The Radio Demon's Lover

Posted originally on the Archive of Our Own at http://archiveofourown.org/works/36436642.

Rating:
Explicit

Archive Warning:
Graphic Depictions Of Violence, Major Character Death, Rape/Non-Con

Category:
Multi, F/F, F/M, Gen, M/M

Fandom:
She-Ra and the Princesses of Power (2018), Hazbin Hotel (Web Series), Helluva Boss (Web Series)

Relationship:
Alastor (Hazbin Hotel)/Double Trouble (She-Ra), Bow/Glimmer (She-Ra), Adora/Catra (She-Ra), Angel Dust/Husk (Hazbin Hotel), Charlie Magne/Vaggie, Blitzo/Stolas Goetia, Millie/Moxxie (Helluva Boss), Lilith Magne/Lucifer Magne, Vox (Hazbin Hotel)/Original Female Character(s)

Character:
Alastor (Hazbin Hotel), Alastor's Shadow (Hazbin Hotel), Double Trouble (She-Ra), Glimmer (She-Ra), Bow (She-Ra), Catra (She-Ra), Adora (She-Ra), Angel Dust (Hazbin Hotel), Husk (Hazbin Hotel), Charlie Magne, Vaggie (Hazbin Hotel), Niffty (Hazbin Hotel), Blitzo (Helluva Boss), Millie (Helluva Boss), Moxxie (Helluva Boss), Stolas Goetia, Vox (Hazbin Hotel), Valentino (Hazbin Hotel), Striker (Helluva Boss), Verosika Mayday, Lilith Magne, Lucifer Magne, Katie Killjoy, Tom Trench, Velvet (Hazbin Hotel), Sir Pentious (Hazbin Hotel), Cherri Bomb (Hazbin Hotel), Original Hazbin Hotel Character(s), Horde Prime (She-Ra), Original Characters, Octavia Goetia, Helsa Von Eldritch

Additional Tags:
Crossover, Gay, Horde Prime has a daughter, Double Trouble Almost Fucking Dies (She Ra), Implied/Referenced Character Death, Implied/Referenced Suicide, Implied Sexual Content, Arranged Marriage AU, Gay idiots dancing in formal attire under the moon, Alastor Is Not Okay (Hazbin Hotel), Alastor Has a Heart (Hazbin Hotel), Double Trouble Is So Done (She Ra), Queen Lilith is almost dying, Implied/Referenced Rape/Non-con, Implied/Referenced Alcohol Abuse/Alcoholism, Implied/Referenced Homophobia, Non Sex-Repulsed Asexual Alastor (Hazbin Hotel), Fluff and Angst, Emotional Hurt/Comfort, Unplanned Pregnancy, Miscarriage, This started as a joke but as it became popular I continued, This was never beta read by anyone but me., Helsa Von Eldritch is actually nicer than what she lets on, no beta we die like my will to live, Demiromantic Asexual Alastor (Hazbin Hotel), Queerplatonic Relationships

Language:
English

Series:
Part 1 of The RadioTrouble Saga

Stats:
Published: 2022-01-15 Completed: 2022-11-11 Words: 83,358 Chapters: 64/64

The Radio Demon's Lover

Posted originally on the Archive of Our Own at http://archiveofourown.org/works/36436642.

Rating:

Explicit

Archive Warning:

Graphic Depictions Of Violence, Major Character Death, Rape/Non-Con

Category:

Multi, F/F, F/M, Gen, M/M

Fandom:

She-Ra and the Princesses of Power (2018), Hazbin Hotel (Web Series), Helluva Boss (Web Series)

Relationship:

Alastor (Hazbin Hotel)/Double Trouble (She-Ra), Bow/Glimmer (She-Ra), Adora/Catra (She-Ra), Angel Dust/Husk (Hazbin Hotel), Charlie Magne/Vaggie, Blitzo/Stolas Goetia, Millie/Moxxie (Helluva Boss), Lilith Magne/Lucifer Magne, Vox (Hazbin Hotel)/Original Female Character(s)

Character:

Alastor (Hazbin Hotel), Alastor's Shadow (Hazbin Hotel), Double Trouble (She-Ra), Glimmer (She-Ra), Bow (She-Ra), Catra (She-Ra), Adora (She-Ra), Angel Dust (Hazbin Hotel), Husk (Hazbin Hotel), Charlie Magne, Vaggie (Hazbin Hotel), Niffty (Hazbin Hotel), Blitzo (Helluva Boss), Millie (Helluva Boss), Moxxie (Helluva Boss), Stolas Goetia, Vox (Hazbin Hotel), Valentino (Hazbin Hotel), Striker (Helluva Boss), Verosika Mayday, Lilith Magne, Lucifer Magne, Katie Killjoy, Tom Trench, Velvet (Hazbin Hotel), Sir Pentious (Hazbin Hotel), Cherri Bomb (Hazbin Hotel), Original Hazbin Hotel Character(s), Horde Prime (She-Ra), Original Characters, Octavia Goetia, Helsa Von Eldritch

Additional Tags:

Crossover, Gay, Horde Prime has a daughter, Double Trouble Almost Fucking Dies (She Ra), Implied/Referenced Character Death, Implied/Referenced Suicide, Implied Sexual Content, Arranged Marriage AU, Gay idiots dancing in formal attire under the moon, Alastor Is Not Okay (Hazbin Hotel), Alastor Has a Heart (Hazbin Hotel), Double Trouble Is So Done (She Ra), Queen Lilith is almost dying, Implied/Referenced Rape/Non-con, Implied/Referenced Alcohol Abuse/Alcoholism, Implied/Referenced Homophobia, Non Sex-Repulsed Asexual Alastor (Hazbin Hotel), Fluff and Angst, Emotional Hurt/Comfort, Unplanned Pregnancy, Miscarriage, This started as a joke but as it became popular I continued, This was never beta read by anyone but me., Helsa Von Eldritch is actually nicer than what she lets on, no beta we die like my will to live, Demiromantic Asexual Alastor (Hazbin Hotel), Queerplatonic Relationships

Language:
English

Series:
Part 1 of The RadioTrouble Saga

Stats:
Published: 2022-01-15 Completed: 2022-11-11 Words: 83,358
Chapters: 64/64

The Radio Demon's Lover

by Chaotic_Desires

Summary

For many years, Etheria and Hell have been at war. King Lucifer has chosen a powerful sinner, The Radio Demon, to find an Etherian and have a betrothed wedding to restore peace between the two worlds.

And the Radio Demon seem to have found the perfect companion: a shapeshifter who, little does he know, is quite the killer. Figuratively AND literally.

Said shapeshifter never wanted anything to do with him, but the tables turn throughout the process.

Notes

3/6/23 UPDATE: Hiiiii I'm editing this story!! Some parts I really hate how I executed them, so I'm fixing it up. Maybe changing a couple scenes? It really just depends on the chapter.

Also, this is like Bride of Discord, but it is darker, much more mature, and well...not MLP. Enjoy and thanks so much for the kudos!! <3

The Calm Beginning...

Chapter Summary

> EDIT: 7/10/22: I've decided to edit most of the story, due to me feeling like it's lacking some things, accidental typos, font changes, etc.
>
> 3/6/23 UPDATE: doing some more fixes!! Man my characterization and grammar was off as fu—

Hell, a torturous place for sinners and hellborns…

Well, that's what newbies would think. If you've been there for a year are two and have gotten over the yearly exterminations, you would feel at home. Hell isn't the worst place to be. However, the fearsome Radio Demon resides there. Many live in terror whenever he comes around.

Etheria, a glorious world that was saved from Horde Prime.

A famous group of Heroes called the Rebellion. A shapeshifter thespian lives in the Crimson Waste as a lone wolf, but could take anyone down in a murderous, gory way. They've earned themself the title of the "Shapeshifting Psycho" after Prime's fall. They were even hired as a spy and assassin.

The pay was rather good.

Both the Radio Demon and Shapeshifting Psycho are very dangerous, with a vulnerable side to them that they hide, so nobody sees it. They use a facade, making sure it never fades.

They put their guards up so they don't get hurt... Not again, at least. But this is about to change very soon.

The dawn brought a soft morning glow. The Crimson Waste was silent, aside from the occasional tumbleweeds.

The Shapeshifting Psycho had just finished their kill. Their real name is Double Trouble, as many would know them. They've only used the alias because it made them feel powerful. They licked off the blood on their lips, and it stained their pearlescent jagged teeth.

This was sometimes an odd feeling, despite killing multiple people before...it was strangely natural to them. They had a craving for bloodshed that hadn't been satisfied. Rumors spread that Prince Peekablue wasn't hiding, but rather that Double Trouble killed him. They immediately shut it down, as they were on good terms with the prince. They'd never do such a thing to him…

Yet...

Joking, joking. They would NEVER.

They then wiped off their dagger on their pants, strutting off, away from the bloodied mess and decapitated body. That's someone else's problem, they pondered. They were humming a haunting melody, gazing around. Some recoiled in fear. Others whispered rumors and gossip. Double Trouble didn't care, though. It was a never bother to them.

They looked over their shoulder, feeling someone following them. They gripped onto the handle of their dagger, brows scrunching.

Nothing was there. Only a shadow with bright blue eyes.

It vanished, and they shook it off. They headed back to Bright Moon, taking their time...it wasn't that long of a trip, if they remembered correctly. At least they were wearing semi–comfortable clothing. They weren't wearing their usual leotard with heels: instead, they had silver, armor shoulder pads, with a silver belt clasped around their waist, too. Their tight, long sleeved shirt and pants were pitch black, and they had on charcoal gray combat boots, laced perfectly. They had on fingerless gloves that were leather, and their hair was shorter. They still had both side of their head shaved and an undercut, but their hair was inches above their shoulders. They looked attractive in most eyes, but deadly for others.

Like a precious yet poisonous belladonna. You can admire the beauty, but come and contact and you'll suffer.

They strutted into Bright Moon, passing the guards who gave them a nod, a little shaken up after noticing the blood smears on their pants.

Double Trouble had grown a bit more serious of their surroundings. While they enjoyed the chaos, they were more reserved about it.

During this time period however, Queen Glimmer had grown concerned for their wellbeing and was horrified about their reputation. All that hid behind their dramatic and charismatic persona was revealed to be a demonic freak of nature.

Everyone was on edge, but thrilled for them to help out with a brand new threat.

There had been a deer demon, who has voodoo magic. He's an evil source of chaos that could destroy and devour anyone if he wanted to.

Double Trouble had known about him, and hates him with every fiber of their being.

It seemed like the Radio Demon was their sworn enemy...but a familiar one, if that.

They walked into the throne room, tilting their head up at the tall, floating throne in front of them.

Glimmer was sitting regally, right leg crossed over her left.

"You successfully killed the henchman? Already?" She asked. Double Trouble knelt down, dipping their head.

"Yes. He was...an interesting kill, to say the least." They answered simply, politely even. They licked their lips, still tasting the leftover blood. "I tell you, the pure bloodshed and disarray… oh! It was breathtaking." They tilted their head up to meet Glimmer's sparkling eyes.

Glimmer tensed up. Her nose crinkled in disgust, her mouth twisting into a grimace.

"I see." She trailed off, fingers tapping on the armrest of her throne. She then cleared her throat.

"Did I frighten you?" DT brought up. "I didn't mean to do such a thing, you know how I've developed a taste for blood."

"Considering you… I am not really that surprised. You're kinda… monstrous. No offense." Glimmer gave off a small, nervous chuckle. DT merely giggled softly.

"None taken." They slowly rose from the floor. They brushed off a piece of sand on their arm. "I've been called much worse." They put a hand to their chest.

"Like…"

Oh Glimmer. Sweet, sweet Glimmer. Don't ask something like that unless you want a startling answer.

"I've been called a devilish whore by one of the Radio Demon's henchmen! I gave him the most brutal punishment of all time," There was a furious, psychotic gleam in their electric yellow eyes. "Oh darling Glimmer, let me tell you, his organs had been spread ALL over the Crimson Waste, nobody has even found them yet!" They threw their head back and laughed a bit.

"That's straight up sadistic. Even for you." Someone had brought up casually. Double Trouble turned to face a feline, Catra, who had been growing out her brown hair.

"Kitten, you know me by now. My alias?" Double Trouble rested a hand on their hip. Catra shrugged with one shoulder.

"I forget once in a while, since I've only known you as the fun chaotic type..." She admitted. "Anything you've encountered in the Crimson Waste?"

"Just a shadow I saw. Looked like a deer, had blue eyes...looked familiar." Double Trouble informed, brows scrunched.

"The Radio Demon…" Bow had entered the room, but falter when he saw a scowl blooming on Double Trouble's features. Bow chose his words carefully. "He's been lurking around in the shadows frequently, mostly at midnight."

"Yeah, he's definitely around here." Catra deadpanned, tail flicking about.

"We'll stop him before anything goes badly." Glimmer finally rose from sitting. "Double Trouble and Adora will keep an eye around Bright Moon."

Double Trouble gave a nod.

"Anything else that needs to be—" There was a sudden chill, and static crackling followed afterward. They stiffened, eyes widened. They whipped around, then saw the doors swing open. They reached for their dagger, gripping the handle.

An ominous shadow loomed in the doorway, with glowing, dulled, blood–like eyes: it looked like the shadow from the Crimson Waste. He had a crimson tailcoat, darker red slacks, a pair of black, shined shoes, crimson and bright red gloves, and he had the appearance of a deer. His hair was red and raven black, and he had khaki-colored skin. The creepiest thing was his smile...

Oh, his smile was enough to make Double Trouble's blood run cold.

Their heart had stopped, and their breathing quickened ever so slightly. They swallowed back the feeling of anxiety swelling in the back of their throat. They weren't the only one who was terrified. Then, they had whispered his name, as if it was a curse,

"Alastor... The Radio Demon."

An... Interesting Proposal

Chapter Summary

The Radio Demon is in Bright Moon. Things sure do happen!

Chapter Notes

EDITED: 3/6/23

Oooooooo okay I'm having fun revisiting this!!

None of the Rebellion, or Double Trouble, knew how the Radio Demon got into Bright Moon. Now—moments after his way–too–dramatic entrance—he had been sat in the war room. He was sitting on a chair, nonchalantly posed. There had been tension in the air, but he didn't seem to mind at all. It was all so...entertaining to him.

Double Trouble had been pacing back and forth, silently pondering. Now this is something...the Radio Demon, sitting in front of us. What is he planning?

But heat rose to their face when they saw Alastor lazily gazing at them up and down. Double Trouble let out a small, barely audible 'tch', and crossed their arms, turning their head away from him. Well...he's looking at me. He can't possibly be attracted...unless he's planning to kill me and then cook me.

Little did they know... Alastor found them to be quite familiar. As if he met them in another life... Of course, he wouldn't tell aloud. That would be absurd. But sometimes DT would feel the same way, the way Alastor smiled was...hauntingly known. What is going on...?

"So, Radio Demon." Glimmer frowned, her brows furrowed. Alastor chuckled, holding a hand up slowly.

"Please, call me Alastor, sweetheart." He insisted. "I'm just here for a proposal."

Everyone froze. Double Trouble had clutched their dagger so tightly, they thought they would break the handle. Glimmer shifted her gaze between the Rebellion, to the shapeshifter, to Alastor.

"Is it to kill us all?" She seethed. She was ready to transform into She Ra.

"Well, that's the outcome." Alastor adjusted his monocle, smile never fading.

"Outcome?!" Adora drew her sword, eyes narrowed. "For the Honor of Greyskull!" She pointed her sword into the air, rising up. She turned into She Ra, and pointed the blade at his neck. "That's the outcome?!"

"My my, a feisty heroine. I respect that." Alastor sat back, hands folded on his lap. He used the tip of his finger to push the sword away from his neck. "I can destroy this world, if you don't comply..."

"I don't believe you should do that." Double Trouble spoke up calmly. "These bunch of ragtag heroes are quite strong, in fact, they—" they yelped when Alastor disappeared.

"You! You are perfect." Alastor complimented them suddenly, warping behind them. He gently extended their arm out, before gently running his fingers down their arm and taking their hand.

Double Trouble felt a shiver, but at the same time, their face was on fire more than ever. It even came to show. His touch was soothing, somehow. It eased their nerves.

"Hmm, I know~" Double Trouble teased, smirking.

"Ah, one who admires their looks? Rather shallow, hm?" Alastor continued the joking manner, and DT chuckled.

"Rather surprised, coming from an ego maniac such as yourself~" They put a finger up, poking his chest.

"You wound me, my dear, and we've only met!" Alastor placed the back of his hand to his forehead, but his smile never faltered. The two were still grinning at each other—one grin was close lipped and amused, the other outstretched and phony.

"Errr, apologies for interrupting, but Alastor?" Glimmer cleared her throat. "The proposal?" Alastor's grin broadened.

"I've come to look for a spouse, regardless of gender." He announced. "It seems I have chosen one." He gestured to Double Trouble.

Double Trouble's heart dropped into their stomach. They weren't even close to being prepared for hearing that. They were just teasing him, now he wants a marriage? A little extreme, if they were being honest. Their knees almost went weak if it weren't for their pride holding them up. Finally, they croaked,

"Oh, I see..."

"I'm confused, why?" Catra sneered a bit.

"Hell and Etheria have been at war for many years, my feline friend. King Lucifer of Hell claimed that one Etherian and one sinner would have to be betrothed, to settle the feud. For some reason or another, I was chosen by the King to find someone, despite me being...not very interested in a relationship right at the moment." Alastor rolled his eyes. "But a task is a task, and it gives me a higher stays."

"I see…" Glimmer went deep into thought. She looked up at Double Trouble. "Are you willing to do this, Double Trouble? If you are, you can always visit…"

Double Trouble hesitated, for once. They saw Glimmer's somewhat worried expression, then Alastor with a somewhat arrogant smile.

"I…" They looked down, taking a breath. They announced, a little unsure of themself, "I accept."

"Excellent!" Alastor linked arms with them, DT flinching. Alastor continued, "Now, we don't have to stay in Hell forever, we can come back here!"

Well... that was rather comforting. Etheria was Double Trouble's home. Sure, it was hellish sometimes, but it is what it is.

"So, if you're being betrothed to the Radio Demon, you'll be able to stop a long war. You'd be a hero." Catra smirked. "Huh. Never suspected for you to be so...heroic."

"Kitten, I'm merely morally gray, not a hero, nor villain, you know this..." They jerked their head away, the winked at the feline. They gave a small grin, looking at Alastor.

"Well, darling, where to next?" They asked, pretending to snuggle up against him*. If they had to be a happy spouse, might as well fake it till they make it.*

"Why, to Hell of course! You have to meet my fellow friends!" Alastor spoke in a sickeningly sweet tone. "You ready to go, sweetheart?"

That part did make the shapeshifter almost retch, though. Ugh, they hated such sweet pet names. It never settled well with them. But there was a growing doubt forming in the pit of their stomach.

There was NO WAY they wanted to be tied down like this. S urely, they were making a mistake, but they couldn't just back down... Right?

"Is there a choice to turn around and say no...?" DT gave a dry chuckle. They already knew the answer, but just wanted to test him.

"Nah, ah, ah, my dear." Alastor tutted. "There is no backing down. You... Are now bound to me." His chuckle became filled with radio frequency.

"Of course." DT raised a brow: obsessive husband, I see. They mentally rolled their eyes. If they kept doing that, it'll hurt their eyes and their head. "Nonetheless, I will see all of you in a while. I bid you adieu." They gave a small, dramatic bow. A pleasant smile bloomed, but when Alastor looked away, it faded. Scorpia gave them a concerned look, scratching the back of her head.

"Will you be okay?" She mouthed. DT gave a little hum whilst nodding...they were determined now.

"Now, we're on our way!" Alastor snapped his fingers. Shadows like a tornado surrounded the two.

DT hadn't a clue what was going on, all they knew was that there was a dizzy feeling clouding their senses The shadows faded, and DT collapsed onto their knees.

"I didn't expect that type of transportation." They muttered, before slowly rising to crouch on the ground. They flinched when they felt Alastor rub their arm. He had knelt beside them.

"How nauseous do you feel?" He seemed a bit concerned, yet his grin remained. He extended his hand out. DT froze, before taking his hand.

"Not sick, just caught off guard." They answered as they were helped up. They blinked a bit, then gasped. Their eyes were wide with curiosity as they saw the blood red sky and maroon clouds. The shapeshifter and Radio Demon were in the middle of a thriving town, with sinners all over the place.

"Well, my dear." Alastor grinned.

"Welcome to Hell."

The Haz–Erm, Happy Hotel

Chapter Summary

After arriving in Hell, Alastor shows DT the Hazbin Hotel, the residents, and they slowly talk. Things happen.

Chapter Notes

(This took a bit to write!! Tysm for reading, you guys. Also I did add some personal headcanons into the tags. I'm not shoving them onto anyone, they're just. There. I respect everyone's personal headcanons, thoughts and theories, and I'm intrigued to hear about what you guys have to say.

So here is is! Chapter Three :D I may post another chapter today too <3

- Chaos ✨)

EDIT: 3/6/23: POV: you don't know how to use AO3 LMFAO

Buuut I fixed the summary and made this note so nothing is crazy out of place. I'm taking constructive criticism, so please please PLEASE! If there is something wrong with the grammar or you feel iffy about a scene, tell me! I'll reread the section, fix anything if needed, and we're good! However, if I do like how it is and don't choose to fix it, please don't be mad <3

Also, I do remember Alastor is asexual. My headcanons were stupid and I chose to fix them: the arranged marriage may now be written as queer platonic, which is something I've never really dabbled in before. I'll certainly try though!! I want to fix my nasty mistakes and apologize for the incorrect portrayal!

Double Trouble spun around, gazing at all of the new things.

"I thought Hell would be... more fiery." They used their hands to gesture flames. "But this... This is actually really intriguing."

Alastor couldn't help but giggle to himself. He admitted, he found their reaction quite adorable. Like a kid in a candy shop. He shook off the feeling, before clearing his throat a bit.

"You ready to go to the Haz–erm, Happy Hotel?" He corrected himself. DT blinked, facing him.

"Happy Hotel?" They questioned.

"Redemption hotel." Alastor summarized, linking arms with them again. "Teleportation, or walking?"

"Walking, please." Double Trouble responded instantly. They blinked again. "Why are you being so nice? Aren't you the Radio Demon?" They smirked yet again.

"I have to be nice to my new companion." Alastor shrugged. Double Trouble's features shifted into a small frown, a little surprised.

"You're charming, I'll admit." They hummed. "Still don't know how to feel about anything else to do with you though..."

"Why thank you." Alastor responded coolly, not caring about the second part. The two made their way up a road, and saw a gigantic hotel in front of them.

"Woah." Double Trouble marvelled. "It's so…"

"Useless, yes, I know." Alastor scoffed.

"No, it's… gorgeous. And huge!" Double Trouble disagreed. More static, and it made them wince.

"To each his own." Alastor muttered. "Now, how about we head in!" He gently tugged them to the front doors, and he knocked. A few moments later, a tall, pale demoness with blonde hair answered the door. She had rosy cheeks and was in a red suit jacket with matching pants. Her hair was pulled back into a nice braid, and her eyes were red too. She radiated such a nice and kind energy, too.

"Hey Alastor! And…" Her voice was originally energetic, but when her eyes landed on Double Trouble, she froze up. "Excuse me." She smiled nervously, shutting the door behind her.

"O–oh?" Alastor was perplexed, but Double Trouble had a surprised grin on their features. They hummed a haunting melody, looking around. They side-eyed Alastor, still seeing his confused reaction.

After a few moments, the demoness opened the doors wide open.

"Come on in!" She stood back, and then to the side. Double Trouble walked in slowly, receiving many terrified glances from the only residents of the hotel. Oh, they can get used to this.

"What's the matter? Have all of you seen a ghost?" Alastor joked lightheartedly.

"You came back. With... who's from Etheria...?! THAT'S who you'll be betrothed to?!" A moth demon with white hair and a pink bow asked in pure astonishment. Her hotel uniform was crisp and clean, and she fidgeted with her gloves.

"Come on, Vaggie." The blonde demoness reassured, resting a hand on the other's shoulder.

"Charlie, they're an Etherian killer!" Vaggie whispered.

"I-I know. But they didn't seem to want to be here. Alastor... Well."

"He's a shitlord."

"But he's helping the hotel! And stopping the war between here and Etheria..."

"True, I suppose..." Vaggie sighed.

"Yes, I chose them." Alastor cut in. He hadn't a clue what was happening.

"Pleasure to meet you, darling." Double Trouble remained polite. They extended their hand out to Vaggie. "Call me Double Trouble."

Vaggie hesitated, but shook their hand.

"Don't worry, I'm not a voodoo overlord." DT winked. They leaned in to whisper, "Or an egotistical asshat."

That made the moth demon let out an unexpected laugh, and Alastor rolled his eyes. DT meanwhile smiled at Charlie, who shared the grin.

"Oh my gosh! You're tall in person!" A mini cyclops zoomed over, examining them. "I'm Nifty!" She had a beautiful smile. Double Trouble giggled, fond of the little lady. She was just... Filled with energy!

"Why thank you, Nifty." They appreciated it.

"The name's Angel Dust." Angel Dust strutted over, licking his top lip. Alastor internally shuddered after that. Double Trouble gave a nod, before waving to a drunken cat demon known as Husk.

"I'm Charlie! Thank you so much for ending Etheria's and Hell's war!" Charlie was bubbly. Double Trouble flinched a bit, but they chuckled.

"Of course, darling. It's not a problem." They sounded humble. They looked over their shoulder and smirked at Alastor. Alastor's smile broadened at that, and he couldn't help but feel bested by them...drat!

"So, did you two have some fun before arriving? Eheh." Angel Dust joked, though it was far too sexual for Alastor. Double Trouble could notice his discomfort. Quite frankly, they weren't fond of the innuendo the spider demon made either, or of anything sexual at the moment. They cleared their throat.

"I prefer not to hear such jokes…anything sex related makes me uncomfortable, and I'm sure the same applies with my darling over here." They cut in, leaning against Alastor, until he warped a few inches away from them. Nevertheless they continued, "Until I've grown accustomed to this behavior, do not say any jokes to Alastor or I, Angel Dust. Do I make myself clear?"

The room went dead silent.

"A-ahah… y-yes." Angel Dust chuckled nervously. He shifted his gaze around, not saying anything afterwards as he walked off to the bar.

"How did you…" Alastor whispered, when Double Trouble patted his arm as a way to shush him.

"Don't mind Angel, he's just a dirty minded demon." Vaggie waved it off.

"I can tell." Double Trouble noted, giving a small grimace. Vaggie's scowl from the beginning had faded into something a bit kinder. It wasn't a smile, but it had been a thoughtful frown. She made her way over to Charlie silently, leaving Double Trouble and Alastor alone.

"You made Angel back off. I tried, but he just—" Alastor was cut off.

"—it seems everyone understands my reputation." Double Trouble cut him off, shrugging with their left shoulder as an answer. "Keep up with the times, darling~"

"Your reputation." Alastor didn't believe it. He quirked a brow, processing. Reputation... he didn't know their reputation: they barely knew them as a person, for crying out loud!

"Ever heard of the Shapeshifting Psycho?" Double Trouble smirked almost devilishly, holding their blood stained dagger. Hell, they still have some blood on the corners of their mouth, but nobody noticed until now. "My, my, you're quite narrow–minded, for the oh–so–smart Radio Demon."

"Yes, I have indeed heard of the Shapeshifting Psycho. They're quite a mysterious figure, if I do say so. They've killed some of my backup!" Alastor exclaimed, feeling mildly offended. "I found organs recently, spread across the..." His smile shrank. Then it clicked in his mind. He didn't know if he was impressed, or angered. He grabbed their arm, stopping them from walking away. DT's grin matched Alastor's, and the hotel residents shrank back a bit. They giggled in a sadistic, unnerving way. Alastor even seemed nervous: but his pride held him down from surrending.

"The taste of his blood was satisfying. " They started walking off after loosening from his grip.

"It's you." Alastor sounded relatively shocked. "You're the Shapeshifting Psycho! Why, I wish I had caught on quicker than I did!"

"You should've, if you claim to be so smart." Double Trouble whirled around. They smiled more to see the Radio Demon's face heat up in angered embarrassment. DT moved from his grip, "You betrothed yourself to a killer."

"Now I'm not sure if this is a good idea." Vaggie muttered to Charlie.

"It'll be okay. But I understand how you feel, considering... It's Alastor." Charlie reassured. She wrapped her arm around the moth demon, pecking her cheek. She pulled away, swiftly moving to Alastor and Double Trouble. "I'll get you two settled in a room."

"We could stay in my radio tower, on the higher level of the hotel." Alastor suggested. "It's quite spacious."

"Oh! Okay, whatever makes you comfy!" Charlie nodded. "Double Trouble, are you okay with this?"

"I mean, I already have to deal with him. So, it'll be fine." Double Trouble confirmed with a haughty tone.

"Then I shall take you up there!" Alastor led them along, and they looked over their shoulder, before looking forward. The two headed into an elevator, and Alastor pressed a button to go up. The doors closed with a ding, and they started to go up. There was silence for a bit.

Blasted shapeshifter, he thought in disdain. They had no right to say such things.

"Why choose me over many others who seemingly swoon for you?" Double Trouble finally brought up, looking at their nails. Alastor broke out of his thoughts, amused.

"You appeal to me, as if we've met before." He admitted. "You're feisty and intelligent. Kind enough to sacrifice yourself for me."

"Well, you gotta do what you gotta do." Double Trouble lifted a hand, as if gesturing to nothing.

"Exactly. You'd do anything to protect your home." Alastor agreed. There was a ding, and the elevator doors opened. He gently took their hand and helped them out, then walked straight ahead. He opened the doors to a pretty gigantic room, with two other smaller rooms: a bathroom and a closet.

"This is your radio tower, hm?" Double Trouble stepped in, gazing around. They took notice of a king sized bed. Only one bed.

Oh, my.

"There's...only one bed." Double Trouble noticed. They blushed a little, before scolding themself. Oh stop acting like a child!

"It seems...there is. Darn, uh, I could always sleep on the floor, or couch in the lobby, even." Alastor started rambling a bit.

"No! No, no, I just... it's interesting." Double Trouble calmed him. Strange, seeing the Radio Demon getting frazzled...they loved it. They gazed at a nearby clock, seeing that it was only noon. They gazed at the bed again, smiling. "How fluffy is the bed?"

"Try sitting on it yourself." Alastor went on the right side of the bed, before sitting on it. DT sat down as well, sort of sinking in.

"Woah." They marvelled, before laying down. "You weren't kidding."

"How about I take you out?" Alastor turned to them, before also laying down, inching a bit closer. He used his hand to hold his head, and propped himself using his elbow. DT shifted to meet his gaze.

"How so? Murder, or a date?" They joked.

"Depends on your taste." Alastor had the same humor. DT shifted closer, smiling.

"I prefer a date. If anyone ever tried to take me out they'd pay for it." They stated.

"Like me, huh? Well, with the taking out part." Alastor sat up.

"A little." Double Trouble rolled onto their back, hands under their head. "Never been on a date before? Or even got frisky with a lover?" They winked.

"Oh! No, no, no, I haven't gotten...frisky. I never...wanted to, actually." Alastor shook his head. "It's not a desire."

"...So, you're asexual?" Double Trouble sat up, crossing their left leg over their right. "Hm. I fall under that spectrum."

"Ah." Alastor was interested, now.

"...You didn't choose me over any other woman?" The shapeshifter changed the topic.

"It's not about gender dear." Alastor remarked. "It's about personality: and you struck me."

"Nice to know." Double Trouble smiled again.

"It is, instead of someone just assuming." Alastor nodded. "Now, you know how I asked about taking you out? Never mind that. How about I make you some jambalaya?" He jolted up, and he stood up straight.

"Jambalaya?" DT was confused. Alastor's smile almost fell.

"You never had it? My, my, what world did you come from?!" He commented. He was appalled.

"Etheria. And I'm your betrothed, dingus." Double Trouble gently shoved him. "Though jambalaya does sound good."

"You'll be blown away by the flavor." Alastor started walking to the door. "Come on." He extended his hand out. "You could help me out, if you want to. Ooh! We could also make beignets as a dessert, my mother would make the BEST jambalaya and beignets!" He reminisced, eyes sparkling. He seemed so...genuine. "I remember stealing those sweet little treats and munching on them before dinner. She never got upset, but would gently tease."

Double Trouble giggled, finding him ranting about his childhood memories and the meals he had somewhat adorable.

"Well, now I'm really intrigued!" They exclaimed, linking arms with the Radio Demon instead of taking his hand. "Let's go, then!"

Alastor laughed, then headed out of the room, shutting the door behind him. Darkness enveloped the room, until a bright green and white centipede crawled onto the bed, locking its gaze on the door. It then crawled out a nearby window, then to an extremely tall demon in a dingey alley, with a sharp and silver index finger. He had sharper fangs, and his eyes seemed more terrifying. The centipede curled around the demon's finger, then up his arm and onto his shoulder.

"Target has been locked, yes?" He asked coolly.

The centipede nodded.

"Good." The demon confirmed, then gave a dark chuckle. "Nobody will see it coming...not even the Etherians..."

Who might that be? I can hear you asking right now*. That demon...is Horde Prime.*

This Jambalaya is Spicy, Just Like You...Wait.

Chapter Summary

> Alastor shows DT his recipe of jambalaya, and the two make it together for the hotel. Things go better than expected...even some...flirting? After all, the jambalaya is as spicy as that shapeshifter Alastor is fancying already...
>
> Wait—
>
> (EDIT: 3/6/23)

"Do we have all of the things needed for this?" Double Trouble asked Alastor. Alastor nodded.

"No need to worry, my dear." He lifted their chin up, caressing it a little. He froze upon feeling a pang of something in his heart. Even Double Trouble looked flustered. They shifted their gaze around, before giving a small, somewhat high pitched laugh.

"O–okay, darling." They pulled his hand away.

"Did I upset you?" Alastor tilted his head to the side.

"No, no, no!! I–I'm just a bit surprised." Double Trouble shook their head. "Let's get on with this, yeah?" They took their gloves off and rolled their sleeves up. They went to the sink and turned on the water, which was cool against their skin. After washing their hands thoroughly with soap and water, they stepped aside and grabbed a towel, drying their hands. They put it nearly on the rack, and they accidentally touched hands with Alastor.

"Oh, sorry." They pulled away, awkwardly stepping to the side. "So, where's the recipe?"

Alastor snapped his fingers and made a paper appear. It had nice writing on it, and it seemed old.

"Despite already knowing the recipe, I can show you." He spoke.

"Very humble of you." Double Trouble rolled their eyes. "Ingredients are in...here?" They pointed at the fridge, before walking to it. They opened it and indeed, saw what they needed. Aside from a bottle of wine. They smirked, taking the ingredients out first, then the bottle.

"I see you got some wine." Alastor smirked, as well. He took the bottle and got two glasses. He poured an equal amount in each glass, then handed on to Double Trouble.

Double Trouble took it, swishing the wine around. It looked beautiful in the soft lighting, to be honest. They took a sip, before setting their glass down. This was a new brand...hopefully it doesn't fuck them up.

"Alright, now that's handled, let's get onto cooking." They hummed.

"As you wish, mon chèr." Alastor set his glass down, and the two started prepping.

The kitchen was filled with a delicious smell, and the sounds of Double Trouble's and Alastor's voices, even laughter. They seemed to be having a fun time together. They lost count of the time, but honestly? They didn't really care.

...Well, they made sure they didn't burn the jambalaya. That would've been a disaster.

The two decided to divide and conquer. Double Trouble decided to help make the beignets. They did a pretty good job!

When the food was done, the bottle of wine was absolutely empty. Double Trouble and Alastor were drunk, but at least not blasted off their asses.

"Dinner's ready!" DT walked out of the kitchen with a stack of plates, and Charlie walked up to them.

"I could help you out," She insisted, taking a few plates.

"Oh, well thank you." Double Trouble appreciated it.

"Not a problem!" Charlie grinned. She and Double Trouble headed over to the table, setting the plates down, one for each person. After a bit, everyone sat down at the table for dinner. Double Trouble had gone back into the kitchen to see that Alastor had been...staring at a knife blankly.

DT still had their dagger, and they reached for it. They hoped he wasn't thinking over murdering anyone. Though at the same time, they couldn't help but feel...worried.

"Hey, Alastor." Double Trouble called softly.

"Hm?" Alastor jerked up. "Oh, hello my dear. Why don't you go sit down, I can handle bringing the—"

"Are you okay?" The shapeshifter had been a little concerned. Alastor froze in place, before gently taking their hand off his shoulder.

"I'm fine." He seemed to be lying. He grabbed the pot of jambalaya and headed into the dining room wordlessly after that. Double Trouble frowned, then looked back at the fresh beignets. They grabbed the plate and followed.

"It smells so good, Mr. Al and Mx. Trouble!" Nifty beamed.

"Mx…?" Alastor questioned.

"Something gender neutral for Mr. or Miss." Vaggie answered. "I searched up a few things a while ago, before Double Trouble showed up. Nifty was interested to see what I was looking up."

"Hmm, very interesting." Double Trouble sat the beignets plate down. Alastor pulled a chair out for Double Trouble, gesturing to it a little. Double Trouble grinned, sitting beside him.

"Shall we dig in now?" Alastor suggested.

"Yes, please." Double Trouble insisted. Everyone had passed the pot of jambalaya around, getting a good amount per person.

"So, what's Etheria like?" Charlie took a bite of her food.

"Etheria was, dare I say, interesting." Double Trouble played with their fork. "There had been a war between She Ra and Horde Prime. Horde Prime was a dick who chipped people." They took a bite, and they smiled broadly. "This is really good."

"Horde Prime?" Angel Dust raised a brow.

"An evil entity." Was all Double Trouble said. "Chipping is just mind control."

"Weird." Husk took a swig from his cheap booze bottle. He stopped chugging his booze, and savored it. Surprisingly, he was cutting back.

"I hope he isn't down here, plotting vengeance." The shapeshifter faltered. There was silence. Alastor leaned in to whisper in their ear:

"Y'know, this jambalaya is spicy, just like you~ ...wait." His whisper was a purr, and his breath was a little hot. But it made Double Trouble's face heat up, and a grin bloomed on their features.

"Ohh, my." Double Trouble chuckled, leaning to him. Alastor's face turned a bright red, realizing what he had unleashed. Double Trouble put their hand on his hand, before it slithered down to his chest…

This, this is escalating.

"Silly Overlord... have you not grown to realize what you've released?" Double Trouble whispered.

Angel Dust smirked, Husk rolled his eyes, Vaggie pinched the bridge of her nose, Charlie awkwardly continued to eat, and Nifty merely blinked.

"Eheheheheh…" Alastor laughed nervously.

No, no. He was the Radio Demon! He couldn't just act like this! But something about Double Trouble made him feel strange all over again. With them remaining so... Familiar. This was driving him mad, and it's only been a couple hours!

"You two have fun somewhere else." Husk groaned. "I'm gonna lose my appetite."

"Sorry, sorry." Double Trouble sat down, chuckling. This left Alastor a "little" flustered, and Double Trouble with a satisfied grin.

After dinner and dessert—DT thoroughly enjoyed two beignets—time had passed too quickly. Before anyone knew it, it was ten o'clock at night.

The day had been filled with introductions, casual encounters, and now it was time to put it to rest.

Double Trouble and Alastor headed back to Alastor's room.

"Well, today was interesting." Double Trouble whistled, opening the door. They let Alastor step in, and Alastor took his shoes off and put them in the closet.

"Indeed it was." He agreed, taking his coat off and putting it at the end of his bed.

"I...didn't bring any other clothing." Double Trouble realized. They blinked, but they weren't super effected.

"Oh, I see...how comfortable do you feel with shorts and a t-shirt, for now?" Alastor hesitated. Double Trouble shrugged.

"Sure. I can always buy something so you don't need to-" They began, when Alastor cut in,

"I insist."

"O...Kay. Oh, don't watch." Double Trouble slowly took off the shoulder pads, then their boots. They ruffled their hair, then decided to take their pants off, too. Alastor gulped, taking in their appearance. He knew he was supposed to look, and he tried to look away, but he just couldn't...he noticed their legs, ankles, their body...they looked so gorgeous.

Double Trouble looked over their shoulder, eyes narrowed.

"Are you kidding me...?!" They were startled, and felt unheard. They picked up their boot. "What the fuck did I just say to you?!" They threw it at him.

Alastor used his magic to stop the incoming boot flying at him.

"I–I'm terribly sorry, you just–" He felt like his whole body was on fire.

"Fucking pervert!" They growled out. "Aren't you supposed a gentleman, looking away when told to?!"

Alastor was actually frozen. He didn't know what to say, how to react. He didn't mean to stare, he was just in... Awe. He finally blurted out,

"I just really like your legs...!"

Double Trouble stared at him, baffled. They let out a sigh.

"Thank you, that...that makes me feel good." They admitted, before taking their belt and shirt off. They had on a black binder, and black underwear left. "But that doesn't mean I gave you permission to look at me." They remained aloof, but couldn't help but feel their anger melt away: they only kept up the act for fun.

"You're self conscious?" Alastor whispered, changing the topic.

"I...okay, look, I am self conscious, but stop changing the subject, buster, I'm still—"

"I think you're gorgeous no matter what. But that's just me." Alastor admitted. "Despite being betrothed to end a war, I still find you very nice looking."

Double Trouble blinked.

"Thank you...even though you said you only like personality." They spoke up teasingly.

"Not a problem, mon chèr." Alastor noted, ignoring them joking around.

Mon chèr... DT let the words linger in their head. They liked the sound of the that, but they wouldn't admit it.

There was silence.

"We better get some sleep. After all, tomorrow may be busy." He snapped his fingers and changed into his sleep wear: a long sleeved shirt with pajama bottoms, and DT had on a t-shirt with shorts.

"Well, I wish you goodnight." They began. "Should I sleep on the couch, or do we...share a bed?"

"We…" Alastor faltered. "...we share the bed." He climbed into bed, Double Trouble getting into bed, as well. They covered themself up a bit, leaving Alastor with some of the blankets.

"Good night, darling." Double Trouble laid on their side, facing Alastor. Alastor smiled, laying on his back.

"Good night." He whispered. And with that, he turned off the lights, and the two went to sleep…for now.

A Nightmare Will Never Hurt You: Not on My Watch

Chapter Summary

DT has a nightmare. Alastor is surprisingly comforting about it. Things become rather sweet.

Chapter Notes

Song:

I Don't Want To Set the World on Fire — The Ink Spots

He couldn't get any sleep.

It was one in the morning, and Alastor decided to sit up, and read from his book. Double Trouble was fast asleep, almost peacefully. They were still facing him, occasionally shifting onto either their back, or their right side. Sometimes they would even cuddle closer to him.

Alastor made sure the lamp was dim for Double Trouble to still sleep, and bright so that he himself could read. He flipped the page, giving a small sigh as he continued to read. On nights like these, he wished there was something entertaining.

Then there was a sudden jolt. Alastor flinched, then looked beside him. Double Trouble had inched closer to him, wrapping their arms around his waist, clinging to him. They were shaking. The Shapeshifting Psycho, a bloodthirsty killer, shaking.

"Are you alright, my dear...?" Alastor set his book down on the nightstand, gently touching their hand.

Double Trouble let out a shuddering breath, eyes clenched. After a few seconds of quickened breathing, they jolted awake, gasping for air. They noticed they were clung to Alastor, and they pulled away.

"I...I'm sorry, I didn't mean to—" Their voice was shaky, despite them trying to disguise it.

"No, no, don't be sorry." Alastor pulled them back towards him, as instinct. "...Are you okay?"

"...no…" Double Trouble admitted. They didn't flinch when Alastor ran his fingers through their hair. It was comforting to them. There was silence, before Alastor, slowly, started to sing...

"I don't want to set the world on fire

I just want to start a flame in your heart,"

His voice had been so smooth, gentle, even. He was a good singer. Double Trouble felt as if they heard his voice before.

"In my heart I have but one desire,

And that one is you,

No other will do,"

The shapeshiftrr felt tears prick at their eyes for a minute, but the sensation faded over time. Their eyes dulled as they pulled themself even closer to him. Alastor felt his heartbeat quicken, but in a good way... It was in a good way, right?

"I've lost all ambition for worldly acclaim,

I just want to be the one you love,"

Alastor always wanted to be loved in Hell. He wasn't sure about romantically, but rather... Knowing people care. He sometimes stays up at night, thinking about the care he's received from the residents of the hotel. But, being betrothed was a shot for love. What if he and Double Trouble fell for each other, and actually fall in love?

…

That's absurd nonsense, he pondered. He shook it off, and still delivered the song.

"And with your admission that you feel the same,

I'll have reached the goal I'm dreaming of

Believe me,

I don't want to set the world on fire,

I just want to start a flame in your heart…"

When he finished, Double Trouble was back to sleep, snuggling up to him.

"Thank you…" They mumbled. Alastor smiled, and it was truly genuine.

"Not a problem." He turned the lamp off and laid down. He didn't expect to cuddle with them, but this… this felt nice. He felt himself get tired, and he didn't remember the rest of the night. He slept well, in their arms, falling asleep as he rain his fingers through their hair.

Maybe he won't regret this.

Wedding Prepping and More Shenanigans

Chapter Summary

> Wedding outfit time!! Charlie and DT have a bit of bonding, but Charlie warns DT about Alastor. Things in the background become stranger...

Chapter Notes

> ((Long chapter go BRRRRRRR-)
>
> ((Hope you enjoy it <3))
>
> - Chaos ✨
>
> Latest edit: 7/10/22)
>
> EDIT: 3/7/23
>
> hhhhhhhh this is going to take me fOREVER TO IRON EVERYTHING OUT—
>
> ...worth it!

The soft lighting poured into Alastor's room, bright but not blinding.

Double Trouble hummed in their sleep. Their eyes fluttered open to see Alastor...gone?

Huh, an early riser. They pondered. They sat up, then looked to see, on their nightstand, was an edelweiss with a note card. Curious, they picked both of them up, and read the card. Writing was in beautiful, red calligraphy, and it was from Alastor.

Morning, chèr! Charlie wants to take you to her family tailor to get you a wedding outfit. I'll see you in the afternoon!

-Alastor

"Wasn't he supposed to be dangerous?" Double Trouble read it over. They folded the note and put it back on the nightstand. They paused, before putting the edelweiss behind their ear.

They got up with a small grunt, then decided to get ready for the day. They remembered how they didn't bring anything with them. They sighed, reaching for the outfit they wore yesterday. However, they took off the amour shoulder pads, the cape, and removed the dagger sheath strapped to their belt. They headed down the hall, then saw an elevator. Fuck using the stairs. They got in and pressed the button to head down to the lobby. The elevator reached the lobby, and when the doors opened with a ding, Charlie was waiting, with a bright smile.

"Hi, Double Trouble! Oh, can I call you DT?" She wondered. "Sometimes saying Double Trouble can... Get a little tiresome."

"Oh, of course." DT blinked, not expecting a nickname. "Alastor left a card, saying you'd… take me to your family tailor?"

"Mhm!" Charlie nodded, gently taking their hand. "C'mon!" She dragged them along, and outside. She led them into a limo, and they were on their way to the private tailor shop.

"So, you're...the Princess of Hell." DT began.

"I am!" Charlie answered. "I've been planning to redeem my people, instead of them being slaughtered yearly due to Extermination Day."

"Sounds terrifying." DT bit their lip.

"When you get used to it, it's just sad, not scary." Charlie shrugged sadly.

"I see…" The shapeshifter frowned. She reminded them of Scorpia, with hints of Adora to her.

"You're either lucky, or doomed with Alastor. Yes he's handsome, but he's still the Radio Demon." Charlie brought up.

"Darling: I almost backed down, but he said I was bound to him now." DT sighed sharply. They were clearly unamused. "He's obsessive. Too obsessive."

"I'm...so sorry that you have to deal with him." Charlie frowned.

"Eh. It's whatever." DT shrugged with one shoulder. They were somewhat shocked when Charlie took their hand.

"If he ever hurts you... Let me know." She lowered her voice. She wasn't playing around, she was actually serious.

"I can handle him, hun." DT mirrored her tone.

"No, no. I get you're the Shapeshifting Psycho, but... Alastor is deadlier than what he seems." Charlie warned. "Please. Tell me if there's anything wrong, then I'll handle it."

"...thank you." DT replied. They didn't want to argue with her anymore. They knew she only wanted the best for people...

After a few minutes, they arrived.

"We're here~" Charlie spoke in a singsong tone, exiting the vehicle. DT stepped out and in front of a shop that was relatively big. They gave a small, thoughtful hum, and was dragged by Charlie out of pure excitement. She led them into the shop, waving profusely to a tall, incubus.

The incubus had black hair covering most of his left eye. His skin was light blue, his wings a darker shade. He had on black slacks, with a white shirt tucked into it, and a purple waistcoat. His white sleeves were rolled up, and he wore sunglasses.

"Oh, Princess Charlie!" He strutted over to her and DT. "You're here with the betrothed~" He sang a bit.

"Yes, I am!" Charlie pulled DT in for a side-hug. "This is Double Trouble!"

"Pleasure to meet you," DT placed a hand on their chest. They'll...excuse the side hug.

"Please to meet you too, dear, the name's Donatello." Donatello shook their hand. "Now come on in!" He led the two inside, and it was empty.

"Woah." DT mumbled.

"Do you have any special preferences?" Donatello looked over his shoulder.

"Nothing...frilly, or puffy. Or pink." DT answered slowly. "I don't want to look like a Bright Moon princess." They gave a dry chuckle.

"Mhm…" Donatello hummed, giving a nod. DT's laugh died down, then they pursed their lips. "Come back here." Donatello dragged them behind a large curtain, into a spacious room. There were multiple outfits, a mannequin, a desk with messy papers, and so much more.

"I've been chosen by Alastor for betrothal. It's...bizarre." DT commented. "Do I regret it? ...mostly, yes." They were blunt.

"That Radio Demon is a fine piece o' work." Donatello ran his long, snake-like tongue across the top row of his sharp, jagged teeth. "Mm! That ass~" He searched through the rack of pantsuits, biting his lip.

"...Excuse me?" DT blinked.

"Uh." Donatello blushed suddenly. "Nothing, nothing! Anyhow, I found a nice pantsuit for ya!" He pulled a black and green pantsuit. "Eh? You like it?"

DT tilted their head to the side a bit, thinking. It met their expectations, but something felt...off.

"I do, but it's not...appealing to me at the moment." They answered.

"Ah, alright." Donatello put it back on the rack. "Y'know, you'd rock a dress with a thigh high slit, and a boob window. Showin' your legs and chest, you'd make your man go WILD!"

"What kind of dress did you have in mind?" DT asked slowly. Donatello smirked over his shoulder, before strutting to the right and pulling down a bodice dress. It started out as red at the top, but faded into black at the bottom. It wasn't super long, but it was ankle length. Donatello wasn't kidding about the slit, it was indeed thigh high. It had a sweetheart neckline, and a cutout in the back.

Donatello grinned madly.

"Try it on, dear!" He shoved it into their arms.

"Hmmm...alright." DT backed up, before turning to a changing room. They headed in, closing the door, before changing into the dress. They looked at themself in the mirror, eyes widening. They roved their hands from their chest to their hips, down to their legs. They felt something rise within them, and…

They enjoyed it.

They found themself sexy, and really, they are. At first, they didn't expect to fall for this dress, but when they tried it on for the first time… they couldn't get enough of it.

"Maybe Donatello was right," They told themself. "I'm killing it with this...!"

"Come on out when you're ready!" Donatello exclaimed. DT smiled, opening the door and heading on out. Donatello clapped, bouncing up and down a bit.

"Ooh, you look so GOOD!" He took their hands. Charlie gave two thumbs up in agreement.

"Only took advice from the best." DT winked at the incubus, which caused him to grin.

"I got the perfect set of gloves and heels for this." Donatello put his hands up dramatically, then walked over to get what he promised. The gloves had the same color scheme as the dress, and the heels were Louis Vuitton. Beautiful.

"I love it." DT spoke up.

"Wow, this makes my job easy. Okay, if you're all good, we can settle the payment, sound good?"

"Yup, sounds good."

"Any other clothing you'd like? Just for relaxing?"

"I... actually need a couple sets of clothes. I was taken here so quickly I didn't have the chance to pack."

"Sorry about that..." Charlie giggled nervously.

"Don't be." DT didn't mind...much.

"Alrighty then. Change back, and you can browse some more." The incubus told them. DT nodded, and went back into the changing room. Minutes later, they had been browsing through the t-shirt section. Good choices, but they only chose about four shirts. Half of their choices were monochrome, but the other half was dark emerald green, even dark blue. They got a couple shorts and a pair of pants. Even a pair of converse.

They also got one more set of clothes. A white dress shirt, black slacks, black ankle heels, and a suit jacket. Just in case there was a formal event.

Charlie had helped them with searching for casual clothing. When the two were done, they paid for everything and went back into the limo.

"That was nice. If you need anything else, we could come back!" Charlie told DT.

"Oh, thank you, but I'm..." DT faltered: she told them they could by anything else at the store, and they could come back. A part of them wanted to use their chances, but there was something in their heart that told them they were set. Charlie waited patiently for an answer. They set their bags beside them, and added, "I'm alright. Thank you." They crossed their ankles, then stared out the window.

"Something bothering you?" Charlie frowned.

"Hm? Oh, no, I'm good." DT shook their head.

"You sure?" The Princess of Hell was still a bit worried. DT managed a tiny grin.

"Yeah." They responded.

The drive back to the hotel was almost silent.

"Has Alastor been treating you well?" Charlie finally asked.

"...surprisingly." DT replied. "He's quite the charmer, I'll admit."

"... that's a facade." Charlie let her shoulders drop.

"I'm aware, sadly. Buuut, it doesn't scare me." DT shrugged. The limo stopped in front of the hotel, and they stepped out. Charlie let out a small sigh, before following. The two entered the hotel to see Husk throwing a bottle at a giant, white and bright lime green bug.

"KILL IT WITH FIRE!" Angel Dust screamed, then threw a knife at it, but he missed.

DT growled, brows narrowed. Ugh, great. They grabbed the knife, which was sticking out of the wall. They ran into action jumping onto it, and they slit its throat. Black goo oozed and splattered out, and they continued to stab the thing until it grew smaller and smaller. When it was tiny, the shapeshifter squished it with their foot. Everyone watched in pure astonishment, eyes wide.

"What the fuck." Husk deadpanned. "...that was impressive, kid."

"I deal with this a lot." DT spoke casually. "Didn't expect it to be this big, though."

"Well done, my dear." Alastor praised, slowly clapping. "I've never seen that much of an entertaining kill since...well, since I don't know how long! From yours truly, of course~" He gave a laugh, static crackling lightly.

"It's merely instinct." DT replied. "Besides, you may never know what'll try to kill you, so it's best to stay alert."

"Touchè." The Radio Demon smiled.

"Ohhh no, blood is everywhere!" Nifty gasped, and she zoomed to get a few cleaning supplies. The fact that she cleaned it up so quickly was impressive.

"Had a nice time?" Alastor warped next to DT. His shadow seemed to be nosy, and it wrapped around them.

"I did, indeed. Charlie is a sweetheart, don't you–oh!" DT didn't know how to react to the shadow. It seemed to be loving, even affectionate. It buried its face into their neck, giving off a low, purring noise.

Alastor and DT stared at each other, eyes widened. Alastor shooed his shadow away in a rough manner, his ear twitching. After taking a calm breath, he changed the subject,

"Well, planning the reception went smoothly."

"Surprisingly." Vaggie folded her arms. She sent him a teasing glare.

"You two are actually getting along?" DT commented.

"For now." Vaggie joked.

"Oh come now, Vagatha." Alastor acted hurt. He merely smirked again, switching to not being bothered.

"Overall a really nice day!" Nifty beamed. "Aside from the bug."

"Yeah, that ain't normal." Angel Dust frowned, brows furrowed in confusion.

"I'm sure it's a one time thing." DT waved their hand dismissively. "If not, it wouldn't hurt to keep our guards up."

"Right." Alastor linked arms with them. "Mind if I ask something?"

"Of course." DT raised a brow.

"...Would you like to go out tonight?"

"The two of us?"

"Who else would be going out, silly?"

DT actually smiled.

"I'd like that," They confirmed. "so I can get to know you better, after all."

"Ooh, things are getting interesting." Angel Dust whispered to Husk. "By the way, are ya free tonight?"

"Fuck off." Husk growled, before looking around. He then whispered, "I'll meet ya at your room at nine-thirty."

"It's a date~" Angel licked his lips.

"I have a lovely place we can visit." Alastor took DT's hand.

"Can't wait." DT hated to admit it, but they were excited.

Maybe this date will be nice… hopefully.

So It's A Date Then~

Chapter Summary

The betrothed couple are on a date! But oh so soon? Rather interesting...some old wounds open up, and they...grow closer?

Chapter Notes

insert spicy scene here

I may tone down the spice, but it would really depend on how I'm editing. Also queerplatonic relationships can have touching, kissing, even sex, as long as there aren't any passionate feelings. I'm doing my research :)

Charlie squealed, bouncing up and down.

"You get to go on a date!" She smiled brightly. DT chuckled, pulling out their new outfit.

"It's my first one." They admitted.

"Are you excited?" Charlie asked.

"Not really..." DT blurted out, then noticed Charlie's smile fade. "Sorry to burst your bubble."

"Oh, no, it's okay." Charlie hummed.

"...I'm gonna take a quick shower. Don't feel like you need to wait for me." DT told her, then headed into Alastor's empty room, then into the bathroom. They locked the door and shut the window, covering it with the curtains. They started to strip naked, then headed into the shower. They turned on the water, making sure it was hot. Steam started to fill the room, and DT hummed a melody.

****

"So, Husk~" Angel Dust opened his door, revealing himself in a satin robe, nothing else under it. The room was dim, and music was playing. "Ready?~"

Husk merely rolled his eyes, then smirked.

"Why not." He walked in. Well, Angel dragged him in, shutting the door behind the two.

"Ya early." The spider demon commented, making the robe fall off his shoulders and drape down. He used his top set of hands to puff up his fluffy chest.

"Somethin' wrong with that?" Husk raised a brow. He didn't seem mad, just amused.

"Never said there was." Angel dropped the robe, then shoved Husk against the bed. "I'm topping, first."

"Oh, so bold." Husk tossed his hat off. "Dominate me then~"

****

Once DT was done in the shower, they dried themself off well. They wrapped one towel around their body, then around their hair. They unlocked and opened the bathroom door, steam wafting out and fading. The room was cool, now, and they put the towels in the laundry basket. They put on their button up, white, long sleeved shirt, and put on their black slacks. They tucked their shirt in, then put on socks. They slid their heeled boots on, before standing up and looking at themself in a mirror. They winked, before putting on their suit jacket. They left the room, then saw Charlie. She gave a thumbs up, eyes sparkling.

"Looks good?" DT asked. "Like, actually?"

"Definitely." Charlie took their hand. "Go show your date! Y'know what, let's take the stairs."

"Why?"

"Dramatic effect to show yourself off."

"I like the way you think~" DT hummed. "Alright, let's go then."

****

Alastor adjusted his red tie, taking a breath.

"How do I look?" He gestured to himself.

"Looking nice, Mr. Al!" Nifty complimented.

"Thank you, Nifty dear." Alastor smiled timidly. He fixed his dark red tailcoat, then his sleeves. "You think they'll like this?"

"I've read enough fanfiction to know they'll fall head over heels for you." Nifty replied casually. "Or not!"

"Wh–what?" Alastor was left concerned.

"Relax, it'll be fine." Vaggie cut in.

"We're here!" Charlie sang, then stood to the side so Alastor could gaze at DT. His eyes were wide, and they sparkled.

"You look simply amazing, my dear!" He marvelled.

"Thank you, darling. You look really good yourself." DT shot back gently. Alastor extended his hand out for them to take.

"You ready?" He asked. DT took it, pulling themself closer. They linked arms with him, confirming,

"I am."

So the two left the hotel together, leaving Charlie, Vaggie, and Nifty.

"Girls movie night?" Charlie suggested.

"Oh, yeah." Vaggie agreed.

"Woo!" Nifty got excited. "What should we watch first? Unless..."

"Nifty, for the seventh time, we're not watching the Bee Movie!"

****

"Ohh, harder Husk!" Angel moaned, cuffed to the bed. Husk was thrusting hard into Angel's ass, grunting in the process.

"Harder, eh?" Husk chuckled, grinning madly. "Then beg for it."

Angel Dust went mad with lust, long legs wrapping around Husk's waist, and he clung to him.

"You're really clingy, aren't you?" Husk asked, as his breathing was shallow. He was pulled into a line of kisses.

"Yes~" Angel's bottom set of arms wrapped around his waist as well, before grabbing his tail and stroking it. Husk purred, a light brush appearing on his face.

"You're the only one who gets to hear this, got it?" Even his threats sounded hot.

"And what's my punishment, daddy?" Angel grinned.

"Getting on your knees." Husk warned, putting his hand on the back of Angel's head, stroking it slowly.

"Kinky~"

"Heh, that's my Angel."

"How about," Angel Dust's eyes gleamed with his passion. "I give you my special services,"

"Leave me wanting more, Angel."

****

"Alrighty, it may have been a long walk, but it's worth it!" Alastor was covering DT's eyes as he led them on the roof of a building to show an amazing view, a blanket, and a bottle of wine, with a basket of bread and grapes.

"Can I see now, darling?" DT giggled.

"Alright...now." Alastor removed his hands, stepping back. DT smiled, shoulders dropping.

"It's beautiful, Al." They spoke up.

"I'm glad you enjoy it." Alastor sat on the ground, DT joining him. "Wine?" He opened the bottle, pouring them a glass.

"Sure, I don't see why not." They took their glass. "This date is rather...romantic."

"Ah, that... wasn't exactly the plan." Alastor poured himself a glass. "I wanted to get to know you more."

"I can say the same." DT sipped some wine. There was soft music playing in the background. "How's your day been?"

"Dull but fine." Alastor hesitated. "Reception planning was good, but other than that... I'm unsure." He looked away. He flinched when he felt DT's hand on his shoulder. DT stroked it with their thumb.

"You can talk to me." They set their glass down, scooting closer. Alastor pulled their hand away, distancing him.

"You won't repeat a word I say, correct?" Alastor threatened.

"Cross my heart, hope to die," DT drew an x on their chest. Alastor's smile shrank: maybe he could trust them.

"...when we were cooking, and you saw me staring at the knife?" His voice turned faint. "I...reminisced some things..."

"Like…?" DT began. "It's okay if you don't want...to tell me. I'm just concerned, is all."

Alastor held his arms.

"Knives leave scars, like many other sharp things. My father..." Alastor bit back a grimace. "He was far from kind. An arrogant man who was never the same after war. I don't quite remember him being nice at all...he always hit my mother." He paused. "I'm sorry, I don't usually—"

"No, no, I get it. It's okay." DT reassured. "My parents were never around." They admitted, gazing to the side.

"...My mother was the only one who actually cared." Alastor told them. "She was a lively woman and left my father, taking me far from him."

"Good for her." DT smirked, drinking more. Alastor had downed his glass of wine, sighing.

"Whenever I talk about my past, I feel the urge to drink more to numb it all." He grumbled, smile now twisting into a scowl. DT blinked: his smile was gone, this was astounding to them. The Radio Demon, without his trademark grin? It was something they weren't meant to witness. But still, there was something so adorable about his frown.

"...You're cute when you frown." They clung to his arm. Alastor looked at them, giving a small, thoughtful noise and yanked his arm away.

"I'm not cute." His brows furrowed, then crossed his arms.

"Right, right." DT giggled. "You're handsome." They leaned their head against his arm. Alastor hesitated, wrapping his arm around them.

"Thank you." He smirked arrogantly. DT scoffed playfully, shoving him back with enough force for him to even hit his back. He yelped.

"Cocky little shit." They teased.

"Wh–am not!" Alastor gasped dramatically, sitting all the way up. There was a pause before the two erupted into giggles.

"You're fun to hang out with." DT drank some more of their wine. They felt a little dizzy, but it wasn't a bother.

"I'm glad you think so." Alastor swooped them up, holding their hands. He swayed a bit, back and forth. DT's eyes glinted in the soft, evening light. They wrapped their arms around his shoulders. They pulled themself even closer, and Alastor put his hand on their hip, and the other on their shoulder

"Oh~" DT eyed his hands, smirking. They put their hand on his chest, feeling a burning sensation throughout their body. They inched their face close to Alastor's face, and he put his right hand on their cheek.

"I think we got a little...too far. But then again..." Alastor trailed off. "Maybe not. I believe we've gotten closer."

DT smiled again, eyes dulling a bit.

"I believe so too." They admitted. They swayed with him, before staring at his lips. "...what were to happen if I kissed you?" They raised a brow.

"Find out." Alastor hummed. DT came closer, but only kissed his forehead. Alastor's face turned bright red, with DT snickering.

"That was rather interesting," They commented. "But...I didn't feel anything."

"...neither did I." Alastor held the back of his neck, before dropping his hand. "...are we supposed to?"

"Probably." DT shrugged. They looked at his lips again. "...should I kiss you again?"

"Be my—" Alastor began, but was cut off when they did indeed kiss his lips. It was a peck, but...nothing sparked between them. DT pulled back again.

"Hmm. I don't feel passion." They clicked their tongue. "That's okay...it doesn't have to be romantic." They reassured.

"Good, because I don't...love you." Alastor gestured to nothing.

"Neither do I. I mean, I like you, but..."

"Not in a loving romantic way, right?"

"Right."

DT pursed their lips. There was silence before Alastor kissed them back. They held each other close, before pulling apart and coming together, their breathing becoming gentle in between the kisses.

DT pulled away, before sitting back down, gently pulling Alastor with them.

"What are you planning, darling~?" Alastor chuckled. He was gently pushed against the concrete railing of the roof.

"Nothing, yet~" DT kissed him multiple times, moving down to his neck. Alastor gently put his hand on the back of their head as they kissed him, and he gently pushed them onto their back, so that they were pinned, and the Radio Demon was on top of them. DT pulled themself upward, clinging to him.

"Let's go somewhere else, hm?" Alastor asked. "Since it's...a little indecent to partake in these actions out in the open."

"How about in your room~?" DT suggested. Alastor warped the two into the halls of the Happy Hotel, and DT was shoved against the wall. They kissed each other with tongue now, before pulling apart. They had no clue what was going on.

"What the hell are we doing...?" DT giggled. "Maybe the booze is talking."

Alastor laughed softly. "So it seems."

Another white and bright lime green bug crawled through the hallway unnoticed, spying on everyone and everything. Alastor caught it in the corner of his eye, but presumed it was his imagination...

Boy was he wrong.

****

"Woo, Husk," Angel Dust covered himself with his blankets, "That was a nice time."

"Yeah it—" Husk cuddled up to him, when he heard a thud. "—the fuck?" He got up and opened the door to see… well, DT and Alastor giggling like idiots.

"Oh, shit! Hi, Husk!" DT spoke in between giggles. Husk's mouth gaped, as his gaze flicked between DT's fingers in Alastor's hair, to the couple's wrinkled clothing.

"Oh you fucking." Angel Dust deadpanned.

"Oh, how vulgar you are, Angel." Alastor rolled his eyes, smile straining.

"Bitch, you were giggling two seconds ago!"

"Angel, shut up."

"No!"

"Oooookay, have a good night you two!" DT dragged Alastor to their room, before they stopped. They smirked and finished, "Oh, have fun topping each other~"

Their faces went bright red, and DT cackled, before they and Alastor walked into their room.

...that was awkward.

UPDATE!

Chapter Summary

:)

Hey all!!

Sorry for not updating in a while. A mixture of writer's block, mental health struggles, and the like we're reasons. But I'm back, and I'll update more!!

Tysm <3

Sex, Lies and Horrid News

Chapter Summary

> The aftermath of the previous night. And unfortunately, Charlie's family is affected by something so evil, so cursed...it may end in catastrophe..

Chapter Notes

> EDIT: 3/7/23: OKAY. Writing the smut took a whole ass hour. Was it worth it? Yeah, cuz I listened to smut playlists on Spotify LMAOOOOOOOO this is fun :)))

DT pulled Alastor into their room, shutting the door behind them. They immediately fell into laughter, leaning against Alastor's chest.

"Shit..." They gasped for air before laughing more, and Alastor joined them. There was a pause to catch their breaths.

"The looks on their faces!" Alastor exclaimed, then sighed. He let his shoulders drop, and stared into DT's eyes. DT leaned their head against Alastor's chest, with Alastor hugging them tightly. They didn't know if it was the alcohol's doing, or if they actually enjoyed being with Alastor.

DT pulled Alastor close, then hopped up and wrapped their legs around his waist. They trailed their fingers down his chest, and slowly took off his tie. Alastor's grin vanished.

"Wait, I...I can't." He whispered. DT cocked their head to the side, before unwrapping their legs and planted their feet on the ground.

"You alright, darling?" They asked. "Are you uncomfortable? Is it because Angel and Husk saw us?"

"No, it's...something else." Alastor looked away.

"Look, I don't want pressure you into doing this." They told him.

"Really?" Alastor blinked.

"Um...yes?" DT's brows furrowed. "Why would I make you do something that you feel uncomfortable?"

"..." Alastor blinked again. "...there's something about you that makes me think..."

DT waited patiently for his answer. The Radio Demon didn't know how to react to their courtesy. He inhaled a sharp breath, his ears flopping down on the back of his head.

"...I want to try...it. With you." He flustered.

"Oh...oh." DT's face turned a bright ocean blue. Their ears flattened, and they twirled a bit of their hair. "Okay, we can do that."

"It'll be...my first time. So let me know if...I mess up?" Alastor tried to phrase it properly.

DT paused, before giving a disarming smile. "Dear, I've never had sex before either...do you expect me to know what to do either?"

"No..." Alastor held the back of his neck. "I...ugh, I'm not good at this thing."

"It's alright...neither am I." DT winked at him. "But we can try it together~"

"..." Alastor smile. He tugged off his tie, and he reached to take off his shirt, with DT helping him unbutton slowly. He pulled them closer, dipping them. DT wrapped their arms around Alastor's shoulders, and with picking them up, he brought them to his bed, setting them down.

DT pulled their arms away, and noticed Alastor unzipping his pants off. He kicked off his shoes, then took off his pants slowly. DT kicked off their heels and unbuttoned their shirt, taking it off and tossing it onto the floor, along with their pants and their underwear. All they had on was their binder. They laid down on Alastor's bed for a moment, taking in the comfortable mattress, when they looked up, they saw Alastor pulling his boxers down.

"How do you want me to...please you?" Alastor chose his words carefully.

"You certainly have a way of words," DT replied with instead, "it's rather...interesting. But I can be on bottom, if you so wish~"

Alastor got into bed with them, and he gently pressed them down against the mattress.

"Can you flip around for me...?" The Radio Demon's voice was uncharacteristically quiet.

"Darling, the confidence issues!" DT groaned, flipping onto their stomach. "I know you never done this before, but you need to—" they let out a small noise after feeling Alastor's hands grip onto their hips, and they felt shadow tentacles wrap around their ankles, now strapped to the bed. "...oh~ I'm liking this, now~"

"Good~" Alastor whispered, smirking. He then thrusted into their ass, beginning slowly. DT's breathing turned shallow, and they clawed the sheets as the thrusting turned rougher. They gripped the nearest pillow, moaning into it, gripping the soft fabric. Their nails dug through the pillowcase, now having small holes. They began moaning more, though it was muffled. Tears pricked in their eyes as they felt heat trail through their body. Their tail curled around Alastor's waist, and brought his groin closer to their bottom.

"Don't. Stop." DT growled out. "Keep going~"

"Whatever you say~" Alastor caressed their hips, fingers trailing down to near their crotch. He traced their pelvis, and made his way to rub his fingers along their thighs.

"Get on your back~" Alastor told them, pulling out. DT purred, doing as told as the tentacles around their ankles released them. They got on their back, and Alastor paused.

"Well?~" DT teased. "Beg for it." Their smile shifted into a neutral, nonchalant expression. Alastor froze, eyes wide: he looked like a deer in the headlights.

"Pardon?" He croaked, and DT's tail curled around Alastor's thigh, tightening. Alastor yelped, before letting out a small whine.

"Did I stutter, darling?" DT chuckled darkly. "Beg."

Alastor growled, his smile now twisting into a grimace. He yelped again after feeling the growing, squeezing sensation that left his thigh numb. DT noticed he had a deer tail, and released his thigh. Instead, the tip of their tail plucked at loose strands of hair on his tail.

"You're not budging...I'm impressed." DT hummed.

"Ughhh..." Alastor growled again, shuddering. His eyes dulled, glowing gently against DT's pale mint skin. "...p–please...I'm ready."

"Hmmm," DT looked to the side, contemplating. "alright, I guess you are," they spread their legs, and shifted their genitalia into a vagina.

"May I start, now~" Alastor asked.

"You may~" DT confirmed. And so Alastor gently inserted his dick into their vagina, slowly pulling in and out. There was another moment of it being slow, then Alastor went faster. His tail thumped against his lower back as he cursed himself for this. He had to beg...how pathetic must have that been?

"Mmm, yes~" DT shuddered, sweat trailing down their body. Alastor let out a weak sigh after pulling out, leaning over and resting his forehead on their chest. He started catching his breath. DT asked him, "Want to take a minute?"

"Yeah, I'm just going to..." Alastor flopped onto his side, curling up to them. He struggled to keep his eyes open. "...this is so...exhausting..."

"It is...not really fun, to be honest." DT drawled. They ran their fingers through Alastor's hair again, and noticed him falling asleep, pulling them closer. His face was pressed against their chest lightly, his breaths light and gentle. He looked so...peaceful. "Goodnight Al." DT whispered and kissed the top of his head. "Sleep well."

The night was quiet after that...

****

The morning was nice.

DT and Alastor were still sleeping, tangled in each other...well, DT was stirring for a while.

Angel Dust had been up for a while now, with the rest of the hotel staff. They were now waiting for Alastor and DT to come downstairs.

"Hmm..." DT hummed, and heard the Radio Demon groan.

"What, what happened…" He began sitting up. His crimson red and raven black hair was a disaster. His eyes widened, jaw dropping ever so slightly.

"We had sex." DT exhaled calmly. Alastor's face turned red instantly, eyes wide.

"Ohhh, no. IT WAS ONLY SUPPOSED TO BE A DATE!" He whisper-screamed. "Oh, ow, ow, my head..." he held his head, and his face was even redder at his tail thumping constantly.

"Calm yourself!" DT giggled. "We wanted to try something new...did you enjoy it? Or is this something you don't see us doing much?"

"Uhhh..." Alastor began.

"It's okay, be honest." DT encouraged.

"...I didn't really like it." Alastor pulled the covers over his lower body. "But, I'm not saying boycott it..."

"Just a once in a great while thing?"

"Yeah."

"Okay, that sounds good. I'll keep that in mind."

They smiled at each other.

"You were pretty good, for your first time." DT commented.

"Oh, th–thanks." Alastor stammered. He looked away. "...is it bad I didn't feel... attraction? Passion?"

"Not at all. Like I said," DT gestured to nothing, "we don't have to do things out of passion or romance. This is just something to try out."

"Got it." Alastor nodded. "...I liked the date portion. We didn't get far into getting to know each other—"

"—but we got to know each other's bodies." DT smirked, sticking their tongue out. Alastor snorted.

"Tasteless joke," He tutted.

"But you laughed~" DT poked his nose.

"You're lucky I'm not biting your finger off." Alastor deadpanned.

"Kinky."

"Oh for the love of Lucifer." Alastor groaned, and DT laughed more. They laid on their back, arms under their head.

"...we should probably get up, huh." They stared off into space.

"Oh definitely." Alastor sat up. "I need underwear." He muttered as he got out of bed and snapped his fingers, now wearing not only underwear, but full on clothing. He wore was a black long sleeved shirt, gray pants, and a pair of shoes: very simple, considering his wardrobe.

DT also went with a simple choice. They put on a white shirt with dark blue jeans, converse shoes, and a black jacket

"Let's go, my dear," Alastor started after doing he and DT did their morning routines. DT linked their arm with his, heading into the hall. The two went down the stairs, just chatting amongst themselves. Alastor was now showering DT in compliments, praise, it made DT's heart swell.

"Go on~" They purred. Alastor obeyed.

"Caressing your soft cheeks and breathing in your intoxicating scent was rather addicting." He was being truthful, and DT grinned broadly. "You really like that, huh?" Alastor exhaled, then gripped their hand. "You like when I praise you? Shallow, shallow, shallow," He shook his head teasingly.

"Hey now–wh–Nifty?" DT was cut off by noticing the cyclops running into the hall, obviously distressed.

"S-something happened! Something REAL bad!" Nifty was rather frazzled. "We have to go!"

DT blinked, confused. They, along with Alastor, ran after her, and finally outside. She ushered them into a limo, and Charlie was gripping onto Vaggie's hand. Tears were running down her rosy cheeks, and the moth demon tried to soothe her: alas, there was no resolving the pure dread Charlie felt.

"What's going on?!" DT asked in a much more panicked tone than they anticipated.

"There's something wrong with Queen Lilith!" The limo driver spoke up, and slammed on the pedal. The limo jolted forward and sped through the road, with DT holding onto the seat, eyes widened.

"Is it that bad?" Alastor eased them, holding their hand.

Charlie balled her hand into a fist, closing her glossed eyes. She was still shaking, but she managed a little nod. Vaggie nodded, rubbing her girlfriend's back.

"She came down with a sudden illness. We don't even know how she caught it! But we know that this… this'll have a high chance of killing her…" She informed.

"Killing her...?" DT was beyond surprised. They pursed their lips into a thin line.

"She was fine a few days ago…" Alastor mumbled. He almost fell off the seat when the limo skirted to a stop. He opened the door for DT, Charlie and Vaggie, and got out. They all rushed into the Morningstar castle, being led by a servant who then took them into the master bedroom.

Queen Lilith looked deathly pale, and her forehead was drenched in sweat. Her cheeks were blazing a fiery red, scolding hot to the touch. Her hair had been sprawled out against the bed in an elegant way. The tips of her fingers were growing stone gray. She looked like she was turning to stone. Her eyes were dull, but the irises were lime green. She gazed at everyone in the room through half–lidded eyes.

The same lime green in her eyes were…wait…

DT felt their blood run cold.

"Mom!" Charlie rushed to her side. DT grabbed Alastor's hand, grip tightening.

Lilith tilted her head to look at her daughter.

"Charlotte…" She rasped. Her voice was somewhat gravely. She felt her daughter hold her hand.

The door creaked, and they all turned to face King Lucifer. He looked absolutely exhausted. His blonde hair was disheveled, and he wasn't wearing his formal attire. No smile was present, either.

"Your Majesty…" DT spoke up as they bowed, Alastor copying.

"Our condolences on…" Alastor faltered when he noticed Lucifer's eyes dull.

"We don't even know how this happened. She just fell sick three days ago. She's getting worse…" He kept his voice low, because if he were to raise it any higher, a lump would form in his throat.

"Is there any known cure?" DT seemed too hopeful: this was hell. There were no miracles. They clasped their hands in a praying motion, resting them in front of their body.

"Sadly, no." Vaggie spoke up. DT's shoulders visibly dropped.

"You…" Lilith began, gesturing to DT. She beckoned them closer. DT obliged, taking slow steps. They sat beside her, and they flinched when her hand glided up to their cheek. She continued, "... you're the one ending the war. Betrothed to the Radio Demon…yes?"

DT nodded, leaning into her motherly touch.

"I'm proud of you two," She managed a weak grin. Alastor smiled a tiny bit, perking up. DT, meanwhile, was perplexed.

"You're proud…?"

"Indeed. Giving up what you want for the sake of others… a selfless act. You and Alastor will surely end the war. And I'll be at your side, as well as my husband,"

Lucifer knelt beside the bed, burying his head into his hands.

"My daughter,"

Charlie was shaken with silent cries, as she squeezed Vaggie's hand. Vaggie bowed her head, her bangs falling in front of her eyes.

"The hotel residents…we will help you."

"Do you know who got you sick…?" DT was speaking softly, now. "Anyone familiar, unknown?" They wanted to know who was dumb enough to mess with the literal Queen of Hell.

"He…" Lilith choked out, her eyes flashing lime green, then back to their normal, dark lavender color. "The destroyer of galaxies on Eternia… the man was…"

DT's eyes snapped open. Lilith struggled to breathe a bit, and the stone gray color twisted up her arm quickly, now reaching her elbows.

A shrill mixture of a cry and scream came from Charlie, panic settling in. DT flinched, their face, fingers, and the rest of their body filled with a tingling sensation.

"Y–your Majesty...!" DT exclaimed. They were shoved out of the way by the royal nurses and doctors, and they examined what the problem was. Alastor reeled them back, holding their shoulders.

"You need to leave, now." One of the doctors replied, ushering them out.

Lilith managed to speak again, and to DT, she told them,

"Hell and Etheria remain safe in your hands…"

Before the shapeshifter responded, they, along with Alastor, were shoved out of the room, the doors slamming shut.

"No..." DT stepped backwards. "No, no, no...Horde Prime is supposed to be—"

"Horde Prime?" Alastor flinched. "The man who single handedly destroyed half of the planets in Eternia's universe, leaving Despondos as a terrible wasteland, now used at a prison?"

DT nodded. "That's him."

Alastor pushed back his own distress. He pulled them close into a hug. "We'll take care of this. It'll be okay."

"We'll kill him if we have to." DT growled out. Alastor raised his brows a bit amused.

"Murder, I like it." He commented. "...but what about Queen Lilith?"

"Going back to killing Prime, maybe… maybe this'll blow over."

"We won't have enough time..."

"I know."

"Though...we can always stretch out awareness." DT pursed their lips into a thin line. They drew in a breath, before responding with an almost inaudible,

"Okay...let's kick some ass."

To Catch A Fallen Star

Chapter Summary

> Prime is indeed in Hell, and he isn't happy. He's strives to reunite someone of the past...

Chapter Notes

> Hhhhhhhh I don't want to fix this chapter right now, I'm too tired to think of Prime's back story.

Prime was far from an angel. He was a pure menace to society. A cult leader, even. His death was far from peaceful, as Hordak threw him off the edge.

He was disgusted how he was ended: a conquered of destroyed planets, universes, and even surpassed his goal of harming everyone in some way. His horrid plan of chipped mind control wasn't unremembered, either. Many still live in fear that one day...he'll rise from the dead.

As bad as he is, many First Ones had forgotten…

He had come to Etheria with a child. A sick one, if that. Someone around the age of seven, a pure sweetheart who didn't deserve to have her life taken away by an awful disease. It was curable, but the First Ones turned her down so cruelly, all because of Prime being rumored to be a threat. He was far from a threat, at the time.

A young Mara, the former She Ra, didn't even try to object. She remained a member of the silent crowd.

Prime's daughter never sinned once in her life. A practical angel. She wanted nothing more than to stay with her papa.

When she died, ascending to heaven… Prime changed for the worse. His world had darkened with her light vanishing. He wanted to avenge her, for those who turned her down so selfishly.

His poor Carina. His little star burnt out, as he would remind himself. But stars…

They will reminisce in the night, twinkling ever so softly. A reminder that she'll always be there.

Prime began fidgeting with his metal clawed fingers, tapping them on the armrest of his throne. He had his ship crash down in Hell with him, in a desolate area that nobody knows of. It floats in the darkest corners, stalking other sinners. Taking them down when they least suspected it...

He had his little centipede-like beast crawl up the throne and twist around his arm. It sat there for a bit, eyes shut. It slowly regenerated its energy.

"The Queen's sick, the King and Princess are distracted, and Hell is in chaos. Hm…perfect." Prime told himself. "But the betrothed… the damned shapeshifter knows I'm here. That won't be a problem. If I break them down more, they won't suspect a thing when I come in for the real attack." He flexed his clawed hand. The centipede nodded, rather dramatically and heavily.

~~It was practically vibing.~~

Prime merely blinked, then flicked it. It let out a squeal, then hit the ground.

"At this rate," He shook it off. "I'll be able to rule…again."

Suddenly, there were floating feathers raining outside. They were pure white, and looked soft to the touch. Prime rose from sitting, heading to his large window. The heaven's light shined down, and there was a cry. A long, wailing cry that was all to familiar. Nobody was falling, of course. However, the feathers looked... bloody.

It clicked.

"...Carina?"

His daughter was up there.

And was in excruciating pain.

To Rescue A Misunderstood Villain

Chapter Summary

> Carina is Prime's daughter, a sweet little angel who wants nothing more than to see her papa again. She's currently dealing with the pain of molting feathers. The angels in charge of her–one worried, the other calm–make sure everything else is alright...in the meantime...

Chapter Notes

> (Chapter Nine and Ten were basically filler chapters for backstory, and for my brain to get going.)
>
> EDIT: 3/8/23: I'm trying to make Michael, Carina and Arielle more fleshed out characters than what they were originally written as. Soooo this is gonna be fun.

"Shh, shh, you're alright," One of the head angels whispered. She was almost frazzled, with her wings stretched out and sticking up. She was trying to soothe a much younger angel, who was crying up a storm. The little angel was Horde Prime's daughter…

Carina.

Her baby feathers were molting, and some were accidentally pulled out by getting stuck into a door.

"Carina," Another voice, calm and collected, spoke up: Michael.

Carina rubbed at her eyes, and she stared up at him. Michael gently picked her up and cradled her.

"It'll be alright, it's only baby wings. Shhh," He kept his voice down. Carina hiccuped, wings twitching. Michael plucked off another baby feather so casually, but so gently. He brushed it off, and it floated down to Hell. He bounced her lightly, and that soothed her. The female angel watched quietly.

"Michael, how are you so good at this?" The female angel whispered in defeat, then she felt Michael pat her head.

"Well, Arielle, I've done this for a while." He replied simply. "You're getting much better though," He smiled. Arielle mirrored the expression in return.

"I'm supposed to be good with kids," She then frowned. She ran a hand through her hair. "Arielle, assigned to treating kids? This is a joke..."

"You will be, when the time rises, sister." Michael let out a small hum. He looked down to see Carina fast asleep. "...she tuckered herself out. Can you take her to her room, so she can go to bed?" He handed her over to Arielle.

"Alright." Arielle nodded as she held Carina close, then turned on her heel. She headed to Carina's room, whispering sweet little nothings to the sleeping angel.

Michael let his eyes dull. She had been taking care of Carina for the longest time, but she didn't show signs of growing. Was she stuck in her past state, when she was alive? He tapped his foot on the ground, wings twitching.

"Ugh," He pinched the bridge of his nose. "who is her father, and why isn't he...oh."

Then he remembered she was Etherian, and her father was still alive…right?

No, no. He pondered. Wasn't he dead by now…?

He went into deeper thought. Unless… he's in Hell…

It clicked in his head. This all makes so much sense: the loss of a daughter turned Prime bitter... However, this does not sympathize with his tyranny. He's still hurt people.

Michael paced back and forth as he pondered. He wanted to rid of the filth of demons, as Commander of the yearly Extermination. He refused to feel pity to those in Hell...what they did was their choice, and they could've turned around. However...

"The shapeshifter," He told himself, "somehow, they're here...ah, the betrothal to the Radio Demon!" He perked up. "That is something new you don't see every day," He crossed his arms, tapping his fingers. "My, my, all of this, going on at once?"

He knelt on the clouds, eyes dulling again. He watched the Earth below, but even had the ability to see Hell. He fully closed his eyes and exhaled, body relaxing.

"...I'll need to speak to my dear niece Charlie about this."

An Unusual Ally

Chapter Summary

> Alastor and DT run into Alastor's old enemy: Vox. But...he has a proposal? It may even help the rest of Hell...

Chapter Notes

> EDIT 3/8/23: Hhhhhhhhh I'm trying to make these scenes have more depth so bare with me pleaseeeeeeeee :')

Charlie and Vaggie planned on staying the night in the Morningstar castle, due to Charlie's fear of her mother dying while she's away. Vaggie wanted DT and Alastor to head back to the hotel, so there wouldn't be any stress or weight on the couple's shoulders: so they rose back wordlessly.

DT leaned their head on Alastor's shoulder, and Alastor wrapped his arm around their waist. He rested his chin on the top of their head, eyes close.

"We're back…" The limo driver halted the vehicle. Alastor sat up, then opened the door, stepping out.

"Thank you, my dear fellow." He chirped, helping DT out. He linked arms with them, and DT gripped onto him gently. They walked forward, and the shapeshifter pushed the door open. They expected to see Angel Dust, or even Husk. But no...

Standing by the bar was a tall demon with a TV head, and neon blue and red eyes. It matched with his black tailcoat. His eyes narrowed, and a grin flashed across his features at the other.

Alastor's eyes widened and he pulled DT closer to him, protectively, even.

"Vox." He growled out.

Vox turned to the Radio Demon, having a shit eating grin.

"Hey baby, long time no see~" He leaned against the bar, winking, causing Alastor to roll his eyes. He sat on one of the stools, legs crossed. He looked DT up and down. "Hm? This is the betrothed, eh? I can tell why you picked them. They'd do go with Valentino~"

"...thank you…?" DT tilted their head to the side.

"Valentino's a pimp and owns a porn studio—" Alastor whispered to them. "—what do you want, Vox?"

"I came in once I heard about Lilith." Vox replied simply, looking at the back of his hand and his nails. He brushed off some nonexistent dirt. He gazed back up, feeling Alastor glare at him.

"Are you behind any of this with that…that damn snake?" Alastor's smile was dangerously close to disappearing.

"Al, no. He can't be. He doesn't even know Prime." DT soothed him. Vox's eyes went wide, and he sat up straight.

"Prime? Why the hell would I work with a bastard like that?" He let his electronic brows furrow, and his mouth curled into a sneer.

"So you didn't make Lilith sick?" DT asked for confirmation.

"Not exactly, hun. I only gain information from Velvette," Vox answered coolly. "I mean, I'd love to gain control of Hell, but I'm not a dumbass trying to kill Lucifer's wife! He'd kill me first!"

"...you actually have morals." Alastor mumbled, left unaffected.

"Yup. Now, I can tell you need my help."

"We do, in fact. We need to wipe Prime out of existence." DT spoke boldly. A small, warm grin crept across Alastor's face.

"I'd say that you owe me, but with this situation, I'm being generous." The TV demon brought up, not so humbly. He stood up and walked past them.

Alastor rolled his eyes yet again.

"So, babe, whaddya say?" Vox grinned again, turning to face the couple.

"Ugh. Fine." Alastor sucked in a sharp breath.

"Great. But the thing is, we need more demons on board." Vox stood up from sitting.

"Like…?" Alastor crossed his arms.

"That snake fucker you tried killing, Angie's friend…what about the I.M.P. and that Goetia Prince?"

"Stolas? Hm. Not a bad idea…but then again, how the hell will we convince Sir Pentious?" Alastor raised a brow.

"Understandable reaction to you fucking him up with tentacles." Vox chuckled, a little glitchy. "And that wasn't in a sexy way."

"At least it ain't testicles!" Angel Dust yelled from another room. DT erupted into giggles, trying to keep cool. The Radio Demon's face went bright red.

"Angel—" He muttered something unpleasant in French.

"Are ya in?" Vox held his hand out. DT nodded, shaking his hand without hesitation.

"We are." They confirmed. The two men gazed at them wide–eyed, then to each other, then back. "I could find Stolas Goetia and Sir Pentious. Al, could you and Vox search for this… I.M.P. place, and Angel's friend?"

"Oh, Cherri? I could call her right now!" Angel pulled out his phone.

"One down, three to go." DT confirmed. "Once we have everyone, we'll come back here. Alright with you?"

"Quick witted, eh? That's something I've always liked about you." Alastor purred. DT smirked, then gave him a quick hug.

"I'll see you later, darling," They headed out of the hotel, then into the limo.

"Can you take me to where…Stolas Goetia is?" They asked slowly.

"You got it, Mx." The limo driver nodded, before driving off. They looked out the window to see Al waving at them. They turned forward, tuning out the rest of the world. They hugged themself, eyes dull.

"Who even is Stolas?" They asked.

"A powerful blue blood." The limo driver answered politely.

"So, royalty?"

"Yup. He's terrifying as fuck when he's in a full demon form."

"How terrifying?" DT gripped onto their pants a bit.

"Shit your pants level terrifying. But don't worry, he doesn't bite aside from that."

"Well that's good." DT saw them roll up at a mansion an hour later. "Thanks…" They exited the vehicle. They strutted out to the front of the mansion, forming a fist with their hand.

A breath, and a knock.

"Here we go..."

An Owl-ful Amount of Support

Chapter Summary

DT goes to Stolas for help. They have a talk and pleasant interaction.

Chapter Notes

DT and Stolas interaction babyyyyyyyy

EDIT: 3/8/23: I made DT and Stolas's interaction a bit more stoic and calmer. Something about how I originally wrote them...irks me.

The knock alerted one of the imp butlers, who politely let DT in.

DT gazed around at the walls. How they were adorned with portraits of the Goetia family. Stolas was poised at stoic, even a bit angered... except for the portraits of his daughter: he was happier, smiling more, it was refreshing from the other miffed portraits hung on the walls.

DT gave a small grin. "He's cute when he's happy with his daughter..." They told themself, before their smile faded. They didn't want to admit, but they hadn't seen their family in a long time...okay, that was a lie. They never had a family. All they remembered was growing up alone.

"Sir, you have a visitor." The butler announced, snapping the shapeshifter out of their thoughts.

"Send them in." Stolas's voice lingered. It seemed gentle, to DT. However, they were unknowing of the lustful nature this Goetia was capable of. They stepped into the big lounge room and saw the tall, bird demon poised on a couch. His legs were crossed, and he looked up from a novel he had been reading. Wings of Desire, the cover showed. His legs were long, and he lounged in a dark red satin robe. He looked up slowly.

"Oh, hello little Hero." He smiled warmly. DT kept their head low, but stepped forward.

"Oh, hi." They finally looked up. "I assume you know about—"

"—the betrothal? It's all over Hell." Stolas hummed. He rested his chin on the back of his hand. "You're brave and selfless, you know."

The shapeshifter pursed their lips, frowning.

"I guess..." They shrugged, a bit defeated.

"You're like me, when I was younger. Not wanting to be tied down so quickly. Arranged marriage is hard. But for you… it was a good sacrifice." Stolas put a hand on their shoulder. He caressed it with their thumb. "He treats you right, yes?"

"Yes." DT nodded.

"Then that's good: it's all that matters."

DT fidgeted uncomfortably, and their leg bounced up and down a bit, stressing out.

"I'm not a hero…" they mumbled. "Far from it, exactly."

"You don't have to be a hero to do good things, darling. People will still think of you positively."

"That's the thing," DT sighed, "people are just seeing the potential, all because of me trying to be an assassin and getting dragged into marriage. It shouldn't bother me, but...it does."

"But there are some good ones that do see the qualities you have." Stolas continued, "that, and the Radio Demon may have chosen you out of love, because he likes you for you."

"Seems like absolute bullshit to me."

"Oh hush," Stolas chided gently.

"I'm just saying…he wants to fill his ego up, and probably use me."

Stolas sighed. He ran his fingers through his feathers.

"But that is not why you're here. You need help with something else."

DT blinked, their mouth gaped.

"How did you catch on so quickly?" They were astonished. They have never been read so easily before...they were the one that read others, not the other way around...!

"I have a daughter who was born into a dysfunctional family." The Goetia prince remarked so casually, it was concerning. "I catch onto things. The demeanor, positioning, tone, and a lot more."

"Oh…" The shapeshifter pursed their lips. They folded their hands into their lap. "...you're right." They admitted begrudgingly.

Stolas sighed again, though it sounded like a hum this time.

"Care to explain?" He encouraged. With a deep breath, DT told him slowly,

"Horde Prime is in Hell, and he's poisoned Queen Lilith. Therefore, we need to either find a cure or kill Prime to stop the virus she's enduring. The Hazbin Hotel needs your help."

Stolas's soft, red eyes widened, his shoulders tensing. He slapped his book shut, the sound echoing through the hall.

"Horde Prime." His tone shifted to pure fury, clenching his hand into a first. "The scumbag who decided to terrorize the sinners and denizens of Hell? Oh don't worry dear, I've planned on killing him ever since he showed up here."

"So, it's a yes…?" DT's tone became filled with hints of hope.

"I won't rest until he dies." Stolas stood up. "After all…" He walked off, through the halls and into his bedroom, DT following. They saw him grab a holy gun, cocking it. He flung open the armoire, scrambling to find not only bullets, but also a dagger and holster.

"How many angel weapons do you have…?" DT asked him slow.

"A lot more than you think." Was all Stolas told them, turning to face them. "Alright. Let me call Blitz." He headed over to his nightstand, picking up the phone and dialing him.

"Blitz…?" DT mouthed to themself. "An old friend? Or..." The phone was ringing, and Stolas asked,

"Blitzy, I need a favor~"

"Save it, I already got the Radio Demon and TV Demon up my asshole pestering me about Prime." Blitzø's voice came through.

"And you sure do know about having things up there, hm?" Stolas purred, feathers puffing up. DT's face flushed, seeing his lustful state.

"Oh..." They grimaced when he wasn't looking.

"Only because of you topping me that one time. We don't talk about that!" Blitzø yelled.

"Mainly because you moaned like a little baby~!"

"I moaned like a BITCH. Moxxie won't stop bugging me about it. MOXXIE found out, of ALL fucking people!"

"But that night was fun, yes?"

"...yeah. You fucked my brains out pretty good."

"Love you~"

"Love you too…can you come over here? Let's end that shit face."

"I'll be there in twenty." Stolas confirmed.

"Great, see ya." Blitzø concluded, hanging up.

"You two are very…intimate." DT cleared their throat, covering their flushed face.

"We are. Blitzø is really good in bed." Stolas grinned. "But enough with that! Next stop, I.M.P." he headed to the closet and pulled out his normal outfit and hat. DT turned their back to him as he changed, and they faced him again when he was fully clothed.

"This'll...be interesting." DT crossed their arms, almost hugging themself.

"It will: are you ready?" Stolas held his hand out, giving a disarming grin.

DT slowly took his hand, gripping it gently.

"Born ready."

The Immediate Murder Professionals vs. The Delicious Noodle Snake

Chapter Summary

The Radio Demon, TV Demon and I.M.P. deal with Sir Pentious. Things do happen!

Chapter Notes

(What's this? Me, posting more of this crackfic? :OOO

In all seriousness thanks for 17 Kudos, this is the most my fics have gotten. I love y'all

ALSO I maaaay make a Tumblr sexyman fic...so beware of that. 👀👀👀👉👈)

3/12/23: haha took a break, chilled with my bf, life is good <3 hope you enjoy the edits and thanks for the kudos (:

"Is there seriously what you folks do?!" Alastor screamed over the loud explosions nearby. Sir Pentious' maniacal laughter erupted through, and he was steering his ship steadily.

"Yeah, Strawberry!" Blitzø yelled. He grabbed a nearby shotgun and pulled the trigger, shooting some Egg Bois.

"...did you just call me Strawberry?" Alastor blinked.

"Well, yeah! I can see where he's comin' from." Vox looked the Radio Demon up and down. Alastor rolled his eyes, but ducked when a bomb was thrown. He gazed at it, then grabbed Vox and Blitzø. Blitzø proceeded to grab Loona, Moxxie and Millie, and Alastor pulled them all out of the way. The bomb exploded, making some of the walls crumble and break.

"DAMNIT NOODLE FUCKER, MOXXIE HAS TO FIX ALL THESE DAMN WALLS!" Blitzø bared his teeth.

"ME?!" Moxxie exclaimed, offended.

"Mox, calm down." Millie rubbed her husband's arm.

"Oh for fuck's sake!" Alastor finally stood up, and ran to the cracked edge of the I.M.P building. He gripped his radio cane.

"Did not expect you to say that." Vox was actually quite surprised.

"Well, well, well." Sir Pentious slithered his body out of the window. He propped himself on his elbows on the window's ledge. He rested his chin on the backs of his hands. "We meet again, Alastor. Since I've been busy, I managed to successfully take over some territory!"

"Save it, Pentious. I need a favor!" Alastor sighed. "We all do."

Sir Pentious went silent, raising his brows in confusion. "I beg your pardon?"

Alastor gestured to himself, Vox, Blitzø, Millie, Moxxie and Loona silently, then heard a warping noise. He turned his head to face DT and Stolas appearing through a portal.

"What the fuck happened here?" DT's grimaced at the scene as they walked over to the Radio Demon.

"Hello, my dear." Alastor smiled at them as they hugged him tightly, before he frowned at Sir Pentious. "Do you know about Horde Prime?"

Sir Pentious seemed to coil back ever so slightly.

"Well," he began, nervously, "I did help him repair his Horde Armada ship. That was the extent of it…"

DT frowned, and their brows furrowed: something wasn't right here.

"Hey, Al? Can you be a dear and…step aside for a moment? I need a small request." Their tone was slightly unsettling. Alastor pursed his lips, before heading over to them. DT took his hands and looked in his blood red eyes.

"What seems to be the problem?" Alastor wondered.

"Could you…make a deal with me?" The shapeshifter entwined their fingers with his. Alastor blinked.

It was shocking, coming from them.

"I…" He went silent. "I mean..."

"Can you?"

"It…it'll come with a price. We'll discuss it later." Alastor spoke with confidence. DT bit back the urge to grimace. They were concerned about what he wanted in return: then again, they forced themself into this, so why not.

"I would like some extra power. To cast a truth spells for interrogation." They chose their words carefully.

"Ooh, alright. It's a deal then?" Alastor grinned. He extended his now, glowing lime green hand. He let out a small yelp when DT shook it somewhat roughly.

At first, there was nothing.

"What the fuck are they doing?" Loona wasn't amused.

"Not sure. Although, I'm wondering when those two will ditch and the deer man pulls out and thrusts the radio stick into their shift zone." Blitzø stuck his pointer finger out, made an "okay" sign with his other hand, and pushed his finger through jokingly.

"Really, sir?" Moxxie rolled his eyes.

"So, Sir Pentious." DT strutted over. "I have a feeling you're lying…" They raised their hand slightly, and a soft blue light emitted in front of them. They flicked their wrist, and it spiralled forward, hitting the snake demon.

"What's this for?" Sir Pentious looked at himself to see if there was any damage done. "If it was supposed to damage, you failed!" He grinned, eyes narrowed.

"It's a truth spell. Now, let me ask you this: are you helping Prime?" DT frowned, brows furrowed together.

Sir Pentious' smile faded, and he began shifting uncomfortably.

"I used to. When he first came to Hell. After hearing about his plan on killing the betrothed Etherian and sinner…the betrothed being you and the Radio Demon." He explained. "He also revealed how he planned on poisoning the Queen as revenge."

"And you kept it from us?!" The shapeshifter felt their very own blood boil for the first time in a long time.

"It's what an incredibly evil person does!" Sir Pentious put his hand on his chest, seeming bold.

"Are. You. Kidding me?" DT hissed under their breath, glaring daggers at the snake demon. They almost lunged forward.

"Relax, mon chèr. It'll be okay." He reassured, them, holding them back. He rested his head on top of theirs and wrapped his arms around their waist. DT begrudgingly melted at the touch, eyes dulling.

"Prime is hoping to collide with Etherians to spark the war!" Sir Pentious explained hurriedly. "Once Queen Lilith dies, Hell will blame Prime, and once they figure out he's from Etheria, the betrothal will be pointless as mass genocide takes control!"

"Holy fuck…" Loona stared wide eyed. "Meaning that we'll fight till the end of time."

"War would take place forever…" DT whispered. Their eyes narrowed, then they demanded, "You're going to help, whether you like it or not."

"Will the Striped Freak be there?" Sir Pentious asked with a disdained tone.

"Doesn't matter." DT dismissed it. "Now get your noodle ass down here and follow us to the Hazbin Hotel."

"Fine." The snake demon drew out the "f", then went to the control panel, landing and parking his ship into the building as Moxxie scrambled away from the danger.

"Then let's get back to the hotel." DT nodded. "Angel called Cherri Bomb, we have Vox, Stolas, now I.M.P. and Pentious. We're ready."

"Wait, we're staying at the hotel now?" Moxxie brought up.

"Yup. Only temporarily." Alastor confirmed. He smiled at Stolas opening a portal to the hotel, letting everyone else in before himself.

"So, what do I have to do for you, in exchange for my power?" DT scooted closer to their betrothed. Alastor rested his hand on their hip, smirking slightly.

"You…owe me a dance." Was all he said.

A dance? Well, it was simple enough.

"Formal, or casual?"

"Do you not know me, dear?"

DT merely smirked. "Not really. You pretty much chose me before I consented to your proposal!"

"You're not wrong. I did pull you under the bus with me." Alastor gave a little snort.

"I'm not complaining." The shapeshifter snuggled up to him. Alastor grinned slightly: it was way smaller than his usual grin, but at least it was genuine.

Vox took a seat at the hotel bar and leaned back, watching with pure curiosity. Usually, he'd see the Radio Demon being his cocky shit-eating grinning self. He was…uncharacteristically soft around DT. The small little jokes he told them, and their laugh…

Wait. Did the TV Demon actually Like DT? Or even Alastor?

Was he actually pining over two people he can't have?

Absolutely absurd. He shook his head at himself.

"Lovey dovey, for the betrothed couple. I'd think you two would hate each other." He commented.

"Not necessarily." DT replied. "Well...we have better chemistry than I thought."

"How the tables have turned~" Alastor smirked.

"Indeed they have, and how you are much more interesting...especially when we...eheh." DT winked, and Alastor

"Not right here, not right here-" Moxxie repeated, covering his face.

"Ah c'mon Mox, don't be a prude. You afraid of a gecko and deer realizing it's mating season and getting it on?" Blitzø joked around.

"Blitzø," Millie warned. Loona only grimaced, rolling her eyes and went back to playing on her phone.

"Oh come on, Mills,"

"Okay, we're done now!" Alastor laughed, his face burning up.

"How's Charlie's plan been going?" Stolas suddenly wondered.

"Not…great." Alastor sighed. His mouth gaped ever so slightly when DT wrapped their arms around his shoulders and pulled themself closer.

"Well, things may start rough, but there's always a smooth ending." They reassured. Alastor allowed himself to have a small frown, before smiling truly again. He pressed his forehead against theirs, then pulled one hand off his shoulder, and his fingers entwined with theirs.

"Ooh, I see what's going on, and it starts with s~" Angel Dust budded in.

"Is it sweet?" Nifty grinned.

"Sinister?" Husk didn't even bat an eye.

"...is it sexual tension?" Vox had a cocky smile.

"Bingo." Angel Dust snapped his fingers, then proceeded to do finger guns.

"Ugh," Alastor rolled his eyes. He turned to them, gaze softening. "...shall we meet up tonight?"

"Sure. I can throw something nice together for tonight." DT told him.

"Great. It's settled: another date..then we settle on the plan for Prime." Alastor pulled away. Angel Dust gave a thoughtful hum, watching the two. He saw Alastor suddenly warp away, getting a glimpse of his bright red cheeks.

"There's too much sexual tension here." Moxxie deadpanned.

"Lemme get you all situated. Charlie and Vaggie would be here, but she's…with her family." Nifty ushered the I.M.Ps, Stolas, and Vox to the front desk.

"Heya, toots. I can tell you an' ya Bambi are on your second date~" Angel Dust spoke up.

"Hm? Oh, yeah. Shit, I need a new outfit, I can't just wear the old pantsuit...or could I?"

"Hey, you're good. I gotcha covered." Angel Dust rested his top row of hands on their shoulders. He jerked his chin in the direction of his room, continuing, "I can fix ya up real nice, if you don't mind."

DT smiled, giving a small nod that could pass off as either embarrassed.

They were glad to get some help to pretty up for their man. But in Alastor's eyes…

They're gorgeous no matter what.

My Forsaken Dakota

Chapter Summary

Alastor's never been betrothed, but found a friend to be closer than he would ever believe. The person he met all those years ago is scarily similar to DT...

Chapter Notes

(FILLER CHAPTERRRRRRRR

I wanted more angst. I give you more angst. And some pining. Okay some was an understatement, there's a lot. Alastor is just a sad boi :<

Enjoy ❤️)

3/12/23: angst!! I like angst <3 I'm still torturing Alastor because yes.

TW: past abuse, murder and homophobia.

Alastor never thought he'd be betrothed. To someone from another dimension, even! He thought he'd be alone forever, but he assumed fate had other plans for him. Especially after losing someone dear to him…

In his time, the 1920s, being gay, or queer of any sort was frowned upon. Yet he had a companion…a damned good one, if that.

Dakota was their name: Dakota Taylor to be precise. A charming fellow, who seemed quite different from the other men. He was a flirt, the ladies were drooling over him, and was a famous actor from England: he came to Louisiana for Alastor's radio show. He wanted to broaden his reputation. Though...he told Alastor he felt different: no, he didn't feel like a man, or a woman. It was plaguing Dakota.

Alastor didn't mind at all, he would call them "Dee" for short, and "them" instead of "him". Alastor did, however, find his own orientation confusing: for a long time, he felt no attraction to men or women. When he met Dakota, however, it changed his perspective on things. He was much more accepting than many others, since he was different himself.

His heart fluttered, butterflies would form in his stomach, and he'd be a flustered mess around Dakota. He, at first, believed that this was normal for a friend. That's what they started out as, laughing at dumb jokes and not giving a damn if people looked at them wrong...they'd just kill them in the end.

Alastor considered himself to be disinterested to hookups without an emotional bond, but...he wasn't opposed to finding a partner. It just wasn't a priority.

It all confused him, even to this day.

Alastor stared at his reflection, eyes dull. His smile fell, remembering what happened to him and Dakota: the good, bad, and downright ugly. Let's begin with a few good things: the first kiss.

Yes, they were both drunk off their asses and Alastor always—and secretly—wanted to know what it was like to kiss someone. Fortunately, it was in private, so no harassment would befall them. What was meant to be a simple chat turned into something more. Dakota's lips were so soft. So…delectable. It made the former radio host go mad. He was a cannibal, so that could explain why he enjoyed the taste, but in the end, there was no passion, no love...just curiosity.

Another good thing would have to be a rose Dakota got for Alastor, as a mutual greeting. It was extremely soft to the touch, so delicate, so amazing. Too pure for the cruel Earth.

Alastor had pinned it on one of his black satin suits... Right? He did, he did.

Good, he told himself as he was now rummaging through his closet, and successfully found the suit. He smiled again, feeling the sleeves gently. The nostalgia hit him, and a strange twist of sadness knotted in his chest. The smile faded again.

He took off his current jacket, setting it on his bed. He pulled the suit out, putting it next to his jacket.

Next up, the bad: which was the discrimination. Then again, he and Dakota would purposely make others mad by getting a little too close to each other. It still angered him that acceptance came at a short span, however: people should have been happy no matter what...fuck, they just came out a damned war!

Well, he was admittedly more than happy that gay, lesbian, bisexual, trans, and other LGBTQ people are accepted and loved today, but he wished it would have started a bit earlier

Dakota had been beaten by their father and shunned by their mother for not acting like a man, and liking both men and women romantically. Their mother screamed on how they were not her precious baby boy, how they were an absolute disgrace, even going as far to think they were mentally ill. Their father, despite beating them to a bloody pulp most times, secretly accepted them. In private he treated their wounds and helped them recover. He understood, unlike Dakota's mother.

Alastor went on a little killing spree.

"I'm so sorry for your mother's murder, dear," He had apologized the day after killing her brutally, and then cooking her body for dinner, "buuut, you don't have to worry too much about what she thinks, you know."

Dakota would frown at first, but smile out of relief.

Alastor toed off his shoes, then grabbed the waist of his pants. He pulled down, slowly undressing. His thoughts were clouded, until he perked up. His eyes went wide in realization.

Dakota reminded him of…

No. No, no, no. I refuse to believe that...

His eyes burned.

"Double Trouble…" He spoke, inaudibly. ...are they my Dakota? He pondered.

It started to click.

Dakota was dramatic, back in the day. Feisty, too. Yet, they always had a soft side for Alastor, and went as far to support the radio host in his murders. After all, Dakota was the Belladonna of Lust, reporters called them. The reasoning is when there was a bodies of dead men and women, there will be a red lipstick mark on their cheeks, necks, or mouths. Some speculated that this fiend was gorgeous enough to fool and kill the innocent, and called them that ever since...

No. This was a dream. There was no possible way they could have reincarnated. Unless…

Were they actually a demon, just located in Etheria?

The one that got away from the Radio Demon?

It made him choke up.

The ugly part of the past we'll get to that later. It'll spoil the rest of the story if told now.

He swallowed in order to make the lump in his throat go away. He pushed the memories back, and continued getting ready. He rain a hand through his crimson hair. After a little bit, he gazed at himself in the mirror again. He ran his hand on his jacket. It was still smooth to the touch. His black and white shoes looked pure, clean, even. He jolted in shock upon seeing…

A wet, inky black substance dripping down his cheeks and dropping from his chin. He put a shaking hand to his face, wiping it slightly, before pulling away. He rubbed his fingers together, feeling that…

They were tears? Was he sincerely crying?

He grimaced, wiping his face more. He took a breath, before turning on his heel. He summoned a bottle of champagne, and grabbed the brass door handle. He twisted it, opening the door and walking out.

Was he ready to face them? It made his stomach flutter with butterflies. He overall wasn't sure. His own mind was conflicting him. He didn't know if Double Trouble was Dakota, or, just the Shapeshifting Psycho, nothing more: a doppelganger, a copycat, anything but his Dakota.

He just couldn't get over it.

No matter how hard he tried, it was hopeless. He was suffering with the memories of one he held so dear...the one that got away.

Were They The One That Got Away?

Chapter Summary

Angel Dust helps DT get ready for their second date, and things are yet to set sail.

Chapter Notes

(DT and Angel Dust interaction because yes

This is the only sweetness you'll get for now-- next chapter, buckle your seatbelts, shit goes down.)

3/12/23: more descriptions because I like to make my writing ~ f a n c y ~

Yeah, this is the only sweetness for a bit, so strap down.

"So, tell me 'bout ya self." Angel Dust hummed, setting DT down at his gigantic vanity. "Despite you bein' here for a while, I still don't know who the fuck you are!" He laughed, and DT joined in.

"Well, I'm a killer. But I always loved acting." DT answered, sighing gently. They held onto the seat as the spider demon spun them around to face him.

"Ah, a cute little thespian, eh?" Angel Dust chuckled and poked their nose. DT pursed their lips, blushing.

"I—I'm not cute." They kept their composure.

"Mhmmm, whateva ya say." Angel pulled out a case of makeup. He set it on his vanity with a clank, opening it up. He dug through, then found an eyeshadow palette and brush. He opened the palette and dabbed the brush. He pulled away, then started to put shimmering green eyeshadow on DT.

"You don't have to put this on for me." DT faltered.

"I insist. Besides, ya needed an outfit, I gotcha. Why not pamper ya up for yer man?" Angel replied. He smiled, baring his gold tooth. "God, he can be a piece of work, but he's attractive as all hell!"

"Alastor, he… he's something." DT kept their eyes closed. "I felt like I met him before, though. Something about our first banter was so natural to me, and he was so kind. He can turn that persona in an instant! We must've met."

"Well, ya must've, if ya know about 'im."

"True, but I feel like…we've met in a past life."

A pause.

"Really?" Angel Dust set down the brush. He rummaged through the case again, and found some lip balm. He handed it to them, and they put a bit of it on. They nodded, capping the balm.

"Yeah. When…did he come to Hell?" They rolled their eyes internally when Angel put a little more eyeshadow on. This time, some black to contrast from the green.

"Around 1933." Angel confirmed. "During the Great Depression. Poor thing committed assisted suicide with a shot gun...that's why he's a deer."

"Oh," DT frowned, brows almost furrowing.

The Great Depression, they pondered and fiddled with their fingers. Strangely...memorable. Somehow.

After a few minutes of mascara being put on, and silence, DT was turned to look in the mirror. They let out a small gasp.

"Whaddya think?" Angel pulled away. DT couldn't stop looking at themself. They were in awe. They put a hand to their mouth carefully.

"It's amazing…thank you so much…" They cracked a wide grin.

"Not a problem. Now, I have the perfect dress for you. Val…" Angel faltered. He shifted his gaze.

"The moth pimp?" DT cocked their head to the side.

"Yeah, he…he got me a black dress a long time ago. It neva really fit me. I got a set of heels, too." Angel headed over to his massive closet, throwing the doors open. He smirked, pulling out a thick strapped black dress that had a large portion of the back was visible.

"Oh, wow. This is…" DT reached for it, but recoiled a bit when Angel gently shoved the outfit into their arms.

"You're gonna kill this outfit." He reassured. "You want me to step out?"

"You can just turn around." DT brushed it off. When Angel turned, they finally took off their clothes, and slipped the dress on. They pulled and adjusted the gloves so that they fit. They finally asked,

"How do I look?"

Angel Dust slowly turned around, and his eyes sparkled.

"If ya weren't betrothed I'd bang ya." He commented. "Because damn you look good."

DT blushed again, holding their arm.

"Thanks, Angel." They giggled nervously. Angel handed them a pair of stiletto heels, and they put them on.

"Now you're ready for a date." Angel out his hands on their shoulders. "Go get 'em, Gecko." He smacked their ass and they yelped.

"Ugh, really!" They exclaimed as Angel snorted. "Was that necessary?!"

"Yes, it was!" Angel held his sides, then wiped his eyes. "You ready regardless?"

DT rubbed the spot that had been smacked, and gave a firm nod, before saying,

"I'm ready."

So they headed out of the room. They gazed around, then saw a note, taped to the door. They pulled it off, reading,

Up the stairs, on the roof with a bit of a surprise!

DT blinked, but shrugged.

"Wish me luck." They told Angel.

"Break a leg." Angel smirked. DT chuckled.

"Too shay." They turned right, then walked through the hall. They saw a row of rose petals, leading up the stairs to the roof. "Oh, Al…" They sighed, smitten. They climbed up the stairs, gripping the railing. They finally shoved the door open to the roof, and they were…quite amazed.

A table for two, with a white cloth draped over it elegantly. There was a bucket with ice and a bottle of champagne in it. Rose petals were scattered, and there was also a vase of black and red roses in a vase. And there was Alastor…

In his black satin suit, with black and white dress shoes. His charming smile was prominent on his features, but it seemed to grow when he saw them. His heartbeat went crazy, and he felt like he was on fire. But one thought lingered in his mind.

Are they still the one that got away…?

A Broken Deer Demon

Chapter Summary

DT and Alastor go on their second date: the ship sets sail, but with a negative ending.

Chapter Notes

(Angst go BRRRRRRRRRR

TW: Past suicide

(The suicide scene was heavily inspired by the anime A Silent Voice)

Alastor and DT need a hug.

Alastor sings "Sibella" by Bryce Pinkham (aka Stolas's voice actor) in this chapter.

Also owo what's this? POSSIBLE PAST-LIFE LOVERS??????)

3/12/23: TW: suicide mention. The scene was heavily inspired by A Silent Voice.

"You are gorgeous as ever." Alastor purred. DT grinned, strutting closer.

"You clean up real nice, too." They complimented him and took his hand. They headed to the table, and Alastor pulled out their chair for them. They took a seat, and Alastor sat in front of them.

"You want a glass of champagne?" He pulled out the bottle.

"Ooh, fancy. I'll try it." DT replied. They held two glasses up. Alastor popped the cork open, and quickly poured the champagne into the glasses. He pulled away and set the bottle down, then grabbed his glass.

"Cheers to a second date." He clinked his glass with DT's.

"Cheers," The shapeshifter echoed, before taking a drink, "what made you decide to take me out on a second date?"

"Just getting a little closer." Alastor shrugged with his left shoulder. "Any problem with that?"

"No, not at all." DT took another drink. "I think it's a great idea. Just one thing...any reason for choosing the rooftop as a date again?"

"Less crowded. We get some alone time, as well."

"I can see your point."

Another drink, another question.

"Have we met before?" The Radio Demon raised a brow. No joking tone, but it was of genuine confusion.

DT had downed their champagne, then answered,

"I don't think so? I mean, I did kill your henchmen."

"They're all gone now. I found one's beating heart in the Crimson Waste!" Alastor exclaimed.

"Oh yeah. He called me a whore." DT remembered, tapping their fingers on their lips. They scoffed. "Fucker almost bit my neck, too. Trying to seduce me? Oh, I'm sorry, but you die."

Alastor sighed, though it sounded like a hum.

"You're aces, you know. You're tall…gorgeous…mysterious…oh, I could die for you a million times." He took their hand, lacing his fingers with theirs.

"Oh, Al, stop it! You're gonna make me flustered!" They giggled maniacally. "I mean, I'm already feeling warm and fuzzy from the drinks, heh."

Alastor went silent, into thought yet again. He summoned another bottle of champagne.

They can't be Dakota…Dakota's been in heaven for years. He told himself. Unless…

"Dear?" DT snapped him out of it. "Are you feeling alright?"

"Hm? Oh, sorry, sorry." Alastor shook his head. He finally forced a grin. He got up, extending his hand. DT happily took it, rising from sitting. They were pulled close, and Alastor gripped onto their hand, his other hand sliding down to their hip.

"Do you mind if you serenade me..?" DT requested as they rested their head on his chest as they swayed.

"Whatever you say." Alastor accepted. There was soft static, then a piano played softly.

"I see a nose that belongs on a coin," He swayed with them slowly. DT raised a brow, smiling. They didn't comment, but allowed him to continue.

"And there's that smile with a secret inside,

And here are two eyes that are bright,

With a mischievous light,

You try, but can't quite hide," He glided his hand to their cheek.

"Oh, Alastor~" They breathed gently. Alastor chuckled, gently putting his finger to their soft lips.

"Oh, there's that voice with the promise of sin," He picked up the pace, now taking the lead.

"And on those lips are the promise of bliss," He exhaled somewhat shakily. Those lips… he kept marvelling, how soft they were. Like…Dakota's…he tried shaking it off. His relationship with them is nothing more than arranged marriage, and friendship: no romance, even though the two did things one would consider to be romantic.

"And I know that your embrace,

Is a treacherous place,

There's danger in your kiss," He was face to face with the shapeshifter, foreheads touching. DT couldn't help but give the Radio Demon a quick kiss. He then spun himself and them around.

"This is the face of a darling,

A man could easily worship for all of his days," Alastor grabbed their thigh gently while mid spin.

"But, a man could as easily lose his sanity,

Deciphering your gaze…" He dipped them. DT couldn't help but grin more. Alastor let out a chuckle, before his grin twisted into a scowl. They couldn't help but think of the worst...was this his ploy to try and kill them himself? Was he really going to eat them up?

"You are vain and you are heartless," Alastor's tone was curt and venomous as he danced with them at a quickened pace.

"Excuse you, jackass—" DT growled out.

Alastor continued,

"And yet,

I can feel in you a shade of sadness,

That's barely detectable,"

"Alastor, this is...this...ugh..." The shapeshifter went silent, eyes glossing over for a mere second. Alastor's scowl turned into a sweet grin.

"That I still want you at all

I may live to regret,

You're deceitful,"

Alastor's brows were furrowed, but they sprang up as he blushed increased, his face bright crimson.

"You're delectable!" He marvelled yet again. DT was now on fire, their heart, face, and soul. A sudden mood change, but it was much more preferred than the negative tension.

"You see the fate of a man,

Who has had the misfortune,

To spend his life caught in your sway,"

Alastor spun them and himself around once more, letting go of their hand.

DT took a couple steps up and onto the ledge of the roof, and their back was to Alastor. They gazed beyond the hotel to see the beautiful yet hellish night sky and reached for nothing. They saw a couple fireworks ignite. They were confused…what was going on? It wasn't a holiday tonight…right?

Oh.

It was just some anniversary fireworks in the sky. But there were quite a lot.

"I see…" Alastor turned, arms outstretched. Then, his smile dropped. Fear was clearly shown in his eyes.

Remember how I talked about Dakota and Alastor? The good and bad? Now, here's the ugly part. But why brief it when Alastor could have a flashback…

"Dee, my dear?" Alastor called throughout the mansion Dakota's father left them, after their mother was murdered. Their father went back to retire in England after a while. Alastor hung his coat up, then headed through the main hall. He climbed up the stairs, then froze and flinched. Fireworks were going on tonight. What for? Well, for New Years Eve. He shook it off, then ventured onward.

"Dee…?" He called out again. He went through a hallway that led to the master bedroom. His heart stopped when he saw Dakota climb onto a balcony ledge. There was a curtain flapping in the wind, sometimes blocking their appearance. They dropped a note onto the balcony floor.

"H–hang on a minute," He processed what they were about to do.

Were they… oh no. No, no no.

He bolted into the master bedroom, but tripped on a coffee table. He hit the ground with a thud, letting out a loud curse. He snapped his gaze up.

"Dee, come on…" His voice went weak. He had a small bit of hope when Dakota looked at him. They turned.

"Goodbye, Al, I...I love you." They looked like they had been crying for hours. Alastor's breathing quickened, his chest tightening.

"DAKOTA!" Alastor let out a blood curdling scream, and got up to bolt over to them. But…

Dakota had fallen backwards on the last firework.

...It was too late. Their head hit the ground first and they suffered a concussion. Blood spilled from the back of their head, and they heard Alastor's screaming and crying. He had read the note:

I'm sorry, Alastor. It just couldn't work out for me anymore. I tried my best to stay on track with my life, but it doesn't help at all. Please find someone who'll love you like I do, whether it be a best friend or a spouse. Please carry on without me, and remember that you're never fully dressed without a smile dear.

I love you. Always and forever.

–Your Dakota.

When Alastor joked out of the flashback and back into reality, he gazed at DT.

"DAKOTA!" He screamed, frightening them. DT whipped around and was pulled off, and Alastor hugged them tightly. He buried his face in the crook of their neck. He continued,

"Please Dakota, don't go, I lost you once, I can't lose you again!"

"Al!" DT let out a shaky breath, grabbing his hands. "Al, it's me, DT! Not Dakota…"

Alastor's breathing was quick, but then it steadied. He studied them for a long moment.

"Are you okay?" They asked gently.

Tears pricked in the Radio Demon's eyes and he trembled. His mouth gaped, and he wanted to say something but no words came out, only tears dropped down his chin and leaked from his eyes. More and more by the second and DT tried wiping away at them. They were saying sweet things to him, but his thoughts tuned out their voice.

Dakota, Double Trouble…the same, or different? Who are they? Are they just imaginary, and the feelings are just overwhelming? It was driving him mad and towards devastation.

He missed them so much…yet he never met them before. At least he thought.

He choked back the lump forming in his throat, but a sob escaped him as he crumbled onto his knees.

"Alastor, honey!" DT got on the same level as him and pulled him closer. "Shh, shh, it's okay honey, let it out..."

So he did: and it took a bit. DT didn't care about how long it took for him to calm down, they just wanted him to be okay. Afterwards, they heard a soft hiccup, and then silence. They began to ran their fingers through his hair and caress his ears for him to be put at ease. They helped him stand back up, and the silence remained. DT wiped his tears, and Alastor leaned into the touch.

"...I'm sorry, I–I have to go." He whispered, then turned on his heel and almost bolted off.

"Wait, Al!" DT yelled, reaching for him. They grabbed his arm.

"Please, just let go!" Alastor barked, yanking himself away. He flinched at his voice, and DT recoiled before sneering at him.

"Quit acting like an asshole, I just want to make sure you're okay!" They scolder.

"I'm being an asshole? I thought you were getting better! You can't just relive that suicide attempt, Dakota, after you were doing so well! ...oh…" Alastor started getting angry, before remembering…

DT felt their heart pick up for a minute. Dakota, Dakota...a named that was familiar to them. A name that had an odd feeling whenever it was rolled off their tongue.

"Who the hell is Dakota?" They threw their hands in the air. They weren't angry, rather confused.

"...you are." Alastor's voice was inaudible. DT blinked, scowl fading into a slightly gaped mouth.

"Honey, what do you mean—"

"We were partners in crime. We lived in the 1920s, but you died in '32…because of people treating you so poorly, you took it to heart…you ended it all. You couldn't do it anymore..." Alastor's voice broke again. At this point, DT's heart absolutely shattered more than what it already was

"I'm not Dakota…" They told him as gently as they could. Though, they were having second thoughts. Were they? Did they just reincarnate, with no recollection of what was in the past? Alastor only stared at them. They wiped some more of his tears, but he grabbed their wrist.

"Then what are you." He threatened, tightening his grip. "A doppelganger? A faux and sick joke? Why must you make me relive a pain I refuse to endure again?!"

"Ow, A-Alastor, you're hurting me…!" DT yelped. They were afraid...

"You're a clone. A fake. A mirrored version of the one I loved most, yet you had to portray them in such a seductive way." Alastor growled. DT narrowed their eyes and yanked away, then slapped him right across the face. Alastor had been taken aback and held his bruising cheek.

"I am not a damned clone. You're a fucker who can't tell the difference, between a dead person and a living one!" They raised their voice. They didn't mean to lose their cool, they hadn't since god knows when. They were just overwhelmed with feelings.

Alastor gazed at them defeatedly.

"Al,"

"..."

"Al, hun, I'm so sorry, I-"

"I gotta go..." Alastor's voice broke again, "I'm sorry DT, I didn't mean anything like this..." and just like that, he bolted off.

"Alastor! I'm so sorry!" DT yelled, but he had already left. They smacked their forehead. "I'm such a fucking idiot!" They scolded themself. They groaned, grabbing the bottle of champagne and drinking from it.

"Way to go, Double Trouble. Way to fuck up another good relationship…" their voice cracked. They pursed their lips, before biting the corner of their bottom lip. They continued to wonder about this, "Dakota" figure, and why they were so damn similar! Finally, they sighed. They took another swig out of the bottle.

"I'm sorry, Alastor. I really am."

A Drunken Cat Demon and Shapeshifter Talk

Chapter Summary

Husk finds DT drunk: they talk and console.

Chapter Notes

3/19/23: After my first softball game, practice, and an inspection for my JROTC corps, things sure did happen!! I'll be back to updating. :)

Anyways, I tried to have the ending a bit better but I'm tired so it may be a 50/50 good or bad ending for the chapter. Enjoy!

Husk stopped cleaning his shot glass: static and footsteps lingered. His ear flicked and he set the glass and his rag down, stepping out from behind his bar and went to the destination of the roof: he remembered that DT and Alastor went on a date...maybe it didn't go so well? He couldn't confirm.

But he did internally groaned on how many steps there were. He climbed up, then opened the door. He stepped over the scattered flower petals, but they were dirtied. There was a small clank, and he furrowed his brows. He opened the door with a small shove and was greeted by a small sniffle. He blinked in surprise to see Double Trouble, sitting on the ledge, downing the bottle of champagne.

Their eyes were narrowed, and mascara ran down their face, as their eyeshadow was somewhat gone. Tears pricked in their eyes and dripped down their cheeks and chin, and they examined the last drops of champagne in the bottle, swishing it around.

"Holy fuck. You look... terrible." Husk commented. DT snapped their head towards him, and scoffed.

"No, really?" They rolled their eyes. "You thought I woulda been lookin' like a hot ass deity after Alastor fucking left?"

"I didn't mean it like that—" Husk cringed, and was cut off. DT got up and stalked towards him: they were surprisingly not pickled, much, but they were mainly just buzzed.

"Yeah kitty cat, your red-cocked deer bitch fucking left me on the goddamn roof with a bottle of champagne." They clenched their fists. "Why the hell would he call me Dakota, anyway…"

"He thought you were Dakota?" Husk sat on the ledge of the balcony. "Oh shit… I didn't even know…"

"Y'know Dakota?" DT raised a brow. They stopped for a moment to process, then leaned against the table.

"I mean, Al used to talk about them. They were his best friend… now that I think about it, I get why he thought you were Dakota. Who knows, you may even be them. But have a bad case of amnesia."

"Why?" DT almost grimaced at the cat demon's response.

"You're dramatic, and a bit of a softie."

"Ha! You wish." DT snorted, waving it off. Husk crossed his arms, then gestured to them.

"You're on the rooftop crying about how you fucked up their best relationship and drowned yourself in champagne to numb all the pain." He called them out, and DT grimaced: they were once again, read like a book. They were wearing their emotions on their sleeve, and they hated it. Alastor was their friend, despite their arranged marriage...I guess Husk was right.

"...oh." they choked out, setting the bottle down. They avoided the cat demon's gaze.

"Listen…he's dealt with some shit, and he's getting into a relationship after multiple years of traumatic experiences." Husk comforted, well, he tried to.

"Oh, and he's the only one who's suffered?" DT growled out, eyes flaring a bright yellow.

"Calm down, calm down," Husk held his claws up, "I didn't say that...he just...fuck." He dragged his hand down his face and groaned. "I can't even explain it. He's just...triggered, I guess.

Suicide was his and their sin, so it brought back some shit that...he can't process."

There was a pause. DT finally bit their bottom lip, then drew in a breath.

"Alright…" They nodded slowly. "...should I go after him..?" They stepped passed him, but Husk grabbed their arm to stop them.

"No, no, you...need a minute to relax. Just...get some rest." He redirected them.

"I could find him." Vox's voice cut through. Both of them turned to face him, leaning against the doorframe. His screen was glowing softly.

"You sure about that?" DT stood up a bit straighter.

"Trust me, babe." Vox hummed. "It'll be okay. Just get some rest."

"Mmmkay...let me know if you're successful." DT huffed out a sigh, then slowly made their way downstairs to theirs and Alastor's room. Vox turned to Husk, then nodded.

"Well…guess I'm goin' on a deer hunt." He remarked.

"Count me in," Husk told him, "despite how much of a dick Alastor can be...he doesn't need to run off from emotional vulnerability."

"Exactly. Now c'mon!" Vox grabbed Husk's arm and rushed him out of the hotel: time for a deer hunt.

****

DT flopped onto the bed, groaning into the pillow. They didn't even kick off the heels or take off the dress: they just crashed. Their eyes were lazily half-lidded, and they rolled onto their back. The lights were dimmed, and silence rung inside of their head.

They heard shuffling, and clicking. Their ears perked up and sat up. They flicked their gaze around, then slid off the bed, getting up to the door...maybe the noise was coming from there? They opened the door and peeked through the crack, seeing minimal light. They hummed.

"Weird..." They whispered, backing up and shutting the door. "What the hell is—"

They felt something crawl up their leg, and their brows furrowed. They opened their mouth, but a cloth covered their nose and mouth, a strong smell wafting into their senses. They tried screaming, but the smell made their body tingle, and they felt weak.

"Shh...we finally have something we need~" The culprit hushed them, and DT's eyes widened. They clawed at his hands and arms, scratching away, but it was no use.

"...Horde...Prime..." They mumbled, before fully blacking out. Prime smirked, before ushering someone else over: Valentino, and he was holding rope and some cloth that he planned to use as a gag.

"Step one is complete: the plan's going well." He bent over, flipping them over onto their stomach and tying their hands behind their back, and tied their ankles.

"Now we bring them back...things are sure to get interesting."

A Crying Deer Demon, A Broken TV Demon, and A Gentle Rose

Chapter Summary

> Alastor is dealing with the stress and anxiety from minutes ago. He goes to Cannibal Colony and meets an old friend...meanwhile Vox and Husk follow after him, and one phone call from Valentino causes some horrors to arise.

Chapter Notes

> 3/19/23: angst, angst, angst, with a side of angst. :) I may not post later in the year for a bit, but that doesn't mean I'll get rid of this account! I'm still going to have it, but it's going to be a process for me: I'll tell you all in July/August...stay tuned ;)

Alastor had been running for a while, now. From the hotel to Cannibal Colony, it took a long while: it made his legs cramp up, but he refused to stop there.

His thoughts were going a mile a minute: the suicide attempt of '32 replayed over and over, and also the sweet memories of Dakota and the current ones with Double Trouble. He wanted it all to stop, it was too much. Finally, he made his way through an alley, just behind Rosie's Emporium. He leaned his back against the wall. A shudder turned into a sob rising in his throat, and he slid down. He rested his elbow on his knee, gripping the front of his hair tightly and grimaced.

He clenched his jaw, baring his jagged teeth. Another sob wracked through his body, and he trembled. His ears pinned on his head and he caved in to full blown crying.

He felt so ashamed of just leaving DT. But it just felt…somewhat better. Just clearing the air felt slightly less stuffy.

But the twinge of regret settled in his stomach. He took a few deep—although shaky—breaths, before shutting his eyes and squeezing any excess tears out. He didn't want anyone seeing him like this: The Radio Demon, crying? Absolutely absurd! He was supposed to be strong, unmoving with emotions! He scolded himself continuously.

He heard a door creaking open and slamming shut, with heeled shoes clicking on the concrete floor. He heard an old friend call out to him, with concern in her voice,

"Alastor? Is that you, darling?"

***

Vox huffed, walking down the sidewalk in one of Hell's many cities.

"Looking around, I don't see the guy," He sighed, stuffing his hands into his pockets.

"He's the Radio Demon, he won't be out in the open. If anything, he'll be in an alley or some fucked up private place." Husk added.

"Should've known," Vox muttered. He then felt his phone vibrated. He pulled it out of his pocket, to see who was calling him:

Valentino.

"Oh god." Vox muttered, and Husk grimaced: he thought the exact same thing. With a breath, Vox answered. He shuddered internally when he heard Valentino's cold yet flirty tone,

"Voxxy~ where are you?"

"Just walking around Hell with a friend." Vox smirked at Husk, and Husk rolled his eyes: he couldn't help but mirror the expression.

"Mmm, don't be long, we have an ally~" Valentino grinned madly in front of him at DT, struggling to break free from the ropes binded on their wrists and ankles. They were awake and furious. The gag in their mouth muffled their screaming, but they squirmed around.

"Ummm...what do ya mean?" Vox swallowed. Husk listened closer, ears flicking up.

"Oh silly me~" Valentino giggled, "we also got the betrothed, thanks to said ally. They were stolen when everyone was gone." Valentino lounged back in his chair, kicking his legs up onto his desk.

Vox had to process what he meant: well, no. He knew what the moth pimp meant, he just refused to believe it was true. Husk's eyes went wide, and his mouth gaped.

"Care to elaborate..?" Vox hummed.

"...The shapeshifter. We stole them."

"What..?!" Husk whisper–screamed at the TV demon.

What do you mean WE?" Vox, meanwhile, was calmer on the surface.

"Oh, I forgot to introduce you to him." Valentino chuckled, before handing the phone over to…

Horde Prime.

"Vox, is it? We have the Radio Demon's lover with us right now." Prime gazed at DT, who was still squirming and screaming.

"Why?" Vox chose his words carefully.

"You see, this will end the promise. Hell and Etheria will be too busy to see me–erm, us, rising, they'll be too busy with a war! The Queen of Hell and the shapeshifter die, the Radio Demon would fail the King's task, and both worlds will be under mind control."

"No…no. Val! You can't be serious with this!" Vox yelled, squeezing his phone.

"It's about power, Voxxy. Are you in, or will you and Angel Cakes be facing…severe punishment tonight." Valentino growled.

Vox merely stared down at his feet, before taking a breath. He turned to Husk, then listened for anything else on the phone.

The abuse the TV Demon and Angel Dust endured in the past, the forced sexual activities: t hey were both tired of it, but they had a contract, unable to break free…

He couldn't stand this shit anymore. He was going to get Angel, and even Velvet, out of this mess.

"You leave Angel and I outta this shit, asshat." He hissed in return. He hung up, then started bolting through the streets, Husk flapping his wings and taking flight: he grabbed Vox's arms and lifted him, flying. Now, off to Cannibal Colony.

The memories of his and Alastor's first battle. It didn't end well, but it was good for laughs.

He and Husk finally stood in front of a building, and listened to the crackling static. He knew Alastor was here.

Here in Rosie's Emporium.

***

"That's…what happened." Alastor concluded. He flinched when Rosie rested a blanket on his shoulders.

"My condolences, darling. But you should know not to run off and leave your date." Rosie answered, kind but firm.

"I know…" Alastor sighed. He swished around the cup of tea in his hands ever so slightly. "...I regret doing that."

"You should. A gentleman never runs from those close to him after a small tidbit of an argument." Rosie gave a small hum, before turning to the front doors when she heard a knock. She headed towards the doors, opening them, and her black, soulless eyes went wide.

"Vox, Husk?" She seemed bewildered. Alastor perked up, then turned his head to the entrance. He, Husk and Vox met each other's eyes.

"I had a feeling Alastor was here." Vox sighed.

"We need to get everyone to the Porn Studios." Husk added on.

"Whatever for?" Rosie tilted her head to the side. "Is everything alright?"

"No, Valentino and Horde Prime have Double Trouble." Vox explained hurriedly: more panic settled in.

Alastor stood up in a hurry, and the radio started to hiss.

"Vox. Phone. Call Angel Dust." His voice distorted. "Now."

Vox hesitated, but Husk took his phone and scrolled through his contacts, and clicked the spider demon's icon. There was a ring as Husk turned it on speaker, and turned the volume up. He handed it to Vox.

"Vox? What tha fuck didja do to them?!" Angel Dust yelled. Vox actually flinched at that. "I knew you were fuckin' with Val on this!"

"Listen, I didn't have anything to do with this! I actually OBJECTED for once!" He argued.

"He did," Husk confirmed.

"Angel." Alastor called out.

"...Al's fuckin' pissed. I mean, how could he not be?! DT was stolen!" Angel Dust rambled.

"ANGEL." Alastor barked. "GET. EVERYONE. READY."

"Babe, we're already in the limo to head right to the Porn Studios." Angel reassured. "We'll see you there."

Then he hung up.

"We're going on a moth hunt?" Rosie furrowed her brows. Alastor nodded.

"Let's go screw a moth over."

"I'm More Than My Body, Valentino."

Chapter Summary

> Prime and Valentino have DT under wraps for interrogation. Eventually, Valentino grows bored and wishes to play with them...and NOT in the good way. Even Prime didn't know the sick and twisted actions Valentino would commit...

Chapter Notes

> 3/20/23:
>
> TW: violence, sexual assault, panic attacks
>
> If this is potentially triggering, please skip this chapter. While you will miss context, your mental health is much more important. Listen to yourself, stay hydrated and take care of yourselves.

A jolt of electricity coursed through Double Trouble, and pain and terror filled, blood curdling scream ripped through their throat. Tears threatened to fall, but then they covered it up as a tired groan. They doubled over slightly, breathing ragged.

Horde Prime smirked, then lifted their chin with his silver, clawed finger.

"You wish to speak now, little sibling?" He crooned, the haunting tone sending shivers down their spine.

"Why would I ever tell you—" They began, then felt Prime tased them again. Another scream, but they clenched their jaw and halted it. It came out as another grunt. They shuddered, and felt Valentino pull them close to him.

"Mmm, you're making Daddy upset~" Valentino strutted over. DT growled as he stroked his finger up and down their chin, their eyes glowing. "Prime...leave us."

Prime blinked: he dropped the taser. "Pardon?"

Valentino's glasses reflected the light. His smile slipped suddenly.

"I didn't stutter: leave us." He snarked. DT flinched visibly, and DT stared at Prime.

Horde Prime clenched his hand into a fist: he was at a loss for words. He saw the oncoming fear shining in their eyes. There was a single word that they could be saying right now, and it would be: "Don't."

"I..." Prime whispered. He didn't move from kneeling in front of DT. He stared into their eyes. He couldn't just leave them with Valentino.

"Unless you wanna join in~" Valentino stuck his tongue out, and DT shrunk back.

"No, no." Prime shook his head. "...let them go. Now. We only needed interrogation, not for us to harm them."

"But they won't talk...we have to do some stronger and more persuasive ways~" The moth pimp reached for the shapeshifter's thigh, squeezing it. DT hissed out, narrowing their eyes and swiping at him. Valentino dodged and grabbed their wrist, tightening his grip until they whimpered and coiled back.

"What are you saying." Prime sneered.

"Just leave it to me." Valentino winked. DT reeled their legs back, bringing their knees to their chest. They hoisted forward, kicking Valentino in the knee cap. Valentino yelled, kneeling over. He hissed in pain, then growled out something incoherently.

Prime immediately grabbed a knife from the top of Valentino's desk and gripped DT's hands. He cut the rope binding their wrists quickly.

"Run. Just run." He whispered to them as they untied the rope around their ankles. "Valentino shouldn't be doing this to you, so you need to do anything in your power to—"

Valentino lunged forward and his fist collided with Prime's eye. Prime stumbled back, and then took a kick to the chest, knocking over onto his back. Valentino strutted over, then stood on his chest, his gold heel digging into his ribcage. Prime wheezed a bit, disguising it as a sigh through his clenched teeth.

DT bolted out of the way, but accidentally stepped wrong. The heel on their shoe snapped, and they rolled their ankle, hearing a pop.

"Fuck!" They blurted out. They kicked off their shoes and stood up a bit slower. Their ankle numbed the pain for a bit, but they made an effort to run to the door. Suddenly, it slammed shut. Confused, DT halted. They then heard a thudding, but refused to turn around. They reached for the door handle and jiggled it: it was locked. They rammed their arm and overall body into it, but that didn't do anything, either.

A shadow loomed over them, and they were snatched away by Valentino. His hands gripped onto their hips and they screamed out of terror. They felt absolutely terrified, their adrenaline pumping through their veins. They were hoisted back and Valentino pulled a cigarette out of his coat pocket. He stuck it in his mouth and pulled out his lighter, lighting it. He inhaled, then blew into their face. DT coughed, it smelt like raspberries...it was disgusting them.

Valentino inhaled again. "We haven't had many interactions, but damn…no wonder why Bambi chose you." He breathed onto their neck. DT bit back the urge to grimace: their head began to pound and they felt nauseated from the strong raspberry scent.

"Ugh…" They tried to pull away, then they yelped when Valentino grabbed their arm roughly. He opened the door using a remote, and he pulled them along to his rather lavish room. They kept trying to break free, over and over. He picked them and put them on his bed. "No...no, take me back. Don't fucking touch me, either!"

Yet he didn't listen.

"C'mon, you don't wanna make daddy mad, right baby?~" Valentino put his other set of hands on opposite sides of them.

"What are you—" DT suddenly felt paralyzed when Valentino bit their neck. They couldn't help when his hands went up their dress, or when he tried to pull their underwear down with their dress on. A fighting spirit raged through them. They flailed their legs and kicked at him, even going far to scratch at his face. "No, enough!" They made their voice louder. Valentino chuckled, grabbing their thighs.

"You knew that I like 'em feisty babe~ makes my job more challenging~" He told them. He noticed cuffs on the floor and picked them up. He cuffed DT to the bed, and their breathing shallowed.

"I'm not liking this Valentino, let me go." DT demanded. "Now."

He took off his coat and let it drop to the floor in a wrinkled mess. He then pulled up the skirt portion of DT's dress, then looked down at their lower area: there was nothing there.

"Your lower entry is closed, baby." He licked his lips. He slowly knelt on the ground, sticking his long tongue out. DT growled, eyes squeezing shut as they felt a moist and squirming sensation on their crotch. He bit their trembling thighs, and DT felt numb. Valentino climbed on top of them, hands now reaching for the cuffs.

"On your belly." He ordered.

"No!!" DT snarked. They let out an inaudible whine as they felt him turn them around forcefully. He unzipped his pants and pulled them down, along with his boxers. He thrusted his gray lavender dick into their ass, in and out.

DT grabbed his pillow and clawed new holes into it. Tears leaked onto the fabric, and they were struggling. They recently had sex with Alastor like this, but it had much more consent. They gasped for air, but they muffled it as they buried their face in the pillow. Their chest heaved and they couldn't breathe. By now this was escalating into a panic attack, with their chest hurting and their throat drying up. A buzzing sensation broke out through their whole body.

"Oh, yes~" He moaned, enjoying their pain. Finally, he felt himself ejaculate, cumming into their asshole. DT felt the sudden shot of bodily fluids and grimaced again.

"Stop it…" They begged. After a moment of silence, Valentino pulled out, and sighed. There was cum stained onto their dress, and they felt absolutely dirty. Valentino forced them up, choosing bite their neck again.

DT kicked him once more, this time in his crotch. He grunted, then backhanded then across the face. DT held their now bruising cheek, then was shoved against the bedpost. Valentino kissed their neck roughly, biting it many times: teal blue blood caked and almost their neck. Bruises were coated on their skin, their thighs shook more, and they were in a terrible mindset.

"As much as I love your whines, ya hafta shut the fuck up." Val spat. "Now, I'm not stopping until satisfaction. Shift." He pointed down.

"Fuck off—"

Another couple backhanded slaps echoed through the empty room. DT sneered, but did as told out of defeat.

"Good Gecko~" He patted their shoulder, then thrusted inward. DT bit their lip in order to keep their mouth shut, and felt the numb sensation tingle throughout them again, this time stronger. After minutes of agony, Valentino pulled away. DT was left trembling violently, and their cheeks were stained with tear marks and runny mascara. They shifted the vagina back into the nothingless crotch they once had: in between their thighs burned.

They didn't feel powerful enough to move, even when Valentino pulled away.

"You can rest now…daddy will watch over you." Val told them, and caressed their cheek. "You're not a dime a dozen, baby. You're skin is golden, and I wanna show all of fuckin' Hell." He pulled their underwear back up, and their dress back down.

"No…Valentino," DT propped themself up. "I'm more than my body. You can't just have sex with anyone you damn please. There's a thing called consent, and you went far beyond it!"

"Gullible to think that'll make me regret my pleasures. And I can do it again as many times as I want, and you won't stop me. You're too scared of talking… I can tell." Val sneered. DT went silent, scowling with so much fury, Hell's flames couldn't compare to the flames of rage they felt.

"Do you wanna bet?" DT lowered their voice into a somewhat deeper octave: that made Valentino's eyes widen at the sudden change of tone.

"...You'll be interrogated in a couple hours. Don't think about escaping." Valentino put his arrogance back up again, threatening the shapeshifter. He finally picked up his coat and put it on, as well as putting back on his boxers and pants. He left the office and locked the door behind him.

DT looked down, and saw the cum stains again. They reluctantly got off the bed and when they saw a nearby mirror, their eyes went wide: their hair was a mess, with loose ends sticking out. They were covered in bite marks and bruises on their neck, arms, and some on their face. Their lip was bleeding, and they tasted the bitter taste of blood. When they tasted it again…it was sweet. Their dress…well, Angel's dress, was dirtied with all the nastiness from the moth pimp. Their legs hurt, and their crotch had been bleeding, as well. That was the thing that freaked them out the most. They were in absolute agony, and they hated it. They hated him.

They thought they would cry harder, but they held it all back. They made their way back to Valentino's office hurriedly, seeing Prime stirring.

"Trouble," he mumbled, and DT hoisted him up. His eyes fluttered open, then he flinched. "...are you alright?"

"Are you fucking–no?!" DT barked out. "Your nasty ass ally raped me!" They stole the knife from Prime and stuck it against his neck. "And you thought this would be a good idea?!"

Prime shoved them back hard enough for them to collide with the ground. They landed on their side and propped themself up again, gripping the handle of the knife still. They got on their knees and brandished it as the Etherian conquerer got closer. They ended up stabbing him in the ankle, pulling out as blood splattered onto the floor.

"Fuck's sake...do I have to fight you by myself? Really?" DT scoffed, licking the blade: their craving for blood never ceased. Their pupils shifted to slits, and their murderous side was activated. A smile much like Alastor's crept onto their features. "Maybe rage can fuel me~"

Little did they know…

Alastor and the others pulled up to the front of the Porn Studios.

Oh fu—

And there was a shattering noise. A grappling hook had gripped onto the floor, and someone climbed up to reveal…

A tall, pink succubus, with her hair in a ponytail. Her outfit was slutty, but it could pass as casual clothing. She had white fingerless gloves, and her heels reached her knees, now. Her wings fluttered, and she rushed over towards the shapeshifter.

Verosika Mayday.

"I found them." She talked into her phone. "And holy shit, they look fucking psycho."

DT's brows furrowed: who is this woman? They pondered. Prime's fist met their nose, and they fell back. Their blood smeared on their face, but they wiped it away.

"Well, whaddya know? Me keeping your bitch ass contact in my phone was actually useful!" Blitzø's voice lingered.

"Shut the fuck up. We have a serious problem." Verosika hissed.

"How serious?" Alastor cut in, and DT felt a wave of relief washed over them: something in their gut shifted, like a nervous feeling. Butterflies...like the first date.

"No, not yet. And… Valentino got his filthy hands on them. Y'know what he decided to do to them? He decided to rape them." Verosika explained in one breath. "Fucked up, I know."

"Ohoho, Valentino is gonna get FUCKED over!" Alastor growled, voice distorting again.

"Al, calm down! You're worse than me tryin' to kill Stolas!" Another southern accent cut through: Striker. "...wait.

"...Excuse me?" Stolas asked.

"Fuck. I shouldn't have said that." Striker realized.

"Who sent you out to kill me?!"

"... I'll tell you later before you try to kill the wrong person."

"Fair enough!" Alastor cut in, before kicking down a door that happened to be Valentino's office. He and the others rushed over to DT and Verosika, and Verosika hung up the phone.

"Al!" DT smiled genuinely, and felt the wind knock out of them when he ran to hug them tightly. "Woah, woah...okay. I'm here..."

"But are you okay?" Alastor whispered. DT faltered, but huffed out a sigh and shook their head.

"I'm still going to need for you to say who's planning on killing me." Stolas told Striker out of the blue.

"I–I know, but in a little bit. After this shit." He waved his hand. Stolas then dropped his shoulders, nodding.

Alastor's eyes started glowing dangerously when there was a chuckle. He turned to face Horde Prime with DT, and he summoned a rifle, cocking it.

"Oh fuck." Angel Dust blinked.

"Prepare for trouble," DT twirled the knife around, eyes glowing with Alastor's. They both had matching smiles, and Alastor finished,

"and make it double!"

This battle is gonna be bloody.

Don't Take Shit From Other Demons

Chapter Summary

> Horde Prime vs. Alastor, DT, the Hazbins...and maybe even more. This is not going to end well...

Chapter Notes

> 3/20/23:
>
> TW: blood and violence. Also I don't know correct gun terminology. :)

"Glad you could make it, little siblings." Prime gestured to everyone in the room. DT and Alastor were close together, with Alastor aiming at Prime.

"Save it dipshit, we're here to beat your ass." Blitzø quipped. Prime scowled, but it curled into a sluggish grin.

"The Princess and King of Hell are too preoccupied." He chuckled again, showing a hologram of Lilith on her literal death bed. Her whole body was turning stone gray, with her eyes pure green.

"C'mon, mom! Stay with us!!" Charlie pleaded, gripping her cold hand. Lilith gripped back, still having life in her.

"If you so much touch her I will break your hands." Alastor responded curtly.

"Then do so." Prime gave a cocky grin.

"I would if it weren't for my pride holding me back," Alastor admitted, "Double Trouble comes back with a worse appearance than what I've seen, and I want to know what you did."

"Not what Prime did...what Valentino did." DT corrected.

"Oh hell no." Alastor hissed through his clenched teeth.

Vox slowly walked in, grabbing Velvette's hand. He moved her behind him protectively. Velvette tilted her head to the side, unsure of what was going on. Yet she and Loona started filming with their phones wordlessly. Vox saw this, and started recording too, silently going live for all of Hell to broadcast. This was a way to show Hell what was going on...

"Oh please. Nobody gives a damn about Vox and Velvette! Valentino only keeps Vox, Velvette and Angel Dust for personal gain, and to see suffering. He's a pimp overlord, for Hell's sake!" Prime spat. "But Valentino is rather useful. He's helped me poison Queen Lilith."

"You have some nerve to actually think you're godly enough to try and kill Lilith." Rosie scowled, then her eyes snapped open.

"That's not gonna happen!" Velvette giggled.

"...What do you mean?" Prime furrowed his brows.

"You're live!" Loona exclaimed in a somewhat low tone, holding up her phone. Prime's brows sprang up in shock, and he looked at Vox, who smirked triumphantly.

"No…" Prime realized…if people figured out his plan, then they could stop him.

"Well, Alastor? You have any remarks?" Vox encouraged. Alastor raised a brow, grinning sadistically.

"Hello, my lovely sinners of Hell! I hope you're tuning in~ I would like to thank my rival, but somehow close friend of mine, the TV Overlord Vox, for inviting me to this segment." He rested his hand on his hip. "Yes indeedy, it seems the Radio Demon has moved onto TV! How the tables have turned!"

"Sinners, you have to be careful of Prime. He's used people for power. He's used an old friend of mine for his personal gain…I won't let it stand by." DT added on. "They he

"Then be my guest. Kill me and save the Queen. Fail…and I'm taking them to double Hell with me." Prime pointed at DT.

"Like Hell you will." Alastor growled. "If you go anywhere near them, one more time, I will SHOVE MY—"—he censored himself heavily with radio frequency—"UP YOUR RIDICULOUS, POMPOUS"—more radio frequency—"SO HIGH YOU WON'T SEE JACK—"

"Jesus Christ." Angel bit his lip at the constant frequency, and DT couldn't help but laugh a bit.

"He's worse than you!" Blitzø turned to Stolas.

Stolas merely shrugged at the comment. "He's more violent." He corrected.

"Oh really? What about the time you wanted to rip my dick off and cum in my asshole?"

DT grimaced: too graphic for this.

"Then prove your threats." Prime didn't seem fazed, sadly. Alastor cocked his gun with much more anger, and he looked through the scope: he aimed for Prime's forehead.

"Bambi has a gun—" Angel yelled. Everyone then flinched at the gunshot. Alastor's aim was dead on, but Prime dodged. Instead, the bullet pierced through the air, and into Valentino's right eye. Valentino screamed, clutching it. He leaned over, and blood leaked through his fingers. Cartilage stuck out from his fingers, too, and it was a gory sight.

"Holy shit." DT whispered-screamed. Then they grinned. "That's my best friend, motherfucker!"

"And damn proud to be their best friend." Alastor nodded firmly.

"You FUCKER!" Valentino pulled out something from his coat, and aimed, pulled the trigger, the bullet flying, and DT's eyes went wide.

"Fuck!"

Everything seemed to go slow motion…

Until they rushed into action, shoving Alastor away, and they—

A bright beam of light shone throughout the office, and beamed in all of Hell. All the sinners and hellborns that didn't tune into the radio or TV stations were confused, but those that did tune in were cheering for the Hazbins. Alastor shielded his eyes with his arms. He lowered it, then gasped.

"Charlie…?"

Charlie was in her full demon form, but as Lucifer's daughter, she had pure white angel wings. She was drenched in blood, and her eyes were bright red, glowing dangerously. Her wings flapped once in a while to hover in the ground. She also had a devilish trident, with an apple crest. The handle was black, lined in gold. The tip was white and red, and she gripped said handle tightly.

"The Princess of Hell is ready to beat the fuck outta some people!" Striker whistled. "Get 'im, Princess!"

Charlie landed, then sprinted towards Valentino before Prime could process. She thrusted her trident into Valentino's side, then shoved him down.

Valentino coughed up some blood, then glared up at her with his good eye.

"The dumb bitch got her shit together, huh?" He mocked.

"Some would say so." Was all Charlie replied with, though her voice was echoey.

"Did daddy instill some fightin' in ya?" The moth pimp was going to sit up.

"My father always did. In fact, he told me something very important and memorable." The Princess of Hell held up her hand. "Stolas. Gun."

Stolas tossed a holy handgun to her wordlessly, and Charlie cocked it. Valentino, for once in his afterlife, looked scared shitless. He didn't expect the sweetheart Princess Charlie to stand up to him. She put the handgun against his head. Her voice distorted,

"DON'T TAKE SHIT FROM OTHER DEMONS."

And with that, she pulled the trigger and blew his brains out. It made her stomach churn, realizing that this was a holy handgun: but a burning sensation of relief spiraled through her veins.

He was DEAD.

And they were safe…

Not.

Reuniting an Angelic Daughter With A Demonic Father

Chapter Summary

I'm backkkkkk

Shit hit the fan. Also writer's block. I'm back tho!

Also this chapter probably isn't good, but I'm exhausted and I finally have energy. Sorry.

H
Enjoy my lovelies ❤️

No…" Prime's eyes twitched. Until he fully lost his shit. "NO, NO, NO! YOU RUINED EVERYTHING!" He whipped around. "And this time, I'm taking NO CHANCES!" He grabbed Charlie, yanked her over and stole the gun from her.

"LET GO OF HER!" Someone busted through the door. It turned out to be Vaggie, gripping her harpoon.

"Oh? Or what?" Prime grinned broadly. His teeth were much sharper than what DT remembered. Prime's hair now lifted and hissed like multiple serpents. He looked like a male version of Medusa. "What army do you have?"

"You shouldn't have said that." Vaggie smirked. Prime glared in her direction. "Turn around." She told him.

Slowly, he did. He faced the opened doors, and was in pure bewilderment.

"It can't be." He whispered. What he saw…was the Rebellion. You might be wondering why, but hang on. It'll be revealed after this.

"And I thought Prime was dead for good." Adora was in her She Ra form. She aimed her sword at him, cold blue eyes piercing a glare so deadly that the yearly Exterminators weren't powerful enough against it.

"Time to end him once in for-" Glimmer's fists clenched, glowing magic growing more powerful.

"Wait!" Frosta exclaimed. "We can't just KILL him! He has someone held for ransom!" She gestured to Charlie.

"How are we gonna do this…" Bow faltered.

"How did you guys even GET here?" DT asked.

"Some weird imp dude summoned us with a spell book." Mermista pointed at Blitzø with her thumb.

"DT? Yeesh. You look…" Catra was trying to be nice. She withered under their glower.

"Yeah, I got drunk, was stolen, some fucker decided to lay his hands on me, and I screamed. A LOT." DT summed up with a serious face, though their tone was a bit raspy.

"Are you okay, though?" Scorpia seemed very concerned.

"...I mean." DT shrugged with one shoulder. "No?"

"Which is why Prime will repay SEVERELY." Alastor narrowed his brows.

"Or you, if I get my way." Prime aimed at Alastor. "You never FELT true love in a long time. Aside from them," He pointed to DT.

Alastor and DT looked at each other.

"Yet…they remind you of Dakota." Prime took pleasure in seeing Alastor recoil in defeat. His eyes filled with horror. How could Prime…

"How-" He growled.

"Let's just say, I have a little spy." Prime gestured to a lime green and white centipede, crawling up his leg.

"You've been spying on us this whole damn time?!" Vaggie asked.

"The betrothal caught my attention." Prime merely stated.

"Shit." Alastor spat.

"And with the shapeshifter being a killer, I tracked down the locations where they killed his henchman." The past cult leader from Etheria continued.

"Damnit." DT pinched the bridge of their nose. "Technically, he DID call me a whore, so I killed him." They shot back.

"That doesn't make it any better?!" Charlie told them.

"Murders happen, rainbow." Husk muttered, drinking from his booze bottle. "Anyway." He finished it, then smashed it against the wall as a weapon. "Let's fuck him up now?!"

"Hell yeah!" Angel Dust brought out his tommy gun.

"Mind if we help out?" Frosta had ice form on her fists.

"I mean, you didn't come here for shits and giggles. So come on!" Angel shot Prime, but he missed.

"STAY FUCKING STILL!" Vaggie ran to the cult leader, thrusting her harpoon towards him. She stabbed his side, then scream triumphantly, "FINALLY!"

"Oh, little sister. You need to realize…" Prime pulled out the harpoon, and his wound started healing slowly.

"Are you SHITTING me?!" Husk growled, wings lashing out.

"He HEALS?!" Adora shrieked.

"That's unfair." DT remained cool, surprisingly.

Stolas's eyes burned a bright crimson, slowly turning Prime to stone. Prime snapped his gaze towards the Goetia prince. His serpent-like hair rose with hissing noises, lime green eyes locking their gazes onto Stolas's eyes.

They turned from red to green instantly.

"Mind control." Prime stated. "Come on, Goetia prince. Show them what you're really made of."

Stolas whipped around, unsheathing his holy daggers. He tossed them like a frisbee, and almost hit Millie, Vaggie and Niffty.

"Stolas!" Blitzø jolted out of his thoughts, bolting towards him, only to be gut punched. He yelled, falling onto his back. He sat up, regaining his composure. His eyes went wide when Stolas slowly shifted into his full demon form.

Scooting back, he pulled out a gun from his jacket. He aimed at the Goetia prince.

"Stolas…I don't want to hurt you." His voice lowered. He saw his eyes flicker from green to red.

"I don't want to either…" He slowly changed back, smiling shakily. Prime sneered, before lifting his hand. With a snap of his fingers, a jolt of electricity spiked through Stolas.

Stolas screamed, before falling onto the ground and curling up into himself upon receiving an aftershock.

Blitzø crawled towards him hastily, pulling him close. His breathing hitched slightly, before his eyes narrowed dangerously.

"Oh no FUCKING way." He growled.

"Menacing PRICK!" DT leapt, mounting onto Prime's back when he wasn't looking. Suddenly…

Their eyes went golden yellow. A shadowing silhouette of feathered dragon wings formed on their back. Black, twisted, Maleficent-like horns formed on their head, too. Their tail had become slightly spikier, and their jagged fangs were sharper. Their hands turned to claws, and they slit his neck.

Prime shouted, before chuckling in realization that his wound healed. DT didn't give up there, however.

Stolas's grip on his extra dagger weakened, but Blitzø grabbed it.

"GECKO!" He screamed, throwing it to them. DT caught it in midair, twisting it around dramatically, and pointing the blade downwards. They raised it high in the air, wings extending elegantly.

"Nighty, night." They almost drove the dagger in the back of his neck.

"WAIT!"

Another beam of light came from the heavens. Everyone gazed up, then saw three angels:

Michael, Arielle, and . . .

Prime's eyes went wide. His mouth gaped slightly, before tossing DT off of him.

"Carina…?" He whispered. Carina tilted her head to the side, before giggling.

"Hi daddy." She leapt out of Michael's arms. She finally ran over to her dad, and Prime knelt in front of her. He scooped her into his arms, hugging her tightly.

"My little star…" He continued whispering. "Oh, how I missed you…"

"Carina..?" Adora asked. Michael smiled at her slightly.

"His daughter." He answered. Everyone gasped, aside from the cult leader, his angelic daughter, and the other two angels.

"She had gotten sick and died." Arielle explained gently. "She's been five forever. But oh how she matured."

"But… Prime, you…" DT circled around to make eye contact with him.

"The First One's denied her. So did She Ra." Prime's many lime eyes narrowed, but his gaze softened.

"Mara… she never helped her?" Adora seemed to be in denial. She fidgeted uncomfortably when Prime nodded.

"After she died, and pardon if I'm incorrect…" Alastor put his fingers to his mouth, pondering. "You spiralled down a rabbit hole of villainy."

"You're correct." Prime confirmed. He rose from crouching, holding Carina still. "Villains aren't born, little brother: they're made. Surely, you can relate?"

"...yes, sir." Alastor hung his head low. He flinched when his chin was tilted up.

"Don't fall into that path down here. . ." Prime directed. "It's painful, dark and cold. You lose sight of everything, and all you see is red."

"Don't let it be a repeat of my past life?" Alastor summarized.

"Don't let it be a repeat of your past life." Prime echoed.

"If I may…" Arielle grinned brightly. "We… COULD talk to our Father about brining you AND Carina to heaven!"

"Really?" Prime stiffened.

"Yay! I can live with daddy forever!" Carina cheered.

"Aww," DT crooned, hands on their chest.

"God, this is precious." Angel Dust remarked.

"Indeed." Michael nodded. "Erm, Arielle… I'm not sure… HOW we can bring him up with us." He grinned again, advancing towards Charlie. "Is what I WOULD say. Charlie, dear: can you do your uncle a favor and… help us redeem him?"

Charlie's expression bloomed into pure jubilation.

"I'D LOVE TO!" She bounced up and down. "Can you, uh… help save my mom, first…?"

Michael nodded.

"Of course." He agreed to the terms. "Oh, one more thing." He turned to face DT and Alastor. "You're the betrothed couple: you did your job, right?"

"We… didn't get married yet." DT giggled nervously.

"But your bonds have grown stronger every moment together…" The Archangel faltered.

Alastor gripped their hand, before kissing the back of it gently.

"And apart."

"And we thought you'd hate each other." Vaggie joked.

"I did." DT was blunt.

"I had a…small crush on them." Alastor admitted.

"You complimented my legs the first night I was staying in Hell." The shapeshifter nudged him.

Alastor chuckled, blushing. DT smiled, hugging him.

"I mean, I kinda liked your sassiness at the beginning. Quick witted too."

"Anyhow…" Michael turned to Vox. "This is live?" A nod from the TV demon, and Michael continued, "Alright. Hello denizens of Hell, this is an angel from heaven. I've come to assist your Queen Lilith."

Charlie clapped in a fast motion.

"But first." Michael walked over to Stolas, kneeling in front of him. He extended his hand out, a soft glow emitting. Stolas slowly tilted his head to the side, sitting up. No more pain.

"Oh…well, thank you." He appreciated it.

"Not a problem." Michael reassured. "Now…"

"Let's go ahead and heal the queen."

Saving the Queen

Chapter Summary

Lilith gets savedddddddddd

I may post another chapter today, idk-

Everyone piled into the limo. Thank God it was big enough to fit that many people.

"Wait, since Val's dead…does that mean the contract is officially condemned…?" Angel Dust perked up.

"Seems like it, babe." Vox smiled. He sighed at Velvet, who was hugging him with her eyes shut. She had gone silent, and she must've been asleep. "She's endured too much psychological abuse from him…"

DT frowned.

"What happened when it took its toll?" They chose their words carefully.

"She turned younger and younger each time it happened. She's thirty years old, physically. But she regressed around… fifteen years?"

"Jeez." Moxxie grimaced. "The poor girl."

"I treat her like she's my daughter. She's in good hands." Vox kept his voice low.

"I can tell she is." DT smiled, leaning against Alastor. Vox's eyes went wide, before an electronic blush flickered across his screen.

"Seriously, this was a tremendous help!" Alastor added on. "I assume we can settle our differences?"

"Definitely." Vox nodded.

"Aww, friendship!" Perfuma clapped. Carina crawled over to DT, sitting on their lap.

"Carina," Prime started gently.

"Hi, sweetie." DT smiled.

"Hi." Carina mirrored their expression. She broke eye contact, and put her hands…

On their stomach?

"Sweetie, what are you doing?" DT was confused.

"Baby." Was all she said.

"...what the fu-" Husk was silenced when Alastor summoned an open bottle of booze and forced it into the cat demon's mouth magically.

"Um…I-I don't… I'm not having a baby." DT tilted their head to the side. They side-glanced at the Radio Demon. Carina merely smiled, closing her eyes.

"Baby…" she repeated.

"What the fuck is going on-" Loona mouthed.

"So, eheh… were you in a rut while the fun was happening?" Blitzø bit the bottom right corner of his lip.

"That's for deer, dumbass." Verosika scoffed, rolling her eyes.

"Was I asking you, whore?" Blitzø quipped.

"Language." Arielle muttered, shrinking back in her seat. The limo jolted to a stop, making almost everyone fall out of their seat.

"Well…here we are." Charlie got out, leading everyone into the Morningstar castle. Well… almost everyone.

"I'll stay in the limo." Vox gestured to Velvet. Charlie smiled, then continued leading everyone.

"Oooooh!" Carina exclaimed. "That castle's BIG!"

"Indeed it is, little star." Prime put her his shoulders. Carina held onto him, humming gently.

"Okay. Now, I just need you to show me where she is." Michael adjusted his feathered gloves. He glided through the halls, despite the pure terror on some of the butlers' faces. They eased when Charlie waved at them in reassurance.

The halls were silent. Until Michael shoved the master bedroom doors open.

Lucifer jolted his head up, eyes glossed over and hair disheveled. Lilith was in bed, not even breathing.

"We're too late…" Charlie whimpered, gripping Vaggie's hand.

"No, we aren't." Michael reassured. He calmly made his way to Lilith's side.

"Michael…?" Lucifer asked, almost inaudibly.

"Hello, brother." Michael replied. He turned back to Lilith, hand extended. A soft, glowing light emitted from said hand, and there was some sparks of life.

Everyone waited in anticipation. DT gripped onto Alastor's hand, eyes wide with hope.

Finally…

Lilith's eyes fluttered open.

"Mom..!" Charlie exclaimed, feeling a wave of relief hit her.

"Lily..!" Lucifer finally sobbed in pure joy.

Lilith grinned tiredly. Then her eyes went wide upon seeing Prime. She sat up a little too quickly.

"YOU." Her horns began growing, slowly shifting into her full demon form.

"Mom, mom, mom, it's okay!" Charlie reassured, grabbing her arm gently. Alastor held his hand up.

"Prime…redeemed himself." He started slowly.

"That quickly?" Lucifer didn't believe it.

"And Valentino's dead!" Alastor added on, pulling DT close. DT shuddered a bit, before easing when Alastor kissed the top of their head.

"The moth overlord?" Lucifer cocked a brow.

"That's because of me…" Charlie laughed nervously.

"I knew my little apple could show some feistiness." Lilith smiled again. She turned to DT and Alastor. "Now, have you two gotten married yet?"

DT and Alastor flustered, both their eyes snapping wide open.

"Erm…" Alastor chuckled, holding the back of his head. "We would've been by now if… none of the Prime stuff happened."

Prime went silent, but Carina hugged him tightly.

"It's okay daddy…" She told him. "Gecko and Bambi can fix it! Them and their baby!"

DT's face turned bright ocean blue, eyes bulging. Blitzø proceeded to burst into cackling.

"You finally got knocked up like a teen?!" He spoke in between gasps.

"I'm not pregnant!" DT exclaimed. Alastor nodded for confirmation.

"...what exactly did I miss?" Lilith wondered.

"Baby!" Carina giggled.

"You sure you didn't get knocked up?" Verosika wanted to make sure. This time… DT hesitated.

"I'm actually not so sure anymore…" They admitted. "Blitzø, before you laugh, have a nice cup of shut the fuck u-oh. Oh no." They made eye contact with Carina. They pursed their lips into a thin line.

"Okay, enough of that. We need to get this wedding under control." Lilith replied gently. "We'll have it on Friday. That way we can clean it up nice and beautifully. I can get a few friends on board."

DT nodded.

"I mean, we've got the reception planned, outfits ready, and cake… I think we're okay?" They hesitated.

"Well, we could prepare a bit more! And I need a new outfit, too…" Charlie giggled a bit.

"So do I." Verosika huffed a sigh. "My dresses aren't…so sweet."

"I got a dress in mind." Angel grinned. Husk smiled a bit in return.

"I could find a suit." Catra shrugged with one shoulder.

"I guess we could talk to Donatello." Charlie concluded.

"It's settled! But first… can we head back and get some rest?" DT smiled nervously. Everyone went silent for a moment. Only Angel Dust spoke up,

"Honestly, ya need it hun. After what Val did ta ya."

DT frowned, hugging their arms. Alastor pulled them closer.

"We'll meet you in the limo…" His tone was hushed. Lucifer nodded in approvement, and the two left wordlessly.

Alastor opened the door for them, and DT gripped onto him.

"Wh-hey, hey…" Alastor whispered. He hugged them, rubbing their back. His heart stopped when they broke down in tears. Their sobs were barely audible, but the Radio Demon felt their violent trembling.

"I'm sorry… I'm sorry…" They hiccuped in between their sentences.

"Never be sorry for something you can't control." Alastor told them. He scooped them up bridal style, and frowned when they buried their face into his chest.

"Are they okay…?" Vox asked gently. Alastor flinched a bit, before turning to him.

"No…" He answered in the same tone. Vox didn't pry. He just nodded, then gestured to come into the limo. DT had fallen asleep in his arms, waiting for the next day.

The next day to arrive.

Tomorrow is a refresher.

It'll be okay.

Scars To Your Beautiful

Chapter Summary

hehehehehe fluffy chapter :)

They woke up in their and Alastor's bed.

DT's eyes fluttered open, and they fixed their gaze to see Alastor rubbing their back.

"You okay?" He kept his voice low. DT shrugged, eyes dull.

"No…" They muttered, rolling onto their back. They rested their hand behind their head, and one hand resting in the middle of their chest and stomach. Alastor laid on his side, propping himself with his arm.

"You wanna talk about it?"

Silence.

Alastor sighed.

"It's okay, I get it." He didn't want to pressure them. "It's a scary experience…"

DT grimaced, visibly uncomfortable. Alastor shut his mouth after that, before nodding knowingly.

"...I think I'm gonna take a bath." DT finally sat up and got out of bed.

"Alright. Take your time, hun." Alastor smiled, a bit melancholic. DT shared the smile, before turning to the bathroom door and opening it. They closed it, turning the lock all the way. They shut the windows and pulled the curtains over them hastily. They took a few breaths, before undressing. They threw off the nasty dress and heels, then turned on the hot water for the bath. Some steam formed, and floated near the roof.

Alastor DOES have some nice body wash… They pondered to themself. They opened the cap, pouring some of the body wash into the bath. Now, it was all bubbly, and smelt pleasant. They finally got in, sinking into the bubbly water. After a while, they stopped the water.

Their thoughts were clouded. Aside from the horrid memories that remained.

Every bite made them flinch. Every scratch and rough, unwanted kiss made their stomach turn. They curled up into themself, hugging their knees. Their eyes squeezed shut.

Their tail lashed underwater slowly and gently. They growled out something incoherently, scrubbing away the filth. Their eyes burned again. They rinsed their skin, carefully.

They hugged their arms, shivering slightly. There was a knock after about thirty minutes.

"Hey, hun. You okay?" Alastor called out. DT blinked slowly.

"Yeah, I am." They answered. "I'm about to get out."

"Okay, let me know if you need anything." The Radio Demon leaned against the wall. He pushed himself off, walking back to his bed and sat down.

DT grabbed two towels, wrapping their body and hair. They dried themself off, sighing almost silently. They unlocked the door, and shoved it open. They started walking out, then saw Alastor giving them a small smile.

"How'd it go?" He asked. The smile faded at the sight of their bruises and bitemarks.

"Okay…" DT hesitated. They headed to the closet, choosing some comfy clothing. They put on some shorts and a tank top, just something simple. They didn't feel like going over the top right now.

"Hun…" His voice went soft. There was no radio frequency coating his tones, for once. "I want to be able to help you get over this feeling. I know it's horrible, but you can get through this. Alright?"

DT let their eyes dull. They turned.

"What if I can't?"

"Don't think like that. Don't let Val be ingrained into your mind. You can get him out of there."

Silence.

"...permission to touch…?" The Radio Demon finally brought up. DT nodded, and was taken aback when they were picked up by him.

Alastor cuddled them close, then headed over to his bed. He placed them down.

"Al, what are you doing…?" DT wondered.

"Making you realize how gorgeous you are." Alastor crawled on top of them slowly, while unbuttoning his shirt. DT flinched before easing at the gentle kisses that were being planted on their mouth. They roved down to their neck and then Alastor extended their arm out. He kissed that, too.

"You're delectable," He moaned, before kissing their lips again. "you're undeniable. You never fail to impress me. You're adorable." He snuggled their neck, and DT let out a little giggle of relief.

"Al," They began.

"I'm going to shower you with compliments until the nastiness goes away." Alastor insisted. He pulled them close to him, having the side of their head lay up against his chest. DT curled up into themself a bit, giving a hum.

"Don't you see there are no scars to your beautiful?" Alastor asked. "You're beautiful the way you are, and I'll be damned if anyone says anything different."

DT's eyes burned, and they smiled, almost watery.

"Al…" Their voice wavered. Alastor smiled again, kissing their forehead.

"You deserve the world, my love." He hummed. He perked up a bit. "You used my body wash?"

"Is that okay…?" DT asked.

"It's more than okay." Alastor answered. He took their hand, squeezing it gently. "You just smell good is all."

Another round of giggles from the shapeshifter.

"Well, thank you." They sighed.

"Not a problem…" Alastor laid back, with them in his arms, still. "If you want to sleep, you can. I'm still here."

DT nodded, eyes dulling. They snapped open, however.

"Can I ask you something first?"

An inquisitive gaze.

"Alright," Alastor didn't know where this was going.

"...why does Carina think I'm having a baby?" DT tilted their head to the side. Alastor's face went bright red, before his gaze twitched nervously.

"I-" He bit his lip, before taking a deep breath. "... I'm not sure."

"I don't think we're even READY for kids, yet!" DT exclaimed. "We aren't even married!"

"True." Alastor nodded.

"She may be confused…" DT referred to Carina. "Or hoping for the future?"

Alastor shrugged.

"Nevermind that. Now…" He ran the tip of his pinky finger down the bridge of DT's nose soothingly. He repeated that process until DT fell asleep. Alastor hummed, eyes shutting as well.

Things will get better.

A Shapeshifter Sees A Little Star

Chapter Summary

Filler chapter go brrrrrr

Also the shortest chapter I've written! Enjoy lovelies ❤️

(Sorry this chapter is wonkyyyyy)

So far, things had been going good. Though, the promise to be married on Friday was quickly broken. There was still so much to do AND deal with!

However, DT met little Carina a few days past Friday, in the hotel lobby.

They had woken up at midnight, and they groaned almost silently. They got out of bed, then looked back over their shoulder to see Alastor's sleeping figure.

His bangs were covering the top part of his eyelids. He also seemed to be smiling in his sleep.

It made DT's heart flutter. They finally got up, and stole Alastor's coat. They put it on, slowly adjusting the sleeves. They walked out of his room, shutting the door carefully. They sighed, then made their way through the halls. They hummed a bit, then froze upon seeing...

"Carina, why are you still up?" They whispered.

Carina shrugged, frowning.

"Daddy went to talk to Michael." She mirrored their tone. She looked at their stomach, reaching for it. "How are you and the baby?"

DT bit the bottom corner of their lip.

"Hun, I'm not having a baby. I would've known by now if I was." They replied gently.

"But… you are. I can sense it! You and the red Bambi are having a baby!" Carina insisted. DT went tense.

"But, we haven't even…" They faltered, then shook their head. "How exactly can you sense it?"

"You have a glowing aura! People who are gonna have babies always seem to be glowing purely! That's what Michael says." Carina explained. DT pursed their lips at the response.

"I may need to speak with Michael." They told themself. They shook their head, before smiling at Carina. "You need to go to bed, sweetie."

"I know." Carina sat on a comfortable couch. She finally laid down, gripping the nearby blanket. She covered herself. "And I will…g'night Gecko." She closed her eyes.

"Good night…" DT carefully brushed a strand of the angel child's hair away from her face. "Bright little star." They pulled away, before yawning slowly. They decided to head back into Alastor's room and climb back into bed. They snuggled with him, breathing steady. Though, the question of them being pregnant lingered in their head. Was this a ruse?

Hopefully.

Awful Feelings and Unexpected News

Chapter Summary

> Thanks to @/creativewritingprompts for the pregnancy prompts! Follow them on Insta and Tumblr!!

A couple weeks flew by. Things seemed normal, right?

Nope.

Why tell when there's the ability to show?

Morning arose over Hell. The morning was chilly, which was somewhat unusual.

DT had been shivering under the blankets, curled up. Their head started pounding after a minute, and they groaned.

I'm sick. Wow, they pondered. Fantastic.

Even their thoughts were sarcastic.

But…

There wasn't JUST a migraine. They felt something rise to their throat. The first time, they swallowed, and took a few deep breaths.

"Morning, hun." Alastor woke up with a yawn. He rubbed one eye with his fist. He frowned at their state. "Are you feeling okay?"

DT remained silent. Their thoughts started swirling constantly as their stomach turned. The feeling rose in their throat again. Their hand had been clasped to their mouth, face turning pale.

"I…I don't feel so-" They began, then their eyes widened. A muffled gag ripped through them, and they hugged their side with their free arm. Alastor flinched, feeling worried.

"Hun…?" He asked. DT got out of bed instantly after that, bolting into the bathroom, and Alastor followed them until they slammed the door in front of him. Finally, there was a loud, retching noise.

"DT?" Alastor knocked. "You-you okay in there?"

A small series of coughs, then DT exclaimed,

"No."

"Do you need anything?"

"Water."

"Okay. I'll be back, love." Alastor made his way out of his room, then went into the kitchen wordlessly.

"Heya, Ally." Vox smirked. Alastor smiled back.

"Hello, Vox." He grabbed a cup, then turned on the sink. He waited until it was cold.

"You gettin' a cup for yourself?" Vox hummed.

"No. It's for DT. They aren't feeling well this morning." Alastor filled the cup, then stopped the water. Vox frowned.

"...are they okay?"

It was shocking. Alastor didn't expect Vox to sound this concerned.

"They're throwing up at the moment." He sighed.

"Jeez… I'm sorry." Vox held the back of his neck. "I hope they feel better."

The smile on the Radio Demon's face returned.

"I hope they do, as well." He finally made his way back to his room. He saw the bathroom door open, and DT curled up by the toilet. Their eyes opened slowly after being clenched.

"Hi…" Their voice was weak. Alastor knelt before them, giving them the cup. They slowly drank from it, before sighing and curling up a bit, and didn't fight when Alastor picked them up. He kissed their forehead, then placed them in bed once more. He covered them up with a blanket, and continued to kiss their forehead.

"Get some rest, okay?" He told them. DT nodded, covering themself with the blanket a bit tighter. They shifted onto their side, allowing themself to sleep.

A few hours later they woke back up again. They felt somewhat better, but they had been experiencing stomach cramps.

They sat up slowly, rubbing their eyes. They saw...

"Michael?" They asked.

"You've been skeptical about Carina's premonitions, yes?" Michael's tone was kind. DT nodded shamelessly.

"I'm telling her that I'm not-"

Michael extended his hand to their stomach. His eyes were clenched shut for what seemed to be eternity.

"... she's…" his eyes snapped open.

"What…?" DT clenched their hand into a fist, their nails digging into the palm. Michael looked them in the eyes.

"...you ARE pregnant." He confirmed. DT's heart dropped into their stomach.

"No. No, no, no." They got up and started pacing a bit. "It's too early, Alastor and I are supposed to-"

They flinched when the archangel put his hands on their shoulders.

"We'll help you through this. Besides…you have been pregnant for a few weeks. Even before the Valentino incident."

DT's face turned a bright ocean blue, gaze shifting.

"Alastor and I did have sex on our first date…" They remembered. "He…didn't even have protection. FUCK!"

Michael gave them a knowing gaze.

"You'll have a bundle of joy added into your chaos, y'know. Kids are pure, until they grow into adulthood. That's where they choose their pathways." He explained.

"I guess…" DT frowned.

"I'll be okay." Michael reassured.

"...how do I tell Alastor?" The shapeshifter held their arms.

"Tell me what?" Alastor popped into the room. DT yelped, taking a few steps back. Michael also stepped back, and to the side. He rested his hands behind his back.

"Ummm…." They gazed around hastily, between Michael and Alastor.

Alastor tilted his head to the side.

"Is…there something you want to tell me?" He reached for their hand. DT took a breath.

"Well… we're officially a family now." They faltered.

"What does that…" The Radio Demon's eyes snapped open. "Wait… you're pregnant…?"

DT fell silent, casting a nod.

Now Alastor's thoughts were going a mile a minute. His heart skipped a beat, and he reached a shaky hand to place on the side of their face. He planted a kiss on their forehead, then gave a shaky grin.

"I'm gonna take a walk real quick, okay?" He remained kind about it.

"Okay." DT watched as Alastor walk out of the room, and shut the door slowly.

You think Alastor's taking this easy, right? Nope.

He's losing his shit.

Oh Deer, I'm Going to Be a Dad

Chapter Summary

crawls out from Hell I LIVE, BITCHES-

Sorry, life's been hectic. I recently relapsed in suicidal thoughts and cut myself for the first time because of some awful people. I also had no inspiration! So that sucked.

So this chapter has been sitting in my doc for about a month, with me not feeling motivated.

Without further adieu, let's goooooooo

"FUCK!" Alastor whisper-screamed to himself. He continued down the hall. "Fuck, fuck, fuck, fuck, fuck, fuck-"

"You look upset." Angel Dust told him. Alastor jolted out of his thoughts.

"I…" Alastor sighed, running a hand through his hair. He didn't know how to proceed. Yes, he felt multiple things. But then again, he and Angel had a...somewhat good friendship. Plus the spider was trustworthy, nowadays. He came to a mental conclusion. "Can… can we talk?"

Angel Dust blinked. He pursed his lips before nodding, beckoning the Radio Demon to follow him. He took the other into his room, shutting the door.

"What's up?" The spider demon leaned against the wall. He was actually concerned.

"So, there's something with DT that…well, they're not sick, but they…they have the sickness symptoms! They just have something-" Alastor rambled, until Angel put his hand up, eyes going wide.

"Did… did you knock them up?!" He stifled a laugh. Alastor's face turned bright red, and Angel threw his head back, cackling.

"YOU DID! YOU KNOCKED THEM UP!"

"ANGEL!" Alastor clenched his jaw. "PLEASE, JUST TAKE THIS SERIOUSLY!"

Angel finally sighed, rubbing his eyes.

"And, uh, whaddya want from me?" He smiled.

"I need to know what to do. I just…walked out." Alastor held his arm.

"Ya think I'd know anything 'bout kids?" Angel snorted. "But I get where ya comin' from. You're freaking out!"

Alastor held his arm, drawing in a harsh breath.

"Yup." He admitted begrudgingly. "Do you think I'll be…a bad father, if DT goes through with this?"

"I mean, yer a killa, but I did see ya care fer an orphan that one time." Angel shrugged. He gave an indifferent hum. Alastor shifted his gaze, then saw the ashtray.

"Aren't you supposed to stop smoking?" He commented.

"Yeah, but I needed one." Angel huffed in the smoke, then exhaled. "Ya want one, too?"

Alastor shrugged, taking a cigarette. Angel lit it up, and Alastor inhaled. When he exhaled, green mist replaced the gray color. His eyes dulled and ears drooped. He stood with the cigarette in between his two fingers, silently thinking.

"I just need to process how to advance onto…being a dad." He faltered. He took another hit. "I usually don't smoke...but when I do, it means I'm stressed. And you don't usually see me stressed." He exhaled, then frowned. "..."

"Ya got this." Angel Dust exhaled another puff of smoke. It was now white, instead of red. He was free from Val. He continued, "Ya may be a sinna, but ya have a good heart. Bein' a dad would suit you!"

Alastor nodded to himself. He put out his cigarette, pushing the end in the ashtray roughly to put the flame out.

"Well…thank you for this conversation." He reached for the doorknob, turning it. "...and thank you for your faith in me." He opened the door, and left.

"...not a problem, Bambi." Angel Dust smiled. His smile broadened more when Fat Nuggets poked his leg. He picked the little pig up, hugging him close.

Maybe things will be okay.

Sweet Beginnings, Bitter Endings

Chapter Summary

TW: Blood, miscarriage, PTSD, and sexual harassment.

I'm sorry for such a triggering chapter.

Also I'm too mentally unwell for this shit, why am i torturing myself

Alastor came back to DT, relaxed.

"So, um…" He took a breath. His shoulders eased. "I'm sorry for walking out on you."

"Don't be. I get it." DT wasn't upset. They smiled. "So, I guess… we're gonna be parents? If that's fine with you! I-I don't want to pressure you into doing anything-"

Alastor smiled, before kissing their lips. He pulled away.

"Are you fine with keeping the baby?" He wondered. DT nodded. Alastor continued, "Then keep it. We'll raise them together." He took their hands.

"You're taking this way better than I thought." DT chuckled, a bit nervous. Alastor laughed a bit as well.

"I'm surprised with myself too." He admitted. He smiled wider, kneeling down on the ground.

"Al?" DT blinked. They felt Alastor put his hands on their stomach.

"..." Alastor remained silent, but static was humming in the background gently. His ears twitched in a cute way.

"You know the kid hasn't fully developed, right?" DT teased.

"I know." Alastor replied coolly. "But I'm just excited."

DT ran their fingers through his hair. Their thoughts remained clouded, with silent struggles and fears swirling. They even worries that Valentino would somehow return…

That was a new fear instilled in them. They played cool for the Radio Demon.

"I am, too." They agreed. Alastor rose from kneeling, then kissed them again. It started slow, then escalated. In a matter of moments, DT was pushed up against the wall. They smiled, then grimaced. Their felt a strong cramp pierce through their stomach. They pushed him away carefully.

"You okay…?" Alastor wondered. His smile started fading.

"Yeah, yeah, I am." The shapeshifter reassured. "Just a couple cramps, is all."

Alastor frowned. He took their hand.

"Alright…but if it gets worse, tell me." He insisted. DT smiled.

"I will."

"Good." Alastor kissed their forehead. "You need anything else?"

"...could we possibly hang out here for today?" The shapeshifter's smile made Alastor's heart melt.

"Of course." He nodded. "Now, cramp wise… do you need anything to help that situation?"

DT shrugged.

"I mean, I'm fine with whatever."

"Even…" Alastor kissed their neck gently, then nuzzled it. "Cuddles?"

"Cuddles, yes!" DT beamed. Alastor laughed, quite amused. He scooped them up, then fell onto the bed. DT snuggled up close, resting their head on his chest.

"Comfy?" Alastor teased.

"Very." DT sighed, almost wistfully.

"You're kinda cute like this." Alastor admitted. He ran his fingers through their hair. DT let out a small purr, smiling and blushing.

"Am I?"

"Indeed you are." The Radio Demon repeated.

DT didn't really remember closing their eyes, but they woke up to Alastor, snuggled beside them. They smiled.

"Hey…" They spoke up.

"Hey." Alastor was indifferent. "Say, mind if I do… this?" His hands slid down their hips almost devilishly. Seductively, even. It made DT's face burn bright ocean blue.

"A-Alastor-" They began, a nervous giggle escaping them. They purred, then kissed his lips. Alastor kissed back, a little rougher. He put them on their back, towering over them.

"Alastor, what are you…" DT felt scared. They blinked, and Alastor's eyes…

Changed.

They blinked again.

Valentino replaced their fiancè, and they tried screaming.

Valentino forced his hand against their mouth. They clawed at it, screaming frantically. Their legs kicked around, flailing.

"So irrational, baby~" Valentino purred.

"WHAT DID YOU DO TO ALASTOR!" They growled at him. Valentino smirked, drawing a line across his neck.

"I took care of him… your MY bitch now. Welcome to Hell." He forced himself on top of them. "And that baby needs ya go." He flexed his clawed hand, pointing at their stomach.

"No…you're not TAKING MY-" DT yelled, before-

They jolted up, letting out a strangled gasp. Their breathing slowed.

"Shit…" They dropped their head into their hands. Alastor curled up next to them, silent. He kissed their neck, trying to calm them.

"Valentino…?" He proceeded with caution. The shapeshifter nodded. They blinked, pulling their hands away from their face. Something between their legs felt… weird.

"Al…" Their voice wasn't audible at all.

"I need you to stop stressing, okay? It's not good for the baby." Alastor put his hand on their stomach gently.

"Alastor, I…" Their voice shook. They gripped the blanket, uncovering their legs slowly. Their eyes went wide.

Blood between their legs.

Teal. Blue. Blood.

Alastor's ears flicked back.

"W-what does…that mean…?" He was quite scared.

"I don't know…but there's still…more…." DT saw a bit more blood. Their head started spinning. They tried getting up and going to the bathroom, but their legs gave out, hitting the ground.

"DT!" Alastor exclaimed, rushing out of bed. They were slowly going out of consciousness. Their eyes dulled, shutting, and Alastor scooped them up, bridal style.

"Shit, shit, shit, shit, shit…" He rushed out of the room, and out into the hall.

"Alastor…?" Charlie yawned, rubbing her eyes. She blinked, before panic settled in. "What happened?!"

"I-I don't know, t-they were internally bleeding, and it was coming out, and I need to get them to the nearest hospital, now!!" Alastor was never this…panicked. It was concerning.

Charlie grabbed him by the arm gently, dragging him out to the limo. She told him to get inside, and she got into the driver's seat. She backed up, then floored the pedal. They jerked back at the force of Charlie driving so quickly.

This is a nightmare.

This is a horrible, no good nightmare.

Alastor gripped DT's hand tightly, breathing quickening. His smile had been gone a long time ago, and now, tears of pure terror were brimming in his blood red eyes.

"Come on, wake up…" He begged. DT's chest went out, then in. Slowly. Surely.

Calmly.

Like they hadn't a clue what was happening.

Then their eyes fluttered open.

"We're here, at the hospital!" Charlie called out. She parked, and she, Alastor, and DT were out, rushing into the front doors.

Something was going on…

And DT, Alastor, and Charlie won't like it.

Not one bit.

Loss

Chapter Summary

Ayyyyy, more angst

I'm sorry

Loss.

That's what happened.

DT was placed in a hospital bed after a few frantic minutes. They were having tests done on them. Their blood pressure was somewhat okay, but not normal.

Their breathing was ragged.

Hands were clammy. Eyes burning.

Heart racing.

They prepared for something bad, but not…

This bad.

This was the worst way Charlie found out that DT was about to have a baby.

A miscarriage.

That's what happened.

That's what explained the blood.

It was too fast for anyone to process.

"...Al, DT, I…" Charlie began.

"Please, don't try to comfort me." DT held their shaking hand up. "... it's because of me the kid didn't make it."

"No." Alastor's voice distorted and broke at the same time. "Double Trouble, you better listen to me. None of this was your fault." The tears returned, and he grabbed their hand. "So NEVER blame yourself for this. Valentino fucked with your brain and stressed you out. Everything stressed you out, and as much as you tried, it failed. Yes, it failed, but we WILL get over this. I don't care if it's just the two of us comforting each other, or everyone else supporting us through thick and thin. I want to know that YOU are okay."

They went silent with a trembling shudder. Their eyes glistened with fresh tears, and as they blinked, said tears rushed down their face.

"I'm sorry, kid…" They whispered to themself. "I'm sorry for not being strong enough…"

Alastor held himself together. Charlie gripped their free hand.

"Hey…if you need anything from me… tell me." Her voice was gentler than ever before. "I will do ANYTHING in my power to make you feel better."

"...thank you, Charlie." Alastor spoke up. "...you can head back to the hotel. I'll stay with DT until they're discharged from here."

"No." Charlie refused. "I can always call Vaggie that I'll be back later. I care about you two."

"You're too good for Hell…" DT finally spoke up. They made eye contact with the young doctor walking into the room.

"I'm sorry for your loss, hun…" She was sweet like sugar. Her southern twang wasn't unheard. "You'll be released tomorrow mornin', after a few more tests."

DT nodded.

The doctor looked at Charlie and Alastor.

"You plan on staying the night?" She wondered. They both nodded. The doctor hummed, then left the room. She came back with a couple pillows and blankets, giving one of each to them both. "I hope you don't mind sleeping in chairs."

"Not at all." Charlie shook her head.

"I'm staying with them no matter what." Alastor was determined for his fiancè.

"Alright…" The doctor nodded. She walked towards the door, dimming the lights. "G'night, darlings." She left the room quietly, shutting the door. Charlie waved her hand a bit, creating a small nightlight. It was a rainbow, with mini flames to it. It was glowing softly, in a comfortable way.

"Thank you, you two…" The shapeshifter held both Charlie's and Alastor's hands. "Really, this means a lot."

"Not a problem, love." Alastor kissed their forehead. "I'd do anything for you…now, get some rest…if you need me, let me know…"

"Okay…" DT went silent. They laid back, closing their eyes.

This was an awful experience.

They finally felt what it's like to be…

Numb.

Loss Part Two: Melancholy

Chapter Summary

Loss Part Two!!! A little last minute, and the shortest thing I've ever written in this fic.

Enjoy ❤️

"...what?" Vaggie whispered. "Hang on, hang on…" she went to a private room, not knowing Angel was following her.

"DT's okay, but… but they're just in pain. More emotional than physical." Charlie informed. "They… they had a miscarriage."

Vaggie's eye went wide, brows springing up.

"They were pregnant this whole time…?" She whispered again. "Oh… oh no…"

Angel Dust was truly shocked as well, and a bit more stoic. No jokes were mad, nothing was said. All he did was go into silent thought.

"Okay. We'll see you soon, hun. Love you." The moth demon hung up. She sighed, rubbing her temples. She turned to face Angel with a small frown. She flinched, and before she could say anything, he responded:

"...they lost the baby, didn't they?"

"...they did." Vaggie let her shoulders drop. Angel rubbed his arm.

"I-I didn't think they'd lose it." He kept his voice low. "Nobody else knew… I was the only one." He admitted.

"And you kept it a secret? Wow… I'm actually a bit surprised." Vaggie tried to lighten the mood, and made the spider chuckle.

"Shocking, I know." He used jazz hands. "...when's Charlie, Al and DT comin' back?"

"Half an hour." Vaggie answered. "...they didn't deserve to lose their kid."

"They really didn't…" Angel agreed. "Well… if we don't bring it up to anyone, that'll make them feel more comfortable, than with everyone knowing."

"...rather empathetic of you." Vaggie smiled. Angel returned the grin.

"Yeah, yeah, I'm a peach." He joked, and made her snicker.

"Sometimes." She replied. "Welp… we have half an hour. Wanna hang out…?"

"I'd like that. A lot." Angel admitted. "Well toots, whatcha wanna do? The choice is yours."

Recovery

Chapter Summary

Warning for dad jokes in this.

I thought I'd write something sweeter than usual, just... Comfort.

...

That's what I need rn-

After being discharged from the hospital the next morning, DT, Alastor, and Charlie headed back to the hotel. DT remained silent, their nails digging into their knees as they gripped tightly.

Alastor touched their hand, stopping them for a minute.

"... it'll be okay." He whispered into their ear. He fell silent when he saw their eyes become glossier.

"I…" Their voice wavered. "...nevermind."

The rest of the ride to the hotel was silent.

A few minutes later, DT got out of the limo, walking straight into the hotel, refusing to make eye contact. They just headed into theirs and Alastor's room, noticing the sheets were clean.

Niffty must've cleaned them when they were out. They smiled slightly, silently appreciating her deed. They crawled back into bed, wrapping themself in the blankets. Their puffy eyes dulled, shutting and they fell asleep.

They hoped that when they woke up, they still had the baby.

A few hours later, they woke up again. They looked at a nearby clock, seeing that it was almost nine in the evening. They got out of bed slowly, running a hand through their hair. They took a deep breath, then exhaled. They perked up, then reached for their stomach. They felt for it, but it was flat. They then remembered…

"Oh…" They mumbled. They balled their hand into a fist, finally sighing. They looked at the door, to see Alastor walking in with a box.

"I got you some beignets." He walked over to the bed, sitting beside them. "How'd you sleep?"

"Mm…" DT shrugged with one shoulder. They opened the box carefully, picking up a beignet. They took a bite, but the amazing taste didn't distract them from their heartache.

Alastor's ears pinned on the back of his head. His smile wasn't present during this time.

"Oh, Dee…" He spoke gently. He wrapped his arm around them, and DT rested their head on his shoulder.

"...thank you. For this." They gestured to the box, then they closed it.

"I thought you'd want something sweet. After the bitterness we went through." Alastor replied.

"I guess…"

"...did you hear about the guy who invented the knock-knock joke?"

The shapeshifter blinked.

"No…?"

Alastor grinned.

"He won the No-Bell prize!" He laughed, then sighed. He wondered if that would get a smile out of them. But they were more confused.

"Um…" They began.

"Wait, wait! I used to hate facial hair, but then it grew on me!" Alastor brought up.

"...oh my god." DT groaned. "Al, no."

"Can February March?"

"Alastor, stop, I'm too unwell for this shit-"

"No, but April May!"

Alastor's grin widened when DT groaned some more, but they were fighting the urge to smile.

"How do locomotives know where they're going?"

"Alastor!" DT exclaimed. "Enough with the-"

They were silenced by a kiss.

"They do lots of training." The Radio Demon smirked. DT smacked his chest.

"Fucker." They smiled. Alastor held them close.

"That's what I wanted. A smile." He hummed. "Because there's no one's smile that's prettier than yours."

"You're too much…" DT told him. They then thought of a joke. "...what did the bee say to their partner?"

"Oh? I don't know?" Alastor was actually intrigued. DT cuddled into his arms.

"I love BEEing with you, honey." They stuck their tongue out slightly. They leaned their head against his chest, hearing it pound quickly.

Alastor's face turned bright red.

"You knew I liked those jokes." He purred.

"Who wouldn't? You're the type of guy that tells jokes that'll make you die inside." DT returned. "Love you."

"I love you too, dear." Alastor kissed the top of their head. "I love you too. And we'll get through this…together."

Pining and Planning

Chapter Summary

30th CHAPTER, LES GOOOOOOOOO

Also, possible new ship?? AND A NEW ENEMY??? :OOOOOO

Stay tuned for more!!

After a few days of DT not really responding, they finally started speaking up again. Even cracking a couple jokes. Particularly today, they were sitting at the bar with Vox and Husk. They were–slightly hesitant–drinking wine. They crossed their arms on the bar top, leaning forward. They rested their chin on the back of their hands, having a light conversation about their experience in the Crimson Waste, and Etheria in general.

Vox had listened to them intently, almost smitten. Yet he had kept reminding himself of the betrothal. He felt a twinge of pain and desire in his heart. He knew he could never have them…or Alastor, for that matter.

A simple tap on his shoulder made him face Arielle.

"Hello." She greeted him coolly.

"Hey…" Vox didn't know how to respond. He gave a little smirk, but blinked when she scooted closer.

"You know…if I was a demon, I'd date you." She was smooth, surprisingly. Well, truth be told, she voiced her own thoughts and blurted them out for him to hear.

Vox's eyes went wide.

"R-really?" He seemed caught off guard. Then, he finally regained his composure. "You wouldn't mind sinning a little? For moi?" He smiled, crossing one leg over another. He leaned back in amusement. DT perked up, then listened intently. They sipped their wine again. They eyed Michael, who glared at Arielle with a scolding light in his eyes.

"N-no, I would never!!" Arielle corrected herself, with her wings lashing out, feathers puffing up. "I-I mean, you're a TV demon, I'm an angel, my brother is one of the head archangels, I'd get in s-so much trouble! He'd cast me down! And my wings…" She gestured to the pure, white, and soft feathery wings she had on her back. She eyed Michael, who then turned his back on her.

"Who's your brother?" Vox wasn't too threatened. Arielle shifted uncomfortably. She pointed at Michael, while keeping eye contact with the TV demon.

"...oh." Vox let his shoulders drop.

"...if I was ever casted down from Heaven, Father would know that I have sinned," Arielle sighed. She continued with a melancholic tone, "he would find out one of his perfect angels was gone…forever."

Vox patted her hand awkwardly. He wasn't very good at comforting others. Though Arielle did appreciate the gesture.

"I have to go now…" Arielle got up and walked off, slowly. Vox frowned, crossing his arms.

"So." DT began, smirking. "You and Arielle…"

"We've barely interacted, babe."Vox nipped it in the bud. DT shrugged.

"Buuut, she seems to take a liking to you." They added.

"...she doesn't wanna sin."

"I know: but her brother is too damn protective!"

"And I'm not sure if I want to get into a relationship again." Vox spoke, voice lowering. DT finally understood.

"Ah…because of him…" They were careful with their word choice.

"Yeah… he kinda fucked it up for me." The TV demon admitted. "He fucked Angie over too. You have no idea how happy he is to know that Val's gone."

"I would be, too." DT understood the situation.

"Angie had to deal with him for decades. He, Velvet and I were hoping that one day… we'd be free."

"Instead of being trapped in his clutch."

"Basically." Vox glanced around. "Our relationship was…open. He constantly fucked random broads, day or night. He'd claim it was for his films."

"Lying fucker." DT growled.

"Woah, woah, calm. He's already dead, you don't… y'know what? If he miraculously came back–which fortunately, he's dead for good–you can rip him from limb to limb, with no one holding you back." Vox replied.

"Oh, I'd kill him a million times." DT almost broke their glass. They faced Husk, scooting their glass close. "One more drink couldn't hurt."

"You're only on your second drink?" Husk seemed shocked. "Hm. Not expecting that: thought you'd be asking for your fourth glass."

"Surprising, I know." DT sighed, acting dramatic. Husk shook his head, huffing out a chuckle. He turned to grab a wine bottle, then turned back to pour it in the glass. He glanced up to see Alastor's shadow appearing behind the shapeshifter.

Husk patted his own shoulder twice, then pointed behind him, all while making eye contact with DT.

DT seemed to catch the hint. They put their hand up, tilting it back slightly, and they felt the shadow grip their hand gently.

"Hey, Alastor~" DT spoke in a sultry tone. They didn't even expect themself to sound like that at ALL.

Alastor's shadow was slowly shifting into Alastor. Alastor grinned, pulling them off their stool, and dipping them.

"Hey, DT." He returned the greeting. He pulled them upward, kissing them passionately. DT's eyes shut when he kissed them, and they roved their hand onto his chest. They pulled away, giving a chuckle.

"You rascal." They told him.

"Your one and only rascal." Alastor reminded them. DT rolled their eyes at him.

"Hm." Vox frowned a bit.

A part of him wanted to be in a relationship. Another didn't.

He was honestly confused with himself. He turned to face Arielle next to him again, looking a little sad. She wrote something down on a note, sliding it to Vox. She got up and left in a hurry.

"Wh-" Vox lifted the note, reading it.

I can't act a fool in front of Michael. However, he won't have to see this note. Perhaps we can spend some time together… far from my brother. I'm very interested in you, Vox.

-Arielle.

"Ooh." Vox folded it up, putting it in his coat pocket.

A date, more like. He pondered. Right? No, no, Vox, keep it together. Besides, her brother-

"What exactly did you put in your pocket?" Michael's voice rang out behind Vox. Vox turned around, remaining cool.

"A personal to-do list." He lied.

Michael arched his brow.

"Hmmm…" He didn't believe him. DT cut in,

"I did see his list. He was originally going to check out of the hotel, but he decided to stay for a while."

Michael looked at them, then blinked.

"I saw that too." Alastor nodded.

"Then why did Arielle have that note?" Michael crossed his arms.

"She was drawing!" Carina exclaimed from the couch, next to Horde Prime. Michael finally smiled at the little girl. He turned to Vox.

"Very well." He dismissed it. "I will see all of you later. I have… business to attend to." He walked off, down a hall. His eyes flickered a dangerous, malice fuchsia glow that made his face light up.

Then, there was a smile. An uncharacteristically evil smile that puts Alastor's famous, threatening grin to shame.

"Where's Mikey going?" Carina turned to her father.

"I'm not sure, little star." Prime answered. His eyes narrowed at Michael's direction, suspicion creeping in.

"Hey Charlie! What's the plan for tomorrow!" Angel Dust called out.

"I was thinking, since DT already picked out an outfit for the wedding, why not all of us get one!" Charlie answered.

"Ooh, it's just like Princess Prom all over again! Getting ready!" Glimmer brought up excitedly. "Not the, uh… incident."

Catra's ear flicked, muttering something incoherently. Adora eased her by putting her hand on her shoulder.

"I may wanna get a dress." Angel muttered.

"Fuck it, I'm getting a tux." Catra decided.

"Aaaaand, we DO need to still plan the wedding itself." DT held their arms. They heard someone get up, and turned to see Vox bolting off.

"Hm." Alastor also noticed him too. He shook his head, then turned to DT again. "You saw that?"

"Yeah…buuuut, maybe he's going after Arielle." DT shrugged with one shoulder. "Why are you asking? You concerned?" They teased.

"I'm not." Alastor scowled. DT giggled, pecking his lips.

"Woah." Mermista began. "Not used to seeing THAT. From a MERCENARY."

"From Double Trouble, no less." Adora blurted out.

"Yeahhh, well. We kinda fell in love, actually." DT retorted.

"They fell for me." Alastor sighed wistfully.

"Don't dwell on it too much. I could hit you with an empty booze bottle." DT looked at their nails.

"And I could impale you with my shadow tentacles!" Alastor shot back, smile sharpening.

"Do your worst, darling~" DT got up in his face, making him blush. "-heh. Thought so~"

"Eugh." Frosta stuck her tongue out.

"Oh, hush." Perfuma told her gently.

"There's…a lot happening here." Charlie told herself. "But, it's nice to have a lot of people here, so it's not too desolate." She pulled out her hellphone, calling Donatello.

"Charlie, darling! How is my favorite Hell Belle?" Donatello exclaimed.

"I'm okay, recovering after some family trauma." Charlie answered with a dry laugh.

"My condolences, sweetie." Donatello sighed.

"It's alright. Now, we just need to schedule an appointment to bring in… a bunch of guests. You'll be making LOTS of money~" Charlie smiled.

"SOLD! Can you come in on Wednesday, or Thursday with your group?" Donatello exclaimed.

"We maaaay need to fill up both those days." The Princess of Hell giggled nervously.

"Oh honey, that's why I brought up both days!" Donatello wrote something down quickly. "See you then?"

"Perfect." Charlie sighed. "Thank you so much."

"Not a problem, dearie. Bye~" Donatello hung up. Charlie sighed, leaning against the wall.

"You okay?" Vaggie walked over to her. Charlie perked up, then gave a small, soft smile out of relief.

"Yeah, I'm fine…" She reassured. She pulled Vaggie close, pecking her lips.

"Mmkay. But if you EVER need anything -" Vaggie began.

"I know, I know." Charlie giggled. "...just…thank you. For everything." She hugged her.

Vaggie blinked, before hugging back tightly.

"Not a problem, hun." She told her. "Not a problem."

****

Meanwhile, Vox was in his room, contemplating.

Arielle…with her sun-like hair, and her ocean eyes… her smile, and her wings…

He was falling for her.

Like an angel falling from heaven… He chuckled at the small pun he made in his head. He tapped his fingers against his screen. He pulled out the note suddenly, unfolding it. He smiled, fondly even.

Someone knocked on his door.

He turned to open it, facing Arielle.

"Hello, Vox." She greeted.

"Oh, Arielle, I didn't expect to meet you up so soon." Vox was a little shocked.

"Yeah… say, you know the betrothal? And the wedding coming up?" Arielle started.

"I do. Why?" Vox leaned against the doorframe.

"I was wondering if…" Arielle shifted uncomfortably. Her face started to turn pink. It made her look…

Adorable.

"Yes?"

"...do you want to be my date?"

"I…I'd love to, actually."

Arielle beamed, wings extending outward.

"Oooooh, yes, yes, yes!" She bounced up and down. "Thank you, thank you, thank you!" She hugged him, before realizing what she did.

"Uh-" An electronic blush stretched across Vox's screen.

"Sorry, sorry." The angel pulled away.

"No, no, don't be." Vox eased her. He gave an awkward smile, before clearing his throat. "Well, I'll… see you later?"

"Yes. Good day! Eheh…" Arielle waved awkwardly. She walked away quickly, hugging herself. She noticed her hands turned pale from a nice, peachy color. She heard Vox close his door, and she walked away further.

"Wow." Vox was processing what happened. He placed his hands against his chest, feeling his heart beating faster than before. "Shut the fuck UP." He was talking to his heartbeat. He finally sighed, looking at the note once more.

Okay…

Maybe he's a LITTLE excited for this.

But don't tell Alastor. Or Velvet. Or anyone at all, because there will be a LOT of teasing…and blood, if you told Michael.

Speaking of Michael... I don't think he's up to any good.

Ironic, I know.

A Devilish Plan, and a Twisted Archangel

Chapter Summary

> Repost, and redo!! Different than the original idea I had. I'm not gonna talk about it 💀

He was up to something.

Something awful. No good.

Devious.

Michael was a pure perfectionist. Behind his solemn demeanor lies a blood-thirsty soul, craving to kill demons. But no.

He set that aside for his sister. Though, he absolutely hated how she was, as he would consider it, close to sinning.

Falling for a demon.

The only reason he's down here was for Carina, and Double Trouble.

"Double Trouble is an interesting person." He started talking to himself. "But that Radio Demon…ugh, such an impure soul."

He stalked down the hall, brows furrowed.

"The Princess of Hell is foolish, thinking this plan will work. The poor girl has already been through enough. Her hotel failing would be the breaking point for her."

He went into his room, shutting the door. However, he didn't fully close it.

Charlie needed to get that door fixed, but it came with a good cause.

Michael sighed, then went under his bed to grab a giant suitcase. He dragged it out, then opened it.

It revealed…

The biggest holy weapon stash that could potentially kill everyone in this hotel.

"Oops. Almost forgot." He extended his wings, then shook them off. Every white feather shifted into pure, raven black. His eyes went from green to fuchsia within seconds, and his smile was cunning. He pulled out a dagger, examining it.

Little Carina picked through the crack, gasping silently.

"Mikey…?" She mouthed. She continued to watch carefully.

"Seventh time leading the exterminators into victory against these awful vermin. I was promoted to Commander. Ahh, memories." He put the dagger away. "Yes… there it is." He pulled out a syringe that was filled with bright red liquid. He grinned. "When an angel injects this, they become EXTREMELY preventable… alas, when injecting this, it's practically assisted suicide." He put the syringe up.

"What is…" Carina leaned against the door, accidentally opening it and falling. "Oof!"

Michael flinched, then turned to face her.

"C-Carina…?" He seemed to be worried. "Wh-"

"What are you doing…?" Carina frowned. Michael hesitated.

"I'm just reminiscing about the extermination days." He wasn't technically lying.

"Is that why your wings are like that?" Carina sat on her knees. Michael walked over and picked her up.

"Indeed. Sometimes, when I'm threatened, the exterminator part of me comes out." He danced around the truth.

"Mmm…" Carina leaned against him. "Can you take me back to Daddy?"

"Of course." Michael exited his room, shutting the door. He made his way to Prime's room.

"Should I tell Daddy about this?" Carina let out a squeaky yawn.

"No!" Michael exclaimed, making her flinch. "Err…no need to." He calmed down. He turned up at a door, knocking twice.

It opened to show Prime.

"Carina?" Prime blinked, taking her into his arms.

"I didn't want to wake you." Carina mumbled.

"But you shouldn't be sneaking around like that!" Prime sighed. "Thank you, Michael."

"Not a problem." Michael dipped his head, then turned on his heel and left. He quickly made it back to his room, locking the door behind him. "No!!! That blasted child!" He placed back and forth. He then went to his desk, putting down some paper and scribbling a plan. "Eh, no matter. This'll certainly catch everyone off guard."

And I shouldn't worry about Carina. He reassured himself. She's too little to realize what'll REALLY happen.

Heh…

He had NO idea…

Reopened Wounds and Kissing Away the Pain

Chapter Summary

-!!!PLEASE READ THE SUMMARY!!!-
Basically a whole lotta to unpack, here we have:
- Michael being a secretive butt
- Carina being wholesome
- Alastor feeling pain (TW: Panic attacks, suicide)
- Past life babyyyyyyyy
AND fucking away the pain

The next day was planned to be nothing but relaxation.

No plans–really–aside from tomorrow and Thursday, where they scheduled for outfit shopping, and tailoring.

DT had been looking at their wedding gown. They…

They were having second thoughts.

They caressed the gloves, then frowned. They loved the fitting of the dress, but they were now thinking…

It was too long for them.

They closed their closet doors slowly, then walked away.

"Hi, Mx. Trouble!" Nifty's voice caught them off guard.

"Oh, hi Nifty." DT smiled. "Say, um…are you skilled in tailoring?"

"Sure am!" Nifty zoomed away real fast to get a sewing kit. "What do you need fixed?"

"Not fixed, just…altered." DT brought her into the room, showing her their dress.

"Ooh, okie dokie! I can work on this!" Nifty grabbed DT's hand, dragging them somewhere else: turns out, if was Nifty's room. She had a mannequin on display, and she put their dress on it carefully.

"I was wondering if… you could make it shorter." DT began. Nifty smiled brightly, pulling out a pair of scissors.

"How much?" She stood to the side.

"Few inches above the knees, and keep the slit please." DT answered. Nifty pointed at the cutting point, and started cutting away when she received a thumbs up.

DT started liking how it looked a bit more. They also brought the gloves, and did indeed cut off the finger parts the night before. It looked… really good, surprisingly. They weren't big in the designing department, they were more of an actor.

"We shouldn't waste all this fabric." Nifty held a chunk of the dress that was cut off.

"Hm…" DT went into thought, then beamed. "Maybe, we could use it at a cape being draped over my shoulder."

"Ooh, that'll look classy! But how would that be held up…" Nifty started. "Oh! A choker!" She pulled out a red choker necklace, putting it on the neck of the mannequin, then used pins to hold up the future cape. She poked and pinned everything, sewing it together quickly, yet it looked beautiful.

"This is perfect, Nifty!" DT exclaimed. "Thank you so much for this…"

"Not a problem!" Nifty told them. "Is that all you needed?"

"Yup. That's…pretty much it." The shapeshifter glanced around. They flinched, then looked down to see her hugging their leg.

"You know… I never really heard of the Shapeshifting Psycho, aside from Al. But you're way different than your title: your kinder." The small cyclops demon told them.

"Well, looks are deceiving."

"Right! That's why Alastor uses a smile… for deception!"

"Wait, what?" DT stopped. Nifty froze, before pulling away.

"Alastor isn't all smiles. He's much worse…"

"How so?" DT frowned. Nifty pursed her lips.

"I don't want to say it without him knowing…" She went quiet.

"...I can ask him." DT told her.

"Just…be careful." Nifty warned.

"I will." The shapeshifter responded with a small smile, then left her alone. They left her room, then slowly went to Alastor's.

****

"Oh…" Michael scrolled through a heavenly communication pad. He skimmed over some…interesting information. He was in the library, playing a solo match of chess.

Or, so would it seem.

There were actually pons of the Hazbins, I.M.P, Stolas, Vox, Arielle, Queen Lilith, King Lucifer, Horde Prime, Carina, the Rebellion, and Double Trouble.

"Whatcha looking at?" Carina popped up next to him. Michael smiled, patting her head.

"Some information on demons. Y'see, when you're an exterminator, you get information on the demons you target. However…" He swiped to show a picture of Double Trouble. "They aren't a demon: they're an incarnated version of a demon: they were just given another chance at life."

"Oooooh." Carina mumbled. "What generation are they from?"

"The same as Alastor's." Michael smirked. He moved a pon forwards that resembled Alastor. He moved another that resembled DT.

"You're playing chess, too?" The young angel was quite curious.

"No, little star. Just mapping out a secret plan that no one knows about."

"Like a surprise party?"

God, Carina's innocence made Michael's heart squeeze. She didn't know what was bound to happen.

"Yes. A surprise party not even you know of." Michael sighed.

"Okay!! I won't tell!" Carina swore. Michael patted her head once more.

"You're a sweet little angel." He told her. "Now, you can run along. I have to work on the surprise party." He winked.

"Okay!" Carina bounced out of the room, and Michael sighed. He went back to his communication pad, scrolling through a digital version of a 1932 article.

Famous British Actor Dakota Taylor Found Dead After Suicide!

Police have investigated the situation, thanks to the frantic call from Louisiana's famous radio host Alastor Chasseur. He has told police that he could not prevent the actor from jumping to his death. Chasseur didn't expect him to take such a risky path, and ended up killing himself. Was this caused by the Great Depression, or another, personal matter? Reporters plan to interview Chasseur about Taylor's death.

"Ah, a pity." Michael summoned a glass of tea, sipping it. He crossed his right leg over his left. He scrolled through more. "Great Depression woes, stock market crashes becoming more common for the public… oh?" He found another article, from 1933.

Famous Louisiana Radio Host Alastor Chasseur Shot to Death, His Killer Being...Himself?

Another suicide that disheartens us all. Famous and a gentleman of our generation radio host Alastor Chasseur had committed suicide on July 13, 1933 in the forest. A hunter witnessed all of this first hand, and tried to stop him from killing himself. However, it was too late: he was shot down, laying on the ground, with a pack of deer near him, almost affectionately. More info will be discussed soon.

Michael checked the calendar, seeing that TODAY was July 13, 2020.

"Oh… how very interesting." He grinned, taking another sip of tea. Wait.

He scrolled back to the article on Dakota Taylor.

"How did Alastor know about the suicide? Unless, the two…" His eyebrows sprang up. His hand shook, and he set his tea down. "They were in cahoots with each other..! Like they are now!"

He sneered.

"Not for long." He made the pad and cup disappear. He stormed back to his room, slamming the door shut. He went to grab the suitcase underneath his bed, and he grabbed a holy dagger. He strapped it to his thigh, eyes glowing.

"They don't have a clue what's coming for them. Especially Bambi. He'll have to deal with losing them… permanently."

Then, he chuckled in a menacing way.

He was up to no good.

****

Alastor hadn't gotten up today.

To everyone else, it was shocking, because he was always up before everyone else.

To him? It was normal.

On this particular day, it was dreaded.

Horrendous.

His death day. In 1933, he had been caught killing many others.

Well, he had let himself.

You see, this was months after Dakota killed themself. It took a horrible toll on his mental state.

Cuts adorned his arms, his wrists…even his thighs.

His voice would sound hoarse when he'd broadcast, but he reassured his listeners that it was just a cold.

A cold he didn't get over.

One night, Alastor had enough.

He got drunk to the point of going insane. He went out into the forest near his house, then stopped at the sight of a hunter. Then, he looked at the hunter's shotgun.

"...do it." He extended his arms out.

The hunter was confused and concerned. And scared, as well.

"What?" He croaked.

"Take me out of my misery," Alastor took a shaky breath. "everything has been taken from me. My love, my sanity, my smile…! Nobody gets to see my smile anymore…not since they died…" There was a lump in his throat.

"Why would I kill you? You seem like a nice person who was wronged…!" The hunter refused. He almost continued until Alastor took the shotgun. He backed away, then put the gun to his forehead.

"Everything has gone wrong…and this damned economic depression!" Alastor felt tears prick in his eyes. "I… I can't fucking DO IT ANYMORE!" He screamed out, a mix between a yell and cry.

Yet…

He grinned. Broadly, even. He finally pulled the trigger, and-

Alastor jolted up. He checked the calendar near his bed by the wall.

…

It was his death anniversary.

This day would always fill him with paranoia, depression, and much more. So usually, he'd stay in bed.

He relapsed in self harm a few times. Two years in a row, on that specific day.

All the sinners knew that he was a mass serial killer, and his death of being mistaken as a deer, being shot and mauled by wolves…

Was a lie.

Except for the deer part.

Well, when Alastor had shot himself, a buck had walked up to him, licking his blood only twice, before sitting beside him for that entire night.

That explains the deer ears.

The predator became his own prey, because of things that happened to him.

Even predators start out as prey, before they turn to hunting as a form of survival, or intimidation.

Alastor rubbed his eyes. He took a shallow breath.

He gripped his mattress.

Another breath.

But the memory kept playing.

Over.

And over.

And over again.

It was torture.

Alastor felt his heartbeat picking up, and his breathing became quicker.

He tried calming down.

It's okay, he told himself. Breathe.

But he couldn't.

No matter how hard he tried.

Dakota was the only one who knew about his anxiety. But back in the day, the two thought that Alastor was just an anxious person.

He was, hell, he still is.

Now, he just needs to find a way to relax.

He needs to be calm.

Calm…

…okay, this shit isn't helping at ALL. If anything, it made his panic attack worse.

Especially when DT accidentally slammed the door open.

"I'm so sorry, hun! I just wanted to see how you're -" DT closed the door behind them, then their eyes widened. "H-hey, Al, I need you to breathe for me." They got on the best beside him, gently reaching for his hand.

They expected him to yank his hand away from them, but… no.

Alastor just turned to them, hugged them tight, to the point where it was like he was clinging onto them for dear life. Or, afterlife, more less.

"Al, hey, hey…" DT was growing concerned. They hadn't a clue what triggered this. They just walked in on him freaking out. "You're okay," They ran their fingers through his hair. Alastor buried his face in the crook of their neck, eventually sobbing his eyes out.

"I-I can't breathe-" He tried speaking.

"Name four things you can see." DT guided.

"O-okay… um…" Alastor looked dead in their eyes. "I see you…the bed…I saw the calendar earlier, and…you."

DT gave a slight smile. They gripped his hands.

"Three things you feel."

"...heartbeat, the sheets, you holding my hands…"

"Two things you hear."

"Your voice, and radio static…?"

"And one thing you taste."

Alastor blinked back tears and confusion.

"What?" He asked, but his eyes widened when DT kissed his lips. They pulled away, blushing.

"What about now?" They continued. Alastor pursed his lips.

"...green tea." He confirmed. "Can…I taste more?"

"Oh~" DT moved closer, kissing him more. They kissed away the tears on his face, trying to make him feel better.

"Thank you…" Alastor mumbled.

"...do you mind telling me what triggered this?" The shapeshifter started slowly.

"Today, is…the anniversary of my death." He looked at the calendar again.

July 13, 2020.

It was the 86th year anniversary.

"... Nifty brought up, that you're not all smiles." DT sighed.

"...I don't know many modern things," Alastor brought up. "but I do know a few things, regarding…mental states."

DT stiffened.

"Oh..? Do tell." They encouraged.

"...It seems, I have the characteristics… of borderline personality disorder: fear of abandonment, paranoid thoughts, even…suicidal behavior." Alastor brought his knees to his chest, hugging them tightly. His ears pinned on his head. "When Dakota had jumped, I lost everything: they were my world, and I didn't live on. Their suicide was exactly at midnight on New Year's Eve. It was a new year, when they jumped. I lasted seven months until I killed myself."

"Why did you do that?" DT's heart broke. "You had so much to live for. I wish you went on, and found that life was worth living..!"

Alastor looked at them in pure shock.

"... you're not Dakota, aren't you…" He let his shoulders drop. "But yet...you oddly resemble them…"

"How can we check? I mean, I was born in Etheria…or so I thought." DT started to gain second thoughts. "Wait, tell me about Dakota. The memories you had with them."

"Well," Alastor gripped their hands. "They were an actor from England, and they were on my radio show constantly. We'd talk to each other outside of the studios, and it developed into a friendship."

DT closed their eyes, visualizing.

"Dakota came from England to Louisiana, right?"

"Yeah. They were-"

"Cold and cutting?"

"Like when WE first met."

"Did it ring any bells for you?"

"Not really. Until we had our second date. That's when it all pieced together."

"...when you thought I was going to jump."

The Radio Demon nodded.

"...after the final fireworks they jumped." DT opened their eyes.

Alastor flinched slightly, letting out a small noise of shock.

"I never told you that, how did-" His voice softened. DT shrugged with one shoulder.

"You and Dakota struggled mentally, didn't you?"

"We did."

"Any scars you saw from them?"

"No."

"Did they have any distinct features?"

Alastor shifted his gaze, then gave a hum.

"Sharp canines. Gold eyes, and a weird mark on their neck. It wasn't a birthmark, but rather a scar they got from their dog. Never seemed to heal." He recalled.

"Can you point where?" The shapeshifter told him. Alastor pointed to the right side of their neck. DT touched it with their first two fingers, then pulled away. They turned for him to see it.

"Like this? But I didn't get it from a dog, I got it from fighting." They explained.

"Hm… not quite." Alastor tilted his head to the side. DT faced him.

"They had canines, like this?" They bared their fangs. Fun fact: the jagged teeth they harness are just an excuse to seem intimidating. They had normal teeth with canines.

"...yeah." Alastor was startled. He shook his head. "Okay, okay, tell me your favorite color."

"Black because it's soulless yet there's some meaning behind it, green because of emeralds and sometimes cash." DT grinned deviously.

"Describe the first kiss!" Alastor started to feel hopeful.

"Both of us were drunk off our asses, your lips touched mine, and you tasted like whiskey." DT spoke without skipping a beat. "It was on a cold November night, we were only friends at the time, but I remember–" They gasped. "Wait."

"You got it all right." Alastor's mouth was gaped. "Okay, one more thing that'll tell me if you're Dakota or not. True or false: we were bound to elope."

DT went into thought.

I knew I had hated Alastor in the beginning, but something about him was always familiar. Something that lured me in. However, I've never been with anyone other than him, and… oh my god.

Their pupils shrunk in realization.

"...your father ruined it in a drunken stupor." They remembered.

Alastor let out a shuddering breath, pulling DT close.

"You're back…" He laughed shakily.

"The fact that I'm…remembering all of this all of a sudden is just-" The shapeshifter laced their fingers with the Radio Demon's. "-I don't even know how to-"

"You don't have to say anything." Alastor silenced them, pressing his forehead against theirs. "I'm just glad to have you again."

"Same for me, hun." DT sighed silently. "...whatcha wanna do now?"

"Just being in your arms." Alastor laid down, with DT cuddled close.

"Maybe…" DT roved their hand on his chest. "...fool around? If you want to~" They kicked their shoes off and onto the floor.

Alastor thought about it. He snapped his fingers, shutting the door magically. DT got on top of him, sliding their shirt off. They laid on top of him, breathing on his neck and kissing it.

"Oh, DT~" He moaned. He slithered his hands onto the seams of their pants, pulling it down slowly. DT helped him, and they took it off completely. They slid Alastor's shirt off, and Alastor pressed them against the mattress. He got on top of them this time, yanking down his pants and boxers.

Now he was naked, and DT stripped completely.

"Wait." DT began. "...make sure you use protection."

"Right, right." Alastor sat on his knees, summoned something. He slowly started putting on a condom.

DT looked at the clock, seeing if they had time. They were tied to the bed by shadow magic. They shifted their genitalia into a pussy, and Alastor was ready.

He started thrusting his cock inward, then moaned more. He then kissed DT on the lips, making out then.

DT bit Alastor's neck. Alastor yelped. DT then noticed…

"Aww, little deer tail!" They stroked it. Alastor twitched, before letting out a whine.

"It appears whenever I'm under pressure." He growled out. His tail thumped.

"It's so adorable! My sweet little Bambi~" DT grinned. "...continue, my Strawberry Pimp~"

And so he did.

"Alastor, DT? Vaggie and I were looking for you, and-" Charlie opened the door. "OH MY GOD!" She covered her eyes.

DT and Alastor froze, scrambling to use the blankets to censor themselves.

"Holy shit." Vaggie deadpanned.

"NEVER. Mention this." Alastor threatened. DT's face was a bright ocean blue, and their eyes were wide.

"Um…" DT pursed their lips.

Busted.

Falling For Him was Like Getting Stabbed By Your Brother, That Wasn't Fun At ALL

Chapter Summary

> It was supposed to be smut, but then Michael stabbed someone.
> TW: Blood. Nothing extremely descriptive, just it gushing out.

Arielle never would have thought about sinning. Falling for a demon.

However, she was doing this for her own desire, and in spite of her brother.

He was up to something.

Her blonde hair cascaded down her back like a waterfall. She pushed up cherry cola lipstick, and applied it on her lips. She put on some smoky eyeshadow, and decided on an outfit.

It was the dead of night. Everyone except for her and Vox were asleep.

She slipped on a black, lace dress that looked like a piece of bedroom lingerie. She went barefoot, and her wings lashed out. Pure white, glowing and illuminating her skin, as well as her halo.

"Falling for him will be like falling from grace." She hummed. She was very interested in him. She walked to his bedroom, knocking on the door.

She saw it open to Vox. His screen brightness has dimmed for the night, and he was in awe of Arielle's appearance.

"You look gorgeous." He told her without hesitation.

"Thank you." She smiled. Vox smirked.

"Whatcha doin' over here for, babe?" He leaned against the doorframe.

"I wanted some company, and I think… I think I'm ready." Arielle let her wings extend. The glow started fading. "Vox, something about you has made me become wild. I don't know why, but you… you just appeal to me." She had expected her feathers to turn black, but no. They were still the same.

"Really…?" Vox smiled, it was actually genuine. Arielle nodded. She inched closer to him.

"I don't care what my brother thinks anymore." She breathed.

Vox's eyes went wide.

"Woah, okay, settle down, babe." He glitched a bit. Arielle stopped, before backing down.

"I'm sorry." She let her shoulders drop. "I-I shouldn't be doing this." Her eyes dulled. Vox grinned devilishly. He slowly shifted into a more humanoid demon. He had jet black hair with teal and red streaks. His skin was tan, and he had heterochromia eyes: red and blue.

"Now, we can commence~" He purred then leaned down, and his lips touching hers finally. Arielle's face turned bright red, her brows rising. Her heart raced.

"Oh my goodness…" She gave a quiet chuckle. Vox took her hand, and brought her closer. She was eye-level with Vox.

"How'd you like that? Heh…" The TV demon seemed to be sly. He didn't expect her to just...giggle. It was music to his ears.

"Oh, Vox~" She grinned madly. Vox blinked, then laughed in a low tone.

"Arielle, my dear~" He whispered, sending shivers down her spine. The two kissed more, and there was a stern,

"Arielle."

Arielle froze in terror. She turned to face her brother, Michael.

"No… no, no, no." Her tone was no longer gentle. "I refuse for you to take this away from me."

Michael watched her, and she withered under his glare.

"What a shame… for a minute, I thought you were actually going to take my advice, and not sin. Yet here you are… you imperfect soul. Father would be very displeased with your outcome." He started to guilt trip her.

Arielle's eyes burned.

"It was YOUR idea to come down here!" She yelled at him. "You KNEW that this goes against Father's wishes!"

"It was to reunite an angel with her father. How could I make her miserable?" Michael mentioned Carina.

"It still went against his will."

"YOU fell for a demon."

But... Aren't you supposed to love the sinner, not the sin?

"Enough of the banter. If she wants to love me, then she can love me." Vox stood in.

"You! Stay out of this." Michael barked.

"Or what?" Vox seemed to get a little too cocky. Michael grinned maliciously.

He summoned a dagger and stabbed Vox in the stomach…

Well, he tried to stab him.

"NO!!!!" Arielle let out a blood curdling scream, and threw herself in front of Vox. The dagger plunged into her stomach, and blood gushed out.

Oh shit.

"WHAT HAPPENED?!" DT busted out of theirs and Alastor's room. They had on Alastor's coat, and a pair of black short shorts. They flinched in realization.

Alastor came after them, then let out a shout.

"What the…" He faltered.

"Oh no…" Michael realized his mistake. His sister's blood was on HIS hands. "No, no, no, no, no."

He STABBED. His own sister.

"You BASTARD!" DT yelled, then slammed Michael into the wall.

Michael dropped the dagger, and Alastor picked it up. He used his magic to destroy it, and it went away.

Vox held Arielle close, and saw her eyes dulling.

"Come on, come on, stay with me..!" He never acted this… paranoid.

"Michael, you cockbag. Why did you kill your sister?!" DT's tone was threatening.

"She was sinning! She was going against the Lord!" Michael answered.

"Yet you killed your own kind." DT reminded him, just as rough. "The only angel who sinned… is YOU."

"Wrath." Arielle spoke up. Her voice didn't sound hoarse, rather the same. She sat up slowly, and used her hand to heal her wound. There was no more blood. "You were so angry with me, you didn't realize what YOU did."

Michael fell silent. He then bolted out of the way, then to his room. By this time, everyone was awake. He rummaged through his suitcase, then grabbed the syringe.

Everyone followed, and heard him scream,

"This is IT!"

He injected the syringe into his neck. He collapsed to the ground, his wings becoming boney and leathery. They lashed out, almost dragon-like. His teeth became sharp, and the halo from his head turned pure white. He started turning… demonic. He was about the size of Godzilla.

He busted through the roof of the hotel, taking off into the night.

"Oh no." Charlie watched in terror.

"Oh no." Carina whimpered.

"Ohhhhh, no, no, no." Verosika deadpanned. Striker had cocked his rifle, then tipped his hat.

"It's huntin' time." He growled. Stolas summoned two hand guns.

"This is it. This is happening." He took a breath.

"Oh, FUCK ME IN THE ASS!" Blitzø screamed.

"Not now, Blitzy. We have trouble on our hands." Stolas remarked. DT's eyes narrowed, and they rushed to their room. They threw the closet doors open, and saw the outfit they first met Alastor in. They put that on quickly, then walked back out.

"We're going to kill that angel fucker." They announced.

"No matter what the cost." Alastor snapped his fingers, and he was in a black long sleeved shirt, black pants, and knee high boots. He made a knife appear, and he gripped it.

The final battle…

Has come upon them.

Everybody Wants to Be His Enemy

Chapter Summary

Yoooooo
My sleep schedule is awfullllllll
Anyway, lyrics are from "Enemy" by Imagine Dragons.
TW: Blood, and death. Be forewarned.

And there's a tiny Owl House reference in there :D

Enjoy though!! ;)

After about twenty minutes of getting everyone's shit together, they decided to make a quick plan.

"Husk and Stolas will be fighting mid air, with Angel Dust and Blitzø gunning Michael down. Sir Pentious controls his ship, sending down the Egg Bois to fight alongside us." Charlie instructed. "Nifty, Verosika and Loona can help with leading everyone away from the chaos."

"Striker, Moxxie, Millie and Cherri Bomb can ride with Sir Pentious." Vaggie added on. "Charlie, She Ra and I will lead an army and the Rebellion that'll attack Michael head on. Horde Prime can help Sir Pentious and keep Carina safe."

Arielle raised her hand.

"I can try to help Michael." She began.

"Hun…" DT sighed. "Your brother is gone. The thing he injected."

"It seemed to be an assisted suicide injector that turns angels into murder weapons." Entrapa explained. She used her purple pigtails to stroke her chin. "If we could find a cure somehow, we could save him.

"But why would we do that?" Prime asked her.

"Yeah, that fucker needs to die already." Frosta blurted.

"Frosta!" Perfuma scolded.

"No, no, she's right." Arielle sighed reluctantly. "With the injector, he's gone. Dead either way."

"Well shoot." Scorpia whistled.

"That's brutal." Bow commented.

"That's how Hell is." DT replied. "I've been here long enough to know that Hell lives up to the name… aside from him." DT linked arms with Alastor. "And everyone else, of course."

"What'll we do?" Alastor gestured to himself and DT.

"...bait." Vaggie smirked.

"Oh, joy." Alastor deadpanned.

"Bait, how so?" DT encouraged with a grin.

"Wh-DT!" Alastor scoffed. Vaggie chuckled.

"I was kidding about you being bait." She reassured. "You two are the key to the final blow. All of us are just distractions."

"Heroic." Catra teased.

"Kitten, I'm far from a hero. I prefer morally grey. Besides, the best way to survive is always choosing the winning side. Remember?" DT tutted.

"Yeah, especially since you left me." Catra furrowed her brows.

"You left me no choice. It was for your own good to hear that." The shapeshifter didn't back down. "In fact, I was the reason you changed. That little nudge has a big aftermath."

"...I guess." Catra let her guard down.

"Okay, enough of that!" Charlie silenced them. "Now, we have an angel to kill."

"Ready?" Bow put his fist in the middle, but nobody did the same. They all just stared at him. "No?" He pulled away slowly.

"Nah, kidding." Loona chuckled, putting her fist next to his. Everyone else out their fist in the middle.

"One, two, three, BREAK!" They all exclaimed. Then, they all left the hotel, weapons in tow.

There was a nearby music department, blasting a specific song.

"I wake up to the sounds,

Of the silence that allows,

For my mind to run around,

With my ear up to the ground,

I'm searching to behold,

The stories that are told,

When my back is to the world,

But was smiling when I turned."

"Tell you you're the greatest..." Charlie sang out loud with the music.

"But once you turn, they hate us...."

"Oh, the misery," Angel Dust cocked his Tommy gun, getting on Husk's back.

"Everybody wants to be my enemy." Verosika tied her hair in a ponytail.

"Spare the sympathy." Striker got in Sir Pentious's ship.

"Everybody wants to be. My enemy." Cherri Bomb fixed her bomb-adorned belt. She, Striker, Prime, Vox, Carina, and a few others went on board. They drove fill steam ahead, with the others that were marching not too far behind.

Finally, they saw him.

DT looked up to see his awful form.

"Rage consumed him." They mumbled. They gripped Alastor's hand.

"He will fall." Alastor promised, switching into his full demon form. In fact… all the sinners did. They now looked so intimidating.

Stolas, especially.

He and Blitzø took to the skies, and Angel Dust shot at Michael.

"FUCK YOU MOTHAFUCKA!" Angel Dust cackled. There was a dangerous light shining in his eyes. Cherri Bomb threw a bomb directly at Michael.

Michael screeched, batting it away with his wing. He hit the bottom of Sir Pentious's ship, and the bomb exploded.

The ship quaked violently.

Carina screamed, gripping onto Prime.

"Daddy!" She whimpered.

"It's okay, little star. I'm here." Prime calmed her down. He held her close.

"Holy shit. He's tougher than we though." Moxxie commented. He gripped his hand gun.

"We gotta fight 'im with more power, then!" Millie replied calmly. She tossed a few daggers out the window of the ship, hitting Michael's eye. "Bullseye!" She cheered. Striker stood next to her quickly, aiming at him. He pulled the trigger of his rifle, shooting bullets. Michael kept dodging, until Bow started shooting arrows at him. It made him… almost confused.

The more bullets and arrows that came, the more the former archangel was trying to stay away from.

"Your words up on the wall,

As you're praying for my fall,

And the laughter in the halls,

And the names that I've been called,

I stack it in my mind,

And I'm waiting for the time,

When I show you what it's like,

To be words spit in a mic,"

Blitzø kept shooting. He even pierced a small hole in his wing.

"Tell you you're the greatest,

But once you turn they hate us..."

DT gripped onto their dagger. They ran up to Michael, tossing the daggers like ninja stars. Alastor summoned a sword for them, and tossed it. DT grabbed it, holding the handle and jumping onto a nearby dumpster. They jumped up onto a ladder of a building, hastily climbing. They made sure to not lose their new sword.

They made it to the top of the tall building, and saw…

Fire. Fire around everyone in the distance.

They shook their head and continued onward.

"Oh, the misery,

Everybody wants to be my enemy,

Spare the sympathy

Everybody wants to be,

My enemy."

Their eyes were narrowed at Micahel. They ran across the rooftop.

Michael craned his head up, then took off into the air. He darted towards the shapeshifter, crashing into the building.

It started crumbling majorly, and DT tripped, falling onto a cracking ledge. They struggled to climb back up, and Micahel scratched at them, then headbutted them into the air.

They had been launched, then they are slowly falling.

And Micahel chopped off a good chunk of their hair, after it finally growing back in. They looked like only the right side of their hair was shaved, and the rest of it was parted onto the left side, making it look like they had bangs. But that part didn't matter: what mattered is if they were going to live or not.

Was this going to be their demise? They hoped it wasn't. However, they couldn't prevent it.

"They say, 'Pray it away',

I swear, I'll never be a saint, no way,

A chair in the corner is my place, I stay,

I shake,

And think about the powers at play,

The powers at play..."

Their voice faltered, and they closed their eyes.

Waiting to hit the ground with a thud, and not waking up.

But someone caught them.

They looked up to see Alastor, in his full demon form.

He had a handgun that shot out bullets of literal hellfire.

"And the kids in the dark that were doomed from the start,

The child in the basement, faced to the pavement,

Oh what a statement,

Love is embracement,

Love is a constant, love is a basis,

He cannot be, she cannot be, they cannot be changed,

But keep on praying..."

He shot quickly and accurately. Michael was on fire now.

Suddenly, a glowing, bulging eye appeared on his forehead. It seemed to be the final kill zone.

DT and Alastor nodded at each other, the Radio Demon placing them on the ground. He summoned a gust of wind to carry the two of them into the air, like an updraft. They were suddenly floating.

DT readied their sword.

"NOW!" Alastor yelled. The updraft quickly faded, but DT boosted themself into the air. They gripped the sword's handle, and finally thrusted the blade into the eye. Blood squirted onto their face, and their smile…

Was terrifying. They were like Alastor at this point.

"Goodbye." They hummed. Michael had blood dripping from his mouth, and he slowly turned back into his normal form. He was on the ground, shaking.

"N-no! This isn't the last of m-me!" Michael gasped for air. He was choking on his own blood. There was a gigantic stab wound on his forehead, and it was deep.

"Oh, the misery," Alastor chuckled darkly. He cocked his gun.

"Everybody wants to be my enemy." Michael grumbled under his breath.

"Spare the sympathy,

Everybody wants to be..." Alastor aimed his gun at Michael's forehead. His voice distorted.

"YOUR ENEMY."

He finally pulled the trigger, and Michael was on fire, and pretty much dead now.

It was finally over.

Michael was gone, forever.

"WE DID IT!" Vaggie screamed out of pure excitement. Everyone pretty much started screaming in joy about the terror being over.

DT and Alastor slowly turned to each other.

"Hey." DT greeted.

"Hello, my dear." Alastor replied coolly. "Oh, uh, you have some blood on your face."

"I know." DT didn't seem to be bothered. They wiped most of it off with their sleeve.

"And he chopped your hair off." Alastor gave an amused chuckle.

"Yeah. But hey. I still look hot." DT giggled a bit.

"Never said you didn't." Alastor hugged them. "I'm just glad we're okay. Oh, and I PROMISE you that we'll go on a REAL date after we get married. It'll be amazing, and romantic, and everything you've wanted out of me." He pulled away, smiling a closed lip smile.

"I know." DT mirrored his expression. They put a hand to his cheek, leaned in and kissed him rather passionately. It wasn't out of lust, or desire. It was purely out of genunine love and care. They pulled away reluctantly.

"Woah… golly." Alastor blushed. His smile dropped, his eyes going wide after his comment. "Why did I say that?!" He buried his face in his hands.

DT laughed, holding their sides.

"Okay, fuck buddies! Now we hafta… repair the hotel and pretty much a buncha stuff." Angel strutted over to them.

"Did you really have to call us that?" Alastor frowned.

"Yup. Now c'mon!" Angel grabbed both of their hands and dragged them along.

DT smiled reassuringly at Alastor.

"We can make this fun," They told him. Their smile was purely blissful, and Alastor couldn't help but be smitten.

"I guess." He smirked.

This WILL be fun. Well, not cleaning up, but rather what happens next.

"I Need To Process What The Fuck Happened Here."

Chapter Summary

We actually getting somewhere bitches, bros, and non binary hoes affectionate

Hope you enjoy this chapter, all!! <3

Chapter Notes

See the end of the chapter for notes

Charlie turned on the news for background noise. It was mainly a report on the fight that took place.

Everyone had been helping out, fixing the roof of the hotel.

And meanwhile, at the Morningstar castle… Lucifer lost his shit.

"All of THIS happened?! Why hadn't I heard anything?!" He paced back and forth.

"You were too protective of me while I recovered." Lilith recalled, her eyes dull. She took a sip of her wine.

"How are you so calm?" Lucifer was rather in awe. Lilith took another sip.

"Oh, I'm not under the surface. But you have to relax, remain level headed in a scary situation." She smiled. Lucifer sighed, pulling her into a hug. He rested his head on her bosoms, also grinning.

"I love you." Was all he said. He appreciated her, everything she's done, and her calmness.

"Love you too." She pecked the top of his head. Finally, his hellphone rang.

Lucifer pulled away to answer Charlie.

"Heyyy, dad-" Charlie began. Lucifer put her on speaker phone.

"Charlie. My little apple." Lucifer cut her off. "I need to process what the fuck happened."

"Well, Micahel turned out to be an asshole, trying to ruin the wedding, stabbed his sister, and pretty much killed himself in battle." Charlie summarized.

"And you didn't ask us for help?!"

"I kinda need your help right now…"

"With what..?"

"...repairing the hotel."

Lucifer blinked.

"How much damage is done?"

"The roof crumbled, and there's fire-" Charlie winced at Alastor screaming,

"Son of a fucking bitch!"

"Was that the Radio Demon?" Lucifer was somewhat startled, and even amused.

"Yeah, yeah, he, uh-" Charlie giggled nervously. She winced again when Alastor started putting out the fire with a fire extinguisher.

"ALASTOR, FOR THE LOVE OF GOD, BE CAREFUL!" DT screamed at him.

"The betrothed is… concerned." Charlie left it at that.

"As they should be." Lilith chimed in, a little teasingly.

"After all, they ARE traumatized over what happened." Charlie nodded.

"I don't blame them." Lucifer gave a dry chuckle.

"Well, I gotta go take care of the hotel. Love you, bye." The Princess of Hell almost hung out.

"Wait!" Lucifer exclaimed. "... we'll be on our way."

"Thanks, dad." Charlie grinned. She finally hung up, putting her phone in her pocket. She perked her head up to see Alastor, leaning against the wall. He sighed almost silently.

"Fire." Was all he replied with.

"You got burned." DT grabbed his chin and gently tilted it to the side for them to look out.

"It is what it is. I'll live." Alastor remarked, quite witty. DT snorted, smacking his arm.

"Stubborn ass." They teased him. Alastor gave a dopey smile.

"What can I say?" He shrugged.

"Ooookay, lovebirds. Wrap it up." Angel Dust rolled his eyes, smirking. "We got a lotta stuff ta accomplish here."

"Like you accomplished topping Husk?" DT smirked.

"WOAH, KEEP THAT ON THE DOWN LOW!" Arielle exclaimed. She immediately covered Carina's ears. "She doesn't need to here all that!"

"Her daddy's a war criminal!" Angel Dust reminded.

"War criminals are completely different from sex offenders, prostitutes, and porn actors, Angel." Alastor grinned broadly.

Angel gasped, hand on his fluffy chest.

"How DARE YOU!" He spoke in mock offense.

"Hey, chop chop." Vaggie clapped twice, but it wasn't in a rude, bossy tone. It mirrored Angel's tone, to say the least.

"Aight, demandy-pants." Angel nudged her.

"Hmm. Rude." Vaggie nudged back, before giving a chuckle and turning back to sweeping up the rubble on the ground.

There was a knock on the door.

"I got it!" Angel Dust walked up.

"Making yourself useful for once, eh?" Vox teased, and received the middle finger from the spider.

Angel turned the doorknob and opened up to see King Lucifer and Queen Lilith.

"Oh, shit! Charlie!" Angel called out. Charlie went to his side, then beamed at her parents.

"Mom, dad!" She wrapped the two in a tight hug.

"Oh, my little apple, I was so worried!" Lucifer hugged her back.

"But nonetheless, we're proud." Lilith added on. "So, what exactly did you need help with?"

"Patching the ceiling and walls up. Giving them a new coat of paint and whatnot, since the wallpapers are sorta chipping away." Charlie led them in.

"I can help with the walls, dear." Alastor volunteered. "With a little magic, of course." He waved his hand around a bit, lime green mist swirling around it. He snapped his fingers finally, and then the walls looked freshly painted. Even the gold designs that appeared to be apples and snakes are much more prominent.

"Wow, thank you so much, Al!" Charlie bounced up and down a bit.

"Not a problem." Alastor seemed so…genuine. It still amazed DT.

"I can try helping with the roof, and-" They sniffed a bit. "What the hell?" They saw the fire extinguisher nearby and grabbed it. They followed where the smoke was, and it led to Michael's room.

They busted the door open and saw the whole ass room was on fire. They, without hesitation, put out the massive fire, with white, sticky, and foamy substances tainting the whole room, and caking over the desk, bed, and windowsill.

"What happened h-oh, my." Stolas blinked in total shock. "This whole room -"

"-was on fire." DT sighed. "We should REALLY ask Charlie to remove this room. I don't want Michael's judgemental ass haunting this hotel."

"I second that. But for now…" Stolas closed the door slowly. "We can move on as normal. His smile was always kind when he was around DT. The two turned away from the room, heading back to everyone else. They saw Striker trying his shot to flirt with Verosika, but that obviously failed.

Instead, Verosika made her way over to Cherri Bomb, and started flirting with her.

Quite a turn around.

Striker seemed a little hurt by this, but he ended up shrugging it off and relaxing. He eventually talked with Moxxie and Millie.

DT gazed all of the things going on. The corners of their mouth tugged up, and their lips curled into a smile. They felt Alastor wrap an arm around them, pulling them close.

"After all of this, we'll be relaxing... Somewhat." He sighed, almost wistfully. "Just wanting to be with you." He pressed his forehead and nose against theirs.

"The feelings are mutual, Radio Demon." DT retorted.

"Ouch, you're calling me that so suddenly?" Alastor pretended to be hurt.

"That's your title, is it not?" The shapeshifter stiffened their position.

"Correct, Shapeshifter Psycho." The Radio Demon purred in their ear. His breath was hot, though it sent shivers down their spine.

DT wrapped their arms around his shoulders, pulling themself closer. They gave him a small peck on the nose, before the two hesitated. They finally leaned in for a rather romantic kiss. DT pressed the palm of their hand against the side of Alastor's face, caressing it. Alastor rested his hands on their hips, then he pulled back from the kiss.

"I love you." He told them. He took their hand, then got down on one knee. DT's eyes sparkled in realization. Everyone turned to the two.

"Ohhh, my." Catra was honestly invested.

"Double Trouble, the moment I met you… I knew you were going to be a piece of work." Alastor started off bluntly. A few chuckles rang out, mainly from the Rebellion. "But as we progressed through the pain, the trauma, the obstacles… we made it. Like we did back up there." He tilted his head up to the sky. "Double Trouble, no… Dakota Taylor…"

DT's eyes became slightly glossy at the name.

Alastor pulled something out of his pocket: it was a blue, velvet box. He opened it to reveal a gorgeous silver ring, with two gems entwined with each other: emerald and garnet.

The couple's colors.

"Damnnnnn," Cherri Bomb and Angel Dust leaned back in unison.

"That's a nice looking ring for your fuck buddy." Blitzø muttered under his breath with a cheeky smile.

"Are you willing to spend the rest of your life with me, as my spouse, and take me as your husband?" Alastor took the ring out.

DT giggled, blushing madly.

"Yes, I do." They accepted. Alastor slid the ring on their ring finger, rose from the ground and hugged them. He held them close.

"I always knew you liked green." He whispered.

"When did you have time to get a ring like this?" DT was curious. "Wait…" They looked at the ring again. "Is this the ring used when-"

"-I proposed to you in 1928." Alastor finished. "Yup."

"This is amazing, Al." DT smiled.

"Anything for you." Alastor caressed their cheek with his thumb.

With those two…

Anything that could go wrong will only make them stronger.

Chapter End Notes

ovER 1000 HITS???? 38 KUDOS??????? 5 BOOKMARKS?????????

I LOVE YOU GUYS SO MUCH!!!! But seriously, this fic started as a joke, mainly satire. However, when I started receiving wonderful comments, more kudos, and even people bookmarking this fic, it kept me motivated. That, and along with my friends. Of course they're concerned, but they enjoy me ranting about it to them. Lmao

Thank you again, for real. I love you guys ❤️

Dressing the Part: Part One:

Chapter Summary

Yoooooo
Happy Fourth of July! I love y'all sm, and I hope you have an amazing day!!!

I'm horrible at clothing descriptions and don't have any damn patience for writing it, so some descriptions made be short, others long, I wrote it in one sitting.

Also, DT hanging with the boyz while the ladies and Angel Dust get their dresses.

They play Never Have I Ever and UNO. Things sure to happen!

Anyway, enjoy lmao-

After a while, the ladies of the group got to go to Donatello's place to pick out some outfits for the wedding.

The guys and DT stayed behind to hang out at the hotel.

"You wanna play Never Have I Ever?" Blitzø suggested.

"O. Kay. Nothing too raunchy though, okay?" Moxxie warned.

"C'mon Mox, don't be a prude." Blitzø shoved him lightly.

"Yeah, Moxxie, join the fun!" DT insisted.

"Ohh, boy." Alastor muttered. DT smiled at him, putting their hand on his arm for reassurance.

"Put ten fingers up." Stolas put his hands up. "If I say, for example, 'Never Have I Ever fallen off a boat'. If you have fallen off a boat, you put a finger down." He briefed them.

"This'll go to shit." Vox commented, smirking.

"I can go first." DT insisted. "Okay, hm… never have I ever killed someone." They put their finger down.

So did pretty much everyone except for Bow and Sea Hawk.

"Oh, wow." Bow shifted uncomfortably.

"Does setting boats on fire kill?" DT turned to Sea Hawk.

"They jumped into the water for safety. None of them were wounded." Sea Hawk answered.

"Damn. Okay then." Blitzø commented. He finally brought up, "Never have I ever shot someone in the head."

Alastor put a finger down, as did Husk, Blitzø, Moxxie, and Striker.

"Never have I ever been interrupting while having sex!" Stolas blurted.

"Shit." DT gave a nervous laugh, putting a finger down. Alastor blushed, putting a finger down as well. Blitzø threw his head back, cackling.

Alastor buried his face into his hands, muttering something.

"You're not alone, Radio Demon." Lucifer reassured. That only made the laughter increase. Bow and Sea Hawk awkwardly looked at everyone, then each other.

"What is happening-" Sea Hawk whispered with a deadpan tone.

"I have no idea." Bow whispered back.

"Never have I ever caught someone in a magic trap with my girlfriend and a group of heroes." DT smiled. Bow and Sea Hawk finally put their fingers down.

"Ohh, changing it up a bit?" Alastor raised his brow.

"Adds some fun to it." DT shrugged. They leaned against him.

"Never have I ever gotten drunk and almost fell off the roof!" Vox chimed in.

"Oh fuck you!" DT retorted in a joking tone. They had about seven fingers up. Vox gave a shit eating grin. He, too, put his finger down.

"Nine for me." He bragged. DT flipped him off and he chuckled.

"This is getting borin' real quick." Husk sighed, leaning back.

"What else can we do when everyone else is gone?" DT asked.

"We could do some voodoo magic." Alastor suggested.

"Oh, NO." Moxxie's face paled slightly.

"What should we summon?" Vox only made matters worse.

"Nothing!!!" Moxxie gawked.

"Please, don't." Bow chimed in.

"Please DO!" Blitzø smirked. There was an argument that sparked.

DT leaned against Alastor again.

"How do you think they're doing?" They wondered about the ladies.

"I think they're okay." Alastor replied. "I think it's all good."

****

"I hate you." Catra hissed at Glimmer, who was snickering and snorting.

"C'mon, Catra. You look nice!" Adora smiled like a dork.

"You do realize I said I was gonna wear a suit, right? Not… whatever THIS is." Catra rolled her eyes.

Catra's outfit was basically what Glimmer envisioned her in, with a few modifications.

A black, shimmering dress with a high slit. The sleeves fell off her shoulders, and her chest was revealed quite a bit. She had a white fur coat, and a pearl necklace.

"Darling, YOU look absolutely stunning." Donatello walked back into the main room, circling around the feline. "You put most catgirls to SHAME with that striking look!"

Catra blushed, ears folded against her head.

"You really think so?" She gave a nervous laugh.

"I know so." Donatello grinned.

"Yeah babe, ya look hot!" Angel Dust called out. While he was the only male there, he did find a nice dress to wear. Pink and black, with a thigh high slit. He decided to wear black fingerless gloves to go with it, to bring contrast.

"She looks amazing." Adora praised, walking to her side. "You could say she looks… purr-fect."

"Adora!" Catra's face burned a bright red. She shoved her shoulder. "You're such a fucking dork!"

Adora was clad in a white suit, with her lapel having a gold lining. Her shoes were also white, with black soles. The sleeves of the jacket were quarter length, similar to Catra's suit. Adora also had a gold pin on her jacket pocket.

"I mean, I'm not gonna deny it." Adora shrugged.

"You're killing it though~" Verosika stepped out of the dressing room. She was in a black and white cocktail dress, and it was actually… kind of modest.

"Didn't know you could be modest." Loona was in a red long sleeved shirt, tucked into a tight black skirt. She had on toeless and heelless stockings that were striped red and black. Her ears perked up when she heard Donatello and Charlie greet someone.

"Hey, Octavia! Your dad let me know this morning that your mother dropped you off to get a dress, or whatever you like for the wedding!" Charlie's voice rang through. She and Donatello walked back into the main room with the young Goetia princess.

Octavia looked around. She seemed to look somewhat tired, and she remained silent while in thought.

"Do you have any preferences in mind?" Donatello started slowly.

"Hm?" Octavia lifted her head. "Oh, uh… something simple is fine." She didn't seem to mind either way.

"Dear, you're a Goetia princess! Surely, you want something a bit elegant. Besides, your daddy's a galactic prince!"

"Daddy, huh?" Angel Dust smirked. Vaggie punched his arm softly.

"Enough of that, there's a child here!" She joked.

Octavia internally cringed at the word "daddy". She hasn't called Stolas daddy since she was… five? She can't recall.

Donatello ran to a clothing rack, flipping through the clothing options. He beamed, then pulled out a dark purple jumpsuit.

"Whaddya think?" He asked, putting it in front of her.

"Hmm…" Octavia thought about it. She grabbed it, examining it closer. "Alright, I don't see why not." She was led to the changing room. After a bit, she walked out, wearing it. She looked at herself, slowly smiling.

"You like?" Donatello pried.

"I really do." Octavia admitted. Charlie pulled out her phone, seeing that her mother texted her:

Hey, my little apple. I've been having a couple meetings with some of the people your father works with. Then I'll head to Cannibal Colony to meet Rosie after looking for a dress in my closet. I'm sorry I'm not here with you, honey.

Charlie smiled, replying:

All good, mom! Thanks for letting me know where you'll be. What time will you be back at the hotel?

Lilith responded again:

Around dinnertime. No later than that.

Charlie nodded to herself. She sent this:

Okay, see you then! Love you, mom! <3

She then sent the text and went back to everyone else.

Mermista had settled on a spaghetti strapped, dark and light blue dress that was, ironically, shaped like a mermaid tail. Perfuma had chosen a pink, floral summer dress, and Scorpia went with a matching dress, but it was white and had strawberry prints on it.

Frosta looked like a mini version of Elsa from the Olaf Christmas special. So that's fun.

Entrapta went with a fuchsia suit, pair of black shined shoes, and a top hat. Truly classy, and a beautiful, scientific princess. God, I love her.

Glimmer was wearing a modified version of her Princess Prom dress, but it seemed longer and more slim. The fabric was glittery, but not enough to blind you.

Millie went with the dress she wore on hers and Moxxie's date to Ozzie's.

Vaggie got a nice, tight–not too tight–black cocktail dress, with dark purple stockings. She really liked how it looked on her.

Charlie wore a matching suit, with black heeled boots.

Cherri Bomb chose a nice pantsuit, with it having the lesbian colors. She looked absolutely badass.

Velvet was wearing a more formal version of her current dress: not as puffy, and pretty much stuck with the magenta color. It looked simple, yet beautiful.

Nifty had on a light pink and frilly dress: light to dark, fading in an ombre style. She had matching hand gloves, and white heels to go with it. She also bought a pearl necklace.

"Okay, sweetie, you ready?" Arielle finally spoke up, holding Carina's hand.

"Mhmm!" Carina nodded, smiling from ear to ear.

Everyone gazed at her, and were in awe of how stinking cute she was.

Carina's dress was dark green, with puffy sleeves and a puffier skirt. She had on what looked like tap shoes too, and she had on frilly socks.

"Oh, sweetie, you look so cute!!!" Angel Dust knelt in front of her. Carina giggled.

"Thank you." She swayed a bit, hands behind her back.

"And you!" Donatello gazed at Arielle.

Arielle was absolutely stunning. She wore a flowing, light blue dress with a matching choker. Her sleeves were thick strapped, sliding off her shoulders. From the chest down to the hips had white, flower imprints made of lace. The skirt was like a waterfall, falling gracefully and piling in the back to form a train.

She looked like Cinderella.

"Oh, my god." Millie smiled.

"Girl, you look like a damn Disney princess!" Cherri Bomb commented. Arielle chuckled, tucking a strand of her hair behind her ear.

"Thank you." She accepted the compliment. "Everyone looks so amazing, too!"

"Are you all content with your outfit choices? Any adjustments needed?" Donatello wanted to make sure.

"I don't think so." Angel Dust shrugged. Everyone else seemed to be good, as well.

"Alright, lemme just get you all some bags." Donatello started to leave. Charlie began following, ready to pay.

"...whaddya think is happening over at the hotel?" Millie finally brought up.

Chaos.

That's what.

****

"FUCK YOU!!!" Vox screamed at Husk, who was currently winning at UNO. Husk merely gave a smug grin after putting a skip card down.

"Jesus, this is getting heated." DT muttered. They looked at the three cards in their hand, then placed down a red reverse, turning it back to Husk.

Husk blinked, then looked at DT.

"You bastard." He deadpanned, then reached for the deck. The rule was to draw until you can draw. By now, he drew seven cards, until he placed a red three.

"Bold move, DT." Alastor marvelled. DT smiled as an answer. Stolas was next, and was about to set a card down, before he pulled back.

"...hm." He went into thought, then looked at Blitzø. He sighed, setting down a skip. "Sorry."

"Fuck! You wound me." Blitzø seemed offended, but he really didn't care. Lucifer set down a blue skip, skipping Moxxie.

"Damnit." Moxxie mumbled. Sir Pentious set down a reverse, returning to Moxxie. Moxxie set down a reverse. So did Sir Pentious. It went on two more times.

"Oh my fucking god." Lucifer commented.

"Interesting." Prime watched, calculating his next move. He noticed it was his turn after Sir Pentious finally had to go. Prime looked at the yellow two, then looked at Sea Hawk.

Sea Hawk set down a blue two, saying,

"Uno."

Wait.

Nobody even noticed Sea Hawk and how he was winning.

"Woah." Bow commented. He set down a blue two as well, leaving Alastor stumped.

"Shoot." He muttered, then drew. Nothing good. He drew once again, and then looked at DT. A plus four. He smiled deviously.

"No." DT replied in mock horror. But they too, had a plan up their sleeve.

"Draw four." Alastor set down the card. DT instantly put down a plus four, leaving Husk needing to draw eight.

"Oh, FUCK YOU!" Husk screamed. DT busted into cackling, holding their sides. Alastor laughed, covering his mouth.

"THAT'S ANGEL'S JOB!" DT spoke in between laughter. Blitzø also started laughing.

"Oh my g-AHAHAHAHA!" He gasped for air.

"Oh my God!" Moxxie face palmed. Sir Pentious just watched everything go down. There were arguments that went down, too. A LOT of screaming and cussing.

"What did we create?!" DT got closer to Alastor, a little concerned.

"I don't know!!!" Alastor looked around.

"Hey, guys!" Charlie walked into the hotel to see...well...

Husk holding a chair, Moxxie under a table, Lucifer pinching the bridge of his nose, Sir Pentious blinking slowly, Striker spatting out curses towards Husk and telling him to calm the fuck down, Prime smiling at his daughter skipping into the room, Bow and Sea Hawk screaming, and DT was against Alastor.

"What the hell happened here?" Octavia pulled out her earbuds.

"Uno." Was all DT said.

"Oh no. That's already a disaster." Vaggie deadpanned.

"I wish I was here. It woulda been way worse." Angel Dust laughed. "Buuuut, I did find a nice dress that fit me really well."

"Good for you!" Stolas hummed. "Via, did you find something?"

Octavia nodded.

"Not a dress, but it's something I like." She answered.

"As long as you're comfortable, that's all that matters." Stolas gave a slight smile. Octavia couldn't help but share the smile.

"So, what should we cook for dinner?" Charlie asked. She looked over her shoulder to see Lilith.

"I could make apple pie for dessert." Lilith offered.

"That would be lovely, dear." Lucifer got up to greet his wife. She had her suitcase with her, as well as Lucifer's. "Oh, you have my suitcase."

"We're staying for the wedding, so why not stay here?" Lilith explained.

"You really mean it?!" Charlie beamed. Lilith chuckled.

"I do, little apple." She confirmed. She flinched a bit, but eased when Charlie hugged her tightly.

"Thank you, thank you, thank you!" She squealed.

"Aww, so sweet." DT whispered.

"I could cook tonight." Angel Dust offered. "Risotto, anyone?"

"I've never had risotto. Is it good?" DT wondered.

"Hell yeah, babe." Angel Dust winked. "Husky, you wanna help? I could use it~"

"Happily." Husk grinned. He followed the spider demon into the kitchen.

"I can get started on the pie, too. Luci, you want to join?" Lilith turned to Lucifer.

"I'd love to." Lucifer told her. There was a burning passion in his eyes. The two followed Angel and Husk into the kitchen.

"...you wanna hang out alone?" DT whispered, smirking.

"Sure. We can cuddle." Alastor wrapped his arms around them, nuzzling their neck. DT leaned into the touch, eyes shutting for a brief minute. The two suddenly warped into Alastor's room. They collapsed on the bed, tangled in each other.

Alastor magically shut and locked the door, smiling at DT.

"Locked." He sighed, running his fingers through their hair. The two kissed once, twice, three times. It was slow, then it escalated.

"One quick round, but that's it." DT moaned.

"As you wish." Alastor continued to make out with them, with tongue this time. They pulled away for small gasps, then continued. After a couple minutes, they were now cuddling, with DT taking a small nap.

"Hmm… thank you…" They whispered.

"Not a problem, dear." Alastor kissed the top of their head. "Not a problem at all."

After a bit, there was a knock. Alastor got up to unlock the door and open it. He saw Charlie.

"Hey, we're about to watch Singing in the Rain on the TV downstairs. You wanna watch?" She asked.

"Singing in the Rain?" DT yawned, sitting up. "What's that?"

"A musical that takes place in the Roaring Twenties." Charlie hummed. Alastor perked up, intrigued.

"I guess we can partake in this." He turned to DT. "What do you think?"

"Sure, I'd love to watch." DT got up. They headed to Alastor's side, linking arms with him.

"Great!!" Charlie smiled again. She was like the sun, but her brightness was increasing nowadays. It was… amazing.

DT and Alastor followed her downstairs into the lobby, where a giant TV was set up eitb a DVD player, a bunch of DVDs, some Disney, some musicals, and others were horror films. A variety to choose from.

Vox was seated on the couch, legs crossed. Arielle was cuddled up to him, smiling deeply. DT and Alastor took a seat on the couch as well, all up against each other.

Tonight was special… hell, even family was here. It was all so sweet and comforting.

The smell of risotto and apple pie filled the air. It was heavenly…

Despite being in Hell.

DT knew that after the wedding, it was all over. They were tied down.

They looked at Alastor with sparkling eyes.

They always viewed him as a monster. Charismatic and narcissistic. An absolute beast when killing enemies. Yet he proved to be different.

He proved them that he could sweep the poor shapeshifter off their feet and into his embrace.

His laughter was a song to them. His smile was like a masterpiece. His eyes were like pools of blood that they could drown in, but they would enjoy it.

They enjoyed him.

"Ready to watch, dear?" Alastor brought them out of their thoughts.

"...I am." DT gave the most genuine grin they have ever mustered. It was absolutely blissful to the Radio Demon, because a true smile from them completed his afterlife.

Fuck, even back when he was alive they impressed him. Their soft lips, their personality… ah, it made him sigh out of sheer glee.

He held their hand. The two faced the TV as the movie started playing with a jolly tune.

"Singing in the rain,

Just singing in the rain,

What a glorious feeling I'm having again,

Just singing, singing in the rain…"

It was soothing.

No…

DT's life was now soothing, comfortable, and they found their home in Hell…

Because of the feared Radio Demon.

How the plot shifts…

Unsay These Spoken Words

Chapter Summary

Alastor and DT have a fight that turns into them giggling like fucktards
May upload another chapter later ;)

EDIT 7/8/22: Shoot, sorry, I forgot something!!

The chapter is inspired by the song "Train Wreck" by James Arthur!

Charlie, Vaggie and Nifty helped set the table, with DT and Alastor helping with the food, bringing it from the kitchen onto the table. There was a lot of risotto for everyone to at least have seconds, and the same applied with the apple pie.

"This smells amazing, guys." Arielle sighed. She took a seat next to Vox, putting her own hand on top of his.

"How did this relationship even form?" Angel sat next to Husk.

"Falling for him was like falling from grace." Arielle sighed, content. "Minus the falling from grace part. I'm still an angel."

"Dare I say, a bold one." Vox added on with a flirtatious tone.

"Stop, I'm too single for this." Nifty giggled.

"Aight, everyone. Dig in. Hope ya like it. Husky did a good job~" Angel purred.

Husk rolled his eyes, but at the same time, he flustered.

"Yeah, yeah." He scoffed, holding the back of his neck. "Go ahead and dig in."

And so they did. They passed around the risotto, plating and trying the recipe. It was absolutely delicious.

"This is so good." DT sighed, taking another bite.

"So…" Charlie began. "...do we just want to sit in silence, or have a lively conversation?"

"Sure." DT shrugged with one shoulder. They slowly brought up, "... what'll be next? After the whole… wedding."

"What do you mean, dear?" Alastor blinked. DT poked at the risotto.

"I mean, with the betrothal, it would bring Etheria and Hell together. Uniting them, settling the war… what do we do then?"

Alastor went quiet, then chuckled nervously. He reached for their hand.

"My dear, you'll be living with me, forever..! Now, where's that smile? You know you're never fully dressed without—"

DT yanked their hand away from him.

"Really? That's all you have to say to me?" They scoffed.

"Wh-" Alastor was caught off guard. He didn't know where this was leading to.

Charlie shrank down in her chair, regretting the fight she sparked. Vaggie placed her hand on her shoulder for comfort.

"Face it, Radio Demon: you only chose me for fame, a clean slate from being an absolute bastard with that shit-eating grin." DT sneered. Alastor kept his grin, and it began to sharpen. His true colors were bound to show.

"That is certainly incorrect, Shapeshifter. I had this honor bestowed upon me." His eyes darkened. DT felt intimidated, somewhat like the time they first met him.

"You said it yourself: you weren't interested in love."

"Yet I found you, charming, gorgeous," Alastor began putting his hand underneath their chin. He grabbed their face roughly, nails digging into their flesh. He snarled while still smiling, "and absolute ASSHOLE to those around you."

DT finally smacked his hand away.

"Don't you DARE lay your grubby claw on me like that EVER again." They quipped. "And I would've said no if I could've!"

"Oh my god." Catra watched the drama while eating.

"You know my power. I can be… persuasive." Alastor purred menacingly. DT grimaced, brows furrowed.

"I can still defend myself! And even take you down." They commented, a little smugly. "Ugh, I regret not saying no! I can't STAND being tied down and given away!" They huffed a sigh.

"This was NEVER tying you down! You got to see more things than you would've predicted!" Alastor's grin was now non-existent.

"I never predicted to be a goddamn toy to the Radio Demon, only being used for success and a damned prophecy!" DT threw their hands in the air.

Lilith slowly drank her beverage.

"Never have I treated, or even HURT you in such a way." Alastor crossed his arms. DT looked him dead in the eyes.

"I'm calling bullshit on that… Chasseur." They seethed. Alastor was unnerved on how they used his last name in such a tone, that if he weren't in front of everyone else, he'd cower.

"Oh please. You don't know HOW hard everything was without you by my side!"

"Because I was a damned puppet! A shiny penny on your radio show, used to be shown off! Dakota Taylor, famous actor from England!" DT's voice rose ever so slightly. They took a breath, before standing and almost walking away.

Alastor gripped their arm tightly.

"Because you JUMPED!" He reminded them.

Their eyes widened, then clenched their fists.

The room was dead silent, like a desolate and haunted graveyard.

The shapeshifter turned to him, with fury burning in their eyes.

"...shut. The. Fuck. Up." They backhanded–rather softly, surprisingly–the Radio Demon across the face, with the whole room wincing. They continued, "Don't you EVER say anything like that again."

Alastor stood there, dumbfounded. He caressed his bruised cheek, then balled his hand into a fist. He blinked twice, then faced them.

"...you really choose violence." He let out a breathy and devious laugh.

"I chose LOVE, dumbass. I wanted to love someone for so long, and found you. But now I'm seriously regretting my choice of loving, fuck, even MEETING you!" DT let out their frustration.

"I regret even meeting you! I should've chosen someone else as the betrothed instead of you!" Alastor mirrored their tone. He felt his ears pin on his ears, regretting what he said. DT blinked. Then, they giggled maniacally.

Now, Alastor wished he could unsay the words he spoken.

"Oh, foolish Overlord." They slipped a knife in their sleeve. They paced around him. "That's why you agreed to the betrothal? For fame? To seem larger than life, and possibly receiving more power?" They slid the knife out of their sleeve and gripped the handle. They stood behind him, their eyes glowing. "You've made a grave mistake." They forced the utensil against his neck rather tightly.

Vaggie got up quickly, knocking her chair over. She grabbed her harpoon, ready to defend Charlie and the others. Adora unsheathed her sword, pointing at Alastor.

"We brought weapons to the table?! REALLY?!" Perfuma asked, her tone shaking a bit.

"Sorry, flower, we did." Millie pulled an axe out of underneath the table.

"O-ohhh, my gosh. Okay, this is… this is happening!" Scorpia tensed up.

"Adorable…" Alastor sighed. He gripped their arm, yanking them forward and dipping them. The knife disappeared and reappeared in his hand. He pointed it at their chest. "Yet incredibly naïve."

DT grunted, kicking him in his swimsuit area. Alastor yelped, crumpling into himself. DT then shoved him down, and he collapsed onto his side.

"Nnngh…" Alastor slowly shifted onto his back, then his eyes widened when DT loomed over him. They got on top of him, giving a devilish smirk.

"Aww, did that hurt?" They whispered.

"Very much so, yes." Alastor gave a derpy grin. The stoicism faded slowly. DT tried to remain collected.

"That's what you get for messing-messing-" Their smirk turned into a genuine, tiny grin, looking like they were holding back laughter. They let out a string of incoherent giggles, finally pressing their forehead against Alastor's chest, while he also laughed.

"Continue, continue." Alastor tried to be serious.

"Fucker." DT smacked his chest, then giggled more.

"What in the fuck just happened?" Angel Dust's brows furrowed.

"Bitch, you think I know?" Verosika scoffed.

"Did you two just act that all out?" Vaggie grimaced.

"Oh no, no no, hun. We were actually pissed at each other." DT sighed wistfully. "But then it got out of hand when this dork ruined it!" They gave Alastor a teasing glare. They finally kissed his forehead. "Sorry for kicking you down there, though."

"I'll live." Alastor sighed. "...hey."

"Hm?"

"I'm sorry. For saying all of that. I didn't mean to hurt you, nor did I want fame. I just wanted you."

"Alright, this is too wholesome for my liking." Blitzø huffed out a sigh.

DT helped Alastor off the ground, and the two sat down.

"Hope you enjoyed… whatever the fuck this was." DT rubbed the back of their neck.

"I'm starting to think that y'all need therapy." Striker muttered.

"Are we done fighting, now?" Lucifer brought up. "Any more threats that need to be said, I'm offering it on the table to get it off our chests."

"...I spilled lipstick in Verosika's Valentino white bag while we went out a few hours ago." Angel Dust admitted.

"Wh-what?! LIPSTICK, in MY Valentino white bag?!" Verosika spat.

"No, not really." Angel joked.

"Oh my g-you're a bitch." Verosika rolled her eyes.

"I know." Angel Dust gave a shit-eating grin.

"Hey, he's MY bitch." Husk side-eyed Angel Dust.

"Getting kinky at the table, huh?" Vox was intrigued. Prime kept covering Carina's ears while glaring at the ones who brought up the vile comments.

"There's a child here." He reminded them all.

"Ooh…" Vox toned it down. He gave a nervous laugh, afterwards.

Around twenty minutes flew by, and eating a slice of amazing apple pie, everyone was finished and we're cleaning up the table.

"So, which movie should we watch first?" Charlie brought out the DVD cases. Carina peered at the one that was: Beauty and the Beast.

"Beauty and the Beast!" Carina exclaimed. Charlie giggled.

"Alright, here we go!" She inserted the DVD, then pressed play.

DT snuggled up to Alastor on the couch, the two wrapped in blankets.

They got the idea that the movie was about a young woman falling in love with a beast. Belle, the protagonist, gave her freedom away to save her father. She was to forever remain in the Beast's castle.

But the beast wasn't always like this before. He was a handsome prince who turned down a begging old woman. She turned out to be an enchantress, she cursed him, yada yada yada.

DT looked as Alastor watched intently. His pupils were dilated, as if he was fascinated by this movie. They smiled, cuddling up to him.

They made a mental note.

They were like the Beauty: giving up their life for a heroic cause. And Alastor was like the Beast: a terrifying individual who was misunderstood.

The romance was blooming as the two spent more and more time with each other. They even had a dance that was quite blissful.

I found my Beast. DT pondered. …I guess that means I'm his Beauty then. Do I mind it?

"No." They told themself inaudibly. "Not at all."

Tale As Old As Time

Chapter Summary

Short and sweet, hoes affectionate

I love y'all to bits and pieces <3

Song used: Beauty and the Beast: covered by Black Gryph0n

https://youtu.be/AGmm6w_ic58

Hope you enjoy this chapter!!! :D

DT didn't remember falling asleep.

When they woke up, they noticed Alastor cuddled up to them. He was nuzzling their neck, while wrapping his arms around their waist.

A song was stuck in their head. They hummed it for a moment.

Alastor's ears perked up when he heard them.

"Humming the song from Beauty and the Beast?" He brought them out of their thoughts.

"Yeah." DT turned to him, head against his chest. "It's… soothing."

There was sounds of the radio dialing up, and the soft, orchestrated music from the movie tuned in.

"You… put it on for me?" DT grinned. Alastor shared the smile.

"Indeed I did." He remarked. "Funny, I've watched the movie with them before. I found that picture show quite interesting."

DT giggled.

"Picture show?" They asked. Alastor blushed out of a bit of embarrassment.

"Old slang…" He chuckled. He then pushed himself up, and brought them closer. Gently pulled them on his lap, and he stroked their hair. "Mind if I sing it to you?"

"Please do, Al." DT sighed, but it sounded like a hum. "I love your voice. Not the one behind the radio, rather your real one."

Alastor blinked.

"No… radio overtone to it?"

"No." DT leaned against his chest. Alastor nodded.

"Alright…" He took a breath.

"Tale as old as time,

True as it can be,

Barely even friends,

Then somebody bends,

Unexpectedly…"

There was a small shake to his tone. He was never this nervous… Why was it different?

"Just a little change,

Small to say the least,

Both a little scared,

Neither one prepared,

Beauty and the Beast,"

Alastor continued with passion, yet his voice remained so soft, so gentle.

"Ever just the same,

Ever a surprise,

Ever as before,

Ever just as sure as the sun will rise,"

DT wrapped their arms around him, grabbing his free hand.

"Tale as old as time,

Tune as old as song,

Bittersweet and strange,

Finding you can change,

Learning you were wrong…"

I guess we did change…. Alastor pondered to himself. He started thinking of how they started out together.

Enemies, rather. Yet he always found DT so… so fascinating. And familiar… he liked their wit and feistiness at first. Now, he's head over heels for that, and just them in general.

"Certain as the sun,

Rising in the east,

Tale as old as time,

Song as old as rhyme,

Beauty and the Beast…"

DT was fast asleep by now, sighing silently. They were comfortable and content. Alastor continued to run his hand through their hair.

"Tale as old as time,

Song as old as rhyme…

Beauty… and the Beast…"

The music faded pleasantly, and there was silence.

Alastor kissed their forehead, before covering them, and himself up with the blankets.

…they're MY Beauty... That would make me their Beast, then... He told himself. He brushed a strand of hair from their face. He cuddled them, eyes finally shutting.

"Goodnight, love." He told them. Now, he kind of wanted a dance like in the movie. But then…

He had THEM, so he's content either way.

He looked at the clock, seeing it was 11pm. He finally went to sleep, holding them close.

Tomorrow will be relaxed. Hopefully.

UPDATE #2

Chapter Summary

!!! IMPORTANT AUTHOR'S NOTE !!!

Heyyyyyyy

So, I've been fixing stuff from previous chapters, and I thought that something was missing. So I made a quick Chapter Twenty Eight: Part Two. Go check that out, it's called Loss Part Two: Melancholy

Thanks for all the reads!!!! Love y'all, byeeeeeeeeee

Dressing the Part: Part Two: Electric Boogaloo

Chapter Summary

Here it is! :D

There's mentions of infidelity, angst, and a shit ton more.

Enjoy~

It was around time for Alastor to get up, and he would've with ease…

If it weren't for Double Trouble clinging to him.

He giggled, purely amused. Finally, he heard their groggy voice.

"Five more minutes? You're so warm~" They muttered.

"... okay, five more minutes." Alastor laid back down, cuddling them.

Five minutes later, the door to Alastor's room opened to see…

Lucifer?

"Ah, the 'five more minutes' trick." He sighed, understanding the situation. Alastor sat up slowly, then nodded. He carefully got out of bed. He summoned a pen and paper, quickly wrote down a note. He kissed DT's forehead quickly, before snapping his fingers. He was in his usual snazzy red suit, with black pants this time.

"Let's go." He and the King of Hell left the room.

You see, the boys were ready to get all fancy, and get some nice outfits for the wedding.

DT planned to stay at the hotel again, hanging with the ladies and Angel Dust. It was going to be a relaxing day for them. Put on a movie in the background, play a few games, maybe even makeovers.

Whatever it may be, it'll be fun!

***

"For the last time Angel, I'm not looking like a pimp." Alastor groaned after around twenty minutes, tilting his head back. They had gotten into the limo and started driving off.

"If you were a pimp, that would make DT your whore." Vox spoke in between coughs. He yelped when Alastor slapped his arm.

"Girls, girls, shut the fuck up." Husk grumbled.

"Excuse you-" Vox began.

"This is what we'll be dealing with." Stolas mumbled.

"Without a doubt." Prime whispered back.

"Acting like a bunch of children, I guess." Alastor sighed, staring out the window. The ride was filled with lively and rather friendly conversations, with a few jokes thrown in here and there. Finally, they made it to the shop, and Donatello threw the doors open.

"Welcome, gentlemen~" He purred, grinning madly. "Radio Demon ~" He casted a jokingly flirtatious wink.

Alastor smiled pleasantly, walking in with everyone else.

***

DT had gotten ready for the day, but noticed Alastor left them a note:

Hello, my love! I'm out choosing an outfit for the wedding with the others. I'll be back soon!

Love you~

Avec amour, Alastor.

DT smiled, folding the note and setting it on their nightstand. They left the room, then took the elevator down to the lobby. After a couple minutes, the elevator doors opened. They walked out, then went left towards the lobby.

"Morning, DT!" Charlie exclaimed. "The guys already left this morning. So, now it's just us!"

"Nice to know." DT walked over to see everyone sitting on the floor. There were multiple makeup dispensers and boxes–half of them were from Angel Dust–and there were even some spa supplies.

"Can you put my makeup on?" Carina asked.

"Of course I can, little star." Arielle smiled gently.

"DT, I choose you." Angel pointed at them.

"They're not a Pokèmon, Angel." Vaggie teased.

"And your name's not Vagina, yet here we are."

"Oh my god." Loona facepalmed.

"This is… rather weird." Octavia watched all of this. "Why did I get myself wrapped up in this?"

"Because your dad wanted you here." Verosika reminded her.

"True." Octavia went into thought. There was a knock at the door, leaving Charlie confused.

"Coming!" She exclaimed, rushing to the door. She opened it, then her eyes went wide.

A tall eldritch demoness with almost pure white hair that was quite large. Her skin was soft gray, contrasting against her harsh and glaring dark teal and electric yellow eyes. She wore her usual black mini skirt, but she had on a black coat with green fur on the cuffs and collar. She had no smile on her features.

She also carried two suitcases, and had multiple bags dangling from both arms.

"Helsa…?" Charlie stepped back. Helsa gave a smirk, but it faded.

"Hey, Barbie doll." She teased lightly. She walked in, unannounced. But she seemed… a little less confident than usual. Which is saying something because usually Helsa is a stuck up prim and prissy bitch.

"Helsa, I thought you…" Charlie shut the door. Helsa casted a glare towards her. It slowly morphed into something a bit more melancholic.

"Turns out daddy used Seviathan and I." She admitted with her voice lowered. "He only wanted power, which is normal for rich families. But… he treated both of us like shit to no end, and mama was too busy having an affair with the butler to give a fuck. Sev and I were grabbing as much as we could, then booked it, and… I came here, because you seem to be the only welcoming person." She sighed. "If you tell ANYONE this I'll beat your ass."

"Understood." Charlie noted. "Lemme find you a room." She rushed to the front desk, then saw a room key. Luckily for Helsa, it was one of the suites. She turned to face her, then gave her the key. "Room 713 on the third floor."

"Mmkay." Helsa sighed, then started walking to the elevator, silent.

"Wait." Charlie stopped her gently. "Where did Sev go?"

"He followed the limousine to that fancy dress shop. That's where everyone else is, yeah?" Helsa turned to her.

"...as much as I don't like Seviathan, I-I can't turn you or him down." Charlie started. "Stay as long as needed, okay?"

Helsa blinked. She actually was… touched? Relieved? In shock? All of those things combined, really.

"Thanks, Barbie doll." Was all she said. She turned back to the elevator and pressed the button for the doors to open. She went in, and closed the doors.

"... who's that?" Loona wondered.

"Helsa von Eldritch. Eldest child in the Eldritch family." Lilith answered. "Our families are still close to this day, but Charlie and Seviathan, Helsa's brother, are exes. They had… quite the toxic relationship I'm glad Charlie got out of." She looked over her shoulder at her daughter. "I couldn't stand to see my little apple hurt."

"Hm." DT gave a thoughtful hum. "Should we have her join us?"

Vaggie blinked.

"Really?" She wasn't snotty, just… rather surprised.

"...your girlfriend is having an influence on me." DT muttered. Lilith smiled at their response.

"As she should, for demons like you. I mean, I'm assuming you're an Etherian demon." Vaggie smirked, and they cracked a smile.

"I am quite demonic." They winked at her.

"Can confirm. You killed Alastor's henchmen." Glimmer budded in.

"I did." DT's smile remained.

"And I'm concerned about them." Scorpia deadpanned. She seemed… traumatized.

Meanwhile, Helsa went up to her hotel room and pulled out a flask from her purse. She drank from it, before sighing.

Damn this whisky for being so good.

She capped the flask and put it away, then flopping onto the bed. She was too tired to unpack, but too invigorated to lay down and do nothing.

Yet a part of her wanted to go downstairs to see whatever the fuck was going on.

****

"So, how do I look?" Sir Pentious slithered out with a frilly white dress shirt. The cuffs were frilled extra. "Though I do feel rather dapper and extraordinary in this."

"Pretty good." Vox nodded.

"You look like a fucking unused tampon." Blitzø was to the point, which made the TV demon cackle.

"Rude!" Sir Pentious hissed.

"It's kinda true though." Blitzø shrugged.

"I think he has class." Moxxie tried defending the noodle snake.

"Of course you'd say that, Mox." Blitzø rolled his eyes. He flinched when a random hand touched him. "Ayo, get your filthy dick beater away from m-oh." He then realized it was Stolas, in a dark, almost gothic-like suit. The shirt was dark gray, with the pants being black, as well as his dress shirt that was unbuttoned to show his chest.

"How do I look Blitzy?" His voice was rather sultry.

Blitzø blinked at his appearance.

"Well I'll be damned." His voice lowered, eyes somewhat wide. "It actually suits you well."

"Why thank you." Stolas sat beside him.

After a few minutes with Stolas and Blitzø flirting with each other, Alastor finally announced,

"Okay… here it is."

The guys turned to face him step out, in a black suit. It seemed to be made out of satin, and he had on a white undershirt. His pants were dark crimson, and he had on white gloves. He chose some shiny shoes to go with the outfit.

"Ooh." Husk stiffened a bit. "You actually look good."

"Thanks, Husker." Alastor held the back of his own neck.

"At least you don't look like the noodle tampon over here." Blitzø snorted, and Sir Pentious scoffed.

"Plebeian." He snarked.

"Don't fucking talk to him like that." Stolas deadpanned.

Striker whistled.

"Didn't expect you to look this spiffy. But damn." He commented. He had on a white tuxedo with a black lapel. It still had a bit of cowboy style to this suit. Yet he still looked rather formal.

"Crop top suit?" Moxxie looked at Bow. Bow nodded.

"This was similar to the suit I wore to Princess Prom." He told him.

"Oh yeah." Sea Hawk remembered.

"Princess Prom?" Alastor blinked.

"Exactly in the name. Catra stole Glimmer and I, with Shadow Weaver potentially hurting Glimmer." Bow explained.

"O. Kay." Moxxie sighed.

"Lookin' good, Radio Daddy." Donatello giggled.

"Uhh, don't call me that please." Alastor gave a nervous laugh.

"Yeah, only DT calls him that!" Blitzø exclaimed. Alastor's face turned bright red.

"BLITZØ!!!" He yelled.

"I'm not wrong though!"

"I AM ABOUT TO MURDER YOU AND YOUR GOETIA FUCKBOY-"

"Why are you bringing ME into this?!" Stolas scoffed.

"Yeah, keep him out of this!" Blitzø stood up for the Goetia prince.

Suddenly, someone walked into the shop, and everyone turned to see who it was.

Lucifer was immediately defensive, eyes narrowing dangerously. He finally growled out in a dark, threatening tone that made the group shrink back,

"SEVIATHAN."

****

Helsa watched as Angel Dust applied eyeshadow on DT. It was a dark cyan, with a light dab of subtle glitter.

"Hm. The pornstar prettying up the Radio Demon's betrothed?" She commented. "I mean, they already look smokin' hot, but hey."

"...did you just say I'm smoking hot?" DT blinked.

"Yeah." Helsa smirked. DT smiled.

"They really are." Angel got them flustered, and he cackled.

"They do look really nice." Charlie admitted, with Vaggie nodding in agreement.

"Well, thank you." DT sighed a bit.

"Aight, now time for a nail job." Angel Dust looked through a case of nail polish. They pulled out a dark green nail polish, then unscrewed the cap. He dipped the brush, then started applying the polish.

"So, tell me about being destined to the Radio Demon." Helsa smirked, wanting to stir some shit.

"He's rather romantic, and charming, of course." DT began.

"I bet he only used you for power." Helsa grinned, brows narrowing. DT scoffed.

"I believe the same goes with your father, Helsa." They replied with a cutting tone, and a cold glare.

Helsa fell silent. She frowned, touchy with that subject. Yet she did start this, but it still stung.

"Nevermind… forget I said that." She mumbled.

"...that was bad on my part. I shouldn't have said that." DT interjected.

"No, no. It was only a comeback from me." Helsa added.

"But I should've known you had an issue with my comment.

"Are we just going to banter like this?"

"Maybe."

"Okay then. But realize this is only getting repetitive."

Helsa paused.

"Too shay." She shrugged. Charlie walked in, only for Husk to video call her.

"Husk?" She was rather surprised.

"Rainbow, your dad's going batshit crazy, and the tailor-" Husk began. Blitzø continued,

"Donatello's getting hard over big apple daddy losing it!"

"Blitzø!" Alastor smacked his head. "That's the KING of Hell you're talking about!"

"Luci, darling!" Lilith got up, standing up and heading next to her child. "What is the ruckus?"

"Seviathan, ma'am." Moxxie interjected.

"Oh shit." Charlie sighed.

"I'm not tryin' to ruin anything, I just needed to-HOLY SHIT! THE PLEBEIAN IMP HAS A GUN!" Seviathan screamed. There was a lot of commotion going on.

DT took a breath. They felt a bit tense with everything going on in the background. Angel Dust took notice of this, and grabbed their hand gently.

"Have you ever got an acting gig? I know you're dramatic, and I've been meaning to ask you this." He tried to have the shapeshifter focus on the question he asked.

"Not really, no. I had to do something with espionage, with spying on the Rebellion." DT answered, giving a small shrug. "I disguised myself as a pink little fairy named Flutterina."

"Interesting." Angel Dust leaned back against the lobby couch.

"I got caught, unfortunately." DT sighed.

"Don't fucking touch me!" They could hear Seviathan scream.

"What in the world…?" Lilith was rather concerned by this.

"Sevvy!" Helsa got up to be in view of the camera. "Sevvy, call down. Daddy isn't there. He's not there, he won't hurt ya."

"...shit… shit, shit, shit." Sev's voice went soft. He had acted out majorly, thinking that his father was there. Was it the way he was held that triggered what he felt?

"I'm coming over there." Helsa finally put her foot down. "Charlie, can you drive me there?"

"Say no more. I actually do have a spare car I can drive." Charlie went to grab her car keys, then left with the eldritch demoness.

"...what do you think has gotten him in such a vulnerable state? What did his father do to him?" Arielle wondered. DT furrowed their brows, going deep in thought.

"What do you think it is?" Loona set her phone down, ears flicking.

"Abuse is one of the main possibilities. He could've been sexually assaulted, neglected, or far worse." DT lowered their voice. "I'm not going to assume anything else, other than the fact that Seviathan's father has something to do with this."

The room went silent.

"... let's no longer talk about this." DT decided. "After all, we can still have a fun day, right?"

"Right!" Carina stood up. "Can we watch something?"

"Like what, sweetie? Sleeping Beauty?" Vaggie got up to get the DVDs.

"Yeah!" Carina giggled.

"Aww, cute." DT mumbled. After a few minutes or so, Sleeping Beauty was playing in the background, but everyone was pretty much talking.

"The guy was a total dick." Verosika finished with a scoff, putting on some red lipstick. It made her lips pop with color.

"Should we tone down the cussing?" Cherri Bomb looked at the little angel.

"She's already heard so much, it can't hurt to let her listen more." Arielle shrugged. "Just don't talk about intercourse."

"What's intercourse?" Carina asked.

"NOTHING!" Everyone answered quickly.

"Oh, I remember back when I was still wit' Valentino, Cherri would bust me outta the studios and blow shit up!" Angel reminisced. DT swallowed a bit after hearing the name.

"How bad was this man to you?" Lilith questioned.

"Real bad. He'd punished me for making the smallest of mistakes. I make a wrong move, his hands are on m'body, taking his frustration out on me." Angel Dust sneered, closing the nail polish. "He would do the same with Vox, and a buncha broads."

Stop talking, please. DT's head screamed. Don't put me back to that night. Please, for the love of God.

"How long did this last?" Verosika kept her voice low.

"Over seventy years, toots. Glad the fucka's dead." Angel Dust sighed. Nobody noticed DT getting up to leave… except Lilith.

She followed them into the hall, and her heart squeezed a bit when she heard them collapse and start whispering frantically, their breathing uneven.

She sat down beside them, taking their hands. DT gazed into her eyes.

"Breathe…" Lilith calmed them down. "It's okay. I'm right here. If you need to vent, speak up. If you need to cry, do it. Anything you need to do in the moment, do it."

And DT just… shut down after that. Her motherly touch and soothing was enough for them to burst into crying. They leaned against her, burying their face into her shoulder.

"That's it…" She pulled them close, as if she was embracing them. She rubbed their back slowly and in a rhythmic pattern. She heard their frantic sobs and quickened breathing. What had triggered THEM?

Ah.

Valentino.

"... you'll get through this. I know you will." The Queen of Hell told them. She tilted their chin up, wiping their tears. "You're brave, strong, and witty enough to find your happy place, with freedom."

"R-really?" DT sniffed. Lilith nodded. She held them closer to her, not letting go.

"If I'm hugging you tight, do let me know. I have a tendency to squish Charlie with my hugs whenever I'm overprotective of her." Lilith let out a small chuckle, and DT giggled.

"No, Your Majesty. I think I'm okay." They replied.

"Good." Lilith slowly pulled away. "Excuse me for a second, dear." She got up and walked into the lobby, and DT could hear Angel apologizing, realizing that he triggered DT. He wasn't even in the right headspace to notice they left.

…People here aren't so bad… in this hotel, at least.

***

After Charlie and Helsa picked up Seviathan and drove him back to the hotel wordlessly, the others were paying for their outfits and leaving.

"That was rather interesting." Alastor admitted. "Although I'm a bit worried about Seviathan."

"Yeah, what's got his sea tentacles in a twist?" Blitzø leaned back, but decided to lay down on Stolas's lap.

"Perhaps trauma?" Stolas caressed Blitzø's horns.

"Maybe. I dunno." Bow chimed in. "But… who really IS Seviathan?"

"Some sea prince, from hearing the joke Blitzø made." Sea Hawk assumed.

"Seviathan von Eldritch… he used to date my daughter, but the two never worked out. Yet our families are still in close contact." Lucifer informed. "Though, his and Helsa's father nor mother got in touch with us as of recently."

"Strange." Stolas gave a small hum.

"Indeed." Prime agreed. "Something happens for a reason."

"Like villainy, divorce, or any motive, really." Alastor brought up. Prime nodded.

Soon, they'll find out what happened, and it's… rather upsetting.

1300+ Hits Special! Incorrect Quotes!

Chapter Summary

Incorrect Quotes among these people!! :D

Thanks for all the reads, love y'all <3

DT: Screams

Alastor : Screams louder to assert dominance

Adora: Should we do something?!

Catra, observing: No, I want to see who wins this.

****

DT is cooking

Alastor : Any chance that’s for me?

DT: It’s for Catra. I’m planning on making some bad choices tonight, and I need them on my side.

Adora: I never realized the forethought that went into being a disappointment.

****

DT: Alastor, I'm sad.

Alastor : Holds out arms for a hug It’s going to be okay.

Adora: Catra, I'm sad.

Catra, nodding: mood.

DT: Posts a super low-quality image to the group chat

Alastor : If I had a dollar for every pixel in this image, I’d have 15 cents

DT: If I had a dollar for every ounce of rage I felt in my body after I read this text, I would have enough money to buy a cannon to fire at you

Adora: Actually I did the math, Alastor would have $225, not $0.15.

Alastor : Fam I’m right here....

Catra: If I had a dollar I would buy a can of soda :)

DT: while you’re there could you buy me an apply juice please?

Catra: Sorry I only have a dollar

DT: :(

Adora: Hey I just realized my friend is right, Alastor would have $22,500 because it's a dollar for every pixel, not a cent

Catra: If I had $22,500 I would buy a can of soda and an apply juice

Adora: You can buy anything you want with $22,500

Angel Dust : Yeah and they want soda and apply juice

Adora: Apply juice to what

Husk: Directly to the forehead

Alastor : Great chat everyone

****

The squad right before DT's and Alastor's wedding

Alastor : Well I have to go, I have a wedding to attend...wait...

Adora: Wait... Oh! I have a wedding to attend too!

Catra: Oh, I have a wedding to attend as well

Angel Dust : I THINK WE ALL HAVE WEDDINGS TO ATTEND

Husk, panicked: I THINK I HAVE A WEDDING TO OFFICIATE

Alastor, now realizing and freaking the fuck out: I'M THE ONE HAVING THE WEDDING!

****

DT: You love me, right, Alastor ?

Alastor: ...normally, I'd say yes without hesitation, but I feel like this is going somewhere and I don't like it.

****

DT: So what’s for dinner?

Alastor, staring at the food they just burnt due to being distracted: Regret.

DT: You're 'the second worst thing to ever happen to those orphans', what does that mean?

Alastor : It means i was second worst thing to happen to those orphans.

DT: but what’s the first worst thing?

Awkward pause

Alastor : DT, they...they weren’t always orphans.

DT:

DT, realizing: ...oh.

****

DT: Treat spiders the way you want to be treated.

Alastor : Killed without hesitation.

DT: NO-

****

DT: I CAN'T DO IT!

Alastor , laughing: I CAN'T EITHER!

DT: I CANT FUCKING DO IT ANYMORE

Charlie: WELL I'LL TELL YOU WHAT, YOU CAN EITHER GIVE UP NOW, OR YOU CAN FIGURE IT OUT. BECAUSE WE CERTAINLY CAN'T DO IT WITHOUT YOU, AND WE KNOW YOU CAN'T DO IT WITHOUT US.

DT:

DT: I appreciate it,

DT: BUT LOOK WHAT WE'RE DEALING WITH-

Vaggie : DT-

DT: YOU GOTTA DRAW THE LINE SOMEWHERE!

Angel Dust : DT we gotta-

DT: YOU GOTTA DRAW A FUCKING LINE IN THE SAND. YOU GOTTA MAKE A STATEMENT.

DT: YOU GOTTA LOOK INSIDE YOURSELF AND SAY 'What am I willing to put up with today?'

DT, motioning to Micahel: NOT FUCKING THIS!

****

Alastor : You're the love of my life and my best friend, I would do anything for you.

DT: I want you to eat three meals a day and have a decent sleep schedule.

Alastor : Absolutely not.

****

Alastor : Is something burning?

DT: Just my love for you.

Alastor : DT, the toaster is on fire.

****

Alastor : Oh just so you know, it's very muggy outside

DT:

DT: Alastor , I swear, if I step outside and all of our mugs are on the front lawn...

Alastor : Sips coffee from bowl

****

Cop: You’re receiving a ticket for having three people on one motorcycle.

DT: Shit.

Alastor : Wait, three?

Cop: Yeah?

Arielle: OH MY GOD VOX FELL OFF!!!

****

Arielle: Why are DT and Alastor sitting with their backs to each other?

Vox: They had a fight.

Arielle: Then why are they holding hands?

Vox: They get sad when they fight.

****

DT: Self care is actually getting into fights with randoms in dark alleys.

Arielle : No, self care is stuff like taking a bubble bath, or putting on a lot of makeup if you like it, or taking a nice warm nap!

Alastor: Self care is the burning heat when rage washes over you!! Self care is when you feel the bones crack under your powerful fists!! Self care is the fear in your enemies' eyes!!!

Vox: Lmao self care is taking your birthday cake just so I can eat the frosting.

DT: If you touch my birthday cake I'll make you eat your hands.

****

DT: I just ended a four year relationship.

Alastor : Oh, I’m so sorry. Are you okay?

DT: Hm? Oh yeah, I’m fine. It wasn’t my relationship.

Arielle and Vox fighting from across the room

****

DT: Is stabbing someone immoral?

Alastor : Not if they consent to it.

Vox: Depends who you’re stabbing.

Arielle: YES?!?

Chaos and Conversation

Chapter Summary

> Sorry it's been a hot minute! I needed to deal with some personal stuff, and my grandma being a b-uh, wOnderful person :'/
>
> Here's the chapter, enjoy!! ❤️

"We're back!" Alastor chimed in, then paused after hearing a lot of laughter.

Angel Dust was doing this strange dance and stopped in the middle of it once Husk came into the room.

"Angel?" Husk blinked.

"Uh-" Angel's face turned bright red. "Eheh." He sat back down.

DT was giggling profusely, obviously much calmer after getting triggered from Valentino. Alastor grinned deviously, then warped behind them and scooped them into a hug.

"Hello my darling." He purred.

"Ooh~" Helsa leaned back, intrigued. "Hey, you two are kinda lovey dovey for being betrothed."

"Yeah. We kinda fell for each other, as we tell everyone." DT smiled when Alastor nuzzled their neck. "Okay Alastor, didn't expect you to be like this." They held his hands.

"Wasn't he touch-aversed?" Charlie took a drink from her water bottle.

"I was. I just didn't really find the right person." Alastor smiled broadly. "I found the love of my afterlife."

"Ugh, so sappy." Helsa teased.

"Yeah, we're sappy, get over it." DT smirked. Alastor chuckled, pulling DT closer to him, and they were even on his lap.

"Mind if I hold you right here?" He asked them.

"I mean, it's kinda already happening, so…" DT shrugged.

"By the way, I usually don't do this, but… sorry about Sev." The eldritch demoness blurted out. "With the whole outburst. He usually doesn't do that."

"Where is he now?" Vaggie wondered.

"In the room next to Helsa's." Charlie told her. "He's taking a nap, from the last time I checked on him."

"Erm, what caused him to react so poorly?" Stolas was careful with his word choice.

"Abuse." Helsa sighed, burrowing the bottom half of her mouth into the palm of her hand. She continued, a bit muffled, "Daddy's been angry with us. Not fulfilling the legacy properly, apparently. Momma cheating with the butler didn't help, especially when she got pregnant."

"Oh my god." DT blinked. "How far long?"

"Three months. Daddy doesn't know, only Sev and I know. Oh, and the butler."

"Holy shit! Wait, how long has she been having an affair with the butler?"

"For around… five months."

"...I'm so sorry." The shapeshifter fidgeted uncomfortably.

"Why are YOU sorry?" Helsa crossed her arms.

"For everything that's going on, that's all." DT told her. Helsa merely sighed.

"You get used to it." Was all she told them. DT pursed their lips.

"...should we talk to Sev? Is he doing okay now?" They held their arm.

"It's up to you." Helsa told them. "Knock yourself out, troublesome little snake." She winked, adding a bit of light to the moment. DT rolled their eyes and smiled, but headed down the hall, but was stopped.

"Room 715!" Helsa guided.

"Thanks!" DT then headed to the elevator, then up to the third floor. They exited, then walked down the hall again to Room 715. They knocked on the door, waiting for a response.

There was footsteps, then the click of the lock. There was Seviathan, with his disheveled, dark sea green hair, and overall appearance looked like he was a drunken bachelor.

"Who are you?" He asked, defensive.

"The name's Double Trouble." DT leaned against the doorframe. "I've heard from your sister about… what was going on. You okay?"

Seviathan blinked.

"Of course I am!" He didn't seem to be fine. "What makes you think-"

"You're upset over your dad." DT was to the point. Seviathan froze.

"And a lowlife like YOU heard that from MY sister?" He scoffed, turning his head away.

"Well, young prince." DT grinned, a little maliciously. "You should bite your tongue, considering you're talking to one of the saviors of your home."

Seviathan then tilted his head back to them. The Envy Prince didn't even know how to respond.

"You… you're the betrothed." He cursed himself for stammering, but he couldn't help it. He smiled a bit, looking at them up and down. "Looking like a fine gem, I see."

"Excuse me?" The shapeshifter asked.

"The body, the looks, the eyes…" Seviathan clarified. "God, those eyes are like gold."

"Thank you, buuuut," DT pointed at the engagement ring on their finger.

"I know. But if you WERE single, I'd take you as my own~"

"Ugh." DT rolled their eyes. "Well… you wanna come down?"

The Envy Prince faltered. He crossed his arms for a moment, then uncrossed them.

"...I guess I can partake in whatever antics you choose." He told them. DT smiled.

"C'mon, then." They led him to the elevator, then went down. After a couple minutes, the doors opened to see Husk and Alastor on the ground… wrestling?

"What the fu…" DT walked into the lobby to see Alastor pinned on the ground.

"I may be old, but I'm strong enough to hold a man down!" Husk laughed, but was kicked in the chest by the Radio Demon.

"But I know a few moves!" Alastor came back a bit stronger.

"Boys, boys, why did you have to do this?" DT sighed.

"Have you not met them?" Angel Dust joked. "Husky wrestles me in bed all the time~"

"And I'll do it tonight, too." Husk smirked.

"In front of the kid? Really?" Arielle mumbled. She smiled a bit when Vox pulled her closer.

"So, what should we do? After…this blows over." DT gestured to Husk and Alastor. "Seriously, what the fuck happened?"

"Blitzø bet ten dollars I can keep Alastor down for thirty seconds or more." Husk informed. He slammed onto Alastor, then started counting.

"Vice versa!" Alastor croaked. He flipped himself on top of the cat demon, then restarted the countdown.

"Ugh." DT muttered. "I leave for two minutes and there's already this-"

"OW, HUSKER, THAT'S MY THIGH!" Alastor screamed.

"I thought DT was the only one allowed to touch you like that." Blitzø waved the ten dollar bill in the air.

"Twenty dollars, I can wrestle for a minute." DT jumped in.

"Wait what?" Alastor and Husk froze.

"Deal!" Blitzø slapped twenty dollars in DT's hand. DT then jumped into action, now on top of Alastor.

"What the FUCK-" Husk scooted out of the way. Now Alastor and DT was wrestling, with DT on top of him, pinning him down after a while of squirming.

Both were panting, with DT holding Alastor's wrists against the floor. Their legs were spread out, with Alastor's torso in between, like they were sitting on him.

"Surrender?" They inched closer to his face.

"Yes~" Alastor breathed. "Except…" He broke from their grip and rolled himself and them, so they were on their back. "Back at ya, son of a bitch." He meant no ill intentions when saying that.

"We'll see who's the son of a bitch!" DT dominated again, in the same position they were before Alastor put them on their back.

"Oh yes we will~" Alastor chuckled. The two then pressed their lips together, then pulled away quickly.

"Hmm." DT hummed. "I still won."

"I believe so. Well played~" The Radio Demon remained pleased.

"Thank you." DT then got up, grabbing his hand and pulling him up. They wrapped their arms around his shoulders, and Alastor wrapped his arms around their waist. They pressed their foreheads together, standing in silence for a moment. DT reached their hand out for Blitzø, and he gave them the twenty dollars.

"Twenty dollars didn't go to waste." Blitzø shrugged.

"Sure didn't." Husk stretched a bit. "So, what's the plan now?"

"We have enough leftovers, I believe." Charlie got up. "Sev, Helsa, is that alright with you?"

"Sure." Helsa didn't seem too affected. Seviathan just nodded as a response.

"Though I may eat some later." He got up, then wordlessly left the room.

"Not used to him being like this." Vaggie mumbled.

"Well, we always have tomorrow." Charlie remained hopeful. "Now, we can just continue planning the wedding and reception."

"Right." DT nodded, then played with their engagement ring.

"What's the matter?" Alastor wondered, pulling them closer.

"Nothing, just a little fidgety, is all." DT told him. Well, that was technically the truth. Alastor gave them a look of knowing they were lying, but he wasn't going to get into it with them. Instead, he gave them a small peck on the cheek.

"Alright. But I worry about you sometimes." Alastor reminded them.

"I know." DT leaned against him. "I know…"

****

After a while, nighttime rolled around. DT and Alastor were now cuddling with each other. Well, Alastor was reading his novel, all while stroking DT's hair. There was some nice classical music playing in the background.

"Alastor…" DT began, a bit sleepily. "About earlier…"

"Hm…" Alastor's ears perked up, and he closed his novel. "Go on."

"...I'm just worried about the wedding." DT admitted. "What'll happen next? Do we just settle down, or travel, start a family, what do we do? It's plaguing me to know if… we'll still be… I dunno…"

Alastor pulled them close to him, laying down.

"Dear, I'll be more than happy to do anything with you." He told them. "And don't worry about if we'll still be as romantic as this. I'll be loving you to the point where you're sickened by me." He gave a dorky grin. DT giggled, nuzzling his neck.

"Thank you for the reassurance." They finally sighed. They rested their hand on his chest for a moment, then closed their eyes. "I love you. I really do."

"I love you too, my dear Dakota." Alastor hummed, kissing their forehead. He turned off the lights and laid down with them, holding them against him. He made sure that they were safe no matter what.

At least they didn't have to worry about anything bad anymore…

Daddy Issues, Devastation, Delusions and Decorations: Part One: Daddy Issues

Chapter Summary

wheEEHEHEHEHEHEEEÈEEEÈË

I'm posting a four part chapter for the past few days, so watch out for it! Hope I don't clog your notifs 🥲

TW: Implied familial abuse.

Song used: Everything Stays by Olivia Olson

Hope you enjoy!! ❤️

That night was too much.

There was a phone call Seviathan received, which made him scream and chuck his phone at the wall. He slammed his back against the wall across from his phone. He curled into himself, grabbing his head.

His father Frederick had only called to scream insults and threats at him, asking where he and Helsa were. Not only that, but in the background was his mother Bethesda screaming at his father.

She seemed to be backing Seviathan and Helsa up, but Frederick found out about the pregnancy.

"You SLUT!" Frederick screamed, not away he was still calling Seviathan. "I'M KILLING THAT FUCKING BUTLER!"

"NO, D-" Bethesda was silenced by a ground breaking slap and thud. Sev's eyes went wide, and he pressed both hands up to his mouth. His breathing was ragged, with pure terror showing on his face.

Momma would always get hit by daddy, even when we were young… He pondered. It just wasn't as prominent until we were older.

Helsa knocked on the door and opened it, hearing the arguments. She went silent, shutting the door behind her. She sat beside Sev, pulling him close into a hug. She allowed him to bury his face into the furry hood part of her coat. She remained still at the second slapping noise echoing, whilst Sev flinched, trembling.

As the elder sibling, Helsa grew used to the arguments and toxicity. She would always take Sev away from the conflict, so he wouldn't grow to be traumatized.

"It was BECAUSE you didn't do JACK SHIT IN BED!" Bethesda retorted. "I needed someone to LOVE me, make me feel special! You're a pathetic excuse for a man!"

"We're getting a divorce!" Frederick announced, but his wife wasn't affected.

"Fine. Then I want you OUT of this palace, and AWAY from MY kids!" Bethesda screamed.

Helsa and Seviathan are shaken out of their thoughts.

Divorce…?

As much as they knew it would happen, they didn't expect the reaction of their mother.

They gazed at each other.

The call ended with a beep, then there was silence.

"...at least Momma's on our side." Helsa joked lightly. She blinked at Sev, who seemed to be breaking down almost silently. "Hey, hey… you're okay. It'll be okay, remember what I'd say and do? Whenever Momma and Daddy would fight on those cool summer nights?"

"A little…" Sev pulled away, somewhat drained. Helsa smiled, almost melancholic. She then began to sing…

"Let's go in the garden,

You'll find something waiting,

Right there where you left it lying upside down,"

"When you finally find it, you'll see how it's faded,

The underside is lighter when you turn it around," Sev echoed, remembering this lullaby-like song he'd hear her sing to him.

"Everything stays right where you left it,

Everything stays,

But it still changes,

Ever so slightly, daily and nightly,

In little ways, when everything stays," They sang together softly, making sure not to attract attention.

"Go down to the ocean,

The crystal tide is raising,

waters' gotten higher as the shore washes out,

Keep your eyes wide open, even when the sun is blazin',

The moon controls the tide, it can cause you to drown,"

Helsa flexed her hands to make them seem like claws for a dramatic effect. She got a laugh out of her brother, and the two continued,

"Everything stays, right where you've left it,

Everything stays, but it still changes,

Ever so slightly, daily and nightly,

In little ways…

When everything stays…"

Helsa watched her brother close his eyes and drift off to sleep. She slowly but carefully picked him up and put him on his bed. She covered him up with his blankets, then got his phone to charge it. She walked out of his room, looking back for a while. She closed his door gently and went to her room, getting ready to turn in for the night...

Daddy Issues, Devastation, Delusions and Decorations: Part Two: Devastation

Chapter Summary

TW: suicidal thoughts, cutting

I wanted more angst to this ok-

Enjoy however :)

The next morning started slowly. Well, for Alastor.

"Shit, shit, shit, shit, shit." He whispered frantically from the bathroom, cleaning up his… mess that had gotten, um…

Bloody.

He had sleep paralysis that night, along with some… flashbacks, of his father that may have caused this. While this does go under the "daddy issues" part of this four part chapter, this is quite devastating.

"Damnit…!" Alastor used a bunch of tissues, applying pressure on his bleeding thighs, wrists and arms. He his shirt was off for this, and he just pulled up his shorts. His ears pinned on his head, smile shaking. He made sure to lock the bathroom before he relapsed. The scars were deeper this time, and he felt…rather ashamed.

His father's words rang in his head.

"Don't you choke now, son! You're a goddamn Chassuer! Act like it!"

He then remembered…

His magic. He can close his new wounds, and clean up the mess. And he did so, but that didn't make him feel less awful about himself. He unlocked the door, and walked out. He rubbed his eyes, then sighed, getting back in bed. He felt DT curl up to him, nuzzling his neck. They ran their hand on his chest, then hummed.

"Another bad morning?" They slowly opened their eyes. Alastor nodded, turning to them.

"Nightmares." He replied.

"About…?" DT began. "Y'know what..? You don't have to tell me." They backed down.

"My father." Alastor started slowly. "Funny, he was the first person I've murdered successfully."

"Oh?" DT sat up, amused.

"My father, as you know, is… awful." Alastor also sat up. "He was a famous business man, running a speakeasy during prohibition. That's how I was intrigued with showgirls, how they rebelled. I respected that, and I still do."

DT nodded, issuing him to continue.

"With that, father would get drunk, cheat on my mother, and beat her in a drunken stuper." Alastor put his hand up, gesturing to nothing. "Years later, when I was seventeen, I returned to my father's speakeasy, shotgun in grasp. It was around closing time, so I wouldn't get caught. Shot him square in the head, and left wordlessly. His body was rotting, and the police never really found out."

"Because of the location of the speakeasy?" DT smiled slightly.

"Because of the speakeasy." Alastor grinned in return. DT chuckled, but it faded.

"...you can't let the past define you, okay?" They held his hand. They kissed his forehead. "I won't allow it." They smirked. Alastor gave a small laugh, followed by a canned laugh track.

"I guess you're correct." He came to terms.

"...we have similar fathers." DT recalled. "Abusive and angry."

"Precise." Alastor shrugged with one shoulder. "... we'll never be like this." He confirmed, and the shapeshifter nodded.

"If I ever act like that, kill me." They blurted.

"No, I'll just…" Alastor got on top of them. "Make you regret those words~" He grinned widely, though it faded when DT was gently tracing his old scars on his arms with their index finger.

"... don't do this anymore." They told him. "Please. We can work through this, no matter how hard it may seem."

Alastor went silent, and DT asked him, a little worried,

"Was that why you were in the bathroom? Were you cutting yourself…?"

"...yes." He muttered.

"But…why?" DT gripped his hand.

"...taking my stress and anger out."

"Oh, Al…"

They pulled him closer.

"I know, it's pathetic." Alastor sighed. "The great Radio Demon with a tragic and suicidal tale."

DT's heart squeezed.

"This isn't pathetic! It's absolutely devastating to think that this is all pathetic! Believe it or not, I get upset like this at times!" They reassured. "You're not alone, Al. Trust me." They pressed their forehead against his.

"...I guess you're right…" Alastor sighed again.

There was an awkward silence, before the two cracked a grin.

"Feels better talking it out." The Radio Demon admitted. DT nodded, then wrapped their legs around his waist.

"...you wanna make out?"

"Real quick. Five minutes, then save it for tonight."

"Deal~" DT giggled, then the two reached in for a kiss.

The rest was only between them.

Daddy Issues, Devastation, Delusions and Decorations: Part Three: Delusions

Chapter Summary

I'M ALMOST DONE WITH THE FOUR PARTER, I SWEAR-

Also, the character named Othermind belongs to a friend of mine, @/ramirothief20 on insta!! :D

Enjoy 🌷

Arielle was staring at her brother's empty room that was pretty much gone, due to fires spiraling out of control. Her gaze was blank. She did love her brother, yes, but she hated what he did.

She hugged her arms, wings folding until they disappeared. She closed her eyes, then felt someone grab her shoulders. She turned to face Vox.

"He's gone." He reminded her with a slight smile. "So you don't need to worry anymore."

"Right…" Arielle wasn't really convinced. She felt Vox take her hand, giving it a gentle squeeze.

"No need to worry anymore." He repeated. "Now we can look forward to the wedding."

Arielle smiled, then exhaled. She moved closer to him, linking arms. They made their way to the lobby, and Charlie waved at them both. She turned back to her clipboard, writing something down, and checking it off:

1. Get the betrothed couple together in Hell ✓
2. Getting the couple to at least like each other before marrying ✓
3. Purchase wedding outfits for the residents involved ✓
4. Find a venue and buy needed decorations
5. Add onto the guest list (originally just the residents, but now a lot more)
6. Find a chef/chefs for the reception to prep the food and wedding cake.
7. Have the wedding after steps 1-6 are done!
8. Dad and the Queen of Bright Moon conclude the war with a magical ritual, quick and easy.
9. No more war!!! :)

"What are you checking off, my little apple?" Lucifer peeked over her shoulder.

"Oh, just the process of the betrothal." Charlie clicked her pen a couple times.

"Hmm… if you're looking for a venue, we could host it in our main hall for the Etherians, sinners and hellborns to watch. Then, we can have a private reception, with only the residents allowed in." The King of Hell suggested. Charlie beamed.

"That sounds amazing, dad!" She exclaimed. "Now, we just need to buy decorations for-"

There was a sudden knock at the door. She blinked, before holding the clipboard under her arm and she opened the door.

She came face to face with a tall, serpent demon, similar to Sir Pentious.

He had a short, charcoal gray hood, with the inside being brown. He also had black and faded khaki horns. He also had khaki colored skin, blood red eyes, and rather yellow teeth, similar to Alastor.

He had on a black suit, with a light brown lapel, paired with a brown bowtie. The snake tail part of him was gold and brown, a rather long tail. He had a small frown plastered onto his face, fangs visible.

"Oh! Welcome to the Happy Hotel, may I help you…?"

"I'm here to see someone." His sharp gaze practically pinned her down. Charlie pursed her lips.

"And who might that be, in particular?" She smiled wearily. "Like…" she shivered. "...the porn star Angel Dust?" She felt relieved when she saw the snake grimace in response.

"No, not him." He assured her.

"Ah, alright. Because you know how Angel is, offering 'private services', as he calls it." She went on, but silenced when he silently glared at her. "Orrrr, are you seeing the betrothed?"

"Betrothed?" The snake demon narrowed his eyes.

"Yes, the Radio Demon, and the Shapeshifting Psycho, sir. They're still in their room, but you're more than welcome to wait in the lobby-"

Charlie was cut off by him slithering past her.

"Sir? I didn't get your name!" She exclaimed.

"...Othermind." Othermind concluded. He continued slithering, until he froze upon seeing Double Trouble and Alastor pass him.

Othermind and DT locked gazes for a moment, which caused DT to stop. Alastor took their hand, squeezing it gently.

DT looked at Alastor, then back at Othermind. Their heart began pounding, for some reason. The energy the snake demon radiated was…

Familiar.

The same even applied with Alastor.

"Double Trouble." Othermind hissed. DT's thoughts went a mile a minute, but they smiled nonchalantly.

"Fellow Etherian? I'm surprised you didn't refer to me as the 'Shapeshifting Psycho'." They began, a bit of facade smugness. "I mean, I am known here AND Etheria. Killer, or even a Hero." They put a hand on their chest, then gestured to nothing.

"Yes, while you are known for killing the henchmen of Overlords, and an assassin for hire…" Othermind turned his head to them. "...I know my child when I see them."

There was silence.

"What…?" Charlie mouthed to herself, watching slowly.

The silence was broken by DT laughing nervously and awkwardly.

"I beg your pardon?" They raised their brows. "I don't even know who you are! Un-unless you can prove it, then-"

Othermind used his tail to pull out a wallet, then revealed multiple baby photos, showing Alastor. Alastor proceeded to laugh a bit, asking,

"This was you as a baby?"

DT's face flushed a bright ocean blue.

"What!" They gawked, seeing the photos. "Wh-where did you get these?!"

Othermind chuckled.

"I state my case, Dakota." He sighed. DT let out a small noise. Only Alastor knew about their name, if... if Othermind is truly their father, then...

Their eyes narrowed.

"Who ARE you?" Alastor asked, tilting his head to the side.

"My name is Othermind Vipera." Othermind introduced himself. "This is my child, Dakota Vipera."

"I thought your last name was Taylor?" Alastor turned to DT.

"That's their middle name." Othermind replied before DT could.

"Stage name." DT muttered.

"Now," Othermind towered over Alastor, red eyes now glowing bright green. "who might YOU be?"

"The Radio Demon, sir!" Alastor took a bow.

"When have you ever called me any gender neutral terms?" DT scoffed, crossing their arms. Their brows narrowed. "You always referred to me as your 'son'."

"I've grown to accept ways modern ways of the world." Othermind answered, not noticing DT purse their lips and swallow almost timidly.

"You did." They were baffled. It intensified when their supposed "father" nodded.

"And you." Othermind turned to Alastor, hands behind his back. "You're the lucky demon that took their hand in marriage, even without a blessing."

Before Alastor could answer, DT cut in,

"This was arranged, and I was basically forced into what WAS going to be a toxic relationship to the point where I couldn't even back down, because I was forever bound to him."

"Eheheh…" Alastor laughed nervously when there seemed to be a rattlesnake noise.

"But." DT linked arms with the Radio Demon. "He changed in a rather sappy, romantic way." They smiled, easing him. There was yet again silence.

"Are you able to stay for the wedding?" Charlie brought up, smiling hopefully.

"I'm unsure, Princess. I'm very, VERY busy." Othermind shrugged.

"But not busy enough for me to talk to you in PRIVATE." DT tugged him away from everyone, into a private, vacant room. "Aren't you sorry?!"

"For?" Othermind quirked a brow.

"If you're my father, you'd remember all of the abuse I endured, because of you and mum! You fucked me over! And to top it off, how could you forget?!"

Othermind seemed to flinch at that. He opened his mouth to speak, but closed his mouth before taking a deep breath and letting his eyes change to green. Tendrils of green smoke billowed to the floor, taking the shape of what seemed to be a younger version of DT.

“Of course I remember. Not a day goes by where I forget.” He remarked solemnly as he watched the smoke version of DT play around with a stuffed bear.

DT's eyes sparkled with curiosity upon seeing his magic. They shook their head aggressively.

"You were the one inflicting this pain on me." Their tone was rather harsh.

A green smoke figure of Othermind suddenly appeared after saying those words.

"...I never meant to hurt you." He worded it carefully, softly, even.

"Bullshit." DT snorted, rolling their eyes. They noticed the smoke shift into human Othermind in a chair, face in his hands. There was a woman, who seemed to be yelling at him. He finally snapped his head up and yelled back.

DT's eyes went wide.

"That's mum…" They whispered. "Were you… defending me this entire time? Justz in another way…?"

Othermind nodded, melancholic.

"Your mother…god she hate me so fucking much."

"Then why did you marry her?"

"The thing is, she didn't show her true colors until you were born."

"Great. I'm a fucking mistake and ruined your life."

"No!" Othermind yelled. "No, no, you were the BEST thing that came out of this marriage!"

The smoke showed him holding a baby version of DT.

The shapeshifter never expected that. They gave a small grin.

"Glad I wasn't a mistake." They chuckled dryly. The smoke tendrils faded and Othermind looked down at DT.

"...if you loved me and mom hated me, why did you...abuse me so much?" DT finally brought up.

"Your mother's beatings were much harsher than mine. As much as I never wanted to, she… she called me soft, and threatened to hurt you herself. So, I did it instead, because…" Othermind paused. He took a deep breath. "Because if she hit you, it would take weeks to recover."

"She was that bad…" DT faltered. They blinked at Othermind's forked tongue flicking out slightly.

They tilted their head to the side, sticking their tongue out, like a "blep", which Othermind found amusing and nostalgic.

"You used to do that all the time when you were a baby." He smiled, rather genuine. DT giggled, then let themself ease up.

"What…do you think of the Radio Demon?" They asked.

"He's odd." Othermind admitted. "Rather scrawny looking, if I'm being honest."

"He's good in bed." DT muttered, face burning bright blue.

"I didn't ask to hear about your bedroom life." Othermind deadpanned.

"Holy shit, you heard that?!"

"I'm your father, I can hear everything."

"But just because you're my dad, doesn't mean I forgive you."

"That… that's fair."

"You'll just need to work to earn my trust."

"That is what I plan on doing, kiddo." Othermind finally spoke up.

"Good." DT stood up straight. "That's all I wanted to ask. So, thank you for you cooperation, and–"

They flinched over Othermind pulling them into quite a tight hug.

"This is the only hug you'll get." His tail coiled around them.

"I–" DT blinked, rather confused. Othermind pulled away, brushing off something from his shoulder.

"That's all from me, now I'd like to speak to… your scrawny looking fiancè." He slithered out of the hall, then to Alastor. "Young man."

Alastor turned to him, giving his usual grin.

"How may I help you, sir?" He tilted his head to the right ever so slightly. He was taken aback when Othermind set his hand on the other's shoulder.

"Your name?" He began.

"Alastor." Alastor told him.

"Alastor: if you ever decide to pull ANY voodoo shit on my kid." Othermind's hood flared out, and his eyes started glowing a bright green. He curled his tail around the Radio Demon tightly, and there was a hissing noise that erupted.

"I will personally find out, and snuff the living afterlife out of your body. IS. THAT. CLEAR."

Alastor's eyes went wide, smile never faltering, however.

"Y-yes sir." He didn't mean to stutter, but it wasn't preventable.

"Good." Othermind released him, then pulled away. "Now, Princess… I wish to stay at this hotel until the wedding is over."

Charlie smiled again, then led him over to the front desk.

"This is a delusion…right…?" DT tapped their fingers against their lips.

"Not that I can tell, dear." Alastor took their hand, gripping it a bit. "Would you like me to pinch you?" He teased, pecking their cheek.

"Where~?" They purred, smirking.

"Oh, you deviant~" Alastor hummed, kissing their lips at that moment. He pulled away, then sneered at Angel Dust doing the fucking gesture.

"Aww, is Bambi mad?" DT teased, then breathed on his neck. "I can loosen that hot headed side of you~"

Alastor's face went bright red, brows springing upward. He let out a nervous giggle, tugging on his shirt. He growled at Angel Dust bursting into laughter.

"ANGEL!" Alastor exclaimed, and DT smiled, content. But there was still a lingering thought in their head…

Was all of this…a delusion?

Arielle watched the shenanigans unfold, a small grin on her face. She felt her wings twitch, and she whipped around. She thought she saw…

Michael.

She shook her head, taking a deep breath. She remembered that he was gone, forever.

She needed to remember that.

He's gone, and maybe she's just delusional.

…right?

Daddy Issues, Devastation, Delusions and Decorations: Final Part: Decorations

Chapter Summary

I'M BACK!!!

I was dealing with A LOT during my impromptu hiatus. Grandparents left finally, dealing with my ex girlfriend being snippy and bossy, making me feel like shit, etc. Aaaaaaaand writer's block.

This chapter isn't my favorite, but it's a chapter.

Enjoy ❤️

"Thank you, for allowing us to have the wedding in the main hall." Double Trouble smiled, linking arms with Alastor.

"Not a problem, dear." Lilith gave a nod. "After all, this war DOES need to end… and I think it's slowly stopping."

"Which is good." DT chimed in. They gazed around, seeing how large this hall is. Alastor's ear twitched suddenly, static humming in a calming manner.

"The day's getting closer~" He hummed.

"I know! I'm actually kind of excited now." DT admitted, bouncing on their heels slightly. Alastor chuckled, amused at their reaction.

"And if you two wanted personal time amongst yourself during the reception, we have a lovely garden~ serene, relaxing, private, everything calming." Lucifer gestured to nothing.

"Thank you, Your Highness." DT dipped their head, then felt Alastor kiss the back of their hand.

"Should we see the decorations?" He asked.

"I don't see why not." DT shrugged with one shoulder. The two followed the King and Queen of Hell, and the hall went eerily silent. Alastor's shadow stalked the halls, even grabbing a hold of DT's shadow. The shadows' fingers laced together. The two seemed to press their foreheads together, enjoying the emptiness of the hall.

DT gazed upon multiple satin banners being placed, a nice ebony arch, lined with dark green vines. There were two flowers entwined with each other: a belladonna and a rose.

"This is…gorgeous." They marvelled. "All of this is absolutely amazing, I…I can't believe it…"

"Your father was one of our main supporters and patrons." Lucifer adjusted his slick black gloves.

"He is…?" DT straightened themself out.

"Surprised?" Lucifer raised his brows.

"Very." They admitted. They flinched at feeling the King of Hell clap their shoulder twice.

"You're a lucky person." He told them. "Remember that."

"They've been lucky since they came into my grasp." Alastor chuckled, clenching his hand into a fist.

"Hmm, yes, the treacherous Radio Demon influenced MY life." DT rolled their eyes.

"Without a choice~" Alastor purred.

"If I was married to you, I'd poison your coffee." DT snarked.

"Ah, ah, ah, and if I were your husband…" His voice turned rather demonic. "I'D DRINK IT."

There was silence.

"...I love you so much." DT pulled Alastor closer to them. Alastor gave an uncharacteristically adorable giggle, pressing his forehead against theirs.

"I love you more~" He reminded.

"Aww, young love." Lilith crooned.

"Hope it lasts for a long time." Lucifer turned on his heel and led the way to the doors of the garden. "Would you two like to take a tour amongst yourselves?"

Suddenly, DT gave a sickeningly sweet grin.

"That sounds lovely to me, Your Highness." They hummed. Their hand slid up Alastor's jacket from the back, then roved back down to massage his deer tail. "What do you think, love?~"

"Couldn't agree more!" Alastor exclaimed, wrapping an arm around them. "We may get lost, but don't worry! I'll be your Knight in Crimson Armor~"

"Oh, I'm not afraid~" DT grinned more. The two quickly moved out of the King and Queen's view, down the cobblestone pathway that led to the gorgeous garden. But the sky…

The sky was different: it was finally navy blue: signalling that the war is slowly coming to a close. The sky turning this color doesn't happen often enough for anyone NOT to freak out. It's HELL! Everything's supposed to be…y'know, red?

"Oh, this is new." DT noticed. They were suddenly yanked away, into the rose portion. They picked a rose, placing it in Alastor's hair. They caressed his cheek, then kissed his lips.

"Y'know what I'm thinking~" Alastor's hands roved up DT's shirt.

DT gasped, flushing a bright ocean blue.

"You devil~" They kissed him again, but more passionately. This escalated into making out, and their tongues entwining with each other.

"Oh~" Alastor muttered softly, unbuttoning his pants and dropping them. "Curl around me and we can do this quickly."

"Yes, daddy~" DT also dropped their pants and underwear, now shifting their genitalia into a pussy again. Alastor thrusted intward gently, the two now moaning in unison once, maybe twice: but never loud enough for anyone to hear.

After a few minutes of fucking around–literally–they put their pants back on and strolled around the garden more.

"I love you Al." DT sighed, leaning against him.

"I love you too, DT." Alastor kissed their forehead. He then frowned. "I'd give you a flower, but… they wilt, at my touch." He reached for a daisy, but somehow…

It stayed the same?

"Oh…?" Alastor whispered.

"Guess love changed you. It can always change someone." DT grinned. "I'm proud of how far you came." They took his hands.

Alastor blinked, before noticeably grimacing a bit, turning away and using his sleeve to… rub his eyes.

"Alastor? Did–did I offend you…?" DT frowned.

"N-no, my darling." Alastor sniffed, finally turning to face them, with tears blooming in his eyes. "Nobody's been proud of me in over eighty years."

"Ah…" DT pressed the palm of their hand against Alastor's cheek gently. "Well, you'll hear it from me from now on!"

"You're too kind." Alastor's chuckle was watery.

"I was told I was heartless." DT mumbled, examining their nails.

"Love changes people." The Radio Demon smirked. There was a pause, before DT mirrored his expression.

"Too shay." They hummed. "...we should go back now. Or, we can continue visiting the garden?"

"Let's stay like this for a bit…is that okay?" Alastor hugged them, and they hugged back.

"More than okay." They exhaled. And so they stayed in each other's arms for another few minutes. Enjoying the quiet. Enjoying how serene it was…

Enjoying each other.

Four Days

Chapter Summary

Content warning: DT dealing with minor PTSD from Valentino being...y'know...

Also:

I LIVE!!

Soooo I had to get a COVID test: it was negative!! But I need to catch up on school stuff, so that'll be funnnnnn.

Not.

Anyway, enjoy this chapter!!

Warning: incorrect descriptions of using laundry equipment.

It was almost time for the wedding of the betrothed. Everything had gone by so fast nobody could believe it.

"Ow, ow, ow." Alastor winced, pulling out thorns from his ears, due to last night's…quickie.

"Aww, poor little Bambi." DT hummed. They gently plucked the thorns out, they stroked his cheek. "Better?"

"Much, thank you." Alastor leaned into the touch. He took their hand, smiling genuinely.

"...can you believe it…? The whole thing?" DT asked.

"I couldn't before: but now I do~" Alastor hummed. "This journey was an interesting one."

"Bitterness, love and loss."

"Strife, trust, and war."

"Two words divided by race, continuously fighting, when they realize it'll be over…"

"We'll be at peace."

"...poetic, eh?" Alastor chuckled.

"It's a part of being a thespian." DT clicked their tongue. They wrapped their arms around him, then the two touched their foreheads together.

"I should've known." Alastor smiled broadly.

"...what type of cake do you like?" DT blurted.

"Oh, uhhh… I don't really like sweet things." Alastor admitted. "Unless it's dark chocolate."

"Soooo you like bitter things." DT caught on. Alastor nodded as an answer.

"I'll eat beignets on occasion."

"Those are like doughnuts, but without frosting."

"No–"

"Ooookay, bring it in." Vaggie knocked on the door. "Charlie's mom and dad sent over the royal chef so we can get the menu written down. And deciding on what cake is being served."

"Dark chocolate?" Alastor answered, though it sounded more like a question.

"You sound uncertain." Vaggie smiled, crossing her arms.

"I never really ate cake before, nor have I had to choose it for something." Alastor deadpanned, ears pinning on the back of his head. DT snorted, then realized,

"I haven't had cake before either."

"Pot calling the kettle black, eh?" Alastor teased.

"Oh hush." DT shoved his arm gently.

"It's exactly like that!"

"Alright, you win."

Alastor smiled arrogantly, but melted at his lover's kiss.

"Wow, you're a completely different person." Vaggie exclaimed.

"Oh?" Alastor hummed, static crackling slightly.

"You used to be an asshole, but now… okay now you're STILL an asshole, but whenever you're around them, you're… sickeningly sweet." The moth demoness leaned against the doorframe.

"He's a sweetheart, but a madman in bed." DT sighed, wrapping their arm around his waist.

"Didn't need to know that." Vaggie scrunched up her nose, cringing. "So, you decided dark chocolate cake?"

"Maybe shrimp and cocktail sauce for one of the sides, assortments of fruits, biscuits, and other sides." DT listed off from the top of their head.

"...I thought you came from Etheria?" Alastor turned to them.

"Salenias has good seafood. Not good after getting drunk though." DT shrugged. "The food just didn't mix with the martinis."

"Then are we just not gonna have martinis?"

"We can, if Husk wants to bartend."

"He'll do it because Lucifer's paying him triple the amount the hotel's paying him." Vaggie chimed in.

"That's… a lot." DT whistled. "We're getting our drink on~" They smiled.

"I could ask my friend Mimzy if she wants to be a lead singer. She can accompany the band." Alastor suggested.

"Mimzy…" DT let the name roll off their tongue. "Can we meet her tonight? As a date, maybe?"

"Of course!" Alastor hooked arms with them. "It's a rather spiffy speakeasy, so we should dress the part, yes?"

"Ah, mon chér, you never cease to bore me." DT sighed wistfully.

"I can ask the others for opinions. Charlie and I are meeting with the people arranging the decorations today, too. We'll talk to them about how things should be set up and the like."

"Sounds perfect, darling. Thank you." DT appreciated it. Vaggie nodded, then concluded,

"That's all I needed, thanks for the cooperation."

She then left their room.

"My darling Dakota, may I talk to you?" Alastor gripped their hand gently.

"Of course." They answered, and was dragged to sit on the bed, seeing the Radio Demon shutting the door. He quickly sat next to them.

"Dee, I… need to admit something about Mimzy…" His voice was uncharacteristically quiet. His ear flicked. "...before you and I were a thing, she and I dated off and on, but we were never…in love with each other, for long."

"Is she feisty?" DT blinked.

"Don't you remember her? The first night Husker and I met you, you told us you were staying with Mimzy."

"I…don't, I'm sorry."

"It's okay. Maybe it'll come with time…!"

"Maybe. Wait…which speakeasy are you going to?"

"Just one tucked away in Cannibal Colony."

"Perfect."

"We can say hello to Rosie, why, even bring her along!"

"That sounds good!"

Alastor gave the shapeshifter a peck on the lips.

"Can't wait for our little get together~" he hummed, then suddenly disappeared. There remained a rose in his place.

DT picked up the rose, caressing it.

"Charming rascal." They chuckled. "I could always wash some clothes." They walked over to a somewhat full laundry basket. Then, they saw the black cocktail dress, covered in…

They froze up. Their skin began to crawl while their blood ran cold.

There was silence ringing in their head, and the disgusting waft of raspberry smoke filled their senses.

"Mmmm, your lower entry is closed, baby~"

"Get the fuck out." They spat at Valentino's voice. They gripped the basket, picking it up and leaving the room.

"Hey toots!" Angel Dust hummed.

"Hey, Angie. Do you know where-"

"Looking for the laundry room? C'mon. Lemme show ya." Angel Dust caught on, and led them down the hall, to the right. He opened a door to a clean laundromat, but it was…

Eerie.

"Thanks, Ang." DT sighed.

"Ah, you still…have the dress." Angel mumbled. DT went silent.

"Yeah…" They opened the washing machine, throwing the dirty clothes in. They put in detergent, then shut the door. They pressed a few buttons, and watched the machine do its job.

"...hey." Angel put a hand on their shoulder. He caressed it with his thumb, saying, "If you EVER need anything, call me."

"...do you want the dress back, after it's clean?"

"No, babe: remember?" Angel was soft when talking. "It neva fit me: that's why I gave it ta you."

"Right, right…" DT rubbed their arm. "Sorry…"

"Not blamin' ya." Angel shrugged. He perked up when he suddenly heard…

Oinking?

He quickly left the room, then came back with little Fat Nuggets, his pet pig.

"Believe it or not, Vox got me Fat Nuggets as an emotional support animal." He stroked Fat Nuggets' skin soothingly.

"Can I hold him?" DT asked, reaching out. They were suddenly greeted with curious sniffing, and oinks of pleasure.

"Aww, he likes ya!" Angel clasped his hands together.

"I guess he does." DT giggled, holding Nuggets close.

After a few minutes of chatting and clean clothes later, DT and Angel left the room, with Nuggets now in Angel's fluff.

"Well babe, if ya need anything, you know where my room is." He smirked.

"I'll let you know." DT nodded.

"See ya, toots." Angel then left, and DT went back to their room. It was almost already sundown, and they grinned at Alastor, in his black satin suit again.

"Evening." He bowed dramatically.

"Hey." The shapeshifter greeted back. They took out the cocktail dress, laying it gently on the bed.

They flinched when Alastor got behind them, hugging their waist and kissing on their neck.

"Mmm, my love~" he whispered.

"Al." DT spoke up. "Please get off."

Alastor blinked, rather shocked: but he did as requested.

"Something bothering you?" He reached for their hand.

"I'm just… processing." They took off their top, then bottom. They put on the clean dress slowly, then smoothed out the wrinkles. They had the matching shoes somewhere, they just didn't remember where.

"Ah, the dress…" Alastor went quiet. "...you still look amazing. Golden skin, you aren't like the others." A reddish pink began spreading across his face, blooming beautifully.

"I'm MORE than my goddamn body, Valentino!" DT shouted, making themself flinch.

"Oh, shit. Hun, hey, hey." Alastor instantly comforted them, massaging their shoulders. "Deep breaths. I'm sorry, I didn't mean to hit a nerve."

DT took a big breath.

"You're fine. I'm just… coping." They cringed at themself while pondering on what they should say.

"And I'm proud of you." Alastor kissed their cheek, making them fluster.

"You're lucky I love you." They muttered, smirking.

"I am indeed." Alastor sighed. He fixed his bowtie. "Now, my dear." He held up the heels DT was looking for, handing them over. "Are you ready?"

DT slid on the shoes, grinning deviously.

"Born ready."

They took their soon-to-be husband's hand, and the two were off to meet Mimzy.

This is sure to be interesting.

Meeting a Gal With a Strong Memory

Chapter Summary

> Song: Hound Dog from the Elvis movie!! Hahahaaaaaa
> I'm back, and almost done with this fic! Can you believe it?!
> I cherish this support from all of you, and I'm absolutely happy you enjoy these antics!!
> New chapter ❤️

"You're looking dapper as always." DT entwined their hand with Alastor's, stepping into a large speakeasy.

"Aww, thank you." Alastor smiled, pecking their cheek. He found an empty booth, near the back, choosing that spot for the night. They saw the drink menu, and started looking for drinks.

"Ah, hi Ally!" A tall fox woman with long ginger, silver and black hair strutted over. "Long time no see!" She pinched his cheek.

"Ah! Hello, Nala! How's the wife and the kids?" Alastor perked up, feeling her pull away.

"Kira's good, so are the twins. Mayson works next door, and Maya is working at 666 News." Nala pulled out a notebook from her furry cleavage. She smirked at DT's expression when she pulled the notebook out: gaped mouth, raised brows and large eyes. Even Alastor giggled at the reaction.

"That was Al's reaction to first meeting me." Nala chuckled, flipping through a few pages. "Can I get you two off? Err, not in the Lust Ring…START you off?"

"The usual bourbon, dear." Alastor smiled.

"How 'bout you?" Nala wrote it down, gazing at DT. Her smile was sweeter than anything they've seen.

"I'll have a Sex on the Beach." DT answered. Nala nodded, then strutted off, tail swishing in a satisfying way.

"I liked her too." Alastor brought up over the loud chattering of the speakeasy. "Until I found out she had a wife. Think of a kid having a crush on a famous actor."

"Ah." DT nodded. They heard her return with two rounds of drinks for both Alastor and them. "Thank you."

"Not a problem, sugar." Nala winked. "Anything else you need, let me know." She walked off again. The lights dimmed more, and there was thunderous applause and screaming. Some were even catcalling.

"Ah, it's time for the show!" Alastor also applauded, and DT sat up straight. They were excited.

"This is Mimzy?" They asked.

"Correct! She's a hit sensation!"

"That's why it's packed tonight."

"Tonight? No, no, no, it's every Thursday, Friday, Saturday AND Sunday! Monday and Tuesday it's downtime: only open in the morning for coffee and breakfast."

"We need to come here for breakfast one day." DT concluded. Alastor smiled softly at them, taking off his jacket.

"It'll get cold tonight: here." He rested it on their shoulders.

"Aww, you charmer." DT leaned against him. Alastor leaned back against the seat, crossing his right leg over left. He wrapped his right arm around DT's waist, and DT curled up to him.

"Ladies, gentlemen, those in between or not, WELCOME! To the Glorious Miss Mimzy's show!" A voice boomed, and more people cheered.

Finally, she stepped out on stage: she was plus sized, but that made her beautifully unique. Her hair was curled, and she was in a red flapper dress, with a white furred coat. She had gloves on, and she had sultry eyes. She gripped the microphone, humming into it.

A few more whistles.

"Mmm, alright now." She calmed the crowd down.

"Alright, alright…

Ah, play it!"

She cried out, and musicians kicked in.

"Alright boys, lemme hear ya!"

"This is getting good." Alastor's eyes went wide.

"You ain't nothin' but a hound dog!

Quit snoopin' 'round my door,

You ain't nothin' but a hound dog,

Quit snoopin"round my door,

You can wag your tail,

But I ain't gon' feed you no more,

You told me you was high-classed,

But I can see through that,

Yeah, you told me you was high-classed,

But I can see through that,"

"She's enchanting." DT mused.

"She's like a siren: glorious yet deadly." Alastor sighed.

"And daddy, I know,

That you ain't no real cat,

You ain't nothin' but a hound dog,

Quit snoopin' 'round my door,

You're just an old hound dog,

Quit snoopin' 'round my door,

You can wag your tail,

But I ain't gon' feed you no more.

Oh, play it!"

Mimzy let the band have their solo, while people in the crowd whistled and screamed.

"Hahahaha, make you feel good!

You make me feel so good,

You make me weep and moan,

You make me feel so good!

You make me weep and moan~

'Cause you ain't lookin' for a woman,

All you're lookin' is for home,

You ain't nothin' but hound dog,

Quit snoopin' 'round my door,

You can wag your tail,

BUT I AIN'T GON' FEED YOU NO MORE!"

She finished off with a bang.

DT whistled, then clapped loudly. Alastor watched them, eyes dulling while his smile grew.

Mimzy stepped off the stage, heading towards the couple!

"Aww, Al! I was beginnin' to worry you died!" She teased, sitting next to him on his left side. Alastor threw his head back and laughed.

"No, no, I've been quite busy in the hotel." He sighed, wiping his eyes.

"Mhm." Mimzy nodded. "Ooh, who's the pretty…one." She faltered.

"Double Trouble, darling." DT extended their hand out for her to shake. Mimzy froze up. She slowly reached for their hand, shaking it.

"I've met you before."

"I believe the same applies to me." They went into thought.

Mimzy frowned. She tapped her fingers on the table.

"...Dakota. Dakota Taylor!" She beamed. "You stayed at my place the first night you came from London to Louisiana!"

"Right…!" DT exclaimed. "Oh God, how could I forget that?"

"It's so good to see you! You look so…different." Mimzy clasped her hands together.

"Demonic appearance." DT grinned, showing their now jagged teeth. "And shapeshifting, of course."

"A bit of eldritch power, too, remember dear? We made a deal~" Alastor rested his chin on the backs of his hands.

"That too." The shapeshifter gestured to nothing.

"Aww, you two!" Mimzy giggled again like a schoolgirl. "When's the wedding?"

"In four days. You and Rosie are invited!" Alastor chirped.

"Ooh, boy! I can't wait!" The flapper singer squealed.

"Always a supporter, dear." Alastor sighed, huffing out a laugh in the process.

"I try." Mimzy shrugged. DT took the last drink of their Sex on the Beach, humming.

"That was really good." They told themself in their head. "Can I get another one…?"

"Be careful, it'll sneak up on ya!" Mimzy teased. "Hey Nala!"

"Mhmmm?" Nala walked over. "You want 'nother Sex on the Beach, sweetie?"

"If you don't mind." DT gave a small grin.

"Aww, of course I don't: just drink responsibly! Another round for you too, Al?" Nala pointed her pen at the couple, mentally noting it once Alastor nodded. "What 'bout you Mimzy?"

"Dry bone martini, please." Mimzy replied.

"You got it."

After a couple rounds of drinks, Mimzy cackled, throwing her head back.

"I didn't think Husker would've told you about SEX LIFE back when things were lukewarm with you two!" She patted his arm.

"Eheheh…" Alastor tugged on his bowtie.

"Ah, Alastor is rather terrifying: a monster, a beast, yet he makes love like a serial killer on the loose." DT sighed, face flushed ocean blue from being drunk.

"I am, dear." Alastor sighed, taking their hand. He kissed it, and gave them a rather lustful look. That was… new…

DT's smile faded into a fearful frown, noticing the look. They tried to act nonchalant, and they looked away to see the clock read it was midnight.

Damn.

How much did they drink?

"Well, we should be going." They scooted out of the booth, standing slowly. "Long day."

"It was nice talking with you again, Mimzy." Alastor grinned.

"Vice versa, honey! Hope you two get home safe!" Mimzy waved, sipping her martini.

Alastor hooked arms with DT, and the two left.

"...that look you gave me." DT broke the silence. Alastor raised their brows.

"Yes?"

"It felt…weird."

"Did I…trigger anything?"

"No, it just felt odd. It didn't feel like you at all."

"God damnit Angel, with your stupid flirty looks!"

DT then giggled, a hand pressed against their mouth.

"I love you." They leaned against him. Alastor scooped them up, and took them back to the hotel. The lights were dimmed, and nobody was awake. The two remained silent, and went to their room. Alastor locked the door and unbuttoned his shirt and took off his jacket.

DT kicked their heels off and laid on the bed, eyes dull. They felt fingers trail on their skin, and they froze up entirely. They finally sat up instantly, and saw Alastor sitting next to them: it wasn't him.

He took their hand, pulled then close and held them. He ran his fingers through their hair, humming gently. DT closed their eyes and fell asleep, while being held gently.

Them and Alastor will forever be bound…

Till death do they part.

Three Days

Chapter Summary

HIIIIIIIIIIII

I didn't know my cat threw up until I smelt it waft up to me. So my dad cleaned it up but the smell is in my nose still 😭🤣

Song used: Christina Perri's "A Thousand Years"

Enjoy ❤️

"Mmmmppphfffppppph." DT groaned into their pillow, waking up slowly. There was a knock on the door.

"Go. Away. Before I kill you." They exclaimed. Their eyes fluttered open, and they say up slowly when they started smelling pancakes, bacon and toast. The door was gently pushed open by their fiance.

"Morning, gorgeous." Alastor winked, bringing a tray of breakfast for them. They set it down carefully on their lap.

"This was thoughtful of you." DT smiled.

"I see that it put you in a better mood. You threatened to kill me, after all." Alastor teased. DT blushed, taking a piece of toast and began eating it slowly.

"I'll take this!" Alastor snatched a piece of bacon. "After my hard work that went into this."

"Did you eat this morning?" DT blinked.

"Not yet. I did have black coffee though." Alastor shrugged.

"...you wanna share some pancakes with me?" The shapeshifter asked him. They started cutting up the stack of pancakes. They stabbed the pieces with the fork.

"No, thank you dear. This is YOUR breakfast." Alastor declined.

"But you haven't eaten!"

"I'm aware, I'll eat something–mmmph!"

But he was silenced when DT shoved the pancakes into his mouth. They started laughing at his wide-eyed expression.

He put his hand to his mouth, processing. He finally swallowed, then stiffened.

"... that's actually really good." He smiled.

"Glad to-" DT almost got some more, but Alastor tilted their head to him and kissed their lips. DT pulled away then.

"Hm. It really is good." They spoke up. Alastor gave a striking grin.

"I am a rather excellent cook." His tone was rather arrogant. DT frowned, brows furrowed.

"Don't get cocky." They reminded him.

"But that's what attracted you to me, right?"

"Uh, no. You dragged me into Hell when I wanted to back down: but here I am."

Alastor's cocky smile faded into a frown.

"You don't…regret being with me anymore, right…?"

DT deadpanned, brows narrowed slightly.

"What do you think?" They asked rather bluntly.

"Sorry, sorry." Alastor waved his hand dismissively. "I was overthinking a lot."

"It's okay. Don't worry about me hating you anymore."

"Good. Good…"

There was another pause.

"You want some more pancakes?" DT gave a small smile, eyes sparkling. Alastor laughed at the sudden mood change, and nodded.

After finishing breakfast and cleaning up, DT had changed into a pair of jeans and a t-shirt. Alastor had chosen his usual red suit, but he kept his hair messy.

DT clung to his arm, leaning against him.

"Thank you for the breakfast in bed, hun." They spoke up.

"Not a problem!" Alastor chirped. The two of them headed down the elevator, into the lobby.

"Morning!" Charlie grinned. She had a cappuccino in her hands, sipping it occasionally. "I was thinking that we'd spend these last couple days relaxing: board games, dinner, movies…does that sound okay?"

"Perfect, my dear! Absolutely splendid!" Alastor boomed.

"Al, keepit down!" Angel Dust groaned. "Too early for this!"

"Sorry, my effeminate fellow." Alastor chuckled a bit awkwardly.

He had noticed that the Rebellion was gone.

"Where did the Rebellion go?" DT was first to ask.

"Oh, they and Prime had to check up on Bright Moon, their kingdoms: basic territory stuff. And Vox took Velvet to a friend's place then came back here." Charlie answered them. "Prime and Carina are still here, though!"

"Got it." Alastor understood.

"Has anyone seen Carina?" Moxxie suddenly brought up. He was looking around, not seeing the little angel. "She was just with me." He slowly began to panic.

Then there was a scream, and pitter-patter of feet. Carina was, well. Comically traumatized.

"SHIT, SHIT, SHIT!" Vox ran out, having nothing on but a towel around his waist.

"OH MY GOSH!" Carina had put on her bra and underwear again, not barefoot.

It was then Angel Dust busted into laughter, caught off guard but not entirely surprised, in the end.

"Ooooooh!" He crooned jokingly.

"You. Should be ashamed." Moxxie knelt before Prime's daughter, now scooping her up.

"Oh lord." Alastor mumbled, pinching the bridge of his nose.

"Okay look: I didn't mean to freak Carina out!" Vox threw his hands in the air. Then his towel became loose and fell to the ground, just in time for Moxxie to cover Carina's eyes.

"Oh my." Stolas finally spoke up.

"Now THAT'S what you call a dildo!" Blitzø pointed at Vox's dick.

"Really sir?" Moxxie questioned.

DT just raised their eyebrows, frown clear and present. Vox looked at Arielle. Arielle looked at Alastor, who then proceeded to look at DT. In summary, everyone was looking at each other.

"I–" Vox picked up the towel, wrapping it around his waist again, but much tighter.

"No comment." DT put their hands.

"Just put some pants on." Alastor rolled his eyes, not at all amused.

"Yup, got it." Vox walked back to his room quickly. Meanwhile, Arielle was covering herself with her wings.

"I'll do that as well." She seemed completely flustered, and she followed Vox.

Carina peeked out from behind the imp's hand.

"It's over?" She asked.

"Indeed it is, little one." Moxxie set her back down on the floor.

"Let's forget that happened, okay?" Charlie finally brought up.

"Sounds good to me." Alastor sighed, dropping his shoulders.

"I did not need to see a dick today." Octavia had gotten back on her phone, putting earbuds in to ignore everyone.

Carina walked around, then clung to Alastor's leg.

"Hi." She smiled, looking up. Alastor blinked down at her, tilting his head to the side.

"Hello, little darling. Is there something you need?" He spoke up.

"Up!" She reached for him. Alastor picked her up, and she giggled.

"You like this?" Alastor chuckled. Carina then gripped his ears, yanking them. She busted into childish laughter.

"Aww." DT giggled, crossing their arms.

"She likes you!" Charlie's eyes sparkled.

"Easy, hun." Vaggie gave a small laugh.

"Indeed she does–ow!" Alastor yelped when Carina yanked more at his ear. She recoiled, eyes widened.

"Sorry." She mumbled.

"It's okay, kiddo. No harm done." Alastor reassured. He poked her nose, and she giggled, covering her mouth.

"Can we play something? Oh, can we include Gecko, and-and the pink spider?" She beamed.

"I don't see why not!" Alastor grinned a bit wider. "Now, what do you fancy, my dear?"

"Hide and seek!" Carina got excited. "I can count to ten!"

"Okay! Whenever you're ready." Alastor set her on the ground gently.

"One…two…three…" Carina covered her eyes. Alastor was quick and quiet, now in a different room. Angel Dust giggled, and hid behind one of the couches. DT merely smiled, walking off. They leaned against the wall, giving a gentle hum.

"Ten! Ready or not, here I come!" Carina announced. She walked around, humming a tune. She then ran behind the couch, tackling Angel Dust. "Boo!"

"Aah! Ya scared me!" Angel Dust wasn't exactly fazed, but he played along for her sake. "Nowwwww, I'm gonna tickle ya!" He extended his arms and tickled her arms and stomach. She began laughing maniacally, flailing her legs.

Angel Dust also laughed, and he hugged her close.

"I'm gonna find Bambi!" Carina then bounced up, then rushed down the hall. She looked around, eyes glimmering. She then saw a tall, ominous shadow. It turned out to be Alastor's shadow, but it still frightened her!

She whimpered, recoiling.

The shadow tilted his head to the side, then warped into Alastor. Alastor scooped her up, ears pinning on his head.

"No, no, no, it's only me sweetie!" He panicked internally. Carina rubbed her eyes, then whispered,

"I don't like your shadow…"

"Should I hide it whenever you're around? Until you're older?" Alastor's brows raised.

"Hide it for a while…" She hugged him, voice now muffling. Alastor hesitated, but he started humming, radio static crackling gently.

"Heart beats fast,

Colors and promises,

How to be brave, how can I love when I'm afraid…to fall…

All of my doubt,

Suddenly goes away somehow..."

He slid down to the ground, eyes dull.

"One step closer…."

DT perked up, heading over to the singing. They grinned widely, leaning against the wall once more and watching.

"I have died everyday, waiting for you,

Darling don't be afraid,

I have loved you for a thousand years,

I'll love you for a thousand more."

Alastor's singing was always such a blessing to hear. Luckily, the shapeshifter also knew this song from…somewhere.

"Time stands still,

Beauty in all she is,

I will be brave,

I will not let anything take away,

What's standing in front of me~

Every breath, every hour has come to this,"

They strutted over and sat next to Alastor. Finally, they dueted to help a now sleepy Carina.

"One step closer…"

"Hmmm…" Carina sighed, closing her eyes.

"I have died everyday waiting for you," Alastor drew away a strand of loose hair from Carina's hair.

"Darling don't be afraid,

I have loved you for a thousand years," DT leaned against their future husband.

"I'll love you for a thousand more…

And all along I believed I would find you,

Time has brought your heart to me,

I have loved you for a thousand years,

I'll love you for a thousand more…"

Carina was finally sleeping peacefully, now.

DT kissed Alastor's cheek, making him blush.

"Lovely voice, darling." They sighed.

"The same with you." Alastor replied. "...after the marriage, I have a place where we can stay… it's quite nice and spacious, actually."

"Oh?" DT was intrigued, but made sure to keep their voice down.

"It's near a nice bayou and riverbank. Many forests, fireflies, flowers…perfectly calm, as well. We can make it like home as possible for you." Alastor suggested.

"Thank you, Al." DT gave a nod.

"Not a problem, dear." Alastor stood from the ground, then the two walked into the lobby. Alastor gently placed Carina on the couch, summoning a blanket to cover her.

"How about we take a look at your house?" DT suggested. Alastor's ears stuck up.

"That's a lovely idea!" He entwined his arm with theirs. "Buckle up, dear! This'll be a bumpy ride!"

Then, he teleported them both to the large cabin Alastor was talking about…

But something will be lurking. Something dangerous….

Something that was an old enemy before.

As Long As I'm Here, No One Can Hurt You

Chapter Summary

Song used: everything i wanted by Billie Eilish!!

Ohohohooooo you know I'm about to post more bullshit the upcoming daysssssss

Enjoy this chapter!! May post later today (or tonight for me hehe) ❤️🌟

The whirling teleportation magic of Alastor made DT sick once again.

"Hrrgh…" They grunted, trying to regain their balance.

"You alright, honey?" Alastor helped them up. He frowned, but sighed in relief when they popped back up.

"Just…not used to that." They brushed it off, then looked in front of them: the cabin was large, made out of ebony wood. It had a red roof, and many clear windows. Alastor wasn't kidding about the forests, and the riverbank. The rushing water was soothing.

"Soooo, what do you think?" Alastor asked.

"It looks amazing, Al." DT's eyes sparkled, then grabbed his hand. "Let's go inside!" They rushed forward, pulling Alastor in the process. Alastor threw his head back and laughed. But behind them was a pile of gelatinous malice… red, gray, black…it looked too familiar.

It's… him.

He slithered through towards a tree trunk, curling around it.

"Woah…" DT gazed around. They had wide, sparkling eyes, those like an innocent child. Alastor was quite fond of their reaction: he took their hands.

"Mind if I show you a few secrets?" He winked. Before the shapeshifter could answer, they were dragged into a secret compound. It was filled with knives, guns, weapons in general. Then, there was a picture of Alastor with…

His mom, as well as what seemed to be his older brother, and his little sister. The father was completely scratched out of the photo.

DT took notice of the photo. They gently reached for the frame, running their fingertips across the frame.

"Hey, Al?" They asked.

"Yes?" Alastor turned, smiling his famous smile. He walked over, then the grin twitched. "Ah…"

"...would they be proud?" They whispered. Alastor bit his lip. Hard. It began to bleed, but he took a breath.

"Of my sins, no… but she would be proud of my accomplishments. My mom was more strict over my older brother, since y'know. He got drafted in the military...my brother was also tougher than nails, but he loved us in his own way."

"And you didn't get drafted?"

"Oh, I did, for a few years, actually. I then became a radio host when I was 22, met you, yada yada yada."

"Is that why you have so many weapons?"

"Hand me down weapons, from my brother…his funeral was the hardest thing for me. I was…eleven, maybe…?"

"Oh…Al, I–"

"He and his friends were killed in World War I. They almost made it home…"

There was an eerie silence. Alastor didn't realize his eyes burning until DT hugged him from behind. They kissed his cheek twice.

"Jaxson also told me… 'As long as I'm here, no one can hurt you. You don't want to lie here, but you can learn to. If I could change the way that you see yourself, you wouldn't wonder why you hear that they don't deserve you.'. It…stuck with me." Alastor mumbled.

"It should: those assholes didn't deserve you." DT nodded firmly.

"But their screams were lovely." Alastor smirked.

"Oh, suddenly I'm aroused~"

"Good~"

There was another pause. DT held back a snicker, then they, and Alastor, collapsed into laughter.

"What the hell was all of that about?" DT spoke in between giggles.

"I haven't the slightest clue!" Alastor sighed, adjusting his gloves.

"...so how many rooms are there?"

"Three bedrooms, a big kitchen, dining room, living room…the essentials."

DT trailed their fingers on Alastor's chest.

"I'm interested in seeing the master bedroom." They purred. They then whispered on his neck, "I'm sure it's like you: it'll leave me… BREATHLESS…"

Alastor's tail thumped with excitement, and his ears flicked up.

"Mmmmm…alright…" He exhaled leading them to the master bedroom. He opened the door to see a king-sized bed, a table, a large window to show the riverbank, a wardrobe, and two lamps. The room also had a master bedroom.

"Ooh~ pretty." DT smiled again. "Is this bed soft?" They sat on it, then slowly sank in. "Oh. My God."

Alastor sat next to them, eyes dulled.

"Like it?" He asked.

"I do." DT answered. They turned their head to the window, seeing that it was now raining. "What…is that…?"

"You've never seen rain before?" Alastor blinked, mouth gaped a little.

"Not really… Well, it's like rain and snow, but it's like acid: it'll burn you."

"...how about I take you out into it. We rush to the riverbank, I can show you the lily pads, the fireflies, the alligators!"

"Sure, I don't see why not!"

Alastor smirked. He gripped their hand and warped them outside, both of them now drenched in the pouring rain.

DT flinched, but eased. They… weren't getting stung. With a sigh of relief, they then grinned. They shoved the Radio Demon into a puddle, and it splashed all over him.

"Oh, you minx!" Alastor spat playfully, taking them down with him. They rolled onto their backs, laughing their heads off. In the background, there was a radio playing from Alastor's cabin.

"I had a dream,

I got everything I wanted,

Not what you'd think,

And if I'm being honest,

It might've been a nightmare,

To anyone who might care,"

Alastor pulled himself and DT up, then ran through the forest, their laughter ringing like a pleasant melody.

It reminded DT of running away with him to elope. They were wearing a tuxedo shirt and jacket, but a long white skirt they were handed down from Alastor's mother. She didn't care about the gender of them, she only wanted Al to be happy. In fact, she was fond of DT, and always loved them.

Alastor wore a black tuxedo that night of the elopement. His shoes were shined, hair was cut and cleaned.

Now in the present, Alastor stopped and pulled DT into a deep and passionate kiss. They fondled each other for a moment, before Alastor led them to the riverbank, finally.

"As long as I'm here,

No one can hurt you,

Don't wanna lie here,

But you can learn to…"

"C'mon, Dee!" Alastor yelled. He dragged them into the riverbank, now splashing. Moss gently drifted around the couple.

DT let their hands sink in the water. It…calmed them. They felt something nudge them, and they turned to see a baby alligator, with sparkling eyes and somewhat dull scales.

"Ah, hello Rocco." Alastor greeted. "Is your momma around?"

Rocco bobbed his head, and saw a bigger alligator swim over.

"Rosaline, there you are!" Alastor extended his arms out. "Just passing by?"

Rosaline also bobbed her head. She swam towards DT, circling them. After a couple of innocent headbutts, she and her son swam off into the evening.

"They accept you." Alastor took DT's hand, kissing it.

"Well, that's good. At least they didn't bite my head off." DT brought up, deadpanning. Alastor snorted, then waved it off.

"No, no, they know better." He reassured. "...we should get out of the waters now. It's getting a little…" he noticed the malice blob. Calmly, he summoned a revolver.

"Wh-Al-" DT began, but they were silenced by a kiss. Alastor wrapped his left arm around them, dipping them while still kissing their lips, but they aimed at the goo and pulled the trigger. This revolver was special: blessing carved and tipped, dropped from the heavens and came with endless bullets.

The blob exploded, then faded into smoke. It was a minor inconvenience, but it worried DT. Alastor pulled away, sighing.

"Minor problem: solved it." Was all he told them.

"Ah." DT began. "You killed if for good, huh?"

"Indeed I did." He and the shapeshifter stepped out of the water, with Alastor summoning towels to wrap up DT and himself. They decided to head back to the hotel, quietly entering their room.

"That was a lovely tour, hun." DT felt warm and fuzzy. They took the towel off, as well as their clothes. They changed into something more comfortable. "We're living there after we're married?"

"That's the plan." Alastor hummed, also changing.

"...we can visit still, right?" DT's voice went quiet. Alastor whipped around, frowning.

"Of course! Why wouldn't we?"

"I don't know…" DT held the back of their neck. Alastor pursed his lips, before pecking their forehead.

"We can visit the hotel, Etheria, anywhere you desire! You're bound to me: I can make your dreams come true." He caressed the side of their face with his thumb. DT reached for his hand, gripping it. They closed their eyes for a moment.

"Hey… I'm proud of us." Alastor changed the subject, making DT snap their eyes wide open.

"I–I am too." They responded. "You went from toxic to kind…"

"You went from hesitant to confident."

DT snorted.

"Darling, I was always confident." They brought up smugly. "Especially in acting."

Alastor chuckled.

"That too." He then paused. "We should get to bed… it's been a bit of a long day, has it not?"

"You're right." DT yawned, getting under the covers. Alastor followed, cuddling them close while laying down.

"G'night, chér." He whispered onto their neck.

"Good night, honey." DT mimicked the tone. And so they went to sleep.

Alastor's night won't be so pleasant, though…

He Tried To Scream, But His Head Was Underwater...They Called Him WEAK.

Chapter Summary

Alastor struggles with his nightmares after his confessions to DT. Even Michael plagues him...

Chapter Notes

3/25/23: I'M ON SPRING BREAK HOES (affectionate) I'm just using a number generator for updating chapters cause I'm tired of going in order LMAO

TW: drowning, violence, nightmares, stabbing, maybe body horror and hallucinations.

His thoughts were clouded, per the usual. These events took a toll on him.

He was in the bayou, alone. He usually preferred it like this...though something felt eerie. He didn't like it...his ankles were strapped down by something...moss from underwater.

Alastor struggled to lift his legs or move, then he glared in front of him to see… Michael.

"YOU." He growled.

"Settle down, savage one." Michael tutted, sauntering over. He tilted his chin up, then caressed the side of his face. "Such a temper. I didn't remember that from you...oh wait. I do." He chuckled.

"What do you want, damned traitor?" Alastor snapped. Michael scowled, then it bloomed into a smirk slowly.

"I have something for you: your lover." He snapped his fingers, then DT appeared in a plume of smoke. Alastor's heart began to pump faster. Michael wouldn't...

Michael caressed their chin.

"So confident, charismatic, yet so…" He ran his tongue on the top of his teeth. He rose his hand, and shadows and malice swirled around them, possessing them. Their eyes went black, with ink tears now running down their face. Their hands had black, magenta and vibrant orange twist up all the way to their arms. Their eyes flickered from normal to demonic, and they glitched from a black void to Alastor's full demon form, to Michael...even combined some aspects of each of the three. But this wasn't DT: it was a bug–hybrid, angular and twisted. The mouth dripped with saliva and blood, it made the Radio Demon sick.

"NO!" Alastor screamed, then was yanked back and his head was submerged in the water. He sat up quickly, drenched and covered in moss.

"What would they think?" DT's voice was in sync with Michael's, as well as someone else's. Alastor squinted his eyes at the former archangel.

Michael changed his voice so suddenly, to something a little deeper with a Transatlantic tone in the mix: otherwise, still the same voice.

"...would they be proud?" He asked. "Dearest brother?"

A twisting feeling settled in Alastor's stomach, and he trembled. He suddenly felt cold. He tried getting up but the moss wrapped around his arms, keeping him down.

"You—" He whimpered. "You wouldn't—" He flinched when Michael raised his face up with his hands.

"Are you proud of killing me?" His tone was chilling.

A lump formed in Alastor's throat. No.

No, no, no. This was NOT Jaxson, right? This was a ruse, a sick trick to misinterpret reality itself.

"You aren't my brother!" Alastor screamed, rage finally seeping through the cracks.

"Are you sure, Al?" Michael smirked. "As long as I was there, no one could hurt you. You didn't wanna lie there, but you learned to. I changed the way that you see yourself. This was to the point when you realized you didn't hear—"

"...they don't deserve you." Alastor choked.

"Now...this is the fun part!" Michael summoned a holy dagger and stabbed Alastor in the side. Michael then flicked his wrist, and Alastor was tugged down into the river by magic wrapping around his ankles. His hands were wrapped together, and he couldn't get free.

He opened his mouth to scream, but it was gargled. His throat filled with water, and he choked. His eyes burned, and he felt sicker than before.

Michael spoke:

"I am the righteous hand of God,

And I am the devil that you forgot."

Laughter rang through Alastor's head.

"You tried to scream,

But your head is underwater,

You're weak!

You're weak,

You're WEAK."

Water was suffocating him. He was dying.

Dying.

Blood coated the blue waters, and Alastor felt lightheaded and weak. He stopped fighting and succumbed to this fate, closing his eyes and drowning to the bottom. The voices still rang in his head as eternal punishment...

Until he shot upright in bed. Sweat drenched his forehead, and his eyes were wide, looking around. He reached for DT out of instinct, then he dropped his shoulders: good, good...they were alive.

DT stirred, eyes lazily opening to see Alastor eventually curling up into a ball and shaking.

"Al, hey, hey..." DT whispered. "It's okay..." They pulled him close. "Don't worry, I'm here..."

The room was silent, until Alastor said,

"Michael, he... he's my brother...I–I killed my...brother."

DT blinked, processing the words that were said.

"Michael isn't your brother: he got in your head." They whispered groggily. "In fact, your brother should be in heaven now. Michael is dead, gone forever. It was a nightmare."

"But...I drowned...!"

"It's a dream." DT reassured him, giving him a tighter hug. "You're alive, Michael's dead, everything is okay."

Alastor sniffed a bit. "Sorry…"

"Don't be." DT laid him back down, hugging him close. "You have every right to be upset: just know, I'm here, okay?"

"Okay…" Alastor yawned a bit, ear flicking back.

"Cute little Bambi." DT poked his nose. They nuzzled into him, sighing gently. "Goodnight, dear. Please let me know if you need me."

"I will…" Alastor fell back asleep. DT ran their fingers through his hair.

"You know how to make me cry,

When you give me those ocean eyes…" They sung a little, then rested their chin on his head.

The night was calm afterwards.

Two Days

Chapter Summary

TW: vomit/spit, nightmares-ISH and LOOOOONG summary.

Smut too!!

Alastor's still dealing with last night's nightmare, and quickly overcomes it. However, today will be interesting, since he just found out that Katie Killjoy got her nasty grip on info about the arranged marriage. Chaos ensues.

Chapter Notes

Woop, woop! Okay, I raaaaaaaaarely use notes, but this iS SOMETHING I NEED TO CELEBRATE WITH YOU:

We've made it to over 2200 hits, 54 kudos, 9 bookmarks and 177 comments!! This fills me with so much HAPPINESS, y'all don't even know. I know this fic isn't SUPER popular, but to me? 25 kudos on an AO3 fic is nice work, boosts my confidence, but I didn't expect 54!!! And your comments are not only encouraging, but make me laugh, smile, or go "holy shit" in the best way possible!!

Okay, okay, I'm gonna stop gushing now, thanks for reading!!

Enjoy ❤️

"Good morning Bambi~" DT hummed.

Alastor's eyes opened slightly, he was still tired.

"G'morning." His voice was groggy. His head was pounding from last night.

"You're WEAK."

"Pathetic boy."

"No one can hurt you."

"Would they be proud?"

"You killed me, brother."

His heartbeat quickened.

"I'm…still a little shook." He tried his best to remain calm. "From last night.

"Do you want me to get you anything?" DT held his hand. "I can get you some coffee."

"Yeah, that…that would be nice." Alastor nodded. DT kissed his forehead.

"I'll be back." They got up and put on a black robe Alastor had stored for them. They left the room, and went downstairs to get some coffee.

Alastor sat on the edge of the bed, head buried in his hands. He finally looked up and went to the bathroom, shutting and locking the door. He turned on the sink, washing his face. He looked up in the mirror, seeing his tired eyes and messy hair.

Suddenly, he winced. He gripped the lip of the sink tightly with his left hand. He pressed his right hand to his mouth with force, feeling sick suddenly. He gagged, eyes now widening. He gagged again, now feeling something slimy. He pulled his hand away, seeing the same malice he saw last night. He examined it with horror.

He gasped, lights flickering off and on, until he saw Michael in the mirror, taking pleasure in the Radio Demon's misery. Then, it all went back to normal. No malice, no flickering lights, just Alastor.

He washed his face again, then afterwards started getting ready for the day. He walked out to see DT holding a coffee mug.

"Here you go, hun." They kissed him again, and also started getting ready.

Alastor sipped the coffee, giving a small, pleased hum. He set it down on his nightstand, summoning an old newspaper. He skimmed through boring news, drinking some more. He finally spit it out once he saw a MAJOR headline.

The Radio Demon FINALLY Found Love! Reporters Found Them Rooftop Dancing! Heartbreak Ensues!:

Alastor the Radio Demon was found with a shapeshifting menace from Etheria! News has leaked out to the public since last week, but it's really beginning to show! We'll be under wraps, certainly because we'll be dead before you know it! The two seemed to be infatuated with each other, but it seemed to fade when the couple began arguing and one of them ran off!

"When was this published?!" Alastor scrambled to find the publication date. He grew furious when he found out this was published by someone from 666 News. He scrunched the paper, growling out in frustration. "UGH!"

"Sooooo, uh." DT walked up to Alastor. "Apparently…we need to go to 666 Studios. For an interview."

"Now?!" Alastor scoffed. "Since when?!"

"Charlie just found out today by getting a call." DT sighed. Alastor clasped his hands together, bringing it to his mouth. He took a breath.

"I'm cool. I'm cool, I'm cool, I'm cool." He paced back and forth.

"It'll be okay, right?~" DT pulled him closer. They kissed him, and he kissed back. He pushed them onto the bed, and they kissed more. One thing led to another, DT was on top of Alastor.

"Ah~ yes, yes, yes~" They moaned, at their climax. Alastor thrusted more.

"How do you like it?" He purred. DT nodded, then moaned more. Alastor pulled out, then had DT get on their back. He kissed them more, holding their hands down on the mattress.

"I love you~" DT shuddered.

"I love you too." Alastor whispered on their neck. They held each other for a minute, then put their clothes on once more. They headed down to the lobby, seeing Charlie holding hands with Vaggie, all while sitting on one of the couches.

"You ready?" Charlie asked.

"Yup..." Alastor commented.

"Let's go, then." Charlie, Vaggie, Alastor and DT then headed out to the limousine. They drove off, and there was static.

"What's up, Al?" Charlie asked.

"He's kinda pissed." DT answered, leaning against him.

"About Katie Killjoy eventually finding out?" Vaggie frowned, crossing her arms.

"Yup." DT sighed.

"Well, the bright side is: Katie can't try any shit with Alastor around." Charlie smiled out of reassurance.

"That's true…" DT shrugged with one shoulder, but Alastor still remained silent.

"Al. Earth to Al." Charlie waved her hand.

"Hm?" Alastor asked. "Sorry, sorry…preoccupied." He looked out the window.

DT tilted their head to the side, until they whispered something in his ear to get a reaction without him: it certainly did, though.

"D–DT!" He stuttered, face bright red. They giggled, finally saying,

"Finally snapped you out of it."

"I guess so." Alastor muttered, ears flicked back. He smirked once they kissed his cheek.

"And in enough time, too, we're here." They noticed, and the limo stopped. They got out, seeing the large studios. "So how bad is Katie Killjoy?"

"Wait and see." Charlie sucked in a sharp breath. "Here we go."

Everything only goes downhill from there.

Bitch Fight!

Chapter Summary

!!!!WARNING, PLEASE READ AND DON'T SKIP!!!!
There is a homophobic slur used in this chapter! In no way do I condone homophobic behavior or actions, this is a one time use of this word in the chapter! If you are uncomfortable with this word, someone used this against you, skip that tiny section of this chapter. It's okay if you skip that portion, because I care about my readers more than views and kudos. I'll put a section of where it begins and ends. Thank you for reading!!

Chapter Notes

TW: homophobia, fighting, Ton Trench burning.

#PoorTomTrench

Me, posting another chapter in the same hour???? :OOOOOO I'M ON A ROLL!!!! :D also they use the word "fuck" a lot in this chapter. Sorry 😔

Enjoy loveliesssssss ❤️ ❤️ ❤️

"Oh suck it up, little bitch!"

DT winced at that. Damn. She's THAT type of person. They pondered.

"Poor thing…" They mumbled while looking at Tom Trench. "Had coffee spilled on him in places he didn't want."

"Okay, my dear." Alastor became serious quickly. He turned to them, brushing back a loose strand of hair from their face. "Katie Killjoy is infamous for being an absolute bitch, and 90% chance that a fight will break out."

DT gave a hum.

"I'll be on guard for that." They replied coolly.

"She may say some shitty stuff, but stay as calm as possible." Alastor put his hands on their shoulders. "I'll work on trying to do that too."

"Well~" The shapeshifter began. "I can result to my improv skills, if anything." They winked at him, turning on their heel, heading towards Katie Killjoy.

"Hmm, YOU'RE the betrothed." Katie Killjoy blew some smoke, some of it getting in their face. They coughed a bit, fanning it away.

"Yup. The name's Double Trouble." They extended their hand out.

"Oh, sorry hun," Katie Killjoy smacked their hand away. "I don't touch the gays. I got standards."

An ocean blue blush began to show on DT's cheeks. Not out of embarrassment, but anger.

"Ah." They hissed out. "So, um…how's that working?"

"Listen: all I want is the deets of the arranged marriage, not small talk. That's what you're useful for, or else you wouldn't be here." Katie poked them three times. Oh, how they wanted to bite her fucking finger clean off her hand. They gazed over at Tom Trench, who was shaking his head.

"I'm too influential and rich to give a rat's ass about what some Baby Yoda demon has to say about anything other than the reason why you're here." Katie spat.

"I–" DT's face turned a brighter ocean blue, losing their patience. Their ears flattened while their eyes narrowed. They flexed their clawed hand, balling it into a fist.

"Don't get cute with me, because I will fucking BURY you." Katie got in their face, sneering.

"Do we have a problem?" Alastor warped over, gripping their shoulders. His smile became threatening.

"Not at all, Radio Demon. Not at all." Katie seemed to be slightly annoyed, rather than intimidated.

"We're live!" Someone exclaimed, and Katie immediately went back on set.

"Welcome back!" She gave a faux grin, cracking her neck. "Today we have some very SPECIAL guests, ones that'll be ending a long-time war! The Radio Demon and the Shapeshifting Psycho from Etheria!"

The lights shined on the couple, and DT winced slightly. Alastor had blinked a bit, before turning his head to face the news anchor.

"Now, tell us a bit about how this started." She leaned in, resting her nonexistent chin on the backs of her hands.

"Well, he traveled to Etheria as a big-time threat, with henchmen all over the damn place." DT began, crossing their arms and resting them on the table. "I did kill a majority of them." They gave Alastor a toothy smirk, obviously being smug.

"After all, I did keep sending them to view your tactics of killing." Alastor replied.

"Darling, you didn't even know it was me that was the killer."

"Nah, ah, not WATCH you, per say, rather see the bodies of my henchmen. The most recent one was the most shocking: it was like you took notes from me."

"It was only something I learned long ago."

Tom Trench actually seemed genuinely invested and curious. Katie was only milking them for the views.

"Anywho, after all that took place, he waltzed into Bright Moon castle, threatening death, then choosing me out of all people." DT concluded.

"He chose YOU, over some prettier broad?" Katie huffed out a laugh.

"Excuse me?" Alastor deadpanned, smile still sharp.

"I mean, look at…what the fuck even ARE you?!" Katie scoffed. She gestured to DT like they were something awful. "Anyone else from Etheria would've been better than this thing."

DT almost shrank back, if it weren't for their pride holding them up.

"Well, as you would say, this 'thing' goes by 'them' or 'they', and I expect you to kindly respect that about Double Trouble." Alastor stood up for them, brows furrowed. Static began crackling once more out of frustration.

"Ah. I knew you were gay, but I didn't know you're more than one thing." Katie laughed, but Tom Trench shrank back. DT's face was a bright ocean blue once more, but it was way more prominent. Their nails dug into the table out, and Charlie grimaced.

"This is NOT going well." She muttered. Vaggie put a hand to her mouth, watching it all go down.

"My dear." Alastor whispered, taking their hand.

That's when Katie took it WAY too far.

(USE OF A HOMOPHOBIC SLUR USED BELOW!!!)**

"And to top it all off, I never knew the Radio Demon was a faggot!"

(USE OF A HOMOPHOBIC SLUR IS NOW OVER!!!)**

Everyone in the crowd winced. Tom Trench ran, whispering apologies to DT and Alastor. There was an eerie silence that hung over everyone. Alastor's smile was now forming into a frown, no, a scowl, to be precise.

The Radio Demon, frowning for all to see. That was some of the scariest shit some demons have seen.

In fact, half of the audience bolted off to find the nearest exit.

From the hotel, Angel Dust screamed,

"BITCH! ALASTOR'S GONNA BEAT YA OLD, CRUSTY MUSTY ASS!" at the TV in the lobby.

"You're old too, Angel." Vox teased.

"Fuck you."

"Fuck me yourself, coward."

"I'm already fucking Husk, I can't fuck you."

"Then do you wanna have a three-way fuck off?"

"What the FUCK." Octavia walked in at the wrong time.

"Stop with the fuck talk, please." Husk pinched the bridge of his nose.

"And language, Via." Stolas scolded gently.

"God damn…she really took it that far." Blitzø scratched the back of his head.

"Oh dear." Stolas muttered. "The fight has begun.

"Oh fuck." Vaggie gripped her spear. "She did NOT just say that."

Alastor gave a blank stare at Katie.

"What did you just call me?" He was actually close to losing his shit.

"I–" Katie tried to downplay it.

"No, no, what in the everliving FUCK did you just call me?" Alastor had grown impatient and downright furious. His antlers made a loud slapping noise, eyes shifting into radio dials.

"Don't you ever SPEAK to him like that AGAIN, you BITCH!" DT yelled with a surprising amount of malice to their tones, and everything stopped.

Katie stared at the two of them, her eyes now glowing all red. She shifted into her full demon form, as did Alastor.

"FIGHT ME, COWARD!" DT then shoved her onto the table.

"Oh SHIT!" Charlie jumped into action, trying to pull back the shapeshifter.

"DT!" Alastor yelled, then saw them absolutely crushing it. "Oh~ that's a new fighting tactic~" He was now smitten with their swift moves.

DT kicked Katie in the eye with their heel while she was pulling their hair. When she stumbled back, they tackled her, and Tom Trench caught on fire again.

"I'M BURNING!" He screamed, and Charlie grabbed a water bottle, pouring water on him to extinguish the flames.

Soooo, yeah. Everything's a mess. But the hotel residents were enjoying it.

"DT, DT, DT!" Angel Dust, Vox, Blitzø, and Husk were changing.

"Oh my god. This is fucking brilliant." Loona smiled at all of this.

"Are they gonna be okay?!" Moxxie asked.

"Relax sweetie, they'll be fine!" Millie reassured.

"What the heck?!" Arielle's wings lashed out, surprised.

"Wow…" Carina crooned. "That seems scary.

"Okay, we're back!" Glimmer had teleported the Rebellion back into the lobby. "What the FUCK?!"

"Is DT fighting some demon?!" Catra laughed. "HELL YEAH! WOO!" She was cheering for them like some of the others.

"To be fair, Katie Killjoy DID call Alastor a fa…y'know." Angel stopped himself right there.

"Ooh." Bow understood, wincing a tiny bit. The cameras finally cut out, and nobody could see what was going on.

Yup. That was… interesting.

Glad it's over now.

2200+ Hits Special! MORE Incorrect Quotes!

Chapter Summary

I'M ON A ROLL TODAY HAHAAAAAAAA anyway some of the incorrect quotes I used were taking from Fandom by a bunch of user friends and I!!

https://she-raandtheprincessesofpower.fandom.com/f/p/4400000000000034618

Everyone is standing around the broken coffee maker

Alastor: So. Who broke it? I'm not mad, I just wanna know.

Everyone:

Niffty: ...I did. I broke it.

Alastor: No. No you didn't. Scorpia?

Scorpia: Don't look at me. Look at Glimmer.

Glimmer: What?! I didn't break it.

Scorpia: Huh, that's weird. How'd you even know it was broken?

Glimmer: Because it's sitting right in front of us and it's broken.

Scorpia: Suspicious.

Glimmer: No, it's not!

Double Trouble: If it matters, probably not, but Angel was the last one to use it.

Angel: Liar! I don't even drink that crap!

Double Trouble: Oh really? Then what were you doing by the coffee cart earlier?

Angel: I use the wooden stirrers to push back my cuticles. Everyone knows that, Double Trouble!

Niffty: Okay let's not fight. I broke it. Let me pay for it, Al.

Alastor: No! Who broke it!?

Everyone:

Double Trouble: Al... Glimmer’s been awfully quiet.

Glimmer: rEALLY?!

Everyone starts arguing

Alastor, being interviewed: I broke it. I burned my hand so I punched it.

Alastor: I predict 10 minutes from now they'll be at each other's throats with warpaint on their faces and a pig head on a stick.

Alastor:

Alastor: Good. It was getting a little chummy around here.

***

DT: I’m gonna need a human skull and I can't have you ask any questions why.

Alastor: Only if you also don't ask why

Alastor: Pulls out 7 pristine human skulls Take your pick.

DT:

Alastor:

DT: This one is fine

***

Angel Dust: I turned out perfectly fine!

Vaggie: Angel, this morning you thought a ghost made your toast

Angel Dust: I DIDN’T PUT THE BREAD IN! YOU DIDN’T PUT THE BREAD IN!!!

***

DT: Have you eaten today?

Alastor: Have you eaten today?

DT: Are you copying me?

Alastor: Are you copying me?

DT: I love you.

Alastor: Yeah, I ate an hour ago.

DT, tearing up: sniff

Alastor: DEE, PLEASE DON'T CRY, I WAS KIDDING, I LOVE YOU TOO-

***

DT: Why is Alastor so sad?

Charlie: They took one of those “Which Character Are You?” quizzes

DT: And...?

Alastor : They got Vaggie.

***

DT: Have you seen a person named 'Alastor ' around here?

Charlie: Ugh, yes. They made a horrible mess of the blood fountain.

Blitzø: It looks fine to me?

Vaggie: IT USED TO BE WATER!!!

***

DT: I made tea.

Alastor : I don’t want tea.

DT: I did not make tea for you. This is my tea.

Alastor : Then why are you telling me?

DT: It is a conversation starter.

Alastor : That’s a lousy conversation starter.

DT: Oh, is it? We are conversing. Checkmate.

***

Alternative responses to "I love you":

Carina: Thanks!

Arielle: laughs nervously

Horde Prime: I'm sorry

Alastor: Who doesn't?

DT: a horrible decision, really—

Entrapta: laughs hysterically

Blitzø: finger guns

Angel Dust: I know

Valentino: why

Sea Hawk: YEET

Katie Killjoy: if only there was someone out there who loved you

***

That's all lmfao

Aftermath

Chapter Summary

Aftermath of the fight!! Hope you like it :D

Also I'm referencing this fic:

https://www.google.com/amp/s/www.wattpad.com/amp/927506427

I believe this fic was for satire, but it was the weirdest shit I've read. Made me laugh my ass off though.

Enjoy ❤️

Chapter Notes

UPDATED: 11/6/22

Heyyyyy I updated it!! Wanted to change something I didn't like.

DT, Alastor, Charlie and Vaggie were beaten and bruised after what happened. They rode back to the hotel, and DT brought up,

"Welp. Never doing that again."

"God, I hope not." Alastor deadpanned, taking his torn up jacket off. "That was the biggest mistake. One, last minute, and two, a drama fest."

"Are you okay otherwise?" Charlie wondered. "She did call you—"

"I'd rather not talk about it. My father called me that a lot, so that brought some shit back." Alastor crossed his right leg over right.

Charlie's phone began ringing, and she pulled it out of her pocket. It was her dad.

"Dad?" She answered.

"Your mother and I saw what happened on the news." Lucifer started slowly.

"Oh, did you?" Charlie held the back of her neck.

"Mhmmm." Lilith spoke up.

"Okay, okay, but the thing is—" Charlie was about to justify.

"We know. Alastor tore her a new one." Lilith could be heard laughing. "I hate her so much."

"I do too, mom." Charlie gave a relieved smile.

"Anyway, that's not the important part: what's important is that we're getting everything ready for the wedding, now. Those places will remain untouched." Lucifer cut in.

"Oh, wow! Thank you, Dad!" Charlie exclaimed.

"Not a problem, little apple." Lucifer smiled at her voice. "The food will be prepared on the day of the wedding, so it doesn't rot."

"Sounds good!"

"I'll see you later, little apple!"

"Alright, bye dad!" Charlie then hung up. "Dad's having everything ready for the wedding."

"Oh, awesome!" DT grinned. The limo stopped, and they got out. They headed into the hotel, and once they shoved the doors open, everyone was staring at them.

"FUCK YEAH!" Blitzø cheered, and everyone started applauding them.

"Oooookay. I assume you saw the news?" DT raised a brow.

"Yup! And you fucked Katie UP." Blitzø grinned deviously.

"Tore her a new one." Striker commented, actually walking through the front door with them.

"Where the hell were you?" Moxxie asked.

"Saw some weird lookin' goo. Shot it, though." Striker shrugged.

"Ew." Moxxie cringed.

"Lovely." Verosika muttered.

"Where've YOU been?" Loona's ears flicked up.

"Angel stole my fucking eyeshadow." Verosika glared daggers at the spider demon.

"I was gonna give it back!" Angel yelled.

"When?!"

"After the wedding!"

"OH HELL NO!"

"Calm your raspberry tits, I'll give it back!"

DT huffed out a laugh at the exchange. How absurd.

The phone on the hotel's front desk began to ring.

"I got it." Charlie walked over, answering. "Hello, Charlie Morningstar of the Hazbin Hotel speaking!"

"Heya, doll! It's Mimzy." Mimzy introduced herself. "Al let me know about the wedding, and I was wondering if I could bring my band for some music."

"Oh, that would be amazing!" Charlie beamed.

"Great! Where do I need to meet?"

"Morningstar Castle. I'll let my parents know about this!"

"Thanks, doll! Can I also bring a plus one?"

"Who're you bringing?"

"Rosie~"

"Ah, alright! Thanks for calling! Take care now, bye." Charlie hung up. "Soooo, we're getting music for the wedding."

"We heard, babe." Angel Dust hummed.

"Right, sorry." She smiled nervously.

"You're good, hun." Vaggie told her.

"Oh, I forgot to ask!" Charlie realized, "How's Etheria?"

"Good: nothing majorly complicated, aside from Swift Wind being…well, Swift Wind. And my dad was encouraging him."

Glimmer rolled her eyes. "Apparently, they read something about them being…in cahoots."

"Someone actually wrote fanfiction of them? And who's Swift Wind?" Nifty asked.

"He's my horse." Adora answered.

"Oh no." Octavia deadpanned. "No. No, no, no."

Nifty then gave a hundred yard stare.

"...oh, it was THAT type of fanfiction." She whispered. She then ran and got bleach, about to open it. "I knew this would come in handy—"

"Nope." Cherri Bomb took it and capped it. "But who the fuck would write that?"

"Dunno. Maybe it was satire." Vox shrugged.

"Ohhhh, that's true." Vaggie took note of it. "But still."

"That's genuinely a crime." Alastor grimaced. "And that's saying something coming from ME."

"Okay, let's move on from that: I have the BEST idea for tomorrow for the couple." Angel Dust stood up. "Spa day."

"HELL YEAH! That way they can have at least one more moment before the wedding..." Verosika agreed. "Then we're taking DT away." She winked.

"Ooh, wait! I can show you Mystacore!" Glimmer's eyes sparkled. "They have really nice hot springs."

"God, it's been a while since I've been to Mystacore." DT realized.

"And instead of wasting your teleportation." Stolas began. "I can lend you the grimoire to travel to Etheria!"

"Wait, I thought it could only take us to the human world?" Millie was confused.

"You haven't read all of it, have you?" Stolas raised his brows. "There are a LOT more places I can go with this."

"Well slap my ass and call me Daddy." Blitzø remarked.

"Please don't." Moxxie commented.

"Then it's decided?" Charlie looked at Glimmer, who then nodded.

"Consider this my wedding gift!" She put her hands on her hips.

"Aww, thank you Sparkles." DT smirked.

"This'll be interesting." Alastor went into thought.

"And what are we eating tonight!" Charlie concluded. There was silence. She then suggested, "...Chinese?"

"I don't see anything wrong with that." Millie shrugged.

Chinese it is, then.

…now I want Chinese.

A Spicy Yet Actually Cute Night

Chapter Summary

I'm on a ROLL! :D

Anywayyyyy it was meant to be smut, but then I made it sweet :)

Enjoy!! ❤️

That Chinese food everyone ordered was good. Jokes were exchanged, laughs were had, and overall, a calm and pleasant dinner. But DT was told to wait to go to their room by Alastor.

"I'm going to get something ready for us," He whispered, then kissed their cheek. He summoned a rose behind their ear, and he warped away. Only his shadow was left, and he wrapped around them in a cuddling way. Alastor returned, scowling at his shadow, until it followed him.

"Ooh~" Catra teased. "Someone's in love~"

"Shut it, Kitten." DT quipped.

"What could Al be planning?" Charlie wondered.

"Something spicy, maybe." Angel smirked.

"Maybe." DT hummed. After a couple minutes, Alastor's shadow led them up to their room. On the door, it read:

Go get changed into your robe, then go to the bathroom~

DT shut the room door behind them, locking it. They opened the bathroom door to see rose petals, scattered on the tiles. The lights were dimmed, the room was steamy, and candles were lit: the flames were a gorgeous magenta. Alastor was in a dark red and black robe, sitting on the edge of the tub.

"Hey, DT~" His voice went deep and demonic as he purred. He stood up and slid his robe off, so it was hanging from his arms. His scarred arms and chest were exposed, and DT's face flushed.

"Oh~" They untightened their robe and opened it, now dropping it to the ground. They wore nothing under it. "Are you ready, darling~?"

Alastor took off his robe wordlessly, tossing it to the side and getting in the water. He was more than ready. The bath was bubbly and warm, and DT got in as well, with their back against Alastor's chest.

"Mind if I—" Alastor rubbed their shoulders. DT groaned, feeling him doing it so well.

"That's amazing, Al." They praised. They scooped up some bubbles, blowing them. They giggled, then purred when Alastor kissed their neck.

"I wanted to try something different… something more… enticing~" His breath became hot.

"It's working~" DT scooted down a bit more, leaning back. Alastor wrapped his arms around them.

"Orrrr, we can just have a nice bath." He hummed.

"I'm down with whatever you want, darling." DT sighed. Alastor pulled his hands away and started playing with their hair.

"Your hair's pretty soft, actually." He complimented.

"Oh, thank you." DT responded. "...can I talk about something?"

"Go on." Alastor nodded.

"...I was wondering, after the marriage thing, and we've settled down…we could try to have a baby."

"Oh…?"

"If you're ready…! I don't want to pressure you."

"No, no, I'm just…worried. Since last time you got pregnant…"

It clicked in the shapeshifter's head. They remembered that night all too well…

"Right…" They faltered.

"But—" Alastor smiled. "—that won't hinder your ideas or dreams. If you want to try, we can."

DT smiled.

"Thank you."

"Now~ should we drink?" Alastor was about to summon a bottle of wine.

"No, I'm actually…getting kinda tired." DT admitted.

"...then let's go to bed." Alastor smiled down at them. DT nodded, getting out of the bath. Alastor summoned a towel for them, wrapping it around them. They smiled, stepping out. They picked up their robe and set it near the sink. They dried off and put the robe.

Alastor also dried off and put his robe on. With a snap of his fingers, everything was clean and normal. They walked out and then put on some comfy clothes. DT got into bed first, and Alastor cuddled up to them.

"Goodnight, dear." He kissed them goodnight. They fell asleep in each other's arms. Today turned out to be a better day. As long as they had each other, nothing was bad.

It was them against the world.

Tightrope

Chapter Summary

Song used: Tightrope from The Greatest Showman!!

:)

About two hours later, DT randomly woke up. They saw Alastor sleeping peacefully, and smiled. He was frowning, but once the shapeshifter kissed his forehead, a small grin bloomed. DT got up and put on their robe. They put on a pair of slippers and quietly left the room. They just needed to walk.

Their thoughts were endless: memories playing over and over.

Doubts were summoned, fears developed.

They leaned against the wall, eyes dulled.

"Some people long for a life that is simple and planned…

Tied with a ribbon,

Some people won't sail the sea, 'cause they're safer on land…

To follow what's written,

But I'd follow you…to the great unknown…"

They pushed themself off the wall, walking right.

"Off to a world we call our own."

They saw emerald and ruby flames dancing in the dark hole, almost in sync.

"Hand in my hand,

And we promise to never let go,

We're walking a tightrope~

High in the sky,

We can see the whole world down below,

We're walking a tightrope."

They advanced to the flames, like they themself were on a tightrope. Their tail swished gently.

"Never sure, never know how far we could fall,

But it's all an adventure,

That comes with a breathtaking view…

Walking a tightrope…with you,

Oh, oh, oh, oh…"

They advanced more, then spun around, not even caring that the flames disappeared. The hotel became alive, and Alastor's shadow watched from a safe distance.

"Mountains and valleys, and all that will come in between,

Desert and ocean,

You pulled me in and together, we're lost in a dream,

Always in motion,

So I…risk it all,

Just to be with you…"

Them being selected as a spouse was a risk: especially when they ACCEPTED IT. But…it became so bittersweet.

"And I~ risk it all, for this life we choose…"

Alastor's shadow warped up to them, taking their hand. They were alarmed at first, but eased.

"Hand in my hand,

And you promise to never let go,

We're walking a tightrope,

High in the sky, we can see the whole world down below,

We're walking a tightrope,"

At this point, the two were on the roof now, after climbing the stairs. DT got too close to the edge again.

"Never sure, will you catch me, IF I SHOULD FALL~!" They reached out, and we're dipped by their fiancè's shadow. They startled themself, but calmed down. They were pulled up.

"Well it's all an adventure, that comes with a breathtaking view…

Walking a tightrope…

With you, oh, oh, oh, oh…"

They pressed their forehead against the shadow's. It slowly shifted into Alastor as they began dancing.

"With you~" Alastor smiled down at them.

"Oh~...

With you~" DT concluded, pausing. The two leaned in to kiss, basking in the moonlight. Little did DT know…

What they experienced was a dream.

Satisfying.

Calming.

Reassuring of their doubts.

…They didn't want it any other way.

It was…almost perfect.

And they were grateful for this opportunity.

Tomorrow..!

Chapter Summary

Memories...so fond, so sweet, bitter, all in between. DT and Alastor spend time with each other at Mystacore.

Chapter Notes

WOOOOOOOOOSH WE'RE ALMOST DONE :D holy sheit man, it's amazing how far this fic has come. I'll make a mushy sentiment when I'm actually done with the fic lmao love y'all!!

Tale As Old As Time - Beauty and the Beast
Next to Me - Imagine Dragons
Sibella - Bryce Pinkham

If I miss something lemme know, this chapter kicked my ASS —

ALSO my friend's OC Othermind is back because I forgot he existed 💀 so after discussing the canon with my friend about his OC, we both agreed that he's nocturnal.

Enjoyyyyy ❤️

"I just had the best dream, Al." DT woke up the next morning.

"Oh?" Alastor grinned. "Go on~"

"It was only you and I, but…it was calming." DT sighed blissfully.

"Glad to hear that, my dear." He held their hand and kissed the back of it. They leaned into the touch, smiling broadly. They perked up.

"We're going to Mystacore!" They exclaimed, genuinely excited.

"Oh, that's right!" Alastor remembered. "We should get around then, yes?"

"Hell yeah!" DT got up, then started getting ready with Alastor. After that was accomplished, the two headed downstairs.

"You excited?" Glimmer smiled at them.

"Eh, more relaxed." DT put up a facade. Alastor snorted a bit at their reaction, then cut in,

"They are."

"Hush!" DT teased, and Alastor kissed their cheek.

"Never~" He purred.

"Ooookay then!" Charlie brought up in a singsong tone. "Stolas?"

Stolas nodded, opening up his grimoire. He flipped through a bunch of pages, then smiled at the correct one. He flicked his wrist, and summoned a portal for Etheria.

"After you, Your Highness." Stolas bowed in front of Glimmer. Glimmer smiled, hopping through with Bow after being given the grimoire and told to be VERY careful with it. Once they got through, DT almost instantly jumped in: they couldn't contain their excitement, no matter how hard they tried.

"Should we start with the hot springs?" Glimmer suggested.

"YES." DT answered, and Alastor chuckled. DT leaned against Alastor, and he wrapped his arm around them. Glimmer showed them to the hot springs. After settling in, DT sunk into the water, feeling comfortable.

"Damn, this is nice…" Alastor hummed. The shapeshifter leaned against him, eyes dull.

"I'm glad to be sharing this with you." They mumbled.

"The feeling's mutual, shapeshifter." Alastor stuck out his tongue.

"Mmkay deer dick."

"You wound me!" Alastor gasped, dramatic. He pressed the back of his hand to his forehead. "After months of love, you—"

He was silenced by a kiss.

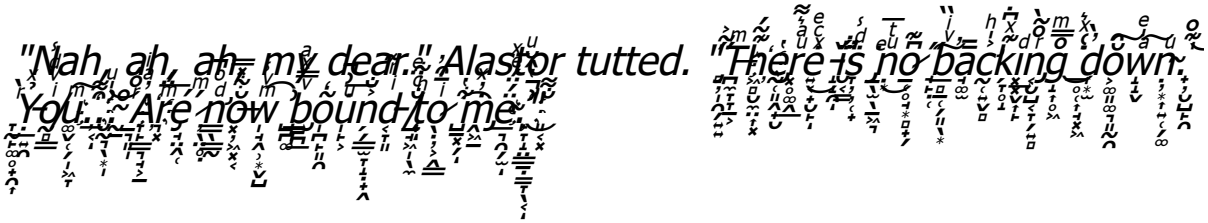

"Mhm~" They winked flirtatiously. "..." They went silent, hugging him close. The memories began to process through their head.

"You! You are perfect."

"Erm...thank you..?"

They remembered the first interaction: made them pissed back then, but grateful now.

"Is there a choice to turn around and say no...?" DT gave a dry chuckle.

"Nah, ah, ah, my dear." Alastor tutted. "There is no backing down. You. Are now bound to me."

They looked up at the Radio Demon, who was content. They hugged him suddenly. Alastor flinched, but eased.

"Whatcha thinkin' about?" He asked, curious. That didn't snap them out of it, though.

"Y'know, this jambalaya is spicy, just like you~ wait." His whisper was a purr, and his breath was a little hot. But it made Double Trouble's face heat up, and a grin bloomed on their features.

"Ohh, my." Double Trouble chuckled, leaning to him. Alastor's face turned a bright red, realizing what he had unleashed. Double Trouble put their hand on his hand, before it slithered down to his chest…

The memories were echoing through their mind in a pleasant melody, with some song mysteriously playing in the background.

"You're aces, y'know. You're tall…gorgeous…mysterious…oh, I could die for you a million times."

A kiss to the back of their hand.

"Oh, Al, stop it! You're gonna make me flustered! I mean, I'm already feeling warm and fuzzy from the drinks, heh."

DT smiled, but then it faded.

"I am not a damned clone. You're a fucker who can't tell the difference, between a dead person and a living one!" They raised their voice. "God, what are you, fucking schizophrenic?!" Of course they didn't meant that. They just didn't think when those words escaped their mouth.

Their breathing was somewhat ragged, and it softened when Alastor looked absolutely defeated in a sad way.

"Al,"

"..."

"Al, hun, I'm so sorry, I-"

"I-I gotta go." Alastor's voice broke again, and he bolted off.

"Alastor! I'M SO SORRY!" They smacked their forehead. "FUCKING IDIOT!"

"Hey, I…I'd like to apologize about—" DT sat up, but Alastor put his finger to their lips.

"I know, it's okay." It was like he read their mind. They sighed shortly, out of relief even.

"Al, what are you doing…?" DT wondered.

"Making you realize how gorgeous you are."

"You're delectable, you're undeniable. You never fail to impress me. You're adorable."

"I'm going to shower you with compliments until the nastiness goes away."

"Don't you see there are no scars to your beautiful?"

"You deserve the world, my love."

"I'm proud of you." Alastor told them.

"I know…you tell me that constantly." DT rolled their eyes playfully.

"Al, hey, hey..."

"You're okay,"

"I-I can't breathe-"

"Name four things you can see."

"O-okay... um...I see you...the bed...I saw the calendar earlier, and...you."

"Three things you feel."

"...heartbeat, the sheets, you holding my hands..."

"Two things you hear."

"Your voice, and radio static...?"

"And one thing you taste."

Alastor blinked back tears and confusion.

"What?" He asked, but his eyes widened when DT kissed his lips.

"What about now?"

Alastor pursed his lips.

"...green tea…can…I taste more?"

…

"Oh~"

Alastor seemed to have played that memory in his head. It made him tense, but DT caught on instantly. They wrapped their arm around his, humming a melody.

"Tale as old as time,

True as it can be,

Barely even friends,

Then somebody bends,

Unexpectedly…"

There was a small shake to his tone. He was never this nervous… Why was it different?

"Just a little change,

Small to say the least,

Both a little scared,

Neither one prepared,

Beauty and the Beast,"

His voice remained so soft, so gentle.

"Ever just the same,

Ever a surprise,

Ever as before,

Ever just as sure as the sun will rise,

Tale as old as time,

Tune as old as song,

Bittersweet and strange,

Finding you can change,

Learning you were wrong…

Certain as the sun,

Rising in the east,

Tale as old as time,

Song as old as rhyme,

Beauty and the Beast…"

DT was fast asleep by now, sighing silently. They were comfortable and content. Alastor continued to run his hand through their hair.

"Tale as old as time,

Song as old as rhyme…

Beauty… and the Beast…"

That was a nice, calming night. Melodies and pleasant dreams.

"Hey…we should probably get out so we aren't like raisins." DT spoke in between giggles, then snorted a bit.

"What?" Alastor laughed. "Oh, ohhhh... gotcha."

So they got out, and Alastor wrapped a towel around DT. DT smiled, kissing his cheek.

"Love you~" They told him.

"I love you too!" He beamed. "Where to next?"

"Apparently, there was a beach here: I don't know, it's been a long while since I've visited here." They put back on their clothes, as did Alastor.

"So let's have a look around!" Alastor took their hand, and they were off! How are the others, you wonder?

Pretty great, actually! Charlie's helping Mimzy and her band set up in the ballroom of her parents' castle. There were tables sprawled out with nice table decor. Other decorations were put up amazingly, but the main hall is where everything is bound to happen. There was a wedding arch on top of the fourth step in the main hall, where the thrones would usually be. There was white and red carpeting that trailed down from the arch to the entrance.

Husk had agreed to help bartend, Nifty could help cook and prepare the food, and Charlie made sure the guests were here– and actually on the list. She was even kind enough to invite Tom Trench. Tom Trench accepted the invite happily, and offered to keep it all a secret.

"Yes, Stella!" Stolas yelled over his phone. "I understand that you WEREN'T invited, but you aren't close to the Radio Demon!"

Octavia winced at her mother screaming at her father.

"Hey, kiddo." Angel Dust hummed. "Ignore them and lemme ask you this: how do you want eyeshadow?"

"Oh, uh…my usual look is fine…" She answered politely, even rather shyly. Angel smiled.

"Whateva you're comfortable with, Via." He told her, patting her shoulder. By this time, Stolas hung up and quickly apologized for the ruckus.

"Apparently your mother can't go without knowing every party thrown by the Morningstars." He huffed out. "This is a private occasion, how did it leak?"

"Katie Killjoy being a bitch." Blitzø replied simply.

"Ah." Was all the Goetia Prince said.

"DT, come out of the shade, hun." Alastor reached for their hand.

"I'm just comfy here." DT shrugged. Alastor rolled his eyes, grabbed their hand and pulled them into the sun, dipping them.

"Hmm~" The Radio Demon hummed.

"Fucker." DT rolled their eyes as well. They lightened up when he kissed them. "Should we explore a bit more than just the beach? We can come back~"

"Of course!" Alastor seemed to also be spontaneous.

"We could check out the Hall of Sorcerers!"

"Now THAT sounds interesting! C'mon!"

****

"Okay, back again with Velvette!" Vox called out, entering the hotel. "She got a new hair color and highlights~"

"Makes me feel good." Velvette took a selfie of herself, then posted on Sinstagram. She began to garner many many likes.

"Well that's good!" Arielle spoke up. She was playing dolls with Carina, and so was Prime.

"I can't wait for tomorrow!" Carina beamed, wings lashing out. She was practically bouncing off the walls from excitement.

"Calm yourself, little star." Prime chuckled when she jumped into his arms.

"Sorry, daddy." She giggled, covering her mouth. She was holding a stuffed bear close to her.

Meanwhile, the Hall of Sorcerers was…ominously dark.

DT looked around, eyes sparkling. Their heels clicked on the tiles, and they looked up to see a deteriorated statue of Light Spinner: Shadow Weaver.

"Oh, shit." They mumbled. Alastor perked up, looking at the old statue.

"Hmm…who is that?" He asked.

"Shadow Weaver: old hag, but fun to annoy." DT smirked, a little too smugly.

"You might want to watch your tongue—" A familiar voice hit them.

"SHIT—" DT jumped into Alastor's arms–literally.

"Okay then…" Alastor mumbled. The two noticed an entity, cloaked in tattered and flowing violet, crimson and magenta robes. Her hair was also flowing, but blacker than night. Her mask was gone, and her face was absolutely scarred.

"Shadow Weaver." DT spoke up. "Didn't you die?"

"I was merely reincarnated as a demon. Didn't ascend to the heavens after saving Adora and Catra." Shadow Weaver clenched her clawed hand. "What are YOU doing here? Aren't you supposed to be in Hell, having a wedding?"

"How did you—" DT remained calm.

"The ring on your finger states it all." Shadow Weaver pointed at their ring finger. "And this is the young man you're betrothed to? The one known as the Radio Demon?"

"Yes, ma'am!" Alastor remained chipper, smile sharp.

"Hmmm…all mighty and powerful…" Shadow Weaver circled around him. "Voodoo specialist, charming deal maker."

Alastor began to side-eye here, brows raised.

"You resemble me." Shadow Weaver finally brought up.

"Excuse me…?" Alastor blinked slowly. He wasn't sure if he heard that correctly.

"Etherian demons make up 1% of Etheria. Double Trouble is a part of that one percent, and so am I." Shadow Weaver explained.

"That explains the reincarnation." DT hummed.

"That is correct..." Shadow Weaver gave a crooked grin. "Dakota."

DT let out a small noise, then their eyes narrowed dangerously.

"When—" They got defensive.

"I remember well enough to finally see how I, too, was in your era." Shadow Weaver gestured to nothing. She then pointed to Alastor. "My sister was your mother…Alastor."

"Wh—"

***

"Al." DT snapped him out of his thoughts.

Alastor hummed, looking at them.

"Oh, sorry. I was just having…one of those weird thoughts you get that's not bound by the laws of nature but still feels illegal." He blurted out quickly. DT opened their mouth to say something.

"You lost me." Was all they got out."l

"Nevermind." Alastor chuckled. "...didn't Shadow Weaver blow a kid up?"

"Not sure. I'll ask Glimmer, whenever we find her."

Alastor leaned the top of his head on DT's.

"...tomorrow." He uttered, eyes dulling. DT grinned, then leaned into the touch.

"Tomorrow…!"

"Oh, I see you found the Hall of Sorcerers." Glimmer's voice broke out. The two turned to her, Alastor linking his arm with DT's.

"We did! Rather fascinating." Alastor remarked. "Didn't Shadow Weaver blow up a kid?"

"What?" Glimmer's brows furrowed. "No…? She blew up her FACE kind of, but that's about it."

"Nice to know." DT finally spoke up.

"Wait, why do you wanna know?" Glimmer crossed her arms.

"Just a thing that popped up in my head." Alastor shrugged with one shoulder.

"O…kay…" Bow didn't know how to respond. "Wellllll, Mystacore doesn't have much left. Aside from relaxation."

"...can I show Al the Whispering Woods?" DT hummed. "It's actually calming and nice."

"I don't see why not!" Bow smiled. "Just hand back the grimoire once you're finished. Since, y'know…Stolas."

"Right, right." DT nodded. They took the book, then Alastor's hand. "Welp, we're out!" They opened the grimoire, summoning a portal to the Whispering Woods. They stepped in, and Alastor looked around.

"Woah…" His eyes sparkled. He pulled their fiancè close.

"Nothing special, I know." DT sighed, stuffing their hands in their pockets.

"No, no, it's… amazing." Alastor disagreed. "And also so glorious!" He reached for a purple flower, caressing the petals.

"Mmm, to each his own." DT muttered. Another memory popped into their mind the minute after they said it:

"Woah." Double Trouble marveled. "It's so…"

"Useless, yes, I know." Alastor scoffed.

"No, it's… gorgeous. And huge!" Double Trouble disagreed. More static, and it made them wince.

"To each his own." Alastor muttered.

He's rubbed off on me, they pondered. …I like it, though.

Alastor did look rather invested, taking in more of the scenery.

"I never had a green thumb." He admitted. "Honestly, with me planting things, they'd die in a week."

DT pressed their fingers against their mouth as a smile crept onto their features. The way he said things so casually was rather funny.

"Seriously, don't trust me with plants." Alastor deadpanned, ears flicking down. He then perked up and walked back over to DT. "Where to next?"

"Down through this way's really nice." DT guided him, their hand in his. They walked for a bit more, then smelt the sweet scent of pie.

"Smells sweet…" Alastor noted.

"It really does." DT hummed. "Should we go see?"

"Why not: but let's get back before sunset." Alastor nodded.

"We will, don't worry!"

They followed the scent down to a shack made of sticks and leaves, with a curtain for a door. There was humming and a lot of chatter amongst one person. Alastor carefully walked towards the entrance, drawing the curtain back. The soft light poured into the hut, and he noticed an old woman, yelling,

"Broom! Broom?"

She then turned, with her small eyes: she didn't have her glasses on.

"Oh! Alex, I didn't expect you to come here so soon!" She crooned, beckoning him.

"Alex?" Alastor blinked. "Hmm?"

DT followed behind him, equally baffled. "Madame Razz…? This is Alastor, not Alex." They corrected her with a small grin.

"Can you speak up, dearie?" Razz asked, searching everywhere. "I can't hear you without my glasses."

DT giggled at her unawareness.

"Okay, okay." They sighed, then looked over on a wooden table, taking her glasses and putting them on for her.

"Ah, thank you." Razz adjusted them. "Have you come to enjoy some pie?"

"Oh, no. We're just exploring." DT spoke up. "Wandering. Even decided to step in and say hello."

"Aww, how sweet!" Razz reached for their face, pinching it. DT bit back a yelp, and just grinned and bore it. They pulled away, giving another hum. Razz continued, "Well, carry on! Tell Adora I said hello."

DT stopped in their tracks: did they hear her correctly? She'd call Adora, Mara. Was this a new change?

They looked over their shoulder at the old woman, who went back to baking.

"Take care, Razz." They left the shack with the Radio Demon.

"She seems nice: but lonely…" Alastor gave a small frown. DT shrugged.

"She's been alone for God knows how long." They opened the grimoire, flipping through the pages. They opened the portal, and found Bow and Glimmer, waiting for them.

"Ready to go?" Alastor gestured. DT looked up at the dusk sky.

"Yeah." They looked back at him. They stepped through, smiling at the Etherian couple.

"Ready so soon?" Glimmer smirked.

"Thought we'd see the hotel." It was like Alastor read their mind. "How was the rest of your day?"

"Alright, uneventful though." Bow answered, craning his head up to look the Radio Demon in the eyes. "Never noticed how, uh…tall you are."

"That's how demons are, my crop topped fellow." Alastor chuckled. He stepped through the portal back to the hotel. He grabbed DT's hand, helping them through.

"Thanks, darling." DT smiled, showing their true canines. Alastor's heart fluttered, and he grinned back.

"Not a problem."

"Oh, I got the champagne!" Angel Dust held two bottles, smiling at the betrothed. Arielle and Charlie helped with the glasses, and Angel poured them with his many arms: the perks of being a spider.

"Is it the kind I like?" DT mumbled. Their eyes sparkled. "It isssss—"

"Calm yourself, darling." Alastor teased as he rested his hands on their shoulders. He got them and himself two glasses, handing them one.

"Okay: I'm gonna make a toast—" Charlie began, when she heard slithering. Green eyes glared in the shadows, and he slithered out; Othermind.

"Oh shit. I thought you left. Because I don't see you out, like: at ALL." Vox drank some champagne.

"I'm a night owl more than anything." Othermind helped himself to a glass. He faced his child. "Dakota."

DT pursed their lips, gripping their glass so hard they might shatter it. They feared what he was going to say.

"... I'm proud of you, kiddo." He raised his glass. "I always have been, no matter the pain or strife. Back then, I…didn't take things easily."

"No shit." DT muttered to only themself.

"But that doesn't mean…ugh, shit." Othermind hissed, eyes narrowed. He was trying to find the perfect wording for his incoming sentences. "I'm willing to try again for you."

"Aww…!" Charlie smiled. DT gave a hum.

"...I'll think about it." They replied, brows raised a bit. The corners of Othermind's mouth curled into a small grin.

"Welp: speech time." Charlie gave a small chuckle, then continued. "This'll end a long time war between the Etherians and Sinners. By a betrothal, this proves how both worlds can come in harmony to support a cause. We thank you for allowing yourself to accept the Radio Demon's proposal." She toasted to DT and Alastor. "I'll be saying a LOT more at the wedding, but this is a piece of it: to peace!"

"Cheers!" Everyone clinked their glasses with each other, now drinking.

"Hmm… I feel like you have a champagne problem." Alastor winked at DT. DT rolled their eyes playfully.

"Oh please." They smirked.

"You're cute when you frown." They clung to his arm. Alastor looked at them, giving a small, thoughtful noise.

"I'm not cute." His brows furrowed.

"Right, right…you're handsome."

"Thank you." He smirked arrogantly. DT scoffed playfully, smacking his arm.

"Cocky little shit."

"Wh-am not!"

There was a pause before the two erupted into giggles.

"You're fun to hang out with."

"I'm glad you think so."

…

"I...I think this is the greatest choice I made." Alastor whispered, getting lost in DT's gaze. "...I think I love you, Dee. Can I call you Dee?"

DT smiled again, eyes dulling a bit.

"Of course you can. And...I love you too." They confessed. There was a pause, before Alastor pressed his lips against DT's lips that were like velvet. The night sky was beautiful that night.

"You spaced off again, hun." Alastor shook them out of their thoughts.

"Seems I did." DT spoke up, taking another sip of champagne. They took a good look at everyone around them: not against, but with them. This was the first time in almost years since they felt comfortable with this many people.

"After this, we need to go to sleep earlier. Tomorrow's the day~" Charlie gave jazz hands. Scorpia got excited, and she clapped her pincers together.

DT grabbed Alastor's arm gently, wrapping theirs around his. They leaned against him, yearning for his touch. They remembered the time they couldn't stand his contact.

DT merely rolled their eyes, not really in the mood for jokes. They jerked their head away, drawing in a breath. They forced a small grin, looking at Alastor.

"Well, darling, where to next?" They asked, pretending to snuggle up against him, however, their eyes said, "Kill me now."

"Why, to Hell of course! You have to meet my fellow friends!" Alastor spoke in a sickeningly sweet tone. "You ready to go, sweetheart?"

It almost made Double Trouble retch, they couldn't even fathom they were ACTUALLY giving themself away to be betrothed! For FREE, EVEN!

They couldn't help but laugh at themself. Oh how the tables have turned. Suddenly, the radio kicked on:

"Something about the way that you walked into my living room,

Casually and confident lookin' at the mess I am,

But still you, still you want me,

Stress lines and cigarettes, politics and deficits,

Late bills and overages, screamin' and hollerin',

But still you, still you want me,"

It blended well with the chorus of laughter in the hotel. They were genuinely happy: no more worries.

"Oh, I always let you down,

You're shattered on the ground,

Still I find you there,

Next to me,

And oh, stupid things I do,

I'm far from good, it's true,

But still I find you,

Next to me~"

Alastor took DT's hand, and kissed the back of it, then also kissed their knuckles. DT smirked, blushing a little. He still managed to fall for him. It's no longer a bad thing.

"There's something about the way that you always see the pretty view,

Overlook the blooded mess, always lookin' effortless,

And still you, still you want me,

I got no innocence, fait ain't no privilege,

I am a deck of cards, vice or a game of hearts,

And still you, still you want me~"

"I'm glad you found solace in each other." Stolas told the betrothed couple.

"I as well, Your Highness." Alastor bowed his head.

"So formal~" DT teased him, and Alastor laughed.

"Oh, I always let you down,

You're shattered on the ground,

Still I find you there,

Next to me,

And oh, stupid things I do,

I'm far from good, it's true,

But still I find you,

Next to me~"

Alastor wrapped his arms around DT's waist, and DT wrapped their arms around his shoulders. They fondled with the back of his head, stroking his strands of hair.

"So thank you for taking a chance on me,"

Alastor pressed his forehead against theirs.

"I know it isn't easy,

But I hope to be worth it,"

"You're worth the pain." DT whispered to him, and Alastor beamed. He felt his heart swelling. "I love you.

So thank you for taking a chance on me,

I know it isn't easy,

But I hope to be worth it…"

There was a pause, and it seemed like time slowed down around DT and Alastor.

Alastor tilted their chin up, gazing into their glowing, electric yellow eyes. He smiled, then finally pressed his lips against theirs. DT grabbed his hand, putting it against their side of their face.

"Oh, I always let you down,

You're shattered on the ground,

Still I find you there,

Next to me,

And oh, stupid things I do,

I'm far from good, it's true,

But still I find you,

Next to me~"

They finally pulled away, but not removing one another from their embrace.

Look how far you've come.

They're all proud of you, smiling down on your success. You stopped a war, you helped thousands of lives–or even afterlives–see another day in their respective homes.

It came with a price, but it wasn't such a burden to pay. No matter the strife...

The memory of that night faded to black, and the lights dimmed. Everyone finally retired for the night, excited for tomorrow.

Finally…we made it. A shame that this whole adventure is finally coming to an end. But the more thought put into it, it's perfect to be ending soon.

It's all worth it when it's over…

You still made it...

...And I'm proud...

Today!

Chapter Summary

> It's finally time! Here we have pre-wedding jitters, nervousness, makeup and more! It's all coming together now...

Chapter Notes

See the end of the chapter for notes

Last night passed by so quickly, it felt like it was only a nap.

DT woke up, then saw a note on the bed.

Morning, love~!

I'm with the King and Queen of Hell and the rest of the fellows, Charlie and Vaggie at the castle, checking out the venue, after that, getting ready.

Can't wait to see you soon! My future spouse~

Avec amour,

Alastor.

DT smiled at the note. They got up and stretched, before heading to the window and opening the curtains. They looked at the light red sky, signifying the daytime. They did their morning routine, and once they left the bathroom, they heard knocking. They grabbed their robe, tightening it around them, then opened the door.

"Surprise!" Angel Dust poked out from the side. "We're getting ready today~!" He entered their room, gripping their hands. "How do ya feel?!"

"Excited, nervous, all over the place. I never felt like THIS before!" DT smiled. They were being led to Angel's room

"It's now the first time!" Carina grinned, holding a small bag that was easy for her to carry. DT grinned a bit more broader at her.

"How about I help with your hair, as well? Hmm?" They suggested. Carina gasped.

"Really!" She bounced on her feet. She squealed when the shapeshifter nodded.

"But first~ we gotta do the lucky one." Angel Dust sat DT down.

"Sup." Catra finally entered the room, then hopped on the bed. "Damn, your bed's fluffy." She sank in a little. DT huffed out a small laugh.

"It really is." Angel agreed, getting out his makeup kit. "How do ya want your makeup? Winged eyeliner, no eyeliner, smokey eyeshadow, whatcha thinkin'?"

"Mmmm…" DT went into thought, tilting their head to the side. "Smokey eyeshadow and eyeliner, yeah." They nodded. Angel Dust got out the brushes, humming a bit.

"So~ after this, you're officially the beacon from Etheria falling to Hell." Verosika raised her brows, fixing her hair into a high ponytail. "Little Hero~"

"Ugh, stop calling me a hero." DT scoffed. "I'm morally gray, remember?"

"Mmm beg to differ." Catra teased, sticking her tongue out.

"Shut up, Kitten."

Angel Dust handed them mascara, stepping aside.

"Listen, I don't care what you call me, just don't call me a Hero." DT applied the mascara, then went onto their right eye. "...or a whore. I will beat your ass."

"When did someone call you that?" Arielle asked.

"Ohhhh, a while ago." DT waved their hand. They looked down to see Carina, staring up at them. They smiled and stood up from sitting, gently picking her up and setting her down on the chair. "Nothing I couldn't handle–how do you want your hair, kiddo?" DT was on their knees, and was handed over a brush.

"Pigtails!" Carina smiled. "Please!"

DT giggled at her reaction, slowly brushing her hair.

"How'd you sleep? Any nice dreams you had?" They asked.

"Yeah! I was on a rainbow, cotton candy cloud!" Carina explained. "And–and I saw a pretty bird!"

"Ooh, interesting! You remember what the bird looked like?" DT continued. They grabbed nearby hair ties, and put them on their wrists. They parted her hair, and slowly began putting it up. They were careful not to hurt her.

"It was purple!" Carina remembered. "And fluffy! After I rode on the rainbow cotton candy cloud, I went to hug the bird! And then I woke up!"

"That sounds lovely, kiddo." Angel Dust was also putting on makeup. "You have cute dreams."

"Thank you!" Carina giggled, hands to her mouth. She then gasped at her cute little pigtails. "Thank you, Gecko!" She turned to them, hugging them tightly.

DT froze, before hugging back.

"Not a problem, sweetie." They told her softly. Carina pulled away, and Arielle took her into her own arms.

"I have another addition." She was holding two bright green ribbons, and tied them in cute little bows. As everyone was getting ready, Angel Dust then asked,

"...I wonder how the boys are doing."

****

"Okay, Al." Alastor started putting on a white dress shirt, with the sleeves being frilled slightly. "It's finally time. You're gonna be a husband now. You have a lover, you're ending a war."

"Al?" Charlie called out, and he turned to her. She was in a dark red, Victorian jacket, with black pants and black and white tap shoes. She smiled, leaning against the doorframe. "You're, uh… talking to yourself again."

"Hmm?" Alastor blinked. "Oh, yeah, I am."

"Pre-wedding jitters, huh?" Charlie walked over.

"A little."

"Listen: you got this."

"But what if I don't?"

"Don't doubt yourself! Come on, Al."

"I know I shouldn't." The Radio Demon sighed, dropping his shoulders.

"Aight, listen up el hijo de perra." Vaggie stepped into the room, in a short, long sleeved black dress with white and gray stockings. Her white hair was tied back in a braid, with her pink bow wrapping it all together. She grabbed his arms, eyes narrowed. Her gaze became softer, after a moment. "You volunteered yourself to do this. You made it to Etheria, chose someone, and managed to love them! How come you're getting cold feet?"

"Umm…" Alastor shrank back slightly.

"You're afraid of messing it up, aren't you?" Vaggie crossed her arms, cocking her hip out to the side. Alastor's ear flicked, signifying that he very much was.

"Mhmmmm." Charlie hummed. Alastor sighed, running a hand through his hair. He looked out the window to the garden, with the wedding decorations being set outside. Nothing too tacky: just fairy lights strung, and flowers freshly cut, blooming brightly. He smiled slowly, a blush coming across his face. He remembered him and DT having some fun in the garden one night.

He put on his suit jacket, adjusting it. Charlie handed him his bowtie, and he put it on. He looked at himself in the mirror, breathing in slowly.

"Charlie! Razzle and Dazzle are trying to eat the cake again!" Lucifer yelled.

"Shit!" Charlie ran out of the room. She poked her head in one last time. "Be right back!" She then left, Vaggie slowly following her. She turned to Alastor.

"...good job, Al. You really came a long way." She smiled, then went after her girlfriend.

Alastor gave a close lipped grin. He put on white gloves, stretching and adjusting them. He fixed his bowtie. Checked his hair. He began to experience deja vù, as he did this many times before, but there was a difference: his smile felt real.

He never felt greater.

****

"Bitch! Gimme my brush!" Verosika spat at Angel Dust. She was in her cocktail dress and heels, about to apply blush.

"You don't need fucking blush, you're already pinker than my dick!" Angel Dust held it above her head.

"Chill, chill!" Cherri Bomb teased. "You already look good."

Verosika's eyes widened slightly. She gave a hum, smiling slightly.

"Alright." She shrugged with one shoulder. "I don't need it then."

"Damn." Angel grunted, hoisting the sweetheart neckline of his dress up to cover his furry chest. He sighed, relieved. Arielle put on her Cinderella-like dress, braiding her hair. Her wings were sticking out elegantly, and she helped Carina with getting her shoes.

"Enough of the penis talk, Angel." Arielle muttered, actually getting rather annoyed. Her tone was uncharacteristically curt. Everyone stopped to look at her.

"Wow." Loona fixed her hair, pulling it up in a ponytail. Octavia had gotten her galaxy patterned jumpsuit on, even a silver bracelet. She smiled at Loona, and got the same reaction in return.

"Sorry. Just…not in front of Carina." Arielle let her shoulders drop. She then fixed her own gloves.

"No, no, it's justified." Glimmer side-eyed Angel Dust disapprovingly. They were now waiting for DT to get their outfit on.

They were in their bathroom, and they stared at themself in the mirror. They looked at the modified red dress, showing their figure nicely. They ran their hands across their body, seeing the cape-like fabric draping over their shoulder. Their black fingerless gloves were shimmery, same with their knee high, color-matching heels. They had a garter on their thigh, being revealed, thanks to the revealing slit. Their hair was combed over to the right, looking classy but messy. They put their hand out, staring at their engagement ring. It glinted in the lighting whenever they moved it.

"I'm really doing this." They told themself. "Okay…no more wasting time." They gripped the doorknob, twisting it and leaving the bathroom, and eventually left to meet everyone else. They walked slowly, and gently ran their fingers across the walls of the hotel. They remembered the nights, the days, it was all coming back. This may be the last day they'll be in this hotel. Then, they're in Alastor's house.

"Here comes trouble." Catra was leaning against the wall, in her dress and boa. DT rolled their eyes, smirking.

"And all that glory." They concluded, ears flattening slightly. Catra looked them up and down.

"... proud of you." Was all she said. "You were an asshole that helped me. Didn't know how you planned it so accordingly."

"Sparkles let me go." DT responded. "Under the condition I helped her."

"Typical Glimmer." Catra clicked her tongue. "Welp: you ready to go? We're waiting." She then teased.

"I'm ready." DT confirmed. The feline led them down the hall to meet everyone else by Angel Dust's room. Angel Dust then texted Vox that they were on their way.

"God damn, babe." Verosika noted. "You look GOOD."

DT blushed, unable to hide how flattered they were.

"Thanks." They hummed.

"C'mon, toots! We have a wedding to go to!" Angel Dust grabbed their hand. DT smiled, nodding.

"Let's GO!" Scorpia punched the air out of excitement. And so they were off! They got into the limousine, and not long after that, they headed to the Morningstar Castle.

Any minute now!

****

"They're on their way!" Vox exclaimed after receiving Angel's text. Alastor's ears flicked up, then pinned down on his head.

"This is happening." Alastor told himself.

"Hell yeah it is! How ya feeling?" Blitzø elbowed him softly.

"Nervous, but okay." Alastor blurted, his smile non-existent.

"It'll be okay, Al, c'mon." Vox strutted over. "Now, let's get you to the Main Hall. We got a wedding to get going~"

"Right!" Lucifer walked beside him. "You're noble, Radio Demon."

Alastor grinned, a little forced. He looked forward as he was taken to the Main Hall. Lilith, Mimzy and Rosie were in the front on the church-like benches, located on the right. Located on the left was Othermind. He looked disapproving as usual, but it was really just his normal look.

Alastor walked up the steps, but ended up missing one. He completely biffed it, falling on his hands and knees.

"Ooh." Mimzy winced, but was holding back laughter. Lilith put her hands to her mouth, eyes widened slightly. Rosie, meanwhile, smiled.

"Oh, Al." She chuckled.

Othermind let out a deep laugh that rumbled from his chest.

"Shit, Al!" Vox helped him up. "You're a wreck and the wedding didn't even start yet!"

"Yeah, yeah, I get it." Alastor rolled his eyes, then dusted himself off. Vox smirked. "Lemme show you somethin'," He pulled him aside.

"Wh–Vox! You just brought me to—"

"Shut your yapper and come on!"

Alastor groaned, then was dragged to the ballroom.

"What's happening?" Mimzy seemed confused.

"Vox showing Alastor around the ballroom for a minute, I believe." Lilith answered.

"This is what I wanted to show you, dumbass." Vox teased. The ballroom was set up, with dim candle lights. Everything had a dream-like feel to it.

"Damn." Alastor whistled, stuffing his hands into his pockets.

"By the way, I invited Tom Trench." Vox added.

"The co-anchor?" The Radio Demon raised a brow. "Is he coming with—"

"God no. He's only bringing himself and then someone else, not Bitchjoy. I don't remember who."

"Oooookay. He won't speak about this, right?"

"His lips are sealed, everything's a closed deal."

"Okay, Dr. Seuss."

"Didn't know you knew modern literature, old man."

"Shut the hell up."

"Never, strawberry daddy~"

"Ew. Stop it."

"Why~? Is DT the only one who can call you that?"

Alastor's face went bright red.

"What the FUCK, Vox?!" He yelled. Vox laughed, then clapped his shoulder.

"Kidding, kidding." He reassured. "Go get 'em, tiger." He did something nobody dared to do: smack the Radio Demon's ass. Alastor yelped, then punched Vox in the side.

"Asshole!" Alastor growled.

"Fuuucking shit." Vox drawled, then coughed. "You got a fist, man." He then smirked once more.

"Fucking pervert." Alastor grumbled, walking off.

"Wh–dude! Come on!"

"No!"

*It was banter, nothing harmless!"

"I'm literally getting married and you smacked my ass, how is that banter—"

"It was meant to be playful!"

"You SMACKED MY ASS!"

"FOR BANTER!"

"WHY?!"

"ARE YOU FUCKING DEAF, I DEADASS JUST SAID THE REASON!"

Silence.

Then Alastor and Vox busted into laughter, and it echoed.

"Mmkay, whores, get it together! Everything's about to start!" Blitzø yelled. Alastor perked up, smiling broadly. Vox mirrored the expression, but it seemed softer.

"You got this." He wrapped his arm around Alastor's shoulders.

"Thanks, Vox. Say, I was considering you… one of my best men, alongside Husk. Are you up for it?" Alastor smirked. Vox stiffened, processing it for a moment.

"I'd like that." He accepted. "Okay, NOW we gotta go!" He and Alastor followed Blitzø back to the Main Hall. Tom Trench was seated in the second row, and he was holding a blond and pale baby, with light red. She was about a year old, and looked like Katie Killjoy.

It was Killjoy's and Tom Trench's daughter. A drunk, one night stand led to his daughter being born nine months later. He named her Kassidy Therese. Kassidy was in a cute, blue dress with her hair all wild.

Alastor headed up the stairs once more–finally not tripping–and started standing up straight. He saw that the King of Hyrule was going to be officiating this ceremony. Husk and Vox stood next to each other, and after a second, they fist bumped. Music kicked in–thanks to Mimzy's band–and it was soft, soothing…delicate.

Blitzø and Stolas sat next to Tom Trench, and Octavia finally sat next to her father. She managed to sneak in with Loona. Mimzy stood up and walked over to her band, seeing the microphone was set up. She gave them a thumbs up and a grin.

On the other side of the door was DT. Alastor felt his heart beating quicker, waiting for the love of his afterlife to enter.

It's all coming together…

Right…

Now.

Chapter End Notes

YALLLLLLL I'M SAD THIS STORY IS ALMOST OVER 😭 😭 😭 but I'm so happy you guys love this fic! This helped me become successful–for the most part!

Alsooooooo I'm doing a Q&A on not only Fandom, but also Tumblr! So if you have questions, I'll be more than happy to answer them!

Tumblr: a-chaotic-and-tired-mess
Fandom: CHAOSISMYNAME

Enjoy my lovelies ❤️

I Can't Help Falling In Love With You

Chapter Summary

It's finally go time. The wedding is in full swing and nothing can stop it!

Chapter Notes

Songs used:

Can't Help Falling in Love — Elvis Presley (original), Kacey Musgraves (inspiration for this chapter)
Until I Found You — Piano Version — Stephen Sanchez
WAP — Cardi B (used briefly)

Edit: 4/22/23

The doors magically opened up. Catra and Adora led the way, their arms linked with each other. Adora found a place to sit while Catra went up to the arch, standing on the left, opposite of Husk and Vox: she and Scorpia were maids of honor. Scorpia and Perfuma followed behind, as did Sea Hawk and Mermista, Bow and Glimmer, Moxxie and Millie, Arielle, Cherri Bomb and Verosika. They found places to sit, and Scorpia cheerfully went to stand next to Catra. During this, it was Mimzy's cue to sing.

"Wise men say,

'Only fools rush in',

But I can't help,

Falling in love with you,"

Angel Dust walked in, as did Striker. The two sat next to each other, next to Blitzø, Stolas, and their daughters. Verosika sat next to Bow and Glimmer, and Cherri chose to be next to Angel. Once those people–and demons, excuse me–had gotten to sit down, Carina came in with her dad. She was scattering rose petals along the carpet as she walked down the aisle.

"Shall I stay?

Would it be a sin,

If I can't help,

Falling in love with you~" Mimzy continued. She gripped the microphone gently,

DT finally stood at the beginning of the aisle, eyes practically glowing. They had a small bouquet of red and black flowers: red poppies and black roses, it would seem. Everyone rose to stand, and Othermind looked to see them, his eyes gently glossing over. After a second, he had warped next to them.

"Dad…?" DT whispered, rather surprised. "What are you..." Othermind then gave a slight smile, extending his arm out.

"Am I suddenly not allowed to walk my child down the aisle on their wedding day?" He asked, a brow cocking upward. DT's eyes went wide, but they smiled. They took his arm, and the two went down the aisle.

"I'm proud of you, kid." Othermind whispered to them. "I will always be proud."

DT couldn't help but swallow the lump forming in their throat: "Thank you, dad..."

Alastor gazed at them, completely teary eyed.

"Like a river flows,

Surely to the sea,

Darlin' so it goes,

Some things are meant to be…"

"Thank you, Dad. This…means a lot." DT mumbled finally.

"Not a problem, kiddo. I'd…be damned if I didn't do this." Othermind admitted, continuing to walk them down the aisle. Finally, they made it to the end. Othermind gave them a quick hug, and sat back down in the front. DT grinned back, then turned to Alastor.

"Take my hand,"

Alastor did take their hand, helping them up the steps.

"Take my whole life too,

For I can't help,

Falling in love with you…

For I can't help…

Falling in love,

With…you."

"Hey, Alastor." DT spoke, grinning more. They felt Alastor's warm hands grip theirs.

"Hey, Dee." Alastor greeted back, gripping their hands just a bit tighter. He nodded to Lucifer, ready.

"Ladies and gentlemen, those in between. We're gathered together today, after many months, to end a long time war between Etheria and Hell." Lucifer began, voice ringing through. "While yes, this marriage was arranged…this couple standing right in front of you has been through many obstacles: loss, pain, death, chaos…yet they remain strong. While not romantically attracted to each other, they are considered to be best friends."

Moxxie held Millie close, and Stolas began to hold Blitzø's hand.

DT and Alastor looked into each other's eyes.

"This wedding will be concluded by the Queen of Bright Moon and myself." Lucifer nodded his head at Glimmer. "Shapeshifting Psycho: Double Trouble,"

DT turned their head towards the King.

"Do you take the Radio Demon as your husband, to hold him close and forever? No matter the weather or day?" Lucifer asked.

"I do." DT swore. "Cross my heart, hope to die." They made an x on their heart, and said x began to glow a bright cyan.

"Radio Demon: Alastor,"

Alastor stiffened, his trademark grin on his face.

"Do you take Double Trouble as your spouse? In sickness and in health, till double death do you part?"

Alastor made an x on his chest, and it was glowing bright red.

"To my lover, I'd never lie." He swore.

"He said be true," DT began.

"I swear I'll try," Alastor continued.

"In the end, it's him and I." DT finished. Lucifer gave a closed lip smile.

"Very well." He extended his hand out to beckon the Queen of Bright Moon to come up. Glimmer did, right next to Lucifer. They turned to each other.

"So it's official: the war is over." Glimmer confirmed. Her hand began glowing pink and all sparkly, meanwhile Lucifer's was pure white.

"Forevermore." Lucifer agreed. "This will be sealed into the history books, Your Majesty."

"Likewise." Glimmer held her hand out for Lucifer to shake: and he did. Suddenly, there was a violently bright pink and white beacon of light, spiraling up to the sky and shooting off as fireworks: not only in Hell, but also across all of Etheria. Everyone outside of the wedding looked out windows, went onto their lawns, balconies, anywhere they could see the beacon. Then, they all celebrated: a white beacon symbolized peace amongst Hell and Etheria. Glimmer stepped back, bowing deeply. Lucifer bowed, too, speaking up,

"Thank you for this amendment."

"Not a problem." Glimmer then went back to sit down next to Bow.

"By this power destined in me, I now declare you not only heroes of Etheria and Hell…but also husband and spouse." Lucifer grinned much broader now.

At this point, Alastor's eyes were pooled with tears that threatened to fall.

"You two may kiss...or do whatever you want."

Alastor pulled DT close and they embraced, with DT giggling at the little remark Lucifer made. Everyone cheered, applauding the newlyweds. DT actually flipped the coin and dipped Alastor. They grinned deviously when they saw his shocked expression, but they kissed him briefly.

The shapeshifter pulled their husband up, seeing his bright red face and derpy smile.

"Glad to be here with you." DT told him.

"The feeling's mutual, my dear." Alastor kissed the back of their hand. They noticed the sky growing darker, symbolizing how it was nighttime.

They all went to the ballroom for dinner and cake, as well as dancing.

"Oh shoot, I have to throw this I guess." DT gripped the bouquet. "Alright, guess you can go for it." They threw it backwards, and Arielle ended up catching it first. The band—thank God the set was on rollers so all you had to do was move it with ease—entered the ballroom, and Mimzy held the microphone.

"Get ready for the newlyweds to have their first dance!" Mimzy shouted, and earned whistles and applause. DT and Alastor made it to the dance floor, and Alastor pulled them closer. "This time, we have the infamous Angel Dust singing for you!"

"Get it, Angie!" Cherri yelled. Angel Dust walked up to the microphone, smiling down at the shorter demon.

"Oh shit, what's Angel gonna sing?" Vaggie shrank back. Then, the piano kicked in.

"Georgia,

Wrap me up in all your,

I want ya in my arms,

Oh let me hold ya," Angel Dust's voice rang through like a melody. He chose a sweet song, surprisingly. DT gripped Alastor's hand as they swayed slowly.

"I'll never let you go again like I did,

Oh I used to say,

I would never fall in love again until I found her,

I said, I would never fall unless it's you, I fall into,

I was lost within the darkness, but then I found her,

I found you~"

"Hey…" Alastor whispered. "After this and the cake cutting, you wanna sneak off?" He winked.

"Sure! They do have the garden ready." DT mimicked his tone.

"I'll never let you go again like I did,

Oh, I used to say,

I would never fall in love again until I found her,

I said I would never fall unless it's you I'm falling to,

I was lost within the darkness, but then I found her,

I found you,"

"God, this is so sweet, it makes me sick." Blitzø teased.

"Oh hush, Blitzø." Stolas told him.

"The couple now invites you onto the dance floor." Angel Dust hummed, and people started getting up to dance.

"Never would I have pictured this moment before we met." DT leaned against Alastor's chest, feeling his heart beating. They roved their hand on it slightly. "But now…it's my reality..."

"I thought I'd never see Dakota again. You really brought out the good in me, darling." Alastor kissed the top of their head. "Thank you for everything."

"No problem, darling." DT told him back.

"Whores in this house,

There's some whores in this house,

I said certified freak, seven days a week,

Wet ass pussy, make that pullout game weak,

Woo!"

"Angel, NO!" Arielle yelled.

"Photo time!" Vox suggested. Charlie perked up.

"Ooh, perfect! Okay, everyone get close together!" She exclaimed, pulling out her phone. She set up her camera on her phone, making sure to put the timer for ten seconds. She looked around, then saw Alastor using his magic to make the phone levitate. Charlie pressed the camera button, and she rushed to the group.

"Places~!" She said in a sing-song tone. Everyone got together, smiling at the camera.

Alastor had his arms wrapped around DT's waist, smiling genuinely. DT was once again leaning against his chest, and they kicked their leg up a little. Angel Dust leaned down, hugging Husk from behind, his furry boobs on top of Husk's head. Nifty was on Sir Pentious' shoulder, Vaggie held hands with Charlie, Bow and Glimmer squished together. Catra had an arm wrapped around Adora's shoulder. Loona and Octavia clasped their hands together like finger guns, their backs to each other. Stolas was holding Blitzø, Moxxie and Millie sat on their knees, holding hands and tails entwining.

Horde Prime was smiling down at his jubilant daughter, Vox had a hand on Arielle's waist, holding her close. Verosika and Cherri Bomb were flipping the camera, and Striker was being brought into it, with Cherri hooking her arm around his shoulders. He looked rather startled. Scorpia chose a simple wave, and Perfuma made flowers bloom around everyone. Mermista was obviously annoyed–and madly in love–with Sea Hawk, as he seemed to be getting ready to sing a sea shanty. Tom Trench held Kassidy, and she looked around with wide eyes. Overall, everyone was actually happy, smiling, and enjoying the reception.

The camera took the photo, and Alastor made it float back to Charlie: it was perfect. She squealed, holding to herself tightly.

"I love it, I love it, I love it!" She bounced up and down. DT gave a hum, then saw how the sky turned a sunset orange, fuchsia, and navy blue.

"The sky, it…it's all colorful now." They realized.

"The war's over." Alastor kissed their cheek. "It's only for tonight, though: then the sky goes back to being red."

"Ah…well, nice to see it when it's like this!" DT made the best out of the moment. They then walked over to the cake and grabbed the knife. "Wanna help me do the honors?"

Alastor nodded.

"More than happy." He too held the knife. They finally cut two pieces and grabbed plates.

"Dark chocolate?" Blitzø raised his brows. "Damn, you like that bitter shit, huh?" He turned to Alastor.

"Yes, actually. I do." Alastor grabbed a fork and took a bite of the cake. "Eh, cake's not my thing."

"I love it." DT disagreed. "Something out of the ordinary, I guess."

They helped the rest get slices, and there was plenty left over. They were all preoccupied with conversations to realize that Alastor and DT left. But nobody panicked: they just assumed they wanted alone time for a bit.

And they assumed correctly.

They wanted to have time with each other, just a little bit more.

Everything Stays/FINALE

Chapter Summary

They're Forever Bound, now...

Song used - Everything Stays (Adventure Time!)

Chapter Notes

See the end of the chapter for notes

DT and Alastor snuck out, giggling messes. In the background somewhere, music began playing once more.

"Let's go in the garden,

You'll find something waiting,

Right there where you left it, lying upside down,

When you finally find it, you'll see how it's faded,

The underside is lighter when you turn it around,

Everything stays right where you left it,

Everything stays,

But it still changes,"

DT and Alastor kissed each other, arms wrapped tightly around their bodies.

"Ever so slightly,"

"Darling…" DT whispered. "It's all over now. We did it.

"We did." Alastor spoke up.

"Daily and nightly,

In little ways, when everything stays…"

"...will everything stay the same?" DT asked, finally.

"Maybe, maybe not: but I don't care, as long as I'm with you." Alastor tilted their chin up. He kissed them again.

"Go down to the ocean,

The crystal is raising,

Waters' gotten higher as the shore washes out,

Keep your eyes wide open, even when the sun is blazin',

The moon controls the tide, it could cause you to drown,"

The Radio Demon took their hands, smiling deviously.

"How 'bout I show you a bit of town, darling?" He pulled them into his arms.

"Alastor, what do you—"

"Up we go!" He used magic to hoist himself and DT into the air, and DT let out a yell.

"OH MY GOD—"

They clung to him, eyes expressing terror, but they slowly eased upon seeing the lovely view of most of Hell, and scattered lights that came from buildings.

"Woah." DT whispered, and Alastor put his jacket around them.

"Everything stays, right where you left it,

Everything stays,

But it still changes,"

DT gazed at Alastor: their former enemy, their best friend, their husband. They wrapped their arms around his shoulders, and also wrapped his legs around his torso. They made sure to press their foreheads against each other.

"Ever so slightly,"

Alastor hummed with the music.

"Daily and nightly,"

DT's eyes dulled at his calming touch and voice.

"In little ways…"

Another pause, before more hesitation.

"...when everything stays..."

The two kissed again, longer this time. There was soft, red and green magic glowing around them, and Alastor's shadow brought them together a bit tightly. He then winked, as if to nobody.

"Oooooh, you're in so much trouble." Alastor growled, and DT laughed.

"It's fine," They told him. "besides, I love being this close with you."

Alastor's frown bloomed into a smile.

"Thank you, my dear." He made them both float to the ground and land softly on their feet. "...this was practically a game all along: all about love, loyalty, trust, and the like. And you won."

"A…wait a damn minute." DT's smile curled into a slight sneer. "It was a game this whole damn time?!" They smacked his chest.

"A game I created, but then completely forgot about!" Alastor explained hastily, putting his hands up in defense. DT's glare made him wither, but then they sighed, a side grin showing.

"Fucker." They put their hand on their hip.

"But now… I recognize their error of my ways." Alastor frowned, taking their hand. "...will you forgive me, my love?" He kissed their hand, giving a nervous smile.

"I do." DT nodded. Alastor pulled then in, and his shadow, along with DT's shadow, practically came to life. Alastor's shadow had taken the hand of DT's shadow, swaying them gently back and forth, before dipping them.

"Are you making out again?" Blitzø called jokingly. Alastor growled, ears pinning on his head. Meanwhile, DT just laughed.

"Ohhh, Blitzø." They sighed. "You have a way with words…"

"That can piss me off." Alastor muttered, eyes shifting to radio dials. The full demon transformation was halted when DT caressed his cheek.

"Relax… after this, he's gone, the Rebellion's gone, Stolas, Tom Trench, everyone will go to their respective homes, and so will we. One more night at the Hazbin Hotel." DT suggested, though–they will admit–it broke their heart. They loved everyone at the hotel, and while they could still visit, it'll get lonely real quick.

"Hey." Alastor put a finger to their lips. "Don't worry about that, now." He then looked up to see the sky turning back to the normal red, and everything was normal. "The hotel will stay, right where we left it."

"Because everything stays?"

"Everything stays."

They turned back to head into the castle once more, hearing Mimzy kill it with her musical talents..

"You ready, my dear?" Alastor held his hand out, and DT took it with a smirk and narrowed eyes.

"Born ready."

"That's my Dakota. I love you, dear."

"I love you too, hun."

And so they were off, to enjoy the rest of the night. It was all worth it in the end.

DT never believed in those childish fairy tales, but this time…they believed they began to live happily ever after.

Chapter End Notes

WOAKFJFJHSHBSBWHWJ Y'ALL IT'S LIKE, ALMOST 3AM HERE AND I FINISHED THE GODDAMN FIC.

The amount of love this fic was given was immaculate. Absolutely amazing. It helped to grow as a writer. Genuinely cannot thank you guys ENOUGH for this! This was all made possible because of you!

Thank you so much for joining me on this journey.

Epilogue

Chapter Summary

A little surprise gets both DT and Alastor excited and hopeful for the future.

Chapter Notes

HAHAAAAAAAA I DID IT

I FINISHED THIS DAMN FIC! If you're interested, I'll be more than happy to do requests for the Radio Demon's Lover, RadioTrouble, and the like! I'm also down for doing a Q&A!

Enjoy this final chapter, my darlings. ❤️

"You ready to go, dear?"

DT snapped out of their thoughts. They had been in the bathroom, with…a little surprise in hand.

"Ummm…just a few more minutes. I'm still doing my thing." DT called out. Gentle radio static filled their ears.

"Okay, but if you need anything, let me know! I'm going to get our stuff ready." Alastor told them. The sound of his voice then faded.

What was in DT's trembling hand was another pregnancy test. They didn't tell anyone else, but they were having bad symptoms:

morning sickness, the mood swings–even though that was surprisingly in check–plus some weird cravings–again, also in check.

"C'mon…" DT mumbled, then sighed. They set the test down and washed their hands, eyes dull. "It'd be a miracle if—"

Their eyes widened when they saw the rest in their peripheral vision. In blue letters, it had said,

Pregnant.

Oh shit.

While they did know demon pregnancies developed faster–three months instead of nine–they could somehow tell the signs. They used their shapeshifting magic to cover a growing bump, but they just assumed they were bloated.

They put a hand to their mouth, using their other hand to grip the counter to balance themself. Tears formed.

"I'm pregnant." They gave a shaky laugh, smiling more. They grabbed the test and hid it in their jacket pocket. They kept their bloated-looking stomach, instead of shifting it back to a flat stomach.

They finally exited the bathroom, and looked around. The lighting was soft… calming. They headed towards the bed, spinning around a bit. The memories were coming back to them, in an overwhelming way. They were really feeling it now.

"Hey, love." Alastor popped up next to them. He pecked their cheek, then looked down to notice the bump. He didn't mind, but was rather worried for them: "You were in the bathroom for a while…everything okay?" He asked, ears flicking back slightly.

"Hmm? Oh, yeah, I'm okay." DT tried to remain nonchalant, but a smile couldn't stop creeping on their face. They turned their head away.

"Mhmmm, something's up: I mean, look at that grin." Alastor teased. DT giggled, then told him,

"Okay, okay, maybe I do have something."

"Aha!" Alastor pointed at them, but were silenced by a kiss.

"Close your eyes~" DT told him, and so he did. Carefully, the shapeshifter put the test in his hands. "Alright hun, whenever you're ready."

Alastor's eyes opened slowly, and his mouth gaped. His eyes went wide upon seeing the word, pregnant, on the test.

"You—"

"Surprise." DT's tears came through. "Congratulations, you're now gonna be a father."

"Dee—" Alastor looked up. "This is INCREDIBLE!" He picked them up and spun them around, the two now laughing.

"And this time, I feel like we're gonna be okay." DT reassured. "It makes it feel so real, I can't believe it's happening…!"

"You made me a happier demon than what I already am, mon chér." Alastor kissed them. "Should we tell the others?"

"Mmmm…not yet. Let's surprise them a little later on." DT winked.

"Sounds like a plan." Alastor took their hand, and he started bouncing a little. "I'm so excited!"

DT giggled, then kissed him.

"You're adorable." They sighed. They finally picked up a suitcase Alastor had packed: nothing much, just clothing. In another bag was toiletries and the like. They were finally leaving. DT was about to throw away the test, but Alastor destroyed it instead. Damn, okay then.

"Ready?"

"Yup."

And so they left Alastor's room. They weren't checking out, per say. Alastor still had that room reserved for him. They were just moving out to Alastor's house. They took the elevator down, and when it opened, they walked out to the lobby. The Rebellion, Stolas, Octavia, Loona, Blitzø, Moxxie, Millie, pretty much people who weren't residents were also going home today.

"We enjoyed having you guys over." Charlie hugged everyone, one at a time. "Visit sometime, okay? Don't be strangers!"

Angel chuckled at the princess.

"Not a problem, Princess." Horde Prime was holding Carina. "Thank you again for this."

"Not a problem, Prime." Charlie smiled. She then hugged both DT and Alastor. "Come back sometime, Al! We'll miss yours and DT's company. Everything was so much more lively when you were around!"

"We'll make sure to visit, my dear " Alastor told her. "Besides, you can't keep us gone forever~" He winked. Charlie rolled her eyes, but continued to smile.

"See you around." She spoke up again, a little calmer.

"I'll make sure of it." DT teased, grabbing Alastor's hand.

"And we're off!" Alastor exclaimed, and magic began surrounding him and his spouse. Everyone started waving goodbye, and finally…

Alastor and DT made it to their home.

"Well, my dear, welcome home." Alastor turned to DT with a grin, and radio static. He then knelt down to be eye level with DT's stomach.

"Al, come on." DT ruffled his hair. They didn't pull away when Alastor put his hands on their stomach.

"Hey, little darling. This is your father, the Great Radio Demon!"

A smackd to the back of his head for getting smug, that only made him laugh.

"Point is…I'm gonna be a good dad. I'll be by your side, no matter what." He continued, ears pinning on the back of his head. DT rested their hands on Alastor's hands, smiling down at him. They helped him up, and he wrapped his arms around their waist.

"This was a lovely experience." DT leaned their head on Alastor's shoulder. "What now?"

"Now…" Alastor chuckled, his voice becoming staticy. "It's us against the world."

"Then so be it." DT concluded. "We made it this far, and the story isn't even close to ending."

"In fact," Alastor chimed in. "it's only begin. The rest of our fate… is in our hands."

So they finally walked into their house, beginning a new chapter of their life.

Something tells me that everything will be bumpy, but in the end…

It'll be okay.

Finally, the radio kicked on, and with a staticy laugh, it said,

Stay Tuned, Darlings...

Then the rest fades to black.

...

Hell, a torturous place for sinners and hellborns…

Well, that's what newbies would think. If you've been there for a year or two and have gotten over the yearly exterminations, you would feel at home. Though Hell isn't the worst place to be, at least not anymore.

Alastor, The Radio Demon, was chosen to pick a spouse for an arranged marriage to end a war: he ended up choosing someone he met in a past life, and god damnit, it was one of the best decisions he made.

Etheria, a glorious world that was saved from Horde Prime, and now the harsh claws of Hell.

A famous group of Heroes called the Rebellion no longer need to fight. They can finally be at peace.

There's a shapeshifter named Double Trouble who was too, a part of ending this war, all while discovering new things. Many would call them the Shapeshifting Psycho, their demonic and murderous alias. The Rebellion would call them Double Trouble. Their friends call them DT, and they were always called, "My love," by their new husband. Yes, you heard that correctly: they have a husband.

However, they will go down not only in Etheria's history books, but also Hell's...

As The Radio Demon's Lover.

The End...Or Is It...?

Please drop by the archive and comment to let the author know if you enjoyed their work!