I Come When You Call

by genVicron

Summary

Adora hasn't felt like she's been on solid ground since Vale Spring.

Her arms feel empty and cold, something inside her feels restless and raging hot, like it's pushing at her skin from the inside.

Thankfully, Catra's been feeling it, too.

Notes

Adora's been sitting on a problem over the last month. One she really should have solved already, she wouldn't even have to tell anyone about it; she could just close the curtains at night and open them after she's done with her morning warmup.

But then… then something tingled under her skin every time she thought about it, remembering the way Catra had tested her strength, the way she'd shivered and the noises she made when Adora held her in place. The way Catra's eyes had raked across her body, catching on her arms and her shoulders. Adora told herself she was imagining it at first, but considering how the rest of their encounter at Vale Spring had gone, she definitely hadn't been; and last time they saw each other while on mission, Catra hadn't even pretended she wasn't doing it.

Granted, it had been after she'd definitely caught Adora's brain grinding to a halt over a grin that had put Catra's fangs on full display, but that wasn't the issue.

The issue was that the needy, primal thing Catra had woken up wasn't going back to sleep. It felt like something sweltering and animal was breathing restless heat through her veins, and when it didn't feel like that it made her hands cold and empty, like the only time they'd ever been warm was when she'd been holding Catra.

The issue was that every time she saw Catra she was forced to think through it trying to break out of her chest, that she had to keep a handle on herself whenever Catra got too close and it felt like the only real thought in her head was 'MINE' the way it had been when she'd realized what Catra had needed and gotten her to beg for her. One time she'd actually managed to catch Catra's arm, and she'd had to let go before she did something really stupid where everyone else could see them and Catra had just stared at her before the single nastiest smirk Adora had ever seen spread across her face. …She didn't even know where to start with what that had done to her.

Catra shifting tactics to press up against her every chance she got after had not been helpful. The fucking issue was that Adora was feeding the damn thing every morning.

So, she was going to close the curtains. She was going to do it, and she definitely wasn't going to think about how Catra could be watching her right now.

Shit.

One hand clenched on the gauzy fabric of the curtain, the other tightened on the towel wrapped around her chest. Her eyes scanned the sky outside, tracking birds like she might be able to find however Catra had been able to see her before. She couldn't even see the treeline from inside her room, so whatever it was, it had to be able to fly.

Heat started simmering in Adora's gut, something fluttering restlessly in her chest. She could feel a flush spreading, but she shouldn't feed the thing. She was She-Ra, hero of the Rebellion, she had a job to do, and fantasizing about the Horde's top Force Captain was definitely not part of that job.

…This was what Catra had been dealing with before Vale Spring, wasn't it?

The worst part was that when she thought about it, she couldn't even complain. The time she'd pulled away from Catra aside, it wasn't having any real effect on how well she could do her job, she had a lot of practice ignoring her impulses from back in the Horde. Nobody else had even noticed- well, Catra had obviously seen it, and Glimmer knew about the new scar on her shoulder- though not how the fact that it had scarred made a giddy thrill shoot through Adora every time she thought about it- but she had made assumptions about it that she seemed weirdly invested in. It was just this weird thing that, if she was honest, felt good. It… felt good to want like this, it felt good to feed the needy thing inside herself.

She swallowed heavily, she liked the idea that Catra might be watching her. She wanted to show off for her.

Adora let her hand fall off the curtain, releasing a long breath as she closed her eyes and sat in the feeling, remembering how it felt when Catra's eyes scanned her up and down, when they settled somewhere and the sharpness of her smile softened a bit. Her head tilted back a little, baring her neck, to the side, showing off the raised, still slightly tender, mark Catra had left on her. A shiver passed through her at the thought of how Catra's eyes would go round, seeing her mark on Adora's skin.

She opened her eyes, staring up into the ceiling.

"...Fine," she huffed, stepping away from the curtain and undoing her towel, almost just tearing it off herself like usual before something occurred to her.

She stopped, back to the window, feeling Catra's eyes on her again, and pulled the towel off slow- or, well, tried to, one end of it sort of slipped from her hand and ended up sliding down her back until it was pooled around her feet, still half-on the front half of her. Adora felt herself blush harder, a little embarrassed before she shook it off, just dropping the other side and stepping away from it.

She considered not putting anything on, but she honestly had enough trouble with a bra that didn't quite fit right on, going through her warmup with her chest hanging completely free just sounded annoying. First, though.

She rolled her neck, locking her fingers together and stretching her arms up above her head, turning back towards the window as she arched her back, tensing up onto her toes and holding for a long moment to let some of the tension leak out of her as she settled back down, rolling her shoulders. She didn't have Catra's grace, but she could reach the pose just fine, she'd copied Catra doing it often enough. And Adora could barely think about those times without blushing anymore.

Hopefully it had a similar effect on Catra. Or she'd just made herself look like an idiot, but she wasn't going to think too hard about that, and Catra liked it when she did that most of the time, anyway. Gave her things to tease about.

Shaking off the ghost of future embarrassment, she turned to start getting her underwear on. First the boyshorts, sliding them up her legs and over her hips- those at least still fit right, clinging to her without much pressure. She smoothed the fabric down, trying and failing not to think about how she'd missed the opportunity to grab Catra's ass.

Catra had gained a bit of weight since Adora left, but all of it seemed to go to her ass, hips and thighs- the latter two Adora had gotten to feel, even if holding her thighs was just to carry her, and the sensation haunted half of her waking moments. Adora was pretty sure Catra hadn't noticed, otherwise she'd have been much more deliberate about them when she teased her.

She pulled the sports bra on over her head, frowning at the itchy way the band squeezed over her breasts, making them sit awkwardly beneath the fabric once it was all the way on. What little weight Adora gained seemed to go right to her chest. She had to reach into her bra to readjust the way it fit, smoothing over the fabric once she was done.

Once she had them sitting relatively comfortably, it was all too easy to imagine Catra's hands on her chest, how tight the bra was made her cleavage more pronounced than it should be. Considering what she'd said at Vale Spring, there was no way Catra would be able to ignore it. She'd hook a claw into Adora's cleavage to tug on her bra, threatening to tear her tits out into the open. Adora flushed, dropping her hands to cut off that line of thought.

She hadn't even started her warmup and she was already panting a little, heat gathering under her skin alarmingly fast.

She glanced to the window. There wasn't actually anything stopping her from putting on a different sort of show. The needy thing inside her practically growled in approval, one hand wandering absently down to her waistband, hooking a thumb into it.

She could just, lay back, spread her legs. She didn't even have to take off her underwear, tease Catra for once. Her face was burning, thighs squeezed together, she felt far too exposed just thinking about it, but she closed her eyes and let the thought play out.

She could play with herself through her clothes, rubbing fingers along her slit, let her head fall back so Catra could come near without exposing herself, moan her name to coax her closer.

She wanted Catra to see her, she wanted her to climb on top of her, drink her in with that possessive edge in her eyes that came out when they lost themselves in their rhythm, then finally, finally, touch her.

Adora gasped as her fingers actually slid down to press at her clit, she could, she should- her eyes fluttered open and the fantasy evaporated.

Right, even if Catra was watching, it was through some machine. Something unhappy stirred in Adora's gut and suddenly she felt stupid, trying to show off for an audience that couldn't be here with her.

Her hand between her legs retreated, the other going up to the scar on her shoulder. That's what the hungry thing in her really wanted, it wanted Catra here, it wanted her to see the scar, know that Adora is hers, and hold her like it's true.

Adora shook her head, rolling her shoulders again. She was good at pushing down what she wanted, it was one of the things she was best at, she couldn't get mopey about this right now. Catra might have been watching, might not have been; so what? She still had a routine to go through, and she was going to do that, it didn't matter how her insides stung. It didn't matter that her own touch felt empty right now.

If she told herself that enough times, maybe she'd even believe it. …She still didn't close the curtains.

Something was weird. Adora pivoted to avoid a lunge from Catra, swinging out at her as she passed. Catra ducked around her strike, eyes flicking up, not as sharp as they should have been as she met Adora's gaze. She hesitated, Adora didn't, pressing the advantage by charging low, trying to box Catra in.

Catra's brow twisted as she ducked, diving between Adora's legs to get behind her, but Adora pivoted quick, lashing out with a fist. Catra dodged in close, eyes still looking past her even as she tracked Adora's movements.

She was distracted, why was she distracted?

The hungry thing under Adora's skin writhed in discomfort, a guttural battle cry forcing its way out of her as she drew her arm back, trying to strike with her elbow. Catra dodged too tight, Adora's elbow clipping her shoulder and sending her stumbling back.

Catra snarled, baring her claws, eyes finally settled properly on her. A shiver went up her spine as the world slotted back into place. Catra blinked, her snarl fading a little before coming back full strength.

"Fussy, aren't you?"

Suddenly she was erupting into Adora's space, forcing her to block Catra's claws with the flat of her sword, driving her to the side and swinging out low to keep her from getting her feet under her again. Catra shifted her weight to avoid the strike, landing on all fours and dashing the other way, forcing Adora to stop her momentum before she could turn to keep track of her.

She kicked out half-blindly as Catra moved in the corner of her eye, getting a glancing blow from Catra's claws along her thigh for the trouble as she drove her back. It hurt, but it was distant, muffled beneath the sudden rush of adrenaline and She-Ra's protection. The pain still made the primal thing settle closer to her skin, a familiar rush coursing through her.

“You’re the one who wants me at my best,” Adora shot back, “return the favour.”

Catra was still moving, but Adora stayed light on her feet to keep her in sight, repaying every attack she could with one of her own. Catra’s eyes were practically sparking when they met hers, surprise flicking across her face even as she twisted to avoid another strike from the sword that Adora followed up with a hammerblow from her other hand, already setting herself to meet it. Catra shoved her fist aside, redirecting a blow she couldn’t hope to block, leaving Adora to bend down with the momentum, their faces coming level with each other, and the surprise shifted into a disbelieving smile.

“Look at that,” she said with a low, eager chuckle.

Adora brought the blade back low again, Catra already jumping over it, and felt herself start to mirror the expression. They had a rhythm again, a flow they could dance through like this. It was definitely harder on Catra, Adora’s weapon had greater reach and even angled to strike with the flat she would only need one good hit to take her out of the fight, but she was fast and flexible enough to manage it; and Adora was finally getting over the difference in her size, responding quickly and smoothly enough to start keeping up with Catra again as she darted around her.

It was rough, starting and stopping, not quite what they had before, they couldn’t lose themselves in it like they used to, but for long minutes it was just the two of them, no thought paid to the skirmish playing out nearby, both concentrating too intensely to speak. Adora noted mistakes they each made, knowing exactly what she needed to work on, and knowing Catra could tell the same. Next time they would be closer, more evenly matched, next time Adora could hold back her strength less, and Catra could check her claws less, trusting rather than hoping they wouldn’t truly hurt each other.

Adora’s grip on the sword shifted, bringing the edge to bear, her skin singing at the glancing blows Catra’s claws landed on her, her gut warming as the dance went on, devoting her entire being to keeping up with Catra.

They lost track of time, both flush and panting with exertion as they stepped back from the clash, sizing each other up for the next round. Catra’s eyes left hers for a moment to roam across her body, and Adora found herself shifting her stance, showing off how well she’d learned to manage She-Ra’s strength and form. Catra’s eyes came back up, a wicked, mischievous spark in them that had something warm and liquid flowing across Adora’s body as they both tensed to start again.

They moved at the same time- a victory horn sounded, throwing them both off step. Adora’s strike took out a lock of Catra’s mane as they stumbled, blinking and looking around. That was the Rebellion’s horn, across the way they could see the Horde’s forces in full retreat. Catra clicked her tongue disapprovingly, drawing Adora’s attention back to her.

Suddenly she was so much closer, taking a hold of Adora’s shirt to tug her down to her level, her breath hot against the side of Adora’s face.

“You looked good this morning,” Catra murmured right in Adora’s ear, and the needy thing in her chest practically purred, sapping the strength from her so she leaned more into Catra's touch as she felt herself going bright red. “I know you were showing off this time.” Adora couldn't help nodding slightly as Catra held her in place for a moment longer before she released her. “Be ready,” Catra’s tail swayed to brush against her knee when Catra turned on her heel, her hips swaying with her steps, deliberately slow as she walked away; drawing Adora’s eyes and making her choke around the already embarrassing noise she’d been about to make. Catra glanced back, grin sharp again as Adora babbled nonsense in her wake.

She gave her a two-fingered salute and dashed off after her forces, leaving Adora feeling like her whole world was shaking again.

Adora tried as hard as she could to get away from the others that night, energy pinging along her bones; she needed to be ready. For what, she still wasn’t quite sure, but she took her dinner up to her room all the same.

She'd seen, Catra had really seen her. She'd needed to be careful of that thought with how red it made her get.

So she waited, food ignored at first as time ticked away. She started picking at it after the first hour, telling herself that Catra had needed to go all the way back to the Fright Zone, of course it would take some time for her to send whatever signal she was going to send.

Part of Adora fantasized about seeing Catra's eyes peering over the balcony outside, flashing in the gathering darkness, here to claim what's hers. She shook it off despite the heat the thought set coiling through her; there was no way Catra could make it to her room herself. There would be a signal.

And yet, the moons set, and there was nothing; Adora's empty plate sat next to her on the bed almost accusingly. She sighed, flopping back into the sheets, staring up at the ceiling. That would be fine, she supposed, just a quick and easy way for Catra to get back at her for the loss.

Jerk.

She pulled the blankets over her face. It was fine.

Something clanked and Adora sat up stock straight, scanning across her room. Her eyes snagged on what almost looked like a dragonfly, a deep grey metal body with faintly green transparent wings and eyes. It zipped right up to her from across the room, wings surprisingly quiet. It was almost as long as Adora’s forearm, something whirring as lenses in its eyes shifted.

Adora nearly collapsed back onto the bed with relief, but rallied quickly.

"So you're how Catra's been watching," she murmured, reaching up to poke at the machine. It hovered back away from her towards the balcony. Adora practically jumped off her bed to follow it. The drone settled down on the railing, a spot tucked right against the wall, revealing what had rattled. A sturdy hook, rope trailing from it down off the side of the balcony.

She looked over the edge, finding the rope went all the way down to coil on the ground below. "You thought of everything, huh?" She smiled at the drone, reaching down to properly secure the rope.

She made short work of scaling down the side of the building, glancing around in the dark every few drops to make sure she wasn't noticed, the drone swooping down to hover a good distance away. It darted further as soon as she hit the ground, forcing Adora to run to keep up with it while she pushed down the urge to shout after it and alert anyone on patrol.

It stayed just far enough to keep Adora running as it zipped off towards where the Whispering Woods loomed at the edge of Brightmoon where it finally let her catch up. It started slowly drifting into the forest, letting her stay close.

Adora kinda wanted it to start speeding off again, a slow trek through the Woods gave her entirely too much time to think about what was happening.

She really shouldn't do this. Catra could turn this into a trap so easily if she wanted to, Adora was relying on the idea that Catra was just as desperate as she was. Which, given last time, felt like a safe enough bet, but still.

Adora felt herself tensing, head on a swivel, but she still followed the drone ever deeper into the forest, where the canopy blocked out almost all moonlight, leaving her with nothing but the machine's soft green glow to navigate by.

Her hands felt restless, almost itching with anticipation. If it wasn't a trap, she'd be able to fill them with Catra again. She'd be warm again, like she hadn't been since. She'd be able to make Catra feel good again, hear the wonderful way her voice changed when she did. Adora was sure she was already blushing, she'd only had it once and she was already addicted.

Catra was inviting her in this time, maybe she'd even get to kiss her.

Adora had a feeling that she'd do just about whatever Catra wanted her to if she got to kiss her.

There was a loud hiss and another light broke through the dark, the drone zipping off towards it suddenly. She recognized that sound, that was a Horde supply transport. She squinted against the brightness and stumbled forward into a clearing. The drone flew into the back of the truck, but Adora lost track of it quick, because Catra was leaning against the wall, lazily flicking buttons on a controller until something snapped together and her eyes turned towards Adora, pupils narrowed and lips pulled up into a confident smile.

“If I’d known you were this easy, I wouldn’t have bothered trying to give you the runaround last time,” she said smoothly, carelessly tossing the controller onto one of the boxes in the back of the cargo container. Adora found herself rooted to the spot as she sauntered down the ramp, pinned under Catra’s eyes for a long moment before she lurched forward to meet her in the pool of light. “Though,” those sharp eyes softened a little with something warm even as her smile sharpened around the edges, “looks like you’re the one who’s a mess this time.” Adora swallowed, trying to gather herself.

“I mean, you did just make me march through the Whispering Woods,” she offered, trying to smirk back. Catra huffed at her and turned on her heel, tail flicking up to brush against Adora’s wrist.

“I’m not sneaking through two security forces twice in one night,” she said as she guided Adora up the ramp, “no man’s land seemed like a better idea.”

Adora blinked as she got past the first row of boxes, beyond that the inside of the cargo container had been prepared, there were blankets and pillows from wall to wall, the floor covered in a layer of Horde mattresses at least three deep. Adora hesitated, not sure where to step. “Shoes off in that corner,” Catra snapped, gesturing to a bare spot just off to the left.

“...Did you make us a nest? ” Adora asked, a grin starting to spread across her face as she kicked off her shoes. Catra made a distinctly unimpressed noise, drawing her eyes back up and making Adora’s breath catch as she hopped up onto a box in the back with a blanket draped over it, legs crossed.

“We’re not fucking right on the floor again,” she drawled, smirking at her again as Adora’s mouth fell open, “if you don’t like it, you can walk back out.”

“It’s perfect,” Adora said as quickly as she could, taking another lurching step forward.

“Ah, ah,” Catra stopped her with a raised finger. Catra’s smirk got sharper as Adora froze, all teeth, and she couldn’t help staring at her fangs, “you know, I was a little worried this would go like last time, I even had a whole plan to make sure I kept control.” She turned her hand over, crooking the finger and Adora took a smoother step forward. “But look at you, you showed up wrapped around my fingers.” She chuckled, reaching out to catch Adora’s chin in her grip, “what happened?”

Adora knew her face was burning, but she couldn’t pay any attention to it, Catra’s pupils were blown out, watching her with predatory eagerness.

“Too much time to think,” Adora admitted, her hands trembling at her sides, pinned beneath Catra’s smile. “...You marked me.” Something in Catra’s eyes flashed and both her hands went to the neck of Adora’s shirt, yanking it away from her shoulder to show off the scar she left behind.

Her ears perked forward, the low rumble of a purr filling the air even as she gasped.

“Looks even better in person,” Catra breathed, something hungry in her voice that made Adora’s knees buckle, her head tilting to the side to give Catra a better view. “That’s what you've been thinking about, isn't it?" She drawled, leaning in, hot breath ghosting along Adora's skin, across Catra's mark. "I marked you, so you're mine." Adora couldn't help the choked whimper that drew out of her, nodding, her hands starting to come up.

She needed to touch her, hold her, Adora's arms were so empty without her.

Catra's teeth snapped shut next to her ear with a harsh click, freezing her in place again. "Not yet, Princess." She drew away, her hands releasing Adora's shirt; one pressed over the mark but pushed her away. "We're doing this my way." Adora stumbled back, almost tripping over one of the blankets.

Catra's eyes were raking over her again, more intently than they ever had before, catching and lingering in places like she was building a catalog of Adora's body in her head.

"What's your way?" Adora hazarded, standing up straighter under Catra's inspection. Her eyes snapped up to Adora's face, Catra's smile slipped as she licked her lips and Adora could really feel her face now, blazing hard enough that her nose was actually starting to tingle.

"Well," Catra started, swinging her legs as she hopped up off the box, stepping closer to her. "I was gonna start by closing this," Adora started turning to follow her as Catra walked past- "eyes forward," she snipped and Adora snapped to attention. The sound of the ramp closing came from behind her, masking Catra's movement until Adora could feel her breath on the back of her neck, "then I was gonna turn off the lights, and shove you into that wall right there." One of Catra's hands came up to tap her chin, turning Adora's head so she could see the shackles hanging from the wall, "you wouldn't have known what was happening until I already had you." She sighed, stepping back away, "plan gets a bit scattered after that, it's mostly just a list of places I wanted to bite you." Adora's whole body shuddered.

"Is- is that still on the table?" She asked. Catra let out the sharp, slightly raspy laugh that made something in Adora's chest melt as she stepped back around so they were face to face, Catra's expression bemused but still calculating. She was putting together a new plan.

"Which part?" Catra breathed, leaning in close, eyes boring into Adora's. "Tying you up, or the biting?" Adora took in a sharp, needy breath as Catra flashed her fangs again. "I've got some better ideas than tying you up now, but I think I can give you some new marks." Adora's brain ground to a halt, she was definitely breathing heavy, her hands starting to come up again.

"Marks?" She started, voice shaky, "more than one?" Catra rested a claw on her collarbone, freezing her in place again.

"If you earn them," she purred, stepping away from Adora again to sit back down on the box, back straight, eyes sharp, imperious, regal as her tail curled to rest near her feet. She made a considering noise as her eyes dragged over Adora's body again, "strip."

It was a command, and Adora kicked right into gear, pulling off her jacket fast enough that it just dropped to the floor behind her. Catra laughed at her again, still sharp, but with a hungry heat to it that made hesitation impossible.

Adora pulled her shirt up over her head, tossing that away easily enough, but when she went to take off her bra Catra raised a hand, claws out. "Leave that, for now." Her eyes narrowed, a bit of a snarl entering her voice that made a wave of needy warmth pulse through Adora's body. "I've got plans for that fucking thing." Adora nodded, feeling Catra's eyes on her chest, watching how she licked one of her fangs, a shiver working its way through her.

Then Catra's eyes snapped up to hers and Adora kicked back into motion, undoing her belt and shoving her pants down around her ankles. She glanced back up at Catra as she stepped out of them, reaching up for the waistband of her underwear, hesitating just a moment in case Catra had 'plans' for those too, but Catra's smile just widened, her ears perked forward and her tail swaying around her ankles.

Adora pulled them down, her blush slowly calming down as she rose to stand up straight again. She could get used to this, it was exactly what she'd wanted, to show off for Catra, she could pull herself together and stop stumbling all over herself- Catra stood smoothly and Adora was suddenly very aware of the fact that she was still fully clothed, the way she stepped closer like Adora was fully at her mercy.

Catra raised both hands, her claws out and gleaming under the dim artificial lights. There was fire blazing under Adora's skin all of the sudden, hyper-aware of every inch of exposed flesh, swaying towards Catra, eager to give herself over to those claws. "Breathe, Princess," she chuckled, and Adora took in a harsh gasp, fully red and panting beneath Catra's amused attention.

Catra's hands finally made contact, cupping her breasts through the fabric.

"C-Catra," Adora murmured, full-on shivering already.

"You have no idea," Catra drawled, eyes drifting down to where the bra pushed Adora's breasts together more than it used to, the elastic pinching at her skin, "how much I fucking hate this thing." Catra's hands squeezed, sending a jolt up and down Adora's spine, "now hold still." Adora nodded, tensing up to stop the shivering, the way Catra's hands slid along the fabric over her skin not helping in the slightest.

One of Catra's claws broke through, pricking at the side of her breast, just under her armpit, and a whimper forced its way out of her. Catra's eyes were still locked on her prize, her hands sliding up to trace the straps over Adora's shoulders, then one of them came down, following the fabric to right between her tits.

Catra's grin turned vicious, flicking up one claw to hook into the elastic band, the sides of it warm against her tits on either side.

"Oh please," Adora couldn't help the word spilling out of her when presented with the exact scenario she'd been fantasizing about this morning. Catra's eyes flicked up, pupils blown wide, her tail still like it was just before she pounced, and she dragged her finger down, claw easily tearing through the fabric from top to bottom fast enough that Adora felt a delicious little twinge of pain as her breasts dropped out of the ruined bra.

“Good girl,” Catra growled, and Adora’s entire body pulsed with a happy warmth that made her groan before Catra’s hands even settled on her skin. Catra took her by the waist, holding her in place as Adora started to sway towards her again. “That thing’s been driving me nuts for months now.” Catra leaned in and Adora’s arms started working again, hands coming up to clutch at Catra’s biceps as her breathing stopped again.

Catra’s face was so close, eyes heated, boring into Adora’s even with her tits out in the open, and Adora tilted her head up a little, silently offering herself. Something almost startled passed through Catra’s eyes and she pulled back, holding Adora at arms length.

Right. Adora blinked, forcing herself back under control. No kissing, just like last time. Keep it simple, Catra wanted to be in control, so Adora would be good for her. She ignored the lurch in her gut.

Catra’s hands both came up to the shoulder straps again, her claws cutting through them to leave the remains of Adora’s bra to fall to the floor, and Adora fully naked in front of her. “Stay put,” Catra took a step away again, Adora helplessly reaching after her for a moment, and Catra’s self-satisfied smile slid back into place.

Catra hopped up onto the box again, legs open this time, one of her hands idly tracing up and down her thigh as she scanned over Adora again. She hummed, her other hand tapping her chin in thought as she seemed to bask in the view. Adora stood straight and proud despite the flush spilling down her chest, flexing her arms a little to enjoy the way Catra’s eyes lingered on them. “Show-off,” Catra snapped without any bite.

“You love it,” Adora shot back, tensing her core to prove Catra’s point with her abs. A trill sounded that Catra glared at her a little over, the first hints of a flush beginning to show through her fur.

“You’re lucky I do,” Catra drawled, glancing down to Adora’s clothes on the floor. “Put the jacket back on.” Adora blinked, but reached down to pick it up, “and if you try to close up the front of that thing, I swear I’ll ruin it too.” She rolled her eyes, Catra wouldn’t have gone to the trouble of destroying her bra if she wanted Adora to put her tits away right after.

She pulled the jacket on, gesturing to the middle of it as she quite pointedly did not close it. “Oh, think you’re funny now?” Catra hissed, still grinning at her, “come here.” She patted the space between her legs.

Adora didn’t lurch this time so much as surge, stepping right up into Catra’s space, looming over her; permission granted, her hands started to come up again, reaching for- “Ah, ah,” Catra scolded her, one of her hands pressed right up between Adora’s breasts. “I’m in charge, remember? Heel, Princess.” Adora’s face was suddenly blazing again, her whole body frozen in place. Catra sat up taller, her hand on Adora’s chest sliding up to wrap around her throat, her grip firm as she pulled Adora down a little, forcing her to bend her knees to keep from pushing any further into her space as Catra loomed over her now.

The smirk was gone, in its place an intense, assessing stare that lingered until Adora let her hands fall back to her sides again. “There we go,” the grin came back out, playfully mocking, “that wasn’t so hard, now was it?”

“It really was,” Adora whimpered, still straining with the effort of not scooping Catra up. She laughed again, sharp and hot.

“Then you’re gonna hate this,” Catra murmured, breath stirring across Adora’s face. Her hands moved to take Adora by the elbows, raising her arms and sliding in between them so Adora’s arms were draped across her shoulders, making Catra seem to tower over her even more. Adora’s knees were starting to buckle, “stay,” Catra ordered her again and Adora swallowed, holding the position almost hanging off of Catra’s neck.

“Good,” Catra said it slow, like she was waiting to see if Adora would crack as much as she was praising her, and the heat under her skin cranked higher. Catra’s hands slid up the undersides of her arms, tracing under the jacket to the sides of her ribs, where her fingers splayed wide as she dragged them down her sides to her hips.

“Moons,” Adora groaned, looking up into Catra’s beautiful, ravenous eyes.

“I’ve been watching you, and I barely got to touch last time, so you’re going to hold the fuck still,” Catra’s caress on her hips changed to a grip, squeezing her firmly, “and let me have my turn. Got it?”

“Yes,” Adora nodded, her eyes wide, Catra looked every inch the Empress right now; domineering, powerful, wreathed in soft shadow and hard light.

“Yes what?” Catra pressed, hands dragging up to her waist.

“Yes, my Lord,” Adora panted, drawing a pleased growl out of Catra, an edge of pride sharpening her smile even more.

“Good Princess,” she breathed, her grip loosening as her hands began to explore across Adora’s skin, fingers tracing along her abs, then up her sides and around to feel across the planes of her back beneath the jacket, purring loud as she leaned in so close that Adora’s breath was stirring the fur of her face. It took everything Adora had not to lean in, the heat gathering in her belly, the feeling of Catra’s hands weaving lines of intensity, and the strength in Catra’s eyes urging her on to just drape herself across her lap and let Catra play with her however she wanted.

She risked wrapping her arms around Catra’s shoulders properly, earning a louder rumble from her, Catra’s hands finally, finally, coming back around to her front, tracing her fingers along the undersides of Adora’s breasts before cupping them. Adora whimpered again, her lips trembling as she watched Catra’s eyes drink her in.

Catra’s hands squeezed and Adora moaned, not daring to even try and hide her reactions from her Lord. Her grip shifted, fingers splaying across Adora’s tits to palm them, “perfect,” Catra breathed, like she didn’t even realize she’d said it, and it felt like Adora’s entire being caught fire. Catra caught one of her nipples between her fingers and gently squeezed it, making Adora gasp at the shivering jolt of sensation, arching up into Catra’s touch a little.

Her thighs were starting to burn from holding this position, but she didn’t care; Catra was looking at her like she was her greatest conquest, Catra’s hands were on her, exploring and teasing her. The only thing Adora wanted was to be able to serve her.

Catra's hand on her left breast pulled back, claws tracing along Adora's skin as her fingers closed in around Adora's nipple, sending a feeling like static electricity rushing through her body before Catra's claws slid away, three fingers taking her nipple and gently tugging it. Adora groaned, watching as the look on Catra's face slowly shifted from victory to awe, her other hand starting to knead at her breast, claws pricking gently at Adora's skin as she toyed with her nipple with her other hand, pinching and rubbing at it in turns like she was trying to commit the feeling to memory.

Adora didn't dare close her eyes, whimpering and groaning for Catra as she steadily fed the blaze overtaking her entire body, watching Catra drink her in. Catra's fingers left her nipple to trace up to her neck, caressing up the arch of her throat to rest beneath her chin for a long moment. Her other hand slid off Adora's breast, grabbing at the side of her chest, claws pricking at Adora's back again, holding her steady as Catra's hand at her neck snapped around her throat, squeezing tight and possessive enough that Adora's head swam for a moment.

"Please," Adora whimpered as Catra's breath stirred across her face again, fangs flashing in a hungry snarl even as she let out a pleased little noise that went right to Adora's head just as hard as the feeling of Catra's hands on her. Her hands tugged at the back of Catra's shirt, she needed to get it off of her, needed to touch Catra too.

"Maybe," Catra hummed, starting to purr again as she chuckled low, her hand on Adora's side dragging down and around to grope Adora's ass, drawing another whimpering groan out of her, more heat, more liquid need and restlessness threading itself through her skin. Adora stared up at her, pleading with her eyes, which made Catra's smile turn sharp again, the soft grey fur at the sides of her face fluffing up as she slowly drew her hands off of Adora's body. "Kneel."

Adora practically collapsed, only the way relief at the order made her arms relax kept her from dragging Catra down with her as she kneeled between her Lord's thighs. "You need this bad, huh?" Catra teased her, her hands settling on Adora's forearms where they had landed draped across Catra's thighs. Adora nodded mutely, staring up at her with wide eyes, her hands slowly, carefully, moving to rest on Catra's waist. Catra just raised a brow at her, no admonishment for touching her on her own this time, and Adora couldn't help the low moan that bubbled up out of her, squeezing Catra's sides.

Adora's eyes drifted down Catra's body, catching on how the fur on her shoulders was puffing up too, how her shirt clung to the curves of her chest. Adora felt herself tensing, she needed to get that off of her, she needed to bury her hands in Catra's fur, needed to- Catra's hands gently wrapped around her wrists, " breathe, Adora." She took in a sharp gasp, eyes flicking back up to Catra's, watching her two-toned gaze puzzle at Adora's for a long moment. "Breathe with me," she murmured, taking in a deep breath.

Adora followed suit, breathing deep, letting Catra set the rhythm. Her hands on Catra's hips slowly relaxed, still clinging to her, but more easily. Catra's eyes sharpened, the way they did when she found an answer she'd been looking for. "Undress me," she commanded, drawing an almost desperate groan from Adora, "slow. Keep breathing."

“Yes- yes, Catra,” Adora nodded, her eyes coming back up to Catra’s waist, her fingers hooking into the band of her tights.

“Underwear too,” Catra pressed, Adora took in a quick breath and Catra’s hands squeezed around her wrists again, reminding her to let it back out. She shifted her fingers, snagging Catra’s underwear and slowly pulling both down her thighs, tracing her stripes with her eyes, watching the way Catra’s fur fluffed up in the wake of the fabric, freed to the air. Adora moaned again at the sight, forced to shift back for a moment, eyes trailing up to the crux of Catra’s thighs as she pulled her clothes down her shins.

Darker fur framed her pussy, hiding it from view, but already shining slightly in the dim light with wetness. She tossed Catra’s tights and underwear aside, glancing up for permission as her hands came up to cup Catra’s calves. She smirked down at her for a moment, “stay.”

Adora froze, watching as Catra grabbed the hem of her shirt, slowly dragging it up her body, revealing the stripes on her sides, running down her hips. She paused for a moment just underneath her chest and made a needy whine seem to erupt out of Adora, too much restless heat straining against the command to stay still. Catra laughed low at her, moving even slower as she lifted the fabric off her tits; perky little perfect handfuls, silky fur parting around hardened nipples at their peaks. Adora moaned, swaying forward again, her hands sliding up behind Catra’s knees as she clung to her.

“Please,” she whispered as Catra tossed her vest aside, eyes locked on her breasts; she’d regretted not being able to see them in Vale Spring, but patience was so worth it. She felt like she’d just been given a gift she could never have earned, her eyes dragging back down Catra’s body to the dark fur between her legs and the feeling intensified, leaving her lightheaded.

“Keep breathing,” Catra said, her voice so much softer than Adora would have expected, and she took in a deep breath, the world coming back into focus. Adora felt her shoulders relax, Catra was looking out for her, Catra wanted this. “There we go. Please what, Princess?” Catra teased, making Adora’s eyes flick back up to her face; she was met with a wary sort of eagerness, like she couldn’t believe it had been this easy to have Adora completely at her will.

“Please, let me touch you?” Adora pleaded, her hands itching with the need of it, “let me make you feel good?” That wasn’t enough, it didn’t have the enormity of the swelling heat inside her, didn’t measure up to how incredible Catra was, serving her wasn’t enough.

“How, Princess?” Catra teased her, eyes playfully narrowed.

“Let me…” Adora had to remind herself to breathe again, her hands squeezing at Catra’s calves again. “Let me worship you, my Lord?”

Catra’s breath caught above her, eyes going wide, pupils blown out, one hand snapping out to grab Adora by the hair and drawing another groan from her.

“Worship me,” she commanded, and Adora couldn’t even make any sort of sound, she just turned her head to kiss at the inside of Catra’s left knee, both of her hands coming up to cradle her calf as Adora gently kissed her way down to her ankle, feeling Catra's fingers slip out of her hair before she kissed her way back up, softly squeezing Catra's leg.

Adora nuzzled against her inner thigh, losing herself in the softness of Catra's fur against her skin, surrounding herself in Catra's scent, softly biting at her fur to hear the way Catra's breath stuttered, and kissing up her thigh to draw slight twitches and gasps from her. Her hands slid up Catra's thigh, fingers raking through the fur up to her hip and smoothing it back down, a purr lacing through Catra's heavy breathing.

She made it to the apex of Catra's thigh, close enough to her cunt that she could feel the heat coming off it on her face, calling her in, the scent making her mouth water. She leaned in and found herself stopped by the edge of the box Catra was sitting on, jammed right up against her collarbone. She whined, straining for a moment before she remembered how her hands were supposed to work. Catra laughed at her as Adora brought them up to grab Catra's hips and pull her forward.

Her eyes locked on the dark fur as Catra leaned back a little, showing off more of it, and just a hint of the wet pink beneath. Adora's breath caught, not starting again until Catra settled a hand on her head. She tried to lean forward and Catra pressed back, keeping her in place.

"Please," Adora couldn't help whining petulantly, pouting up at Catra as she kept Adora away from her core.

"Other side, Princess," Catra purred, steering Adora towards the side she hadn't given her attention yet. "Slow," something strange happened to her voice, going quieter but higher with a note of something that didn't show on her face. "Show your Lord you mean it."

Adora suddenly didn't have to think about her breathing anymore, Catra needed something from her, something she wasn't saying but that taking her time would give her. How could she do anything else?

She nodded, settling back on her heels as her hands slid down Catra's thighs, her hand on Catra's left moving to cradle her right calf. She lifted her leg a little, pressing a slow kiss to her ankle, one hand slowly carding up and down through her fur as Adora steadily kissed her way up Catra's shin, her other hand massaging the muscles behind it slow and careful. Catra let out a low, almost disbelieving, groan, but Adora kept her eyes down, focused in on worshiping Catra's body, dedicating the subtle pattern of her fur between the stripes to memory, nuzzling against her as she drew up to Catra's knee.

Adora lifted Catra's leg again to settle it on her shoulder, leaving both of her hands free to pet through the soft fur of her thigh, occasionally squeezing at the toned muscle beneath, so much better than she remembered now that she could dedicate attention to it. She took a deliberate deep breath as she ducked her head to kiss at the back of Catra's knee, feeling her muscles tense, a delighted gasp sounding from above. She did it again, opening her mouth wider to lave her tongue over the spot and Catra's thigh relaxed beneath her hands, a low groan leaving her and drawing one from Adora as well.

"When you get like this…" Catra murmured, her hand settling on top of Adora's head again as she came up from beneath her leg, starting to kiss and nibble her way up her thigh again.

"Shit." Catra tensed again, shivering beneath Adora's touch. "Good girl," she gasped, leaning back so Adora could see the hint of pink behind her dark curls again.

Adora looked up, finding Catra's eyes intense on her, pupils blown out, traces of red showing through her fur, her other hand covering her mouth. She nodded and Adora brought her focus back down, her mouth watering. She brought up both of her hands to grasp at Catra's hips, fingers sliding through her fur as Adora leaned in, Catra's hips twitched forward, revealing more glistening pink.

Adora closed her eyes, opening her mouth to lick a long stripe up through the warm, salt-sweet taste of Catra's pussy. Catra gasped again above her, and it was perfect. Adora gave her another long lick, slower this time, spreading Catra's lips around her tongue, the tip brushing against the hard bud of her clit at the apex of it, drawing a high sort of chirp out of Catra. Adora felt heat surge in her, needy, primal aggression that pushed her forward, made her hands on Catra's hips squeeze tighter, pull her in as Adora searched out her clit with her tongue again, wrapping her lips around it and lavishing it in quick, hungry swirls of her tongue that made the chirp stutter and shift into a warning growl, her claws pricking through Adora's hair.

Adora pulled back, panting against Catra's pussy as she untensed, the smell of her was intoxicating, heavy enough that Adora could still taste her on the air this close, warm flesh and traces of dry cloth and a faint hint of the Fright Zone's almost plastic smelling shampoo layered over the soft but strong scent of something she now knew was very close to the smell of a clean grassfire but before would have just described as 'Catra' that had helped her fall asleep every night for almost her entire life.

Adora started kissing at the dark fur around Catra's core as she waited for her Lord's permission to continue or her breathing to even out again, dragging slow licks through it that made the heat coming off of her seem to intensify for long moments. This didn't seem to be helping Catra's breathing calm down, if anything it made it stutter in something that sounded like a cross between delight and embarrassment before she seemed to rally, pushing one of Adora's hands off her waist so she could hook a leg around Adora's shoulder, pinning her in place against Catra's pussy as she growled, "get back to it."

She moaned, a delighted fluttering in her chest as she let herself focus on worshiping her Lord's cunt properly again. She let her mouth drop open, her freed hand going up to grab at Catra's thigh while her other slid up to rake through the fur above her tail. Adora licked through Catra's lips again, dragging her tongue up to her clit, careful not to press too hard on it again before dropping back down to repeat the process.

Catra shuddered around her, letting out a low moan, and Adora brought her lips back into play, closing her mouth behind her tongue as she licked and letting her bottom lip drag against Catra's pussy as it slid back down. Catra shifted her hips forward a little more and Adora's tongue was practically sucked inside once she could finally get at her entrance. Catra finally moaned as she pressed inside, that same wonderful noise she'd made when Adora had made her grind against her thigh last time, that mixture of disbelief and pleasure, like she had no idea how Adora was doing this but she loved it.

It made the heat surge again, but this time she was ready for it, dragging her tongue up and out to slowly kiss up to her clit, giving it a gentle brush before licking back down. Catra's fingers fisted in Adora's hair, but her claws didn't come back, she'd done it right that time. She felt herself trembling, straining to hold back as she luxuriated in the delicious heat of her Lord, licking her deep and hungry. She couldn't completely control it, her tongue sliding out to run along her outer lips every few moments so she could catch the dripping wetness leaking from her core. She didn't want to waste a drop, feeling it run down her chin, in the damp fur brushing against her face.

"Bru- breathe," Catra stammered out around a groan. Adora tried to breathe through her mouth for a second before she remembered there were other ways to do that with her lips occupied and drew her mouth back up, wrapping her lips gently around Catra's clit as she caught her breath, panting hard through her nose into Catra's bush. She started slow and gentle with her tongue this time, listening to the way Catra's voice shifted as she upped the pressure, trying to reach that intoxicating, almost garbled moan she'd coaxed out when she'd fingerfucked Catra just right. Catra's pitch shifted towards overwhelmed before she reached it, but she adjusted, easing back the intensity.

She couldn't reach that, but that meant there was a different perfect pitch to hit. Catra trembled around her, rocking her hips and smearing her wetness across Adora's chin as she tried to reach it, licking slower and faster, listening to her whine with need and mewl with delight, until she finally settled on a rhythm.

It rocked with her hips, short, delicate licks as Catra pulled back and firm, long ones as she pushed into Adora's mouth. Catra started stiffening at the apex, shivering, her thighs locking around Adora's head as Adora licked her slow and strong. "Moons, you learn quick," she panted between moans, her hand in Adora's hair tugging her closer as she moaned and started to pull back.

Adora opened her eyes again, looking up at Catra as she diligently ate her out. Catra had her other hand pressed against her face, like she was trying to hide behind it, but her eyes were soft and almost dazed, warm with pleasure as she looked down at her just the way Adora had hoped to get her. "Down," Catra managed to growl out around a moan, and Adora let Catra push her back down to her entrance, kissing and gently nibbling at her lips before she licked back inside her, flexing and swirling her tongue against Catra's walls as she closed her eyes again.

"Oh fuck, Adora, " Catra gasped and there it was, that perfect sound. Catra's insides squeezed down around Adora's tongue, wetness oozing out around it. "That's it- fuck-cumming," Catra moaned, digging her heel hooked around Adora into her back as she shuddered, her other hand slamming down onto the box, the sound of her claws digging into wood mixing with her moans and Adora's greedy slurping licks as she tried to drink down everything Catra could give her.

A whimper spilled from Catra's mouth and Adora knew it was time to back off again, drawing out from between Catra's inner lips to worship her outer ones, sliding her tongue along the damp fur around her core. The whimper softened into moans again as Catra settled into occasional shuddering around her while Adora worked with her lips and tongue to keep her high on aftershocks for as long as she could.

The happy warmth inside her blazed as Catra recovered; she'd done that, Adora had served her Lord well. Her eyes fluttered open and she knew she was looking at Catra with all the affection in the world while she worshiped her cunt.

Catra's breath caught for a moment, just a slight hitch in her panting as she stared down at Adora in something like disbelief. That needy, animal thing in Adora's chest howled, tugging her lips up in a grin as she let Catra's leg fall off her shoulder, standing up to look down at Catra's body, chest heaving with her breaths. Her eyes were so wide, pupils blown out to rings of gold and blue around deep darkness that called to the heat inside of her.

Mine. Adora reached for her, hands sliding into place beneath her breasts, framing those perfect peaks. Adora growled, heated and ravenous, and Catra blinked, her eyes narrowing all at once.

She sat up sharply, fast enough that it threw Adora off balance as Catra wrapped her legs around Adora's waist and surged forward, shoving at her shoulders to drive her back. The heat sang sweetly enough at the feeling of Catra's legs wrapped around her that there was a long moment where Adora couldn't tell what was happening. Then gravity took hold and she instinctively tucked Catra in against her chest, curling around her a little to make sure her own back took the hit.

They hit the ground with a quiet 'puff' and Adora suddenly felt very silly. Right, Catra had made them a blanket den.

The rest of Adora's thoughts were stopped by Catra pushing out of her arms, straddling her hips and keeping one hand on Adora's shoulder to hold her down while the other went up to snatch her by the jaw.

"Don't forget," Catra hissed, "I'm in charge. You're mine." Adora blinked, flushing all over again.

"I-I said that out loud?"

"You snarled it at me," Catra's eyes were still narrowed, but that couldn't hide how her tail was thumping steadily against the blankets. Adora's hands started sliding down along her ribs and Catra hissed, freezing her in place. "Get it right." Adora's brain stuttered for a moment, trying to figure out what Catra meant by that, before the warmth settled over her again and it clicked.

"I'm yours," she breathed, watching as Catra shivered at the sound of it, all the fur of her shoulders and up the sides of her face fluffing up again. Her eyes softened a little, possessive heat mingled with desire.

"Good girl," Catra growled, sitting back and bringing her hands up to Adora's wrists. She hesitated for just a moment, blazing red through her fur again before she pulled Adora's hands forward, setting them just under her tits like before.

Adora took her queue, warmth pulsing through her strong enough that her hips twitched beneath Catra. Her hands slid up to gently palm Catra's breasts. Adora's breath caught at the same moment Catra's did; they really did fit perfectly, soft and slightly firm beneath Adora's touch, smooth fur sliding between Adora's fingers as she squeezed, setting to massage them.

Catra's hands went down to Adora's shoulders again, "get up here," she moaned, trailing off into a low mewl that jolted right to Adora's core. She sat up, staring up into the way the stern set of Catra's brow started to melt when Adora found one of her nipples with her thumb, setting to rub slow, determined circles against it. Catra draped her arms around Adora's shoulders, pulling her in close for a long enough moment that Adora's eyes started sliding closed, a heady cocktail of need-surprise-warmth- Catra swirling in her chest.

Catra tucked her in under her chin instead and Adora froze for a moment, surprised that she was even surprised that Catra hadn't kissed her. Catra started leaning back, exposing herself to Adora's gaze, "breathe, you're not done yet." Adora blinked and pulled in a deep breath, mind stuttering again, before the hungry, hot thing in her chest reminded her.

Catra's shoulders, her collarbone and her neck, her tits, her belly, all before her, all not being worshiped right now.

Adora groaned low, one of her hands sliding down from Catra's breast to card through the thick fur on her belly, massaging and gently scratching as her other hand dragged down Catra's breast, tweaking at her nipple on the way down, then pushed back up, fingers splaying out to squeeze her. Catra groaned, tilting her head back to expose the arch of her throat. Adora let out a shuddering breath, leaning in to press a slow kiss there. Catra's breathing slowed, wonderful little sounds filling the air as Adora started working her way down, kissing and softly licking across and down her neck.

As Adora reached the crux of her neck and shoulder, that primal thing in her growled again, her mouth dropping open wide. Catra took in a sharp, harsh breath and Adora froze. "No biting," Catra murmured, "not yet." Animal aggression tried to swell, she was right there, she could feel her own bitemark practically blazing against her skin, but Catra had said no. Adora trembled, her hand on Catra's breast squeezing harder. "Be a good girl for your Lord," Catra growled, and the world slotted back into place again.

She drew back, pressing apologetic kisses to the spot she'd been about to bite.

"Thank you," she breathed, starting to kiss across her shoulder, her hand on Catra's stomach sliding back up so she could massage both of Catra's tits, her touch firm and steady. Catra was her Lord, she deserved gentleness, an obedient servant, not the raging animal that kept trying to swell in her.

Catra started leaning back, forcing Adora to lean down further to keep her lips against her. Adora's hands slid down behind her, helping steady her Lord as Adora started kissing down her chest, nuzzling into the ridge of fur between her tits. They really were so perfect- every inch of Catra was perfect, but she was focusing on her breasts right now, pressing soft kisses across her fur as she nuzzled in to feel how the yielding flesh beneath squished against her cheek.

“Down,” Catra breathed, a low chuckle lacing through her voice, “save the best for last.” Adora started kissing further down, throwing Catra a pleading look that just made her laugh louder. Then she turned her face down into Catra’s belly and momentarily questioned if Catra was wrong about what the best part would be.

She nuzzled into the dense fur, completely surrounded and lost in Catra’s scent and presence. Adora’s hands slid down Catra’s back to her hips again to stabilize herself as she started to kiss and gently bite at her, tugging soft at her fur to hear the pleased trill and purr it drew out of her. If there hadn’t been hairs in Adora’s mouth before, there definitely were now, but she couldn’t even bring herself to pretend to care.

Catra’s thighs were practically wrapped around Adora’s chest by this point, her cunt dripping beneath Adora’s tits, making shivers shoot though her body as she groaned into Catra’s belly, kissing and slowly licking at her the way she’d seen Catra do with her arms sometimes. Catra tensed, a low groan seeming to leak out of her as her hips bucked in Adora’s grip. Adora just kept going, nuzzling, kissing, and licking at every inch she could reach, leaving spots in her wake that stuck up adorably before her nuzzling smoothed them back down.

She knew there was a spot, right above Catra’s left hip, that had always gotten a chirp out of her when they’d been too small to think anything of Adora rubbing Catra’s tummy. That hungry thing in her gut considered the fact it had been neglected all these years a great injustice, and Adora set to seeking it out. She laved slow licks and adoring kisses across her, steadily working her way to Catra’s left side, then down, her chin digging against Catra’s pelvis for a moment to orient herself and getting a delighted groan out of her Lord in return as she drew her lips up just a little more.

Catra’s breath caught, her purr cutting off with a surprised gasp, her thighs spasming around Adora’s chest. She’d found it. She pressed a bit more firmly against it, drawing her tongue along the spot and Catra mewled, all pleasure and sudden relief, the sound striking right down into Adora’s core as Catra started to go limp on top of her, her cunt pressing wet and hot against Adora’s abs, her arms draping along Adora’s legs. Adora risked a quick glance up to find Catra’s head thrown back, sounds caught somewhere between more mewling and groans spilling from her lips, the purr kicking back on even stronger.

Adora felt like her whole body lit up, basking in her accomplishment even as she redoubled her efforts, pressing worshipful kisses and deep licks to that sweet spot. Catra shakily lifted a hand to rest it on Adora’s head, thumb stroking back and forth along the spot her bangs were pulled back, and for once it didn’t feel like Catra was making fun of her for it, a feeling like praise making her shiver beneath her Lord’s body.

Catra took a rumbling, deliberate breath, her hand settling fully on Adora’s head, pushing her back. Adora resisted for just a moment, drawing a huffing laugh from Catra before she relented, letting Catra push her away from her belly, glancing up at her to see Catra looking down at her with dark eyes, her entire expression softened in comfort. “Lay back,” she said, breathy and soft.

Adora obeyed, laying flat while Catra pushed herself back up to straddling her, purring as she watched her, “so obedient,” she murmured in that easy, heated way and warmth pulsed through Adora so hard that she squeaked. Catra laughed at her again, her hands coming down on either side of Adora's head as she held her gaze and dragged her pussy down across her abs. "Good girl."

"For you," Adora whispered, "all for you," her hands dragging up to Catra's back. She wanted to pull her down, wanted to buck up beneath her, wanted to bury her fingers in Catra's mane and kiss her silly.

Then Catra leaned forward, draping herself across Adora's front and burying her face in Catra's chest again.

"Breathe," Catra teased, and Adora took in a deep breath, the air was so thick with Catra's scent and arousal. "Back to work." Adora's hands clutched at Catra's back as she peppered overwhelmed, needy kisses across her breasts, breathing hard into her fur.

Catra moaned again, low and so smugly pleased, "there's no one coming," she breathed, setting Adora's entire world on fire and pulling a moan out against Catra's breast. "We have all the time in the world." Adora licked her way over to one of Catra's nipples, finally, finally, wrapping her lips around it. Catra rewarded her with a low groan that hitched into a pleased trill as Adora gave her slow, steady licks across it, gently sucking, her hands relaxing against Catra's back.

Adora heard a box opening somewhere on the edges of her world, somewhere far enough beyond Catra's quiet words, slow, pleased noises, soft fur and warm skin that it was only remarkable in the fact that it had to be something Catra was doing. "Other side," Catra ordered and Adora obeyed, coming off her nipple with a parting lick before starting to work her way to the other side. There was a sound like clinking metal, but she paid it no mind, devoting herself entirely to serving her Lord's pleasure.

The only real distraction was how Catra was starting to grind her hips against Adora's midriff, the hard bud of her clit pressing against her abs.

She reached Catra's other nipple, gently nipping at it and feeling Catra shiver atop her, letting out a pleased chirp. "Adora," she murmured, just a hint of urgency in it as she started drawing herself up, Adora's lips chasing after her to stay wrapped around her nipple while Catra pulled her back out from her shadow. Catra's eyes were hungry again, her hand on Adora's head pulling her off of her chest to gape up at her like a fish. "I'm going to ride you." It took a few moments for Adora's voice to start working again.

"R-ride me?" Like her face? She could do that, she could absolutely do that. Then Catra's other hand came into view, the harness dangling from a pair of her fingers as she waved the strap-on in front of Adora's face.

"I'm going to ride you," Catra repeated, voice dripping with anticipation and desire, lips turned up in a predatory smirk as Adora realized what she meant and her eyes went wide, "like a toy, and you'd better make fucking you worth it."

In that moment, Adora would have done anything to be worth it.

Catra dropped the harness on Adora's chest, "put it on." Adora stared at it for a long moment, it was longer than any of Adora's fingers and almost as thick as her middle two together, so dark blue that it was almost black in the low light. Adora felt her world grind to a halt, numbly looking up to Catra.

She was so fucking beautiful, face flushed, breathing slow and hard, her fur all mussed from Adora's attentions, eyes bright, flashing in the dark, a lazy grin across her face. Adora needed to flip them over, pin Catra beneath her body and press inside her, needed to feel Catra's lips against her own, feel her buck into her thrusts, needed to see Catra throw her head back, hair mussed and haloed out around her. But Catra said she was going to ride her, Catra was still in charge. Adora's whole body was tensing, her grip on Catra's sides squeezing. She needed to- "Breathe, Adora," Catra admonished her, raising a brow at her. "Moons, how do you manage without me?."

Adora let all the air in her lungs out in a long, needy whine, her hips bucking beneath Catra again. "Aww," Catra teased her, one of her fingers tracing up between Adora's tits, "do you want your turn already?" Adora shook her head, panting hard, her hands falling to Catra's thighs. She couldn't speak, too much desire-hunger-fear-love swirling in her chest for any words to come out. "Didn't think so," she purred, leaning in closer again, that hand at Adora's chest sliding up to wrap around her throat again.

A sigh of relief bubbled up out of Adora, staring wide-eyed up at Catra as that possessive hand at her neck pushed the world back into motion. "Listen to me," Catra murmured, "it's okay, you've been good." The tension in Adora's body started to leak away. "You want me?"

"So bad it hurts," Adora gasped, nodding as much as she could with Catra's hand squeezing around her throat.

"Then let me have you." Catra's eyes were sharp, dancing along Adora's shoulders and down her arms for a moment, her core grinding long and slow against her abs. "Be my Princess," Catra paused, her eyes locked on Adora's, considering. More tension left Adora as she waited, watching something strange pass across Catra's face, like she was wondering how much of something she could get away with before she was caught, like she wanted to be caught, "and then I'll be your Kitten."

A calm washed over Adora, that hungry, primal part of her latching onto the promise and finally letting her move without force again. She let out a long breath, her grip on Catra loosening as her head fell back for a moment, letting her take the breath back in easily. Catra let out a low chuckle, "Moons, you're so easy."

"You passed out last time," Adora pressed back, lifting herself back up, her hands leaving Catra's hips to grab the harness as she curled up around her. "I'm not going to waste effort on pretending not to be." Catra blinked at her, letting out a playful warning growl, her arms draping around Adora's shoulders.

"Yeah, well, had to make you earn it somehow," she grinned, pressing her claws against Adora's back. Adora folded her legs so she could reach around Catra without having to dislodge her, nuzzling in against her shoulder as she slid the harness up them, lifting Catra up a bit while Adora worked the straps up over her hips.

“I’ll earn it any way you want,” Adora murmured, and she felt Catra outright shudder against her, her thighs squeezing around her waist as a choked gasp came from her and her claws flexed against her back. A grin twitched onto Adora’s face and she kissed up to Catra’s ear to whisper, “anything for my Lord.” Catra growled possessively, her hands dragging up to Adora’s shoulders and shoving her down so Catra could straddle her properly again.

Adora watched, eyes wide as Catra lifted herself, a string of her wetness dripping from her cunt onto Adora’s stomach, the dark shape of the strap just visible between her legs. That was going inside her, Catra was about to take her.

“Look at me, Princess,” she growled, and Adora’s gaze snapped back up to Catra’s face, watching her face as she shifted back, “who do you serve?” Catra’s eyes narrowed, her lips turned up into a sharp, eager smile, fangs glinting in the low light.

“You, my Lord.” Another shiver passed through Catra, but she didn’t move.

“My name, Princess.” Her eyes sharpened, regal and hungry in equal measure. “Pledge yourself to me.”

“I’m yours, Lord Catra,” Adora breathed without hesitation, and Catra sunk down. Adora felt the harness dig into her skin as it took Catra’s weight, jolting just a little as it slid inside and Adora couldn’t help groaning, a shock of something warm and tingling shooting up her spine to nestle in the back of her head. Catra kept her eyes sharp for a long moment, but as she kept sinking down her eyelids fluttered, her brow furrowing and then relaxing, her mouth drifting open silently until her hips finally settled against Adora’s.

Adora gasped, the world seeming to settle into a perfect orientation. Adora’s hands came up to settle on Catra’s thighs, squeezing gently as she settled. Catra let out a long, shuddering breath, clenching her teeth for a long moment before starting to relax, her hands dragging down Adora’s body to settle on her stomach.

“Colder than I thought,” Catra murmured, closing her eyes. “Should’ve made you suck it first.” Adora chuckled, earning herself a weak glare from Catra as her eyes slitted open, pupils narrowed again.

“Next time,” Adora promised, reaching up to slide her hands along Catra’s biceps. “Wanna wait until it warms up?” Catra nodded and Adora slid one hand down to Catra’s, gently drawing it up to her lips and pressing a kiss to her knuckles. Catra hissed through her teeth, her other hand splaying out across Adora’s middle. Adora turned Catra’s hand in her own, pressing a slow kiss to her palm, feeling her shiver against Adora’s hips.

Catra seemed to hesitate a moment before cupping Adora’s face in her hand, letting Adora nuzzle against it as she looked up at her. The hungry thing in Adora’s chest was bizarrely contented with the feeling of Catra’s weight on her hips making the harness dig into her skin, leaving just warm affection to guide her actions as she steadily kissed up Catra’s wrist, rising slow to sit beneath her Lord.

Catra was watching her wide-eyed again, something shining and fragile in her gaze while her free hand slid up Adora's body to drape across her shoulder, drawing her closer. She entwined her fingers with Catra's, bringing her other hand up to cradle Catra's arm as she went back to nuzzling her hand, pressing careful, worshipful kisses to the base of each of her claws. She felt wet warmth trickling onto her skin from around the strap on and a giddy smile spread across her face, looking up into Catra's eyes as she carefully drew her tongue from the tip of one claw to the base, feeling another shiver work its way through Catra's body, her breathing coming harder.

She started working her way back up Catra's arm again, gently kissing at the pulse point in her wrist, squeezing her hand as she nuzzled into her forearm, dragging her cheek along it like she could mark things the way Catra could. That drew an almost whispering groan out of Catra, her hips starting to absently rock against Adora's, making her tense for a moment before Adora kissed the inside of her elbow and she chuckled at her, the sound so low and thick with the pleasure rising in her Lord.

"Keep going," she commanded, leaning forward into Adora's space. Adora nuzzled her bicep, risking little licks between slow kisses again that made Catra's breath catch and release in quiet trills that went right to Adora's head. "Tell me again," she cooed, her free hand sliding up into Adora's hair, fingers pressing at the band keeping her hair tied back. "Tell me you're mine.

"All yours, wanna be yours," Adora panted across Catra's shoulder, nuzzling into the fur there as Catra shuddered again, "Moons, Catra, you're perfect." She squeezed Catra's hand again, her other arm going to wrap around Catra's back, squeezing her close and drawing a short gasp out of her as the strap shifted with their position.

Adora's head was practically swimming with how incredible Catra's naked body felt pressed against her, all soft sleek fur and toned muscle, the delicious give of Catra's slight breasts against her own as she squeezed her close. She fit so perfectly in Adora's lap, legs braced on either side of her hips, a warm weight cradled against her, breathing slow and hard, laced through with purrs and moans whenever Adora found just the right spot to shower in attention.

There was a brief slide of claws against the back of Adora's neck and her hair tie snapped, leaving her hair to spill messily around her shoulders, she shuddered, squeezing Catra tighter and kissing to the crux of her shoulder and neck. That hungry thing inside her still wanted to bite, but she was good, she would be so good for Catra, and so she easily settled for slow, worshipful licks that had Catra squeezing her hand tight and gripping the back of her head.

"Fuck," Catra moaned, her tail curling and uncoiling against the blankets. Adora's tracked it with her eyes as she gave Catra slow licks up the side of her neck. Her hand on Catra's back slid down to the small of her back, fingers carding through her fur to press gently at the spot just above her tail and Catra squeaked, shivering as her hips bucked, then gasping when that made the strap slide out and back in. "Fuck," she groaned, and Adora grinned against her fur, filing that away for later.

Adora nuzzled in under Catra's chin, marking herself for her Lord as her hand slid further down to glide along Catra's tail. "T-tell me," Catra stammered, voice quiet and high again, “tell me again, tell me what you want.” That odd sense of peace settled over Adora again with the knowledge that Catra truly needed something from her.

“I want you,” she breathed into Catra’s ear. Catra shuddered against her, a low whine threading through her breathing, she needed more. “I want to serve you,” her hand reached the end of Catra’s tail and she brought it back in to wrap her arm around her middle. “I want to make you feel so good.” A pulse of needy, animal heat ran through her and she almost bit down on her next words but Catra squeezed her hand again.

“Breathe, Adora,” she mewled slowly, nuzzling into Adora’s shoulder. “Tell me.” Her mind raced again, Catra had already made it very clear there would be no kissing, they were here to fuck, not make love. She managed to breathe with Catra’s direction, searching that primal thing for something that wouldn’t scare Catra away.

“I want to be marked again,” she finally gasped, “somewhere people can see. I wanna mark you back,” she tensed beneath Catra again, holding off on biting at her ear by just kissing along the underside of it. “Wanna make you mine again, want both, my Lord and my Kitten.” A long, shuddering breath forced its way out of Adora as Catra groaned into her shoulder, nosing in under her jacket and nipping at her skin, making Adora’s next words come out desperate and quick. “Want all of you.”

Adora couldn’t think, letting the words out felt wrong in a way she couldn’t pin down, and she retreated into just the sensation of Catra against her again, releasing her hand to wrap both arms around her, squeezing her tight.

“Good girl, Adora,” Catra groaned against her neck and the world started to settle again. She was being good, she could feel Catra smiling into her skin as she brought her freed hand up to Adora’s other shoulder. “Look at me.” She let Catra push her away slightly, just enough to let her look up into her Lord’s perfect eyes, the way they searched across her face.

Catra’s hands came up to cradle the back of Adora’s head and her breath caught, she didn’t know what to call the look Catra was giving her now. It was so soft, the way Catra had looked at her in the afterglow last time, but like she was all the way awake for it. “Breathe,” Catra murmured, leaning in closer, and Adora’s whole world was shaking so badly she had to try a couple times to get the breath to come. “Say it again, all of me.”

“I want all of you,” she breathed, meaning it in everything she’d already told her and more. Catra held her gaze, her hands sliding back down to brace against Adora’s shoulders, and the weight on her lap lifted. There was a split second where she almost whined at the loss, a flash of failure, like Catra was about to leave. Then Catra’s hips crashed back down and she watched as her Lord’s expression unwound in pleasure; the dark blink was washed away in a wave of awe.

“Good girl,” Catra moaned, starting to slowly ride her. Warmth, affectionate and animal at once, yet somehow pure in a way Adora hadn’t known it could be pulsed through her, stronger each time Catra shifted her hips, each time her eyelids fluttered, every pleasured sound that came out of her.

Adora's grip loosened, holding her like spun glass for a moment as Catra reared up, perfect, so perfect, letting Adora run her gaze along her body. Catra rode her with the same animal grace she did everything, her chest heaving with her breaths, tits on full display in gorgeous peaks, her tummy rippling with the motion of her hips, the fur of her shoulders sleek and soft.

"You're beautiful," Adora breathed, her hands sliding down to rest on Catra's thighs, feeling the flex of her muscles beneath her fur as she squeezed. "Stars and Moons, you're beautiful." Catra flushed dark through her fur, still looking down at her with everything Adora could even imagine wanting right now in her eyes.

"I-I'm also doing all the-" Catra's breath caught as she pressed her hips down again, even more warmth dripping onto Adora's skin, a moan slurring out of her. "Doing all the work," she finished more firmly, her eyes fluttering open again.

Adora's hands slid up to Catra's hips for a moment, squeezing and holding her as she slowly bucked beneath her, but that wasn't enough, it stopped Catra from moving right. She let herself lean into Catra's space a little, her hands dragging down to grab handfuls of her ass.

Was there any part of Catra that could be anything but perfect? Catra purred and groaned as Adora squeezed her; she was softer than Adora had expected, cheeks almost spilling out between her fingers even beneath her fur. She could still feel the power of her beneath, flexing as she bucked to keep riding Adora, but she still couldn't think of any better word to describe her ass than 'plush'.

Adora released her a moment to caress Catra's ass and grip tighter, drawing another purring moan from her before she started helping Catra ride her, dragging and pushing her hips in time with Catra's movements. That perfect moan happened again, ecstasy and disbelief, and Adora's hips started to rock, pressing the strap even deeper at the bottom of each grind.

Catra's eyes slid closed and stayed that way, her hands coming up to cradle Adora's head again as Adora helped her work her hips, a touch of smug satisfaction leaking into the moan and somehow making it even better.

Adora followed her touch as Catra pulled her in close again, tucking her in beneath Catra's chin. One of Adora's hands stayed down on her ass, where it was going to stay until the end of fucking time if Adora had anything to say about it, as the other dragged up her back to cradle Catra's chest while Adora pressed adoring, desperate kisses along her collarbone. "Fuuuuuck, you're good," Catra groaned, a purr shaking her whole body against Adora's.

"All for you," she gasped in return, nuzzling in against the side of Catra's throat as she matched Catra's rhythm with her hips, feeling their bodies flex against each other. It felt like a warm, primal haze was settling over Adora's whole body, making every point of contact pulse with bliss, every appreciative noise Catra made egging her on, every twitch of Catra's body and hitch in her breath calling to Adora's basest instincts and guiding her to shift, slow and speed up to chase more of it.

Catra's hands slid down her neck to squeeze her shoulders, a slurred little groan coming up out of her before she pushed her hands down the back of Adora's jacket, wrapping her arms around her neck and splaying her fingers out across Adora's muscles. Adora nosed up under Catra's chin, kissing at the soft spot above her neck and making Catra's voice stutter for a moment as she rocked slow in Adora's lap for a long moment.

Adora knew she was wet herself, but Catra was outright dripping into her lap now, it felt like every movement was accompanied by a new warm drizzle of her juices onto Adora's skin beneath the harness, each time making soft warmth surge in her chest. Adora's hand on Catra's ass squeezed, not daring to hijack the rhythm, but still needing to pull on her, dragging her down with more force into Adora's next thrust up.

Catra twitched, clutching onto Adora harder, her ankles crossing and pressing at her back as a long moan erupted out of her.

"Again," she gasped, and Adora did it again, her arm cradling Catra's chest joining in to press the strap as deep as she could get it. Catra's hips pitched forward a little, "again." Catra set the tempo, drew back just far enough, then let Adora pull her back down. "How are you- ah- this fucking good at this?" She moaned, cursing under her breath as she shifted her angle again.

"Just wanna make you feel good," Adora offered by way of answer, murmuring into the fur beneath Catra's ear. Catra moaned loud as Adora pulled her back down again, her whole body shivering.

"That's the spot," she gasped, "that's the- Moons. " Her words slurred out as Adora lifted her and pulled her back down, too deep into the rhythm to stop, especially not with how Catra's voice was rumbling the way it did before she came last time. Catra took control of the tempo again, though barely, more just pressing into Adora's grip to set the pace than actually lifting herself up now. "Good girl, fuck, that's my good girl."

Adora felt herself light up beneath the praise, kissing and gently nipping along the bottom of Catra's ear, panting more from the intensity of it all than from the effort. She could do this forever, holding Catra close, giving her everything she needed. There was nothing left in the world but serving her Lord, heaping every pleasure she could give onto Catra, hearing those wonderful noises spill from her lips.

One of Catra's hands came up to grab Adora by the hair, pulling her head to the side as she descended, purring loud as she licked a stripe up the side of Adora's neck. Adora shuddered, her rhythm almost stuttering before she managed to get a hold of herself.

"Please, oh please," she babbled as Catra's lips found a spot on her skin. Adora clutched at her tighter, that needy, primal thing in her chest demanding she go faster, fuck Catra harder, but Catra was still setting the pace, and she was so close to being rewarded. She was good, she was being so good. "I'm yours, I'm yours, Catra, please. " Catra started to chuckle against her but another thrust hit and it ended up as a pleasured growl, her body tensing and relaxing, preparing for that perfect ripple.

Catra's mouth opened wide and those wonderful fangs finally locked onto Adora's neck. She shuddered, her eyes rolling back in her head even as she desperately kept matching Catra's rhythm, her voice slurring out as Catra's went high, keening into Adora's flesh as she came.

Her whole body rippled, still giving Adora her queues as she fucked her through it, trying to keep her Lord in bliss for as long as she could, feeling her teeth worry at the side of her neck.

The flash of pain beneath the bone-deep sense of rightness was dull this time, no piercing, no new scar, yet something in Adora's chest melted with the knowing that Catra was being careful with her, even lost to her pleasure. "Thank you," she panted, forcing her movements smooth to keep any tension out of Catra's voice, that purest affection swelled, fueled by every point of contact, every pleasured noise Catra made, all the preparation Catra had put into making them this cozy, quiet place for Adora to show it to her. She- "I-" she snapped her mouth shut, holding Catra down against her hips as she fought back the words that had tried to force their way out. Catra just groaned, releasing her neck to pant against Adora's skin, a dreamy sort of trill threading its way through the sound.

There was a long moment where Adora felt like her chest might burst open with feeling, like she was holding boiling water in her lungs, clutching Catra in close against her so she wouldn't get the chance to see it plastered all over her face. She just had to get a handle on it quick, before Catra recovered enough to really look at her again.

"Breathe, Adora," Catra murmured, nuzzling into her shoulder. She let the rest of the breath out, and no words came with it, no secrets, nothing that would take this moment away from her. Her next came easier, and the next easier. "I've got you." Catra's hand in her hair relaxed, sliding back to cradle her head, and a wave of relief so strong her next breath shuddered passed through her. "You did good."

Adora clung to her tighter, curling up around Catra a little, not entirely sure whether she was trying to shield her or hide in her embrace. She buried her face in Catra's shoulder, the feeling in her chest still warm and molten, like she might just melt away in Catra's arms, but not so intense that she couldn't twist it into something she could say without losing this perfect moment.

"I've missed you," even that felt risky, like rolling the dice on her life. Catra's tail stilled, halfway curled behind her, but her breathing didn't hitch, a low purr rising in her heavy breaths. She started to stir in Adora's grip, straightening up a little as her hands both went to cradling the back of Adora's head. The molten thing in her chest blazed brighter, grateful even as Catra drew her out from her shoulder, she was feeling a bit too raw right now to handle it well if Catra had grabbed her face.

Catra looked down at her with something Adora didn't know how to read, the look in her eyes too soft for the bright smile across her face.

"Really? I couldn't tell." She teased her, shivering a little when Adora's grip on her tightened. Something dark flickered through Catra's eyes for just a split second, but she seemed to shake it off. "I'm here."

It wasn't just this, that pure, animal, molten thing pressed. It wasn't just getting to make her cum, it was everything, everything about her. But she couldn't, she couldn't; Catra already set the rules for this meeting, that kind of feeling wouldn't be welcome. "Okay, that one looked like it hurt," Catra murmured, her eyes narrowing.

“Wh-what?” The thing in Adora's chest flared and shrunk back all at once, eager for Catra to see it and terrified she might.

“Breathe,” Catra leaned forward, pressing herself all along Adora's front. “Look at me,” she breathed, like she could have possibly looked anywhere but those perfect two-toned eyes. “You want something. It's okay,” Catra pressed her forehead against hers, the warmed metal of her mask settling against Adora's skin, “that's what this place is for. You don't have to hold it in, you can tell me.”

Adora was panting hard, she knew her eyes were so wide as Catra pried at something Adora had buried deep in her chest a long time ago, so long she'd forgotten it was there until Catra had shown her how it felt to give it to her last time.

Catra's breath stirred across her lips, “it's just us here, no one's watching.” The feeling erupted, dreamy and terrifying and everything warm and good in the world, cradled here in Catra's arms, beyond the reach of anything and anyone that might use it to hurt them, everything but the women it belonged to.

It didn't need a name, it was too big for a name, it just needed Adora to show it to her.

“Can I kiss you?” Stumbled out of Adora's mouth before she could even begin to rally against the onslaught.

Catra went still, her ears perked forward and eyes wide, like she couldn’t believe what she was hearing. Adora’s breath caught in her chest, but she forced it to keep going, watching Catra’s eyes dart around her face. Her ears twitched down, nervous, and she glanced away. Adora could live with that, Catra wasn’t pushing her away, wasn’t screaming or hissing at her, she could live with this.

Then one of Catra’s hands slid out from her hair, she took a deep breath and her ears shifted forward again as she reached up to take her headguard off, slowly setting it down somewhere next to them. Adora knew she was supposed to keep breathing, but she was pretty sure Catra would need to start squeezing her chest like a bellows before she could remember how.

The hand still cradling Adora’s head slid up, fingers lacing through her loose hair as Catra turned back to her and oh, there was a vulnerability to her now, brow softly furrowed, no longer playing the part of Lord, face bare and cautious. She was incredible. Catra leaned in and the entire world quaked at the feeling of soft lips on Adora’s forehead.

She shuddered, the trapped breath shaking out of her, both of her hands sliding up Catra’s back to clutch at her, the only stable point in existence.

“Adora,” Catra breathed against her skin, settling back down against her so that the ocean and flame of her eyes could swallow Adora’s thoughts, leaving her to shiver and babble a hundred things that never quite became words under her breath as Catra’s free arm went down to wrap around Adora’s waist, holding her close, calming the shivers while her voice stirred against Adora’s lips. “Please.”

Adora felt like she would have shaken herself to pieces if Catra wasn't holding her. One of her hands came out from behind Catra to cradle her face and Catra leaned into the touch, eyes still locked on Adora's. There was something in her gut whispering that this was a horrible idea, the rules had been set and this was explicitly against them; but Catra had asked her to, Catra was looking at her like she trusted her for the first time in almost two years, Catra was waiting for her.

She leaned in, closing her eyes and letting their lips meet. She was so soft, a sharp gasp coming from Catra before Adora sealed the kiss, pressing up into her, fingers threading through Catra's tuft as she slid their lips together.

Catra moaned through her nose, melting into Adora's embrace, hands clutching at her as she started to kiss Adora back.

It was messy, Adora remembering how to breathe only so they could pant into each other's mouths, Catra smiling against Adora's lips and making it impossible to stay in full contact. It was rapture, Adora's hand sliding just beneath Catra's ear to cup her head and pull her in, Catra opening her mouth to nip at her lips, the both of them plastering themselves against the other's front, trying to touch everywhere they could.

Adora's tongue darted out to slide along Catra's bottom lip, pulling another moan out of her, her hand fisting in Adora's hair. Catra's purring picked up again, almost ticklish against Adora's lips, before she snapped her teeth closed on Adora's bottom lip, biting firm enough that Adora tasted blood for a moment. Catra's purr stuttered but the triumphant sweetness in Adora's chest erupted out of her in a moan of her own, her tongue tracing one of Catra's fangs, and she melted again, releasing Adora's lip to let her tongue slide along the sharp point of her tooth, another shuddering groan spilling into the kiss.

Adora's hips started to rock and Catra shivered, a surprised sort of squeak rising from her. Adora's strap was still buried inside of her, and she was going to take full advantage of that. Her hand on Catra's back slid down to that spot just above her tail and squeezed her close, drawing another long, perfect moan into the kiss. Adora drew her tongue back as she pulled Catra up, and Catra captured her bottom lip in her teeth again as she drove her back down, a keening, needy moan coming out around her teeth as she bit and nibbled at Adora's skin.

Catra was already shuddering, already rippling in her grip, she wasn't going to last long this time. The primal warmth had spread through Adora's whole body, hands possessive and reverent in equal measure as she bounced Catra in her lap. It was like wonder, like power, like freedom, like the warm rush of She-Ra's power without the restricting cold edge to hold her back, like looking out at the ocean and knowing she could give that feeling to someone, to Catra. Catra's hand on her back slid up, claws gently prodding at her skin, egging Adora on.

Catra released Adora's lip, rearing back to gasp for air as Adora remembered the angle Catra had been riding her at and shifted her own hips to hit it. Adora surged forward, pitching Catra onto her back and kissing her again before a single slurred curse even made it all the way out of Catra's mouth. This was a better angle, Adora could work her hips better bearing down on her like this.

Catra groaned into the kiss, her ankles pressing into Adora's ass as she fucked her slow and deep, her hand in Adora's hair shifting restlessly. Catra's other hand slid out from beneath Adora's arm to join the one on her head, cradling her close. Another high, mewling sound forced its way out of her as Adora gently drew her bottom lip into her mouth, holding it between her teeth and sliding back slow enough that it just barely tugged on it. Catra's whole body froze for a moment before releasing with a shudder, her fingers raking through Adora's hair, her hips bucking up into her thrusts.

Adora's eyes fluttered open as Catra's head fell back, her mouth dropping open in a silent gasp as her body tensed again, then released. She was close, her eyes hazy, seemingly trying and failing not to roll up into her head, when noises came out of her they were short and desperate, mewling, whimpering, moaning. Adora leaned in to press another slow kiss to her lips, gentle and attentive, before pressing her forehead to Catra's, losing herself in her pleasured gaze.

"What do you need?" She groaned, her whole body pinging with energy, with the purest heat and desire.

"Mark me," Catra gasped, her eyes sliding closed, "bite me." Her head tipped back, breaking the contact but baring her throat to Adora. "Please, I'm so close."

Adora's next breath came out as a hungry growl, the urge she'd pushed down earlier surging back full force.

"Mine." She snarled, descending on the side of Catra's neck, mouth open wide to lock her teeth into Catra's flesh. Catra roared, her whole body locking up and then melting beneath Adora's, shivering and rippling under her attention.

"Yours, yours, Adora, Adora," Catra chanted, voice trembling and peaking as Adora sucked and squeezed at her chosen spot, trying to mark her so thoroughly that not even her fur could hide it. Catra's arms wound around Adora's neck, holding her in place there even as her legs went limp, still shaking and twitching with her orgasm, ankles uncrossing so the only thing holding her on Adora's dick was the hand on the small of her back. Adora held deep this time, gently grinding to keep from overstimulating her.

Catra's voice slurred into pleased, rumbling whispers, then down further into blissful sighs as all the tension left her, her arms going limp around Adora's shoulders.

That hungry urge wanted to pull Catra up and slam her into a wall for another round, but every other instinct caught up in the molten warmth thrumming through her body soothed her with the utterly relaxed sound of Catra's breathing, with the warmth and softness of their bodies pressed together, and she slowly loosened her jaw, releasing Catra's neck. Adora gave the mark a parting kiss, slow and careful in case it hurt, before she raised her head to look Catra over.

There was a thoroughly blissed out smile on her face, eyelids drooping between slow, easy blinks, her lips slightly red from the intensity of their kisses, her wild hair haloed out around her. She looked about ten seconds from passing out again and the warmth pulsing through Adora's body settled into a deep satisfaction at having pleased her so well.

Adora lowered Catra's hips to the ground, the strap slipping out of her, and slid her hand around to gently squeeze Catra's side. Catra took in a quiet gasp, shivering beneath her for a long moment, the movement triggering aftershocks that had Catra's eyelids fluttering again, flushed with pleasure and exhaustion. Adora let out an awed breath, she was so beautiful.

Adora took her hand off of Catra's hip to shove the harness down her thighs a little so it wouldn't jab her in the crotch as she lowered herself down against Catra's side, nuzzling into her cheek and winding both arms around her middle to squeeze her close. Catra drew one hand down Adora's shoulder to settle on her upper arm, sleepily squeezing her bicep while her other arm fell to drape along her back, fingertips grazing across her skin.

A grin tugged at Adora's face and she flexed her arm, drawing an intrigued little trill out of Catra that had the sweetness in Adora spilling out in a low giggle.

"Yeah, yeah," Catra breathed, obviously failing to sound anything other than content, "I like your muscles, what else is new?"

"This." Adora leaned in to press a quick, soft kiss to her lips. Catra's purr kicked up a few notches, squirming beneath her a moment before she tensed, a low sound in her throat as she stretched her legs and core against Adora's body, seemingly unwilling to stop holding her. She jolted a little as her leg knocked against the strap on still hanging off of Adora.

"Keeping that for something?" She drawled, turning to throw Adora a slow, teasing smile. The energy still thrumming through her limbs intensified for a moment, but Catra still looked spacey, floating in comfort and Adora wasn't about to interrupt that.

"Not yet," she murmured, one of her hands starting to gently stroke up and down Catra's side, squeezing at her hip and her chest as she went. "Do you not want it?" Catra blinked up at her, a bit of the sleepiness leaving her eyes. Catra watched her for a moment, like Adora was a puzzle she was stuck on, before she blinked and her flush got deep enough that Adora could see traces of it creeping down her chest.

"You're not even winded, huh?" Catra prodded her back, "Princess perks." She took a deep breath, closing her eyes and letting her head fall back. Adora's eyes drifted down to the bitemark she left on her. There was a dark ring beneath her fur, a map of Adora's teeth in bent and wet fur atop it. The warmth flared, her next breath coming out loud and hungry. Catra shivered beneath her, her hand on Adora's bicep dragging up to squeeze her shoulder.

"Sorry," Adora murmured, not feeling particularly sorry, "you're just-" she floundered for the word a moment, her roaming hand sliding further down to grip Catra's thigh. "Gorgeous." Catra's hand on her back pulled her closer.

"Lose the strap," she said, "it's in the way." Adora blinked, taking a hand off of Catra again so she could shove the harness far enough down that she could kick it the rest of the way off. "Good, now get down here."

Adora settled down against Catra's side again, watching her intently as Catra shifted, rolling off her back to tuck herself into Adora'a arms, one of her legs sliding between Adora's.

More heat pulsed through her and she gathered Catra in close, pressing a kiss to the top of her head as Catra tucked herself beneath her chin.

Catra flicked her face with one of her ears and Adora turned her head to press a kiss to it, drawing a quiet, rumbling trill from her. Catra's hands settled on her back, rhythmically flexing her claws against Adora's skin. Adora smiled down at her, letting her own hands caress across Catra's back, smoothing out her fur between tracing her stripes. Catra wiggled in her grip a little, hooking her calf behind Adora's to fully tangle their legs together.

"Oh," Adora breathed, her whole body felt like it was lighting up, pressed up against Catra from top to bottom. She wound her arms around Catra's back, squeezing her tight for a long moment. Catra's purr got louder as she nosed across Adora's shoulder to the scar she left. She pressed a soft kiss to it and Adora stiffened, a hint of the intensity from when she got it flashing through her. Her hands clutched at Catra's back, a growl starting in her voice again.

"Adora," Catra murmured, breath stirring across her mark and making Adora shiver, fingers splaying wide across Catra's back before dragging down to her hips. "What do you want?"

"You." She responded automatically, squeezing Catra's hips.

"I'm yours," Catra breathed, pressing another kiss to the scar.

The heat erupted again, a low growl rumbling through Adora's chest.
