To Make You Mine

Posted originally on the Archive of Our Own at http://archiveofourown.org/works/50089579.

Rating:
Explicit

Archive Warning:
No Archive Warnings Apply

Category:
F/F

Fandom:
She-Ra and the Princesses of Power (2018)

Relationship:
Adora/Catra (She-Ra)

Character:
Adora (She-Ra), Catra (She-Ra), Glimmer (She-Ra)

Additional Tags:
First Time, Praise Kink, Adora Has A Praise Kink (She-Ra), Vaginal Fingering, Oral Sex, Canon Compliant, Gay, Getting Together, Sex, Post-Canon, the war is over but they've just begun, Adora likes being called a 'good girl' sue her, they could wait to have sex by why would they, if a tree falls in the forest and they're too tired to care does it make a sound, Plot What Plot/Porn Without Plot, theres a little plot, a little bit of glowdora as a treat, Adora is in Love with Catra (She-Ra), Catra is in Love with Adora (She-Ra), they are both surprisingly good at feelings now that their abuser is dead, Mentioned Shadow Weaver | Light Spinner (She-Ra)

Language:
English

Stats:
Published: 2023-09-15 Words: 11,735 Chapters: 1/1

To Make You Mine

Posted originally on the Archive of Our Own at http://archiveofourown.org/works/50089579.

Rating:
Explicit

Archive Warning:
No Archive Warnings Apply

Category:
F/F

Fandom:
She-Ra and the Princesses of Power (2018)

Relationship:
Adora/Catra (She-Ra)

Character:
Adora (She-Ra), Catra (She-Ra), Glimmer (She-Ra)

Additional Tags:
First Time, Praise Kink, Adora Has A Praise Kink (She-Ra), Vaginal Fingering, Oral Sex, Canon Compliant, Gay, Getting Together, Sex, Post-Canon, the war is over but they've just begun, Adora likes being called a 'good girl' sue her, they could wait to have sex by why would they, if a tree falls in the forest and they're too tired to care does it make a sound, Plot What Plot/Porn Without Plot, theres a little plot, a little bit of glowdora as a treat, Adora is in Love with Catra (She-Ra), Catra is in Love with Adora (She-Ra), they are both surprisingly good at feelings now that their abuser is dead, Mentioned Shadow Weaver | Light Spinner (She-Ra)

Language:
English

Stats:

Published: 2023-09-15 Words: 11,735 Chapters: 1/1

To Make You Mine

by cabbageboy

Summary

The war is over.

It still feels weird to say. It doesn't feel real yet.

Adora and Catra show each other just how real it is.

Notes

A little post season 5 fic about Catra and Adora's first time together after the war ends. Takes place the evening/day after defeating Prime.

Catra can’t remember the last breath she took with her whole chest, without the crippling hand of anxiety squeezing her heart or the hopelessness that had a chokehold on her for so long. She can’t remember how or when or why, but she knows that the last time she felt this, she was in this exact position.

She was facing Adora, lying on her side watching her sleep from mere inches away.

But even now, now that everything was over, now that their lives could start again, she knows that she is still too far away.

No matter what, she was certain that no amount of contact would ever get her close enough to Adora.

But she could try.

So it's with that thought that she gently pushes Adora’s shoulder, rolling her over onto her back in her sleep so that Catra can snuggle into her chest and wrap her arms around Adora’s torso.

“Hmm?” Adora hums. But Catra is already pulling the covers over both of them, snuggling deep into Adora’s sleeping bag to drape her body over her girlfriend’s.

“Shhh, it's just me. Go back to sleep,” Catra tries.

But that only forces Adora’s eyes open, if only a fraction of the way.

“Just you? You’re everything.”

And with that, she’s back asleep, but this time with her arms so firmly wrapped around Catra that she thinks she might stop breathing altogether. But at the same time she thinks that she’s never felt better, that she’s never felt like she belonged to someone before, even back when they were kids in the Horde together.

She didn’t think that she could feel this way, stronger than she already felt. But when Adora said that she loved her back, accepted her kiss, held on to her for dear life as the world ended, Catra felt her heart grow so much more than she thought it could, accept so much more love than she ever thought she’d get.

The confession was a desperate way to finally say what she’s felt all this time, with the knowledge that Adora was already too far gone to hear her, waiting for it to simply end. Only it didn't.

Catra lays like that, half on top of Adora, listening to her heartbeat, all night. She didn’t know what everyone else was doing, because they’d found their own tent for privacy before heading off to bed, but she knew that they were suspicious. Glimmer and Bow especially could tell that something had shifted between the two of them. But they left it alone as Catra pitched their tent and Adora sat by begrudgingly, too exhausted to move after transforming back from She-ra. To her surprise, everyone was pretty much in their own world catching up with loved ones and setting camp up for the night. No one really came up to them. But maybe it was the protective glare Catra shot anyone that showed up looking for She-ra.

It’s hard to tell what time it is, the freshly freed Etherian magic, no longer in a chokehold at the heart, has spread over everything. Fuzzy dots of floating magic string the air, like the magic can’t contain itself at finally being set free, finally returning the way it was meant to be. Everything is brighter, louder, than Catra is used to. The Fright Zone was dark and dingy, loud in a screeching mechanical kind of way that she had gotten used to growing up there. But this was different. Cicadas chirp in the trees, other creatures lumber slowly through the underbrush. She can tell they’re close, but she knows they won’t hurt them.

It doesn’t feel like anything could hurt her, with the way things had gone, the weight lifted off of her chest and the sheer joy in her heart.

One ear perks up at the sound of footsteps, as quiet as they could be, approaching. The bustle of camp and the roaring bonfire had calmed in the hours after nightfall. Everyone seemed to retreat to bed hours ago. Tent flaps rustle and she lifts her head a fraction to set her eyes on the entrance.

Glimmer's head pops through, followed by the rest of her body when she sees that Catra is awake. The tent is small, so Bow stays outside.

"Hey," Glimmer whispers, "You hungry?"

Catra hears her stomach growl.

"Yeah. She'll probably be up soon, too."

Glimmer reaches out of the tent and procures a couple of bowls of soup from Bow. Catra sits up and extracts herself from Adora in order to take them from her and set them on the floor of the tent.

"Thank you. Once she's rested we'll come find you guys. Where will you be?" Catra asks.

Glimmer nods.

"We'll probably hang around camp for a while, catching up with everyone and… ya know… getting to know my dad I guess? But I think when everyone has recovered enough we are going to head back to the palace to survey the damage and call a meeting of the princesses to discuss what post war recovery looks like for each of the kingdoms."

Catra bites her lip, looking back at her sleeping… friend? Girlfriend? She wanted to be girlfriends but it felt wrong to assume, to call herself that when they hadn't talked about it. It was obvious they were in love, but they had so much lost time, so much to talk about. She'd hold off on the specifics, on a label until she could talk to Adora.

Adora's brows had knit together, her fingers twitching just slightly after Catra pulled away. Whether she was dreaming or not, or if she simply didn't like that Catra had withdrawn herself from her embrace, was yet to be determined. But the bags were still present under her eyes, the shallow breathing of someone in pain still rattling her chest. Catra knew what that felt like, to be brought back from the dead, to wake up with the realization that you'd been gone for a little bit there.

She would probably need at least a couple of days to recover, but they could make it back to the palace for a meeting.

"I'll make sure she's rested and fed before we head back to Brightmoon. We'll find you. I know it would be faster for us to teleport but I don't want to hold you up and we're close to an older Horde camp that still had supplies when I received my last status report. I'll find a skiff for us to take to the palace and she can attend your meeting."

Glimmer raises an eyebrow.

"What about you?"

Catra hadn't considered it.

"I mean… I guess I can find somewhere to hang out while you all talk things over? Don't worry Sparkles, I think I'm still too tired to cause any trouble," She smirks.

Glimmer rolls her eyes.

"You could attend the meeting? You know everything there is to know about the Horde's resources and people. They're going to need help settling into life outside of the war. Who better to help them transition into being regular old Etherian citizens than their commanding officer?"

The silence drags on, but Catra thinks about it. Really thinks about it.

She knew there were decisions she made that weren't right, but she did pretty much single handedly keep the Horde going after Shadow Weaver was booted from her position and Hordak decided he wanted to sulk in his lab building weapons of mass destruction. She ran the show, knew everything about the Horde's resource allocation, the land they had acquired, and the people that were working for them.

It's so far from what she wants now. Hell, it's far from what she ever really wanted anyway. But she couldn't deny that the thought of actually helping… Beyond just being Adora's friend or girlfriend or whatever they were, was enticing.

After usurping her piss poor leadership, she really became something. She mattered. Her decisions mattered. People lived and died by her decisions, whether they were good or not.

The thought ran through the back of her mind that there was one person she'd always mattered to.

"I think… I think I can help. I want to help. For better or worse, I know everything there is to know about the Horde. Our supply chains, our trade routes, our troops and their skill sets. I know the land we acquired, what our machinery is capable of. I know that we can help rebuild what the Etherian Horde and the Galactic Horde did to the planet."

Glimmer crosses her arms and nods decisively.

"Then we'll see you at the meeting."

Catra smiles.

Glimmer smirks.

"But don't think you're getting out of telling us what happened. You two look a little cozy in that sleeping bag and you haven't let go of each other since."

"Wouldn't dream of it, Shimmer."

“For fuck’s sake, its Glimmer .”

“Yeah that’s what I said, Glitter.”

“Ugh!”

Catra tries to quell her laughter in order to let Adora rest as Glimmer leaves the tent, exasperated. Bow gives a wave and a smile as he takes Glimmer’s hand and the two leave to rejoin the rest of the Alliance.

“Hmm, Cat?” She hears behind her, the sleep still making Adora’s voice heavy and breathy.

She turns her head and can’t help the smile.

Adora was just so cute when she was tired.

“Hey, Adora.”

Catra helps Adora sit up when it’s clear she isn’t falling back asleep.

“You alright? You were knocked out for a while there. I think it's still morning? Glimmer and Bow came by with food if you’re hungry.”

The hovering and worry wasn’t likely to go away. She didn’t like feeling clingy, but she also didn’t like the thought that they had both nearly died without Adora ever knowing how she felt about her. So if clingy got the message across, she would be as clingy as she felt like being.

Catra’s arms come up to rub Adora’s back, pulling her into her chest and holding her close. Adora lays her head on Catra’s shoulder and she can feel the warmth seep into her body. Adora always ran hot, but it felt like she was on fire, the simple touches scorching deep into Catra’s soul.

However, it wasn't feverish, per say. It was like the magic ran through Adora too, warming her from the inside.

It’s probably one of the first times Catra can get behind the idea of magic itself, when it's making itself known in Adora.

“Food?” Adora asks, looking up at Catra with those eyes, the ones Catra always wanted on her, the ones she always wanted to see.

She smiles again, and it's only briefly that she thinks of how she hadn’t ever smiled this much. Not even when they were kids, not even when they had each other before. There was always something going wrong. But now? Catra didn’t think anything could go as wrong as things were seeming to in the Heart, before Adora woke up.

“Yeah, we’ve got… soup? I don’t know, whatever they could throw together I guess. There’s definitely… at least a vegetable in it?” She says, grabbing the bowl she’d set on the floor of the tent and bringing it over so Adora could take it from her.

She takes a tentative sip and groans in the presence of a hot meal.

Neither of them could remember the last real thing they ate. There were snacks, or found ration bars they’d scarfed down between meetings and, well, the shitshow of the Heart. But the thought of a real meal was enticing.

They hadn’t shared a real meal, alone, since they were in the Horde.

“Here,” She says, handing her bowl to Adora so she can scoot out from under the covers. She sits cross legged facing Adora, and then takes her bowl back.

“If this is going to be our first meal together in four years I want to at least look at you,” She says.

Catra wonders if she'll ever stop thinking of their firsts after the war, but decides that every first was something to celebrate.

"Is this our first date?" Adora asks jokingly, but there's a hint of nerves beneath. There was still so much to be afraid of when it came to Catra. Fear that she'd decide she needed something more than Adora could give her, fear that she wasn't enough. But she lets those slide away when a smirk plasters itself wide across Catra's face.

"Oh, princess, when we go on our first date you'll know it."

It's the promise of something more that has Adora blushing. She'd always wanted that; more with Catra, but never let herself think she could have it. Now that she knows that she can, though? She wants everything.

"What if I want to take you on our first date, though?" She says, taking another spoonful of soup.

Catra stirs hers in her bowl, picking up a healthy bite of… whatever meat this was.

"You'll just have to live with the fact that I'm taking you on our first date. You can have our second, though."

She says it offhandedly, but it makes Adora blush harder.

More dates with Catra? They hadn't even been on one yet, and she already didn't think she'd get enough.

"What gives you the right to plan our first date? I think as, you know, the savior of the universe I should get to take you out first, right?"

Catra rolls her eyes.

"If you recall, I saved you. "

The dreamy look on Adora's face tells Catra she'd struck gold, and blushes at the feeling of knowing that this was doing to Adora what she'd always dreamed her words would. It also reassured her of one thing.

Adora was going to be so easy to tease. This wasn't a secret, but it sure was something to be reminded of it.

"Baby, don't worry. I'm sure you'll think of a way to pay me back," She winks.

The intended effect presents itself in the form of a blush, and Adora looks down to her bowl, staring at the stew and taking another bite.

"You know-" Adora starts, chewing and swallowing, "I want to show you how much I appreciate it when we get to… wherever it is we'll be living now. But I'm having trouble with the thought of waiting."

She finishes her bowl and sets it to the side, looking back to Catra. There's something in the way she looks at Catra that makes her shiver, eyes raking over Catra's body, down and then up in an indulgent way. It's like she's finally letting herself want. And what she wants is Catra.

"Well, you never were very patient," Catra responds, discarding her own bowl to meet eyes with Adora.

There's something electric about the look they share. It's like… they can tell what the other is thinking, what the other wants, and they're sharing it with the knowledge that they could finally have what they wanted from each other, with each other.

Adora takes a deep breath and reaches out to Catra, scooting closer until their bent knees touch, and holding one of Catra's hands.

She brings it up to her face, examining Catra's fingers. What she's thinking or feeling is lost on Catra until Adora smiles, threading their fingers together and bringing her knuckles up to kiss. Catra feels herself flush, the gentle action making something low in her stomach stir. Even when they were kids, they were never really this gentle with each other. Their affection was physical, because they simply weren't taught the words to describe how they feel, how much and how strong it was. They wrestled and patched each other's wounds, but Adora had never kissed any part of Catra. She doesn't know what to do with the feeling of those lips she'd imagined countless times brushing over a new part of herself. She knew what they felt like against her own lips, but she shivers at the thought of feeling them explore her body.

"Where is it you think we'll be living, anyway?" Catra says as casually as she can. Trying to keep up the front of having her shit together gets harder when Adora kisses her knuckles again, peppering light kisses along the back of her hand.

"I haven't been back to Brightmoon since Prime invaded, so I don't know if the palace is even livable right now, but we could stay in my room there. If you're comfortable there, obviously, at least until we find somewhere more permanent. We don't have to stay anywhere that you don't feel comfortable or safe. Hell, we could stay in this tent for all I care. As long as we're together I don't mind where we end up."

"Don't you want to live with your friends? You've been attached at the hip to Glitter and Boy, I would think you'd want to live with them if we could."

Adora shrugs.

"I want you. Wherever and however you want me too. I want us to live somewhere that we both feel like we belong. For a while I only felt like I belonged with them because I was She-ra. They grew as my friends, but I've always felt like I belonged with you. I never had to doubt it," She says, squeezing Catra's hand in hers and pulling her closer.

Catra climbs into Adora's lap, bumping her forehead with Adora's and settles in. Strong arms, stronger than she ever remembered, pull her in and hold her tight. Adora was strong when she was in the Horde, but that muscle grew as she got older and it was seriously distracting to Catra to think of all the fun ways that she could get to know Adora's newer strength. It's clear in the way that Adora squeezes Catra's firm bicep that she feels the same way about Catra.

"Well, we're headed to the palace later today for a meeting with everyone. There's a lot to figure out about what things look like post-war and Sparkles made it clear that we aren't getting out of telling her and her better half what happened. Also I want the dirt on how they managed to get together too, now that I think about it. Once we're there we can figure out if enough of the palace is intact to stay and go from there," Catra explains, reaching up and brushing a stray hair out of Adora's face.

She smiles, leaning into the touch slightly.

"I mean it, you know? If you don't want to live there, we will find somewhere else. We can always visit and go to meetings without actually living in the palace. Plus.. I want to explore Etheria with you."

Catra snorts.

"We've seen Etheria, if you remember."

"But not together. Not the way we wanted. It's time to explore what we can be together, what we can do together. I'll spend the rest of my life showing you how much I want that, if I have to," Adora finishes, with a certain finality that leaves no room for doubt.

She's done keeping her feelings about Catra to herself, done pretending she doesn't want her this way. Adora is going to love Catra the way she'd always wanted, the way she never let herself think she could, and there wasn't anything that could stop her.

Catra can feel it in the way Adora's hands take a possessive grip on her body, the way she pulls Catra closer. She can tell in the way Adora leans down to bury her face in Catra's short hair.

She hopes that Adora feels it too, when she grips back so tightly she feels her nails bite into Adora's flesh. The prickle of them on her skin makes Adora shudder, and Catra can't stop herself from digging them in a little harder. Adora kisses her forehead and she smiles at the way those lips feel on her.

Catra really couldn't wait to feel them over the rest of her too.

"So say we don't stay in the palace. I'm assuming we'd still stay close to Brightmoon, to keep updated with meetings and stuff. Where would we stay? And don't suggest the tent again. We've been roughing it for what feels like forever and I would like to be in the presence of hot, running water."

"Hmm…" Adora considers it, tilting her head to the side while she thinks.

"Brightmoon's surrounding town is nice. There are tons of shops and restaurants, plus I'm sure we could find a house or an apartment easily enough. If the bustle of town is too much, we could find somewhere quieter, like the Whispering Woods? Think you'd like some peace and quiet?"

The hand on Catra's back starts running up and down her spine, fingers dragging in a soothing motion.

"That… sounds really nice," Catra whispers.

Adora's smile grows, and something mischievous takes over.

"With plenty of warning if some of our more… nosey friends decide to barge in on us doing… you know… whatever."

You know, whatever

They'd stay up all night in the Horde, whispering about whatever.

The thought of doing whatever though?

Catra snorts.

"Not saying Sparkles can't learn her lesson, but I think she'll barge in on us plenty of times before figuring out to warn us ahead of time."

Adora throws her head back laughing, because yeah, sometimes Glimmer really had to learn her lesson the hard way.

---

The meeting was long and boring, with particular emphasis on all the gritty details and logistics that made everyone's heads spin. By the time Catra and Adora find their way back to Adora's bedroom, the sun has retreated beyond the horizon, below the trees. It sets the sky alight in a way neither of them had ever seen, and they take it in from the solitude of Adora's bedroom balcony. The moons were still present, and they would all have to get used to the fact that it doesn't really get dark enough to call it 'night' anymore. But it's enough of a shift that Catra can feel the exhaustion of… well… her entire life catching up to her.

But when they head back into Adora's bedroom and she's pulling Catra into bed, it's not to sleep.

Adora cups Catra's cheek, brushing her thumb lightly over her freckled skin and peach fuzz. She leans into it of course, closing her eyes for a moment before batting those eyes open again to look at Adora.

"So…" Adora starts, but trails off.

She doesn't know how to start this.

"So?" Catra repeats, in question. She knew where she wanted this to go, and she knew deep down that Adora wanted it to go the same way, but she still had the hesitation, the need for Adora to tell her.

So she waits.

Adora groans when Catra turns her head to plant a kiss to Adora's palm.

"I just… God, you're so fucking beautiful."

It isn't what Catra expects Adora to say, and it makes her skin flush and her face heat up.

"You- I… You know you're so, so beautiful too, right?"

"Well… I mean… as She-ra, yeah. Everyone loves her," Adora chuckles.

Catra doesn't laugh.

"You're beautiful as you . Yeah, I mean, she's hot or whatever but you… you're everything that she is and more."

"You think She-ra is hot???" Adora chooses to focus on, making Catra stare at her until she concedes.

"Ok, yeah, I know that people like me for me but… It always feels like people like me for She-ra first. Everyone but you," Adora whispers.

It breaks Catra's heart. To think that the love of her life, for four years, thought that she was only good for She-ra, for the things that she could do for others. She knew that was how Adora felt, because it was kind of obvious, but it still breaks her heart to think that Adora could ever, for a second, doubt her worth as a person.

"Hey, you don't have to be anyone but yourself for me. I love Adora . I guess I love She-ra too, since you're her, but I don't… if you never transformed into She-ra again, you would still be you. You would still be the person I know you are."

Adora feels a tear run down her cheek, and Catra doesn't hesitate to reach up and wipe it away with her thumb.

Adora sniffles, "Thank you. I just… Thank you. For always wanting me ."

"I'll always want you, Dor."

Adora scoots her body closer to Catra's, and pulls her in. They're closer than they've ever been, somehow. Adora's body is flush with Catra's, breasts pressing together, stomachs touching, and it's nearly overwhelming to think that they could finally be this for each other.

"I'll always want you too. I always have ." Adora says before surging forward to sear the thought into Catra with her lips.

It starts with a simple kiss, their lips sliding together. It mimics their first kiss, but it's decidedly less gentle. It pushes Catra back, and instead of fighting forward to meet her, Catra rolls slightly onto her back, dragging Adora over her. The sound Adora makes when she realizes their positions are changing is a low groan in her throat, and she keeps sliding her lips against Catra's like she needs it.

And she does need it. Adora thinks for a moment that she'd needed exactly this for years.

All that time in the Horde she was so close but so, so far from it. And then when she left, she knew that she was giving it up forever.

She never imagined she'd get this back.

"Fuck, I love you," Adora says, letting the tears fall further, barely getting the words out as she dives back in to work her lips and tongue over Catra's. It's forceful, and for the first time, Catra feels what it's like to be desired, to be wanted like this. She feels it so strongly from Adora, with the way she’s possessively gripping Catra’s hips and plunging her tongue into Catra’s mouth. Catra lets herself feel the warmth that spreads over her body and settles in her stomach at the way it feels to be exactly what someone wants.

Now that she knows what this feels like, she prays it's never taken away. She didn’t think she’d survive losing it. The thought is fleeting, though, because she can tell she’ll never have to live without this feeling again if Adora has anything to say about it.

“I love you too,” Catra mumbles into Adora’s lips, dragging her hands up and down Adora’s back. She reaches up to pull her ponytail free, running her fingers through Adora’s hair. It’s longer than she remembers, and she secretly hopes Adora keeps growing it out.

Winding her fingers through and tugging spurs Adora on, and she’s breaking their contact to pepper light kisses over the rest of Catra’s face. She travels across her cheeks, planting a firm one on the tip of her nose and then continuing on up one temple, across her forehead, and then down the other side. Adora nuzzles Catra’s hairline with her nose and breathes her in.

The heat fluttering across Catra’s face is nearly overwhelming, and she feels her heart swell in her chest.

A gasp drags itself from Catra's mouth when Adora nibbles her jawline, and she can feel the lips curve up.

“You like that, baby?” Adora says, from somewhere deep in her mind. She’d never called Catra a pet name before, and she didn’t know where the desire to do so came from, but she suddenly and without warning gets the rushing feeling that Catra deserved to be treated like her baby.

“Shit, Adora,” Catra pants, looking down to meet Adora’s eyes as she descends down to work her lips over Catra’s neck.

“Is… Is this okay?” Adora asks as she pauses. She’s bashful, blushing hard and looking up to Catra for reassurance.

Catra smirks.

There’s my good girl

She’s never had the thought in her mind but once it enters she can’t get rid of it.

“It’s perfect, you’re perfect,” She says.

There's the feeling that she knows what Adora needs, what she desires and what her heart needs to continue.

“You’re such a good girl,” She whispers, eyes locking in on Adora’s.

It makes her whimper .

And Catra, once again, knows she’s struck absolute gold .

“Oh you like being good for me, don’t you?” Catra says it so quietly she isn’t even sure Adora hears it, but she can tell by the way Adora’s eyes snap shut and she pants lightly, nodding, that she’s got her.

“All yours,” Is the response that Catra is absolutely delighted to receive.

The need to take care of her girl courses through Catra, and she finds herself pressing up into Adora’s shoulder, urging her to turn over on her back. She is compliant, pliable and cooperative in a way that makes Catra so proud of her.

Catra doesn’t just settle over her. She works her knee between Adora’s to urge them apart, making space for herself and lowering herself down to press between Adora’s legs. She feels her center slide against the heat of the woman below her, and Adora gasps at the contact.

Hands, large and firm, grab Catra's hips roughly, instinctually. Jolting her own hips up into Catra, she pulls her hips closer and grinds against her.

"I just. Fuck. I want to make you feel good, but I want you to touch me so much and I just… it feels selfish. It feels like I should be taking care of you first."

Catra sighs, reaching up to caress the back of her hand over Adora's cheek.

"If we're going to be in a relationship, we're going to be partners, babe. That means that, yeah, it's your job to take care of me. But it's also my job to take care of you. Besides, it is in no way selfish to let me have what I want. So…," Catra says, leaning down so her lips brush the shell of Adora's ear.

She shivers, and Catra smirks.

"Are you going to let me have what I want?"

It takes a second to register that touching her is what Catra wants.

Adora nods rapidly.

Catra grins wide and it makes Adora proud of herself.

She wants to spend the rest of her life putting that smile on Catra's face.

"Relax okay? I want to make you feel good. You'll get your turn, I promise."

With that, Catra starts to descend.

She kisses up and down Adora's neck, biting little hickies into her skin and making Adora clench her fists in the back of Catra's shirt. The grinding starts back up again, Catra's hips spurring Adora on in her own motion as they work their bodies together. Adora basks in the heat of Catra's body, the warmth spreading over her. She's never felt this hot before.

But she also feels like she can't live without this warmth.

Catra runs her hands up and down Adora's sides as she explores her neck with her mouth. Catra's fingers brush the bare skin under the hem of her shirt softly, tickling along her sides for an indulgent second before pushing up under her shirt to drag her palms along Adora's stomach and sides. It earns her a delicious moan that only serves to make Catra more confident in her touches.

Hands continue to roam, pulling Adora's shirt up and over her breasts. Catra pulls her mouth away from Adora's neck to kiss her firmly on the lips, pulling back just enough to make eye contact and ask.

"Can I?"

"Yes, please," Adora pants.

Catra scoots down, using her teeth on the band of Adora's sports bra, biting the material and tugging at it.

Adora groans.

"If I do something you don't like, promise you'll tell me? I want this to be good for you. I have… ideas. I have for a long time. But if you don't want it neither do I, okay?" Catra says, running her fingers on that sensitive skin, dipping gently beneath the elastic band of Adora's bra but not quite taking it off yet.

"I promise, I… I've thought about this a lot and I think I'll like almost anything you want to do to me as long as you're enjoying it too. But I promise I'll stop you if I don't want something."

Catra takes that as permission to go further, raking her nails down Adora's stomach, earning her a gasp. She swoops back up, taking the edge of Adora's bra and peeling it off of her and over her head.

Now, the group showers in the Horde barracks left little to the imagination. They had seen each other naked more times than they could count, and while it always affected Catra, there was nothing that could prepare her for the way it felt to see Adora like this.

Laid out bare before her, panting in anticipation with a flush traveling from her cheeks, down her neck, and over her chest.

She's never let herself focus on Adora's nipples before.

Well, she did once and she'd had to take care of herself after so intensely that she swore she'd never look at Adora like that in the showers again. The embarrassment of feeling that way about her best friend felt wrong, but that was before she knew that she was in love.

Now she gets to look at her with her undivided attention, and now that she is, she is mildly concerned that the sight would kill her before she even got a chance to touch. Not wanting to delay things further in case it really is one of her last moments alive and coherent, Catra kisses down Adora's neck, across her collar bone, and right down over her breast and to one perfect pink nipple.

Dragging her tongue around it lightly brings forth the most beautiful sound she thinks she's ever heard; the gasp that drags itself out of Adora's throat, guttural and needy.

"Fuck, yes," She says, cupping the back of Catra's head and pulling her closer.

It's all the encouragement she needs to close her lips around and suck. One hand keeps running up and down Adora's stomach, tracing the outline of her sharp muscles. She never remembers seeing abs like this in the shower. The other hand starts low on her stomach, rubbing her entire palm up to grasp Adora's other breast and squeezing lightly. She alternates sucking her nipple and kissing around it, moving down to bite a decently hard mark into the underside of Adora's breast that has her jogging her hips up against Catra.

She isn't done with her breasts, not by a long shot. She doesn't think she'd ever be done with them, but she does want to provide some more stimulation and does so by shifting out from between Adora's hips and straddling one of her thighs so that they both have something to grind against. Adora clearly appreciates the new position, pulling Catra against her by the hip. She moves her own thigh, placing her foot flat against the bed so she can prop it up and actively thrust against Catra.

"Shit," Catra mumbles, kissing across Adora's chest to give equal attention to her other breast. The bite marks are showing themselves already, light purple half moon shapes covering Adora's chest.

Adora knew what it felt like to be touched, but it was never this rough, never this needy or emotional. The few times she tried in the past with others paled in comparison to the feeling of being touched by the person she adored most in the world. Every kiss makes her head fuzzy, every bite shooting a heat through her core that she has no other clue what to do with other than to grind firmly against the muscle of Catra's thigh. She knows she's soaked through her pants and into Catra's, just like she can start to feel the beginnings of wetness on her thigh where Catra has been grinding into her.

"Wait," She pants out, and Catra stops immediately.

"Yeah? You okay?" She gasps, trying to catch her breath.

Adora nods, leaning down to kiss her. Catra gladly accepts, craning her neck up to meet Adora's lips.

"I just missed kissing you, that's all."

It makes Catra blush harder.

“You can kiss me whenever you want,” She breathes out, and Adora’s uncontrollable grin is toothy and wide.

“I can, can’t I?” She asks, but leaves no room for a response as she presses her lips firmer into Catra’s.

“You can keep going, I just… I needed a little one, you know?” She says sheepishly, and Catra does know. The hours she was awake and Adora was asleep in the tent she wanted nothing more than to kiss her again.

But they have forever now.

“Can I take these off? Catra asks, now that she’s distracted from giving attention to Adora’s chest, tugging at the waistband of Adora’s pants.

She nods, shifting her hips up to help Catra ease them off of her.

And Catra can fucking smell her.

“Damn, you’re really enjoying this, aren’t you?” Catra chuckles darkly, something sensual but dangerous in her voice. It promises more, so much more. Catra wants to take, and take, and take, until there’s nothing left of Adora that doesn’t belong to her now.

It’s the hottest thing Adora has ever heard.

“Yeah, those teeth of yours really do it for me,” She admits.

“Didn’t know you were such a slut for pain, but I’ll take it,” Catra jokes, laying her head down on Adora’s chest and looking up at her.

Adora cradles her there, head thrown back in a laugh. Catra can feel how it fills her whole chest, and cherishes the way she’s being held.

“I guess you could say that,” Adora says once she’s let the giggles out, and there’s something buzzing between them in the look they share.

“I love you, you know?” Catra says, still tickling her fingers across Adora’s midsection lightly. Adora smiles back and nods, eyes watery and glassy.

“I love you too. Touch me already? Please?”

“Silly, I am touching you.”

Adora whines.

“You know what I mean.”

“Yeah, I guess I do. You’re being so good for me, letting me go slow like this. But we’re just getting to the good stuff so be patient.”

Being called a ‘good girl’ so often is really starting to show its effect on her, but Adora still tries to fight back.

“You know I’ve never been patient, don’t you?”

It’s only the second time just today they’ve come to this conclusion.

Catra grins.

There’s something mischievous about it, something downright evil honestly, and Adora wants that mouth on her again more than she can say.

“I know. But I’ll teach you how to be, one way or another.”

Adora is a fan of any way Catra wants her, but she has a feeling that she’s going to make good on her promise to teach her patience. While it doesn’t feel like it's going to be right now, she relishes in the thought that Catra was going to do this to her again, and again, and again until she learned her lesson. Until she learned how to be patient for what Catra wanted to give her.

Without saying another word, Catra lowers herself further. She scoots down the bed slowly, kissing her way down Adora's abdomen as she goes. She bites occasionally, but not as thoroughly as she did to Adora's breasts.

She's not feeling particularly patient either, and can't wait to get where she knows Adora wants her.

Catra settles between Adora's legs, and in a show of just how serious she is about taking what she wants, she drapes Adora's thighs over her shoulders and moves right up where she's needed most. Breathing across the wetness she finds there makes Adora shudder with need and anticipation. The cool air blowing against her makes her clench, and Catra can see just how much this is affecting her.

"Fuck you're so wet. This all for me?" She asks.

Though she knows the answer, she doesn't get a response, and before Adora can get too lost she bites into her thigh, forcing an answer from her lips.

"Yes, god, it's all for you!"

"'God' isn't my name, but we'll work on it."

Adora can't even bring herself to laugh at the cheesy joke because suddenly and without warning, a warm tongue slides between her labia, licking in a firm motion up through her and flicking her clit at the end as it retreats. She arches off of the bed, trying to thrust her hips, but Catra is holding them so tightly in place that she can't move an inch.

"That's it. Make those pretty sounds for me," Catra grunts, licking up through her wetness again in the same path that has her releasing a string of moans she didn't know she was capable of making.

The tongue works its way up to her clit again, but instead of flicking over it, Catra lays the flat right against Adora's clit and presses firmly, allowing her the brief freedom to grind against Catra's tongue before she holds her still again and closes her lips around the most sensitive and intimate part of her.

All the times she's done this with others, they wanted her to be in charge, to take control. She's never known the pleasure of being taken like this, being used with her head empty and only thoughts of what she's feeling. Adora has always had to be the one to steer where things are going. She does enjoy that, but she didn't know how much she would love the feeling of someone with only how she feels in mind touching her with the express purpose of bringing her pleasure.

She never liked feeling vulnerable with others, but she realizes that she loves being vulnerable for Catra. She loves trusting her like this. And she knows that showing Catra that she does trust her in this way spreads warmth and love and hope through Catra's chest. She wants to be this for Catra too, to let Catra feel vulnerable and safe with her. But she also knows that she can wait her turn if it means having Catra love on her like this a little longer.

Fingers wind into Catra's hair, the tugging sending sharp jolts of pain turned pleasure through her and encouraging her to suck harder. She digs her claws into Adora's thighs, scratching tiny lines over pale skin. They leave angry red marks, but they're not enough to cut the skin.

She doesn't want them permanent. She just wants them long enough to make Adora feel .

And she does.

The pain makes her gasp, but the soothing pleasure of Catra's mouth giving into her need has Adora throwing her head back in a silent prayer.

Don't ever stop , she thinks.

But Catra doesn't seem likely to, anyway.

She sucks hard against Adora’s clit, burying her nose into the hair on her mound, and breathes in the scent of her arousal. It’s heady and sharp, and Catra wants it so badly she releases her hold on her clit and runs her tongue down to lick up the wetness before setting a brutal pace flicking her tongue against her clit.

Adora is breathing lighter now, the pace of her gasps quickening as Catra has her way with her. A smug satisfaction surges through Catra with each desperate sound she drags out of Adora. She reluctantly releases one of her hands from holding Adora still, bringing it between her legs.

Before she touches her, Catra has a demand.

“Don’t you dare move.”

It’s met with no resistance, Adora nodding frantically and throwing one of her hands, the one that isn’t tangled in Catra’s hair, to the headboard to hold herself steady.

Catra’s fingers trace Adora’s slit, up and down in a gentle caress. She doesn’t want it to be too much, and doesn't want to go too fast. She wants to give Adora time to feel, to take in the pleasure that Catra is giving her and decide if she likes it or not. It’s kind of the whole point. Catra wants this to be exploratory as much as it is for pleasure this time, to learn the parts of Adora’s body that were a secret to her up until now.

It’s clear that Adora enjoys being touched like this, from her gasps and choked groans, the way she can barely keep her hips from moving. Catra loves everything Adora is letting her do, everything she’s allowing her to feel. It’s the most trusted and loved Catra has ever felt and she thinks that if she ever has to stop she might die from the feeling of not getting to touch her like this.

Everything is just so much, to both of them. But it's what they need, what they had always needed from each other.

Adora placing her trust in Catra this way? An ache that had been present in Catra’s chest for as long as she can remember starts to heal.

A single finger, at first, probes gently at Adora's opening. She shudders with the knowledge that she'll have Catra's fingers in her soon, but it's an excited sort of shiver that Catra can tell is begging for more.

"Please?" She says, and Catra smiles.

"So polite, too. What did I ever do to deserve you being such a good girl?" Catra wonders aloud.

She doesn't wait for an answer, thrusting her finger inside in one smooth motion. She waits there for a second, to see if Adora says anything about discomfort, or to see if she protests the feeling at all. She takes her time enjoying the warmth squeezing the digit, and she curls her finger up into the softness she finds there. It drags a choked gasp from Adora's throat, and Catra looks up to survey Adora's face as she curls her finger again, dragging it out slowly.

Adora whimpers at the feeling, clenching down on Catra's finger as she starts to thrust in and out.

"Cat!" she manages, but Catra can tell that she's ready for more with just these few simple thrusts.

She withdraws her finger all the way, and when she reenters Adora, it's with two this time. The stretch sets Adora's nerves alight, and she can't help but squeeze her thighs closed.

"Hey now, I thought we agreed for you to keep still," Catra says, shouldering herself between Adora's thighs and spreading her legs.

"S- ah! Sorry."

"I'm just teasing you, baby. I've got you."

And Adora knows that Catra has her. She knows that Catra is there, that she's going to take care of her. It's pretty much the only thing she's sure about right now, with the way the war ended so abruptly and how they didn't think they'd still be here. But they are, and Adora is grateful for it.

She was going to die without ever having experienced this. But because of Catra she's still here, they all are.

"I know. I love you," Adora breathes out, voice thick with emotion and unshed tears as Catra's fingers and mouth work her up.

Catra doesn't say it back this time, thinking of something she'd rather do with her mouth that she thought would get the message across just as well. Covering Adora's clit with her mouth, she rubs the flat of her tongue on it in a circular motion, sucking hard.

"Fuck! Catra I- I'm so close," Adora practically begs, the unspoken plea desperate on her tongue.

Catra has never seen anything even half as beautiful as Adora looks, arching off the bed for her, sweat shining in the warm glow from the bedside table lamp, the purple bite marks all over her breasts catching the silver moonlight. Her hair ever so slightly blows in the breeze from their open window, mixing the fresh smell of the surrounding forest with the smell of arousal that Catra wants to suffocate in. Catra can swear its lighter somehow, glowing golden. Even with her eyes pinched shut in pleasure, Catra can see the light blue glow peeking out from under her eyelids, growing stronger with each passing moment.

She removes her mouth for a split second, to utter a few simple words.

"I've got you, sweetheart. Come for me?"

And with that said she doubles her efforts.

The pressure of Catra's fingers curling into her, along with the gentle thrust, drives Adora mad. The lips around her clit keep up a suction that grows more and more desperate with each passing moment. Catra's teeth come out to play, scraping so, so carefully along the hood of her clit while her tongue bathes her with lavish flickers.

The onslaught is too much for Adora to handle, but she can feel with each pulsing thrust of fingers, each tantalizing move of her wicked tongue, that Catra fucking loves her. She loves Adora so much, and she wants to bring her pleasure.

Briefly, Adora realizes that this is only their first time, that they'll get better at this, somehow, in the years to come.

But the thing that drives her over the edge is the way Catra's nails bite into Adora's thigh as she brings Adora to her peak. Her fingers stay inside, curling and uncurling against that spot inside of her while Catra's tongue hits her clit over and over again.

Her hand clenches in Catra's hair, still careful not to pull too hard, but tugging with a certain harshness that tells Catra that she was doing something very right.

"Cat! Ah! Shit," She whines, grunting her orgasm as she rocks her hips into Catra's face and clenches her thighs up from around her shoulders to squeeze her head in place.

Catra thinks that, of all the ways to die, suffocating in Adora's pussy wouldn't be a bad way to go. But once the thighs around her head loosen their grip and Adora is panting, coming down from her orgasm, Catra releases her light grasp on her thigh and withdraws her fingers.

She's on top of Adora in a second, wiping her tears away with her thumbs.

"Fuck, Adora you were so good for me."

"Really?" Adora asks, opening her eyes, the glow retreating from them. New tears form, spilling down her face. Her hair returns to its previous, darker color.

“You were perfect. You gave me what I wanted. You did what I asked you to do and you let me touch you and I just… you’re perfect. Are you okay?”

Catra lays on her side, pulling Adora over and having her rest her head on Catra’s shoulder. She runs one hand through her hair and kisses across her face, over her forehead and down to both of her cheeks. Their lips connect in a heated kiss, but it’s gentle, lethargic. They lay there drinking each other in. For as long as Adora needs, for as long as it takes her to calm down.

Eventually Adora nods against Catra’s shoulder.

“Yeah, I’m okay. I’ve just never… it's never been like that with anyone else. And I knew it would be different, because I didn’t feel this way about anyone I was with before, but it was still… I’m so happy to be so close to you, to finally feel connected to you like this.”

Adora turns her head to whisper in Catra’s ear.

“I need to touch you too, if you’ll let me have you?”

It’s all Catra’s ever wanted to hear, and she gasps low at the way Adora is already pushing her onto her back.

Their eyes lock, and Catra whispers, “You have me.”

Adora’s transformation from post orgasm exhaustion to ready to go again makes Catra giggle, but she’s also full of a renewed excitement. Holding Adora, letting her calm down, was just enough for Catra to worry that they were done for the night. And if Adora didn’t feel like doing anything else after, she wouldn’t blame her or feel bad. She’d simply need to excuse herself to take care of it for a few minutes.

But now that Adora has made it clear that they’re absolutely not done, Catra turns her attention to the wetness between her own thighs.

“God, if you don’t touch me soon I’m going to lose it. You have no idea what seeing you like that did to me,” Catra says, rolling the rest of the way onto her back while Adora climbs on top of her to straddle her waist.

“Yeah? I’m that hot?” Adora says, cocky air to her words making Catra roll her eyes.

But for all the ways it was annoying, it was also extremely hot to see Adora so confident, so proud.

Catra reaches up to wrap her arms around strong, bare shoulders, and it's her reminder that she’s still in all of her clothes, which is a tragedy really.

Adora seeks to remedy that, quickly. But she’s determined to make it as good for Catra as Catra made it for her. She was so loving and gentle, everything Adora needed without her having to say a word. She wanted to be that for Catra too, steady and safe and home without her needing to ask.

“Dor?” Catra checks in when Adora spends just a little too long staring at her.

“Yeah?”

“You’re going to be perfect. Please, just touch me?”

And that sets Adora’s hands in motion.

She leans down to plant a chaste kiss on Catra’s lips, soft and tender in a way that definitely wasn’t enough but promised more. Hands trail up and down Catra’s sides working their way under her shirt to bunch it up just under her breasts. Adora is absolutely addicted to the softness that covers Catra’s ribcage, the way her chest heaves with every breath as her hands spread fire over her stomach and chest.

It’s still just not enough , but Catra knows that it will be. She just has to wait.

But touching Adora had brought her far closer than she thought, and it was torture to wait any longer.

Though this fact presents itself, she also can’t help but love the sparkle of excitement in Adora’s eyes at getting to touch her like this. So she doesn't say anything, set on waiting her turn and letting Adora experience this, touch her like she wanted to. Though desperation is clawing at her insides, Catra is determined to let Adora have her way. It was only fair.

But it sure didn’t seem like it.

“Ah!” Catra gasps suddenly when Adora reaches under her bunched up shirt to palm her breasts roughly. Just when she’s worried she was being too rough, she feels Catra’s hips shift beneath her, rubbing her thighs together and spreading the wetness she knew was there already.

“I’ve got you, Cat. Just a little longer. I won’t make you wait,” Adora whispers, massaging her breasts before gripping her hardened nipples between her fingers and tweaking them ever so gently.

Having Adora finally touch her, use her whole hands to grip and tug and palm her unabashedly, manipulating her body the way she’s literally dreamed about, is almost too much even though they barely started. Having worked Adora over thoroughly has had a distinct effect on her already.

She’s glad Adora is straddling her hips, holding her in place, because she isn’t sure she’d be able to survive without the pressure on her body. She needs it more than she’s ever needed anything, to feel close to Adora, to feel their bodies work together instead of against each other.

All her life she’s searched for the feeling of belonging to someone, with someone, the way that she wanted to with Adora. And now that she has this feeling, she needs it like she needs her heart to beat, like she needs to breathe. Catra's body is her own, but she wants it to be Adora's to touch and hold. She needs it to be.

Adora, for her part, is doing a great job of convincing Catra that she's here, really here, for good this time.

"Like that sweetheart?" Adora asks as she pulls Catra's shirt up and over her head, her nipples tightening further with the new exposure to cool air.

"Uh huh," Catra mutters, like she could say anything else while she was feeling like this.

Boldly, Adora smirks, and Catra has to fight to roll her eyes.

"I can't believe you like me. Must be so embarrassing," She taunts, but there's no malice behind it, just a simple joke they'd been telling each other for years.

The familiarity, like it always does, forces a tight protest from Catra.

"No I don't -" But it's cut off by the feeling of Adora's mouth kissing down her neck right between her breasts. She can feel those lips through the patch of fur there, and there's an electric kind of tug at the hairs as Adora nuzzles into her.

"Mmmf, I think you do. It's alright, I'm pretty fond of you myself," Adora admits.

It's ridiculous, when they've already confessed their love, but it's cute and intimate in a way that their screams of "I love you!" at the Heart were lacking.

The desperation was there, but the fear decidedly wasn't, and it makes all the difference.

Adora cups Catra's breasts again, tweaking her nipples further as she lays flat on Catra's hips, keeping her from moving them. It deprives her of the friction of rubbing her thighs together that she needed, and the whine that leaves her throat makes Adora smirk.

She did not need encouragement to be brazen, but Catra decides that if Adora needs to be this infuriating version of herself, at least she's touching her.

Fingers remove themselves from one of Catra's breasts to drag themselves down her stomach, and she can only assume they're headed where she wants them.

Fucking finally .

Adora's lips take over where her hand had been, ghosting over her tight nipple while one hand continues to squeeze and the other finds its way into her pants.

She skips the teasing, which Catra is thankful for, and wastes no time in plunging the hand into her underwear. Adora cups Catra's whole pussy, large hand clamping down on her and it's everything she's ever needed, the start of everything she's wanted for so long.

"Fuck!" Catra can't keep herself quiet.

"I love hearing you," Adora whispers, and Catra decides that she loves giving Adora what she wants, too.

The middle and ring fingers of Adora's hand press harder, slipping between her lips and brushing through her slickness and against the softest fucking thing she's ever touched.

"You're ready for me, aren't you?" Adora asks, boldness taking over the nerves that settled in her when they started. She wanted to be good for Catra, to be what she needed, to give her everything.

Now, she knows that she can .

Those two fingers confidently rub up through her folds, running around her clit in a wide circle that has Catra’s back arching off of the bed and forces her chest into Adora’s face at the feeling.

Adora doesn't waste any more time. She didn’t think she could, even if she wanted to. And she certainly doesn’t want to. She considers briefly if she should work Catra up a little more, but decides against it when she remembers that Catra had been worked up quite enough already tonight.

Her fingers meet no resistance as the two of them slide into her, scraping the pads of her fingers hard against Catra’s front wall.

“Ah!” She gasps, and Adora thinks that if the only sound she ever heard for the rest of her life was Catra’s voice, she’d be okay with it.

She continues hooking her fingers in at that angle as she thrusts them in and out gently. Catra can feel herself already clamping down on Adora’s fingers, already so close to her peak. There was no dragging this out when she was so close already.

Knowing Catra could come from this alone was enough to send Adora’s head spinning, but she wanted to taste her, had been dying to in her deepest, most secret thoughts. So she releases the onslaught of her tongue on Catra’s nipple to kiss down her stomach and plants a firm and dizzying kiss right on her clit. It’s strong and purposeful, just like everything Adora did, and Catra can feel her heart throb at the feeling.

Catra had wanted Adora’s lips on her since she felt them for the first time, and is surprised and excited to find that she only had to wait the better part of a day to feel it.

Adora groans at the taste as soon as her tongue makes contact with Catra, and the vibration directly on her clit forces Catra’s claws deep into the mattress. The tearing of fabric should have concerned Adora, but they were in a fucking palace for god's sake, and they could always get a new one.

Having to explain why they needed a new one makes Adora smirk. She guiltily thinks about the exasperated look on Glimmer's face when she finds out, but the thought is fleeting.

"Adora, fuck-" Catra pants, her tone scratching an itch that Adora didn't even know she had. It's like a balm that starts to heal her from the inside, knowing she could do this with Catra, to Catra, is making her feel a way she's never felt before.

Just when Catra thinks that she's going to come, it hovers just out of reach, taunting her and teasing in a way that she doesn't think she can handle. It's nothing Adora is doing. She's doing great, perfect actually. She's touching Catra the way she wants to, and the thought that this is all Adora wants is threatening to send her over the edge. But there is just something else she needs that isn't going to let her get off until she gets it, and she's not embarrassed to admit it.

"Come up here?" She pants, desperation and gravel in her voice.

"Yeah?" Adora asks, pulling away from her rhythm sucking Catra's clit to look up at her.

"I- I need you up here, with me," She gasps out when Adora's fingers curl in a possessive sort of grip, adjusting so her palm can stimulate her nerves, replacing her tongue.

Catra's arms wrap around her shoulders as soon as she's close enough, pulling Adora down into the cage of her grip and holding on tightly. She nuzzles into Adora's neck, her quickened pulse from the exertion of fucking into Catra's cunt pounding so hard she can feel it in her head.

"I just. Fuck . H-hold me?" Catra stutters, need evident in her voice.

So Adora wraps her free hand down and under Catra's back, pulling her up and arching her back so their chests are pressed together.

Suddenly, the overwhelming feeling of being loved and cared for surges through Catra, this new position making her feel as close as she'd always wanted to be to Adora, as close as she swore she'd stay for the rest of her life. Her heart is just so full that this new position has it bursting at the seams, tearing through her body and settling right down to where Adora's large fingers are still plunged into her, palm massaging her clit.

Adora, for her part, can tell what Catra needs before she has to say it.

"You're so beautiful. And you're mine ."

It's simple, but the possessiveness is what Catra needs . She's always wanted to be Adora's, and for Adora to be hers. It's all she's ever wanted.

And with the thought that they finally belonged to each other like this, like she never thought they could, Catra's orgasm hits her.

Adora's firm hands hold her close and work her through it, helping her ride her peak and dragging it out for as long as she can. It's so strong that she feels her claws dig into Adora's bare back, scratching thin lines into her skin harshly.

It's so much.

It's everything.

They're everything, together, and it finally feels the way it's supposed to.

Catra feels close to Adora, and she's finally unafraid to admit that she needs her like this.

"Shit- Adora I-" She chokes up at the thought.

But there's so much she wants to say, so much she's feeling and thinking. She doesn't know where to start, where to even begin trying to explain to Adora how much this means to her, how much she needed this.

She almost forgets that Adora feels the same way, until she withdraws her hand and brings it up to wrap around Catra's back and pull her closer, rolling onto her side and cradling Catra in her arms.

"I know. I know," Is all she says, keeps saying as Catra sobs into her shoulder.

Catra can count on one hand the number of times she's let herself cry in the last few years, since everything happened, since Adora found the sword.

But this time she doesn't try to fight it.

She lets the tears fall, and can feel something deep within herself start to stitch back together.

"Everything okay?" Adora asks.

But the dam inside Catra, built up over the years, is broken to pieces.

It's not the first time she's cried because of Adora. It is the first time they've been happy tears.

"Yeah I just. I have so much to say to you and I don't know where to start. But I'm trying to calm myself down and remind myself that you're not going anywhere this time, that we're together for real. But it doesn't feel real."

Adora nods her understanding.

"I know. But until you believe it, until that voice in the back of your head lets you believe it, I'm just going to have to keep reminding you that I love you. I'm here. I'm not going anywhere."

"You promise?"

It’s with the softest kiss to her forehead that Adora murmurs.

“I promise.”

Catra nuzzles into Adora’s neck, a happy trill erupting from her throat, a gentle purr starting deep in her chest.

It makes Adora giggle.

“I love when you do that. When… When you do that because of me,” She admits.

“Well good, because I can’t really control it and… You make me feel safe enough to.”

It makes Adora deliriously happy to know that they can be what they used to be again. Something they had before, but better. They could make something together that they couldn’t have before, something that the Horde and the Alliance, the war, Prime, all tried to take away from them.

Something Shadow Weaver tried to take away from them.

But she wasn’t worth thinking about anymore. She couldn’t hurt them.

In the end, she’d failed to do what she’d been trying to do since they were children; destroy what Catra and Adora were to each other.

As though anything could take this away from them, the way they feel about each other.

They lay there for a while, holding each other. There was no rush to get up, anyway. They didn't have to hide their closeness, would never have to again. It was just them, here, in the safety of each other's arms with the love that they shared. Taking their time was healing, and they lose track of how long they lay there letting themselves feel.

Adora speaks first, breaking the peaceful silence as quietly as she can manage.

"Think we should get cleaned up? I kind of want to change the sheets too. Plus I think we should get um… some of the uh…"

"Some of the what, princess?" Catra smirks, eyes alight with mirth.

"Some of the um… the cum out of your fur?"

Catra throws her head back laughing.

"Yeah, I guess that would be a good idea. What is the shower situation?"

"I have a shower. Soap is way better than the standard Horde issue stuff, too. I can ask tomorrow about getting something specific for your fur, but for now I think the regular stuff will work alright. Or we could take a bath together?"

The hope in Adora's voice is almost too much for Catra to crush, but she can't bring herself to do anything that would keep them from sleep any longer.

"How about we take a short shower tonight, and we take a bath some other time? I'm fucking exhausted and I know you are too. Plus we have another meeting with the Alliance in the morning before we start going out to survey the damages and I want to actually sleep as long as we can before then."

Adora groans.

"I want to stay in bed with you forever," She whines.

Catra knows this, because it's what she wants too. But she also knows that post war recovery will be long and hard, and that they had a part to play in it as well as anyone else in the Alliance did.

“How about we go to our meeting in the morning, have a full day's work out in the field, and when we come back tomorrow night I’ll make it worth it for you?” Catra says, voice lowering to a sultry sort of tone that has Adora shivering before she grins back just as hard.

“I think that could work. Besides, I gotta parade my new girlfriend around. Hard to do that without leaving the bedroom."

Catra tilts her head.

"So, I'm your girlfriend?" She asks. It's meant to be teasing, but she can't hide the hope in her voice.

Adora nods, looking determined.

"Unless you want to wait to make this official. But you should know either way, I intend to hold on to you for as long as you'll have me."

Catra swoons. She's never swooned in her life, but she swears the way Adora is talking is making her lightheaded.

"I don't want to wait. I want you to be mine," She says.

Adora smiles at her.

"I'll always be yours."

Please drop by the archive and comment to let the author know if you enjoyed their work!