Summary

Kinktober 2024

When the Whispering Woods Dungeon, a mysterious new BDSM club, opens in Brightmoon, it becomes the hotspot for the town’s youth to explore their desires. In this hidden world, they’ll experience self-discovery, personal growth, and maybe even love.

And sex, a lot of it.

Notes

Well, I hope you enjoy my fic, I'm still insecure in my writing and english is not my first language, but I really hope you'll have a good time!

See the end of the work for more notes

Adora always went out on Friday nights.

Just like any other young adult in the peaceful Brightmoon, and like any of them, the feeling of boredom had been creeping in on her for some time now. The only things she could do there were:

1. Go into the nearest park and smoke weed,

2. Go into the forest and smoke weed,

3. Go into the pub and drink… and smoke weed,

4. Go on a walk with her friends to somewhere to eat a cheap burger.

That's the consequence of living in a small town. And while the options were not that bad, she missed something adventurous, something that gave her a thrill of excitement. That's why, when a building called Whispering Woods, which did not disclose what kind of business they were, opened just outside of town, she went.

She didn't go alone, though. almost all her friends went there too, to see what it was all about.

"I'm not joking, this is freaking me out," Bow said, entering the club after being searched and asked to leave his phone at the reception. He was wearing beaten-up jeans and a crop top.

"It was your idea to check out what this place is, I was down for eating in the diner near my house as always. Answered Glimmer, Bow's girlfriend and Adora's best friend.

"If this is going to make our weekends at least a little more interesting, I'm honestly down for creepy." He replied as we went to sit down near a stage in the middle of the room.

"I heard this is Netosa and Spinerella's business, they came back from Eternia some time ago" Adora replies, sitting down and looking around.

The place features a bar with a rich maroon carpet that stands out against the dark wood floors and black-and-red walls, giving the space a mysterious and elegant vibe with various objects Adora cannot specify decorating the space. The clear Gothic theme is accentuated by the lighting, creating a dramatic atmosphere.

Adora is looking at the place, when she sees Catra getting inside. She waves to the girl to get her attention and Catra soon sees her, going straight in her direction.

“Hey, Adora.” Catra says, her voice a deep rumble. She’s dressed in a black button-up shirt, and tailored pants and has her wild hair slicked back. She is absolutely stunning. Adora is very honest with herself, she has had a crush on Catra since she met the girl in elementary.

“Hi Catra” Adora answers, her voice shaking a little. “Dressed to the nines, what’s the occasion?”

“Netossa said I had to, she wants to talk to me about something.” Her tail swinging softly as she speaks. “You looking good as well.” She says casually.

Adora blushes because of the comment. She’s wearing her clear ripped jeans, with a white shirt and a red jacket instead of her usual hoodies and flannels.

“Well Catra, you’re welcome to stay with us.” Glimmer said from her seat, where she and Bow were looking at them with a weird expression on their faces Adora did not even try to decipher what it meant.

Catra just sat in the unoccupied chair by Adora’s side and took a sip from her drink every once in a while. They were all in a comfortable silence, just drinking and eating from the curly fries they ordered a while ago. When Bow was about to say something. The lights went out and Netossa and Spinerella entered the stage. To say everyone was left with their mouths open was an understatement. Both of the women were dressed head to toe in leather. Netossa used what seemed to be a collar with the leash held by Spinerella. No one could take their eyes off them, but, Adora realized, Catra was just smirking as if she knew about it. She just looked back to the stage, where Netossa started to talk into a mic.

"It's a pleasure to be back in Brightmoon everyone. When me and Spin left, we knew there was not a single entertainment in here for us, people with tastes… let's use the word freaky. When we left, we used to go to places like this a lot, and we found ourselves with something that fulfilled us. We are proud to announce to you all Whispering Woods Dungeon.

After the initial shock everyone was experiencing, Netossa and Spinerella said this night was just an opening night, if we were interested there would be nights for viewing, learning, and participating in the practice, called BDSM. Adora had heard about it before, just never looked a lot into it.

Catra was nowhere to be seen. Adora lost her right in the middle of the hostess's speech, and even though she looked everywhere couldn't find the girl. When she went back to her table, Bow and Glimmer were talking amongst themselves and by the looks of it, it wasn't just Adora who had gotten interested in this new world.

"So, you guys are thinking of coming back to see what's this like?" She said looking at the couple, who hadn't noticed her until that same moment, startled, they nodded their heads.

"We are, it just seems like something it's going to be fun to try, and if we're not interested we just won't come back. You?"

"Same, I'm just not sure how I'm going to do this alone."

"Maybe you won't have to."

The blonde girl jumped from her seat, standing in front of Catra, who had the expression of the cat who'd eaten the canary. She composed herself and then realised what Catra said.

“What?” She choked in the answer and blushed deep red from the tip of her ears ‘till her collarbones.

“Well, I think we should talk in a more private place.” Catra says, her voice with a raspiness that was filled with desire. “Sparkles, Arrow Boy, don’t wait for your friend, we’re gonna take some time.” Her tail interlacing itself on Adora’s leg, while her hands placed on her lower back guided her somewhere. Adora did not know what was happening and all she could do was follow along.

They got to a staircase and went to the second floor, a place much like the first one, just more open and with some kinds of machines and furniture Adora refused to even think of the purpose. They kept going upstairs, where a big hallway, leading to a myriad of dark mahogany doors. It looked like a labyrinth and Adora very much felt like a rat going straight to her trap. Catra led the way to one on the right and lightly guided her inside. In the bedroom, which had a warm temperature, there was a king-sized bed with four posts, a dresser, and two armchairs on each side of a coffee table. Catra indicated the armchairs and that’s where Adora sat down, drying the sweat of her palms on her jeans. While Catra closed the door, Adora allowed herself to roam her eyes around the room, looking at the place a little better. The bedroom was imposing, with the dark wood of the bed posts towering above her. The thick, velvet curtains were drawn tight, casting long shadows over the deep red carpet, and the armchairs had their upholstered in worn leather. The dresser seemed to contain not only clothes but objects she could not identify. There was a bottle of wine on the coffee table and, strangely, a cushion on the floor.

Catra sat down, placing two glasses of wine Adora did not know where she got from, and pouring wine for them both. Only when Adora gave a sip and seemingly relaxed in her seat, she spoke.

“What did you think about the club Adora?”

“Well, I, uhm” She cleared her throat, determined to not make a fool of herself “I thought it was… interesting.”

“Really?” Catra was smiling sofly, different from before, this smile had a warmth she had never seen of Catra’s face before. “would you like to try and be a part of it?”

“I would, but as I told Bow and Glimmer, it’s hard to do it alone”

The room was mostly silent after Adora’s statement, the only noise that could be heard was Catra’s humming while she looked at Adora, her eyes burning with a fire that promised all kinds of things.

“Well, Adora. Net and Spin are some long-time friends of mine, we all are a part of the community. When they talked to me about the dungeon, I was asked to be one of the Dommes in here, to help and guide people, do demonstrations and explain what the BDSM community entails.” She takes a sip of her whisky, never taking her eyes off the woman right in front of her “I said I could only do so much without a partner, and said that if the person I was interested in said yes, I would do it.” She got up, stalking like the feline she was, and got so near Adora, that she could feel their breaths intertwine “What do you think about being mine Adora?”

Adora could not think, she was feeling like she was about to faint. Catra’s cologne filled Adora’s nose, her voice filled her ears, Catra’s hands were all she could feel. All her senses belonged to the woman in front of her, she was already hers. “Yeah.”

Catra laughed, her hands going from the thigh they were resting on, to Adora’s face, then her neck. Then tilting her face upwards, and pressing their lips together. It felt marvelous, at first, just two lips pressing against each other, then Catra took control, wielding out of Adora all the gasps, sighs, moans, and noises she could, claiming them all for herself. Adora felt like she could die in that instant, she was feeling so much at once, it was almost like floating, Catra took what she wanted, and Adora was nothing more than delighted to give it to her.

When their lips parted ways, both women were breathing heavily, their foreheads touching and their hands still touching every inch of skin available of the other.

With nothing said at all, Catra put both her hands on Adora's thigh and lifted the girl like she didn't weigh 210 pounds of pure muscle, and led her to the bed in the room. Almost reverential she placed the girl on the bed, stalking her until she was between her legs, she then looked deep into her eyes and Adora knew she was asking permission, this was her way out, if she didn't want what was about to happen, she should say so. She nodded.

Catra then straddled Adora, with movements slow and deliberate she began to unbutton her blouse, each one revealing a patch of skin that sent shockwaves through Adora's body. It was so sensual she felt like grasping for air while she looked, and the smirk in Catra's face made it clear that she not only knew about it, It was intentional. When the blouse came undone, she tossed it on the ground, revealing a black laced bra that embraced Catra's breasts. They were small and perfectly shaped and when Adora saw them, she lost her breath, she couldn't look away, it was making her own body do things she never before thought possible. Silently, Catra moved to take off Adora's jacket and shirt, her hands trailing through all the skin she uncovered, like a caress. Adora's gasps were involuntary by now.

Adora blushed a little when Catra finished taking her shirt off, feeling a bit self-conscious, but the burning intensity in Catra's eyes, made her feel beautiful. She was looking at Adora like she was the only thing in the world worth looking at, and the reverential way she took Adora's blue sports bra over her head only solidified this feeling. Adora couldn't comprehend why she trusted Catra to see her so vulnerable, but it was a truth she was learning with each sensation of her body. Catra's hands then trailed from her shoulders, down to cup each breast, giving Adora goosebumps and a moan that thore from her throat, unyielding and uncontrollable.

The hand that was holding her, then ever so slowly, started to trail to her belly, gathering every reaction she could, while looking at Adora with these big, soft, loving eyes, until Catra's hands reached her pants. Her eyes, these billboards of every feeling she had at that moment, transformed. Adora gasped, just this little change, sending sparks through her body, she felt like every minor touch could ignite her to the point of no return. Catra opened the fly of her pants and with a smooth movement, detached herself from above Adora, so she could take them off.

Adora was trembling, of what she was not sure. She was just feeling so much, this was all too much, she was not sure she could handle it, but if Catra stopped, Adora would die.

Catra leaned in, and suddenly, Adora felt Catra's hair on her skin, her hand on the hem of her panties and her mouth on her breast. It was a feeling she never felt before, it was an unimaginable pleasure, her hot mouth was suckling it, occasionally biting it, making Adora arch and fidget, trying at the same time to lean in on it and to move away.

And then she felt it.

The hand innocently resting on the hem of her panty, slowly creeping in and touching her, it was almost like a button, when Catra pressed it, Adora felt so much pleasure she lost herself, she screamed and arched her back, being held by the other hand that wasn't driving her mad. Catra then started low movements and oh, Adora could feel how wet she was, the movements squelching more out of her, the hand in her clit picking up the pace, her mouth going to give the other breast the same harsh treatment.

And then Adora saw stars.

It was glorious, her entire body trembled, consumed by waves of pleasure, leaving her breathless and unable to do anything but scream. She, while still feeling the aftermath, soft hands caressed her, taking her hair out of her face and cleaning the sweat off her forehead. The cloth she used seemingly coming out of thin air, but where it had came from didn't matter, all that mattered was this moment. She had never felt this taken care of before, a warm fuzzy feeling growing inside her by knowing she trusted Catra to be so vulnerable like right now. Catra's warmth surrounded her, the soft murmur of praise in her ear soothing her into a peaceful sleep. It was only when she woke up, still wrapped in Catra's arms, that she realized how safe she felt.

End Notes

Well, I know I'm late for kinktober, but august is one of the busiest months in my country for a teacher. But there it is.
