Crown the Prince (and Heir)

by ResFlower

Summary

She breaks off the kiss and looks at Catra with soft, concerned eyes. "Slow down." She grabs Catra's wrist placing a soft kiss on it before holding her palm to Adora's cheek. "What has you riled?"

Catra lets her other hand drop from Adora's shirt, suddenly embarrassed under the scrutiny. "I thought you liked it when I took charge?"

She lets out a soft chuckle. "Of course I do." She offers, agreeable as ever. "But you feel ... on edge?" Adora pops a soft kiss on her forehead, her blue eyes scanning Catra's face. "I just want to know what has you uneased."

"Adora." She gives her a trying look. "We have to. It's been eight months, and we still don't have an heir."

The pressure is mounting from all sides. Every letter she receives from Halfmoon asks if either she or Adora have fallen pregnant, every council meeting starts with an update on the state of affairs in their bedroom, and the Queen of Eternia has taken to having lunches with Catra dropping hints about the grandchildren she's sure will be on the way any moment now.

Adora lets out a sigh. "I know that darling."

It's been a long day for Catra between meetings and correspondence she had to sift through before night falls. She's barely seen hide or hair of Adora whose been similarly occupied with her own set of tasks.

Their bedroom has become something of a sanctuary to Catra but today, nagging thoughts plague her even after she finds her way back there. Still, she smiles when she sees Adora sitting on the chaise reading a book when she enters their bedroom.

Adora perks up, her eyes finding Catra's immediately. "Good evening." She leaves her book behind and walks to Catra before kissing her soundly, her hands wrapped around Catra's waist. "I missed you."

She lets out a soft sigh, leaning in to hug her wife. "I missed you too."

Adora presses a soft kiss on her forehead, letting her chin rest on it Catra's head. "Tough day?" She ventures.

She presses her eyes closed, letting the feeling of Adora’s hold watch over her. "Better now that you're here."

She feels like crawling into bed with Adora and just laying together, holding each other. But the thought reminds her of something else—the same thing that's been on her mind for weeks now.

She moves without warning, capturing Adora's lips in a heated kiss. Her wife grunts in surprise but her arms tighten around Catra, a low sound escaping her as they keep kissing. Catra moves her hands around Adora's neck, one of them snaking to the back of her head.

She lets the other drop down, playing with the hem of Adora's shirt. Catra leads her wife backward, aiming to get her into their bed and pressing on every advantage she knows how—lightly tugging on the hair at the nape of Adora's neck, gently biting her lip, raking her nails across the small of her back.

For a moment, it seems to lead Catra exactly where she wants. Adora happily lets her lead, kissing Catra back with the same fervor.

But then she breaks off the kiss and looks at Catra with soft, concerned eyes. "Slow down." She grabs Catra's wrist placing a soft kiss on it before holding her palm to Adora's cheek. "What has you riled?"

Catra lets her other hand drop from Adora's shirt, suddenly embarrassed under the scrutiny. "I thought you liked it when I took charge?"

She lets out a soft chuckle. "Of course I do." She offers, agreeable as ever. "But you feel ... on edge?" Adora pops a soft kiss on her forehead, her blue eyes scanning Catra's face. "I just want to know what has you uneased."

"Adora." She gives her a trying look. "We have to. It's been eight months, and we still don't have an heir."

The pressure is mounting from all sides. Every letter she receives from Halfmoon asks if either she or Adora have fallen pregnant, every council meeting starts with an update on the state of affairs in their bedroom, and the Queen of Eternia has taken to having lunches with Catra dropping hints about the grandchildren she's sure will be on the way any moment now.

Adora lets out a sigh. "I know that darling."

She wraps a lose arm around Catra's waist, leaning forward to press their foreheads together. Catra feels her shoulders loosen as she leans into the affection. Being around Adora makes all her problems feel smaller, no matter how stressful they are.

"I just hate feeling like a failure." She whispers, tears pricking in her eyes. "We've been trying for months—what if there's something wrong?"

Adora squeezes her into a hug, her hand rubbing down Catra's back. "There's no reason to suspect anything is amiss. You know it takes time for Etheria to bestow a couple with a child." Adora reminds her.

Catra rolls her eyes. She knows as well as anyone else how babies are made. At least, as much as is known about why Etheria's spirit decides to allow life to take root within a relationship.

"How long, Adora? Until we worry that there's something wrong with us? Until people start to question our ability to produce an heir?" Catra's already there. It feels like for some reason Etheria has found them unworthy to be parents together.

Adora continues to run her hand over Catra's back. "I know." She takes a deep breath, and she bites her lip, uncertainty in her gaze. "I went to see a ... a healer last week."

"A healer?" Catra pulls back looking at Adora's face, perusing it for anything amiss. "Are you alright?"

She smiles softly and nods. "Yes, I'm fine. One of her specialties is fertility. I wanted to see if perhaps she had advice."

It clicks into place. "You went to see a witch?" Catra shakes her head. "Adora, what if someone saw you?"

"No one did! Besides, Razz is trustworthy—I swear it." She bites her lip again, so hard Catra worries about her breaking skin. "I didn't mention it earlier because I didn't know if anything would come of it. I didn't want to get your hopes up."

There's something nervous in Adora's eyes and it makes Catra's stomach drop. "Something did come of it?" She guesses.

"She suspects the stress of trying to conceive is blocking our connection to Etheria." Catra raises a dubious eyebrow. "I know, it sounds silly. She thinks that if perhaps we were more … intentional, we'd have success."

"That's it?"

Adora turns red. "She offered to sell me some things to uh—enhance the experience. In hopes that it would help."

"Well, did you buy it?"

"I—not all of it—I—" Adora falls silent, her face bright red. "I don't think we need them."

It's something else to see her wife, who has shared more than one filthy fantasy with Catra, shy like a schoolgirl. It piques her curiosity. She tilts Adora's chin, making their eyes meet.

"You can't say you bought objects to improve our sex life and then not tell me." Catra raises an eyebrow to accompany her blunt words. "Who would you be using them with if not me?"

Adora's eyes narrow. "I wouldn't lay a finger on anyone else." She swears, as if that isn't obvious to Catra. Her wife sighs and runs a hand through her own hair. "Of course, you can see it if you want I just—I don't want you to think I'm not satisfied with how things are between us."

Adora looks up at her with trepidation. Catra feels warmed over by the concern—it reminds her that as stressful as this transition has been, loving her wife has been an oasis that keeps her grounded and makes it all worth it.

"Maybe whatever this is will take my mind off trying for a baby." She puts a hand on Adora's forearm. "Show me?" she asks gently.

Adora nods silently and heads over to their bed, pulling out a small box from under it. She opens it and pulls out two items. Adora holds out the first—a silky black satin fabric. Catra reaches out and touches it—it's soft and feels nice on her skin.

"What's this for?"

Adora's face is still red from her blush, although now it reaches her collarbones. "She said that when you're blindfolded... other senses can be elevated."

Catra's mouth opens in surprise. Her eyes dart between the items. "And the other?"

Adora holds up a pair of manacles, the inside lined with red fabric with a similar sheen as the blindfold. The metal gleams in the low light of their bedroom, lightly clanging as it hangs from Adora's fingertips.

"Restrains." She says simply.

"Interesting." Catra breathes out. "And what did the witch suggest we do with them?" She lets her hand run up Adora's forearm until her fingertips graze her wife's shoulder.

Adora audibly swallows, her eyes drifting to Catra's hand before her grip tightens on the restraints. "She—it was implied."

"What do you think we should do with them?" Catra reaches down, lightly pulling the manacles out of Adora's hand so she's holding them looped around one finger. Adora stares back at her slack jawed. "Or do you want me to decide?"

"I—" Adora shakes her head a little, a sharp inhale forcing her to push out her chest. "You want us to use them?"

Catra feels encouraged by that reaction, by the wide-eyed gaze Adora gives her. "Perhaps. If you tell me what you want."

"I can—I can tie you down and blindfold you?" There's a tilt of uncertainty in her voice and Catra really takes Adora in her. Her face is flushed and her eyes are excited, but she almost looks too nervous.

Catra gently nudges Adora back until her legs hit the bed and she sits. She then leans over Adora and grabs the blindfold as well. "What if you let me have my way with you?"

Adora bites her lip, her eyes locked on Catra's. "You're sure? I thought—I'd thought I'd do this for you. So that you can take your mind off... everything."

She has no doubt that Adora can leave her mindless with pleasure—she's done it before to Catra's immense satisfaction—but the idea of driving Adora to the brink in this new way is much more appealing.

"Nothing will get my mind off the rest of the world like making you come all over my hands until the only word you remember is my name."

"Catra!" Adora's hand wraps around her waist, tugging her until she's standing between her legs. "That's quite uncouth." She scolds before biting her lip.

Catra smile turns impish. She puts the restraints and the blindfold next to Adora on the bed before cupping her face. "I thought you liked me that way."

She turns her head and places a lingering kiss on her palm. "I love you that way." She corrects. Adora nuzzles a little into her hand before glancing back up. "I've thought about you restraining me, since I'd heard of it." She admits shyly. "I didn't consider it might be in the cards."

She presses a soft kiss on Adora's forehead. "Consider it more than a possibility." She takes a step back, pulling her hand back softly and grabbing the blindfold and the restraints. "Now, if you want this—I want you to lay down on our bed, naked."

Adora stands, holding Catra's gaze as she slowly strips out of her clothes. It's not meant to be seductive, but Catra finds it that anyway. Adora is methodical as she removed her clothing and Catra knows from experience that her singular focus is a prize surely worth winning.

It doesn't take long for Adora to stand naked before her. She raises an eyebrow with a slight smirk on her face. Adora's never been shy, but she stands proudly before Catra, baiting her.

Her eyes go down Catra’s body. "What about your clothes?"

Catra shakes her head, pleased by Adora's confused expression. "Turn around, princess." She does as Catra asks and she waits no time in pulling the blindfold around her head, tying it quickly. She tests the tightness, running a finger over the material. "Too tight?"

"No, not at all." Adora bounces on the ball of her heels.

"Can you see anything?"

"No." Her head turns but the rest of her body remains still. "I can only hear your voice."

"Good." Catra watches as Adora strains toward the sound. She places a soft hand in the middle of Adora's back. "Don't worry. I'll lead you."

She's taken aback by how willing Adora is to let Catra guide her until she's lying back on the bed. Catra leans forward pressing a kiss to Adora's lips. She lets out a grunt of surprise but then she moans, her lips moving almost desperately across her own.

When Catra pulls back, Adora is panting. "I—I think the witch was onto something. About the stronger senses."

"Is that so?" Catra runs her hands softly over Adora's collar bones. "You look so gorgeous like this." She leans back a little more until she's not touching Adora.

Her wife already looks like something she'd only find in her dreams. She turns her head this way and that, straining to hear Catra. She makes quick work of her clothes, pulling them off. She can tell Adora hears the fabric hit the ground because she lets out a soft gasp and her jaw clenches.

"I wish I could see you." Adora all but whines.

Catra is close again, having come back with the restraints. She places a tender kiss on Adora's cheek and her jaw. "If for any reason you wish to stop, you say the word and I'll unhand you."

Adora smiles. "I never want you to unhand me, your highness. I find myself quite at home in your capable hands."

Catra lets out a short laugh. "You know what I'm suggesting."

Adora nods her head, more seriously this time. "Yes. If I have cause to, I'll ask you to remove them."

Catra lets in a deep breath. "Good." She touches Adora's arm and pushes them until they are raised over Adora's head. She watches Adora spayed out, willing holding her wrists together in anticipation, and she lets out a groan. She grabs the restraints, checking for a key and placing it on their bedside cabinet before slowly locking Adora's wrists into place. "Is this too much?"

Adora shifts her hands, arms flexing as she tests the restraints. She breathes in deep, her lips tugging in a soft 'o'. "No. It's good." Her voice is deeper than earlier. She flexes her toes and stretches on the bed, sinking deeper into it. "What are you going to do to me?"

"Right now? I'm going to look at my wife."

Catra's heart thuds hard in her chest as she watches Adora. Everything has moved so quickly since Adora revealed her trip that she didn't have a moment to truly appreciate the state Adora is in.

She's exposed, even as she squeezes her legs together. Adora's arms are held up by the restraints, her body tense as she waits for Catra. Every inch of her skin is available for Catra's perusal—she lets her eyes trail over her soft slopes and taut ridges, the way her ribs move as she tries to slow her breathing.

"Catra." It's a soft utterance, barely audible given that Catra is sitting near Adora's feet and yet she hears it. The manacles clink together as she arches her back into nothing—likely trying to figure out where Catra is. She lets out a huff. "There's no reason why you can't look and touch."

"I didn't know my hands could see now." Catra teases. She lets her hand wrap around Adora's foot, sliding up to her ankle.

Adora's calf flexes. "Indulge me."

"Oh, believe me, princess. I plan to."

Catra uses the very tips of her fingers, watching as the soft skin on Adora's calf gets goosebumps and she slowly trail higher. She hears Adora softly giggle when she coasts along the inside of her knee, and it makes Catra's lips quirk up.

"Nervous?" Catra checks.

Adora takes in a sharp breath as Catra's thumb smooths circles over her soft inner thigh. "Not at all." She bites her lip. "Excited is infinitely more appropriate."

She lets her hand trail up even higher still, leaving the fleshy parts of Adora's leg and finding the indent between there and her lower lips. Adora's body tenses some, not fully taut but enough that Catra can note the strain.

Her breathing is heavier, and her skin is pebbled over as she waits patiently for Catra to do something. For a moment, Catra considers giving in and touching her in earnest but instead she pulls away completely.

"Catra!" Adora's whine is immediate, her head moving from one side to the other in frustration.

"Take a deep breath." Adora does as she asks, although Catra can still feel some annoyance. "Another one."

She can almost feel Adora roll her eyes as she complies and then takes another deep breath without prompting. After a full minute, Adora does look more relaxed although there's still a slight tremble to her legs.

Catra spreads her legs apart, kneeling between them. "Just keep breathing for me." She whispers, noticing that Adora's breath immediately picks up.

She stays there, not moving as her wife tries her best to steady herself. Once she does, Catra presses her lips to Adora's soft inner thighs. She can hear Adora let out a whimper of surprise as she sets out to kiss her up and down, from her knee to the tops of her thigh and then the same on the other leg.

Catra takes her time, listening to Adora's quiet pants and whines as well as the light jingle of the restraints brushing together. She also takes the time to appreciate how Adora's smell grows heady as she gets wetter.

Catra decides she can't hold back much longer when she can see Adora drip onto their sheets and she has to bite back a moan of her own. She gathers some of Adora's slick, spreading it over her lips and onto her clit.

"Oh—Catra." Adora calls out, her body arching, her hips shifting almost into Catra's face. She takes it as an opportunity, wrapping one of her hands around Adora's thighs and pressing her tongue right at her core.

"Fuck." She curses out and Catra bites back a chuckle.

"Language, princess."

Adora lets out a string of curses as Catra slides in one finger and then another inside her. Her walls are fluttering around her, as if trying to pull Catra further in. She runs her tongue over her clit, with gentle pressure the way she knows Adora likes.

"Right—yes that's—there." She cuts herself off, her voice whining and pitching as she keeps moving her hips. "Fuck, I want to touch you." She moans out almost miserably, her fingers twitching in her restraints.

Catra keeps her pace steady, thrusting into Adora in a rhythm she's practically memorized by now. She watches in awe as Adora's body reacts, her whole being seemingly straining toward release with a desperation she's not sure she's seen before.

Adora's heels press into the mattress as she bucks her hips hard enough that Catra can't keep her mouth on her.

"Catra!" It's a clear complaint, if her whimpers are anything to go by.

"I've got you." She runs her tongue over Adora's slit before pressing it firmly at the top of her opening. She curls her fingers up, changing the angle.

"Gods, Catra." She sobs.

She looks so beautiful like this, restrained yet seemingly more unrestrained than ever before. Her chest heaves forward as Catra continues to fuck her and lick her. She tastes so good, Catra's face is covered in Adora's slick between all her movement and how turned on she is.

Her skin feels swollen and sensitive beneath Catra’s fingers and tongue and Catra knows she could spend a lifetime between Adora's thighs, searching for her peak.

She's learned what it looks like when Adora is close, but it's all much more than it typically is—her moans are deeper, her movements more erratic, and Catra could swear that she's never felt Adora this hot and tight around her fingers.

Even with all that, it catches Catra off guard when Adora falls silent, her mouth open in a perfect 'o' as her back bows off the bed. She all but gushes over Catra's hands and she keeps lapping her tongue against Adora's soft skin, feeling her clit twitch against her tongue.

She stays there for a few minutes, slowing and then stopping her movements, pressing the occasional kiss to Adora's cunt.

"Catra." Her name is a sigh on Adora's lips, almost dreamlike.

Catra crawls up her body, unable to resist kissing her. Adora lets out a surprised moan, her tongue licking at the bottom of Catra's lip, immediately keeping the kiss. "Gods, you taste like me."

Catra lets out a chuckle at her blindfolded wife. "I wonder how that happened?"

Adora lets out a soft snort. "Don't be difficult."

"I thought you liked me difficult."

Adora's lips curl and Catra imagines that if she could see her eyes, they'd be dark. "That's true."

Catra reaches up, cupping Adora's cheek. "Did you like it?" She lightly touches the edge of her blindfold.

"Yeah." Adora breathes. "I missed seeing you, but the suspense and not being able to see or touch—it was thrilling. And I felt very ... safe, I suppose is the word for it."

Catra's heart feels warm as she watches her love still splayed out without a care in the world.

"Are you ready for me to take it off?"

Adora frowns, her brow crinkling. "You didn't come, did you?"

"I haven’t." A thought strikes her, and she kicks off her pants. She can tell Adora feels the fabric falling away from the way her eyebrows rise above the ribbon blocking her vision. "Yet, anyway."

She lays in Adora's arms, and lets her arm drag across Adora's thigh before finding her own underwear and slipping inside. She lets out a soft hiss as she finds herself sensitive and her undergarments absolutely sodden.

She touches her clit lightly, although what she really has the urge to do is fuck herself. She doesn't yet, but she doesn't hide any of the noises she feels like making as she gives herself some relief.

Adora's restraints rattle louder than they have until now, both her hands reaching over to bunch up the shirt Catra is still wearing.

"This isn't fair." She whines, her fingers latching onto the fabric, trying to pull Catra on top of her.

She gives Adora a cocky smirk, even though she can’t see it. "You don't have the hands to help me, princess."

Adora growls at that, and Catra lets out a louder moan, giving in and sliding a finger inside.

"Your fingers are bigger than mine. I miss the length." Catra whispers in Adora's ear, her teeth grazing her ear lobe.

"Catra, please." Adora’s voice is near a sob, her body turning and pushing in closer to Catra’s. She’s sure that Adora can feel exactly what Catra is doing given how they are pressed together. "Let me have you."

"You always have me."

She doesn't even deign to respond. "Please, love. I want to taste you."

Catra clenches her thighs together. The thought of Adora's tongue makes her gut swoop low.

"What do you have in mind?"

She licks her lips and her cheeks redden. "Why don't you sit on me?"

"On your face?"

"Please." Adora's breathing heavier already. "I can just do it with the blindfold—I want to drown in you. Let me?"

Even if Catra had set out to tease Adora, there's no way she could refuse that. She lets her hand drop to Adora's where they are huddled close together.

"Do you want to restraints off? Keep the blindfold?"

Adora whines as she nods her head. "I want to touch you."

Catra reaches for the key to the restraints, quickly undoing them and dropping them onto the ground with a clatter. The moment she does, Adora's hands are on her, tugging off her clothes as best she can.

Catra kisses her and moves to undress too, their noses bumping against each other as they move. She lets out a soft laugh. "Does not seeing affect your ability to kiss, princess?"

Adora lets out a short scoff, one of her hands wrapped in Catra's hair and the other around her waist. "I can kiss just fine." She leans forward and kisses the corner of Catra's mouth, making them both laugh. "Okay, maybe I could use some help."

Catra tilts her jaw, sealing their lips together. She moans as Adora touches one of her nipples, her fingers gently rolling the sensitive flesh.

For a few minutes, there's no rush—they kiss languidly, and Catra gets lost in Adora's touch and her closeness. There's something about knowing that Adora remains blindfolded and can taste herself on Catra that makes the kisses feel far from innocent, even though they aren't doing much more right now.

When they finally break apart, Adora has a smirk on her face, and she tugs on Catra's waist. "Come on then. Your throne awaits."

Catra groans but she kisses Adora again anyway. "That's a terrible joke." She complains, even as she crawls up the bed, using the frame for leverage as she finds a comfortable position.

She holds herself high enough that Adora can't reach her quiet yet. Her brow is furrowed as she waits, her hands finding Catra's ankles and running up her calves.

"Are you looking for me to beg again?"

Catra smirks, looking down at Adora, her hair an absolute mess after everything they've done. "No. I'm looking for patience."

Immediately she frowns. "Begging is easier, I think."

"I believe in you, princess."

Adora bites her lip to keep in a whine, no doubt. She turns her head, placing soft kisses on Catra's ankle as she waits.

Even though her legs burn from holding this position, she waits, taking in Adora. The blindfold is still secure across her face which is a miracle in and of itself. Her hands tighten across Catra's legs, but she doesn't pull her down, instead holding herself still as she licks her lips.

Catra guides herself down until she's right above Adora's face. In the past she'd been more ginger when getting into this position but after the first few times, Adora made it clear that it wasn't necessary.

Both of them groan as Adora’s hands grip her hips and her ass, pulling her down the rest of the way. At first, it’s odd not seeing Adora’s gorgeous eyes peeking up at her as she licks her, but that’s forgotten once Catra shuts her own eyes and grabs onto the bed frame for dear life.

Adora’s hands are hot and strong as they hold her, one of the sneaking lower to run across her slit before Adora pushes a finger inside of her, all while wrapping her lips around Catra’s clit. She’d been so turned on from everything they’d done up to now that there’s no resistance, her body more than ready for Adora.

“Fuck.” She curses, her hips bearing down on Adora’s face, although she tries to be mindful of just how much she pushes.

She hears a muffled response from below her that sounds an awful lot like language, so Catra pushes a bit harder in response.

She can feel Adora let out a soft laugh before she retaliates by sinking another finger inside of Catra. She whimpers, one of her hands tight on the bed frame and the other on Adora’s chest. She loses her grip on the railing behind her and leans forward, both of her hands on Adora now.

Adora tugs her so that she never loses contact with her soft hot mouth, continuing to work Catra over with her tongue and her fingers. Catra’s world narrows, the only things that she can think of are the physical sensations that Adora provides her with.

It’s her hands, one tight on her thigh, the other thrusting into her with abandon, clearly sensing how close Catra is. It’s her tongue, hot and steady on her pussy, with a focus like there’s nothing Adora would rather be doing than be between her thighs. It’s the way that she’s pressed against Adora, clutching at her torso and rocking her hips back into her wife’s face.

Her orgasm feels like a white light that burns her from the inside and it just doesn’t stop. She grips onto the sheets at either side of Adora and holds on as the feeling continues to roll through her, Catra’s body shaking as Adora continues to touch her, prolonging the feeling.

The moment it finishes, she slumps over, facing the opposite direction as Adora. It takes all her strength to turn over, legs still trembling as she cuddles close to her wife.

“Gods, Adora. What was all that?”

Adora has a wide, smug grin on her face. “It did last a long time, didn’t it.”

Catra places a soft slap on Adora’s shoulder before kissing it and nuzzling close. “Quiet.” She orders before her eyes flutter shut.

“As much as I love it when you lay on me like this, I don’t think I can get the blindfold with one hand.” Adora’s voice drips with amusement even as she makes no move except to pull Catra closer.

She’d almost forgotten about it. With a sigh, Catra props herself up so that she can reach behind Adora’s head.

"Keep your eyes closed." Catra whispers as she undoes the knot. She places two soft kisses on Adora's eyelids, one over each eye. “It’ll be bright.”

Adora lets put a soft noise of protest, even though she complies and now she’s laying on Catra's chest. "I want to see you."

"Just a few minutes." She places a soft kiss on Adora's forehead. "I love you."

She all but melts at that, her smile widening. "I love you too. So much." She sighs. "My wife." She murmurs.

She just basks in laying naked together for a few minutes, before nudging Adora. "Alright, you can open your eyes, if you wish."

Adora still squints to start but her eyes adjust and her gaze roves over Catra as if she'd never seen her before. "Gods, you're so beautiful."

Catra can admit she missed Adora's gaze on her. It's just so intimate, and Adora says so much with her eyes. When Catra looks into those blue eyes, she feels a level of connection she simply never has before.

She kisses Catra, one hand propping her up against the mattress and the other framing Catra's face.

"When we have a baby, I hope they have your eyes." Adora murmurs softly, her nose skimming Catra's jaw.

Catra makes a noise deep in the back of her throat. "That so?"

"Of course. Two of the most gorgeous colors, why wouldn't I want that?" Adora lets out a soft chuckle. "And your smile. Your laugh. Just a little Catra running around."

She hums. "That seems like a lot of work. I'm sure you were better behaved as a child."

Adora shakes her head. "Nothing that comes from you could ever be anything less than perfect."

It’s a strange feeling, to hear Adora say that because she can tell that her wife believes it—it’s both flattering but also feels undeserved. "You think much too highly of me."

"I'm in love with my wife." Her face is soft, some of her hair matted on her forehead from the blindfold.

For a moment, Catra lets herself imagine what they might look like—a child that belongs to them both. "I want them to have your blonde hair."

"Only if they get to have your curls." Adora tosses it back without even thinking too hard.

Catra laughs freely. "Is this a negotiation?"

"Perhaps." Adora grins and her eyes drop down to their torsos and back. "I wonder which one of us will carry them."

"I—I want it to be me." She'd thought about it a lot. She thinks she'd find it hard to believe if she wasn't holding their child inside of her. Catra eyes Adora for a moment. "Is that bad?"

"Not at all." Her smile widens and her fingers trail down until they touch Catra's belly. "I'm sure there would be no greater joy than watching you round with my child."

"You're going to be a fantastic mother."

"You think so?" There's doubt in Adora's eyes and she wishes to dispel it.

"I do. You're the most loving, caring soul I've ever known."

Catra never would have imagined this. When their marriage was first brokered, she believed that the best she'd ever get was a frigid alliance with the Eternian princess. The love that she and Adora share—it feels like a miracle all its own.

Adora shakes her head slightly, but her smile stretches her face. "You're going to be an amazing mother too."

Their foreheads are pressed together, and it feels like the love between them is pouring out of them, expanding between them. It's too much to hold. Catra feels the need to do something. To somehow show Adora how much she loves her.

Catra leans forward placing a kiss on Adora's lips. "I want to love you." She runs her fingers down the nape of her wife's neck, pulling her closer and kissing her deeper. "Let me?"

Adora nods her head. "Gods, you're everything to me." She mutters it roughly, almost like a curse.

It's hardly exciting as far as sex goes—their thighs slot together and they hold each other close, grinding back and forth as they kiss. Catra couldn’t tell if they spent fifteen minutes or an hour like this. All she knows is that it felt like a luxury.

Adora holds her eyes through it all, and they whisper into each other’s skin. About the hopes they have for the future, about the way it feels to be touching each other like this, about how much they love each other.

Their eyes only slam shut when they both orgasm, their peaks coming over them without much warning. Catra arches into Adora, their chests pressing together as they both moan out. It’s tender and sweet, and it fills a hole in Catra’s heart she didn’t even know she had.

Catra refuses to move from her place nestled against Adora’s collarbone. They're still spent and tangled together when Adora places a soft kiss on her head, tilting her chin so their eyes meet.

"Well, if that doesn't convince Etheria we deserve a child I don't know what will." Adora offers cheekily.

Catra rolls her eyes burrowing her head in Adora's collarbone. "Shush." She doesn't want to marry this moment with the cloud of worry that's been hovering over her for months now. "I'm just happy I have you."

Adora’s eyes fully soften, and she pulls Catra into a tight hug. “Me too, dearest.”

In two months’ time when they realize that Catra fell pregnant, Adora will tease her about which of all their multiple efforts was the one that created their child. Catra smiles and laughs along, but she is certain that she knows exactly when it happened.

End Notes

I have at least one more installment from this universe that I'd like to write but there might be more because they are just really fun to write. I'm not sure if I should keep these under the smut prompt series or if I should pull them into their own series? Let me know if you have thoughts.
