Guilt and Redemption

Posted originally on the Archive of Our Own at http://archiveofourown.org/works/33117079.

Rating:
Explicit

Archive Warning:
Rape/Non-Con

Category:
F/F

Fandom:
She-Ra and the Princesses of Power (2018)

Relationship:
Adora/Catra (She-Ra)

Character:
Adora (She-Ra), Catra (She-Ra), Infected She-Ra - Character

Additional Tags:
Smut, Fluff and Angst, Rough Sex, Rape/Non-con Elements, trio, Canon Universe, Oral Sex, Loss of Virginity, Anal Sex, Double Penetration, Double Vaginal Penetration, Infected She-ra, One Shot, Angst and Hurt/Comfort, Hurt/Comfort, Hardcore, Guilt, Redemption, Rough Oral Sex, Vaginal Sex, Strap-Ons, dildo, Lesbian Sex, No Lesbians Die, Canon Lesbian Character, Porn, Angst and Porn, Emotional Porn

Language:
English

Stats:
Published: 2021-08-08 Words: 9,634 Chapters: 1/1

Guilt and Redemption

Posted originally on the Archive of Our Own at http://archiveofourown.org/works/33117079.

Rating:
Explicit

Archive Warning:
Rape/Non-Con

Category:
F/F

Fandom:
She-Ra and the Princesses of Power (2018)

Relationship:
Adora/Catra (She-Ra)

Character:
Adora (She-Ra), Catra (She-Ra), Infected She-Ra - Character

Additional Tags:
Smut, Fluff and Angst, Rough Sex, Rape/Non-con Elements, trio, Canon Universe, Oral Sex, Loss of Virginity, Anal Sex, Double Penetration, Double Vaginal Penetration, Infected She-ra, One Shot, Angst and Hurt/Comfort, Hurt/Comfort, Hardcore, Guilt, Redemption, Rough Oral Sex, Vaginal Sex, Strap-Ons, dildo, Lesbian Sex, No Lesbians Die, Canon Lesbian Character, Porn, Angst and Porn, Emotional Porn

Language:
English

Stats:
Published: 2021-08-08 Words: 9,634 Chapters: 1/1

Guilt and Redemption

by MendhiSamadhi

Summary

Evil was defeated and enemies are now allies. But, redemption is not enough for everyone, especially for those who have not forgiven themselves. This time, Catra and Adora will have to admit that it's not enough to be together, because the past is a monster that is carried inside.

Notes

This fanfiction is an NSFW piece and tackles the genres of Rape/Non-Con/Hardcore.

It's also a work that explores some dark corners of the mind in the shape of a smut fanfic, so you shouldn't expect rosy, sexy, erotic scenes, but...maybe just the opposite. As one of my readers said in the Spanish version of this fic: "I don't know whether to get emotional or cry with anger and sadness, or with tenderness and joy."
Judge for yourself.

If you are a sensitive person or you don't like the idea, don't continue reading. Its reading is strictly prohibited to minors. If your judgment is mature, you're totally welcome to read and unscramble the story.

Finally, I must say that this is a translation from Spanish to English, so I apologize in advance for any grammatical, spelling or writing errors it may contain.

You find me on Twitter, Instagram and DeviantArt as @MendhiSamadhi

This time the only sound in the Whispering Woods was the small rustle of dry leaves and branches breaking under the feet. The night, with its faint stars, allowed little, if anything, to see in the distance the Wildcat, whose gaze penetrated the shadows thanks to her nature.

"Adora, have you forgotten the way?" Catra asked jaded, as she identified the same apple-shaped rock for the third time.

"O-of course not," Adora replied hesitantly. "The forest must be changing." And she took another route to a path covered with large, dew-drenched leaves. "Watch out for that leaf!" she warned after releasing the branch that she had pushed past.

But it was too late...

Poof

With a loud slap, the branch shook all the moisture against the face and chest of the feline, who only managed to tense her muscles to contain the growing anger.

"For some reason, it seems its doesn't want us to find the castle," Adora continued, unaware of the little bad drink she had just given Catra. "I'm sure there must be information about my origin."

"Oh yeah," Catra added, wiping the water off her chin with her hand. "The *First Ones...*the great technological geniuses," she continued sarcastically. "The creators of the most powerful weapon ever seen and the culprits of everything bad that has happened to us."

She stopped at that moment and waited for a reply from Adora, although the clueless young woman was more focused on clearing the way than paying attention. In any case, it was not something that surprised Catra, who smiled unconsciously when she looked at the daring and beautiful profile of her girlfriend. Well, not everything the First Ones did was bad, she concluded to herself, I still find it hard to believe that she was reaching out to me when I did everything to harm her.

I've never hated you! Adora's voice echoed in her memories; but far from rejoicing, Catra felt decomposed. Because I still hate the person I was.

"There!" Adora exclaimed suddenly. "That light!"

And at the voice of the race, Catra abandoned her thoughts to follow the march of her companion. She preferred it that way, staying a step back from Adora for the fun of enjoying the sight. That view of her back arching and outlining her shapes with every stride...that were one of the tiny pleasures that Catra could indulge in when she didn't think about her crimes from her past.

"Yes! The Crystal Castle!" Adora announced once she reached the facade of the old building. "Finally."

"It looks a little...rundown. I don't remember it like that," Catra commented, noticing the large new gaps in the rock.

"It seems that the technology of the First Ones is collapsing more quickly since we deactivated the Heart of Etheria," Adora diluted with a serious face. "And maybe there's a reason the forest didn't want us to find it. Catra..." She turned and affectionately placed her hands on Catra's cheeks. "Maybe you should stay here. I have...a bad feeling."

But Catra did not take the advice very well. "What?!" she exclaimed. "You were asking me to accompany you here and then leave me alone in the middle of the night?!"

Adora smiled somewhat amused. "I didn't think you were scared."

Pfh!

Catra snorted and crossed her arms. "I know how to take care of myself. But I'd rather stay with you to prevent your own stupidity from getting you in trouble. If you feel like something is wrong, I should be there."

The blonde kept her playful smile and studied Catra's irritated face before nodding. "Okay. Let's stay together."

* * * * * * *

The darkness of the castle was not as deep as that of the forest. Somehow, the subtle lights embedded in the walls seemed not to be exhausted despite the poor condition of the complex. But the same cannot be said for the weather. The cold was more penetrating inside than outside, forcing even Catra to wrap her arms around herself as she wandered, staring into empty space. Adora noticed the slight shudder and approached, took off her old red jacket and did not think before hanging it on Catra's shoulders.

"What are you doing?" the little one complained. "I don't need you to tuck me in. Okay?"

Adora hesitated. "I just...I wanted to be loving."

Her revelation embarrassed Catra, who suddenly began to feel a wave of heat on her face; so she cleared her throat and softened her voice. "But what about you? You don't have cold?"

"Not really. I feel pretty good," Adora replied, before turning her attention to the high walls.

Catra chose to put herself the jacket and as she passed the arms she recognized with pleasant surprise that there were still traces of warmth. On the other hand, what was that new scent on the fabric of the neck? Perfume? Whatever it was, in the end this comforted her to the point of making her draw a smile as silly as Adora's, and sighed, although realizing how cheesy she was being, she was quick to say the first thing that would cool the situation.

"Hey, Adora, why didn't you ask Entrapta for help with this? I'm sure if there's any information hidden here, she could get it."

Adora pursed the lips and put her hands on hips. Then rested her full weight on one leg. "To tell the truth, I'm afraid Entrapta would will go a little crazy if she sees all this technology. She could end up waking up another guardian or infecting everything. I don't know."

"Come on," Catra said with her cunning smile and sat down on a comfortable square console that she found in the pass. "Entrapta built a portal that almost destroyed the world, but you arranged it. Nothing worse can happen. Actually, your infected version scares me more than Entrapta can."

Adora arched an eyebrow and reviewed that confession. Somehow, she didn't feel it was an argument from typical jokes from Catra. Rather, it was the wake-up call to a couple of issues that until then remained pending between them.

"Do I remind you who was the person who activated the portal?" Adora snapped with a hint of claim. "Do you really think the infected She-Ra can be more dangerous than you?"

The sting was direct and stabbing, far more so than one of Scorpia's stings, so Catra's insightful smile turned to grim. She looked away and Adora seemed to realize that she had gone too far, so she tried to fix it, but all she could do was babble.

"I...ahm...didn't mean..."

Catra compressed into her own lap, shielding herself from the cold that unexpectedly returned to invade her, and Adora awkwardly tried to get closer to replace that arms with owns. However, when she took the first step, a primitive symbol on the ground lit up with a blinding blue light that sent her backward. Catra couldn't keep her eyes open either and didn't even cover herself when the cube under her was swallowed by a hole in the floor.

"Ah!"

The sharp scream escaped her mouth as she fell into the gloom.

"Catraaa!" Adora exclaimed, still dazed, and desperately ran to the rescue. But all she obtain was a heavy blow to her forehead crashing onto the concrete that sealed the chasm.

* * * * * * *

A wave of icy cold washed over Catra's bones and she opened her eyes. Lying face down on the ground, she held her head with one hand and started to get up, though...what was that frozen texture under her?

"Snow?" she wondered.

She looked around and, in fact, she was in the middle of a dark snowy landscape, at the limit of which was a Hordian building. She finished getting up and looked at herself, because Adora's warm jacket had been replaced by her own winter coat that fitted her size. The rest of her outfit matched, including those boots she was forced to wear from time to time.

"Adora?!" she exclaimed, and her voice echoed in loneliness. "Adora! Are you here?!"

But nothing gave the impression that had passed a soul in a long time. The only thing alive was the gust of wind that hovered under her short hair and made it stand on end. Likewise, the snowflakes that brought the blizzard told her that she should move. But where? Wherever she goes, she knew the castle of damned illusions would find her. However, she began to walk and for a while only the crunching under the feet accompanied her, until, during a pause, she made out someone else's footsteps. Those footle did not appear to be light or typical like Catra's, on the contrary, those were spaced apart and the screeching on the ice lasted long enough to give away larger than normal feet. Maybe that would be...She-Ra?

Catra turned slowly. Her only wish was to meet Adora, nonetheless, the tall figure that emerged from the darkness was not exactly her, but the She-Ra that Catra had known years before; the round-faced warrior wielding the sword of the First Ones, who wore her hair down and fought in shorts pants. That She-Ra, and for an instant, that made her realize the years that had passed.

The Wildcat snorted. "Oh, it's you," she said, crossing her arms, knowing that this wasn't the real Adora.

Younger She-Ra was silent, watching.

"And what are you supposed to do? Uh?" Catra insisted.

The answer came when She-Ra started walking and her face twisted into exaggerated grimaces, worthy of nightmares, until she took on the infected appearance of herself: red pupils, a crooked smile hungry for blood and with those grotesque crimson veins that furrowed all her skin. Then her gait became an urgent rush to ram her target: Catra.

"Adora, no!" The cat pleaded without thinking.

She evaded the attack and narrowly managed to prevent the huge woman from capturing her foot. Snow began to splatter all over the area from the heavy footfalls, and the feline claws clung to the ground as best those could to dodge. But, an infected She-Ra has never had any regard for her prey and she soon caught Catra's tail in an unfortunate leap.

Hisss!

She snorted again. "That hurts!"

But her complaint was left behind, because the giant surrounded her with a suffocating hug, preventing her from moving her arms or any other inch of the body; and as much as she squirmed, the kicks from the little trophy didn't even tickle to the monster. At that moment, a cruel and throaty laugh erupted from She-Ra. Her face faded and re-formed with the appearance of an arrogant Adora who sentenced to Catra...

"Everyone must suffer to purify themselves..."

Catra flinched at the threat. She knew what it meant, for those words had been etched into her head since the time she was used on Horde Prime's ship. She froze and didn't have time to think before fading from the lack of oxygen in her lungs.

* * * * * * *

A puff of air brought her to consciousness, but now she was on her back against the snow and her hands were trapped under her body. The infected She-Ra had leaned on her.

"Hey! What...?!" Catra tried to stir, but there was something strange. She-Ra no longer gave the impression of wanting to kill her, instead just stared at her, two inches from her face, as moistened her with a gasping breath. Catra's heart began to pound and panic contracted her skin. "What are you doing?! Get out of me!" the cat objected.

But its had no effect. A wicked giggle next to the ear was the only warning before She-Ra grabbed her knees with each hand and spread them despite the cat's resistance. Consequently, the hard belly of the corrupted one dropped into the space between her legs.

"Adora, no!" Catra demanded, still knowing that was not Adora.

Then Catra began to feel a very strong pressure against her pants, right between the thighs, and she knew that whatever was pushing would have no other place to go when the fabric ripped, except...inside her. Thinking about it, she opened wide her eyes and her teeth clenched. Sweat began to soak through the fine layer of fuzz on her face and the shivering of her body was due to everything but the cold.

From her side, with a twisted smile, infected She-Ra looked into the bicolor irises—their pupils were narrowed to the maximum—and lunged.

"Aaah!!!" The cat's scream echoed across the whitish landscape. The seam of her clothing had given way and a strange bulging body infiltrated through the hole, and through her. Whatever it was, it emanated such heat that it burned her insides. "No, no, no...It can't be" Catra muttered, seized with pain.

Were this how it feels to be stabbed by a sword?

She-Ra released a malicious giggle and she retreated from the body, satisfied to see a defeated Catra at her feet. But Catra could hardly believe what had just happened, and if it weren't for the burning and dirty sensation of a snake slipping inside her, she would have thought it was all a nightmare. It was after, at the moment that She-Ra dropped on knees in front of her face, that reality confronted her. The fake heroine pointed at her whit a thick phallus that came out through an opening in the white shorts pants and that bulk was so beastly as one could expect from someone eight feet tall, even without considering its potential to destroy armies. Catra's blood ran down the entire trunk, though not so thick to hide the swollen scarlet veins that pulsed with a life of their own.

"I'll...I'll kill you!" she shouted.

The loss of her chastity hurted intensely and not only in her body, though she didn't want to be the type to show her weaknesses, despite not finding the courage or strength to get up. In the end, she couldn't evited the pulling on her hair as the giant dragged her to shove bloody penis into the mouth, leaving her speechless and gasping for air after sinking into her throat. The slanted eyes—blue and gold—closed tightly and small but heartfelt tears welled up at the corners.

Why? Catra wondered. Why is this happening?

What if she closed her jaws and mutilated the monster? It could be that easy. She could do it when the meat hit bottom to do more damage. But, Catra did not dare. She couldn't hurt even that thing wasn't Adora and even this were violently hammered her larynx. Somehow, Catra knew that the fake She-Ra was acting for a reason she didn't understand. This She-Ra probably would tried to break her spirit, just like Catra did about so many people in the past. Or it would want to show her that little death where you end up trapped when a cannon fails to kill you. Perhaps...

Catra squeezed her eyelids and her tears trickled down. She was simply plunged into the darkness inside her.

However, before she was completely lost, a hopeful face was drawn in the darkness in front of her: light hair, blue eyes, stupid smile; It was Adora, her Adora. And she was worth fighting for, so Catra dug her claws into the infected woman's thighs and pushed hard, still resisting the attack against her jaws.

"Catraaa!!!" exclaimed a desperate voice in the distance.

Adora! Catra recognized her and opened her eyes only to see her own She-Ra in the wind.

The corrupt one barely managed to turn when, with a roar of fury and a powerful punch against the face, Adora-She-Ra sent her flying through the air.

"Fuck off!!!"

Catra had never heard those words from Adora's mouth, but this time she was quite pleased with it. "Adora, you're here," she whispered dejectedly.

"Catra! Catra!" Adora telled that name, filled with pain. "For Etheria, what did she do to you?" Clumsily, she scouted on the body of her companion seeking to know what, and finally slid her arms behind Catra's back and legs to lift her. "We have to get out of here," she firmly decreed.

"I'm fine," Catra said, struggling to achieve a natural tone of voice.

But a treacherous pang between her legs forced her to bring the hand to that area, exposing the blood that had permeated her pants.

Adora felt her heart leap from her chest. "I have to heal you!" she urged and made her way to the building in the distance. There, without pause dialed Catra's favorite number to open the door and Catra smiled at her. It was just a caress on her soul to see Adora remember things like that.

* * * * * * *

They entered the compound—a place with plenty of space—and She-Ra headed toward a cluster of large metal boxes that formed something like a trench. Even there, on the floor between the chests, there was a kind of makeshift nest made with various fabrics. Convenient enough, to tell the truth, but Adora wasn't there to question it, she simply laid Catra down carefully and had the instinct to wipe with her finger a spot of blood around Catra's mouth.

Catra felt embarrassed. "The taste of that..." spoke bitterly. "I don't know if I can forget it. It was...quite real."

"Some things here may be real," Adora explained, still looking like She-Ra. "But I don't understand this...Let me see," she added as put her hands on Catra's belt.

Instead, Catra quickly stopped her, holding her wrists. She didn't think about it, it was just something quite sudden. She-Ra met Catra's gaze and that eager exchange between they caused Adora to lose her transformation.

"I-I'm...sorry" she apologized with awkward words. "I didn't want to..."

"Okay," Catra replied in the same tone. "This took me by surprise...is just that we didn't...yet..."

Adora sighed, struggling to print a friendly smile. "Did you forget when I had to take off the Prime clothes from you?"

"It's not the same..."

Catra explained, before relaxing and beginning to shed her pants herself; and so much was not the same situation, that the blush began to invade the faces of both, being especially noticeable in the white face of Adora, who was paralyzed when she discovered that pubis where Catra's copper hair became more abundant and formed curls. Catra, in the other hand, noted with a bit of reserve the gawking expression on her silly blonde.

"Yo-you need to look closer," she emboldened to say.

Ironically, that cowed the fearless warrior, who was slow to move and had to shake her head before settling between Catra's legs, very slowly. Then she carefully examined the trail of blood that ran up the hair on that thighs, until she found the thin junction of the labia under the layer of curly fur. Catra looked away, feigning indifference.

"I-I'm going to touch you," Adora warned.

There was no answer, but that was the permission she needed from Catra. So Adora reached her trembling hand toward the fuzz and the first thing she distinguished from it was the wetness shed by the virginal blood. To thinking about how that ended there, made her chest compressed and her eyelids dropped sadly. Catra realized it and slid a hand over Adora's, giving it a gentle squeeze that said everything was fine—she wanted to be strong for both.

Adora smiled withdrawn and nodded. Then she continued exploring and in the most delicate way positioned her thumb and index finger on each of the folds. She parted them a bit and—beyond releasing a bubble of accumulated red plasma—was aware that she didn't know what was looking for. She felt absolutely stupid and embarrassed. But her temperature definitely rose as her heart beat went to fast as its did when she discovered Catra prostrated in front of the infected She-Ra, although in this case there was something different; this heartbeat was stronger and did not press her with fear, on the contrary.

Adora knew she had to do something, but she only laughed nervously. "Do you remember when we were little girls running all over the Fright Zone? I could be very clumsy at times." The question took Catra by surprise, so she raised an eyebrow, and Adora explained herself—"And sometimes I ended up hurt. When I was like that, you used to lick my wounds."

Oh. That made sense and Catra's face turned completely red under her thin fluff. She reviewed Adora's words and, incomprehensibly, a pleasant throbbing settled close to her wound. At that time, Catra shyly spread her legs and they both understood.

Adora swallowed before beginning to lean in, very slowly, and with both hands she brushed the fuzz from the center to the sides to clear the area. The texture was soft and puffy, more than it appeared; a whole new world of sensations under her fingertips. Then she delicately parted labia to reveal the delicate pink skin that led into Catra's body. At that moment, impregnated with the penetrating smell of iron and even the shreds of the torn hymen could be distinguished. Adora lost the rhythm of her breath at the sight, but she opened her mouth without thinking and her tongue came out needy, hungry.

"Ah..." Catra moaned unintentionally, feeling her pulse leap while the smooth texture of Adora's mouth pressed against her. Imagination had never prepared her for how comforting that would be. "Adora..." she murmured her name without really having anything to say. That message was given by her body trembling.

She brought her hands to the blond head and with one claw tore the hairband that held the ponytail. The golden strands fell heavy down the sides, although Catra tangled her fingers between those and lifted to they not interfere with Adora's task. Adora never stopped; with increasing confidence, she began to lick each fold and small bump as she passed.

It was paradoxical that, during her years in the Rebellion, Adora became fond of a feast of flavors, textures and scents, when what was in Catra were the most extremely addictive from the beginning. It was not only the drops of blood that appeared in less quantity with each caress of her tongue, nor the transparent and acid nectar that in contrast began to flow in abundance. There was something else, a feeling of agitation at the fact of being so intimately attached to her. Adora wanted to eat her from head to toe, and so she would slide her tongue up and down and back; she pushed the tip into the injured entrance as she passed through it, until gradually she worked her way through and was able to insert more than the tip of the tongue.

Catra moaned again, or more precisely, purred in a tone that became harsh and deep...and Adora has was afraid, afraid that she had gone too far after what happened outside, on the snow. So she tried to pull away, but Catra's hands in her hair pulled her tight.

"Adora, don't stop," Catra begged with voice hoarse.

Adora hesitated nervously. "Wha-what do you want me to do?"

The doubt was not superfluous. None of them had idea about what must result of these closeness issues. What's more, were they doing that? Would there be a signal to indicate when a game turned into something else? Glimmer was not very specific when she spoke to them about love and relationships—they wish had asked more questions. The only thing that was clear at the time was that all them fibers were vibrating anxiously.

"Adora, you..." Catra wanted to know something, but her voice trailed off as she thought it was embarrassing. She took a deep breath and finally was encouraged to continue. "I mean She-Ra...Has she always had...that?"

Adora frowned and crawled over Catra's body until she was face to face. Then, the pressure Adora exerted on Catra to be more specific caused the cat look away and speak in a very low voice.

"You know...pe-penis."

Adora opened her eyes. "What?! No!" she responded almost scared and was silent for a few seconds before pursing her lips to whisper insecured—"Would...would you like that?"

"No!" Catra replied in the same alarm mode, though she soon lowered her defenses and glanced sidelong. "Still...could you do it?"

The temperature rose. Adora was only an inch from her, intermingling them breaths. It was impossible to decipher who was exhaling the most heat. "N-no. Not like that..." the blonde stammered. "But, She-Ra, maybe she...if I focus on that—"

The feline raised an eyebrow and released the hair that she had retained, so Adora could raise itself before the watchful glance of Catra. Once standing, the white light of the invocation enlarged Adora's body, endowing it with the much admired muscles and the abundant hair, not to mention the ethereal blue gaze that accentuated the stamp of her warrior beauty. That was the real

She-Ra, and she was there again, giving that show that never ceased to amaze Catra. She was just lying on her elbows, on the blankets, completely mesmerized by that vision that already recognized as fucking exciting. There was only one extra detail on that occasion, as instead of appearing with the faithful Sword of Protection, She-Ra dispensed with that and materialized a completely new accessory.

Tightly wrapped around her bare lower abdomen, a set of golden belts formed a hip harness from which emerged a phallus as thick and long as the infected version of She-Ra; that although it was lined with thick red veins and a head slightly smaller than its width, the artificial appendage of this She-Ra was smooth and uniform, and it possessed a prominent and well-formed glans. They both with the flexibility of flesh and the toughness to penetrate rock...

Adora-She-Ra offered a hand and leaned in enough to hold Catra's, who was already rising synchronously. In that instant, she seemed to have forgotten about the pain.

"Wow. Is there anything beyond She-Ra's abilities?" Catra dared to joke.

"Now that I think about it...No," Adora replied, playing along. "So come here..." she added.

So, without letting go that hand, She-Ra sat with her legs apart on one of the boxes in the fence and displayed not only her upright phallus, but also the power to ignore the icy metal in contact with her buttocks. She simply smiled and with loving care placed Catra in front with the back to her.

Catra looked at Adora over the shoulder. "What? You haven't kissed me all night and you already want to enter through the back hole," she objected sarcastically, trying to cover up her fear of being right. "Your other me didn't hurt me that much. You don't need to avoid my..."

"I know," interrupted Adora. "I didn't think about that. I just want to be able to do this..."

And without further explanation, She-Ra slid her hands under the winter jacket, dragging them over the velvety skin until she found the firm, perky boobs that were lost under her huge palms.

Catra stifled a gasp of surprise which turned into a purr when She-Ra squeezed and pulled her back. Catra didn't even get a chance to balance, because where she fell was protected by the strong chest of her heroine.

"If you sit like that on me you can stop whenever you want," Adora whispered into her ear, causing poor Catra to shudder and her purr to get louder.

Again, the lack of response gave Adora the signal to move on and with determined fingers she rubbed the nipples that—by then—she could only imagine thanks to her touch. She squeezed them between her phalanxes, drew circles with them, and felt them harden between her fingertips as she pushed them to either side, like they were little control levers...something those probably were, as every twist and friction had the power to speed up or detain Catra's breath. The cat just wriggled and undulated, while a web of pleasant beats ran through the taned skin until concentrated between her legs.

After a moment, She-Ra's right hand left the breast and slid down, her palm combing all the way that led to the bulging pubis. There, she stopped to play, sneaking and tangling her fingers in the curly fur. Adora wondered how she had wasted so much time. That body that she had seen develop was so soft, more than she remembered, and its still kept secrets from her.

"Adora, lower down," Catra implored as buried her face in She-Ra's neck and grab the big hand to guide it to the fountain that was already dripping.

That initiative mutered the tall warrior, but the tickling was strongest in her own hidden area behind the harness, so she quickly slid the hand between her girlfriend's legs and grabbed the tip of the dildo to slide it a few times on Catra's vulva. Then Adora searched with her own fingers for the entrance to that body and placed the phallus there.

"I'm going to do it," She-Ra warned in a whisper, almost sinking into Catra's ear again.

Catra nodded with the heat on the face and she held onto the blonde head with both hands, like a cat would on a log floating above the river. "Do it," she whispered in return.

Simultaneously, with a hand already on Catra's hip and the other on her chest, the huge woman began to push downward, causing the fake penis to enter in her body very slowly. Catra could feel everything with absolute clarity, while the prominent glans tore what was left of the hymen and its extension was separating millimeter by millimeter the walls of her interior—and that hurts.

She bit the back of one hand to keep from crying, for the object that penetrated her with such prudence was just as devious as the one that had previously invaded her against her will. And, however, the difference was there; this time was Adora who did it and her treatment was so affectionate, at the same time seductive, that the Wildcat of her inner felt devoid of her claws. At that moment, Catra was at the total mercy of those affections, even if this were a small sacrifice to melt into the magic of her love.

Catra was so fervent that when she felt the phallus had reached her limit and kept pushing, instead of stopping it as Adora said, she quickly removed her boots, rubbing one against other, and flexed her legs to rest her feet on Adora's thighs. A new surprise for the blonde, who immediately felt how her blood ran down to her clit and hit, inciting it to throb. Her usually pale cheeks were tinted with a beautiful hint of pink.

"Am I hurting you?" she asked, ready to stop.

Catra leaned face to face and smiled at Adora before speaking in a thin voice—"I'm fine."

Then opened her mouth—showing the fangs—and prepared to devour Adora's lips, so closed her eyes and waited for the long-awaited touch, but a sudden, deep and familiar laugh, echoed through the vault of the building.

"Do you really think you deserve Adora's love?" questioned a voice.

Catra and Adora paid attention, and after thinking a bit, the feline replied:

"Is it you, Scorpia?"

"Who else could be true to your steps without waiting for a single show of affection?" the voice confirmed. "The love you receive now without having done anything to deserve it."

"No...you can't be Scorpia. She doesn't talk like that," Catra replied.

Adora grabbed Catra's chin and turned it to force her to focus on her own. "Don't listen to her. This place plays with our minds and you know it."

It took Catra two seconds to remember and nod. Still, that feeling had been haunting around since Adora rescued her from Horde Prime and what Scorpia was doing at the time was just telling the truth.

"She's right," a fourth presence easily recognizable as Entrapta emerged. "Scorpia and I pay for our crimes with suffering," she continued. "Me when you banished me to Beast Island, and Scorpia with being the puppet that you mistreated at will..."

"I-I don't..." Catra stammered, entirely distraught.

"Catra!" Adora insisted firmly and held her face with the whole hand. "It's not real."

But the laughter of her former companions resounded through the complex, higher and higher, and the kitten was lost. Adora understood that she must do something to bring Catra back to her, so she fully unzipped her jacket and lifted her Horde blouse above the breasts, which Adora held almost desperately; her other hand grabbed Catra's groin and lift her slightly so that dildo would do the job it should.

Catra instinctively inhaled and gasped as Adora pushed her down again; thus began a movement rhythmically, as far as Catra herself had marked it.

"Adora...wait," she moaned, her breathing ragged.

The laughter of the so-called Entrapta and Scorpia continued to echo through the space, increasingly delirious.

"Don't listen to them," Adora snorted ainst Catra's cheek, while struggled to keep her in a cyclical up and down on her lap. "It's you and me only. There's nothing you have to pay. I love you."

"Oh really?" asked a new presence brimming with clarity.

They couldn't know the exact place where its had come from, but it was clear that was quite close to them and there were a familiar color of voice. Lovers turned automatically.

"I think you still need a punishment for everything you did to me, sweety..." the presence added at the time that a shadow was left behind and a She-Ra—in her first transformation—emerged from darkness; that was an Adora version who had lived years before and who, to top it all, sported the fresh mark of three scratches on her left cheek. "And I love you too, but that doesn't erase the pain you made me feel. Do you want me to talk about the bitterest moments?" she concluded resentfully.

* * * * * * *

After the threat, She-Ra of the present stopped her caresses and stared at her other me for long seconds, almost fearly. Somehow, she worried that the other was going to confess all her secrets right there, but she tried to remember...Was there something she never wanted to say to Catra?

Catra just looked at them and anxiety carried over to her as well. Perhaps because of that, the strong throbbing in her inners began to ache, and now that Adora had stopped, it would not have been easy to continue. Much less with public.

"I said I'm sorry," Catra replied, wishing she wasn't there.

"And do you think that is enough?" She-Ra-copy reproached, without taking her eyes off Catra.

"Yes!" Adora intervened energetically.

But old She-Ra seemed not to listen. She simply formed a mischievous smile before speaking cheekily. "By the way, Catra, nice portrait. I didn't know you could do that."

That observation made Catra feel even more vulnerable and embarrassed, so she clicked her mouth and quickly lowered one foot for retreat, but she couldn't. In the blink of an eye, the fake She-Ra approached and stopped her leg exactly where she was, sliding at the same time between Adora's thighs. That's how ended up on top of both of them.

"What the hell are you doing?!" Adora snapped in protest and threw her hand against the throat of the copy to choke her.

But that She-Ra showed no signs of suffering, actually she responded completely encircling Catra's neck with only one hand and began to squeeze to the point tha she stopping the slightest breath, not even to complain.

"Let her go!" Adora insisted from her awkward position.

"No," was the other's dry reply.

Frustration washed over Adora and she shifted under both bodies, fighting for better posture. However, Catra stiffened and, although almost inaudible, she let out a ragged squeak. Adora couldn't ignore it. Catra was suffering.

"What do you want?! And say it fast!" Adora demanded.

"Oh...I just want a little retribution," replied the fake She-Ra. "Catra made us suffer. She hurt us many times. She hurt our friends. And you...just forgave her?"

Adora just watched at her with impatient eyes as she glanced at Catra, who were growing limp and on the brink of unconsciousness.

"But you know? Despite all that, it's not about us, Adora," said She-Ra-copy. "It's about Catra. She can't believe you're stupid enough to accept her without paying a price. She wants a punishment."

A little laugh from that mouth hit Adora's face and the hand on Catra's neck loosened the grip on it. In than moment, the cat reacted by taking a desperate gulp before having a coughing fit.

"Isn't that right, kitty?" The executioner continued, grabbing onto the dark hair to jerk her the head up. "You want to pay She-Ra for the damage you did to her. But your Adora is too soft to charge you...That's why I'm here. You want to me." The fake She-Ra smiled wickedly.

"Catra? Are you okay?" Adora inquired, in complete stupor. "Do you really feel that?"

Catra couldn't answer. She only clenched her eyelids and wanted to bury her head in the ground, but she was trapped between the bodies of the mighty warriors.

"Oh, I already told you, Adora." The replicant stole the word. "I'm just the projection of what she deserves. I'm what she wants; and when she finally accepts it, I will leave. You won't see me again." Then, the copy focused on Catra and spoke very close to her face—the voice low and suggestive. "Just say it, kitty. Say you want me to stay...say you want your punishment now. She can participate too," she added finally, with a nod to point to Adora.

Catra and Adora hardly looked at each other. Each was overwhelmed by her own shame.

Meanwhile, the fake She-Ra pressed her body against the women below and when her pelvis reached Catra's—still hooked with the dildo inside her—the now familiar piece of venous flesh peeked out from the shorts and began to growing up. It grew in width and extension, until touched Catra's exposed clit, where it deposited a hot stream of precum.

"Hey, Catra. I think you already know what this is," the fake boasted.

Catra opened her mouth in surprise.

"Come on, just nod. We don't want to do this the hard way...again," insisted the intruder.

Adora gritted her teeth—furious at the things she was hearing—and she was about to send everything to Despondos and beyond, and tear her counterpart apart, but then...Catra did; Catra nodded with a resigned exhalation.

"Do it," she said in a low, withdrawn voice.

Adora froze. She even shivered at the icy sensation that ran down her spine. She didn't know what to think, she forgot how to do it, and that moment of silence turned to resignation. In seconds, she simply hugged her lover and hid her face in her tousled hair.

The fake She-Ra laughed triumphantly and tucked her forearm under Catra's chin, while her other hand placed the tip of her fat penis against the vaginal entrance. There where Adora's dildo was already.

"Wait!" Adora protested as soon as she felt the pressure on herself. "You're going to hurt her. Let me out first!"

The other She-Ra laughed again and answered triumphantly—"That is what it's about."

So she gave a strong shove and her throbbing appendix penetrated the catgirl until reach the fund. Instantly, Catra let out the loudest scream Adora had ever heard and a warm stream gushed from her groin. It was easy for the blonde to guess that was blood flowing between them.

"Enough!" she cried, putting her hands around the other She-Ra's neck, intending to crush her.

But the Wildcat intervened despite feeling her vagina burning as the copy of She-Ra began to rub inside her; raised her hands to place them over Adora's and clasped them warmly to give her the message that everything was fine. Then she twisted her neck, seeking the gaze of her mate, whom gazed fondly on as she reached up to meet her face. Adora couldn't resist and received that lips with a gentle touch before opening the mouth to give in to the kiss.

Catra and Adora bonded so perfectly every time they did that. They had been made to fit together and that time was no exception to complement each other, and get their souls to make love through moisture and the eager play of their tongues. Her bodies, on the other hand, were left to the swaying of the false

She-Ra who convulsed on top of them both, maliciously inserting her brutal member—the copy even drooling, panting like a beast in heat.

As for Adora, she could feel the powerful blows almost as if they were meant for her. After all, the artificial phallus was attached to her body in a way that she did not fully understand. She didn't know in what way, or how, her transformation affected it, but every time the dildo was rubbed, she could feel it too. She felt as if a hand, or something else, was massaging her clit directly, so she began to lubricate and arouse herself. It was a terribly ambiguous sensation, as the penis, like a poisonous snake, slipped incessantly against her dildo, splashing and doing its work inside Catra's tight vagina. Each could feel it and it was undeniable that the couple's fluids, added to the bitter juices of the beast, were the perfect slimy mix that made it possible.

Gradually, Catra's moans increased in pitch and turned into passionate screams that Adora began to wonder if she was suffering—or enjoying; and also doubted it because—although she knew that the other She-Ra was taking advantage—Adora herself could not deny that Catra's fur and the brush of the tail against her abdomen were driving her crazy. So the really bad thing happened when, suddenly, She-Ra-copy wrapped her arms around Catra and stayed with her, leaving Adora face up on the metal surface, orphaned of all warmth and touch. Simultaneously, the cat only managed to complain after suffering the abrupt exit of Adora's dildo, leaving a trail of pink fluids.

Already standing, the fake She-Ra kept the penis inside Catra and kept her in flight, squeezing her only by the waist with the huge arms, forcing the little one to wrapping with the legs so as not to fall so heavy on the cock that was pressing hard against her depths.

"Hey!" Adora protested as she got up. "That's not the deal!"

"Come and take her if you think she still owes you something," replied the copy still moving the hips.

Notwithstanding, Adora had never put a price on her forgiveness. It was Catra who had chosen to pay it like this—embraced by someone who was not really her, someone who made her moan and sweat to the beat of her lunges; and who made her enjoy herself, judging by the liquids that already had formed a small puddle at their feet. Adora didn't know what to do, she just watches.

But Catra turned her face—noticeably red under her fine fuzz—and with the eyes of a sick lamb spoke to Adora in the most anguished voice she had ever heard—

"Adora, don't leave me."

She reached out an arm for mercy and Adora's heart broke. A short, painful sigh came from her chest and she walked the ten steps that separated them. She approached to Catra totally meek, trying to accept what was happening and took off the winter jacket that hung from her, as well as the shirt, passing it over her head. Adora wanted, at least, to have the privilege of feeling that tanned skin as she joined behind her.

At no time did the false She-Ra give her a break, on the contrary, that thing kept shaking the little one with stronger thrusts, at the same time that Adora hugged her beloved girl; and the unthinkable happened later, when without a word, Catra held Adora's dildo and she felt it. Adora was confused, but gave a bit of space to discover the reason and the puzzle was solved when the feline placed the tip of the object against her own anus, pulling in a little. Adora's face turned completely red and Catra's sank against the chest of the one who was attacking her from the front. Thus, having understood the message, Adora swallowed and grabbed onto the bouncy hips of her girlfriend to thrust with her pelvis.

* * * * * * *

Countless were the screams and moans that came from Catra's throat, but the exclamation that followed the opening of her rectum was unmistakable. Adora even doubted if she should come out before doing more damage, but Catra brought her hands to Adora's hips and pulled them closer to letting know that she wanted her deeper inside. Then, after blinking a couple of times, the blonde did; she clung to the slender waist and thrust the dildo as deep as possible, surprised by the spark that ran through her legs. Although the best part was the loud purr that began to sound in response.

"Oh, Catra, Catra..." Adora whispered reflectively, as she began to pump into her ass.

She wrapped her arms around Catra's waist and without thinking joined the punitive task that her counterpart began, establishing a rhythm as uneven as themselves; for just as at times they introduced their limbs at the same time and could feel the pressure of the other through the internal walls of Catra, they also alternated their entrances and exits, one by one without rest, through the most mystical and intimate portal of all the world—the Catra's groin. And whether in front or behind, there was always a She-Ra filling her insides; sometimes with painful thrusts that seemed to go through her, while others were pleasant frictions that radiated pleasure throughout her belly, especially when Adora's phallus pressed on a sensitive point that until then Catra did not know she had.

"I can see in your face that you're enjoying it," snapped the copy of She-Ra, which at that moment was squeezing Catra's buttocks with her big hands. "But it's what you wanted, right? You like pain, suffering is a booty for you," she added, panting.

Catra decided not to respond and, overcome with embarrassment, kept her head down, avoiding eye contact. But Adora couldn't ignore it and stroked her thumbs over the fluffy torso of her kitten, while she fixed the hardest gaze on the fake she.

"But it's not a prize. It's time to pay," added the sadist, the instant her eyes changed from sky blue to fiery scarlet.

Her laughter broke out crazily and from that moment everything happened too fast. The false She-Ra accelerated the movement of her pelvis and with it the force of her penetrations. Grotesque vermilion veins furrowed her white skin, as if they were soon to burst, and the corrupted She-Ra—the one infected with bloodlust—emerged right there inside the catgirl. Because of how close they were, the lunges began to feel like brutal cuts that went through everything on contact.

"Aagh!!!"

Catra bellowed as loud as her lungs reached and she stiffened to the last fiber. Her inner was totally torn and she felt the fire consume her from within. At that moment, the copy expelled a powerful and abundant stream of semen that felt almost painful and flooded everything until it gushes out of the tiny recesses between the bodies.

"Stop!" Adora intervened after overstepping the limits of her tolerance. Her protective instincts surfaced, and before thinking, she nullified the magic that endowed her with the hip harness, to throw the fist with all her force against the face of her duplicate. "I already forgave her!" she yelled.

Crack

The sound of a skull breaking was heard. Adora had practically turned into a projectile with the ability to pass through a mountain.

The She-Ra-copy flew for the airs until it crashed into the farest wall, where the impact bent the steel and formed a crater, the edges of which dug into her like needles in a pincushion. Her face was no more by then, it had lost all shape under Adora's knuckles. The only thing recognizable about her was that horrible bloodstained appendage that was at her crotch, still discharging slimy little gulps of her seed.

"And from now on I'll even take care of her, if need be," Adora said with a stiff jaw.

She couldn't contain her anger. She clenched her fists so tightly that her nails dug into the palms and the only thing she regretted was that she destroyed her rival with a single blow. She would have liked to destroy that monster slowly, limb by limb.

Why did I let this happen?! She mentally claimed herself before she remembered what really mattered—"Catra..."

The call reached Catra's fluffy ears, who moved despite being in a pool of fluids on the floor. Her suffering was unquestionable. "Adora?" she managed to speak in a shaky voice.

"We have to get out of here," replied the blonde, transformed into her usual She-Ra outfit. "I won't let this happen again."

She immediately put the hands under her lover's body and lifted her, holding her tightly against the chest. Adora held her so tightly that almost turned her into a ball, but Catra didn't refuse. In fact, that was the closest thing to merging with Adora, where she knew that was safe.

She-Ra began a race against the door that offered the illusion and, with the timely materialization of her sword, she opened a large hole in the steel. Once on the other side, the Hordian ensemble and the snow disappeared, and she simply found herself facing one of the cold corridors of the Crystal Castle. From there, finding the way out was easy.

* * * * * * *

EPILOGUE

The return to Bright Moon took less time than usual. Adora wanted to get home as soon as possible to properly tend to Catra's injuries, but although she tried to sneak into the residential hallways without attracting attention, She-Ra never went unnoticed. Thus, after doing a few tricks for the Guard, Catra was finally able to rest on Adora's bed, where she snuggled under the softest and warmest blanket that her blonde gave her. Of course, by then, the heroine was already dressed in her normal nightwear and her hair was untied, the way Catra liked it.

"You shouldn't have brought me to your room. The guard saw us," Catra said in a muffled voice.

"They only saw She-Ra with her shield...perhaps in a strange way," Adora replied with a slight sly undertone, "but this isn't the first time that has happened. I'm sure no one saw you."

Catra only nod under the blanket to look ruefully at her nakedness. "I'm so sorry I lost your jacket," she said.

"Don't worry. I'm twenty like that," the blonde answered without thinking.

"Oh who would say?" the kitten muttered scathingly.

Adora laughed a little, but then she became serious and took advantage of the conversation to sit on the edge of the mattress, next to Catra. She looked at the little claw that rested palm up on her pillow and took it in her hands.

"Will you allow me to see the extent of the damage? May I heal you this time...please?" she begged mortified.

Catra leaned her face against the pillow, her words nearly drowning in the feathers of the stuffing. "Adora, I don't know how to show you without feeling more humiliated," she confessed, after exhausting all the excuses she had.

Adora formed a pained smile and ran the fingers of her right hand through Catra's tousled hair. "I love you, Catra." Adora's sudden shot hit the nail on the head and the Wildcat made a small grimace. However, she maintained her right to remain silent. "I was there too," Adora continued. "And I blame myself for allowing it to happen. I should...I should have protected you better. That's my duty," she pointed out.

Silence enveloped the two girls, and after a long, tense moment, Catra turned her head to find Adora. Their eyes were clouded behind a glass of tears and the knots in their throats blocked all words. They looked at each other for a while and then each wiped her face, trying not to get caught in the instant.

"What you must to do is stop taking the blame for others," Catra said finally, almost reaching the tone with which she used to lecture Adora. "Error or not, it was my decision...those were my regrets against myself," she pointed out, before turning carefully on her back—and despite resenting the residual pain—she finished softening the face while fixing her attention on one point of the roof. "Although I would have preferred not to go to that castle in the first place," she concluded.

Adora took note of the confession and realized that it was the first time that Catra took responsibility for her actions. Was it the beginning of something? Was it true that she couldn't be everyone's hero either? Probably, but she didn't want to start practicing it that night. That night she would take care of Catra in the most loving way she could with her short experience.

"I'm going to remove the blanket. You understand?" she announced, earning an angry click from Catra in reply.

But that didn't stop Adora, who held the edge of the blanket with both hands and began to slide it, carefully studying Catra's reactions in case any movement overwhelmed her; a situation that arose when she discovered the area around Catra's pubis. Thus, Adora began to gently caress the brown head and the feline softened little by little, although she turned her face towards the wall. Perfect, because Adora had to try hard not to show the fascination that the coppery body induced in her. She's so beautiful, she said mentally before printing the utmost simplicity in the next statement:

"Just relax. I'm going...I'm going to touch you..."

Catra squeezed her eyes shut and Adora took it as a sign. She delicately placed her right palm against Catra's lower abdomen, and despite the little jump that she felt, she saw that there was nothing to worry about. Adora just wanted Catra to familiarize herself with her touch before continuing. A moment later, cautiously, she glided in the same direction as the fluff hair and soon found herself at the apex where that mons pubis parted into two sensitive paths. Adora closed her lids and took a deep breath before summoning the magic from within her.

Her chest flickered with radiant hues, and the light spread up her entire arm to the hand, where it radiated at her fingertips most intensely. A warm wave floated around these and Adora slowly inserted them between the folds of the vulva, identifying the little, sensitive nub. Catra let out a low groan, but Adora didn't stop. Concentrated on the task of healing, she descended a little further and found a small river of blood still dripping from the wounded cavity. She pointed her middle and index fingers inward and began to push, but Catra grabbed her hand...again.

Both were startled. However, when her gazes met, Adora smiled warmly and leaned over the kitten to place a tender kiss on her lips. "Okay..." she whispered. "It's okay."

She hugged her little lover with her free arm and Catra latched onto her back with all the strength she had left. Adora stoically endured her sharp claws on the skin and without interrupting her concentration, she inserted the fingers into Catra's body, who held her breath.

Healing magic soon spread far and wide across the injured walls, and Adora did not deny the desire to spread it herself among the nooks and crannies of the canal. She wanted to comfort her and erase all pain and unpleasant sensations with her touch. Thus, unconsciously, Adora began to flex her fingers and extend them, until that delicate game was pressing against the wall of the pubic bone, germinating the pleasant tingling that spilled over Catra's thighs. She whimpered inadvertently.

"Did I hurt you?" Adora asked, stopping on the spot.

Catra stared at the gentle blue gaze on her, and felt her heart beat with joy as she remembered the softness of that mouth and the love of her treatment when Adora played to lick her wounds. She also recognized that now her lower belly was filled with a pleasant anxiety. It still ached, but her wounds had closed.

"That was left behind," Catra replied panting. "I'm sorry we haven't found anything about your origin," she added, remembering the first reason for having gone to the forest.

Adora shook her head.

"It doesn't matter...It doesn't matter knowing where I come from, or what's in the past, as long as I can share my destiny with you."

Catra licked her own lips.

"Okay, then let's go together to where the stars are born." It was a short, improvised and emotional declamation, and yet Adora frowned without understanding what Catra was referring to, so the feline laughed for the first time that night. "You're an idiot," she let out affectionately and added releasing her breath—"Just do your magic."

"At your command, Captain," Adora replied. Her fingers went a little deeper...

THE END

Please drop by the archive and comment to let the author know if you enjoyed their work!