The Road Less Traveled

Posted originally on the Archive of Our Own at http://archiveofourown.org/works/42545763.

Rating:
Explicit

Archive Warning:
No Archive Warnings Apply

Category:
F/F

Fandom:
She-Ra and the Princesses of Power (2018)

Relationships:
Adora/Catra (She-Ra), Adora & Catra (She-Ra)

Characters:
Catra (She-Ra), Adora (She-Ra), Glimmer (She-Ra), Melog (She-Ra), Bow (She-Ra), Mermista (She-Ra), Sea Hawk (She-Ra), Frosta (She-Ra)

Additional Tags:
Two Shot, Magic Cock, Anal Sex, Anal Fingering, Vaginal Fingering, Cunnilingus, Overstimulation, Multiple Orgasms, Established Relationship, Post-Canon, Married Couple, Companionable Snark, Awkward Conversations, Aftercare, Dom/sub Undertones, Domestic Fluff, Fluff and Smut, Porn With Plot, Sexual Experimentation, Scent Kink, Mating Bites, Fur Kink, Femslash, Lesbian Disaster Adora (She-Ra), POV Adora (She-Ra), POV Catra (She-Ra), Switching, Top Adora (She-Ra), Bottom Catra (She-Ra), Inappropriate Humor, Possessive Behavior, Jealousy, Possessive Sex, Catra gets pet by a crazy cat lady, Adora is not a happy camper, Jealous Adora (She-Ra), Even She-Ra can't handle her liquor, Public Kissing, Mermista is the friend we all need

Language:
English

Series:
Part 3 of The bang-a-rang chronicles

Collections:
Smut I Like

Stats:
Published: 2022-10-22 Completed: 2022-10-24 Words: 18,812 Chapters: 2/2

The Road Less Traveled

Posted originally on the Archive of Our Own at http://archiveofourown.org/works/42545763.

Rating:
Explicit

Archive Warning:
No Archive Warnings Apply

Category:
F/F

Fandom:
She-Ra and the Princesses of Power (2018)

Relationships:
Adora/Catra (She-Ra), Adora & Catra (She-Ra)

Characters:
Catra (She-Ra), Adora (She-Ra), Glimmer (She-Ra), Melog (She-Ra), Bow (She-Ra), Mermista (She-Ra), Sea Hawk (She-Ra), Frosta (She-Ra)

Additional Tags:
Two Shot, Magic Cock, Anal Sex, Anal Fingering, Vaginal Fingering, Cunnilingus, Overstimulation, Multiple Orgasms, Established Relationship, Post-Canon, Married Couple, Companionable Snark, Awkward Conversations, Aftercare, Dom/sub Undertones, Domestic Fluff, Fluff and Smut, Porn With Plot, Sexual Experimentation, Scent Kink, Mating Bites, Fur Kink, Femslash, Lesbian Disaster Adora (She-Ra), POV Adora (She-Ra), POV Catra (She-Ra), Switching, Top Adora (She-Ra), Bottom Catra (She-Ra), Inappropriate Humor, Possessive Behavior, Jealousy, Possessive Sex, Catra gets pet by a crazy cat lady, Adora is not a happy camper, Jealous Adora (She-Ra), Even She-Ra can't handle her liquor, Public Kissing, Mermista is the friend we all need

Language:
English

Series:
Part 3 of The bang-a-rang chronicles

Collections:
Smut I Like

Stats:
Published: 2022-10-22 Completed: 2022-10-24 Words: 18,812
Chapters: 2/2

The Road Less Traveled

by vagician

Summary

When a rowdy hookup and a misplaced thrust of digits has Adora's finger accidentally breaching a part of her wife they've never dared to venture before, Catra has a reaction that greatly surprises them both.

Adora's determined to get to the bottom of it.

Notes

So this was intended to be a oneshot but I've gotten a bit carried away with the word count so I'm splitting it into two chapters. The second chapter is almost complete and should be out in the next day or so!

Oh and also before I forget, this takes place in the same universe as "Good Girl" and "The Perfect Fit" which are both seperate oneshots. Reading them isn't required but it'll have some details making more sense. I might just group them into a series at this point so it's less confusing.

Chapter 1

"Listen, before we go in there.." Glimmer starts off with a warning, pausing behind one of the adjacent pillars leading down into the ballroom. Catra notes that she looks tense like she's preparing to placate her for whatever bombshell the queen was about to unload onto her. Bow steps forward next, gently grasping the side of his wife's arm before warily glancing over at the feline.

"Maybe you should let me handle this one." Bow lowly murmurs, but Catra's feline ears pick up on it regardless, rolling her eyes as her scowl deepens. She absently focuses on her breathing techniques Perfuma had taught her, trying to calm down her heart so her sense of unease would go away or at the very least lessen. Not only did Catra not like surprises or the suspense surrounding them, she definitely didn't like the look both Sparkles and Arrow Boy were giving her right now. They were looking at her like she was a ticking time bomb set to go off at any minute, meaning whatever it was they had to tell her was going to either have her seething or potentially blowing this joint altogether.

No. She couldn't do that. Tonight was important for many reasons that were so much bigger than herself. Sure she couldn't give a less of a damn over these princess proms but the prom itself wasn't what was important. There were rumored to be a few big influencers here tonight, and one of those individuals happened to be the Duchess of Dawnfield. Otherwise known as the same lady Catra's been tactfully trying to smooth over for the last month into getting access to the potential trade routes running through her kingdom. They've been communicating back and forth through letter as of now, and tonight was the night impressions would really matter since they'd finally be meeting face to face.

If she could seal this deal, it would cut the time needed to distribute supplies out to the Crimson Waste in half. Not only would it help the folks out there recover, but it'd also be a considerable load off of Huntara's shoulders as well. Catra still wasn't exactly peachy with the Waste leader, but she could tell she was genuinely trying to look out for her people. And that was a cause even someone like her could get behind.

Catra exhales a drawn-out sigh, untensing her stiffened shoulders before giving the archer the best unbothered look she could manage in this state, her profile shifting back to a neutral expression. Melog stands beside her, their bristling crimson fur finally simmering back down to a soothing teal.

"Spit it out, Bow." Catra orders impatiently, steeling herself for whatever was about to be dropped onto her. Bow tries his best to fabricate a smile, but it just ends up looking more like an anxious grimace, his hand moving to the back of his neck to give it a nervous rub.

"He appears quite nervous." Melog comments, pointing out the obvious. Catra snorts in return, choosing to ignore them when Bow finally decides to speak up.

"The duchess has uh.. How do I put this… An um. Particular fondness for creatures of the felid variety and uh .."

"She's basically a crazy cat lady." Glimmer finishes for him, causing her husband to make a scandalized gasp of protest.

"Glimmer Moon!"

"What? It's true! Her palace has more cats than people, Bow. I counted eight before we even left the courtyard!" the queen counters, their domestic bickering ceasing when Catra lets out an unexpected laugh.

"What, worried she's going to try and pet me or something?" Catra goofs with them, her laughter tapering off when both the king and queen nervously glance at each other.

"Well, yes actually." Bow speaks up, continuing to avert his gaze. Glimmer fumbles with her cape for a moment before risking a glance at Catra, whose amused expression has long left her by now, a mild glower arriving in its place.

"If this individual has a fancy for your species, perhaps you could use that to your advantage." Melog chimes in, as annoyingly practical as ever.

Catra growls. "Nobody asked you, furball. And you're not even the one being pet so you have no say in this." grumbles the feline, defensively crossing her arms over each other as the tip of her tail twitches in irritation.

Bow darts his eyes to the side, a stressed laugh exiting his lungs. "Um, actually there's a chance she'll want to pet Melog too. It might work to our benefit if you bring them along with you."

"I do not mind being pet." Melog chirps, proving their point by nuzzling into the hand Bow seated on their head, an appreciative purr surfacing from the head scritches.

Catra's eyes roll. "Of course you don't." she snarks with a minor smile.

"What's Melog saying?" Bow curiously asks, intrigued by the one-sided conversation. Melog's purring was already beginning to calm him some, causing some of his tension to wash away with each generous pet he graced the spirit panther with.

"Nothing important, trust me." Catra huffs, in no mood to sit and play translator.

"I do not understand. You enjoy it when Adora pets you." reasons Melog, and Catra's suddenly grateful she's the only one capable of understanding them, her ears betraying her when they flatten against her mane.

"That's different." Catra answers lowly, curling her own tail around herself protectively from the vulnerability that statement incites in her.

"Is it because you two are mated?" Melog prods, causing Catra's tail to puff out in size, already feeling her skin flush beneath her coat.

"We are not having this conversation right now, Melog." Catra growls in warning, causing an impatient Glimmer to finally intervene.

"Look, can you just let her pet you for a bit if it comes to that? We really need those trade routes, Catra. It'll make the porters' lives so much easier. I promise to owe you for it later." Glimmer offers, and her pleading expression somehow manages to tug at the hybrid's heartstrings. Damn, she really was going soft. Adora's fault, probably. (Definitely)

"Fine. And you're damn right you owe me. I want a week off for this shit-show you're putting me through. Adora too. I don't care what you have to move around to make it happen." Catra declares, a disgruntled gruff leaving her when Glimmer throws her arms around her in a surprise attack, hauling her protesting body in for a bear hug.

"Deal. Thanks, Horde Scum." Glimmer gives her one last squeeze before stepping out of the hug. Catra scoffs but fails to contain the hint of a smile that follows.

"Don't mention it, Sparkles."

****

Fuming.

That's one way to put the bitter cocktail of feelings stirring up inside Adora right now. She sits by one of the many array of tables neighboring the overly decorative ballroom, purposely choosing the one that conveniently harbored an entire three-deck platter of assorted cheeses on it as she demolishes the spread of dairy chomp by angry chomp. Bow warned her beforehand about the Duchess and what potential interactions to expect when it came to her, but what she didn't expect was how miserable it'd make her by being forced to be seething on the sidelines while she watches her wife and Melog get pet and scratched by some entitled royal hag older than both of their ages combined. Melog appears to be the only one enjoying themselves.

Adora didn't blame Catra for her part in this. She only had to take one glance at her wife to know she was struggling to remain civil every time the bombardment of invasive petting continued, and knowing just how uncomfortable it was for her partner to be subjected to that unwanted contact did little to help Adora's growing irritability. She hates to use the word possessive, but that's exactly how she feels right now. That was her mate over there getting platonically felt up for an overall good cause, but noble cause or not, it didn't make having to witness it any easier. It also didn't help her case that Catra was wearing that one damn maroon suit that always made her look finer than a snack, and if Adora was over here drooling over her wife to this degree, she was certain others were too.

She wonders if it has anything to do with the mating bite. Ever since the bite had been exchanged between them, Adora's been acting far more territorial than usual. She vaguely recalls one of the late-night study sessions she had in the library, and how mating bites could potentially cause adverse reactions to species that weren't magicats. It had something to do with their saliva mixing with the DNA of their mate, the chemical makeup apparently enough to alter her body's hormones.

Definitely the bite. Adora mutters internally, just now noticing Mermista staring at her in her peripheral vision, giving the blonde a look of curious amusement.

"Okay, what's got you scowling?" she asks, her words slightly slurred in her inebriated state. Adora silently wished she could be in the same tipsy state as the mermaid, but even the all-mighty She-Ra couldn't save Adora when it came to her low tolerance for liquor, so she was regrettably abstaining from the crystalline bowl of spiked punch her friends had been nursing on throughout the night.

"I have no idea what you're talking about," Adora answers, her words clipped with notable irritability. She has no idea she's still staring down the offending interaction across the ballroom until Mermista glances over as well, the mermaid immediately identifying the issue.

"Huh. I didn't peg you for the jealous type." she comments casually, and before Adora can deny that claim Mermista grimaces when they both take in the Duchess cooing over her wife at whatever ridiculous conversation is taking place over there. "Can't say I blame you though. That lady is a bit off her rocker."

"That's putting it lightly," Adora grumbles more to herself than the other princess, grabbing a chunk of swiss off the second deck of the platter since she already thoroughly obliterated the first. She bites the cheese off of the toothpick that's holding it before tossing the stick into the sizeable pile of toothpicks already accumulating beside her. Mermista watches with mild interest, deciding to switch tactics.

"Alright, let's go." she orders, startling Adora when she marches over to her chair, dragging all 8 feet of She-Ra up to her feet. Adora confusedly stumbles behind her as Mermista tows her out of the ballroom, the blonde taking one last regrettable glance at her wife before she's shepherded down the hall.

"Where are we going?" Adora asks after a moment, admittingly relieved that she wasn't being forced to stare at the source of her turmoil any longer.

"This is a princess prom, not a pity party. And you obviously need a distraction. Lucky for you, I know just the thing." Mermista informs her, letting go of her arm when she feels confident the blonde will continue following her. Their journey takes them out to the courtyard, where an entirely different commotion is taking place outside. Adora can make out what can only be a giant block of ice standing at least a good three or four feet taller than her. Beside the iceberg stands Frosta and Seahawk, both clearly bickering over something she couldn't quite make out.

"You couldn't perhaps make it a little smaller? How is one supposed to climb something so high? I cannot set this beauty alight if I am unable to reach the top!" Seahawk tuts, staring hopelessly at the block of ice before he catches their arrival.

"Oh, my dearest Mermista! Have you brought me an audience to bear witness-"

"Can it, Seahawk. Adora needs a distraction. Now are you going to light this thing up or what?" Mermista interjects, nodding to the gigantic block of ice. Adora blankly blinks, more on the far side of lost than she's ever been in her life.

"Wait, you're going to try and light fire to ice? How does that even work?" Adora dares to question, the pirate's enthusiasm infectious enough to quell the sour mood this night has put her through.

"Any feat is possible if one simply sets their mind to it! But I am afraid my glorious performance is not in the cards for us tonight. For I am unable to reach the top since someone went a little overboard with their magic." Seahawk pointedly clarifies, narrowing his eyes at Frosta.

"I thought you said you could light anything on fire. I knew you were full of it!" Frosta claps back before childishly sticking her tongue out at him. SeaHawk panics over the potential tarnishing of his questionable reputation, cupping his chin as he scrambles for a solution.

"Perhaps if I can acquire a ladder all will not be lost. Do you think the queen carries any of those on her person? Or in the general area perhaps?" Seahawk ponders aloud, eliciting another annoyed grunt from the mermaid. Adora sizes up the iceberg, furrowing her brow in contemplation.

"If you sat on my shoulders I think the combined height of us both should be enough to reach the top and do uh.." Adora pauses, frowning at the lack of information. "-whatever it is you're trying to do."

Seahawk practically beams at the solution, staring at the princess in awe. "Why Adora, what a brilliant solution! You have my sincerest thank you for your willingness to participate in the most extravagant spectacle of the century! Let it be known that I, Seahawk, cunning pirate and most devoted partner to my sea goddess Mermista, can set anything to flame! Even water itself!"

"Don't push it, big guy." Mermista knocks him down a peg or two, though Adora could see the faintest traces of a blush dusting across the mermaid's scowling cheeks.

"Well, I have no idea where any of this is going, but if it's a boost you need, She-Ra's your gal. So uh, hop on I guess?" Adora lowers herself down to a crouch to allow her shoulders to be boarded more easily.

"Splendid!" Seahawk exclaims, grabbing the canister at his feet before making his way back to the lowered princess, hitching his legs over her shoulders. Adora steadies her hold on his legs once he gets situated, cautiously easing back to her feet. Sure enough, the combined height had Seahawk surpassing the iceberg by a good three feet. Walking them both over as a single entity, Adora watches as the shantying pirate pours the entire canister over the ice block, and it's when that mystery liquid showers down the sides that Adora inhales the unmistakable scent of gasoline. The logic inside her continues to chant the mantra ' Red flag!' over and over, already knowing this entire stunt has bad idea written all over it.

"Uh.. Not to be a buzzkill, but don't you think this is a little unsafe? I can already count several potential fire hazards just in the immediate area alone." Adora points out as she observes the abundance of combustible foliage surrounding the stoned walkway. It was quite literally playing with fire, knowing it came with the very surreal risk of not only being burned metaphorically, but physically as well.

"Not to mention Glimmer will tan all our hides and hang us out to dry once she gets even the slightest word of this. Now I can't recite the entire expected code of conduct for these types of gatherings, but I'm pretty sure starting a deliberate gas fire in the middle of the courtyard is pretty high up on the list of 'do not do'." Adora adds matter of factly, retreating away from the block when the entirety of the canister is eventually emptied. Bending back down in a crouch, Adora allows Seahawk to safely disembark from her shoulders, clumsily climbing off the warrior before his feet hit the grass.

"Did you seriously just forget that I can summon an entire ocean on a whim? And that Frosta's here too? I doubt there will be any raging wildfires on our watch. So you and that ridiculously long ponytail just take a step back and enjoy the show." Mermista tells her, the slight assurance having Adora breathe a sigh of relief.

"Do not fret my cherished friends! For there is no inferno that I, the heroic Seahawk cannot tame! These flames may burn brightly but I can assure you my sheer will burns far brighter than any flame housed in the cosmos! Let it be heard there is no fire that will not bend to my whim!" Seahawk proudly states, teetering on the edge of confidence and narcissism by the pinch of arrogance to his claim.

"Will you stop galavanting around and just light it already? Save the showboating for later. I wanna see this bad boy burn." Mermista urges her boyfriend on, pulling out a pack of matches off her person before she tosses them over. Seahawk predictably fumbles when trying to catch them, almost falling over in his efforts.

A quick step forward saves him from faceplanting, the uncoordinated pirate barely recovering before flipping open the booklet of matches. Adora risks a nervous glance at her surroundings, subdued anxiety bubbling up into her gut. Sure this act of recreational arson had a low risk of backfiring with two types of water benders on the premises, but Adora couldn't shake off the feeling that Glimmer could manifest beside her at any moment. Then they'd really be done for.

Adora's pulled away from her growing concerns when she witnesses the flicker of a match being lit, only having about half a second to process it before Seahawk dramatically flicks the ignited stick onto the block of ice, Adora's eyes broadening as it swiftly ignites the coated gasoline, steadily flaring into a brilliant flame that lit up the entire courtyard.

This definitely wasn't how she pictured her night going, but at the very least the interesting turn of events had her momentarily forgetting about the toxic mindset she found herself in earlier. Frosta absolutely lost it at the destructive display, eagerly circling around the ignited iceberg so she could observe it melt and warp at all angles. Mermista's reaction was limited to a proud little smirk, about the most emotion one would expect out of her.

"Feast your eyes on this brilliant beauty, my friends! Isn't it magnificent?" Seahawk sings, looking about one minute away from breaking down into another shanty. Mermista groans in protest, painfully aware of what's coming next.

With a grin, Seahawk's chest puffs out before inhaling a generous intake of air, preparing his lungs.

"Oh fire is the best,

we put her to the test,

we tamed the mighty waters, and we put them down to rest!" Seahawk cheerily sings, refilling his lungs for a second verse.

"Nope. Definitely not drunk enough for this." Mermista cuts him off before lifting the bottle of tequila Adora hadn't even realized she had until now, tipping her head back as she took her shot straight from the bottle, the mermaid shuddering mildly at the burn as it went down. Adora enviously stares at the bottle and Mermista must have caught on because before Adora knows it, she's offering it to her.

"I can't. As much as I want to, I need to stay sharp just in case something happens." Adora politely declines, but the nod and shake of her hands do little to deter the mermaid.

"What, is the big bad She-Ra too good to take a shot with Sea-Ra?" Mermista says with a smirk, dangling the bottle enticingly as extra incentive.

Adora rolls her eyes, shaping a challenging smile. "Sea-Ra's not a thing, Mermista."

"It is if I make it one." Mermista counters matter-of-factly, a disgruntled "Ughh." leaving her at the indecisive look Adora had planted on her face. "One drink isn't going to put you on your ass. If anything it'll help you mingle more. Now will you just take a shot already?" she prods.

Adora sat with the request for a minute, staring intently at the bottle before finally deciding to take it.

Bringing it to her lips, Adora mutters a quiet "Well, here goes nothing." before finally daring a sip.

****

"So, you are the last of your people, Ser Catra?" the duchess asks, punishing her disheveled mane with another uncomfortable (and completely unnecessary) pat on the head. Catra tenses her jaw before it can lock up from how hard she's presently gritting her teeth, desperately trying to dull her sharpened tongue before she snaps and goes off on the woman. Her temper's currently on a hair trigger, threatening to snap and implode on her any waking second now. She didn't know how much more of this shit she could take, and Melog's occasional unneeded comments were not helping matters much. Not only was this entire interaction weirding her the fuck out on all accounts, but it felt painfully belittling to her. She glances over at Bow for a moment, his forced smile a silent plea.

Catra's eyes light up when glimpses one of the servers walking by with a platter of martinis, the hybrid quickly leaning towards him to make a grab for them. She ends up grabbing two, filling both hands before swiftly downing the first with impressive speed, paying no mind to the measured glare she senses from Glimmer in the corner of her eye. If Sparkles wants her to play nice with this neurotic nutcase then downing a few shots seems like the easiest solution to her. The second drink gets chugged down right after the first, giving a quick shake of her head as the liquor lacquers her throat with a tingling burn. Giving one more blink at the floor for good measure, she raises her head, setting the empty glasses back on the platter before turning to meet the noble's intrigued gaze.

"Yep. Limited edition and one of a kind." Catra smoothly lies, the two shots of encouragement she just downed making it easier for the feline to turn up the charm for the sake of sealing this deal. She and Adora had both read in the library that there was indeed a colony of her people hidden somewhere on Etheria, but Catra wasn't about to tell this psycho bat that information just in case there was a small chance her people were still alive and kicking. The farther away she was from Half Moon, the better. The duchess laughs at this before throwing her a suggestive enough look to get her skin crawling beneath her fur.

"Perhaps the best of your kind, even." she devilishly muses as Catra clears her throat with an awkward cough, silently hoping that the server she flagged down earlier would return for a round trip. Another drink wouldn't hurt, right?

Or four maybe?

Five just to be safe?

"Isn't she? I count myself lucky every day that I get to be the one waking up to this handsome beauty beside me. That soft coat of fur all pressed up against me unhindered. I wouldn't trade it for the world."

Catra stiffens and then immediately melts when she identifies the perfectly sculpted arms embracing her from behind as She-Ra towers over her, having to physically bend down to greet her. The possessive hold on her hips sends a jolt of straight heat that shoots right down her spine and to her center, the familiar scent of her mate flooding her senses. Though her fur was concealing most of it, the skin beneath had to be as reddened as the suit she was rocking, momentarily forgetting how to manage breathing when a pair of parted lips purse themselves against her neck ever so gently before Adora innocently sets her chin on her shoulder, staring directly at the duchess.

Having her lips so close to her face has Catra cocking a brow in surprise, her nose taking in the lingering scent of liquor coating her wife's lips. Adora didn't seem shit-faced or anything, but she was definitely tipsy enough for that jealous side of her to come out and play, a pleasant shudder rolling through the hybrid when she realizes Adora only showed up to send a clear message.

Now Catra really couldn't wait to get out of here. Preferably with her wife and a conveniently secluded corner.

The duchess stares at the embracing couple in perplexed silence for a moment before she eventually recovers. She appropriately takes a few steps backward to allow them some space, the hand that was previously petting the magicat now returning its attention to Melog. Catra has to hold back her laughter when she sneaks a look over at Glimmer, who's clutching Bow's arm in a death grip, looking right in the middle of developing a nervous tick as her right eye twitches with every other blink. It was a look that said they were definitely going to get chewed out over this later.

Again, Adora's fault.

The queen silently walks over and up to an unphased She-Ra, discreetly tugging on the warrior's arm to try and pry her away from Catra so she could teleport Adora out of here, but the blonde was unyielding and leagues more strong than the queen, refusing to budge an inch. Teleporting them with her arms around Catra would only teleport Catra with them and Adora was greatly exploiting that dilemma right now.

Glimmer spews a string of quiet curses at the princess before she recomposes herself, face reddened in her anger before she finally gives up on her efforts, sulking quietly back over to Bow. The duchess appears too entranced with.. well, Catra can't really tell. From where she's standing it's almost like the lady is eyeing them both up in interest. It seems like the She-Ra effect was back at it again, the perfectly carved form of her wife able to captivate even this aging nutbag.

"What a lovely couple you are indeed. I did not realize you were betrothed to the great She-Ra herself. What a fascinating turn of events." she marvels, switching her gaze between them both as it turns uncomfortably predatory. Catra laughs shakily to clear away some of the awkwardness she feels brewing in the air around them, the magicat still hyper-aware of the iron clasp grip taking custody of her hips.

"Um, Adora. This is Grand Duchess Beatrix of Dawnfield." Catra introduces her, hoping to steer the conversation more towards the end goal she's been suffering to get to all night. Adora eases off of Catra, the feline already mourning the loss of contact and the feel of those toned arms caging her in. Adora steps over to her side, reaching down to twine their fingers together before offering her other hand to the duchess in a polite shake.

"It's a pleasure to meet you, your majesty. I hope our kingdoms can come to a solution that is beneficial for us both. If not for us, then at least for all those poor helpless cats stranded out there in the Waste.." Adora casually states with fabricated heartache, putting on a show that even Double-Trouble would give a standing ovation to. Catra looks at her like she's just started speaking another language on her, trying to figure out where the fuck her wife was going with this. Unsurprisingly, that last bit of Adora's sentence caught the cat enthusiast's attention immediately.

"What is this about cats in the Crimson Waste? Surely they aren't being harmed?" Duchess Beatrix questions, wearing a serious look of concern. Adora sighs, really playing up her grief for this one.

"You haven't heard? Supplies have been scarce out there so a lot of the citizens have turned to eating whatever wildlife they can find. The native strays that prowl the streets there have already become a target. I'd say it's only a few months before they consume the population entirely." Adora answers, and now Catra's really looking at her with an expression that basically screams 'What the fuck are you on about?'

Catra's read the briefing reports more times than she could count and not once did it mention citizens eating feral cats. She knows things are fairly tough out in the Waste right now, but they're nowhere near that grim. It takes a moment for Catra before it finally clicks for her.

Adora was lying.

Sweet, innocent, honorable Adora was exploiting this lady's weakness and using it against her to get what she needed out of her. An exquisite case of manipulation at its finest. Catra simply stared at her wife, feeling too many emotions to process them all.

Shock.

Pride.

But the most prominent and persistent of them all?

Arousal.

"Good heavens*,* I had no idea! Those poor helpless souls. My heart aches for them all! Surely there is something we can do to fix this?" The duchess offers, breaking Catra out of her heated trance as her brain tries to remember how to function. She doesn't even need to look to her right to know Glimmer is well over livid right now, the queen looking ten seconds away from blowing steam out of her ears.

"Well if you were to open your borders to our porters, it would give the citizens there more frequent access to the supplies and essentials they need. With an established route, they could cut the needed commute in half. The townsfolk would no longer need to survive off the fauna, and no more innocent kittens would be made into lunch." Adora suggests nonchalantly, and Catra's never been so proud (and highly turned on) in her life, appreciating that Adora was conducting the agreements since she's fairly certain her brain vacated the building ages ago.

"Consider it done. No more kittens will be made into anyone's lunch on my watch. Your porters will have their access to my lands as soon as it's in writing." Beatrix declared, causing a fuming Glimmer to perk up considerably, all prior irritability wiped away by the gesture.

"I have the trade agreements in my office if you'd like to accompany me, your majesty." Glimmer offers with a hopeful smile that was threatening to break with concealed tension.

"Certainly. This is a matter that requires immediate attention. Ser Catra and Ser She-Ra, it was truly a delight meeting you both. I hope this alliance of ours can finally allow our lands to heal the destruction Prime's tainted legacy has put us through." The duchess says with a respectable bow that was immediately returned by both women. Catra was bubbling internally with excitement, freedom from this night-long nightmare finally within reach.

"I hope for that as well. Take care and safe travels, your majesty." Catra speaks up when her voice finally returns to her, sighing in unprecedented relief when the woman was out of their sight, being escorted out of the ballroom by both the queen and king. Glimmer still didn't look too pleased with either of them but that was a problem for future Catra and Adora. Catra whirls around towards her wife, her mind already undressing her when her hands couldn't. Ignoring the crowd around them, Catra hauls her down to plant one fierce kiss right on her lips, teeth, tongue, and all.

The feline kisses her into a state of dizziness, smirking into the exchange when she hears a few whistles of approval in the background, with a drunken Mermista's being the loudest of them all. Catra's lips break apart from her wife to give her a bemused look, taking another cautious whiff of her scent.

"Adora, why do you smell like gasoline?" Catra slowly asks, serving her a quizzical stare when she starts giggling guiltily. Catra could listen to that giggle for the rest of her life, the melody soothing her far more than any closure she could have gained from her therapy sessions. The fact Adora was also teetering on the line of tipsy just made it sound even cuter.

"Seahawk wanted to set a block of ice on fire but the block was too tall for him to reach so I gave him a boost so he could uh.. cover it in gasoline? I may or may not have been in the splash zone when it happened." explains the princess, the ridiculous explanation earning a raspy cackle out of the hybrid. Gods, she loved this idiot.

"Seriously? I'm stuck here getting felt up by that old bag of bones and you're off setting shit on fire? In what world is that even fair?" Catra mock complains, her grin suggesting she wasn't as upset as she was trying to be. She was just so happy to finally be out of the clutches of that woman, and finally be back in the arms of her mate. She was going to have to take several baths just to scrub the stale scent the duchess had left in her mane from all the excessive petting. Meanwhile, Adora smelled just downright delectable, a mixture of fire and liquor and the ever-present thrum of magic that always emanated off her She-Ra form. To Catra, it was heaven personified. Home, even.

"I wanted to use the sword to slice off her stupid hands and throw them off the damn overlook." Adora childishly mutters to herself, unaware she's thinking out loud until Catra heightens her brows in amusement, her grin turning accusatory.

It doesn't take long for Adora's face to rival that of a ripened tomato, realizing she just accidentally outed herself by laying all that jealousy right out into the open. "You heard nothing." Adora declares, though her voice already threatens to waver on her.

Catra's grin widens, deliberately invading her space. Adora's flustered retreat has her back colliding with one of the columns, now truly trapped with nowhere to go. Her flushed and excited state has her transformation canceling on her, shrinking right back down to the five foot spazz of a wife she's come to know and love. Catra of course corners her, planting her hands on each side of her head, effectively caging her in until all Adora's world shrunk down to was the perfection of her wife, wearing a playful glint in those impish eyes.

"Is someone getting jealous?" Catra accuses her, but rather than a mockery all Adora can sense is love and endless endearment in that tone. Adora slumps her shoulders a bit, her bottom lip poking out in a pout as she grumbles like a child who's being reprimanded but isn't actually sorry for anything they've done. "Very." she clips out.

"Just for that little bit of honesty, I'm going to let you top me tonight." Catra quips against her ear, discreetly pressing her knee between her legs. Despite how much her hips want to move, Adora freezes, painfully reminded of their lack of privacy.

"Oh, I was going to top you regardless, kitten. After that little fiasco? I think it's about time I remind you exactly who you belong to." Adora counters, catching her lips in another highly inappropriate kiss. Catra's claws instinctively unsheath in excitement at her wife's promise, making a mess of the column they're still propped against.

"Ugh, will you two just get a room already?" Frosta disgustedly shouts at them from her table, causing them to both mirror the same grin as they begrudgingly pull apart from each other.

"Kick rocks, Snowflake. It's past your bedtime anyway!" Catra shouts back, which does little to ease the teenager's temper.

"I don't have a bedtime! But you both have a room so why don't you save us all the trauma and freaking use it for once!" Frosta responds, definitely not relying on her inside voice for this one. Catra rolls her eyes but decides against goading the teenage princess any further, biting the bullet as she turns back to her spouse, her coy little smirk sprinkled with mischief.

"Well, you heard the brat. Ready to blow this joint, princess?" Catra slyly inquires, offering up her hand to the blonde.

Adora can't help but grin like Etheria's biggest goofball, graciously taking Catra's hand in her own.

"I thought you'd never ask."

****

"F-Fuck.." Catra breathes out, the raspy little moan she pushes up her throat like a symphony harmonizing in Adora's ears. It wasn't hard at all to get her wife swearing worse than a sailor during sex, (since she pretty much swore in all other aspects of her life by default) but every time it happens it never fails to have the princess curving the most shit-eating of grins. They were going on round number four as of yet, and just like Catra had promised her, she was letting Adora top tonight.

Her wife lays on the luxurious mattress beneath her, furred legs spread open and so pliant, with a pleading expression in those almond-shaped eyes that showcased she was completely and utterly hers for the taking. As many times as Adora's reduced her to this unguarded state of being, it still left her undoubtedly wonderstruck. Catra's mane had become so disheveled it looked more comparable to a bird's nest caught in a category five hurricane rather than an actual head of hair. The tufts of fringe that weren't sticking out in every direction mixed with the abundance of sweat coating her hairline, the layer of light perspiration causing it to lay matted against the fuzz along her forehead.

She looks so ethereal from Adora's vantage point down between her trembling legs, like an otherworldly being descending from the cosmos themselves to bestow onto her the closest glimpse of heaven one could experience without needing to leave the mortal realm. And as intoxicating as the view blessing her eyes right now was, it dulled in comparison to the taste such a view has granted her with.

Adora wasn't sure she could even narrow down its flavor to a single category. There were so many subtle little tastes to her wife that all mingled and melded together to form one greater elixir that was no less than liquid transcendence to her tongue. It was a meal Adora eagerly indulged in quite often, knowing no amount of royal banquets could ever even come close to serving up the delicacy presently coating her mouth and chin. Every available inch of Catra's body presented itself like a buffet table, with every entree on the menu providing her with more scrumptious portions of her wife. Portions that no one other than Adora would ever get the privilege of enjoying.

"You taste so good, kitten. Like an endless flood of honey on my tongue." Adora pulls back to pant the appraisal against Catra's thigh, the blonde's curtain of hair falling to the side as kiss-swollen lips etch a commune of love bites right up that delectable thigh, savoring the sensation of every minor muscle in the area that invitingly twitches beneath her parted lips.

Catra's fangs meet her lip as she worries it, drawing her hand downward to grab ahold of her wife's hair. "I'm getting pretty lonely up here, princess."

Adora fights off the urge to pout, not exactly thrilled to be parting ways with her dessert but she complies with the feline's request, giving her swelling hood one last greedy swipe of her tongue as her mouth makes the journey back upwards, leaving a memento of kisses that end right at the corner of her mouth. Adora's lips welcome hers with a limitless sum of devoted kisses, the pace comfortably leisurely until Catra ups the urgency to it on her end. They both exchange labored breaths of air as Adora repositions herself, substituting the loss of pressure at Catra's clit by pressing the front of her wrist against the region before permitting her fore and index finger to skim down her slickened lips. She presses them just enough to have them petaling around the tips of her fingers, combing her fur with the slick that continues to spill from her apex.

"This right here-" Adora punctuates the start of her sentence by hastily penetrating her entrance, both fingers filling the magicat's clutching tunnel right up to the third knuckle as the writhing hybrid echoes out a yowl that instantly fades over to approval. "-is what she wanted to do to you." Adora finishes, referring to the duchess now sitting right at the top of Adora's shit list. Typically she'd shy away from displaying her apparent jealousy so out in the open, but she's come to realize firsthand that Catra really gets off to her possessive tendencies, always reminding the feline just how much she's wanted by her wife.

"S-She was looking at you the same way, princess." Catra stubbornly sputters out, huffing in conflict when Adora immobilizes her canting hips with her unoccupied hand, keeping her in place so Catra would have no choice but to take what she gives her.

Pensively, Adora hums. "Oh no, Catra. She wasn't looking at me like she wanted me. She was looking at me like she wanted to be me. She knows I'm the only one on Etheria that gets to see you like this.. Fuck you like this.." Adora skates her lips along the edge of the feline's pointed ear, breath hot and heavy. " Ruin you like this."

"Fuck, Adora.. I'm so close.." the hybrid whines, lidded eyes tearing open when the blonde finally gets around to thrusting purposefully into her, every hit of fingers unearthing more buried territory than the last. Adora's mouth finds its way down to the crux of her shoulder, lips outlining her mating bite before they part on her, latching right onto the fading scar like a leech. Catra's reaction is immediate, clawed fingers leaving thick and shallow stripes down the curve of her back as her head cranes evermore, willingly offering more of her neck to her mate.

"Please.." Catra rasps out, the thrashing tail wedged beneath her legs freeing itself before instinctively curling around the blonde's bicep, just for the sake of connecting that much more with her. "Need your teeth in me."

Adora didn't need to be told twice, the princess more than happy to oblige to renewing her mating bite. Sliding her thumb back, she flexes the digit against her clit, alternating between fucking into her and gliding her fingers against her inner lips, the consistent change in stimulation quickly winding her wife right up to the state she needs her to be. Catra was fit to shatter any second now, bringing her right on the cusp of climax before Adora's teeth took that fuzzy bit of flesh between them, effortlessly breaking the skin.

Many things happened after that.

First and foremost, Catra let out a wail so pitched it threatened to shatter glass as she met her inevitable reckoning.

The second being the way her body thrashed and twisted right out of Adora's grounding hold at her hip.

And the third?

Well, let's just say Adora was nowhere near prepared for the third result of that bite.

Sometime during her peak, Catra's hips shifted enough to have one of Adora's fingers getting jostled into a region they'd never dared to explore before, her finger partially breaching her rim before Adora could be made aware of the miscalculation. But whatever incoming sense of dread Adora was sure to receive from the error never had a chance to arrive, since the obscene trill that tore out of her wife effectively wiped away all higher thought. Adora's hand froze in its tracks, the very tip of her finger still plugging her backdoor just so she could savor the captivating reaction just a little bit longer.

When Catra finally comes back down from her heights and is aware of her body once more, her post-orgasm haze is terminated completely when she registers the finger in her rear, flinching into an upright position to stare at the blonde with wide eyes, both as equally blind sighted as the other. After a rather long and awkward moment of wordless staring, Adora blinks before carefully removing the intruding finger, not failing to notice the minor gasp that follows the action.

"I-I'm sorry.. I.. I didn't realize-" Adora's stuttered apology halts when Catra cuts her off, her softened gaze a comforting warmth to Adora.

"Hey, it's okay. If anything it was more my fault than yours." Catra clears the air to reassure her, but Adora could already feel herself starting to spiral. The bottomless blues in her gaze start welling with tears, closing her eyes to keep them contained.

"Oh, gods. What if I hurt you? I-I should have just taken it out but I just got so lost in the moment and it looked like you were enjoying it and-"

"I uh.. sorta was.." Catra quietly admits, ears flattening out against her mane when confusion has Adora's eyes blinking open, daring a glance at her wife.

"Was what?" Adora asks, the gravity surrounding this situation not allowing Catra's confession to actually register for her just yet. Adora grows even more perplexed when she identifies the massive blush buried under that tawny fur, but rather it being tinted red with embarrassment, it turns the hybrid's skin a light pink, signaling Catra's indeed flustered.

"Enjoying it.." Catra mutters out, and it takes a second or two for it to finally click for Adora, broadened eyes widening further with the revelation.

"Oh.." is all Adora can manage to say, trying to control the level of thrill that simple admission zaps into her by focusing on leveling out her breathing.

Should she inform Catra that she greatly enjoyed it as well or was this something that would be swept under the rug and never discussed again? Adora doesn't know, nor does she have time to ponder it before Catra's hauling her back up to her side, seeking out some cuddles. As Catra's head settles against the side of her chest, Adora barely remembers to return the 'I love you' Catra serves her, the blonde's mind far away from her body.

Chapter 2

Adora doesn't sweep it under the rug.

If anything her curious ransacking of this taboo subject has not only upturned the rug entirely, but yanked out everything hiding underneath said rug and then some. It's been nearly a week since that night, and the unforgettable noises that came out of her wife after that little miscalculation were still very much burned into the furthest recesses of her mind. If Catra enjoyed it to that degree then that's all the incentive Adora needs to justify her excessive research of this subject. Up until now, she didn't even realize anything was allowed to go up there, let alone someone's finger.

It only took several hours of devoted reading in Bright Moon's library to discover that not only is anal penetration (as the books would call it) a fairly normal practice amongst partners, but it can also be a highly pleasurable experience if the proper steps are taken into consideration. Apparently, it was highly debated that only men could really receive the full benefits from that type of stimulation, but the more Adora continues to submerge herself into the book in her hands, (and the several dozen stacks of books around her) the more she's enlightened with mighty intriguing information.

Though the female anatomy doesn't always have a prostate to work with, (another term she had no clue existed until today) they had many other advantages going for them. Like the clit for instance. From what she's read it's so much more than what it seems, most of it shaped like a wishbone that extends through the body and near the anus. Not only that but it's filled with thousands upon thousands of nerve endings that can be indirectly stimulated through anal penetration. Adora just grows more and more fascinated with every page she turns, scribbling down details in her notebook like a rabid lesbian on a mission.

Today is the opportune window to dedicate time to this explicit research since she knows Catra will be away for most of the day. Twice a month Catra always hitches a ride with Glimmer over to the Crimson Waste, offering to help teach a class that better helps Horde dropouts reintegrate back into free society, rather than the strict dictatorship they were accustomed to when Hordak was still in charge. It offered everything from deconditioning therapy to learning how to live off the land and establishing a homestead.

For not being much of a people person out of preference, Catra sure had a way with words. Adora had the privilege of attending one of her classes and it was almost like she couldn't even recognize that the person speaking so openly and confidently was her wife, the woman Catra was a far cry from the woman she's become. In some way, it just made Adora even more dedicated to her research, as odd as a motivator that was.

Catra's occasional struggles with the regret of her past actions always had the feline catapulting herself into any restorative project she could get her claws on, giving all of herself without ever expecting anything in return. So if navigating through this touchy bedroom subject was what it took to have an opportunity to express her unconditional love towards her partner on an even grander scale, then Adora would gladly study herself into oblivion to reach that end result.

****

Catra was tired.

Spending several long and grueling hours in an environment as arid and scorching as the Waste with an unremovable coat of fur like hers just made the liability of heat exhaustion all the more likely. She was definitely going to need to hit up Entrapta to see about getting the ventilation system in the buildings back up and running. The room her attending class was packed into only had one industrial fan to work with, yet the motor was so worn that it wasn't operating anywhere near peak efficiency.

It resulted in several hours of uncomfortable sweating and excessive trips to the water cooler, but by the time she was done, she'd forgotten all about her sour mood. That's how it usually went after these events. Years ago she would have cackled at the idea of taking up a role of mentorship. All she's ever done in life is boss around any rank inferior to her own, and those cadets always would have to listen because they weren't given any other alternative. But this was beyond different from any kind of leadership she's been pedestaled into before.

This class was entirely optional, meaning if any of the attendees didn't like or resonate with what she had to say, they were more than welcome to leave if they felt the desire to. But not only did the cadets choose to remain in the class, but they seemed to be hanging off her every word like they actually gave a damn about what she had to say. The first class had her so startled that when it was finally over and the crowd dispersed, she found a secluded corner and burst into tears.

These people weren't here because they had to be here. They were here because they wanted to be here. It was like everything Catra had to say held worth to them, which felt absolutely liberating when she's been so used to having her opinion brushed off as unimportant. Mentorship was a therapy she hadn't even known she needed, and even if that shitty fan always made her sweat out ten pounds of water weight by the time she was done, it would always be worth enduring the weather.

Now Catra finds herself back at Bright Moon with Melog at her side, with only her Adora on her mind. Passing by a pair of castle guards on the journey back to her room, she tries as best as she can to mask the puzzled look she forms when the same guards who had been more than keen on keeping an eye on her in the past, actually end up giving her a respectful salute. The feline gives them an awkward finger gun before quickening her step, eager to get back to the comfort of her bed.

But just as Catra was strutting down the hall, the scent of her wife wafts into her nostrils. It was pungent and fresh, meaning she must have recently been in the area. Melog picks up on it as well, the empathic panther sensing Catra's need to find her mate as they give the air a curious sniff.

"I believe Adora is in the library," Melog observes with a nod of their head, gesturing to the double doors that were slightly ajar.

Catra rolls her eyes right as she forms a smirk. "Of course she is."

Pushing the doors aside, the pair of felines emerge into the grand library, and Catra has to immediately hold back a round of laughter. She hears Adora before she sees her, registering the telltale snores of her wife deep in the clutches of exhausted slumber. Adora's head is slumped over the table, the blonde surrounded by several skyscrapers of books all varying in height. A puddle of drool pools around the opened book currently sufficing as her pillow.

"That doesn't appear like an optimal position for one to rest," Melog notes, the untranslated vocalization they make causing Adora to instantly wake up. The upper half of her body jolts upright like she just shook hands with a bolt of lightning, her aimless arms managing to knock over one of the stacks of books right onto the floor. The majority of the pile lands right at Catra's feet, causing the feline to take a cautionary step backward before an amused laugh leaves her. Damn, she's missed this adorable, blonde idiot. Her idiot.

"Hey, Adora."

Catra can already tell something is off by the flash of panic in her wife's eyes when she briefly acknowledges the books scattered onto the floor, some of the titles facing upright. She quickly recovers, her forced grin looking more nervous than genuine.

"Catra! I uh.. I didn't see you there. Heh. So, uh how was class?" Adora asks like she's trying to deflect the topic away from their surroundings, her fingers nervously tapping against the table. A quick side glance to the right has the blonde's eyes widening before she quickly shuts the open notebook resting on the wooded surface, deliberately laying her arm over it so it can't be opened. Catra's curiosity spikes at the action, now planning the best route to take in order to pry that notebook out of her wife's hands.

"These are texts on mating techniques for interspecies relationships. I see two texts on magicat anatomy as well." Melog speaks up, curiously nosing one of the books upright to reveal its title. Adora, realizing she's been outed by the space panther, makes a failed grab for the fallen books the second Catra's eyes widen, causing the feline to quickly kick several of the books far out of her wife's reach, skidding along the walkway until they land near the entrance of the library. Catra swiftly darts after the punted literature, running on all fours before she scoops them up in her grasp. Catra growls disapprovingly when she realizes she has no time to read them, her spouse already halfway through chasing her down as the hybrid tucks the bundle of books under one arm, seeking out the highest possible vantage point in the room.

The hybrid's eyes light up with opportunity when she finds it, lowering herself down to her haunches. Catra boosts herself off the edge of one of the neighboring tables before she leaps onto the very top of one of the bookshelves, hauling herself up with her free arm as several books go crashing down at the disturbance. She purrs, delighted over her victory and now safely out of Adora's reach for the time being. Sure her wife could just pull out She-Ra and topple the whole bookcase over if she really wanted to play dirty, but she was already walking a fine line with Glimmer over the subject of property damage, so Catra doubts she'll go that route.

"Really, Catra!?" Adora hisses from below, but the feline pays her no mind, taking the time to observe her stolen loot. She takes the first from the pile, turning it around to read the cover out loud.

"My body and me: A guide to interspecies relations"

"Purrfect: A beginners guide to pleasing all parts of your magicat"

"It's not what it looks like, I swear. I was just doing research!" Adora protests with a groan, well over mortified by this unfortunate turn of events. Catra snickers to herself before finally reading the last title, her eyes widening about halfway through.

"The road less traveled: A guide to safe anal penetrat-"

Catra halts mid-sentence when she nearly asphyxiates on her tongue, the book dropping out of her hands. Adora's very quiet now, the blonde pinching the bridge of her nose with closed eyes, wishing she were anywhere else. Catra feels her own heart knocking wildly against her chest, an unavoidable ache blooming between her legs when she's reminded of that night.

Fuck.. Is she really thinking about doing this? Am I thinking about doing this?

"Catra, we don't have to do any of this, I swear. I just.. Can you just come down so I don't have to shout this to you? Please?" Adora tries again, picking up the remainder of the books on the floor as she waits for a response. Catra glances at the cactus that used to be her tail, huffing before she smooths down her rustled fur.

Adora would never do anything you weren't ready for. She read herself into exhaustion just so she could research this for you. The least you can do is hear her out.

"Catra?"

Sighing, Catra begins climbing back down the bookcase before gracefully hopping down to the floor. Adora stands awkwardly beside her, looking torn between offering her comfort and not wanting to smother her. The hybrid takes another look around the neighborhood of books stacked on the table, viewing them a little differently now that she knew Adora was reading them for her benefit.

"So, light reading I take it?" Catra breaks the ice, delighted when it causes Adora's grimace to crack into a small smile, a short laugh leaving her.

"I got carried away again, didn't I?" Adora's grin is apologetic, growing more nervous by the second. Catra's getting secondhand anxiety just from standing beside her, reaching out for her wrist to tug her in for an embrace. Adora relaxes substantially under the affection, twining her arms around the small of her back as Catra nuzzles into her neck, marking her with her scent.

"This is about the other night, I take it?" Catra asks, addressing the ever-present elephant in the room. Adora answers with a slight nod.

"I just couldn't stop thinking about what you said and how you liked it.. At first it was just out of curiosity because I've never heard of things going up.. uh. there.. But the more I read the more interested I became.. It's actually way more common than you think." Adora anxiously babbles, her heart rate already spiking with her anxiety. Catra stays silent for a moment, coaxing out a purr she knows will soothe her mate's growing nerves.

"I've kind of been thinking about it too." Catra timidly responds, her blush worsening when Adora pulls away to look at her.

"And are these thoughts you're having positive or negative?" Adora questions and Catra somehow knows that line was taken right out of one of Perfuma's sessions, since the flower princess has approached her with those exact same words before. Catra still doesn't look at her, focusing on the floor more than her spouse as she idly chews her lip.

"The first one." Catra answers finally, her ears swiveling forward in surprise when Adora takes her face in her hands, sealing her lips with a delicate kiss. Adora pecks her lips one, two, three times before pulling back, propping her forehead against the feline's.

"I love you, Catra. All of you. And if this can potentially turn into something we both can enjoy then I want to be the person who gets to do that for you. But only if you want it too. If you don't, just say the word and I swear I'll never bring it up again." Adora promises, her words lifting all of the weight Catra felt stacking on her shoulders. This was Adora she was talking to here.

Her first love.

Her first kiss.

Her first time.

Her first (and only) wife.

She wasn't going to think of her any less for something she feels guilty about enjoying. If anything, it almost appeared like Adora was excited to try it herself. Like she wasn't just doing this for Catra's sake, but doing it because she was genuinely interested in it too.

Catra steps out of the embrace to take another look at the array of books scattered across the table, casually biting her lip.

"So, what did you learn?"

****

The first time is always rough.

Figuratively rough since Adora ensured they went as slow as possible for this test run. She was able to get about half of her finger in before Catra started to panic and they had to call the entire thing off. They had a clear game plan established. Start with a finger and work their way up through various-sized toys until Catra was properly prepared to take the strap. And so far, they haven't managed to get past a finger.

"I think maybe it's cause I'm so nervous about it being the first time? Maybe next time will be better since I'll know what to expect?" Catra guesses, taking on the role of little spoon, her back pressed snugly against Adora's front. Adora's fingers paint themselves along the stripe of darker fur hugging the side of her wife's thigh, keeping her voice as gentle as her touch.

"You're saying you want to try again?" Adora asks a little too excitedly, leaving her thigh to twine her fingers through the hand Catra has resting on her stomach.

Catra snorts at her enthusiasm. "Well not right now. But yeah, eventually. It felt kinda good for a minute there before I froze up. I think I just need to be in the right kind of mindset next time."

"Yeah. It feels soo much better when you're relaxed." Adora agrees, unaware of how much she just revealed.

Catra's purring stops abruptly.

"You're saying that like you've tried it before." Catra accuses her, causing the princess behind her to visibly still. Catra turns over her shoulder to check in on her, taking in the guilty blush that rudely decided to plant itself smackdab onto her cheeks. This has Catra turning on her altogether, twisting around in the blonde's arms until they were lying face to face.

"Holy shit, you have, haven't you?" Catra hisses in surprise, and somehow Adora's cheeks heat up more severely than before, shifty eyes darting elsewhere as she avoids the wild gaze staring her down for answers.

"I can explain.." Adora starts, a startled yelp leaving her when Catra suavely pushes her onto her back in a flurry of motion, boarding her hips as she cages the blonde in. Adora tries not to focus too much on the wet and unobstructed heat resting on her lower abdomen, her wife's lack of attire already starting to steal her attention away from the conversation. Adora mildly whines when Catra takes a deep and purposeful inhale, likely taking in the condemning scent of the blonde's arousal.

"Well, start talking then because I have questions. Lots of them." Catra orders, looking far more interested in this topic than any other discussion they've had in their life. Adora gets distracted by the cute and fluffy chest on display, sensing a smirk being formed above her. "My eyes are up here, Adora."

"Right, sorry.. uh.. What did you want to know exactly?" Adora dares to question, not very reassured by the nefarious grin Catra's sporting right now. It really had no right being as attractive as it was.

"When did you try it?" ends up being the feline's first question in this interrogation.

"After the supply run to Plumeria. I ended up finishing there early and it was still a good two hours before I knew you'd be back and I just got curious I guess. If I wanted to eventually try it on you then it's only fair that I try it on myself.." Adora mumbles out like she's being lectured, struggling to maintain her gaze.

Catra visibly gulps at the news. "H-How did it feel?"

Oh boy. Adora knew this was going to come up eventually. And as embarrassing as it was, she knew that honesty was always the best policy when it came to these sorts of things. "I don't think I've ever came so hard in my life, Catra." she shyly confesses. Catra's fur fluffs out instantly at the admission.

"Wait, you came just from doing that?" Catra prods for more details, her apparent interest in this topic having her slitted pupils dilating on her. Her tail was lashing aimlessly now, betraying her growing excitement.

"Well I was rubbing my clit too but, yeah.. I did." Adora agrees, that attention of hers dropping right back down to the swell of the feline's breasts, eyeing both perfect fuzzy globes. Globes she's actively trying not to dive into right now.

"Were you ever going to tell me?" Catra asks, the uncertainty in her question having Adora's straying eyes snap back to attention, determined to reassure her wife.

"Of course I was. I was just waiting to see how this went first because I didn't want you to feel like you had to do it just because I did it. I don't ever want to pressure you into anything, Catra." Adora earnestly answers, lifting her hand to lay over the cusp of her cheek as her thumb gives it a gentle brush. Catra seems satisfied with her answer, a spontaneous thought having her frown shape into the most wicked of smirks.

"Does that mean you'll let me do it to you?" Catra wonders aloud, thrilling in the way Adora immediately chokes on nothing but empty air, blushing severely enough to put an entire field of cranberries to shame.

"Oh.. heh, wow. I uh.. I mean I'm certainly not opposed to the idea.. and uh. Wow, did it get hot in here?" Adora blurts out in a tangle of words and stuttered syllables, the spread of her flustered state affecting even her chest as the porcelain skin there glows with a reinvigorated tint of red. This definitely wasn't how she anticipated her night playing out. She can't exactly say she hadn't thought about what Catra was proposing to, since she has thought about it. A lot. Adora just never expected Catra would be willing to reciprocate when it came to that, so she's kind of just been shoving all those fantasies in the back of her mind for safekeeping. But now all those little taboo thoughts were starting to flood up to the surface, like a riptide threatening to drown her entirely as it sucks her under.

By the look Catra was throwing her, Adora knew she was done for.

****

"Is this the place?" Catra asks, poking her head through one of the shop's windows. Just above the entrance was a wooden sign with "Love Connections" painted in purple, the 'S' in connections stretching out at the end to form a blooming flower. Adora gives the notes in her hand a once-over, her other hand resting comfortably in the feline's.

"Yep, this is definitely the place," Adora confirms, still blushing worse than a spanked rear. Catra was finally cashing in on that week off Glimmer had promised them, and they were utilizing the time to really double down on exploring this uncharted territory together. Well, sort of uncharted.

By this point not only had Adora been letting Catra do some of her own exploring in the blonde's backside, but the feline had finally managed to take in a finger without the added panic attack this time. Now that they were both confident they've accustomed to the experience, it was finally time for them to take it a step further. Catra peeks over at her wife, who's still planted outside of the entrance, squeezing Catra's hand in a death grip while nervously chewing her lip.

"Hey, are you sure you're ready for this?" Catra gently asks, her unoccupied hand tilting Adora's chin upward so eye contact was established. The princess wouldn't exactly be the one bottoming in this situation, but that didn't imply she couldn't become overwhelmed by the experience, so Catra was making sure her check in's with her were frequent. Adora breathes out a happy sigh at the calming contact, her head giving a shaky nod. Catra still isn't very convinced with her answer, thumbing her cheekbone for encouragement.

"What's worrying you right now?" Catra asks, trying to get a read on her. Adora forces a troubled laugh birthed from pure anxiousness, unable to help herself from nuzzling into the warm hand at her cheek.

"It's not so much worry as it is embarrassment.. I mean I know Perfuma wrote down everything we would need so we wouldn't need to ask ourselves but I don't know.. I just feel dirty coming in here. Especially when they know exactly what we're here for.." Adora bashfully mutters, and Catra can't help but grin at the cuteness of it all. Apparently, Adora's tendencies to overshare in her therapy sessions with the flower princess had resulted in Perfuma catching wind of what they were up to. Predictably, she offered to help, and though Catra might not be too chipper about her bedroom affairs being put on blast, she couldn't deny Perfuma had really come through for them on this one.

Catra leans up, pecking the blonde's lips with a tender kiss which does little to reduce the magnitude of Adora's blush. "You're adorable."

Adora frowns, but it doesn't deter her from returning the gesture. "I'm serious, Catra!"

"If she's seeking to ward off embarrassment then perhaps I can cloak her?" Melog suggests as they trot up to the princess, nuzzling into the side of her leg affectionately as Adora serves them a smile.

"That's actually not a bad idea.." Catra agrees in contemplation, the one-sided conversation having Adora's brows furrow on her.

"What's not?" Adora wills herself to ask, the pair awkwardly clearing the walkway when they realize they're blocking the entrance, allowing another young couple to pass.

"Melog's going to keep you cloaked so no one will see you coming in. Just give me the list and I'll handle the rest, princess," Catra assures her, gruffing in surprise at the very appreciative kiss Adora rewards her lips with.

"You're the best." Adora grins into the kiss, happily handing over the list to her wife right before Melog enters stealth, cloaking the princess as well.

Catra smirks. "I know."

Catra takes one last glance at the list for good measure before entering the shop, trying to not get distracted by the arsenal of goodies displayed on the shelves around her. Half of the things she couldn't even identify the purpose for. The only objects she could make out were the ones that were clearly phallic in shape as she passed an entire aisle of them. It didn't take a rocket scientist to decipher what those instruments were used for.

Catra hangs back a bit by the display stand of riding crops once she reaches the front of the store, the couple that entered before them still in the process of checking out with the cashier. The feline makes a bewildered flinch when she feels an invisible set of arms hugging her from behind, growing tense when the cloaked idiot behind her starts gracing her nape with gentle kisses.

"Dirty move, princess." Catra grunts at her, unaware that her complaint had been heard. The elven woman behind the counter hands the exiting couple their receipt before she peers over at Catra curiously.

"Did you say something, dear?" she asks, causing the tiniest of giggles to sound from the cloaked princess behind her as Adora lets her loose from her hold. Catra clears her throat, willing her blush to depart before she steps up to the counter. Before she can even announce why she's there, the elf speaks up again.

"You wouldn't happen to be Catra, would you?" she asks as Catra gives her a puzzled stare, narrowing her eyes at her suspiciously.

"Maybe. Who wants to know?" she questions warily, her ears perking up in curiosity when the merchant simply laughs, reaching behind the counter to pull out a parcel.

"Perfuma said you would be arriving today. She called in advance and helped put together a basket of everything you two would need. I have it already packaged up and ready to go for you." she cheerily announces before sliding the package over to her. Catra looks in surprise, unsure of how to answer.

"Oh.. That was uh.. nice of her." Catra begins, looking at the package for a moment. "How much do I owe you?"

"Perfuma already paid it off for you. She said to tell you both to consider it an early birthday gift." the elf informs her, the act of generosity having Catra's ears flatten sheepishly.

Before Catra can answer, she whirls around in surprise when they both hear a loud crash from behind, zeroing in on the rotatable rack of paddles and switches on display near the window. There on the floor sits her clutz of a wife in all of her shame and glory. Adora had quite clearly fallen on her ass, the noise enough to startle both the princess and Melog right out of stealth. Catra slides a palm down her face, sighing out a laugh. Of course Adora couldn't manage to be in here without her clumsiness screwing her over one way or another.

"Oh, gods. I'm so sorry! I swear I was just looking! I'll uh.. clean this up right away.." Adora scrambles up to her feet like a mad woman, carefully tilting the display rack upright as the blonde hurriedly collects the scattered items, restacking them as best as she can manage.

Why is she eyeing the paddles specifically? Definitely looking into that later.

With a laugh and a hopeless shake of her head, Catra retrieves the package off the counter before parting ways with the startled merchant, backtracking to help tackle the shameful mess of toys Adora's two left feet managed to knock down.

****

Perfuma's package of questionable goodies actually really made up for the embarrassment they'd endured to retrieve them. Not only were there phalluses ranging from starter size to widths that were more for adept users, but it even included several varieties of lubricant, one of them even flavored. (Adora's curiosity may or may not have had her licking a dollop of it off her palm when she was certain Catra wasn't looking.)

The first two days they left the toys untouched in the box since they both wanted to make sure Catra was fully comfortable with her fingers before they made that leap. When the time eventually came when Catra could take two of Adora's fingers without any issues or resistance, they both decided she was ready for something bigger. They started with the smallest phallus of the bunch, the girth of it about a third of the width of a cucumber. And when Catra took that like a champ, as well as the next phallus that was a little over twice the previous width, they knew they were finally ready to take on the bang-a-rang.

Adora was rightfully antsy, her nerves having her overwashing the enchanted strap for the third time in the last ten minutes alone, taking a quick peek outside the washroom before she finally turns off the faucet. Catra lays comfortably on the bed sprawled out on her stomach, one of the smaller plugs nestled snugly in her rear to keep it readied for her. Adora notes the way her tail tip is slightly curled, relieved to see it's swaying less out of anxiety and more out of anticipation. Adora's been exposed to that tail more than enough times to decipher the subtle cues to Catra's body language, often revealing the hybrid's mood when she's too reluctant to voice it herself.

Grabbing a towel off the rack, Adora thoroughly dries off the strap in her hands, suppressing a shiver when she's reminded that the minute this thing goes inside of Catra, Adora will be able to feel it as well. (Out of all of Entrapta's whacky inventions, Adora definitely appreciates this one the most.)

"I'm not getting any younger here, princess. Strap on up already." Catra calls out, and Adora rolls her eyes at the grin she can't even see. She lets her only article of clothing drop to a pile on the floor, stepping out of the boyshorts before she kicks them away to the side. This nearly has her tripping over the abandoned garments when it gets snagged on one of her toes, frantically grabbing onto the counter before gravity has her falling on her ass.

"Alright alright, sheesh. Hold your damn horses. I haven't even prepped you yet." Adora chides her, fumbling with the harness when she regains her footing.

"Prep me for what? Isn't that what the plug is for? Because I'm definitely not using this thing solely for the sake of fashion." Catra grits out, though when Adora finally emerges from the bathroom with the bang-a-rang and all of its magic-enhanced glory proudly strapped to her hips, Catra loses some of her bravado.

"Fuck. I forgot how big that thing is." Catra comments, narrowing her eyes into a glare when Adora cracks a wide and knowing grin, the feline cutting her off right when she was opening her mouth to speak. "If you even think about making a 'that's what she said' joke I swear to gods I won't hesitate to lock you and that thing outside of this room."

Adora pouts, the joke still sitting on the edge of her tongue as she bites the inside of her cheek, deciding against it. "Spoilsport. And this is more than just prepping down there. You need to be in the right headspace to do this. Know what aftercare is? Well, consider this *before*care." Adora clarifies, fetching the bottle of lube off the top of their dresser, specifically the flavored one. Catra also doesn't miss the fact that it's flavored, arching a brow when Adora tosses it on the bed to be nearby when it's finally needed.

"How's the plug feel? Do you want to keep it in while I'm brushing you or do you want to take it out for a bit?" Adora asks, said brush now in hand as she takes a seat over onto Catra's side of the bed, ignoring the throb of the phallus when it brushes against her thigh on the way down. She always forgets just how sensitive this thing was to even the slightest amount of stimuli.

"You can keep it in while you do my back. Take it out when you do my front though." Catra answers, turning her head to look at her over her shoulders, arms splayed out in front of her as her claws delicately knead the sheets.

"Okie dokie artichokie" Adora quips, grinning guiltily when Catra lets out a round of snorting laughter, the majority of it getting buried into the mattress.

"Gods you are such a nerd. Way to kill the mood, princess." Catra goofs with the blonde, hiding her growing grin against her arm.

"Well, this princess is fixin' to take you to pound town so I'm sure I'll get it back." Adora counters, straddling the back of the feline's legs while also trying to avoid the protruding magical strap throbbing between her legs. (In hindsight, maybe she should have equipped it after prepping her wife.)

"I'm not even going to dignify that with a response." the feline deadpans, deliberately brushing her tail against her wife's length just to throw her off of her game.

Adora curses quietly before batting her tail away with a pointed glare. "Behave. Or all you'll be getting tonight is scritches."

"Yes, mother." Catra snarks, bursting into a cackle when Adora forms a horrified grimace at the comparison.

"And you have the nerve to say I kill the mood." the princess tuts, but there's no heat mustered behind her words.

"Aw, what's wrong? No mommy kink, princess?" Catra teases, though her tail finally relents, settling at her side.

Adora snorts. "Do you forget who used to fill that role for us? I can't even say that word without tasting bile in my mouth."

"Good point." Catra agrees after a moment of silence, both eagerly looking to get off the topic of Shadow Weaver, especially in the bedroom of all places. Adora starts her grooming at Catra's shoulders, gently running the bristles of the brush through her fur as she combs down a stripe ending at her lower back, humming when the feline immediately begins to purr under the attention.

"We take so much better care of each other than that witch ever could for us," Adora responds against the back of her ear, her reply a little breathier than she intends it to be. Catra's teeth find her lip, wiggling in place beneath the legs caged around her hips as a low trill surfaces from the magicat.

"Color?" Adora questions, stroking tentatively through her back fur with the brush as she waits on an answer.

"Still green. I'm just getting impatient." Catra admits sheepishly, arching her back into the brush when it reaches the base of her tail. "Fuuuuuck."

"Feels good, I take it?" Adora coos down at her, smiling as her wife practically melts into a pile of putty beneath her, the hybrid sinking into the bed with a blissed-out smile.

"Y-Yeah. Really good." Catra says with a contented sigh, her tail coyly swishing around when the blonde goes to lightly grasp it, running the brush all the way from its base to its fluffy tip, eliciting a groan at the slight tug Adora grants the furred appendage. "Tease," she complains half-heartedly.

"You won't be saying that in a minute here. I'm going to get your legs and then I'll take the plug out to do your front. Is that okay?" Adora inquires, shimmying her hips further down the feline to grant her access to her thighs, leaving a trail of barely-there kisses on her way down, the press of lips so delicate that Catra almost didn't feel them at all.

"Mhm." Catra's muddled brain answers for her, already making the slip into the dreamy depths of subspace. Adora smirks against the small of her back, leaving a gentle bite against her furred cheek before going to work on her legs. Every return trip of the brush has Catra pleasantly unraveling beneath her, all prior tension in her limbs all but gone by the time the blonde is finished.

"I'm going to take the plug out now so I need you to stay still. Can you do that for me, kitten?" Adora asks delicately, maneuvering her legs so she was only straddling one of Catra's limbs, allowing her a better opening to spread her legs. Catra gives her a feverish nod, too dazed for proper communication. Adora lets her off the hook for not providing her with a verbal confirmation. For now, anyway. There would be plenty of check in's later when the situation warrants it.

Adora's gaze zeros in on the plug nestled just between Catra's furred cheeks, the forgotten cock between her legs twitching at the scrumptious sight. Ever so gently Adora spreads her cheeks, establishing a secure hold on the base of the plug before she patiently urges it out bit by bit.

"Shit.." hisses the feline, the reaction having Adora pausing immediately.

"Do you need a minute?" the blonde asks, giving the back of her leg a soothing pet with her unoccupied hand.

"No, it just feels really good. I sorta forgot it was even back there until you started wiggling it." Catra answers, blushing at the proud grin Adora serves her. Catra bites back a gasp when the plug is fully removed with no more delays, the princess giving the back of her ass another thorough rub before cautiously easing the hybrid over onto her back. It didn't take much assessing at all for Adora to put together how much Catra's enjoying her little pampering session, the slick coating her thighs easily speaking for itself.

"What a messy little kitten." Adora fondly remarks, trying not to get too distracted with her vantage point. (She still had a job to do, after all.)

"I blame you." Catra huffs, spreading her legs a little wider as an extra incentive. Her smirk is triumphant when Adora guiltily looks a little longer than necessary, momentarily forgetting her original task.

"I'll gladly take the blame for that mess." Adora recovers, forcing her straying eyes upward before continuing. "If this is your attempt at trying to distract me, it's working."

"Good. Forget the brush. I have something better you can pet." Catra suggestively offers, her claws retracting before she skims a hand to the edge of her stomach, which definitely has Adora's eyes following the action with a little too much interest. She's unable to refrain from licking her lips when Catra picks up a lazy rotation against her clit, a conflicted noise leaving the princess.

"B-But I didn't get to do your front yet.." Adora's pout deepens under the quiet snickering coming from her wife.

"No, you didn't brush my front. But you're definitely about to do it. Save the brushing for after you rail me. Otherwise, you're gonna put me to sleep way before we get to the fun stuff." Catra tries to entice her by leaning up to greet her lips with a profound kiss, slow, meaningful, and steady just the way Adora likes it. Adora eventually yields after thinking on it. Catra was absolutely right. If she was too relaxed going in then this rodeo might be over before it can even start.

Any higher thought promptly flees from Adora's head at the furred hand she feels curling around the cock still snugly strapped around her waist, the kiss clearly a diversion for Catra's sneaky assault. The blonde breathes out a guttural groan against her lips that only raises in pitch when Catra starts lazily stroking her cock, the felid curving a smug smirk into the kiss.

"C-Catra, I'm not going to last long if you keep that up." Adora shakily warns her, her jaw falling partially slack when Catra increases the pump of her wrist, the hand that wasn't jerking her wife off reaching for the bottle of flavored lubricant. Adora's eyes blink open when she hears the lid being popped open.

"You think I don't know that? Look at you, princess. You're already fit to burst. I bet even a draft of air would be enough to get the job done with how wound up you are right now." Catra drawls, about a millimeter of space separating their lips from contact. Adora exhales a shuddering groan when the pressure around her cock increases, the feline scuffing the underhead with her thumb on her next tug upward. Adora finds it highly unfair that Catra still expects her to top after using that tone with her, barely managing to maintain control of the situation.

"You're misbehaving, kitten." Adora manages to get out, desperately fighting the losing battle to rock her hips up into her touch. That sliver of control continues to bend beneath her wife's thorough ministrations and the sultry way of words that never fails to strike all of Adora's weak points.

"No, I think you're misbehaving, princess." corrects the feline, and the raw amount of fire put behind that statement only kindles the flame Adora feels warming beneath her navel as the pressure there begins to build.

"W-Who's topping who right now?" the blonde uses her last portion of remaining vocabulary to ask, though her inquiry resembles more of a squeak than an actual question. Catra's gratified purr is the only other sound that manages to register for Adora, the thrum of her racing heart taking up residence in her ears. That erratic beat stutters off course when parted lips mark down the sharp square of her jaw, the field of barbs encompassing the feline's tongue skating a thick stripe that ends right at the lobe of her ear.

"I think you already know the answer to that one, don't you?" Catra snatches away any semblance of control right from Adora's weakened grasp, quaking hips snapping forward against the hand that would surely be the death of her. It was no use anymore. Adora was indeed a goner, knowing there was no point in trying to top from the bottom. Catra had her sights set on taking the reigns tonight, and Adora was helpless to agree.

"I-I do.." the princess rasps, those two moaned words both a response to the feline's question and an automatic reaction to the pleasure being consistently rewarded to her cock.

"You want to be my good girl. Don't you, Adora?" Catra whispers back before confiscating her earlobe between two sharpened incisors, sucking the sensitive bit of flesh into her mouth's grasp. That little stunt just about obliterated any higher mental function within the blonde, her thoughts clearing out until her sole purpose devoted itself to conquering any trials she'd need to face to hear those words again.

"Y-Yes, Catra. Whatever you want of me, I'm yours.." her plea comes out in a needy whine, the remnants of her dominance all but gone as Adora plummets gleefully into subspace like the world's most willing victim. The serene state of being where she no longer had to handle the burden of thinking, only the pleasure of doing.

Catra's hum is deliciously approving, the blonde sobbing from the loss of pressure on her cock when Catra momentarily moves her hand away, causing the princess to fuck nothing but empty air before she realizes there's no longer a grip to thrust her hips into.

"Don't think I didn't notice you bringing over the flavored lube. You want my mouth on you, don't you, princess?" taunts the feline, squeezing a hefty palmful of the warming substance out of the bottle before her hand takes custody of her cock once more. Adora's hips almost launch themselves into the outer stratosphere when Catra begins lathering her cock with purpose, the visual nowhere near as obscene as the sound it creates with each messy pump of those lithe fingers.

"Oh, gods. Yes, Catra. Please!" Adora takes her begging to a whole other scale, completely unconcerned with how pitiful she must sound right now. But if the hybrid's manic grin was anything to go by, Catra was living for the unashamed desperation pouring out of her wife.

"Then be a good girl and stay still until I'm finished with you. Then you'll get your reward. Can you do that for me, Adora?" Catra's tone is gentle with her, a harsh contrast compared to the ruthless pace of the fist around her length, pumping like she's churning butter.

Adora wants to stay still.

She wants to be Catra's good girl.

She'd burn the entire world down and then some just to hear those words on a continuous loop.

But how was one expected to remain still when receiving that amount of devoted attention to their body?

Adora really isn't sure how she manages the feat, but that instinct to bend to Catra's whim must have overpowered the tirade of her hips since the brutal tempo soon begins to lower before they miraculously halt to a trembling stop.

"Good girl."

The praise alone has Adora trilling with a delighted moan, making the turmoil she's endured more than worth the soothing end result of those words. But that soothing state of being gets ripped away from her when she suddenly feels a lubed finger prying apart her cheeks, skimming the tightened flesh of her rim. It takes all the willpower in Etheria to keep her hips from betraying Catra's order to remain still, that insatiable hunger internally screaming to jostle her finger along. Blue and blown pupils tilt up to meet their counterpart, the weight of the feline's gaze immobilizing her lidded eyes.

Undoing her with one simple word.

"Beg."

"Please, Catra, please! Gods-I-need-your-fingers-so-fucking-bad Please*.. Let-me-be-good-for-you!"* Adora barely gets the plea out before Catra's driving a digit into her second opening, pushing in until she runs out of finger. A choked cry of approval flees the blonde's lungs, unable to stop her hips from flinching forward this time, guiltily trying to fuck herself with her finger. Catra chooses to let the fact she was misbehaving by not staying still slide for now, letting the blonde buck against her finger as her other hand feverishly strokes the phallus protruding between her thighs.

"Think you can be a good little princess and take another finger for your kitten?" the magicat coos, humming a purr in her larynx when Adora starts nodding her head like she's about to have a full-on seizure, no words left in her to work with. If one of Catra's fingers can feel this heavenly, she knows the stretch of another will take her right on the edge of unprecedented bliss.

"I need to hear you say it, baby. Use your words. You want to be good for me, don't you?" Catra goads her, that additional promised finger teasingly prodding at her entrance.

Whatever scrambled puzzle of pleas and syllables Adora flung at her must have been enough to please her feline tormentor, an unrestrained "Yes!" breaking out of her throat when one tantalizing finger soon turns into two, the pair of flexed digits ruining her from the inside out.

"Look up for me, princess. I want you to see the faces you make for me when I'm taking you." Catra orders and Adora complies without question, slumping onto her back so she was face to face with the newly installed mirror bolted into the ceiling above their bed. It was spacious enough to show everything.

More importantly, it showcased just how utterly gone the blonde was. Struggling to keep her eyes open, Adora does exactly what's asked of her, watching the debaucherous scene reflecting off the mirror. There wasn't a part of her body that Catra wasn't conquering, and had Adora had a kingdom of her own to work with, she's fairly certain Catra would conquer that too. The fingers that weren't invading her cavern were pumping her cock like a jackhammer, and Adora didn't think she had it in her to delay her own release any longer.

"I don't want to cum without your permission but I'm getting so close!" her hailstorm of moans break off long enough to warn the magicat, dreading the possibility of losing that fist around her length. She couldn't even close her eyes and pray that it wouldn't happen since she was given a clear order to remain a spectator, forced to bear witness to her own eventual undoing. But against all odds, Catra's hand didn't move away from the phallus. Nor did it even slow down in the slightest. Adora battles to try and read her wife's expression from her vantage point in the mirror, but the angle is too off and her mane obscures her view.

"Good girl. Using your words and warning me. Where do you want to cum, princess? I'm letting you choose because you were such a good girl for me. And good girls always get rewarded." Catra praises her, picking up her efforts with both sources of pleasure she was granting her.

"A-Anywhere!" her pleas are mindless, shrill, and half-formed as she teeters on the edge of completion, her climax just on the horizon. Adora almost thinks she's fucked up by not specifying a location but never in her life has she ever been so lucky to be proved wrong.

The fist at her cock slides down to the base, squeezing it into a vice grip before the entirety of her length gets throated by her wife, swallowing enough of her down for Catra's nose to collide with her pelvis.

The raspy tongue curled around her cock was heaven personified, but it was when Catra began to lightly suckle that Adora was catapulted into the point of no return.

"C-Ca ah -tra!"

Like a cranked-up faucet, the pressure of her release travels from her body and into the phallus, showering Catra's tonsils with a seemingly endless amount of cum. Catra's purring makes repeated intermissions for the occasional muffled moan she buries around her cock, taking as much of her as she could but it was too much to get down, the excess of Adora's release pooling out of the sides of her lips. She switches from gentle sucking to just keeping her lips in place, shepherding her wife back down from the heights she'd taken her to. Milking one last drop, Catra eventually pulls her mouth away, the oversensitive phallus slapping lewdly against the blonde's navel.

"That tongue is going to be the cause of my obituary at this rate." Adora jests through mirthful laughter, her quivering legs resembling the consistency of jello.

Snickering, Catra moves to straddle her midsection, the phallus conveniently getting wedged between her cheeks as the head presses into the underside of her tail. "I can't tell whether that's a compliment or a complaint."

"A little bit of both." the grinning blonde returns, the position they were in starting to kindle her second wind. Catra doesn't miss the slight squirm of hips beneath her, feeling a little smug that her wife was already ready for another round. The feline splays her fingers against her midsection, mapping the contour of her abs before her grip shifts north, palms indulging in her chest before tweaking both rosy buds.

"Still sure you want to do this?" Catra asks, tail-tip sweeping down the blonde's leg in building anticipation.

Adora scoffs out a laugh. "Pretty sure I'm the one supposed to be asking you that, considering which one of us is going to be on the receiving end of this."

"Pft. Princess, I was born ready." Catra responds with fabricated bravado, and Adora can immediately tell she's deflecting with humor. Adora's gentle smile falls to a frown, reaching up to tuck a stray lock of fur away from her face.

"Catra.."

The hybrid sighs at the sympathy of her tone, repressed embarrassment causing her ears to fold down against her mane. "I'm fine, I promise. I'm just a little nervous, that's all."

"Did you want to stop?" Adora offers, the crinkle in her brow deepening at the slight huff she gets from her wife.

"Of course not, dummy. Committing to keeping that plug in wasn't just for show, you know." the hybrid assures her, bending down to top it off with an additional kiss to her lips.

Adora exhales a drawn-out sigh, satisfied with her answer. "Okay."

They exchange a silent smile with one another before Catra's hips lift off of her, a furred grasp gently confiscating her length while the other clung to the blonde's hip for balance. Her legs repositioned, shifting down a bit until the tip of the enchanted phallus was lined up properly with her rear. Between the plug and the plentiful lubrication, the cinched ring of muscle at her rim only offered a sliver of resistance, the stretch bordering on pleasant as Catra cautiously sank down just enough of her weight to have the head slip inside of her.

This tighter unexplored tunnel of her spouse has Adora choking out a strangled puff of air, that molten brand of flesh squeezing her in like a vice, unable to fathom how anything this constricting could ever feel this good. Forgetting her own pleasure for a moment, Adora flits her eyes upward to get a read on the feline. Catra had her eyes closed, jaw slightly open as the rise and fall of her furred chest increased significantly.

Adora was about to ask her if she needed a moment but that inquiry got promptly robbed from her by the two additional inches Catra took in with ease, the blonde staring down in awe at the place their bodies were joined together. As many positions as they've experimented with over the years, this would always be one of Adora's favorites. Just having Catra perched right onto her hips, the exquisite canvas of her body on full display as every ripple and subtle curve and dip connected together to form a bigger picture, showcasing the work of art her wife truly is.

"Catra, you're doing amazing. How does it feel?" Adora props back up on her elbows to get a better view, the half-folded position putting her core muscles on display. Catra's eyes blink open, serving her a toothy smirk.

"Like I have a dick in my ass." she deadpans, cracking a sly grin at the incredulous snort her statement pulls out of the princess.

Adora huffs. "So I take it things are all good on your end, then?"

"Good and only getting better, princess. You can start moving now." Catra gives her the green light she needs, but Adora is still confused. It's only when she glances back down to both of their hips that she realizes Catra had already bottomed out without Adora even realizing it.

"When.. How-"

Catra doesn't give her time to finish her questioning, giving her a testing rock of her hips that has Adora's eyes rolling back to the skies themselves, shaky hands flying down onto her spouse's hips for something to hold. "You were saying?" snarks the hybrid.

Oh, fuck.." Adora shudders and exhales, the back of her head colliding with the mattress when those hips begin moving consistently, showing an immaculate amount of resistance with every steady push and pull taking place against her cock.

"You good down there, princess?" The only reply Catra's tease receives is another array of stuttered "Fucks", the wet sleeve gloved her member threatening to take away her sentience.

Adora's eyes fly open at the sudden increase of pressure, the magicat purposefully squeezing her to get her attention. "Wow, actually letting me do all the work for once? That's a little unlike you, Adora." Catra goads.

"I-If you had any idea how this thing feels on my end, you wouldn't be giving me so much shit right now." Adora's tut comes out more like a breathless croak, striving to hang on to at least a sliver of her composure.

"That good, huh?" Catra remarks amusedly, bending down to give a lipular assault to the tempting expanse of Adora's neck, tracing her tongue along her fading mating mark. Adora shudders at the contact, her hips involuntarily twitching forward a tad.

"Y-Yes.." Adora dazedly answers, fighting a losing war with her cognition. "So good."

It isn't until Catra needily shoves the blonde's wrist between her legs that Adora's reminded that she sorta still has a job to do, her breath catching in her throat when she realizes just how wet her wife was for her, furred thighs combed down with a glistening sheen of slick. For a while she simply rubs her, toying with her lips with each broad stroke of her fingers and enjoying each approving micro expression she witnesses from the feline. Catra's body was no longer a puzzle needing to be solved, the princess effortlessly mastering every inch of her like clockwork, each calculated touch winding her up just right.

Once Adora's digits slid up enough to say hello to her wife's little neglected bud, Catra decided to throw any and all caution to the wind, grinding down into her in a way that nearly had Adora's frantic heart stopping on her altogether. The pressure was all-consuming, and Adora knew if she was already walking that tightrope towards climax, she needed to do whatever was needed to ensure she brought her spouse right along with her.

The other hand gripping her hip sneaks its way around her side, settling right at the base of Catra's tail. Just having her hand in the region immediately earns her a keening mewl, the hybrid undecided between grinding down harder and arching her back into her touch. Adora decides to make it easier for her, using some of her core strength to start matching the rock of Catra's hips, her languid thrusts harmonizing into a mutual rhythm that has Catra getting very vocal on her.

"Nghh. Fucking hell!" blindly wails the magicat, planting her hands on the blonde's sturdy shoulders for support, determined to fuck her wife straight into the mattress. Their movements were steadily growing desperate on both ends, traversing their shared union as they charged towards that promised peak side by side. Adora focused all of her efforts into stimulating both weak points on the felid, the hand at her clit granting her torturous swirls to the swelling bud as the one at her spine firmly fists the fur there, continuing to tug with just the right amount of force put behind it.

That just about did it for Catra, all varying sources of pleasure hitting her at once as she willingly lost herself in it all, determined to drag Adora down to the abyss right along with her. Crying out the name of her beloved, Catra's rampant climax heralded Adora's own, clenched and focused walls losing all coordination and stability as they melted into aimless and sporadic flutters with no rhyme or reason to them at all. The intensity of it had Adora's sense of self momentarily taken from her, not sure where her body ended and Catra's began, both writhing bodies melding into a single entity as Adora unloaded everything she had to give her, breeding her thoroughly with each thick rope of her release.

Time itself seemed to dilate, the moment stretching out into an eternity for them both. When Adora finally comes to, she finds Catra collapsed on top of her, a weak purr emanating from the fatigued feline. Adora couldn't help the swell of pride blooming warmly in her chest when she realizes Catra is just as utterly spent as herself, a sated grin rising to the hybrid's face at the tentative hand she feels carding through her hairline.

"Good start?" Adora's inquiry breaks the elapsing silence, her grin as hopeful as it is goofy. Catra buries an obnoxious snort against her shoulder as if the question itself offended her.

"You're such an idiot." Catra snarks, not exactly answering the blonde's original inquiry. Adora frowns slightly, a troubled furrow forming between both of her brows as she scratches beneath the base of the hybrid's ear.

"I know. But you enjoyed it, right? I mean was I okay or did you need me to-"

Catra uses the rest of her reserves to manage lifting up her head, silencing her wife's spiraling worries with a reassuring kiss to her babbling lips. It's a chaste exchange since both are still fairly winded but it manages to get the point across, the princess soon relaxing under the affection.

"Stop it. It was incredible, Adora. You were incredible." Catra affirms between unhurried kisses breaking off to give her a gentle nip to her jaw. Adora exhales the breath she wasn't even aware she'd been holding, melting into the mattress.

"I love you." the blonde whispers to her, relishing in the blush that surfaces to Catra's cheeks at the declaration. She's forgotten how many times they've exchanged those words over the years, but every time they're uttered it always feels like hearing them for the very first time.

"I love you more." Catra challenges slyly, snickering at the scandalized scoff that leaves the blonde.

"As if. I love you times infinity divided by the square root of forever. Can't top that one, kitten." counters the princess, her reply breaking off with a strained hiss when Catra finally lifts her hips, the phallus slipping out of her in her efforts.

"Maybe not, but I can definitely top you." Catra quips confidently, gracefully rolling off the blonde to land on the one part of the bed that miraculously wasn't covered in an ocean of fluids. A subtle smirk forms at the blush she catches in the corner of her eye, letting out a yawn that put her fangs on display. Ignoring her comment, Adora smiles fondly.

"You going to be okay over there long enough for me to get us water and start a bath?" Adora checks in, letting one of her hands pet down the length of her back before giving her furred behind a playful pinch.

Catra smiles lazily, still in the midst of her afterglow. "Go for it, princess."

Adora doesn't waste any time, feeling fairly parched herself as she rises to her feet, her legs wobbling on her still as she makes an uncoordinated beeline to the mini fridge, fetching two bottles of water off of the shelf. Tucking her own under her arm, she twists the cap off the other, circling over to the side of the bed Catra's presently curled up on. She takes a seat at the edge of it, gently helping Catra up enough for the feline to drink, holding it to her lips for her. Catra easily downs half the bottle before her head flops back down onto the mattress, an unguarded smile rising as a blissful sigh escapes her.

Catra opens one of her eyes, peering up at her wife while maintaining her smile.

"So, about that aftercare.."

****

"Wanna tell me why you were sizing up the paddles, princess?" Catra asks the blonde lounging comfortably behind her in the tub, the washcloth at her back abruptly pausing at the question. Catra didn't even need to turn back to know her wife was blushing up a storm behind her, her wry smirk lengthening when Adora pretends to play dumb on the matter.

"N-No reason in particular.. I uh.. there was one that uh.. had a cool design on it. I wanted a closer look.." the blonde nervously rambles, rewetting the rag before adding another spritz of shampoo as she lathered it into the fabric.

"A close enough look to knock the entire stand over? Must have been some design." Catra challenges her, turning this pampering session into an unforeseen interrogation. Adora's suddenly soaping up the feline's arms with more erratic purpose than before, clearly trying to keep herself occupied.

"Oh, yeah! Heh, it was greaaat." Adora tries to brush it off like it's nothing, but Catra sees the ploy for what it is. A fang anchors lightly into her lip when those deft hands move around to wash her front.

"What was the design?" the feline asks after a minute, cocking a brow when the hand washing her midsection begins to visibly falter.

"It uh.. Y'know, it must have slipped my mind. Heh, for the life of me I just can't remember!" Adora lies, (quite poorly), tense hands dragging the washcloth over the swell of her chest. Catra holds back her purr, determined not to get distracted by the blonde's ministrations.

"I was thinking about getting one myself." Catra casually lays out her bait, waiting patiently to see what her wife would do with it.

Adora practically squeaks behind her, the pitch of her voice higher than Catra's ever heard it go before. "Y-You were?"

Catra's lips curve into a self-satisfied smirk, pleased to know her growing hunch had indeed been proven right. Adora was just too easy to read sometimes. "Yeah. I've been wanting to get my hands on one for a while."

Adora's fingers fist around the rag a little tighter, her active hand now stagnant and idle. "W-What would you use it for?"

Catra sing-songs a hum, giving her a little shrug as she pretends to think on it. "Dunno yet. Might just keep it around for whenever you're being a brat. How does that sound, princess?"

Adora quite literally coughs out a guilty "Fuck.." that Catra definitely picks up on, shuddering with her next exhale. "T-That can.. um.. be arranged.."

Catra's grin turns predatory, reclining back into her spazzing wife as she sinks further into the welcoming water.

"Good girl."

Please drop by the Archive and comment to let the creator know if you enjoyed their work!