Eliminated scenes: Dark Temptation

by Xenakis (IceRosesCrown)

Summary

Four scenes of what Corrupted!Casta and SW did in the shadows (pun intended!)
The tags take into account all four scenes, not everything happens in the same scene; I'll probably add more depending on what the scenes I've yet to write include.

Read at your own risk! And mind ALL the tags! I mean it!

Notes

Okay
In this one scene, the only tag that doesn't apply is the electrostimulation thing.

Eliminated scene: Dark Temptation, Ch 1 (It's all too good to be trusted)

Improper, lustful thoughts filled her head upon seeing the dark sorceress sitting on the bed. Castaspella's first instinct was to shut down such ideas, imitating Shadow Weaver could only go so far; she'd never do something like that, at least not when she was the Head Sorceress of Mystacor.

But now?

What if, perhaps, wanting this now wasn't that wrong?

Nothing stops her now. "Decorum" is but a joke in this place. And all kinds of expectations for her conduct completely vanished the moment she left Mystacor.

Why should she deny herself the chance to use this perfect opportunity? Why not indulge now in all of that she wouldn't have done before, if there was absolutely no one to please, no rules to follow, and absolutely no consequences for transgressing the morals she used to hold?

Even in private she hadn't allowed herself to behave in a way that would be reproachable if in public. How ridiculous .

Castaspella pushed herself off the wall and slowly advanced towards the sorceress before she could regret it, and Shadow Weaver's utter shock at her seductive approach only motivated her to go ahead with it.

Soon, she had pinned the woman down on her mattress, tightly clutching her shoulders, feeling her lust increasing more every moment; she could barely restrain herself. She began kissing under Shadow Weaver's jaw, right where the mask left some skin exposed, mentally telling herself she had to wait for her to allow this to go on. She could let herself go against some of her morals, but not all of them. Fortunately for Castaspella, it didn't take long for the dark sorceress to succumb to her lust and reciprocate.

So to speak.

Shadow Weaver harshly grabbed her arms and forced them to change positions, needing to be on top. She pulled off her mask and threw it away, exposing her flushed face; she was breathing heavily, her eyes wide open revealing the same intense lust Castaspella was feeling, and the sight of her dark hair falling around her face like a thick curtain, the grim scars cutting through her face, and her split pupils, further aroused the sorceress and raised the temperature between her thighs.

Forget all doubts. She wants this .

—Curse you.

The whisper was immediately followed by a rough kiss, as Shadow Weaver couldn’t bare Castaspella’s teasing touches.

She really meant it. Curse that woman , she had just met her yet couldn’t resist her. How on Etheria was this sorceress, this fool , so desirable all of a sudden?

The dark sorceress couldn’t question that for long as now both had ditched their doubts in favor of exploring each other. Hungry kisses led to lip biting that drew blood, but neither seemed bothered by it.

however, Castaspella wouldn’t just let her be in control so easy; no, this was her moment to experiment . She managed to push Shadow Weaver up, noticed just how light the woman was, and immediately used that to her advantage; she picked her up, clutched the woman’s thighs hard enough to make her gasp, and held her tightly in place as she stood up from bed.

Intoxicated by the need to satisfy her desires, Castaspella wasn’t even thinking; she just walked forward until they hit a wall, which made Shadow Weaver whine again. However, she couldn’t even complain as the lustful sorceress pressed her against the wall to free her hands and move the maroon robe up.

Shadow Weaver felt those soft hands tracing up the scars on her legs, impatient to reach her hips, and couldn't hold back a moan, briefly interrupting their kiss. Castaspella snickered and licked her lips once before the dark sorceress could catch her mouth and bite roughly, making her bleed again.

They kept testing just how much the other could take, Shadow Weaver’s claws tangled the woman’s hair and pulled it harshly, reacting to how she was digging her nails into her buttcheeks.

Castaspella arched back, moaning, but Shadow Weaver still couldn’t retake control; she felt light-headed and couldn't focus enough, so close to just surrendering herself to the sorceress, that it was impossible to hide anymore.

And she noticed .

Finally leaving the wall, Castaspella attempted to return to the bed, only to stumble down and fall on her knees, almost dropping Shadow Weaver. Yet none of them stopped, all too enthralled by each other.

Neither could speak, their moans sounded strangled as they were already breathless, needing a relief they wouldn’t get any time soon. But now, Shadow Weaver couldn’t resist anymore and finally submitted to Castaspella’s control, letting herself fall back to the ground.

The sorceress immediately scratched down her legs, making her moan loudly this time, and finally let go of them to crawl over her. The woman had totally run out of strength, her face was a darker tone of gray, and even her scars had been obscured by the increased blood pressure; for her, she looked delightful .

Castaspella wanted to make this last as long as possible, but the wetness between her thighs was getting unbearable.

—Dare… play a little… game?— she challenged, breathing heavily.

—If you try to… stop now… I'll kill you .

The sorceress laughed, a strained cackle she couldn't hold back.

—If you… don't want to play…

—Shut up!— Shadow Weaver interrupted, frantic. Gasping again, she pleaded —What do you want!?

—Use… your magic— she murmured, leaning closer to her face as she rested a knee between her thighs without pressing down. —Whoever wins… takes control.

Whatever Castaspella was expecting, it sure wasn't the immediate reaction of the woman, who didn't hesitate to restraint the sorceress' wrists; black tendrils gripped her, keeping her hands pressed to the floor, followed by the burning sensation of several more wrapping around her waist, pulling her down so that her knee finally gave Shadow Weaver what she wanted.

—I…— the woman gasped, trying to speak, but interrupted herself with a loud moan.
—...hate you— she finally breathed out.

Castaspella realized just how needy the dark sorceress was because her magic only tightened around her, and Shadow Weaver kept pushing her hips up, her eyes tightly closed, and her claws almost digging into the floor.

—How mean— she grunted, pretending to be offended, and trying to control her breath to appear "unaffected". —Nothing for me?

The dark sorceress ignored her and kept pressing herself against Castaspella's knee as hard as possible; but she would not let her win that easy, she had to make sure that wouldn't happen again.

The sorceress moved closer to Shadow Weaver's face and heard her mutter — Fuck you .

Castaspella scoffed sardonically, hummed while kissing her neck a few times, before smirking wickedly and reminding her —That is your job, woman.

The dark sorceress let out a blaring gasp when she felt teeth sinking into her neck, and her magic crept along Castaspella's body, completely out of her control, and slowly made its way into her inner thighs. The burning sensation as it approached the core incited such a delighted moan from her that Shadow Weaver couldn't help immediately pushing her magic inside her; she wanted to hear more of those delightful sounds.

And got exactly that.

Castaspella arched back once more, breaking free from the black tendrils that held her wrists, and her hands instinctively grabbed the clothes still covering Shadow Weaver's torso; the fabric, being thin enough, let her feel Castaspella's touch, but it drove her crazy, just like those tender kisses that started it all.

Their strength was already waning by the time pleasure finally peaked. The sorceress felt the waves of heat grow intense until ecstasy blessed her with the relief she desperately needed.

But, for Shadow Weaver, it required a bit more help.

The sorceress laid down on her, breathing heavily, until she realized, and made an effort to stand up; she'd help her, and absolutely wouldn't let her forget it.

—Damn you…

—Come here, old hag— she breathed out. She chuckled and mocked her —I'll give you one final push.

She helped her up, dragged her to bed, and laid the woman on the mattress. Shadow Weaver didn't resist, couldn't have done so even if she wanted to, and let the sorceress fully undress her. She didn't really seem to be conscious enough to register her surroundings, but Castaspella made a show of disrobing herself all the same. With all their clothes discarded, she looked at the naked woman and bit her lip just thinking about what she planned to do.

The dark sorceress felt how she pulled her legs until they hung off the edge of the bed, and a moment later, those soft hands slowly spread them.

—Ugh… Please— she groaned.

—You're not ready for this— Castaspella mocked her, as she hooked her arms around Shadow Weaver's thights.

With a sudden pull, she felt the sorceress' tongue delve into her just as roughly as her dark magic had been. It made her whimper, clutch the bedsheets, beg for her to reach deeper, and the more she sucked, the louder she'd scream her name.

As Castaspella felt herself close again, she kept only her left arm tightly clamping Shadow Weaver in place, and let her right hand dig into her own pounding core. When bliss graced her again, she couldn't help moaning into the dark sorceress, who kept breathlessly cursing; barely a moment later, she felt like exploding and finally dissolved into pleasure.

Both women were now in bed, under the sheets, after Castaspella handled the aftermath of their heated intercourse on her own, seeing how Shadow Weaver immediately passed out. And now, observing the swooned sorceress, she could think for a moment about how all of this was making her feel more alive than ever.

All the doubts and fears… none of it mattered. This had been the best experience she'd ever had, and couldn't help but wish for more. She wanted to have this while she could, and didn't regret a single choice.

She needed this to happen again .

Chapter Notes

> This eliminated scene is a slight different to how things began in the chapter this was eliminated from, like the fact that Castaspella wasn't yet naked, and what I wrote for Dark Temptation was much lighter. This is was I almost wrote, until I remembered it's M-rated. Heh.
> And, here you'll finally see what the "electroestimulation" tag refers to.

—We both know you're not talented enough to keep that up for long.

—Is that so? In that case, I'll have to make sure I win as soon as possible, don't you think? Ah, but maybe that's not a problem… seeing how I've been… defeating you every time since my arrival.

—You!

Enraged, Shadow Weaver lost control, her magic tightened around Castaspella's legs, warm but not enough to burn, and began pulling from her. However, when she was almost over the edge of the mattress, the cold of her spell caused the dark sorceress to lose her balance and she fell to her knees. The woman had forgotten she had to stall the sheer cold; she always neglected little details when blinded by rage, and Castaspella knew how to use that against her.

As she felt the dark magic had released her legs, she comfortably sat on the edge of the bed and looked down at Shadow Weaver, who was already expecting her smug expression when she looked up. She wanted to erase that smile from her face immediately, but she had lost, hadn't she? And at her own game no less.

—Already in position— Castaspella hummed, mockingly. —So diligent… Ready when you are— she mocked her a bit more, wanting to provoke her.

—I'll make you regret that— she muttered as she roughly lifted the blue fabric.

—Please, do try— the sorceress taunted her. —I enjoy your bites quite a lot.

Right.

She had already tried everything she could think of, but nothing worked as a "punishment" for her; everything aroused her, she enjoyed everything Shadow Weaver did to her, and now had even guessed exactly what she meant. It angered her terribly, but she was already turned on by the sight of Castaspella's parted legs in front of her, so she just dug on, immediately getting a delighted loud yell from her.

The woman held both legs tightly at each side of her head, digging her nails into the sorceress's soft skin, and repeatedly sucked as hard as possible, hardly noticing how her fangs, biting the sensitive skin, were making Castaspella bleed. However, she was feeling such bliss she also remained oblivious to the way Shadow Weaver was tearing open her skin; so intoxicated by lust, she even wanted the woman to go deeper, unaware of just how far she had already gone.

Claws began moving up under Castaspella's dress, reaching her waist and grabbing it to pull her harder against the dark sorceress' face. The woman whined and squirmed: pain drowned by ecstasy, her whole body on fire yet wishing for more, everything else forgotten except the tongue reaching deeper inside her, and the needy fangs sinking into her skin.

Both sorceresses felt so enthralled that their magic began acting on its own; the room temperature kept decreasing, tendrils of black magic crept up through Castaspella's body, reached her chest, making her feel as if her skin was being burnt, tightened around her nipples and made her moan loudly while clutching the bedsheets when red electricity joined the black magic. In response, the sorceress' spell froze the floor under Shadow Weaver, burning her through the robes, and she couldn't help moaning inside Castaspella. As if following her magic, the woman crawled over her before ice could attach her to the ground, licking up her torso as the black magic revealed flawless skin, and pushed the blue dress up as she moved forward.

The sorceress let out a loud scream when she felt the black tendrils continue what Shadow Weaver's tongue had begun, and she couldn't even process her surprise at how good the accompanying electricity felt. Her insides burnt and tickled, pleasure overtook her mind and shut down all her thoughts.

The woman held Castaspella down as electricity made her body shake violently, she licked her way up to the middle of her chest and began biting the soft muscle. The delight of her voice pushed her to keep going, and the sorceress' buried her hands in her hair, keeping her pressed against her chest.

As Shadow Weaver bit and sucked, her black magic took care of her clothes, letting her sit on Castaspella, one leg on each side; now the electrified tendrils pleasured them both at the same time. The sorceress felt close already, pulled Shadow Weaver's hair a bit, anxiously expecting relief, and yelled her name when it finally happened.

But it wasn't yet enough for the dark sorceress. She needed more, a lot more, and Castaspella easily realized as much, but a mean idea crossed her mind and she snickered, breathless, as she casted a little spell on the woman, immobilizing and pushing her away.

—No, not… yet— Shadow Weaver gasped. —Please… Ugh! You… jerk!

—I'm still… in charge— she reminded her. She breathed in deeply, pushed herself up a bit, and teased —What if now… I decide to stop this… here?

—Bitch! I'll… I'll rip you apart!

Castaspella scoffed and was about to reply mockingly, but stopped herself when she noticed the blood around the dark sorceress' mouth.

—Well, I am absolutely not giving you anything… unless you heal me right this instant… before the adrenaline wears off— she finally said, trying to even her breathing.

—And if I… don't want to?— she retorted.

Shadow Weaver expected more witty replies from her, but Castaspella's demeanor was dead serious; this time, she stood up from bed, wincing in pain for a moment, and let her dress fall down to her feet, covering her again. She approached her, grabbed her by the chin, barely able to keep her spell on the dark sorceress, and neared her face menacingly.

—Do not ever do anything to me… that you wouldn't want me to do to you— she warned her. —You drew blood? Then you better fix that, or I'm leaving you to satisfy yourself… if you can.

—Fuck you— was her first, instinctive answer. But Shadow Weaver already planned on healing her, and preferred to add —I was going to… after you finished your job.

—Is that so? A shame you're so difficult to please…— Castaspella began. —In this state… I can hardly do anything for you— she mocked her, smirking maliciously. —How bad…

—You're… a nightmare— she breathed out. —Put me down… I'll do it…

She released Shadow Weaver from her spell and the woman didn't wait a second; she lifted Castaspella's dress once again, pulled her legs open and had her black magic close the gashes she had opened. However, seeing how much she had wounded her, she couldn't help feeling something she couldn't understand, and reached up to lick her more delicately, without going in this time.

Castaspella breathed out a moan, bent forward and supported herself on Shadow Weaver's head, equally surprised and delighted by her tender licks. Amused, she laughed faintly and began caressing the silky black hair just as tenderly; her hands moved as slowly as the dark sorceress' tongue, eventually reached her pointy ears, and delicately brushed the edges, making Shadow Weaver moan against her skin.

Who would have guessed that tenderness would finally give her the bliss she so wanted?

Castaspella felt her latch onto her legs, almost desperately, and heard her sigh in relief.

—Is that better?

—Ah… much.

Once again, Shadow Weaver was ready to pass out, but the sorceress had her quickly drop in bed, so she wouldn't have to carry her there, and then took care of the rest; she put their clothes aside, cleaned up the mess they and their magic did, and finally threw the sheets over them, ready to rest too.

As she succumbed to sleep, one last thought popped into her mind: taking care of her as she had just done is also something she wants to do more. She needs to take care of her.

Eliminated scene: Dark Temptation, Ch3 (Always so short-sighted)

—Will you tell me now how that interrogation went? And I don't mean the results, I mean how you handled the process.

Shadow Weaver had approached Castaspella from behind, and her husky voice sent shivers through her when the woman spoke into her ear. She could only enjoy the feeling and leaned back against her.

—I don't see why I should.

—Because it is highly suspicious how the man didn't look scared or troubled after the interrogation, and absolutely did not fear you. It makes one think that you're just pretending to have changed sides, and now try to keep him alive. You've exposed yourself.

The claws clutching her waits almost made her moan, but the accusation set off the alarms on her head, so she only leaned more onto her, looking up into her split eyes with a smirk.

—Did I?

—Did you… Did you… make him think you're betraying the Horde so that he would trust you !?

—Perhaps…

—How very wicked of you. But don't think you can possibly surpass me there.

Her fangs right before that last sentence emphasized her statement and rose Castaspella's desire.

—Is that a challenge?

—Take it as you please.

—I absolutely will.

With Castaspella having turned around between Shadow Weaver's arms, the sorceresses began kissing harshly, biting each other's lips as if claiming them of their property, while their hands moved on their own, hungrily exploring the curves and textures they knew so well by now.

Shadow Weaver relished the softness of that perfect skin she was allowed to feel, enjoy, and punish at will; Castaspella felt an unexpected pleasure in tracing those irregular scars, touching the different textures of this corrupted body, as if the forbidden magic's effect on it made it more arousing for her.

Growing needy, the women began fighting for control, until the sorceress pinned Shadow Weaver against the cold wall. But she didn't give up and used her black magic to bind Castaspella's arms and legs and pulled her down to the ground.

—Well… This reversion of roles looks quite good— Shadow Weaver purred, obviously satisfied.

The sorceress knew she could easily fight back, yet she needed to distract her from those suspicions; with how pleased she looked, it became obvious this is what she wanted, control. No better way to distract the woman than giving her exactly what she wished for.

—Fine then, you won— Castaspella let out. She grabbed Shadow Weaver's legs, fighting against the pull of the black magic, and began licking up her scars. —Is this… what you want?

The dark sorceress didn't even reply; her gasp and the way the black tendrils tightened around Castaspella were enough of an answer. She continued licking up and dug her nails into Shadow Weaver's buttcheeks when she reached between her legs, still fighting the pull of the magic. She reached deeper and deeper with her tongue, but it wasn't enough for the dark sorceress; she wanted more, so she forced the tendrils that held Castaspella into her instead, pushing her deeper into herself too.

The sorceress moaned inside Shadow Weaver who was already screaming loudly. Her yelling could be heard from outside the bathrooms, just like they could usually be heard wherever they were, but those screams were completely ignored yet again, confused with pained wails no one wanted to know the cause of.

The dark sorceress closed her eyes, delighted already yet craving for more, and reached down to pull Castaspella's hair, which made her moan and suck with more intensity, still trying to go deeper inside her.

A ecstasy peaked, Shadow Weaver's knees gave in, and the sorceress had to held her legs firmly to finish sucking before helping the woman down to the floor. The women shared more tender kisses for a while until Castaspella stood up.

—Would you… perhaps want me to… wash your hair?— she offered.

Shadow Weaver was stunned for a moment: between that beautiful wet body standing before her, and the unexpected offer, she simply couldn't speak, and ended up nodding without realizing.

While they both used spells to warm up the water as their bodies cooled down, Castaspella gently handled Shadow Weaver's hair, enjoying the sensation, and gave the woman some more massages on her scalp as she heard her moan pleasurably.

The dark sorceress couldn't help realizing how much she liked this, the gesture and the feeling, which greatly enraged her.

Perhaps indulging now isn't wrong, she won't have an opportunity like this again; and yet, this is undoubtedly distracting for her. She had forgotten her original goal of defeating her, but how to do so when it's evident this woman had managed to invade her completely?

She couldn't help it, and now she simply cannot defeat her at all. On the contrary, it was evident she had defeated her completely, she had broken her. Her thirst was insatiable, and Castaspella's delightful body was all she could think about.

Now, seeing her so tempting, with water dripping down her thighs, she just itched to reach out, claim it all, and make the woman scream her name. Her legs still hadn't recovered their strength so she couldn't stand up, but she kneeled and, without a word, reached for the sorceress' inner thighs.

Castaspella's surprise was evident so, fearing she'd be pushed away, she pleaded —Just… let me.

Shadow Weaver loathed this behavior, but it was such a raw appetite she was feeling, it was practically out of her control. And the relief she felt when Castaspella allowed her, was terrifying; she had never craved this much for anything other than power, and even as the woman dug her tongue ferociously into the sorceress, knowing a single person, this one woman held so much power over her, horrified her.

—Ah! Hungry… still?— Castaspella gasped. The only response was harder sucking that made her moan once again. Dizzy with pleasure, the sorceress' desire reignited, and now it was her turn to restrain Shadow Weaver. —If you're… giving me control… this easy… perhaps you deserve… a good treatment— she feared.

The sorceress pushed her down to the ground, using just a bit of magic to help herself pin Shadow Weaver's wrists above her head, and leaned forward to hold them tightly as she moved her hips against the dark sorceress' mouth. Her legs rested at both sides of her head and, the deeper Shadow Weaver reached, the more she spread them to press herself harder against her mouth, screaming as she neared bliss.

The dark sorceress finally sucked enough to drive Castaspella mad with pleasure, she finally lifted up and moved away from her face, but didn't let go of her wrists.

—Ah… back… here… woman— Shadow Weaver gasped, breathless, unable to open her eyes as water from the shower fell on her face.

—No, no, Dear. You… can do it better— she whispered, moving her legs down to the sides of her torso. —First, I'll need you… to restrain your hands… up there— she ordered, and a black tendril immediately fastened them in place. —Good. And now…— she continued, keeping that low tantalizing tone. She leaned closer to her face, kissed her briefly and reminded her —You know how you used your black magic to pleasure us both at the same time? Do it again.

She gave her another kiss, harder, until Shadow Weaver got her magic into her, so suddenly she yelled loudly, arching back. Once again, she moved her hips up and down, sitting right over the dark sorceress's pelvis, making them feel both the rubbing of the black magic inside them, and their bodies friction against each other.

Castaspella had her hands on Shadow Weaver's chest, she squeezed her boobs harder the closer she felt to relief and, fortunately for the dark sorceress, her final bliss made Castaspella dig her nails into the soft muscle and moan her name in such a way it helped Shadow Weaver reach pleasure.

The women rested together for a moment, depleted of energy, and the sorceress attempted to close the shower with a spell a few times before tendrils of black magic did it for her.

—You can't be… so good at some… things, and so… sloppy at others— Shadow Weaver snickered, breathless.

—I could… say the same…

—I'm- I'm not… sloppy.

—No. Just… a reckless idiot… sometimes.

The dark sorceress let out a strained laugh again, and muttered —Fuck you.

—You already… did. Moron.

They both shook with laughter, holding each other in a comfortable embrace; it would take them a while to recover their strength, and it was oddly comfortable despite how hard the floor was.

Shadow Weaver's thoughts were foggy now, but her inner struggle remained; her undetermined feelings for Castaspella had the advantage now, but her fear persisted at the back of her mind, ready to jump back at the smallest chance.

Eliminated scene: Dark Temptation, Ch 4 (The end of it all)

Chapter Notes

Well, there you go
Not one, but THREE eliminated scenes, yes

In any case, I hope you enjoy~~, I'm sure you will~~

This has finally come to an end (for this life lol)
You can expect more eliminated scenes in the future from other fics, ofc

See the end of the chapter for more notes

After the shocking experience Castaspella had, she went to Shadow Weaver's room to lie down before her muscles decided to give in. What wouldn't she do for a hot bath in Mystacor's steam grotto…

But she was there, in the Fright Zone, in the room of her enemy.

In her bed.

If the morning of the ceremony someone had told her she would be joining the Horde and having the wildest sex she could ever imagine with none other than Shadow Weaver, she would have probably laughed nonstop the whole day.

Oh, but at least she can rest.

No one has any right to bother her, and it even seems like most in the Horde are fond of her, seeing how they apologized for the torture. What's more, she could have sworn she saw Kyle crying and being held back by his comrades.

Her thoughts were interrupted by the door to the room being opened, and much to her surprise, Shadow Weaver calling her name.

It seemed like the woman wanted to talk to her but decided against it, yet with only a few words Castaspella found out what it was.

The woman was suspicious? Well, interesting.

Despite her soreness, she couldn't allow the dark sorceress to bother her with such things, so she had to stop her as soon as possible, the only way she knew…

The sorceress grunted as she struggled to push herself further up yet, soon enough, she was sitting on top of Shadow Weaver, hiding her pain behind a sly smirk.

—Are you sure? Would you miss this opportunity? I'm in no shape to claim the top position this time…

—Casta…

Leaning over her, she moved her face closer and whispered —Won't you treat me well if you're so worried about me?

—I never said that— the dark sorceress retorted. —But…

Finding her too tempting, Shadow Weaver smirked and gave in, immediately making Castaspella gasp as she created a tendril of black magic and dug it into her without hesitation or warning.

Finding herself having the upper hand, as the sorceress had just told her, she quickly switched positions, rolling to the side until she was on top. Castaspella's legs were still around her waist from when she sat on her, so Shadow Weaver could easily push them down, parting her thighs for her tendril to penetrate her with more ease.

Laying on her back, the sorceress let herself moan in delight, closing her eyes and putting no resistance at all. After the shocks, she was far weaker than she looked and wasn't even mentally fit to issue an order, much less to dominate or win their little game, to begin with.

She could only focus on breathing deeply between each moan and gasp.

—Do-do the- Use the… electricity thing…— Castaspella asked.

She was so pissed at how they had practically ruined the sensation of the electric shocks running through her body that she could only think about restoring it.

—But…

—Do it… Just… do it— she insisted, much to Shadow Weaver's confusion. While her tendril continued to thrust into the sorceress, she hesitated and stared, soon finding herself mesmerized by the sight of Castaspella's ecstasy. —Do it!

With the exclamation, the dark sorceress was snapped out of her trance and finally let the electric power of the Black Garnet shock her through the tendril. The loud gasp that followed, accompanied by a breathless whine, briefly surprised Shadow Weaver until she noticed her grip on the sheets and her tense hips.

She was enjoying it. Was there something this woman didn't enjoy?

In any case, the vision in front of her made her thirsty enough to push away such thoughts and thrust deeper, wanting to hear her scream more. Both hands brushed up her legs and reached Castaspella's waist under the dress; while another pair of dark tendrils appeared and wrapped the sorceress' wrists, pulling them up above her head, Shadow Weaver dragged her nails further up until reaching her breasts.

Quickening the pace, the tendril thrusting into Castaspella kept occasionally shocking her with a mild voltage that made it obvious just how careful Shadow Weaver was being, even if she said otherwise, and her thirst increased as the sorceress moaned louder. She leant down to bite her lower abdomen and kept squeezing Castaspella's breasts, digging her nails deeper with each thrust of her tendril.

Soon, both were breathing heavily, and Shadow Weaver felt herself needing relief, so she moved from her place between the sorceress' legs, leaving only the tendril to continue and another two keeping Castaspella's legs spread.

Although she perceived the movement, she couldn't see what Shadow Weaver was doing, far too drowned in bliss. But shortly after, when she felt the woman's wet crotch on her bound hands, she understood.

Well, that she could do.

Mirroring the tendril inside her, Castaspella let her fingers dig quickly and harshly, deep into Shadow Weaver, always reaching further, and she expanded them each time before taking them out.

It surprised the dark sorceress that, not only was Castaspella really at her mercy this time, but also that she wasn't using any cold spell on her for some reason.

Before she could think more about it, her hips tensed up, feeling close, and her mind went blank as she felt the relief. It made her feel physically weak afterwards, as it usually did, but she couldn't fall asleep just yet.

They weren't done.

Shadow Weaver carefully removed herself from Castaspella's hands and gradually undid her spells while gasping for air; the black tendrils unhurriedly released the sorceress' wrists and legs, and the one thrusting into her lowered its pace until it stopped, as deep as it could reach, waiting for Castaspella to finish.

—Casta?

The dark sorceress couldn't help but call out her name when she heard her exhale, finally done. She looked so peaceful it was scary and the fear that gripped Shadow Weaver's poor excuse of a heart was not pleasant at all.

But she was breathing, she was fine.

And yes, the woman did want to take care of Castaspella.

While she handled the cleaning, the sorceress little by little opened her eyes and let out — Thanks…

It sounded more like a groan, but Shadow Weaver could perfectly understand her.

—Don't thank me.

—Why?

—Just… don't.

Silently, the dark sorceress took care of their clothes, before laying down next to Castaspella. As they were both extremely tired, neither planned on speaking and directly turned to sleep. However, the sorceress briefly opened her eyes in surprise when she felt Shadow Weaver's arms around her, holding her close, and she couldn't help smiling faintly before surrendering to sleep.

Alone in an empty room, the sorceresses were a breath away from each other, Shadow Weaver keeping Castaspella against the wall, while the sorceress expertly seduced her once again.

—I already answered your question. Can't you relax a bit now?

—Why are you doing this?— Shadow Weaver insisted.

The way she put it made the dark sorceress hesitant as she realized she had, in fact, no idea what Castaspella actually planned. She thought she knew it, but now it was obvious to her that the sorceress wasn't just tempting her to avoid the subject; there had to be an ulterior motive.

—Is that not clear?

Shadow Weaver only froze under her touch, first gentle then suddenly rougher; she really wanted it, and so did the dark sorceress, but she could hardly shake her suspicions.

Hesitantly leaning forward, and holding back a pleased gasp, she whispered —Why now?

—I feel like it… But if you don't…

—I do.

—Yet you don't trust me. Is that the problem?

—I can't…

—Why?

—You're just trying to lead me away from something. You always do that…

—Would it help if… I let you lead? Or, well, give you some control at least— she offered, letting out a snicker before meeting her lips.

And there it was again.

The need. The desire.

She couldn't help it and kissed her back immediately, letting her hands wander Castaspella's body too, quickly giving in to temptation. Soon enough, her hands had reached the sorceress' chest, teased the rim of her dress, and her lips moved down her jaw and neck towards her collarbone.

On the other hand, Castaspella's hands gripped Shadow Weaver's waist and pushed her back until she hit a dusty table. Immediately, the dark sorceress turned around and lifted her to have her sit on the table instead as she continued to kiss her hungrily. One of her hands stayed on the side of her chest while the other went down between her legs, but Castaspella suddenly gripped it before she could touch her.

—What?

—No, no. Your hands here— she ordered, placing both of them on her chest. Her arms then wrapped around Shadow Weaver's neck as she whispered —You have something else for that…

—So much for letting me lead…

—I did clarify I was giving you some control— she reminded her before roughly kissing her again.

Resigned, Shadow Weaver summoned a tendril that slowly twisted around Castaspella's right leg, moving upwards until it reached her knee, then brushed up her inner thighs until it found her crotch and began teasing her.

The sorceress gasped upon feeling it and held onto her tightly, digging her nails into her back between her shoulder blades. Meanwhile, the hands on Castaspella's breasts quickly pulled down her dress and scratched all around her nipples, tracing spirals around them before suddenly pinching them.

The delighted cry she provoked pleased Shadow Weaver and she hummed —Good…

—That's… perfect— Castaspella sighed, almost moaning. —But you're… missing some bites…

Between elated gasps, she snickered and aroused the dark sorceress even more, making her comply immediately. She bit right under her jaw, continuing down her neck, and soon was biting into her collarbone through the golden top of her cape.

Her tendril finally dug into Castaspella while Shadow Weaver moved her dress further down, biting her chest now, closing in on her left nipple. In turn, the sorceress held her in place while ordering her to bite harder, to go deeper, moaning between each word.

Feeling her hips tensing up, Castaspella wrapped her legs around Shadow Weaver to make space for her tendril to go deeper as she quickened the pace. At the same time, one of her hands moved from her head down her back and cast a cold sigil to press freezing touches down her spine. Now Shadow Weaver moaned with her, each time her hand grazed her, and began biting harder, almost making Castaspella's nipple bleed.

—Harder?

—Yes… And… faster— the sorceress moaned, closing her eyes tightly, needing to feel her tendril go deep enough for her body to react.

Holding her firmly, Shadow Weaver sped it up as she asked and bit down harder, breaking the skin. Immediately after, she licked the spot and moved towards her right nipple while casting a healing spell to press on the bleeding bite.

The moment Castaspella finally felt the relief, she clenched Shadow Weaver's back, one of her hands still freezing, and gasped as she felt breathless for a moment.

Her mind raced, delighted as she had never felt before, and craving for more. It was never enough, not after such a long time thinking she'd never feel this kind of bliss.

On the other hand, the dark sorceress was hardly done, further aroused by every sound Castaspella made, and now wanted to hear her screaming her name.

Instead of removing the tendril from inside the sorceress, she charged it with a mild voltage and let it shock her briefly, earning more delighted gasps.

—Too much?

—No-nonsense— she replied, breathless. —Go again…

Smirking, Shadow Weaver licked up from Castaspella's breast towards her neck and bit down hard as a new shock made her moan her name.

It was perfect.

Perhaps too perfect…

They were at it for almost an hour when they got interrupted by loud alarms blaring through the Fright Zone; all lights went out save for a few emergency ones installed in all rooms. The sorceresses could hear frantic footsteps outside and, after a moment of shock, Shadow Weaver raised her head to face Castaspella, who didn't seem the littlest bit surprised; on the contrary, she still looked thirsty.

As the sounds of attacks in the background put the dark sorceress on edge, she took a few steps back, struggling to fix her clothes, and leaving her on the table while making a conscious effort to stop looking at Castaspella's bare chest.

She had to leave. Now.

Back in Mystacor and pardoned from all charges as Castaspella had been, in fact, the contact who allowed the Rebellion to win, the sorceress was received as head of the Guild once again and decided to keep Shadow Weaver free within her kingdom, under her responsibility.

Walking together around the place, they found themselves alone, so the dark sorceress corned her and teasingly asked —Where is Castahex now?

—May I remind you we can't do this just anywhere here? I'm the authority and have to set the example— Castaspella replied, although a mischievous smirk appeared on her lips.

—If it's a question of not being seen, then it's a good thing I know all of Mystacor's secret passages, no?

—Lead the way…

With a smirk, Shadow Weaver pressed her hand on the wall behind the sorceress and it opened to reveal a small empty room, illuminated by a few crystals on the walls. As soon as they were inside, the wall closed behind them and they began kissing, pushing each other back to try and pin the other against the wall.

Every time one had pinned the other, a sudden surge of strength would turn around the odds and the sorceresses' battle would continue, testing each other's limits and searching for weaknesses.

Far from playing fair, Castaspella finally used a cold spell to weaken Shadow Weaver's legs, making her trip back and fall against a wall, while the sorceress grabbed her dress and pulled it up before holding both her legs to wrap them around her waist.

—Cheater.

—All is fair in our games, remember?

—Fuck you.

—No, no. That's your job, Dear.

With a snicker, Castaspella dug her nails into Shadow Weaver's thighs and kept her pressed against the wall, forcing her to spread her legs more. One of her hands then moved towards her crotch and two fingers went in without hesitation, reaching deep and moving around in circles.

The dark sorceress cursed under her breath, trying to hold back her moans, but Castaspella wouldn't allow it; with her hand pressed between them both, she began moving her hips, pushing her fingers deeper as the woman was held against the wall.

Shadow Weaver finally gave up and let out loud moans she tried to muffle with one hand, while the Head Sorceress laughed amusedly; after a moment of staring defiantly at her, she bent down to bite through her clothes, from the left side of her collarbone towards her breasts, and pounced her hips faster.

—That's… Agh! Unfair…

Castaspella simply snickered at her complaint and continued to bite through her clothes, trying to press her further against the wall with each thrust. The more Shadow Weaver moaned, the harder she pushed.

—You're quite a lucky woman, aren't you?

—Shut… Up… Agh…

With a loud laugh, the sorceress tilted her head back briefly before catching her in a passionate kiss, silencing Shadow Weaver's moans as her fingers spread inside her, moving around, and slightly freezing now.

The dark sorceress couldn't help it much longer and summoned a pair of tendrils to tease and shock Castaspella; each twisted around one of her legs and unhurriedly moved up, gradually increasing the voltage the closer they moved to the sorceress' crotch.

They gently shocked her while licking the skin with teasing movements, forcing Castaspella to close her eyes and muffle delighted moans with the kiss as her mind went blank.

Imitating the dark tendrils' slow motions, the sorceress gradually increased the cold of her fingers while continuing to move them in circles, scratching the walls and exploring deeper with each thrust.

Both Shadow Weaver and Castaspella breathed heavily, pushing forward and struggling to keep themselves together, biting back moans until it became impossible, and whispering each other's names, knowing how arousing it was.

The tendrils finally made their way into Castaspella, earning ecstatic whines and causing her to push harder with her hips, digging her freezing fingers deeper. Both refused to let the other win, yet they felt closer with each passing moment.

Between gasps and breathless moans, the sorceresses spent almost an hour driving each other nearer to bliss when something like a knock on the entrance to the secret room, apparently known by whoever was on the other side, forced the sorceresses to stop for a moment.

However, Castaspella didn't jump to attend them as she would usually do; she had understood her times had to be respected too.

—Give me a moment, please— she replied, speaking loudly.

The sorceress withdrew her fingers and carefully put Shadow Weaver down, despite how both of them could barely stand on their shaky legs. The woman had no choice but to retreat her tendrils too, yet she caught Castaspella's hand before she could wipe it and slowly licked it clean, staring at the sorceress with a hungry look, as if reproaching her that neither had finished.

While Castaspella agreed, she knew better than to push her luck, merely kissed the dark sorceress one last time after fixing her clothes enough to look presentable, and finally walked out of the room to attend to whoever was outside.
