Anatomy For Amateurs

by dyke_catra

Summary

It's the final few weeks of college, and Bow is silently pining over his best friend Glimmer while she makes the most out of college hookup culture.

Until she finds out that he has zero sexual experience, and being the great friend she is, offers to teach him. After all, what are friends for?

Notes

Big thanks to TippenFunkaport for helping me with this fic! <3 I hope you enjoy!

How (Not) To Ask Your Bestie To Bone

There are pros and cons to being roommates with Glimmer.

The pros, of course, are that Bow loves having his best friend so close. Close enough that he can swing by her bedroom and wake her up if she's sleeping in and in danger of missing a class. Close enough that she can sneak into his room at night and stay with him, because they've been sharing beds since they were kids, and even though they're older now, the tradition is too soothing to break. Close enough that he feels calmed, knowing that she's only on the other side of the wall, that she's near enough that he could go and see her in an instant if he wanted to. Call him clingy, but it feels wrong to be away from her for long periods of time. They're so used to spending every waking moment together, doing anything other than that just feels wrong.

There's also the fact that Glimmer is just… easy to live with. It's nice to have someone to chat to while he cooks, and it was fun when they first moved in and they had to go shopping together for necessities. He doubts anyone other than Glimmer would've allowed him to buy the Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtle coasters he found at a thrift store one time, and who else would come up with the idea of using bi pride flags as curtains?

The cons are… well, they're in college. Their place is tiny, and most of the items they own were on sale when they got them or given to them by family members. It's also their final few weeks, and neither of them have dated, really, but Glimmer has definitely indulged in the so-called hookup culture that apparently dominates their generation nowadays. Bow isn't judging, it's just unfortunate that Glimmer is… well… loud.

To her credit, she does try to be quiet. At least at first. Bow has dealt with this situation a lot. Glimmer will go out to a party—after asking him, of course, but he's mainly declined recently because he's too busy studying his ass off —then she'll come home, drunk, and fall into bed with whoever she picked up along the way. Again, Bow isn't judging. As long as she's being safe, he has no issue with how active her sex life is. Even though it kills him on the inside.

He can hear her now, laughing. Then hushed whispers he doesn't bother straining his ears to try and make out— that's private. He tries to block them out, focus on his studies, but then the voices die down, and he registers the sound of someone walking towards his room a second before his door swings open.

"Hey dude." A guy around his age leans against the open door, very clearly drunk. This must be who Glimmer brought back. "I need a condom. You got any?"

Bow gives him a once-over. Seriously? Glimmer could do so much better. Bow's not entirely sure what her type is, but it surely isn't this. He's attractive, sure. But nowhere near her league. Not that Bow is much closer, but still.

"Bathroom." He answers, gesturing towards it with a nod of his head. The guy grins, and Bow ignores the urge to go and rescue Glimmer as he leaves to retrieve a condom. He knows he's overreacting, and that this is mainly his jealousy at play. Ever since he admitted to himself that his feelings for Glimmer have… evolved over the years, he's tried to step back and not let said feelings get the best of him. He likes to think he's avoided several awkward situations because of this.

"Thanks, man." The guy says as he passes by his room, this time with a condom in hand. He closes the door as he goes, and Bow forces himself to focus on his notes. Finals are extremely important after all, he doesn't even know what he'll do if he—

He hears Glimmer make a sound of pleasure from next door, and internally groans. He knew it was coming, but it still catches him off guard every time. He was right— she could definitely do better. He hates to admit it, but this has happened often enough that he can tell when she's faking by now. He's overhead way too many of her sexcapades to not. Her moans are too loud, too high pitched, and the things she's saying—

Bow retrieves his headphones and puts them on, pressing shuffle on his study playlist and cranking the volume up as loud as it will go. His eyes return to his notes. He can't really hear Glimmer anymore, and that allows him to relax somewhat. He exhales slowly, then gradually falls back into Study Mode again.

He's not sure how much time passes, but he has finally gotten some actual studying done, and is prepared to do more, when his door swings open again, catching him off guard and almost scaring him off of his chair. He yanks his headphones off, prepared to yell at this asshole for barging into his room again— but it's actually Glimmer this time.

She giggles at his reaction, then steps into the room and shuts the door behind her, leaning against it in a way that tells Bow she is very far away from sober.

"Shhh." She tells him, despite the fact that he has yet to make a sound, "I left— that guy was so boring! Can you believe that—,"

"Babe?!"

"Oh shit, he's coming." She giggles again and dives to the floor before Bow can even think up an adequate response, crawling underneath his desk and hiding there.

"Glimmer, you cannot be serious right now." He hisses. Why must he suffer this way?

"Cover for me!" She replies. Bow groans as the door swings open again, and this time it is the guy, likely looking for Glimmer.

"Hey, man. Have you seen Glimmer? I think she ditched me." There it is.

At the sound of her own name, Glimmer pokes Bow's leg, and he resists the urge to reflexively kick her.

"I think she did ditch you," He replies, as sympathetic as he can manage. "Sorry… dude."

The guy sighs. "See you around then. I'll let myself out." He leaves, closing the door behind him. The second he's gone, Bow pushes his chair away from the desk, and fixes Glimmer with a glare, which she promptly ignores as she crawls out from under it and gets to her feet.

"Thanks for that." She says, throwing her arms around him and enveloping him in a hug. "You're the best."

"And you're very drunk."

"Mhm." She stops hugging him, backing away and leaning against the door again. She must've left in a hurry— she's wearing a mix of an oversized shirt he gave her once and her sleep shorts. That's it. "I invited you to the party, but you said no! You wanted to stay here and keep being a nerd instead. With your nerd glasses."

"I have to study, Glimmer. I have finals coming up! Have you finished your papers yet?"

"I did not come here for you to talk to me about boring school stuff." She groans. "You should come to more parties with me! I miss you whenever you're not there."

Bow's expression softens. "You'd just end up ditching me when you went home with someone anyway."

He doesn't mean it maliciously, it's just the truth. Glimmer is allowed to have fun, and he can take care of himself. It's her he's worried about. It's why he puts up with the noises— he'd rather she come back here and have loud, annoying sex than go home with some creep and get hurt.

"Well nobody said you can't go home with someone!" Glimmer pauses, then frowns. "Come to think of it, have you ever gone home with someone?"

Bow avoids her gaze. “No, I haven’t.”

“Do you just meet up with people elsewhere, then? Ooh, have you got Tinder? Or Grindr? Or maybe both?”

“No. To all of those questions.”

“Huh.” She gives him an odd look, “I don’t even remember you dating anybody.”

That’s because he hasn’t. It’s college! He was too busy doing work. And pining over her, but she doesn’t need to know that.

“Bow…” Glimmer says, staring at him like she’s trying to solve a puzzle, “have you ever even—?” She shakes her head, then rewords her sentence. “Are you a virgin?”

The bluntness of the question catches him off guard and causes blood to rush to his cheeks, which is all the confirmation Glimmer needs, apparently.

She gasps. “You are!”

“It doesn’t matter.” He says dismissively. “Virginity is a social construct, I don’t need to have sex with people to prove my masculinity. I—,”

“Bullshit.” She interrupts. “I mean, you’re right, but like, c’mon. You must get horny.”

“Well—,”

“And what about, like, the college experience?” She gasps again. “Bow, you’re almost done with college and you’ve never even hooked up with someone!”

“Glimmer, is doesn’t matter.” He repeats, “I know it does to you, and I’m fine with that, but for me personally?” He shrugs, “it just never crossed my mind.”

“Are you asexual?”

He chuckles. “No, I definitely feel sexual attraction.” Especially to you. “I just… I was always busy, I guess. And now I’m fine with waiting for someone who’s chill with the fact that the most I’ve done is kissing.”

Glimmer pouts. “That’s not fair! I could find you someone!”

He gives her a fond smile. Even completely wasted, she cares about him. How could he not fall in love with her? “That isn’t necessary.”

“I could! A cute guy or girl. Maybe even one of each if you want! You’re really popular! I bet tons of people wanna fuck you!”

He blushes again. “Seriously, it’s not—,”

“Or, hell, I’m fairly experienced. I could show you the ropes.”

That stops him dead in his tracks. For a moment, he’s at a loss for words, just staring at her in disbelief.

“Y’know what? Yeah. Fuck it. Let’s do that.” She says it so casually, as if she hasn’t just flipped his entire world upside down. “I’ll be your personal sex tutor.”

“Glimmer, no.” He chokes out, as firmly as he can manage. “You’re my best friend, I—,”

“Exactly! I’m your best friend, and your first time should be with someone you trust.” She gestures to herself, “who do you trust more than me?”

Well, she has a point there. But still, no way. He can’t.

“Glimmer, you’re drunk.” He tries. At her disappointed look, he relents immediately. “I— okay, fine. I’ll— I’ll consider it. But we’re talking about this again in the morning, okay?”

Glimmer grins, hugging him tightly again. “Yay! You won’t regret this!”

Bow can’t help but laugh. She must be so drunk that she thinks that this is somehow a good idea. Yep, definitely. That’s the only explanation. Bow has long since accepted that Glimmer would never be interested in him, sexually or otherwise, and he’s fine with the occasional sex dream to be the only kind of sexual contact he ever gets with her. So… this? Clearly too far fetched to be genuine. It’s fine. He won’t hold it against her.

“Is the room spinning for you too? Or is it just me?” Glimmer asks, her voice muffled against his shoulder.

Bow sighs, gently ending the hug and getting to his feet. “C’mon, Glimmer. Let’s get you to bed.”

Getting To First Base

Bow goes to bed with the assumption that Glimmer will have forgotten their entire exchange by the morning.

This assumption is incorrect.

He's already awake when she finally rouses, a couple of painkillers and a glass of water waiting for her on his nightstand, which he watches her take gratefully. He's at his desk again, glasses on. He actually managed to get a decent amount of studying in this morning, so he's more than willing to get her a snack if she needs one.

"Fuck." Is the first thing she says once she's a little more awake. She rubs the sleep out of her eyes, then groans and hides her face in his pillow, so her next words come out muffled. "How drunk was I last night?"

"Extremely." Bow answers, recalling their… discussion.

"I had a dream where I was cuddling this super soft teddy bear. It was so comforting."

He chuckles. "Ah, so that's why you latched onto me in your sleep."

She shoots him a sheepish grin. "You are very comforting."

This has happened so many times, it's practically routine now. Bow can predict what Glimmer will do next before she actually does it. He knows that she'll stay in his bed for a few more minutes, waiting for the painkillers to kick in, and then she'll get up and drag herself to the bathroom to wash off last night's makeup, brush her teeth, and shower. Occasionally she'll throw up too if the hangover is really bad. By the time she has finished with all that, Bow will have made her breakfast, and he will then give her vaguely pleading looks until she caves and eats it because he knows how hungry she is, even if she's nauseous and won't admit it.

Sure enough, Glimmer does exactly that. No throwing up this time, thankfully. They don't usually talk while she eats, and while Bow has now moved to the dining table, he's still trying to study, even though he's probably allowed to take some sort of break now. This time, however, he can tell she wants to say something by how he can feel her watching him and being unintentionally distracting.

He glances up at her. "You okay?"

She takes a moment to answer, still chewing on a piece of food. She changed after her shower, but she's still dressed comfortably, in a loose-fitting shirt that's slightly too big on her and reveals that she's not wearing a bra when it falls a certain way. Not that Bow has noticed. It means she's not planning on going outside anytime soon.

"I'm just thinking." Is all she says.

"About?" Bow prompts.

She rests her chin on her hand, tapping on the table with her other. "Did I… say something along the lines of wanting to fuck you last night?"

Bow chokes on air, his face immediately reddening, and she smiles, her cheeks tinged pink.

"Yeah, thought so."

"I mean… I wouldn't word it like that." He says, his voice cracking at the end of his sentence. "But it doesn't matter anyway. You were drunk, we can just forget about it." Well, he will definitely be thinking about it for months, but whatever.

"Why do we have to forget about it?" She asks, frowning.

Bow clears his throat. "I- I mean… if you want to use it as a fun story to tell at parties, be my guest, but I just figured you'd be embarrassed since you didn't mean anything you said."

Glimmer looks down at her food, avoiding his gaze. A sign that she's about to be sincere.

"Look," she starts, "I'm not judging you for still being a virgin, or not having any… experience in that field. I'm sorry if I came across that way, I didn't mean to. You know drunk me can be a bitch sometimes."

"So can sober you." He teases, unable to resist. Glimmer rolls her eyes and flips him off playfully.

"Anyway, as I was saying," she continues, "if I said anything mean, I didn't mean it. But… I wasn't kidding when I— when I made that offer."

For a moment, Bow just stares at her. Unsure if he should laugh or not. Keeping a joke going isn't really Glimmer's thing, but apparently that's what's happening here.

"Very funny." He replies eventually.

Glimmer sighs. "I'm not joking, Bow. I— I wanna do this for you, if you'll let me. Not that— that sex is like, a transaction or whatever, I just mean…" she groans, "fuck, I suck at these kind of conversations."

"Glimmer, I—,"

"Shut up and let me finish." She clears her throat and takes a deep breath. "I know you, okay? We've never talked about it, but I'm gonna bet that one of the reasons you've never done anything is because you're a hopeless romantic and you're probably waiting for the perfect night with a bed covered in rose petals and candles and shit."

Bow gives her a look. She's right, but she doesn't have to say it.

"And I know that I was right in saying that your first time should be with someone you trust. And I want to be that person, for you. I mean, I'm no sex expert or anything, but I know what I'm doing, and I think it could be fun."

She smiles at him, and Bow has effectively been rendered speechless by her twice in less than twenty-four hours.

"I—," he hates that this is such a difficult decision to make. Because he wants to say yes. God, he wants to. But… he has all these stupid feelings that will likely get in the way. Feelings that Glimmer cannot know about. "No… Glimmer, we— I can't…"

There's that disappointed look again. It must be genuine, because there's no way she'd try to guilt trip him into this. Not when she could have anyone else she wanted.

"Bow, I know I'm a bit of a slut, but I don't like, have anything. I'm always safe, we would be safe. I can go and get tested before — I even have the results from my last test and I can show you —,"

"What?! Glimmer, I'm not worried about getting an STD from you!"

She seems relieved at that admission, but then confusion takes over her features. "But then… why…?"

Bow hesitates, because aside from the feelings thing, he can't really find a good reason for why he's actually against this. He searches for one… but no. He wants this, he just doesn't want to admit it. He never thought he'd need to.

When he takes too long to reply, Glimmer sighs.

"It's fine. Just forget I ever mentioned it." She tries to joke, "I'll survive without you, I'll just invite the guy from last night over—,"

"No!" The word is out of Bow's mouth before he can stop it, and Glimmer even jumps at the suddenness of it. "Glimmer, I don't have a problem with you sleeping around, but please, you can do so much better."

She raises an eyebrow. "I didn't realise you had such an issue with my taste in sexual partners."

He groans. "Not— not all of them, just… I just don't want you to be having sex with people that don't care about— about making it good for you."

"And… what?" She says, a smirk gradually making its way onto her face, "you think you could do better?"

Bow swallows, fully aware that he has dug himself into a hole. "I… definitely think I care about you enough to prioritise your… needs."

Glimmer nods slowly. "Uh-huh. Remind me, why shouldn't we fuck?"

"Um…"

"Yeah… you've kinda just made me want to do it more now. Since you're apparently such an attentive lover."

"I—,"

"Just say yes or no, Bow."

He hesitates. "Fine. Yes. We will do this dumb… sex tutor thing. But, if we do, I also want you to start working on your papers. Please."

Glimmer whines, but nods. "Deal."

A few days pass. Nothing happens.

Bow isn't entirely sure what he expected. Maybe not for Glimmer to just jump his bones right there over breakfast, but not nothing either. They've mostly been carrying on as usual. Studying, working, stressing over finals. Glimmer has finally started working on one of her papers, and she hasn't gone to any parties either. Bow would be concerned at her sudden change in behaviour if he didn't already know the cause of it.

Most days, they cuddle up on their sofa and watch shitty Netflix movies until they get either too bored or too tired to continue. It's just a way for them to wind down and get a break from the chaos that is college, and spend some quality time together.

They're halfway through the second movie when Glimmer suddenly grabs the remote and presses pause, turning to face him. Aside from sending him articles about preparing for your first sexual experience over text, most likely to fluster him deliberately, she hasn't mentioned their agreement at all. It's kept him a little on edge.

"I wanted us to talk about this." She explains at his look of confusion. "Before we do anything. Just… set some ground rules."

Bow nods. "Okay."

"So, uh… you can back out at any time, obviously. I don't just mean the agreement, I mean… anything we end up doing. And I wanted to take things slow… I don't wanna overwhelm you, or anything."

He nods again.

"So… I thought we could start with some kissing?"

Oh. Oh.

"Now?" He squeaks.

"If you want to."

"I— um— okay."

Glimmer smiles, and Bow awkwardly turns his body to face her.

She puts her hand on his thigh, and that simple point of contact should not send heat rushing through his body. "Is this okay?"

"Y- Yeah." He swallows nervously.

"Okay…" she chuckles quietly, "…I'm gonna kiss you now."

She waits for him to give another okay, and then she leans in and presses her lips against his. Bow isn't sure what he expects, but it certainly exceeds all of his expectations. None of the fantasies he's had before could ever live up to the real thing. Especially when Glimmer tentatively deepens the kiss.

Bow doesn't know much about kissing, but he knows you're supposed to move your lips against the other person's, and that sometimes there's tongue involved. He mainly follows Glimmer's lead, and he must be doing something right, because she makes a pleased sound when he finally gets enough confidence to start kissing her back properly.

And… he's hard. Well.

Glimmer's the first to pull away, although she seems reluctant about it, and Bow fights the urge to lean back in for another kiss.

"Wow." She says quietly. "You're a good kisser."

"I am?" He asks.

"Mhm. That's a good sign."

"It is?"

Glimmer laughs breathlessly. "Yes… you're adorable."

She means that platonically. Bow tells himself immediately.

"Anyway, we can continue that lesson some other time," she continues, sitting back, "back to the movie, I guess."

She picks up the remote and presses play again, and Bow doesn't take in any information about the rest of the film. He's far too preoccupied with recalling the feeling of her lips on his.

Boobs, And What To Do With Them

Chapter Notes

> Fun drinking game: take a shot every time you see the words "boob(s)" or "nipple(s)" lmfao.

Bow cannot stop thinking about kissing Glimmer.

They've kissed multiple times since the first, and wow. If he thought he had it bad for her before, it's nothing compared to the way he feels about her now. If he isn't busy and distracting himself, he's thinking about Glimmer. Glimmer's lips, Glimmer's smile, Glimmer's laugh. The way she sounds when she's teasing him. The way she looks when they're coming down from a heated make-out session.

It probably doesn't help that he hasn't… engaged in any forms of self pleasure since this started. Mainly because he knows that if he does, he'll think about her, and that feels wrong somehow. Like he's violated her trust or something. Even though he knows that's also dumb because it's not like she'd ever find out, but still.

Aside from the occasional make-out sessions, things are normal between them. They still have movie nights, Glimmer still sleeps in his bed more often than her own, and Bow is still silently pining over her, as usual.

Glimmer catches him after dinner one day, before he can sneak back to his room and pretend he's studying and not just thinking about her. She doesn't say a word, just leads him to her bedroom and then closes the door. It's safe to say that Bow is terrified.

"You don't need to look so scared!" Glimmer laughs. She climbs onto her bed and sits right in the middle, patting the space opposite. Her room is a mess and usually Bow would clean it for her, but he's deliberately been avoiding it as of late. He steps over several pieces of clothing strewn on the floor and joins her.

"So…" she says, looking excited. He can't believe she's actually enjoying this. "I thought we could… move onto the next lesson, if that's okay with you?"

"Y- Yeah. Sure." He says, his voice cracking.

"Okay, cool." And then they're kissing.

See, this he's much calmer about, because he knows how to kiss and he knows that Glimmer enjoys how he kisses her, and even though it makes his heart go absolutely wild in his chest, he can cope with that. Somewhat.

What he isn't calm about, is Glimmer taking one of his hands and placing it on her chest. Over her boob. His hand is on her boob. He might die.

It's over her shirt, and he can feel that she's wearing a bra, but still. Boob.

God, he feels like a horny teenage boy.

Glimmer pulls away, forcing his hand to fall from her chest, and then she pulls her shirt off.

And… he's hard. This is embarrassing.

It's not like he's never even seen her in a bra before. They live together. They've miraculously avoided walking in on each other naked, but they've definitely seen each other in their underwear. Yet here he is, rock hard from seeing his best friend in a bra. Jesus.

"Are you okay?" She's giving him an amused look.

"Uh-huh." He says dumbly.

"You can keep touching them if you want." She tells him, "I'm gonna kiss your neck now, 'kay?"

"O- Okay."

Glimmer doesn't go straight for his neck, she kisses his lips once, then his cheek, then moves to just below his ear and trails kisses down from there. Bow exhales shakily, his eyes closing. Glimmer is… really good at kissing his neck. It's not just kissing either, sometimes she nibbles, which makes him shiver but like, in a good way. It's mainly contributing to the situation he's got going on downstairs.

Glimmer's hands slide up his stomach, sneaking under the hem of his crop top, and then she tugs at it and pulls away, silently asking if she can remove it. He raises his arms and lets her, and then her mouth is back on his neck again, moving lower until she reaches his collarbones.

Bow doesn't know what to say, or do. His breathing is noticeably heavier, and he almost wants to beg Glimmer, like, please, move your kisses lower. Way lower. But he doesn't, too afraid of scaring her off.

"There." She says quietly, pulling away. The spot she was focusing on feels tender, and he brushes his fingers over it. "I gave you a hickey. Is that okay? You can't see it if you're wearing clothes."

He nods. "Th- That's fine. Yeah. It felt good."

She smirks. "Okay, so now you just do that… to me. Well, not exactly that, but I'm sure you have a general idea, right?"

Another nod. "Oh, and… do you wanna try taking my bra off? Or should I?"

"Y- You're taking it off?" He chokes on air again.

Glimmer chuckles. "Yeah, I really like it when people touch my boobs so… I thought I'd give you a lesson in that as well."

"I- I mean… I can try." He reaches around and starts fiddling with the clasp on her bra, and… there is no way he's getting this off.

“Why is this so difficult?”

She laughs again and bats his hands away, getting it off herself in an instant, and then… she’s no longer wearing a bra. Again, he might die.

“C’mon then… work your magic,” she teases, “since you’re so good at fulfilling my needs, or whatever.”

So… Bow leans in and starts kissing her neck. He worries that it’ll be awkward, and that he won’t know what to do, but he finds that it mostly comes naturally. Glimmer is also quite vocal, which helps him work out whether or not what he’s doing actually feels good for her.

This time, he moves his hand to her chest himself, and in that moment he decides that he loves boobs and would die happy if he suddenly had a heart attack right now. Which may very well happen, considering how fast his heart is beating.

“I, um, I like it when…” Glimmer sounds breathless, and Bow assumes that means she’s enjoying this. “…when people like, rub their thumbs over my nipples.” Bow does so, and Glimmer moans quietly, “Y- Yeah. Like that. Fuck.”

He gives her a hickey. It’s only fair, after all. Once he’s finished, he pulls away, and the look she gives him makes him feel hot all over.

His hands are still on her boobs, and he circles her nipples with his thumbs, watching as she bites her lip.

“Y- You can use your mouth, if you want.” She says quietly, as if she expects him to refuse the offer.

Bow leans back in and leaves a trail of kisses, starting at her neck and leading down to her breasts, then takes one of her nipples into his mouth, continuing to trace the other with his thumb. Glimmer moans, spurring him on, and he switches to her other nipple once he’s satisfied with the amount of attention he’s given the first.

Glimmer runs her fingers through his hair, occasionally tightening her grip slightly when he does something specific with his tongue. When he pulls away again, she immediately tugs him back in for an intense kiss, one that he gladly reciprocates.

He has been vaguely aware of how aroused he is ever since Glimmer put his hand on her chest, but the actual frustration only really hits him once they're done kissing, and he no longer has a way to distract himself.

"Y- You're really good with your mouth." Glimmer praises. "Like, really good."

"Thanks." Bow says bashfully.

"I- I'm serious. That felt amazing." She bites her lip, then smirks. "Any sensitive parts of you I should know about? So I can repay the favour?"

He shakes his head. "I- I don't know of any."

"Maybe I can touch you then?"

Bow hesitates. He doesn't think he'll be able to handle that right now. Not that the touching would last very long anyway, considering how wound up he is. "I think I'll just… take a cold shower."

There's that disappointed look again. "Oh, okay." Glimmer says, recovering quickly, "well, I was gonna kick you out pretty soon anyway. Me and my vibrator have important matters to see to."

Bow raises an eyebrow, climbing off of the bed. "You own a vibrator?"

"I own several." Glimmer tells him, "maybe I'll introduce you to them in one of your future lessons."

"Really?"

"Sure, if you want. Now get out, unless you wanna watch me get myself off."

Bow pauses at her words, making her give him an amused look. He opens his mouth to defend himself, feeling his cheeks reddening, but ultimately just decides to leave before he can embarrass himself further.

He mainly meant the cold shower thing as a joke, but it becomes clear to him that he's not going to get rid of his arousal just by thinking unsexy thoughts, not with his previous activities with Glimmer fresh on his mind.

He gets his stuff together and heads for the shower, stripping off and turning the water on. He gets in while it's still warm, and he knows he should turn it to cold but…

Bow leans against the wall, closing his eyes. He really shouldn't get himself off in the shower. There's no law against doing so, of course, and he'd be lying if he said he'd never done it before, but that was before his crush on Glimmer had evolved into something all-consuming. Back then, he didn't have to worry about fantasising about his best friend, because he was able to distract himself by just thinking of literally any of his celebrity crushes.

But… he can't stop thinking about Glimmer's boobs, how soft they felt in his hands, the sounds she made while he touched them. Or how turned on he managed to get her, and what she's probably doing right now with the vibrator she apparently owns.

Okay, so, he gives in. But it's fine, it's normal, healthy… and it's not like Glimmer will ever find out. He definitely doesn't have to fight the urge to say her name during.

He also definitely doesn't let himself wonder, for a very brief moment, if there's a chance that she's thinking of him, too.

Receiving A Blowjob 101

Chapter Notes

Here be smut

"How was your cold shower the other day?" Glimmer teases, grinning when Bow goes bright red in response.

"Cold." He deadpans, and she rolls her eyes, casually climbing into his lap and obscuring his view of the movie they're supposed to be watching. "Do you mind?"

He feels like he should be used to this by now. Their Netflix and chill nights have been seeing a lot more chill than Netflix as of late, and the only person that is continuously surprised by it is him.

"Rude." She replies, although he can tell that she took no actual offence to what he said. "I hope you don't treat every girl that climbs into your lap like this."

Conversations like this are why interacting with Glimmer has been especially difficult as of late. She flirts with him like, all of the time. On one hand, he certainly enjoys it, and flirting back is sometimes almost shockingly easy (until she inevitably says something a little too risqué and he transforms into a blushing mess). On the other, it almost feels like she's taunting him. Not deliberately of course, but it's just yet another reminder of how much he wants something from her that he can't have.

"So, why'd you take so long in the shower?" She continues when he doesn't respond, and Bow gives her a wide-eyed look that makes her laugh. "Relax! I'm just messing with you… although you definitely just gave yourself away."

Bow groans while she continues laughing at him. "Do we have to talk about this?"

"Well, no obviously. If you're uncomfortable, you know I'll stop. But we're friends, right? We talk about sex and stuff."

She's right. Or, half-right, at least. They do talk about sex, but it's not like it's something that comes up particularly often. Mainly because Bow doesn't exactly have much to talk about. Or at least he didn't before… this mess.

"Did you think of me?"

He chokes, "Glimmer, what? No, I—,"

"It'd be fine if you did." She interrupts his rambling, "I mean, I assume it's not a regular thing, right?"

Thankfully, she doesn't actually let him attempt to answer that before continuing, "I'm not gonna be like, weirded out by it. It just makes sense, right? I get you riled up, so I'm on your mind when you deal with it afterwards." She shrugs, "friends think about each other while they get off all the time."

He raises an eyebrow, "do they, though?"

She sighs, "okay, so maybe not all friends, but I've definitely thought about you before, and considering what we're doing… I'm not exactly gonna be surprised if you've done the same."

Bow's brain short-circuits at that revelation. Glimmer has thought of him before? Glimmer. His best friend and long-term crush, has thought of him during masturbation? Before? As in, prior to their agreement? What?

"What?" He chokes out.

She blinks at him. "Bow, do you think I'd be doing this if I wasn't at least partially sexually attracted to you? You're hot as fuck."

He blushes. "I wouldn't say that."

She rolls her eyes. "You are. We'd make one hot ass couple if we were together."

At that, his eyes widen, and so do hers once she seems to realise what she said.

"Sorry. Forget I said that. Anyway, it's not a big deal, is what I'm saying. You're not even the only friend I've thought of."

Right, okay. That's simultaneously relieving and upsetting to hear. It helps him deal with the revelation a little better and not get his hopes up, but also the hopes that he did have were just shattered like glass.

He decides to change the subject. "What are we doing today, Professor Moon?"

"Professor Moon, huh? Kinky." She jokes, and he rolls his eyes. "I wanted to… y'know. Maybe touch you, a little. If you'll let me."

He can already feel his cheeks heating up. "Like, above the belt, or?"

"Below it, preferably. Again, this is only if you're comfortable."

He swallows nervously, "and… what will I learn from that, exactly?"

"Well, if you let me go down on you, you'll get a lesson in 'how to receive a blowjob and enjoy it while also being mindful of your partner'."

"You wanna…" He must be dreaming, surely.

"You can say no." She reminds him, "there is absolutely no pressure. I promise I won't die if you don't let me suck your dick."

He chuckles despite the nerves he currently feels, and has a short lived internal debate with himself before ultimately giving in and nodding.

"You can uh, do it." He says awkwardly.

Glimmer smiles and leans down and kisses him quickly, taking him by surprise. "Do you need any help getting turned on?"

In all honesty, he's about halfway there already, but he nods anyway because he really doesn't want Glimmer to know that he's half-hard just at the mere prospect of her giving him a blowjob.

"Okay, well… you've heard of grinding, right?"

"Yeah."

"Great, so…" Glimmer rocks her hips against his, and he gasps. "Is that okay?"

"Yes."

"Okay, good." She presses down harder and keeps moving her hips, and then she kisses him, and they quickly devolve into a mixture of kissing and grinding, occasionally gasping and moaning against each other's mouths.

After several minutes pass, it becomes clear that this isn't just serving as a way to quickly get him fully hard. Glimmer is grinding against him almost desperately, and he can't help but imagine how she'd move on top of him if there weren't several layers of clothing between them.

She slows to a stop a moment later, looking almost as turned on as she did the other day. She runs a hand through her hair and sits back, taking a deep breath.

"Sorry, I got a little carried away there."

Bow laughs breathlessly, "not complaining."

He's thankful that she doesn't focus on that and instead climbs off of his lap and sinks to her knees in front of him. Bow is completely unprepared for such a sight and immediately redirects his attention to the nearby remote and turns the movie off.

When he finally manages to keep his eyes on her without feeling like he's going to die, she gives him an expectant look.

"You've gotta take your pants off if you want me to do this, I'm good, but I'm not that good." She says after a moment.

Bow blushes immediately, fiddling with his jeans and tugging them down his hips. He hesitates once he reaches the waistband of his underwear, feeling oddly self-conscious.

"I don't care about the size." Glimmer tells him, as if she read his mind. "I promise."

It's a little reassuring, and he tugs his boxers down before he can spiral any further. Glimmer doesn't react at all, besides moving closer and wrapping her hand around it.

"I will say one thing." She says, "you have a nice dick."

And… he's laughing, likely from a mixture of nerves and the absurdity of that compliment. Glimmer waits for him to calm down, and he hides his face in his hands as soon as he does, blushing so hard his face feels like it's on fire.

"Oh, God. What am I doing?" He mumbles to himself.

"Can I start now?" She teases, and he looks back up at her and nods.

She leans closer, her tongue darting out and tentatively brushing against the tip, which doesn't feel like much, but makes his thighs tremble as he digs his nails into the couch. She smirks at his reaction, then puts the head in her mouth.

"Oh." He gasps. That feels like something. An overwhelming, almost-too-good-to-bear something. Glimmer starts moving her head slowly, and Bow moans, his hips jerking as his body searches for more pleasure. He can't believe this is happening right now.

To his dismay, she pulls off almost immediately, although she keeps moving her hand.

"You've gotta be careful with your hips," she tells him, and it's then that he remembers that oh yeah, this is a sex lesson thing and not one of my long time sexual fantasies come to life.

"Sorry."

"I personally don't mind it, but some people might."

"So have I gotta… control them?"

"Not with me," she moves closer again, and his breath hitches, "just keep it in mind, for future partners."

She puts him back in her mouth, and he moans louder, his eyes closing because he cannot handle the sight of Glimmer pleasuring him right now. She makes a noise that he can't decipher but definitely feels, the vibrations from the sound only adding to his pleasure and making him moan again.

Glimmer pulls off of him again, and he whines in protest.

"Calm down, I'm not stopping, I just need a break." She chuckles, still moving her hand at a steady pace. Bow daringly opens his eyes and looks down at her, only to find her staring right back at him. She smirks at him and leans in to press a kiss to the tip of his dick.

"You're gonna kill me." He groans.

"At least you'll die happy." She teases.

Then her mouth is on him again, and she takes more of him in this time, making him gasp and instinctively reach for her hair before catching himself. Glimmer notices and reaches up to tug one of his hands back, placing it on her head, and Bow laces his fingers in her hair and fights the urge to thrust up into her mouth.

She moves her head faster, her tongue pressing against all of his sensitive spots, and it's embarrassing, but this is going to be over any second now, even though he doesn't want it to be.

"Glimmer, I- I'm close." He warns. She makes a sound of acknowledgment, keeping her mouth on him, and then he's coming, tightening his grip on her hair and moaning as the pleasure intensifies before gradually fizzling out.

He feels boneless once he starts coming down. Lying back and sinking into the couch. He opens his eyes as she joins him, sitting next to him and just watching him silently as he tries to recover from… that.

"Was that good?" She asks.

"Uh-huh." He takes a breath. "You didn't have to… y'know."

"Swallow?" He nods. "I don't mind it, it's the least messy option, so…" she shrugs.

He awkwardly pulls his underwear and jeans back on, and then it hits him what just happened. Glimmer… made him come. With her mouth. Holy shit.

"Do you… need anything?" He asks.

"If you're alright with touching me…"

"I am."

She seems surprised at his answer, but straddles him again easily. "Okay then, next lesson. Are you alright with me kissing you?"

He frowns, "why wouldn't I be?"

"Because you just came in my mouth."

“Oh.” Right, that just happened. It still kinda feels like a very vivid dream.

“Some guys get grossed out by it, others are into it.” She explains, “I don’t really care either way, but I want you to be comfortable.”

“You can kiss me.”

She smiles and does so, slowly moving her hips against him again, and then she grabs his hand and places it at the waistband of her shorts.

“I want you to touch me here,” she says quietly, “is that okay?”

Bow just stares at her dumbly for a moment before managing to snap out of it and nod.

“Okay, go ahead,” she gives him an amused look, “I assume that I don’t have to tell you what a clit is and that you should focus on it?”

“No,” he chuckles breathlessly, “I know that much.”

He slides his hand into her shorts, and then her underwear, miraculously finding her clit after a few seconds of searching and moving his fingers against it, making her gasp and hide her face in his neck.

“That’s it…” he rubs a little harder and she cries out, ”yes. Fuck. Faster, please.”

Bow obeys, moving his fingers faster despite the difficulty of the angle, and Glimmer moans, moving her hips to grind against his hand.

It doesn’t take her long to get back into her earlier headspace, gasping at every brush of his fingers and grinding desperately against him. Bow has no idea what he’s doing, but it must be good because her moans continue to raise in pitch and volume, jumbled sentences of praise and curses falling from her lips.

“Yes, fuck. Don’t stop.” She begs, and Bow does as she asks, continuing to move his fingers until she cries out and shudders against him and only slowing them when she finally seems to relax.

He removes his hand from her pants. Holy shit.

“Holy fuck.” Glimmer says breathlessly.

“Was that okay?” He asks, and she gives him an incredulous look.

“Okay? That was amazing. Wow.” She climbs off of his lap and returns to her original place beside him.

He turns to look at her, and she opens her mouth to say something, but then seems to decide against it.

“Do you remember what movie we were watching?” She says instead. And Bow can’t help but feel like they’ve just crossed some invisible boundary, and that there’s no turning back for them now.

The Secrets To Cunnilingus

Chapter Notes

> helloooo sorry for the late update, my life has been hectic. anyway i hope you enjoy!

"Cookie?"

Glimmer glances up from where she's working on her paper and smiles at Bow's outstretched hands, a bag of chocolate chip cookies in one and a cup holder occupied by two cups of coffee from Starbucks in the other. One for each of them. Hers is her exact order, as usual.

"You are literally the best." She says, as he places them down. She grabs the cookies and immediately digs in.

"I do hear that quite a lot, yeah." He muses, and she rolls her eyes and shoves him playfully. He picks up his own coffee and sips, sighing. "I had a final today."

"Ouch. How'd it go?"

"Okay, I think." He frowns. "One less thing I need to study for, I guess."

"You definitely aced it." She tells him easily. "You look stressed, though."

"Well, yeah. It was a difficult exam, and I still have more to go." He avoids her gaze, fidgeting with the lid on his coffee cup.

He hasn't been able to stop thinking about the comment she made about them being a hot couple. He wants to bring it up, and almost has on several occasions, but… what would be the point? It would likely just make things awkward. It was an odd comment that didn't mean anything. Glimmer was just being nice. He should stop overthinking. And yet…

“Well… if you want to destress…” she says slowly, a mischievous glint in her eye. “…we still have a couple more lessons to get through.”

He rolls his eyes. There it is. Glimmer flirting with him. That plus her admission that she finds him attractive, even though it’s not the exact kind of attraction he wants, literally fills him with so much excitement it should be embarrassing.

“Are you trying to seduce me?” He teases.

“Is it working?” She asks, raising an eyebrow. “If you haven’t noticed, I haven’t gone out since we started doing this. I’m all pent up.”

That makes him pause. He thinks back— and she’s right. Since they started their… arrangement, Glimmer hasn’t gone out to any parties, or brought anyone back to sleep with. Which is very unlike her.

“What happened to the college experience?”

She falters, apparently not expecting him to ask, and then shrugs. “Hooking up with people is fun, but takes a lot of effort. I’ve gotta get dressed up and go out and blah, blah, blah. You’re right here.”

“Oh.” That makes sense, he supposes. It’d be unfair if she didn’t also get something out of this too, after all. He’s not sure why that makes his heart hurt so much.

“What kind of teacher would I be if I kept blowing you off to sleep with other people?” She jokes, but it comes out weakly, and there’s an odd tension in the air that wasn’t there previously.

Bow glances at her computer screen, “are you almost done?” He asks, changing the subject.

Glimmer seems relieved at him doing so, and nods. “Yeah, I’m just over halfway.”

“Okay, well…” he glances around at her mess of a room. “I think I’m gonna clean while you finish that.”

“But…” she starts, and then stops. “…yeah, sure, okay.”

He leaves the room, and doesn’t think about it.

He plays music instead, and busies himself with tidying their shockingly messy living space. They’ve really been slacking with it recently, but in their defence, they’ve been super busy too.

By the time he’s done cleaning, with only Glimmer’s room left to finish, it’s around dinner time, so he starts cooking immediately after.

Glimmer appears from her room while he’s doing so, and they don’t talk at first, but she sits on the counter like she usually does while he cooks, and eventually they fall into a conversation.

They eat together as usual, and things feel significantly less tense than before. They don’t talk about the weird atmosphere they had in Glimmer’s bedroom, and eventually they’re back to normal. Mostly.

“So… about that lesson.” Glimmer says, and Bow rolls his eyes.

“We should clean your room first.” He tells her, although this time he’s not avoiding her as much as making her wait.

She groans. “Fine.”

He likes this. With the two of them tidying her room together, he can almost pretend that they’re a couple. The flirty banter between them only strengthening that fantasy.

She whacks him playfully with a t-shirt she picked up, making him laugh, so he retaliates by tickling her, obviously. And when she tries to squirm away he just picks her up like he always does, and then they fall onto the bed, with Bow narrowly avoiding falling directly on top of her.

It feels cliché. But they're laughing and for a moment he forgets that they're not actually together and leans down and kisses her.

It's only after he pulls away that he remembers that this isn't real. To Glimmer, at least. And there's that ache in his heart again.

"Sorry." He says sheepishly, but Glimmer is just giving him an amused look.

"You're allowed to kiss me." She tells him. "While we're doing this thing, I mean. It's about time for your next lesson, anyway."

"But we're not done cleaning."

"Fuck cleaning." And then they're kissing again.

"Lesson… number…" Glimmer mumbles between kisses, but then she stops him from going in for another and frowns. "Fuck, what lesson number are we on again?"

"No idea." Bow answers honestly; he hasn't been counting.

"Whatever, um. You wanna maybe try…?" She nods downwards, like he's supposed to know what that means.

"Try what?"

She sighs. "Well, I went down on you last time, so I thought…"

It clicks. "Oh."

"If that's not your thing, it's fine. But—,"

"No, no. I'll— yeah. I'll do it."

"Okay, cool." She squirms out from under him and starts undressing her lower half, and Bow allows his eyes to linger on her thighs as she pulls her underwear down her legs.

He figures that this will be easier if he's on his knees and she's at the edge of the bed, so that's the position he gets into. Glimmer seems to get the idea, scooting down to meet him, and then she starts laughing.

"Sorry— this is just. It's kinda crazy, if you think about it."

"Yeah?"

"You're about to— to go down on me, and it's just. We're best friends. I never thought…" she trails off. "It doesn't matter. C'mon."

He moves closer, and she spreads her legs for him, and it hits him then that he has no clue what he's doing.

"I…"

"I like it when people kiss my thighs first." She says helpfully. And well, he can definitely do that, so he leans in and starts littering kisses along one of her inner thighs. "B- But everyone's different. So you should probably… ask whoever you're sleeping with."

He moves to the other thigh once he's done with the first, and Glimmer moves even closer to the edge of the bed, which makes him feel like he's doing a good job.

Once he's done with her other thigh, he kisses her lower stomach, and her breath hitches.

"Good?" He checks.

"Please keep going."

"Going where?" He moves back to one of her thighs, trying to hide a mischievous smile. "Here?"

"Y- You know where." She whines. "Don't tease me."

"I don't know what I'm doing, remember? You've gotta instruct me."

"Fuck. Okay. Y- Your tongue. Use it."

Oh, he's enjoying this. "Where?"

She makes a frustrated sound, then reaches down and shows him. "Here."

He could keep playing dumb, but… he can't resist the urge to make her feel good. So, he leans in and does exactly as she asks.

Glimmer gasps, "Y- Yeah. Like that. Please."

He manages to get the hang of this quickly, using Glimmer's sounds to judge whether she enjoys what he's doing or not. She gets louder when his tongue brushes against her clit, so he focuses there, and she reaches down and grips his hair tightly.

He really, really likes this. Maybe a little too much. He likes that Glimmer keeps tugging his hair, reminding him that he's doing a good job. He likes the way she tells him what to do, and the way she tastes, and God, the sounds she's making.

"O- Okay, um." She says breathlessly, "u- use your fingers, please? Two, use— use two."

Bow pulls away and slides two fingers inside of her, moving them slowly, then speeding up when Glimmer whines impatiently.

"Y- Yes." She moans. "Fuck, I- I need both. Give me both please?"

Bow leans in and sucks on her clit, swirling his tongue around it while increasing the pace of his fingers. Glimmer gasps again, getting her legs over his shoulders so he's as close as he can get, now able to feel her thighs shaking.

"Fuck. Yes, like that. I- I'm gonna come, please don't stop."

Bow doesn't stop, and Glimmer moans and cries out as she reaches her climax, pulling his hair harder as he helps her ride it out. He keeps going until she switches to pushing his head away, making him chuckle.

“N- No more, you’ll kill me. Holy shit.” She’s absolutely gorgeous. All sweaty and flushed and catching her breath. He would do that to her every day if he could, just to hear the sounds she makes and watch her comedown afterwards. “You are so good at that. What the fuck.”

“I am?” Bow can’t help but smile at her words.

“Yes, you dork.”

“Okay.” He finally manages to tear his eyes away from her. “I’m gonna go… wash off.”

She chuckles. “I’ll repay the favour once you get back. I’m serious. That was… that was amazing.”

He gets up and goes to the bathroom, and if he can’t wipe a dumb grin off of his face once he shuts the door, nobody has to know.

A Complete Guide To Your First Time

Chapter Notes

I'm alive!!

Big thanks to TippenFunkaport for helping me sort out some minor issues I had with this chapter!!

Bow gets home after his second final of the day, feeling absolutely drained and just wanting to crawl into bed and sleep for three days. He plans to at least attempt to do so, but Glimmer corners him the second he steps through the door, making him raise an eyebrow.

“We need to talk.” She says ominously, which immediately makes him feel nervous. Although she looks excited, so it can’t be something too bad. He hopes.

"So,” she says as they sit down on the sofa. “I’m free all day tomorrow. Are you?”

“I mean, I was planning to study, but—,”

“Okay, so you’re free. Good. We’re staying in all night, and you’re not cooking. I wanna order pizza.”

He gives her a confused look. They never order pizza unless they’re celebrating something. “What’s the occasion?”

“Alright, I know it technically isn’t a big deal and it’s a social construct and whatever but I know that it’s something that you care about, so…”

“So…?”

“We’re gonna… y’know.” She nudges him, “do it. Have sex. If you want. I mean, technically we’ve had sex a couple times now but…

we've never done it the traditional way— if that's what you call it? —so…"

"Oh." His eyes widen. Holy shit.

"We don't have to!" Glimmer reminds him. "I get it if you don't! This is a big deal to you! Just tell me if you want to or not and if you do…"

"I want to." He says quickly, before he can hesitate or overthink or second-guess himself. Glimmer looks way happier than he thought she would at the idea of having sex with him. But he reminds himself that there's no way things would've gone this far if she wasn't at least enjoying it a little.

That's one of the many pros of this messy situation. He knows Glimmer doesn't have feelings for him, but he also knows she wants to keep having sex with him. Meaning that he must be at least a little good at sex. And y'know what? He'll take that.

"Right, so I've picked out an outfit for you—,"

"Wait, what?" He cuts her off.

"Let me finish! I've picked out an outfit for you, and now you can go and pick one out for me. Lingerie and all."

"You… want me to choose your clothes?"

"Just this once!"

"Okay…"

"Right, so go!" She nudges him in the general direction of her bedroom, and he gets up and makes his way over there, with her following closely behind.

He enters the room and finds that she's organised all of her lingerie sets for him. He didn't even know she owned lingerie. He can faintly recall her wearing lacy underwear the few times he saw her in it but in all honesty he wasn't really paying her clothing much attention.

He can feel her eyes on him, so he ignores how weird the whole situation is and goes for a matching plain lavender purple set, one that he thinks she'll look pretty in— not that she wouldn't look pretty in all of the options.

"Good choice." She murmurs behind him, gathering up the rejected sets and putting them away. "Now for my actual outfit. You don't have to plan the whole thing if you don't want to."

He hesitates. "Why am I doing this, again?"

"Imagine if you could choose what you get to take off of the person you most want to have sex with in the world, right before you get to have sex with them."

"Donatello doesn't really wear clothes." He jokes, and she hits his arm.

"Gonna ignore that you just implied you want to fuck one of the ninja turtles and direct you to my closet." She sighs, although there's a hint of fondness in it that he knows to pick up on, "also, just a tip? If you want more people to have sex with you, never say that again."

He laughs nervously, both at her words and what she expects of him.

"C'mon," she encourages, "there must be something that you think I look hot as fuck in."

He hesitates again before going over the her closet and looking through it. He thinks she looks hot in all of her clothes, especially the ones that used to belong to him, but he thinks offering her his shirt would make his feelings extremely obvious.

He's just about to give up when something catches his eye. It's an old dress that she wore years ago, on a day when the weather was on the sunnier side and they drove for hours until they got to the beach, and then got ice cream and sunbathed and played in the ocean until they had to start heading back. It was the day his feelings for her really hit him full force. He'd known that he liked her for a while before then, but seeing her in that dress, laughing and just looking so happy with him… it really solidified that he didn't just like her platonically anymore.

He picks out the dress, holding it up in front of him. It's a pink mesh V-neck, and covered in strawberries, some of which sparkle when the light hits them just right.

"Oh, that?" Glimmer says, sounding surprised, "God, I haven't worn that since…"

"We went to the beach." He finishes for her.

"I can't believe you remember that. It was so long ago." She takes it from him, "I could never wear it around here, it's too cold. I don't even know why I brought it."

"I choose that one." He says quietly.

She gives him a look he can't place. "You know I can't wear the bra you chose with this, right? I'd have to go without."

"That's fine."

"I—, okay." She glances at the dress again, then back at him. "Huh. Sure. I'll wear it."

"Are you… okay?" He checks.

"Yeah, I'm… I'm fine. That's everything, right?"

It's like her usual confidence has dissipated, replaced by something else. She's staring at the dress like she's trying to figure something out.

"Yeah." He answers, "that's everything."

The doorbell rings, and Bow gets up to answer it because he hasn't seen Glimmer since she made him go and change.

He's still not sure why she picked the outfit she did for him. It's one of his shorter crop tops, a pair of his admittedly fancier pants, and his glasses. That's it. The glasses are especially confusing, because he doesn't even wear them that often. He can see fine on his own, it's just things up close he needs help with, so he wears them when he studies or knows he's going to be doing a lot of reading and writing, but that's mostly it.

It's their pizza delivery, which is what he assumed it'd be. He pays for it, then places it on their dining table and gets them each a plate, napkins, and a glass. He has no idea what they're drinking, though.

This all feels weirdly formal. Almost like… a date. Which feels even weirder because while it's his first time, they're just having sex. This is just another lesson.

"Glimmer, Pizza's here!" He calls.

He takes a seat just as she exits her room, and…

"Wow." He breathes. She's wearing the dress, and she looks absolutely breathtaking. Somehow even prettier than he remembers her being when he saw her in it last time.

"Hey." She says, laughing slightly. She retrieves a bottle of wine and he raises an eyebrow as she swaps the cups he chose for actual wine glasses and pours them each a glass.

"Pizza and wine?" He questions, "really?"

“We’re not getting drunk.” She defends, “I just thought…” she shrugs, “never mind.”

She sits opposite him, and things feel normal again. They eat the pizza and sip wine and just talk, like they always do. Except Bow can’t get over how gorgeous she looks in that dress. Or how much this feels like a date.

“Glimmer,” he starts, and she looks at him expectantly, “what… is this?”

She gives him a confused look. “Pizza and wine?”

He sighs, “no, I mean… this feels like a—,” he stops himself. “Not that I don’t appreciate it, but why are you going through all this trouble when we could just… do it?”

She hesitates, looking down at the slices of pizza remaining on her plate.

“Do you… remember when I told you that I’d lost my virginity?”

Bow blinks. “Yeah… it was the first week of college and you were super excited about it.”

He can remember it vividly. How happy he felt for her juxtaposed with the ache in his heart and the jealousy towards the person she’d lost it to.

“Well, we… talked about sex then. Just, in general. We’d only moved in recently and we set ground rules. We were allowed to bring people back to the apartment as long as we tried to be quiet.” She sends him an apologetic look after that, which makes him laugh. “And then you said…"

“…That you wouldn’t have to worry about me doing anything like that unless I started dating somebody.” He says.

“Because you wouldn’t want to have sex with someone that wasn’t important to you.” She adds.

“I can’t believe you remember that.”

She shrugs. “And I know that we’re just friends. But I wanted to make this feel important. For you.”

“Hence the special occasion meal?”

“We only ever have pizza and wine when something special happens. We had it that night, the night we moved in…”

“You didn’t have to do all of this to make you feel important to me.” He says softly. “You’re like… the most important person in my life.”

She stares at him for a long moment. “Wow. You really know how to get a girl going, huh?”

“I was just—,”

“Shh, don’t ruin it. Help me clean up?”

“But you still have—,”

“Trust me when I say that I’m not hungry anymore.”

They tidy up. Keeping the leftovers but ensuring that their hands are free of pizza grease and that the dishes are clean. Once they’re done, Glimmer grabs his hand and tugs him towards her bedroom.

She opens the door, and he immediately realises why she’d spent so long inside prior to the pizza arriving. It’s completely transformed, neat and tidy, with scented candles lit and setting the mood. He feels like he just accidentally walked in on someone else’s romantic first time. Or a movie set.

“Is it too much?” She asks nervously.

“No, it’s… you did all of this, for me?”

"Of course I did." She closes the door behind him, then plugs her phone into a speaker and starts playing what he knows to be her sex playlist, which just makes him give her an amused look.

She returns to her spot in front of him, biting her lip. "So…"

"I have no idea what to do." He confesses, and they both laugh.

"C'mere." She tells him, pulling him in for a kiss, which he gleefully reciprocates.

She leads him over to the bed, and they kiss for a while longer until she pulls away and raises her arms above her head.

Bow takes a breath, then pulls the dress off of her, leaving it on her desk chair as he takes in what she looks like now. She wasn't lying about going braless, and she's wearing the lacy purple underwear he chose for her. God, she's so beautiful. So beautiful he's not sure if he'll be able to handle just getting to do this with her once.

The thought makes him pause. Glimmer doesn't notice, too busy playfully removing his glasses for him so she can leave them safely tucked away on the nightstand. He pushes the thought away, and she gives him another quick kiss and then tugs at the hem of his crop top.

Bow pulls it off, feeling his heart rate pick up— he's finally doing this. He's finally having sex, with Glimmer. His best friend, the woman he's been in love with for god knows how long. So why does he feel like he's making some kind of mistake? He's wanted this for years. He's had so many fantasies, he's been yearning for so long. And here Glimmer is, eagerly helping him undress, practically almost naked herself, and all he feels is anxiety.

His pants are next, and his mind is racing. What happens after this? Do they just go back to being friends, and never speak of this again? Will they look back on it fondly in ten years, and brush it off as just something dumb they did in college? Will he be able to handle that?

They move to the bed. Glimmer pulls him down on top of her and he fits between her legs so perfectly he can’t imagine ever doing this with someone else. He doesn’t ever want to do this with someone else.

“Are you okay?” She whispers.

“Yeah.” He lies. “Just nervous.”

“You're gonna be great." She says reassuringly, and then her tone changes to something more playful. "Just remember, any I love you's said during sex don't count.”

She’s joking, he knows that. But it hits a little too close to his reality, making it yet another harsh reminder that none of this is genuine. He could confess while they have sex, tell Glimmer that he loves her as many times as he wants, and it wouldn't mean anything to her, because none of this means anything to her.

He can feel the panic rising again, and even trying to distract himself by looking at Glimmer doesn't help this time. Everything they've done so far has felt like a dream come true, and it makes his heart hurt every time he remembers that it’s only temporary.

And that begs the question: will he ever be able to get over her if he remembers this night whenever he thinks back to his first time? Bow glances down at her again, and he realises that he already knows the answer.

He pushes himself up, much to Glimmer’s confusion, moving away from her before climbing off of the bed altogether.

“Bow?” She asks.

“I- I’m sorry. I can’t.” He stammers, pulling his clothes back on.

“Oh, well—,” Glimmer covers herself with the sheet, “you don’t have to go. We can talk about it, if you want? Or just—,”

“This was a mistake.” He blurts, and Glimmer’s face falls. “I’m sorry. I don’t know what I was thinking. I never should’ve agreed to this.”

And with that, the moment is ruined. Bow sighs and leaves the room.

Chapter Notes

It was too much.

The candles, the music, the dinner. So close to genuinely romantic and yet still so far. It's almost like she was taunting him, dangling what she knew he wanted right in his face, ready to yank it away if he tried to reach for it. Even though he knows she'd never do that.

Glimmer appears from her room a moment after he leaves, redressed in an oversized shirt and shorts.

"Bow, what are you talking about?" She tries, "I thought you wanted this, I thought we were on the same page."

"I don't— I don't know, Glimmer." He can't handle this conversation right now, his emotions are far too close to the surface and he's scared that if she pries too much everything will come flooding out of him.

"What changed? Did I go too far?"

"I don't know."

"We don't have to do anything, but if you just sit down we can talk and—,"

"I said I don't know!" He snaps, putting his head in his hands. He doesn't mean to raise his voice, but it feels like a dam is breaking. Thousands of feelings he's kept bottled up spilling through the cracks. "I thought— I thought I could handle it but I was wrong and I can't and I'm sorry."

"Handle what?!"

"You! You're so amazing and beautiful and sometimes it's hard to be around you because I can't handle how you make me feel!" He looks up at her, "I was okay with you sleeping with other people because I figured that I was just going to have to accept the fact that I was never going to get what I wanted. But then you kept offering me more and more and I knew— I knew that you would never feel the way I wanted you to feel, but I was stupid and I thought that it would be enough and I was wrong."

Bow's heart is pounding, and he regrets the words as soon as they leave his mouth, but it's too late to take them back now. Glimmer just stares at him, mouth agape, her eyes wide.

Shit. He's just ruined everything, hasn't he? A decades long friendship, down the drain all thanks to one stupid confession. He knew he should've played it safe. He knew he should've said no. But he couldn't help but hold onto the hope that maybe, somehow… Glimmer felt the same way about him.

"I need— I'm gonna go for a walk, okay?" He's grabbing his coat before he's even finished the sentence.

Not waiting for a response, he hastily puts on his shoes and heads for the door.

Bow regrets stepping outside as soon as the door closes behind him. It's far too cold, and he realises that he doesn't actually want to be alone right now, and that he left Glimmer alone after dropping a bombshell on her.

He leans against the wall, slowly accepting the fact that he just ruined his relationship with the person that he loves so much it hurts.

He hopes that things are still somewhat salvageable. That maybe Glimmer will forgive him for this, and they can put this whole experience behind them and just pretend it never happened in the first place. It would kill him inside, but it would be for the best. At least he'd still have her.

He supposes that this was fun while it lasted. But maybe that was the problem. It got too fun, and then it started feeling too real. And now he's here.

The door swings open, and out steps Glimmer, clad in her adorably huge coat and boots. She shuts the door behind her and leans against it, staring at him.

"It's too cold for a walk." He explains sheepishly, and she snorts.

"You're such a dork, even when you're mad."

"I'm not— I'm not mad at you."

"Okay," she says carefully, "what the hell was that back in there, then?"

He shoves his hands in his pockets, taking a breath.

"I just… you mean so much to me. I was terrified that if we went through with that it'd ruin everything. That I wouldn't be able to keep my feelings in check anymore, and then I ended up not being able to anyway so…" he scoffs at himself.

"And by feelings…" Glimmer says hesitantly, "…you mean what?"

Bow hesitates.

Now or never, he supposes.

“I love you.” He confesses, “I love you so much it physically hurts sometimes. I love the way you look when you first wake up in the morning, I love how you cuddle up to me when we share a bed. I love how you sometimes put your head on my shoulder while we watch a movie. I love how you can’t cook to save your life. I love your confidence. I love your teasing. I just… yeah.”

Glimmer stares at him for long, long moment, an unreadable expression on her face.

“It’s okay if you don’t feel the same,” he adds, “I just— please. I can’t lose you. You’re my best friend, and—,”

“Bow, shut up.” Glimmer cuts him off, “I love you too.”

Bow pauses. “What?”

“I love you too.” She repeats. Bow just stares at her dumbly, refusing to believe what he just heard, because there’s no way. Maybe he’s dreaming. Maybe he actually did go on a walk and then slipped and knocked himself out, trapping himself in this weirdly vivid dream.

“You— what?”

“I only realised it recently,” she explains, “while we were doing this. But it was— it was you choosing that dress for me to wear that made it really hit me. I don’t know— I think I’ve liked you for a while now. But I was scared too. Of— Of accidentally telling you while we were doing it. That’s why I made that shitty joke.”

“You love me too?” He asks, in disbelief, “why didn’t you say anything?”

“Why didn’t you say anything?” She counters.

“Because I’m an idiot?”

“Then I guess we’re both idiots.” She laughs, “you love me.”

“Of course I love you.” He says incredulously, “you’re you.”

She gives him a look full of adoration, and then closes the space between them and kisses him.

Bow pulls her closer, half because he wants her to be and half because it’s absolutely freezing outside right now. Glimmer giggles when she pulls away.

“You love me.” She repeats softly, and Bow hums in agreement. “And I love you too.”

It’s kind of crazy how four simple words can make him feel all warm inside, and also make him unable to stop a big dopey grin from appearing on his face. He’s so happy he could cry right now.

“Does this make us…?” He hesitates, not wanting to say the words, just in case it scares her off. They only confessed a few minutes ago, after all. It still hasn’t really set in yet.

“A couple?” Glimmer asks, she hums, pretending to think it over. “I suppose so.”

Bow laughs. “Do you want me to ask?”

She nods eagerly, and he clears his throat. “Glimmer. Will you be my girlfriend?”

“Yes, you dork.” She replies, grinning, and then he kisses her again because he can’t resist the urge to not.

She pulls away far too soon. “Let’s go inside,” she whispers, “I’m freezing my ass off out here.”

They return to their apartment, and Bow immediately realises that Glimmer has removed all remnants of their failed date— if you can call it that. Glimmer removes her coat and boots, waiting for him to do the same, then gives him an expectant look.

“I um, cleaned everything up.” She says, “I didn’t know if you’d still want it here so… it’s all gone.”

“You didn’t have to do that.” He replies, moving closer.

“Well, I didn’t know that you were gonna confess your undying love for me out there.” Bow rolls his eyes. “If I did, I would’ve left it and we would be doing something very different right now,” she bites her lip, “not that we have to. There’s no pressure, I understand if you’re not ready.”

“What did you have in mind?” He asks playfully.

Glimmer raises an eyebrow, then shrugs. “Just this.” And then she kisses him.

God, Bow loves kissing Glimmer. He puts his hands on her waist, pulling her closer, and she wraps her own around his neck as she deepens the kiss.

Bow boldly moves his hands lower, feeling Glimmer smirk against his lips as they pause on her ass. He leaves them there for a moment, just because he can, then moves them even lower and picks her up, making her gasp in surprise.

He carries her over to their dining table and puts her down there, pulling away to litter kisses down her neck.

“Wh- why did you do that?” She giggles, a pleased sigh leaving her mouth as he nips at her sensitive skin. “N- Not that I’m complaining.”

“You’re too short,” he teases, “it hurts my neck to lean down and kiss you like that.”

“Is that all?” She runs her fingers through his hair as he starts giving her a hickey.

“Fine.” He finishes with the hickey. “No more lying about how we really feel. I just really wanted to pick you up.”

Glimmer laughs breathlessly, her face flushed thanks to the attention he gave her neck.

"No more lying, huh?" She repeats, "okay. I want to fuck you so badly right now. Like, no pressure, but I have been thinking about this for weeks. I didn't hook-up with anybody else because I was scared I'd accidentally say your name during, that's how bad it was."

The confession makes him pause. First of all, talk about a confidence boost. Second of all, is he ready? Well… yes. He's likely been ready since his first year of college, he just never acted on it because he was too busy pining for his best friend. And now he has her, not just sexually, but romantically too. So what is he waiting for?

"Let's go to your room." He says. Glimmer's eyes widen in surprise, but she scrambles off of the table and tugs him back to her room with her.

They're kissing again the second they're through the door, almost forgetting to close it behind them, and then narrowly avoiding landing on top of each other as they fall onto the bed laughing.

The kissing continues, Bow hovering over her again much like he was doing earlier, but it doesn't feel like he's making some kind of mistake this time.

Glimmer reaches down between them, her hand cupping the prominent bulge in his pants, and Bow just barely stops himself from groaning into her mouth as she gently traces over it with her fingers.

He pulls away for air and feels her unzip his pants before pausing.

"Is this— do you want this?" She asks quietly, her hand retreating, "we don't have to do anything you don't want, okay? Even if we're official now."

Her cheeks tinge pink when she calls them official, and Bow fights the urge to kiss her again instead of replying.

"I want this." He assures her. "I want you."

"Jesus." She bites her lip. "Okay, let's get undressed."

Bow's nerves steadily begin to rise closer to the surface as more of their clothes come off. He knows that he's done well in… other areas of sexual exploration, but this is a whole new field for him to either fail or excel in, and he worries that he won't live up to any expectations Glimmer has. Or worse, just be downright terrible and not help her enjoy it at all.

Glimmer retrieves a condom from her nightstand and offers it to him, and Bow eyes it anxiously, his eyes darting back to her.

"You are so beautiful." He says quietly, stalling by taking a moment to just look at her.

"So are you." She tells him. "Or handsome, if you'd prefer that." She waves the condom in front of him, as if he hadn't already noticed it. "I'm impatient, if you couldn't tell. Seriously, I wasn't lying. Weeks, Bow."

He rolls his eyes but takes it from her, tearing open the packet and carefully rolling it on.

"Nervous?" Glimmer knows him too well. He nods, and she pulls him in for a kiss. "About what?"

"The fact that I have no idea what I'm doing." He chuckles. "I- I don't want it to be bad, or… just generally unsatisfying for you."

She bites her lip. "Do you… want me to get on top?"

Bow's breath hitches at the mere thought. "Uh, yes."

She laughs and they swap places, with him sitting up and her now on his lap. She leans in to kiss him softly.

“Ready?” She checks.

Bow takes a breath before nodding, and Glimmer rises up on her knees, a hand on his shoulder as she uses the other to position his dick below her. She sinks down slowly, her mouth falling open as she makes an appreciative sound. Immediately, Bow understands why Glimmer loves sex so much. If it always feels this good, he’d likely be tempted to have it every other night too. Once she’s fully settled in his lap, she leans in and kisses him again.

“Holy—,” it feels like someone stole all the air from his lungs. It’s almost like her mouth, but a million times better and far more overwhelming. He puts his hands on her hips and she grins at him, shifting slightly, which makes him dig his nails into her skin as a familiar feeling threatens to overwhelm him. “W- Wait don’t move yet.”

Glimmer pauses. “Are you gonna—?”

“I- I think so. Just… give me a minute.” He hides his face in her neck. “This is so embarrassing.”

“My current record for a guy is minute, and he wasn’t even a virgin.”

He gives her a surprised look at that, and she laughs, which makes him gasp.

“It also didn’t ruin the sex we had. It just meant that he needed a little time to cool down.”

She leans in to kiss him again, her hips beginning a slow grind against him.

“Gl- Glimmer…” He warns, but she silences him with another kiss.

“Don’t worry about when you come, and just enjoy yourself, okay?” She whispers. He nods after some minor hesitation, and she starts riding him properly a moment after, moaning at the feeling of him inside of her.

“Fuck.” He whimpers, pulling her close so he can kiss her again. Glimmer moves her hips faster, and he dips his head lower once they’re done kissing and wraps his lips around one of her nipples.

“Oh, fuck.” She whines, running her fingers through his hair like she did earlier. “I love your fucking mouth, holy shit.”

He stifles a laugh against her chest that morphs into a moan as he feels himself rapidly approaching the edge of climax again, his grip on her tightening as he tries to delay the inevitable.

“Glimmer, I- I’m gonna—,” he warns.

Instead of stopping, like he assumed she would, Glimmer pulls him in for another kiss and continues at her current pace.

His orgasm hits him a few seconds later, overwhelming and so much more intense than he could’ve imagined. He doesn’t realise how tightly he’s holding onto her until he starts coming down as she slows to a stop on top of him.

“Sorry.” He mumbles, letting her go and hoping that he hasn’t accidentally left any marks on her skin.

“You don’t have to apologise.” She chuckles, climbing off of him, to his immense disappointment.

He takes the condom off and throws it in the trash, and Glimmer cuddles up to him, giving him a look of adoration that he definitely doesn’t deserve right now because he just came without getting her off during their first time together like a stereotypical selfish boyfriend.

“I’m sorry.” He says again anyway, and she just rolls her eyes at him.

“For…?”

“Not… satisfying you.” He sighs.

“You’ve satisfied me plenty during these past few weeks,” she tells him, “and we don’t have to be done yet, y’know. This can just be a little break while we wait for Tiny Bow to wake up again.”

He snorts despite his embarrassment. “Tiny Bow? Really?”

She grins at him, “you’re right, I don’t know what I was thinking. It definitely isn’t tiny.”

His cheeks redden at the compliment, and Glimmer hums, content. “Was it good?”

Bow nods. “Yeah, what’s that saying? Best thirty seconds of my life, or whatever.”

Glimmer laughs. “You actually lasted longer than I thought you would.”

“Wh— really?!”

“Mhm. I wasn’t expecting to come during the first round, it was supposed to be all about you.”

“First round?”

“The first of many. So stop beating yourself up about it, you’ll have plenty of chances to get me off in the later rounds,” she laughs quietly, “plus, we’re dating now, so we can literally fuck whenever we want.”

Oh yeah. They’re dating. Woah. “That still doesn’t feel real.”

“I know. My parents are gonna be overjoyed, though. My mom has been begging me to get with you since we were teenagers.”

“Wh— seriously?” He was vaguely aware that Angella liked having him around, likely because she considered him a good influence, but he had no idea that she approved of him that much.

“Mhm.” Glimmer seems distracted, and as Bow feels her fingers sneaking across his stomach, moving downwards towards a certain place, he quickly pieces together why.

Bow doesn’t object as she slowly teases him with her fingers, making him bite his lip as he starts getting hard again. It happens so quickly it’s almost impressive, and it’s only after a few minutes of teasing that he’s ready to go again.

“Round two?” Glimmer asks hopefully, and Bow nods with a chuckle. She sits up and grabs another condom, tearing it open and putting it on him herself.

“Someone’s eager.” Bow teases, and she blushes as she climbs into his lap, slowly sinking down on him again and making them both moan.

“Fuck.” Glimmer whines, “o- okay, lie back.”

Bow raises an eyebrow, but does as he’s told, resting against the pillows on Glimmer’s bed as she places her hands on his chest and begins to slowly move her hips again, grinding down on him in a way that makes him groan.

“Good?” She asks, looking proud of herself, and Bow nods quickly, prompting her to increase her pace. She looks ethereal, all sweaty and flushed and making herself feel good right there on top of him. She momentarily slows down so she can shift a little, then lets out a sudden gasp and speeds up again, a string of curses leaving her lips. Bow watches her in awe, so distracted by how good she looks that he’s barely even focusing on his own pleasure.

“I’m gonna come.” She says suddenly, squeezing her eyes shut as she tenses, her moans steadily raising in pitch until her climax finally hits her. She continues to grind against him as she rides it out, then opens her eyes once it subsides.

"Wow." Bow says, and Glimmer starts laughing. "Woah."

She leans down, breathless, and kisses him. "Why are you looking at me like that?"

"I just— you're really beautiful. Especially when you're on top of me and making yourself feel good like that."

"You're such a sap." She kisses him again. "You've literally made me come before."

"Not like that." He defends, and she laughs again. "It's my first time, stop bullying me."

"You're adorable." She bites her lip. "That wore me the fuck out, though. Do you wanna try a different position?"

Bow nods with a quiet laugh, and she climbs off of him so they can switch places. He sits back as she gets comfortable.

"How do you usually…?" He starts, trailing off as she raises and spreads her legs. "…Oh. I didn't know you could do that."

Glimmer giggles and gestures for him to move closer. "C'mere, you dork."

"Are you sure I won't hurt you?" He does so at Glimmer's nod, leaning over her slightly as he positions himself.

It's a little awkward, and he's blushing so hard it feels like his face is on fire, but once they're both comfortable he slides into her with a groan, leaning over her more as she immediately pulls him in for a kiss, her hands resting on his back. He quickly understands why Glimmer chose this position— they're very close, it's optimal for kissing.

It takes him a moment to get the hang of actually moving, he's still terrified of accidentally hurting her, but he starts thrusting slowly, gaining confidence when his movements make her moan.

He's still a little overwhelmed at how good this feels. Not just the sex— but also being with Glimmer, knowing that this is real and that it will still be real when this is over. That after this, they will likely have sex again, and will be able to whenever they want to.

"Bow." She gasps, "c- could you go a little faster?"

He does so, relishing in the loud moan he gets in response, and picks up the pace a little more once he starts feeling bolder.

"That feels so fucking good." She whimpers, her mouth falling open as Bow fucks into her slightly harder. "Fuck yes, Bow. Harder."

He obliges with a groan, leaning down to kiss her again. He can feel another orgasm sneaking up on him, and hopes that he'll manage to get her off before that.

"You feel so good." He whispers between kisses, and she whines quietly.

"So do you," she tells him, closing her eyes, "fuck, I'm close. Don't stop."

He does as she says, continuing to move at the same pace as her legs tremble and she comes with a cry, her nails digging into his back.

"A- Are you close?" She asks, and Bow nods, giving in to temptation and chasing his own orgasm, making Glimmer moan again. "Fuck. Come for me."

The fact that he comes almost immediately after hearing that would be embarrassing if it didn't feel so good he doesn't care. It's a lot more intense than his last one, and he keeps grinding against Glimmer until it fully subsides, careful not to put his whole weight on her as a wave of tiredness suddenly hits him.

He pulls out carefully, removing the condom and tossing it in the trash. He lays down beside Glimmer and closes his eyes as he starts catching his breath, reopening them a moment later when he hears her giggle.

“I really wore you out, huh?” She teases, and he rolls his eyes fondly, pulling her in for a cuddle. “Do you feel any different? Y’know, now that I’ve deflowered you.”

He snorts, hiding his face in her hair. “Do not call it that!” Glimmer only giggles again at his reaction. “And for the record, no. I don’t. Unless the overwhelming feeling of love for you counts, but I’m pretty sure that was already there.”

Glimmer presses a kiss to his chest, snuggling closer. They’re silent for a few minutes.

“Do you mind that I’m probably the only person you’re ever gonna be with?” She asks quietly.

“Not at all.” He answers honestly. “But— probably?”

“Well, you never know, I might want a threesome somewhere down the line.” She jokes, and he laughs.

“Unfortunately, I don’t think I’m anywhere near that advanced.”

“Oh, right, right.” She agrees, playing along, “there are way more lessons we should cover before that.”

“Oh? Like what?”

She hums thoughtfully. “Depends on what you’re comfortable with. Kinky stuff is definitely up there. So is pegging.”

“You’re gonna get me going again.” He teases.

“Because I mentioned pegging? Damn, babe.”

“No—,” he tries to defend, but she’s already laughing.

“I can’t believe we could’ve been doing this for years.” She sighs. “We’re such idiots.”

“I’m just glad we’re finally doing it now.” He presses a kiss to her head. For the first time in weeks, Bow feels content. He suddenly realises that all of his fantasies involving Glimmer can come true now— including the mushy romantic ones. “I wanna take you out on a date.”

“A date?”

“Yeah, an actual one. We can go to the movies, or out for dinner, something like that. Something romantic.”

He feels her smile against him, and his heart flips in his chest. “Romantic, huh?” She muses. “I’d like that.”

Chapter End Notes

I can’t believe I actually finished a fic that’s longer than 3 chapters lmao. Big thanks to Tippen for helping me out with some chapters. I hope you all enjoyed, thank you so much for reading!
