Even An Empress Needs Love

by TheStarGayzingEtherian

Summary

Ruling an empire is hard work, as the Empress Despara has learned. Fortunately though, it helps to have a consort, loyal and loving, to help relieve the pressures of leadership once in a while. (Catradora, Canon Divergent AU, Smut)

Running an empire seemed a lot harder to Adora when Hordak and Shadow Weaver were in charge. All that power at their disposal, their sheer force of fear keeping their loyal minions in line.

But those two were gone now and Adora had assumed leadership of the Horde, crowning herself Empress and using the powers at her disposal to lead the Horde to finally conquering the planet.

However, maintaining that dominion proved to be difficult. Even with the kingdoms of Etheria under Horde control and their rulers, the fabled Princesses all dead, some people of Etheria would not fully accept Horde dominance.

As such, various smaller rebel cells were turning into a thorn in Adora's side. They weren't organised, sure, but they were numerous enough to cause trouble, as one of her lieutenants was currently reporting.

"So you're trying to tell me that the rebels destroyed an entire refinery of ours?" Adora asked coldly, her blood-red gaze piercing the soul of the reptilian soldier bowing before her.

"Y-Yes, Empress Despara," the soldier replied, gulping fearfully. "They came at us out of nowhere! They were being led by-"

"I know who their leader is," the empress spoke up, silencing the cowering soldier. "That foolish archer who still mourns for his dead Queen. But his troops were much fewer compared to your forces, and you had an entire battalion at your command!"

"We didn't see them coming!"

"I don't want excuses, Lieutenant," Despara scowled. "I try to be a fairer ruler than my predecessors… but a failure of this degree is one I do not tolerate one bit. Maybe a few weeks in the dungeons will improve your performance."

"No, please!"

Despara raised her sword, red and infected. Once, it had been a symbol of the rebellion, of She-Ra, Etheria's guardian. But in Adora's hands, it now served as an instrument of her will and a symbol of her dark power.

"Get this slime out of my sight!" She ordered, pointing her weapon, as one of her most loyal Force Captains, Scorpia then grabbed the soldier, two other guards then restrained him before he was dragged from Adora's throne room.

Sighing, Adora sat back down on her throne and rubbed her forehead. Part of her regretted doing that. He probably was a very loyal soldier, as were all the troops under her command. But sometimes, people had to be made examples of.

As she sat and pondered what had just transpired, Adora noticed a familiar shape hiding behind a nearby pillar, two mismatched eyes, one blue and one gold gazing at her from the shadows.

Smirking, Adora turned her head to face the eyes. "And how long have you been back, my love?"

The woman those eyes belonged to, Catra, emerged from the shadows, her long black cape flowing behind her and energy whip at her side. She then smirked at Adora once she was fully in the light of the throne room. "Long enough, Empress Despara."

"Please, Catra," Adora replied, standing up and walking to her beloved. "It's just Adora to you and you alone."

After overthrowing Hordak and Shadow Weaver all those years ago, Adora had seen fit to take on a new name as well as a new title. Adora sounded too soft, not a name that struck fear into the hearts of one's enemies… as well as the fact she wanted nothing to remind her of the woman who'd abused her and Catra for so long, even the name said woman had given her.

But of course, Catra could call her whatever she wanted. It was a privilege Adora gave to no one else. As the consort bowed at Adora, the empress tilted Catra's chin up and looked into her lover's eyes.

The look from those eyes were one of the few things that were able to melt the empress's cold heart. She knew behind them was a woman who cared more about her than anyone, one who would defend her until their dying days.

Bringing Catra close, Adora kissed her lover deeply, wrapping her arms around her and dipping her slightly. It had been too long since she'd seen Catra again, too long had they been apart.

Catra purred and kissed back, wrapping her arms around Adora as tight as she could, stroking the empress's head of short blonde hair. If Catra were honest, she did miss the old hair poof and ponytail, but she had to admit… Adora looked very imposing with her new hair.

As she pulled apart, she then cleared her throat. "I take it you'll be wanting my report?"

Adora nodded. "If you don't mind."

The imperial consort cleared her throat. "Well, we've successfully cleared out the Crimson waste of the rebels loyal to Huntara. She's dead, I slew her myself. Her remaining forces have pledged their loyalty to me, and therefore, to the Horde. Is that satisfactory?"

An evil grin formed on Adora's face. That was the best news she'd heard all day. At least some people in her empire were actually getting things done. She embraced Catra again, her face radiating with light and a twinkle of joy in her red eyes.

"That is wonderful my love!"

"I try my best," Catra responded humbly. "That being said… is there anything I can help you with? You were seeming a little tense just now."

Caressing Catra's cheek, Adora looked into her lover's eyes. It had been a stressful day… and she did want to reward her consort for her service to the imperial throne. Desire began to build within her.

"As a matter of fact, there is," Adora whispered, before she pulled Catra into a kiss again. Catra moaned and clung to Adora, already know what Adora wanted and that she wanted the same.

The two of them kept making out in the throne room, Adora taking control as she always did and pushed Catra towards the throne. Catra moaned and clung on, Adora scooping her up with her muscular arms.

When they reached the throne, Adora pushed Catra onto it, still kissing her. She reached down and kissed her lover's neck, the consort whimpering as Adora reached down and began to remove the armour on Catra's legs.

The armour removed, Adora soon ripped off Catra's leggings and her underwear, revealing her pulsing, already erect member beneath. Adora wasn't surprised, Catra liked had been turned on watching her be commanding and dominant before.

Catra breathed, looking at her empress, feeling the euphoria flow through her. When she was a young cadet, dysphoria often plagued her, made her feel like she didn't deserve love or that nothing seemed right with her.

Adora knew that wasn't true. She knew Catra was beautiful, regardless of how the catgirl felt about her body. She loved her no matter what and would want no one else at her side. That gave Catra euphoria, knowing that she was loved, that she was wanted.

And now, Adora wanted to please her consort, to de-stress from a long day of imperial busywork. She bent down, licking her lips at the throbbing member before, Catra flushing bright red as Adora hungrily looked at her.

On the battlefield, Catra was a force to be reckoned with, a wild berserker who let nothing stand in her way, able to easily deal with opponents twice, even three times her size. Now though, she was putty in her empress's hands.

Seizing the chance, Adora clamped her lips around her lover's cock and began to suck hard, tasting the fur-covered length in her mouth. Catra whined and moaned aloud, feeling the power of Adora's mouth on her member.

Adora grabbed Catra's hips to steady her lover, still focusing on her shaft. Catra was still moaning, her claws scratching the metal of the throne as Adora kept pleasuring her. Adora didn't care, that would easily buff out.

No, she cared about Catra, the woman who'd been at her side every step of the way, the one who helped her bring down the wretched scum that was Shadow Weaver and Hordak, keeping a promise they'd made so long ago.

Still sucking as hard as she could, Adora could hear Catra's moaning getting huskier and huskier. She was close, very close, almost to the edge, but bless her soul Catra was trying to hold it back.

She was doing her best, wanting to make the best of this pleasure last as long as it could. But Adora knew Catra would give in eventually. And when she did, Adora would have the first taste of her release.

Arching her chest forward, Catra was desperate to come. She had been taken by Adora plenty of times before, loving how well she was treated by her empress. This time was no different, Catra knowing Adora would never hurt her… unless Catra wanted her to.

Still sucking as hard as she could, Adora could tell Catra was on the verge of giving in. There was too much pleasure to hold back.

She couldn’t keep herself on the edge forever. And then, it finally happened.

Catra moaned loudly as she finally came, firing her load down Adora’s throat, the empress not spilling a drop of it. Catra shook as she came down from her high, panting as Adora cleaned her up.

Pulling away, Adora grinned. “You taste as delicious as always, my love.”

“Glad I… don’t disappoint,” Catra panted, still very much out of breath. “Are you finished with me, my Empress?”

“Not if you don’t want me to be.”

“Absolutely fucking not.”

“Didn’t think so,” Adora smirked, before standing up. She then grabbed ahold of Catra and hoisted the catgirl over her shoulder, holding her with one hand and grabbing her sword in the other. “To the sanctum then!”

“Hey, put me down!” Catra laughed.

“Oh no, I’m not letting you get away from me,” Adora teased. “You’re too much of a valuable prize, my love.”

Catra just giggled, as Adora carried her down the hall out of the throne room, down towards the sanctum. Formerly Hordak’s personal laboratory, Adora had the room renovated into a suite for herself and Catra.

After all, being an Empress, she deserved to have a room fit for a royal. The room was a vast room, with a personal shower and other such accommodations, but the one that was most important for Adora was the large bed at its centre, its sheets red like the colour of blood.

Arriving at the bed, Adora plopped Catra onto it, the felid still dripping a little bit of juice which Adora got down and lapped up, making her lover whimper a little. She pulled away and then began to remove her armour, first by taking off her crown.

Peice by peice, Adora's green, grey and red armour was removed, until finally, Catra bore witness to the Empress's nude form. Her body was built like a muscular goddess, her eight-pack of abs on full display and her breasts finally free of the compressing binder that Adora wore beneath her chest place.

Every inch of Adora's body was covered in scars. Some minor cuts, other deep, gashing wounds that had long been healed, all from various battles over the years since she'd conquered the Horde, some even before then, like the scar over her eye and three cuts on her cheek, an injury Catra had given her as a child.

Catra likewise removed the remains of her own armour, presenting herself in her bare naked form to her empress. She lay down on the bed, legs spread out, arms above her head, her long brown hair laid out on the sheets.

She looked beautiful, her mismatched eyes gazing up at Adora from below. Truly, there was no more perfect a woman on Etheria or the rest of the universe. And every bit of her belonged to Adora.

Taking her infected red sword, Adora transformed it into a strap-on around her waist, her eyes red with the virus she'd long since tamed resonating with the blade of her personal weapon.

Getting closer to Catra, Adora reached her hand around her lover's cock, before raising her up and sliding the shaft of her new strap into Catra's rear. The felid moaned from the size of the member entering her from behind, Adora's hand still firmly grabbing her by the length.

Firmly in position, Adora began to thrust Catra from the rear, pleasuring the inside of her rump, while her hand moved up and down Catra's shaft, the empress giving her lover two avenues of pleasuring.

And Catra loved every second of it. As Adora was soon pounding and jerking her senseless, Catra was grabbing the sheets of the bed, moaning and screaming in joy as her empress completely dominated her.

Grinning wickedly, Adora picked up the pace, gripping the shaft of Catra's cock as if it were a weapon she was holding in her hand, her hand motioning up and down the shaft at a breakneck pace, much like her hips were thrusting the strap on.

Catra was overwhelmed with pleasure from both her member and her rear. She couldn't move, not that she wanted to. As far as she was concerned being right here was the perfect place she could be right now.

Her empress grunted, still pounding Catra senselessly from the rear, her other hand holding her hips firmly while her main hand never left its grip around her member. Nothing was going to stop Adora from making Catra come.

And come she soon would, as Catra could already feel her orgasm beginning to rise. Adora's eyes were glowing at the sight of her writhing beneath her, a devilish blood red that turned Catra on.

"Fuck!" Catra swore, as she felt Adora keep pounding her from her rear, breathing heavily. She let go completely, only Adora's pleasuring dominating her thoughts, the surge of pleasure ready to break free of the dam that was holding it back.

But Catra wouldn't be holding anything back for long. She wanted this, wanted to feel it the moment the orgasm came. She kept arcing up, panting as she could feel the orgasm get nearer and nearer with each passing second.

Panting more and more, Catra was pushed to the edge. There was no way in hell she could hold the wave she was holding in back even if she wanted to. She took in several deep breaths, trying to prepare herself.

But nothing could have prepared her for what happened, as thanks to both Adora's hand and her strap, Catra came, her member exploding with a massive gush of juice, coming all over herself and Adora's chest and hand as she did so.

"Adoraaaaaaaaaaa!!!!!" Catra cried out her lover's name, which only made Adora's eyes glow even deeper, savouring the moment Catra came. Truly, there was no perfect a sight in her eyes.

As Catra came down again, Adora slowly pulled herself, transforming her sword back from being a strap to its normal shape, discarding it to one side as she climbed atop Catra and began to kiss her.

Whimpering, Catra surrendered to her lover's dominant kisses, Adora moving her hand back down to the felid's length to tease it, as it twitched a little from how sensitive Catra was at the moment.

But, Adora wasn't finished with Catra yet. There was still one more thing she wanted from her beloved consort, something she knew Catra would give her without question, without any hesitation.

"My love," Adora growled lowly. "I want you to ride me. Do you have the strength for that?"

"Y-Yes…" Catra moaned a little. She sounded so adorable like this, so needy and breathy, which only made Adora desire Catra more.

As Adora commanded, Catra pulled away, Adora lying back on the bed, presenting her folds to Catra. Slowly and weakly, Catra climbed atop Adora, sliding herself inside of the empress, Adora moaning in delight.

"That's riiiiight," Adora purred. "Gooood girl."

Biting her lip, Catra nodded as she began to ride Adora, feeling her still-hard cock within Adora. Being called a good girl just turned her on more, sending waves of euphoria through her.

Adora moaned more, her firm hands grabbing Catra's hips as they began to move in motion with one another. She kept her eyes firmly locked on Catra, watching the catgirl pleasure her as best as she could.

Gently thrusting, Catra knew she didn't have much strength in her, but that was alright for Adora. She was still in control and knew Catra would do her best. Catra whimpered as she kept thrusting, her mind only focused on following her empress's command.

Still holding on tightly, Adora could feel her own orgasm getting closer by the second. Catra was doing so very, very well at this. She kept staring at her with pride, watching her gently thrust herself, her body flowing like it was made of water.

Catra moaned and panted, sweat beading from her brow as she felt her orgasm build. She wanted to please her empress, all that mattered to her was pleasing her empress. But she also knew she'd please her empress no matter what she did.

Because her empress loved her with all of her heart and soul.

Adora pushed forward, her hands bringing Catra closer to her. Catra whimpered and moaned, feeling Adora gently thrust back at her, around her length within the empress. She was close, desperately close.

"I love you… I love you…" Catra whispered.

"I know you do, my dearest," Adora whispered, panting a little. "Now… come inside me, like the good girl you are!"

"Yes! I will!" Catra moaned, thrusting Adora a little faster. Her wave soon began to rise higher and higher, until it eventually came down like a crashing tsunami, as Catra finally came inside Adora.

Screaming aloud, Catra came inside of the empress, Adora joining her, coming as well as her juices flowed around Catra's length. Both of them panted, Adora bringing Catra closer to her, sweat still covering their bodies.

Allowing Catra to pull out, Adora kissed her lover once more, deeply and softly, so very proud of her for making her climax. As Catra whimpered and mewled into the kiss, Adora caressed her gently.

Then, the two laid down together, still kissing, both women clinging to one another as Adora's muscular form held Catra. Eventually, the two of them parted, Catra still in a sleepy daze.

"Are… Are you okay now?" Catra asked, breathlessly

"Yes. You have no idea how much I needed that fuck," Adora remarked. "And you, my perfect Catra, were wonderful as always."

"I… live to serve," Catra jested, smirking a little, before she then nuzzled into Adora, the blonde stroking her long hair gently and letting her feel protected.

Ruling an empire was indeed hard, Adora wasn't going to deny that. But as far as she was concerned, as long as she had Catra ruling at her side, she knew she'd endure. Because love was a very powerful thing, after all.

End Notes

And finally, a dive into a varation on the famous Horde Lord Adora AU... though I personally don't really like the term Horde Lord. Doesn't fit right with me, hence why I have Adora be called Empress instead.
