five points (contact)

Posted originally on the Archive of Our Own at https://archiveofourown.org/works/85420241.

Rating:
Explicit

Archive Warning:
No Archive Warnings Apply

Category:
F/F

Fandom:
She-Ra and the Princesses of Power (2018)

Relationship:
Adora/Catra (She-Ra)

Characters:
Adora (She-Ra), Catra (She-Ra)

Additional Tags:
Canon Universe, Post-Canon, One Shot, Light Angst, Smut, Established Relationship, Trauma, BDSM, Dom/sub Undertones, Rough Sex, A Little Under-Negotiated But They're Good, Overstimulation, Oral Sex, Improper use of She-ra, I think that's the tag we came up with lol

Language:
English

Series:
Part 46 of Outside of the War - She-ra canon stories

Stats:
Published: 2026-05-24 Words: 8,636 Chapters: 1/1

five points (contact)

Posted originally on the Archive of Our Own at https://archiveofourown.org/works/85420241.

Rating:
Explicit

Archive Warning:
No Archive Warnings Apply

Category:
F/F

Fandom:
She-Ra and the Princesses of Power (2018)

Relationship:
Adora/Catra (She-Ra)

Characters:
Adora (She-Ra), Catra (She-Ra)

Additional Tags:
Canon Universe, Post-Canon, One Shot, Light Angst, Smut, Established Relationship, Trauma, BDSM, Dom/sub Undertones, Rough Sex, A Little Under-Negotiated But They're Good, Overstimulation, Oral Sex, Improper use of She-ra, I think that's the tag we came up with lol

Language:
English

Series:
Part 46 of Outside of the War - She-ra canon stories

Stats:
Published: 2026-05-24 Words: 8,636 Chapters: 1/1

five points (contact)

by n7punk

Summary

Catra had some fantasies during the war she likes to pretend she never had about her enemy, and they shouldn't matter now because it's over and they're not even enemies anymore, but sometimes her body forgets that. Sometimes she misses things she never should, and certainly things she doesn't want to say.
Adora is the love of her life because she was molded by the same system that made Catra find a tackle more romantic than a love declaration.

Notes

Content warning: BDSM, brat taming, rough sex, under negotiation but with consent. We're going to examine some trauma and get fucked in the process over here lol

See the end of the work for more notes

There are many things deeply wrong with Catra and she has spent most of her life ignoring them. There have also been many problems in her life and unfortunately things did get better once she started facing them head on, but some things don't feel like they can be fixed. She doesn't mean that in the nihilistic way Perfuma accuses her of using it when she does, kind of, mention she has things wrong with her head. This isn't about self-doubt, or anxiety, or even jealousy, all things she felt all the time and that caused problems all the time. She's working on those, but this is something that's wrong with her down to her core and she just ignores, because it's gross, and pathetic, and unfixable. It's a result of her experience, of twenty years of feeling unwanted, and if it's ever going to go away, it's going to take another twenty.

Sometimes she felt like Adora wanted her more when she hurt her.

It's not correct and not a single part of her thinks it is, but there's a part of her that was permanently scarred by the environment she grew up in, where you had to take what you wanted, fight to keep it, and never said it, because then someone might use it against you. You don't say I love you to people you actually love, that's too dangerous. You tackle them, you pretend to wrestle for training, you hold them down for just a moment too long, you want them so bad you pin them against a tree to give a stupid fucking speech about morals trying to get them to stick around a little longer so you can have them.

Wanting isn't something soft, or sweet, or vulnerable – it's taking what you want before someone else can. It's digging her claws into Adora's shoulders at night so she can't leave the bed without feeling the wince of pain and yelping too loudly, risking getting them overheard in the bunkroom, and sure, Catra would be the one punished for it, but Adora would be the one berated for it, and like with vulnerable emotions, that's worse than just getting beat.

It’s not that she thinks Adora doesn’t love her when she says she does, or that she doesn’t love her more than anyone else in the world, even. It’s that her body understand She-ra’s hands grabbing her, pulling her across the terrain as Catra tries to claw away, and swinging for a hit when she wriggled free, better than she understands the soft hand that brushes her bangs out of her eyes now. It’s that she feels more wanted when Adora gets a little too into it while the sparring, when she gets too excited while they’re playing chase and tackles her. Today, it was honestly just a cocky smirky thrown her way after dinner, the kind of smirk that probably was supposed to be bragging and proud but the desperate part of Catra’s mind read as the confidence she could, would, make Catra hers if she needed.

Catra needs it, because her body understands expressing want more than words expressing love, and when she feels wanted, that’s when she truly convinces herself that she’s loved. She has loved people she didn’t want around her. She knows for Adora, she both love and wants, but her body only understands the love.

Adora is onto her immediately, because Catra’s tail lashes, and Adora smirks more. It couldn’t be more obvious when they step out of dinner and Melog splits off to wander down the hall, away from them and away from their room. Adora grins, reaching for Catra’s hand as her tail lashes and she looks away, trying not to blush but letting Adora lead them back to their room.

She’s walking too slowly. There’s a happy bounce in her step, but Catra is desperate and she needs desperation back.

The thing about being wanted, about being taken because you can’t stand not having it, is that Catra hates losing. She hates failing. She hates not having control. She hates being overpowered.

Except when it’s Adora. It’s the only language she understands. She hates when she gets desperate like this. What she needs is Adora to want her back this way, not for her to just follow along when Catra asks for more, but the problem is, Adora knows how much she hates not having control. She acts honored sometimes that Catra even wants to have sex with her. And sure, Adora tops often and even prefers it, but it's not the same as what Catra wants right now, something that would send her into a panic attack on a bad day.

The second they're through the bedroom door, Catra pounces on her, and just hopes she'll understand. Hopes the way she bites her lip before even kissing her, tugging Adora back towards the bed by the bite as she gives a small cry and it slips between Catra's teeth, is enough to communicate that she wants it rough and not just to be rough herself. Hopes grabbing Adora's hands to pull her further and then placing them on her own body as they reach the bed communicates whatever Catra wrapping her arms around her and falling backwards so Adora looms over her doesn't. Hopes the way she kisses her so forcefully and tries to pull her closer with a small growl is enough when combined with her legs coming up to wrap around Adora's waist. Just be enough.

"You could barely wait through dinner, huh?" Adora pants against her lips and Catra arches her back a little, pushing her tits up against Adora's. Yes. If she's honest, she's been waiting for days, but all their sex lately has been nice or sweet or at the very least normal and not involved Adora fucking Catra so hard she doesn't even notice when Catra's claws rake down her back.

It's the language her body understands, after all, and that means violence is the best way to show love as much as it is to feel it. It's part of the problem, really. Adora likes when Catra gets like that, but she's willing to do it back less, because she cares about her and doesn't want to hurt her or something. Stupid.

On the average day Catra wouldn't even like it, but she's kind of getting so horny she can't think right now. She ducks her head and bites Adora's neck, hard. Adora releases a small cry, her hips stuttering. Catra groans, digging her teeth in harder. Adora whimpers, sound pathetic, and something in Catra flares. If Adora won't take her, letting Catra be the one to do it means she loves her, too, even if it's not what she wants. Teeth still buried in Adora's neck, she arches her back, shifting her hips beneath her. The movement tugs on her teeth in Adora's neck and this time the sounds that releases from her is pained – just pained.

"Fuck, Catra, that's too high. Give me a second," Adora pants out, voice ragged. Catra growls. Too high? Too visible above the collar of her shirt? If she won't make Catra hers, she's still Catra's. Adora reaches a hand up when Catra won't let go and grabs the tip of her ear. Oh. Catra moans as Adora tugs on it, not nearly as harsh as Catra wants her to be with the rest of her, but the right pressure for her ears. Catra releases her neck just so she can pant and recover.

"You're in a bratty mood, huh?" Adora asks like she plans on fixing that. Catra shivers, reaching for Adora's wrist and dragging it down as Adora quickly releases her ear. She fumbles a little as Catra drags her hand over her chest, and back up her body. It feels so good to have Adora's hands on her, claiming, even Catra is the one actually doing it. An excited growl shivers out of her and then melts into a purr when Adora runs her hand back down her body voluntarily and tucks it beneath her shirt. Catra arches up into it as Adora feels her up, shoving her shirt up along the way. Yes, yes. Catra starts to duck forward to bite her again and suddenly Adora's hand that was bracing boave her finds her shoulder, pinning Catra back against the mattress as she uses all of her body weight to both support herself and hold Catra back.

"Demanding. You have to wait. You can get as rough as you want with my shoulder," Adora promises, but her shoulder is covered right now and Catra needs to be inside her right now even if it's just by biting her hard enough she leaves black bruises with her fangs. It's more intimate than fucking her, in a way.

Catra whimpers. Sometimes that gets her what she wants, and she sees Adora's eyes widen, looking down at her like she's some kind of marvel as she keeps moving her other hand back down her body. Catra squirms when Adora's fingers tuck around the waistband of her leggings, pulling them down some, but despite Catra shifting her hips to help, Adora only pulls them down a few inches before her hand is moving back up her body, fingers threading through her fur as it achingly slides over her. Despite the hand on her shoulder, it's too sweet, it's not enough.

"Adora," she pants, and her voice is a little pathetic, but maybe that will make Adora want her? Something weak deserves to be overpowered, she learned this lesson her entire life. Adora's eyes flash dark and this time when she hooks her hand under Catra's shirt, she seems set on bunching it up under her armpits, but to fully remove it would mean letting her shoulder go and Catra really can't be trusted right now.

"What do you want?" Adora asks her. A purr fills the air between them and Adora smiles and fuck, harder isn't an appropriate response to that give Adora isn't even doing anything, but it's the only one her brain conjures nonetheless. Adora's eyes are so bright as they look down at her, and Catra opens her mouth, but she's so aware of the strength of Adora's hand on her shoulder as she looks down at her, and all that comes out of her mouth is an even louder purr.

"Kitten," Adora says, voice teasing and horny and excited and enough to make Catra moan. Oh, she needs it. She needs all of it. She still can't admit what's wrong with her, but maybe she can get what she wants anyway.

"I want you on top of me," she manages. On top, pinning down, taking. Wanting. Please.

"Yeah?" Adora asks, voice eager as she shifts forward a little to give herself more leverage to press their pelvises together. Catra whines, trying to shift her hips for friction, but not getting it in the right place. Having more of Adora's weight on her is good, but not enough, not even when Adora's hand squeezes and fondles her chest as it runs over her. Adora's hands are hot and needy, but not harsh and claiming like Catra wants. How does she say that, though? How does she say feel like you want me when this is how everybody but Catra would show it?

Hurt me, but don't. Stupid, useless, fucked up. She wants a fight in bed, that's how broken she is. She wants Adora to take her like she won, like Catra lost but with Adora, that's a safe thing to do.

Oh. So something is still wrong with her, but it's maybe a different thing than she thought before. She swallows. She draws in a shaking breath, then out, watching Adora's brow slowly furrow as she senses the change in Catra, her hand on her chest going a bit slack. Losing what little demanding pressure there was feels a bit like being stabbed through the chest.

Catra reaches down and covers Adora's hand, guiding it up her body again. This time she drags it up, over her chest, past the edge of her shirt, over her heart, to her collar bones. Adora's fingertips brush against her throat and Catra stops, eyes falling closed as she swallows heavily, breathing uneven now.

She doesn't need a fight, she needs to lose. She needs Adora to show her that she's always okay, she's always wanted, she's always hers. Adora lets out a slow, weighty breath, like she knows the turmoil Catra is going through right now as she holds her palm on Catra's sternum totally still beneath Catra's hand. Her fingertips are barely in contact with the edge of Catra's throat, but still almost bruising.

Catra almost shoves her hand further up. Instead she lets her own fall away, dropping it to the mattress and leaving Adora free to wrap her hand around her throat completely unhindered if she wants.

It should be weird and unclear, but Catra explicitly told Adora not to touch the front of her throat with her hand the first time she accidentally triggered memories of the multiple times she has been choked when Adora was just trying to tilt her head back into a better angle. Kisses are okay along the sides, and nuzzling into it is fine as long as she's careful, but her hands? That's frightening, and when Adora is trained to avoid it, it becomes clear how close Catra has brought her to violating it. They're both breathing heavily, suddenly still, and Adora is still holding Catra's shoulder down with her body weight. When she touches her throat, it's going to be so much, but she thinks it's what she needs.

"What do you want?" Adora asks again, and this time it's a quiet whisper, given the weight it deserves. Catra swallows again, and it bobs her throat just barely against Adora's fingertips. The invitation is so blatant. It's right there. Open, vulnerable, something she would only give Adora because she's so scared of it from anyone else.

"I want it hard. Like when we would fight. When you used all your strength to hold me down," Catra finally manages. It's the best she can do to describe what's going on in her head, because it's all a confusing jumble and hard to admit. Adora is silent for a long moment. Catra is afraid of how she's looking down at her – like she's broken, like she pities her, like she has been waiting for this moment. That last one is just a delusion to distract from how she could say no and tell her that she's exactly as fucked up as she is.

"Safeword?" Adora asks, tone of voice giving nothing away. Catra's next breath quivers in her chest with anticipation.

"Red for stop, pink for slow, blue for go," she dutifully repeats. Things are safe with Adora, she wouldn't be the only one who knew about her colorblindness for years if not and they certainly wouldn't be using it for safewords.

Adora leans down and drops a light kiss to the hollow of Catra's throat and she sucks in a breath.

"Okay. I'm not going to touch your throat," Adora says, dragging her hand down Catra's body in a rough, forceful path. A purr explodes in the room as Catra gasps, raising her chest even higher into Adora's hands, and opens her eyes. Adora's gaze is already locked on hers, eyes burning as she wraps her hand around Catra's waist and shifts to be pressing her body weight down on both hands so Catra can feel pinned. Catra suddenly finds herself breathing hard, body recovering from the slow breaths she was taking unconsciously from the hand's proximity.

Maybe you don't always have to face your fears.

Adora's hand tucks into her waistband and pulls down again, much harsher than before. This time Catra doesn't help her, either, and her leggings end up not going far because Catra's legs are still wrapped around Adora, preventing her from really exposing her. Adora stops, tilting her head slightly to consider her. Catra's eyes find their way to the bitemark on her neck. She wants to make it darker, make it worse, but she knows what Adora meant about it being too high, now. That spot would hurt. Every spot hurts, but Adora finds it hot, most of the time. The shoulder would make her feel more of the good pain and less of the suffocation.

She still let Catra do it, though, unlike Catra who practically tried to shove Adora out of the bed when she touched her neck.

"You want me to make you take it off," Adora says, slowly, not making it a question because it would be a stupid one, but still saying it nonetheless, because she does that a lot when Catra is being a brat, her own way to check consent while still, ultimately, making Catra feel like she's ordering her around. Catra blushes, squirming a little underneath her.

No, she doesn't. She never wants to be made to do anything. She just also wants Adora to rip her clothes off for her and take her rough. Do you see why it's hard for her to say what she wants?

"No, I want you to do it," Catra says. Adora arches a brow at her, and for a moment Catra thinks she won't understand the difference, or that she'll ruin the mood to check in again when she just confirmed their safewords and Catra certainly hasn't called them, but then Adora shifts so she can support some weight on her knees and finally releases Catra's shoulder. Catra swallows, blinking up at Adora slowly as, deliberately, Adora drags both hands down her body, touch heavy and possessive. Catra's lashes flutter and then turn wide when Adora suddenly grabs her thighs and pulls them apart. Catra kicks her legs trying to wrap them back around her waist, but Adora grabs the underside of both her thighs right under her knees and shoves them up, pinning her legs back against the bed on either side of her waist and leaving her completely spread open as Catra flushes a dark shade.

She's covered mostly by her leggings and completely by her underwear. She's still dressed, but she feels more naked than when she woke up this morning in Adora's arms, skin-to-fur. Adora holds her gaze, eyes smoldering, and then slowly, she smirks.

"Take them off and I'll let your legs go," Adora tells her, and Catra's mouth drops open. Adora grins as Catra gapes up at her, somehow shocked by her audacity. Adora hums to herself, which is when Catra realizes she's still purring, and then she manages to close her mouth finally, but her face is still burning. She feels so exposed, and it's hot, but she also wants it to stop. Really, she just wants something else. This is the embarrassing kind of shame she feels when Adora makes her present herself, because she never does it on purpose, but it's so hot when Adora makes her do it.

Usually she's actually naked at this point, but Adora's eyes drag down her body to land between her legs like she is and Catra realizes she's probably visibly wet through her clothes. Somehow, that's more embarrassing than being naked, and Catra reaches down to awkwardly wiggle the waistband of her leggings and underwear over her ass so she can pull them both up, exposing herself but tugging them up to where Adora's hands are pinning her down, getting stuck on Adora's grip.

"Adora," Catra whines, embarrassed, because Adora's eyes haven't moved any more than her hands have.

"Good girl," Adora says, still not looking up, and then she leans down and puts her mouth directly on her, Catra letting out a small cry in shock as Adora's tongue runs up her slit, feeling like her tongue can part her completely as she reaches the top and wraps her lips around her clit. You can't call a noise as high-pitched as Catra makes a moan, but Adora laps her tongue against her like it is. Catra wants to scream as Adora's tongue works against her.

Finally, Adora's hands release her thighs, and Catra scrambles to pull her leggings off the rest of the way so finally her legs can fall, her thighs wrapping around Adora's head this time. Catra moans, reaching down for Adora's ponytail and taking back a little control herself as she tries to direct her and arch up into her mouth. Adora's mouth is nothing but hot and eager. Catra feels like she's on fire, suddenly, and it's crazy that it's so good, but it's still not what she wants. Adora is giving her everything, letting Catra arch up and fuck her face, and still the pathetic part of her isn't calmed and the greedy part can't get enough.

"A- Adora." Well, that came out way more pathetic and breathy than she intended it to, and Adora groaning right into her clit makes her gasp and twitch her hips, but fuck, fuck. What was she- fuck. Right. Her hand finds Adora's ponytail.

She snaps it. It's the quickest way to annoy her – to challenge her, in this case, especially since it only makes this specific act harder. Adora still doesn't stop right away, and for a second Catra thinks she's going to actually have to say what she wants, but then Adora rises, her eyes meeting Catra's immediately as her hand rises to wipe at the corner of her mouth, and for once, Catra lets her legs go slack and Adora pull away from her easily because that wasn't really where she wanted her.

Also, the dark look in her eyes as her hand glistening with spit and Catra's slick falls away makes Catra's muscles stop functioning for a moment, everything going slack. Is it crass to say she could take Adora's entire hand right now? Because it kind of feels like it. Maybe she doesn't actually need to be pinned down to feel truly wanted because, her entire world is Adora's eyes right now, blue filling her vision.

Too much blue.

“Color?” Adora asks, her voice low and rough. Her hair is golden as it spills around her shoulders now.

Adora’s hand, maybe. She-ra’s, she’s not so sure of.

It would be so fun to try. Catra closes her eyes against the light.

“Blue,” she offers. The gold against her eyelids is less of a flashbang than usual as the tingle of magic buzzes in the air, and then the hands that wrap around her are larger, stronger, and before she can slit her eyes open, she’s being lifted in the air. She squeaks, eyes flying open as she scrambles for a moment, but then she’s face-to-face with She-ra, Adora’s arm hooking under her thighs so she can hold Catra sitting up against her chest, looking up at her as Catra’s hands find her shoulders to steady herself.

There’s so much fucking blue in those eyes, in the gentle heat of them as they look up at her, gold forever shaped after her framing Adora’s cheeks. The ponytail is back despite Catra’s best efforts. There’s a brightness in Adora’s eyes and a quickness in how they dart over Catra’s face before it fades, a slight smile tugging at her lips as her eyes lid.

“On the bed, the floor, or the wall?” Adora asks her, conversationally. Catra flushes even worse, tail jerking and ears jolting straight up. Adora only smirks at her obvious embarrassment. Fuck, fine, she wants Adora in charge but not like this, not in the way where she’s teasing and coy with Catra.

This is what she loves about her. She falls forward to kiss Adora while she swallows down her kneejerk reaction and Adora meets her instantly, licking into her mouth without hesitation, because she hasn’t got her fill of tasting her yet, apparently. Fuck, that makes Catra ache.

Fuck, that was how Adora wanted her. That was exactly what Catra wanted to happen, she just got lost in it.

She maybe never knows what she wants. She certainly thought she wanted to rule the Horde for years. When she pulls back from the kiss, Adora makes a vague noise of disappointment, but she doesn't stop her when Catra ducks her head and presses her face against the cool gold wrapped around Adora's throat, protecting it in a way that Catra's has never been protected.

Without much intent, Catra pretends to bite it, which produces more of a jolt of discomfort in her teeth than she thought it would at that pressue and a frankly comical tink sound that makes a laugh bubble out of Adora, shoulder's jumping against Catra's cheek. Catra growls her displeasure at being laughed at and Adora shifts her hand just enough that she can stroke her fingers over where Catra's thigh meets her ass, just a few inches from where Catra needs her, and fuck, one thing she doesn't want is to be teased. She doesn't want to wait longer at all.

"Take me how you want," Catra says. Adora's hand doesn't move closer and it doesn't even stroke again. Catra feels like she's going to die.

"Catra, we've talked about this," Adora says in a voice that is more teasing and good-natured than anything, but Catra scowls. They have and Adora hasn't gotten it, hasn't understood that when Catra says that, Adora making her say something specific ruins it.

"You've fantasized about this, I know you have. So take it," Catra growls back, and Adora still doesn't move. Suddenly Catra's heartbeat is filling her own ears.

What if she hasn't? What if Catra was the only one perverted enough to trespass in the corner of her mind she tried to keep locked up during the war and fantasize about She-ra doing more when she caught her than giving her speeches? What if that's so fucked up that she's the only one who would want to fuck and fight at the same time? She knows she can't have been, not with how much she has already tied Adora up and been pinned down by her, but what if this is too far for her?

“Pink. Look at me,” Adora orders and Catra screws her eyes shut.

“No,” she says. Adora pauses.

“I’m not going to make you when pink has been called,” she says. Catra growls against her throat. “Please,” Adora adds, her voice softer. Catra presses her face closer, nuzzling up until her nose and mouth are against Adora’s pulse point, breathing her in. Adora tilts her chin to the side a little bit, so she’s allowing it, and that makes Catra relax a little bit, managing to purr beneath it.

It still doesn’t feel like enough.

“I know you don’t want to say it, Catra. But it feels like you’re asking me for something I- I can’t do,” Adora says. Catra screws her face up, dropping it to hide in her unyielding shoulder again.

So she is too fucked up. Anxiety aside, she kind of can’t believe it. Adora likes when she buries her claws in her skin, but she can’t do the same?

“Oh,” Adora breathes. Fuck. So fucked up and so obvious. Adora licks her lips. “Okay,” she says and Catra stills.

“Okay?” she manages to ask. It can’t be.

“I- I mean I can’t do it unless we talk about it first? Like, tell me exactly what you want and then… I’ll do it, but I can’t just do it, and I know that’s what you want – I mean, I think that’s what you want, if I really knew that was what you wanted maybe I could, but- Uh, usually you stop me by now,” Adora rambles. Catra blinks, lashes fluttering against the cool metal of She-ra’s armor. Slowly, she lifts her head.

The anxious girl she fell in love with meets her eyes, peering up at her like she’s worried what Catra might say to her despite how Catra is the one half-naked, suspended in the air, surrounded by the magic of a literal fucking goddess who won’t even fuck her after asking multiple times without another third, fourth, fuck they might be on the fifth assurance by now.

Catra feels like she's on fire and it's not in a sexy way this time, but it might feel good anyway. Adora's expression looks a little less anxious now she has seen Catra's reaction to… everything that just fell out of her mouth, but she's still biting her lip. She-ra looking anxious is still a ridiculous expression, and yet she's aiming it up at Catra. Has Catra mentioned that she couldn't reach the floor right now if she wanted to?

She definitely doesn't want to, but she thinks that if she moved her legs right now, Adora would put her down in an instant. She groans, tilting her head back and looking up at Adora's stupid orange ceiling.

"In those fantasies you were a little clearer about what you wanted, you know," Adora lightly jokes and Catra makes… a noise. A noise that she will deny until she dies if that's what it takes.

Adora just might kill her. Catra swallows heavily. She has basically died before. She can say like… two sentences. It won't kill her. Frankly, Adora has admitted more embarrassing shit, Catra is just more ashamed of this, because it's so far from who she is, what she likes, and what she even wants on an average day.

She has had enough non-average days in quick succession to lead them here. She swears next week she's going to pin Adora down and make her beg to come. Not today.

"I liked it when you would throw me around sometimes," Catra says. Maybe looking at the ceiling was a mistake, because Adora apparently doesn't have much to say about that. She probably just doesn't want Catra to stop talking. Catra loves to stop.

"When you didn't have to say what you wanted," Adora finally tacks on the thing she needs clarified so badly and Catra makes that stupid fucking noise that has no place existing again.

"When you wanted something from me badly enough to take it," Catra corrects. Well. There was certainly a less fucked up way to say that. The silence that stretches between them has no right existing, either.

Suddenly Adora's arm shifts and Catra is being put down. She panics for a minute, scrambling, and then her head falls back against the mattress and she's blinking up at Adora, their faces inches apart as Adora comfortably shifts to brace her forearm on the bed, in no hurry with She-ra's core strength to support her but settling in for the long haul. Her eyes traveling over Catra's face and feel like they're tracing over her skin, a shiver running through her.

"You know enough about what I like. I know I like what you do. I trust you, so just- stop asking," Catra finally says, which is more sentences in one shot than she wanted to utter for this, but fuck, she needs this, and it finally feels like it's close. Adora- She-ra licks her lips as her eyes meet hers.

"I'll drag you around a little, but I need you to say pink if it's not what you want. You didn't say it when I was eating you out," Adora says and Catra blushes badly. Maybe it's good that she still has her shirt on, she feels like the color would be as obvious on every inch of her as it is on Adora.

"But it was what you wanted," Catra returns, a realization she didn't have until it stopped, but Adora's eyes blink at her, wide, as she looks down at her with the same light dawning in her eyes.

Adora's free hand lands on her hip, bunching up in her shirt, but she doesn't do anything more with it.

"Blue," Adora returns, and oh, it's a high that Adora doesn't press further, that she understands.

And that she still doesn't move, even though she was the one to call pink. Catra lets out a shaky breath.

"Blue," she agrees, and immediately Adora's mouth is on hers. Catra moans against her lips, only parting long enough for Adora to pull her shirt over her head, and then Catra is being pinned by her mouth as much as everything else. She wraps her legs around Adora's waist, drinking in every needy kiss, because this, this is exactly what she wanted, surrounded by Adora as her mouth is hot and demanding on her.

Well, half of what she wanted, because she also wants Adora inside her so badly she feels like she's missing a part of her own body, but she can be patient for like… fifteen more seconds as Adora's hands run roughly over her, feeling along her body, and how is she doing that, because it feels like she's touching her for the first time, truly exploring in a way she can't be after this long together. Adora's actual first time touching her was so shy and far from this it's laughable to even compare them, but it feels like she's searching her.

It's only when Adora's hand, large enough thanks to She-ra, wraps around her thigh that Catra realizes Adora was looking for what it was that she wanted right now, what her fantasy for this moment was. If she's projecting, she doesn't care, not when a purr erupts out of her when Adora's other hand wraps around her waist and then she's dragging Catra down the bed until she's barely on it, legs scrambling to lock around Adora for safety as everything lower than her tail loses all support.

All support but Adora's hand wrapped around her thigh. When Adora pulls back from the kiss, she wears a similar expression as she did when she was lifting her head from between her legs, a smear of Catra's spit on her lip this time as she leans back and settles between them again. Catra flushes.

"Are you serious?" she asks as she awkwardly twists her arms trying to find somewhere on the bed she can hang on to. Adora quirks a brow and pulls Catra legs away from her waist. Catra gives a small anxious whimper as Adora kneels between them and Adora's eyes flash. As soon as Adora's knees are on the floor, she hooks each of Catra's legs over her shoulder so she can comfortably support her and Catra blows out a steady breath again, looking down her body at Adora. It still feels like she's going to fall.

"I'm not going to let you fall," Adora promises her, and then she presses a kiss to Catra's thigh, cool metal sending a small shock through her as Adora's mask brushes against her. Catra shivers, closing her eyes as she manages to tangle her hand in the cover on one side and then brace herself backwards on the other hand. She really has no leverage. It feels precarious. Adora could drag her wherever she wants like this.

Which is to say, it's much better than the last time Adora ate her out.

"Blue," Catra says like she's mad about it as she lets her head fall back against the mattress. Adora is used to her brattiness in bed and doesn't take it seriously, instead groaning at the permission to taste her again, and it feels like it travels into her body and up her spine when Adora's tongue runs over her. Maybe Adora has gotten the message enough, or maybe it's just what she wants, because this time she presses her tongue into Catra and Catra whines, shifting her hips. Adora's hand splays on her lower back, supporting her just beside her tail, her fingertips curling against its base as Catra shivers and whines, shifting her hips up and down against Adora's mouth, maybe working with her or maybe working against her, but she is turned on enough for it to not really matter, she could come just from desperate grinding against Adora's nose, and for a minute she thinks that's all that she's going to get and lets herself get lost in it, focusing on the pressure and Adora's hand on her back, on the weightlessness that surrounds everything but Adora.

Then Adora's tongue drags up again and her other hand releases Catra's thigh to instead press between them. Catra cries out, desperately rolling her hips down as finally, finally, something like peace spreads through her, Adora's lips sealed around her clit and three fingers pressing into her hard. She's doing that thumping thing she does with her fingers sometimes where she never really pulls them out, because the friction of that can be painful for Catra sometimes – not right now, certainly, she doesn't know she has ever been wetter when they were actually naked – instead curling her fingers against her inside, straightening them, and doing it again, hard.

She invented it just for Catra, she told her, because Adora likes to be fingerfucked just fine, and Catra might be crying, she's certainly gasping and seeing stars as Adora sucks hard against her and leans back a little to pull Catra even further off her bed until only her shoulders have any hope of contributing to keeping her from falling to the floor without Adora's touch on her back, fingertips starting to massage in small circles.

She thinks that's what does it. Honestly, she's not really processing time right now, so maybe it's immediate and maybe it's ten minutes later. She doesn't even process the noises coming out of her throat until the wave is rolling past her.

The moment of calm before the next wave crests in certainly doesn't feel like a real passage of time. The only thing she really feels is a searing pleasure pounding out from Adora's touch – every one of Adora's touches – until it spills through her entire body and she's coming again.

She comes down long enough to hear how pathetic her moans and whimpers are, honestly more pitiful than what she would let out when she was actually in pain on the battlefield, which… yeah, tracks.

Adora doesn't stop. Adora doesn't lift her head, instead starting to move her fingers a little more, strokes small and most pressure coming from her fingertips still, but Catra cries out anyway, bucking her hips and throwing her head back as another orgasm builds and her hearing whites out a little with it.

There are definitely tears rolling down her cheeks. She can hear that she's crying, and Adora's fingers don't stop.

Her mouth does, though, and everything feels cold for a moment. Then it returns, just for a moment, as Adora kisses her clit the exact same way she did her throat earlier, soft and sweet and innocent.

"You're really pretty when you cry for me. Color?" Adora asks. All the noises Catra has made so far don't come anywhere close to the volume – or pitch – of the moan that bursts out of her from shock, eyes flying open. Catra manages to get enough purchase to look down her body at Adora to find her smirking, heat dancing in her eyes. She holds eye contact as she kisses Catra's thigh this time.

"Color," she reminds. Catra entire body is on fire. She aches – in a too much and more way in equal measure. She could say it's enough. It could be enough.

When has anything ever been enough for her?

"Blue," Catra says, getting just a moment to savor the grin that spreads on Adora's face before she's moving again. Catra makes an affronted noise as Adora pulls out of her, but it gets strangled at the end when Adora runs her tongue over her own fingers now, meeting her eyes as she presses them into her mouth and sucks them clean.

As if. Catra can still see the trace of slick spread between them as she pulls them out and apart, but then much more of Adora is moving than just her hand and Catra suddenly has to scramble as Adora's hands wrap around her and she's being dragged up the bed just enough that she can be flipped over without falling off.

"Adora!" Catra huffs, maybe a complaint, but maybe too breathy for one. Maybe too muffled for one since the end of it is said into the bedspread, but even mid-movement, she feels a lot more solid with more of it beneath her to brace against, the edge of the mattress at her waist now rather than her armpits.

Adora's hand wraps around the base of her tail. Oh. Her other arm hooks under her hips. Oh. Adora is still kneeling, but she has raised up on her knees as she shoved Catra forward, so now Catra is too low to hook her legs over her shoulders and at a terrible angle to get her legs around her waist, feeling more solid but more dependent on Adora's hold as she kicks her feet, trying to find something-

Adora's hand leaves her tail and wraps around her shin, gently guiding it down to the floor. Oh. She feels stupid as she splays her toes on the floor, having to arch her foot to get any support, but it's solid ground beneath her even if she has to point her foot for it. She carefully kicks her other foot down, somehow still not trusting leaning too much of her weight in that direction, and Adora's hand crosses over her body to wrap around that ankle instead, planting it down as firmly as she can with her feet arched like this and holding Catra there for a moment, convincing her it's solid and safe.

Then Adora's hand is wrapped around her tail again and she's pulling her up to her mouth with both her tail and the arm hooked under her hips keeping her from truly supporting herself, and Catra cries into the bedspread because her feet do almost leave the ground as Adora runs her tongue over her again and cold metal shocks against her thighs. It can't be easy to eat her out from this angle, but Adora doesn't stop as Catra struggles a little against the bedspread, whimpering and weak from the earlier orgasms as she tries to get her arms under her.

Adora has run her tongue over her in achingly slow motions four times before Catra manages to get her elbows under her enough to lift her head and gasp for breath, blinking at their bedroom wall with tears still in her eyes. Adora's hand tightens on her tail. Her ass lifts a little higher and Catra whimpers. Adora groans against her pussy and fuck, fine, she can do whatever she wants. This feeling, this exact feeling, is what she was chasing earlier and too twisted up to even name, so she gave it something worse, but this is it, this was always it.

Adora knew that when she didn't. She gasps for several long seconds, interrupted twice by moans, before she gathers herself enough to look back.

Adora's eyes don't meet her, closed as she focuses wholly on working her mouth against Catra and Catra moans, sound louder from how she has her neck stretched to look back.

Adora's eyes open. Catra stops feeling much of anything but hot as Adora's burning gaze holds hers, not looking away as her tongue presses into her. Catra almost loses all strength in her arms and collapses again, but no, no, that comes when Adora's fist flexes around her tail and she pulls her hips back higher, burning stress radiating out from Adora's hand, but it feels as good as Catra's fangs buried in her shoulder, and Catra cries out, letting her shoulders go limp so she can slump forward again, fisting the blanket in her hands and stretching onto the tip of her toes to give herself any support at all, because Adora's arm crossed under her hips has remained strong and steady to catch her but didn't raise along with her fist when she dragged her up. It's all so much and too much to focus on and that just brings her back to Adora's mouth again, and again, and again, in no position to give herself leverage and push back when she needs that extra fraction of pressure to come.

She comes when Adora decides it has been enough and no sooner, surrounded by desperate pressure, and tugging, and sucking, and tensing her muscles until they lock and finally, finally, Adora presses the flat of her tongue hard enough, long enough, for Catra to maybe scream and certainly have every part of her lock up and jerk, too much happening to really register when she loses purchase on the ground, but Adora's arm was always there for as little as it was doing, and she holds her, supporting Catra the most she has been cradled in what feels like hours as she holds her mouth there and lets Catra gasp and twitch and jerk her hips back against her mouth with every shockwave of pleasure that runs through her until finally, in all the panting, she manages to gasp out:

"Adora." It's small, barely audible, but Adora has been waiting for it, because she finally pulls her mouth away, letting go of her tail so both arms can wrap firmly around Catra and lift her up onto the bed, laying her down in it as Catra gasps, blinking the stars out of her eyes.

By the time she can see clearly again, she's surrounded by their plush mattress on all sides and facing the ceiling with Adora kneeling over her, face frankly ruined but smiling like it's the best day of her life even as she pants like she just ran a marathon.

"I don't want to breathe when I could be tasting you," Adora says, grinning, which is so uncalled for Catra might try to kick her, but her muscles are still spasming and she's still gasping too. Adora laughs, though, as her hands run over Catra, not soft, but so different now, a soothing pet as she smooths some of her rumpled fur down. "Better?" Adora asks and Catra has an ounce of shame left in her, but only an ounce, and she's too flushed from her orgasm to flushed with embarrassment too.

"Yes," she says, and then she reaches up and tries to pull Adora down into a kiss. Well, she succeeds, but Adora is still grinning, so it takes a minute to make it really work.

Her face is soaking and her mask is as hot as her skin, now. Catra somehow feels more soaked than Adora despite how she doesn't usually sweat the same way. Marathons might actually just be cardio for losers, she thinks. She'll take this hands down. Glimmer was never able to really explain how they were different than being assigned extra laps at training.

"Red," Adora absently mumbles into the kiss, jolting Catra's thoughts. Her brow furrows as Adora keeps kissing her, and they're still- why would she- "We're done with that," Adora explains, gently, right against her lips because she never really stops kissing her and the confused tension that single word introduced to her body relaxes again even if she's going slack with surprise.

Oh. They were already done. Adora still needed to say it, to declare she wasn't going to treat Catra that way for the rest of the night – the rest of their lives if Catra doesn't say blue.

Catra is purring. It's really loud. Adora giggles and kisses her cheek. It's wet enough that Catra wrinkles her nose a little.

"I can't stand yet, but we need showers," Catra manages to say, the first real words that have fallen out of her mouth in…

Well, it's dark outside now. Adora chuckles and kisses her cheek again to be annoying. Catra pretends to growl but she's very much still purring.

"Is that a hint for me to carry you?" Adora teases. Well. Catra might have it in her to blush a little more.

"No," she says anyway. Adora pulls back enough to make eye contact. She doesn't look worried, but Catra is embarrassed again. "Put She-ra away. I want to cuddle until I can feel my legs again," Catra orders her. Adora smiles, and just like that, She-ra falls away, and suddenly the bed feels like a totally different size, the world feels like a totally different size as she's instead joined by her lover who is, at most, three inches taller than her and fits perfectly wrapped around her as she lays beside her.

See, this is why she doesn't want to be carried even if she could get clean faster. After that, she wants her lover, her equal, the person she asked to do that and felt safe carrying it out with, wrapped around her. She wants to cuddle and later, in the shower, she wants to wrap her arms around her waist and purr as Adora's hands massage the shampoo into her scalp for her.

She wants her other half, dropping a soft kiss to her jaw as she wraps one arm around her waist and rests her head on the bedspread beside her. Catra releases a sigh so massive it feels like it might clear the last fleck of Fright Zone smog from her lungs.

"I love you," Adora answers it dutifully, giggling when that makes Catra's purr ramp up to a hundred along with a trill.

"I love you too. Do you need anything?" Catra manages to ask. Adora lets out a contented hum in the back of her throat.

"Mm, a hundred kisses, I think. But breathing first," Adora decides, and Catra chuckles along with her, but her breath still catches in her chest a little.

It's a joke, and it's Adora wanting to kiss her, but beneath that, it's also Adora wanting the assurance from Catra that she stills wants her, loves her, liked that. It's Catra being able to assure Adora that she's wanted.

It's profound. She's too exhausted to call it anything more, but it catches in her chest, a shock of cold that melts into something soft and warm, pooling through her liquid limbs as she rolls over to press a little closer without having to, like, actually engage her muscles for more than a single moment. Adora kisses her cheek and settles in with her face nuzzled into her hair, and it's so soft, so quiet, so peaceful, that it's hard for Catra to remember that really just happened and wasn't some desperate fantasy in her head.

See, she knew she was hung up on Adora for a reason. She just thought it was a way more pathetic one than true love.

She'd love to tell her younger self that. She'd probably be way more successful at kicking her than Catra was with Adora earlier, but the anxious buzz that has filled her chest all week is finally gone, and in its place, only quiet remains. Back then, she didn't know she had never experienced quiet. She thought quiet times were when she stopped being able to drown the bad thoughts out.

It's the sound of nothing but their shared heartbeats filling her ears. It's Adora's breath fluttering against her jaw. It's the gross sweat slowly trickling down her body. It's the way she's suddenly a little cold, and when she shivers, Adora just wraps her arms tighter around her and lazily pulls her closer.

It's peace.

End Notes

Five points = one for each fingertip = choking iykyk. <- I wrote this two months ago and I don't even remember what I meant by this Catra is the dom in my opinion but sometimessssss a brat has to get tamed so hard you can only call it submitting

Please drop by the Archive and comment to let the creator know if you enjoyed their work!