her arms around Catra's thighs, using her strength to hoist her downward, encouraging the feline to grind down harder.

Sure it meant Adora no longer had the pleasure of viewing the incredible vantage point it offered of her wife, but it also meant Catra was now fully mounted onto her face, letting Adora's tongue take her on the ride of her life. Adora went from prodding her entrance with a firmed tongue, back to taking her clit in the warmth of her mouth, ensuring both areas received an equal amount of stimulation. The extra effort paid off because it only took about a minute or so before Catra was falling apart on top of her all over again.

"Fuckfuckfuck. I'm- Fuuuuck!" Catra's half-formed warning spilled out of her mouth in a soup of words, sacrificing the grip on Adora's scalp before her claws could do any damage, substituting with fisting her hair as her hips made one more insistent buck, her thighs tightening around her prize.

Adora could have came just from the performance alone. (Or maybe she did? Hell, she was so far gone she didn't even know whether she was coming or going at this rate.) When the dam finally burst, the blonde took it all in stride, greedily catching everything that poured out of her wife's core, refusing to spare a drop. In fact, her efforts to clean her up were so thorough that Catra had to end up yanking her head away when the sensitivity became too much for her. She rolled off of the princess, collapsing at her side with a sated grin.

"I knew I married you for a reason." Catra teased, her grin growing from slight to insufferable. Adora snorted but ended up laughing regardless, feeling far too pleased with herself like she always did right after bringing her wife to climax. The feeling was so addicting that it made it just bearable enough to tolerate the ever-persistent ache between her legs.

As far as tallies go the score was currently two for Catra and zero for Adora. Some might view that as greedy but hey, Catra was in heat. Her wife needed this far more than she needed it and Adora was more than happy to provide. But a small stubborn part of her clung to the hope that Catra would follow through on her promise to make it worth her while. Adora could only pleasantly shudder at what all that implied.

"Is that your way of saying thank you?" Adora countered, prompting her laughter to spread over the lounging feline.

"More or less. But since you're clearly fishing for compliments I'll throw you a bone. (All the puns intended) Tongue game? 11 outta 10. Hands down." Catra breathlessly praised her, rolling her eyes at the proud little smirk the blonde served her.

"Tell me something I don't know." Adora boasted, basking in the glory of her achievements. Catra was about to throw a crafty comeback her way but something made her pause, her look shifting to a devious one.

"How about you go and fetch that toy for me and I'll show you something you don't know." Catra paused with a slight cringe, shaking her head in a hard no. "Wait nope, scratch that. That sounded so much sexier in my head." the feline glared when Adora burst into laughter.

"I'll give you an A for effort. Unless you prefer I give you the D instead?" Adora snickered, giving her wife an overly-animated waggle of her brows. Adora's giggles eventually went viral, spreading over to the magicat as she buried her laughter into the pillow.

"You're such an idiot. Just hurry up and get the boomerang-looking thing, will you? I've watched that ass run drills in front of me too long to count. So I know you have it in you to be quick about it. Chop, chop princess." Catra ordered her with a wave of her hand, and as much as Adora felt the need to counter with something equally as witty, she knew if she waited any longer there was a high chance her needy wife wouldn't allow her to leave the bed.

"Who's it going on?" Adora wondered as she rolled over to the edge of the mattress, seizing the handle of the nightstand. She swiftly dragged the drawer open, rummaging through irrelevant clutter before she finally located the phallus and bracelet, confiscating them both before promptly smacking the drawer back into a closed position.

"Who do you think?" Catra muttered into the pillow, her ears now flat against her fur as she hid her face. Adora frowned at her sudden change in demeanor.

"I'm assuming you?" Adora guessed.

Ten seconds of silence.

Adora blinked.

Ten soon went to 20.

25.

Her eyes widened.

"M-Me?"

The silence broke when a barely audible whine left the hybrid, letting out a frustrated sigh as her head lifted from the pillow. Even through her fur, Adora could tell just how flushed her face was, the gold and blue hue of her irises nearly dilated to a full black.

"Adora?"

"Yes?"

Catra's hips rose from the bed, pushing her upper half up with her palms until she was effectively on all fours, and fuck, Adora could have died just from the view alone. Tail twitching two and fro, her ears remained adorably flattened.

"Just fuck me already.. Please?" Catra shyly muttered, that one simple word coming out of her mouth looking like it physically pained her. Adora on the other hand was transfixed. Catra never said please in any aspect of her life. She loved her wife to pieces, but proper social etiquette really wasn't one of Catra's strong suits. So hearing a please come out of Catra of all people felt like someone just planted her in an episode of the twilight zone, the blonde stupefied enough to momentarily forget she was given an order.

Adora grabbed the phallus right around the time Catra peered over her shoulder to figure out what the hell was the holdup. Adora somehow forced her eyes to tear away from the backside being presented to her, shaky hands looking over the device. After taking a second to decipher the right angle she rolled onto her back, allowing her thighs to part while ignoring the appreciative smirk she sensed in the corner of her eye. The first attempt was a bust, the odd angle managing to snag uncomfortably on her inner walls until she was forced to take it out.

But once that piece finally slid into place and the magic finally activated, Adora had the breath stolen right out of her. She felt the pressure at her clit extend upward, bringing sensation to a part of her body that wasn't even her own. Even the air in the room hitting the side of the cock was enough to have her jolting, her pupils completely blown as she stared at the foreign instrument protruding between her legs. She was suddenly too afraid to move.

"Well?" Catra asked, an impatience to her tone. Adora didn't answer, still trying to process all the dormant nerve endings being sparked to life by the phallus.

"Adora?"

Adora swallowed. "I.. I think I need a minute.."

Catra turned to face her, abandoning her bent position when she sensed the struggle in her voice.

"Too much?" Catra asked, gently placing a hand on her thigh to soothe her. The cock somehow twitched in response to the touch, the blonde inhaling sharply when it thumped against the inside of her thigh.

"Want me to take it out?" Catra offered, now notably worried that it was hurting her. Once again Adora didn't know how to respond, just continuing to stare stupidly at the phallus. Catra chuckled.

"I'll take that as a yes." Catra let her hand slip between her legs, spreading them to prepare for its removal. But the minute those fingers curled around the base of the cock, Adora let out a guttural groan, her hips pushing into the warmth of her hand. Catra quirked a brow at that, pausing when Adora clamped one of her hands around the feline's wrist, keeping it still. Catra couldn't help but smirk.

"Having second thoughts?" Catra teased, glancing down when one rock of Adora's hips turned into several in quick succession, until she was mindlessly fucking her hand.

"I'm guessing we should hold off on the bracelet for now?"

Adora blinked again. The bracelet. Shit. She'd forgotten all about the damn thing. Could she even handle something like that right now? She was already fit to burst all over Catra's hand. But if she didn't put it on, who knows how long it would take her to recover? No. She needed to do this. Catra deserved that much from her.

"Put it on me." Adora requested, stilling her hips as she gently pried Catra's hand away from the cock.

"You sure you can handle it?" Catra dangled the bracelet in front of her, wearing a toothy grin. Adora glared, snatching it from her hand before finally allowing the jewelry to slip over her wrist. The switch was instantaneous. Whatever overwhelming stimuli she was plagued with flared into something more, birthing an appetite in her she was certain no amount of relief would feed. Catra stilled when she saw her wife's bright blue eyes darken to a much more ominous shade, her fur bristling with a mixture of alarm and anticipation.

Whatever was left of dorky Adora was all but gone now, the sheer intimidation of her gaze alone having Catra let out a mewl, already giving into the need to submit to her mate. Adora almost didn't want to go through with it, now unsure of whether or not she'd be able to control herself. But the insurmountable need to fuck and claim and fill had that worry dulling to the back of her thoughts until it was hardly acknowledged at all.

Catra squeaked when Adora pushed her face down into the mattress, seizing her hips as she hoisted them upward. She felt the cock pulse again when Catra wrapped her tail around her thigh, using it to try and pull her forward. Adora felt the last sliver of her restraint slipping through her fingers, gritting her teeth as she stared at the perfection before her.

"Stay still. I don't want to hurt you." Adora managed to get the warning out, the hold on the feline's thighs tightening when she heard Catra moan a quiet "Fuck." beneath her breath. Grabbing the base of the cock, she drew her hips forward, the first attempted entry not going as planned. The phallus slid along the length of her lips, a strangled cry of approval exiting Catra when the head of it caught against her hood.

Empowered by the response, Adora attempted a second try, both of them groaning in unison when she finally hit her mark. If Catra's hand had felt heavenly, being inside of her was an experience Adora couldn't even put into words. Her eyes fluttered to her whites when she felt Catra's lips practically sucking the head inside her, causing Adora to be hit with a sleeve of wet heat she couldn't even begin to process.

"M-More.." Catra pleaded, way past the point of caring about whether or not she was begging. Adora's teeth carved into her bottom lip, keeping her hold on her hips steady as she slowly sank another inch into her, that constricting pressure she felt having her knees weak enough to nearly topple over the hybrid. One delicious inch soon turned to two and before she knew it the entirety of her length was buried snugly within her wife's insides, her pelvis greeting her rear when she finally bottomed out.

"You're so warm, Kitten." Adora panted, her hips stuttering forward when she felt Catra grinding back against her, silently urging her to get a move on. Adora tore her gaze away from the display to see the pleading look Catra was throwing her over her shoulder.

"I can take it. You won't break me, I promise." Catra assured her, and Adora finally allowed that restraint to slip away from her grasp. She pulled back just far enough to have the head still inside her before abruptly thrusting her hips forward, burying her up to the hilt. The noise that flew out of the feline had Adora repeating the action, determined to do whatever she needed to do to hear it again.

"Yesyesyes. Don't you dare fucking stop." Catra howled in approval, her feral behavior easily rivaling the rabid blonde behind her currently violating every inch of her insides. Catra's pussy fit around her length with the warm snugness of a glove, each return trip of hips somehow managing to claim more of her cock until the only sounds being made in the room were animalistic grunts and the sound of skin slapping against skin.

Adora's thoughts (or what was left of them) were brought back to the behind-the-scenes research she did about felines in heat. She vaguely remembered a handful of phrases one could say to their mate to really get them going. Adora had been too shy to ever try them out on her, but the confidence she held now made that issue no longer an issue.

"You're being such a good little kitty. Taking all of me like this." Adora beamed at her, swearing under her breath when she felt the walls around her cock clench in response, indicating she was on the right track. Adora brought a possessive hand down onto her wife's ass, the slap she granted her nearly as loud as the moan that followed.

"Is this what you wanted, baby? To have me bending you over like this? Letting me breed you?" Adora hovered over the feline's arching back, fisting her fingers through her mane to pull her head back, forcing their eyes to meet. Catra looked absolutely gone, past the point of forming words as her whines only grew in frequency and pitch. Adora increased the tempo of her hips, letting her hands tease that sweet spot just above her tail.

"Yes!" Catra wept, sharpened claws desperately shredding the mattress they were embedded in as her hips pushed back, falling into the rhythm of Adora's thrusts.

"You like this, don't you? Letting me ruin you from the inside out, filling you with my litter. Claiming what's mine." Adora continued between grunts, finding an angle that finally allowed the head of the cock to scuff the feline's front wall. Catra was cursing more than she was breathing now, the pink flesh of her inner walls tightening in preparation for the inevitable. Adora was right behind her, (figuratively and quite literally.) that pressure accumulating against the shaft beginning to spread upward, centralizing right at the tip where it threatened to spill out of her altogether.

"Fuck I'm gonna cum!" Catra cried out in the heat of the moment, her walls losing that stable constriction as they started to flutter around her cock, the blonde feeling every aftershock pulse against her length. Adora groaned when she finally gave into her needs, a startled gasp flying out of her when she felt herself cumming not from her clit, but the phallus itself. Each spurt of her release painted the hybrid's insides with warmth, the amount that came out feeling like it would never end. Catra deliberately clamped her walls back down, determined to milk her of every drop.

Adora wasn't exactly sure when they landed, but when her senses finally came back to her she realized she had plummeted onto the feline, about half of the phallus still penetrating her. Catra hissed when she slid it out, silently grieving over the loss of fullness she felt inside her. Adora rolled over onto her side, draping an arm over her forehead as she battled to get her breath back. The princess giggled when her feline settled right at her side, draping a bent leg over her midsection.

"Not that I'm complaining or anything, but what the hell was all that about?" Catra tiredly questioned, the purring magicat nuzzling into the blonde's chest to flood her senses with the scent of her mate.

"I read somewhere that they were trigger words you can use on your partner during heat. Figured I'd test that theory myself." Adora admitted, some of her shyness resurfacing when Catra's expression turned to one of amusement.

"You're telling me you actually studied how to be better in bed?" Catra asked through her heaving laughter that only increased in volume when Adora gave her an offended pout.

"Well, yeah. Why wouldn't I?" Adora countered, some of her insecurities dissipating when she felt the gentle press of lips up against her own.

"I swear you are such a nerd." Catra jested in-between kisses, already feeling that insatiable hunger begin to claim her yet again.

"I didn't hear you complaining about it a few minutes ago." Adora boasted, the seduction in her voice suggesting she was falling victim to the same hunger as her wife. They both sensed the shift between them, two glazed pairs of eyes soon greeting each other. Adora chewed her lip.

"Got another one in you?"
