The Happiness We Deserve

by RadiantKay

Summary

Once the fighting across Etheria finally came to an end, Adora immediately threw herself into the efforts to rebuild her war-torn planet. Since Horde Prime's defeat, she and Catra have had only rare moments alone together, but when the most urgent projects finally reach their completion, there's time for everyone to stop and celebrate. To commemorate the rebellion's victory, a lively party is held in Bright Moon's courtyard.

When Catra sneaks away from the celebration, Adora follows, and they find themselves alone in their shared room at Bright Moon. For the first time in Adora's life, she can slow down and evaluate where their relationship stands. She can find out where she and Catra want it to go. And now Adora may finally be able to share the passion that she's been so desperate, but nervous, to reveal.

Essentially, this is an extremely self-indulgent, detailed, and long-winded account of Adora and Catra's first time.

Nerves and Heat

While much had changed about Adora's childhood friend this past year, some things stayed the same.

It took some coaxing from Adora to get Catra to come to the celebration. It was hard to get her to go anywhere with crowds. Always had been.

Once at the party, Catra stuck to Adora's side. She didn't mingle. She didn't go off and try to make new friends, or even get to know her current friends better. When Adora was in conversation, Catra would stand by in silence.

It wasn't shyness. Adora knew her long enough to know that. It was something else. A lingering guilt, maybe. Or perhaps a feeling that she was some kind of imposter. Adora had felt that too, once. Being part of the Horde meant you had been part of the problem, and so held some responsibility for the war. It took a while for Adora to recognize that she belonged in Bright Moon. She knew now that her past with the horde didn't make her choice to fight for good now disingenuous. Given all the things Catra had done, that feeling must be a hundred times worse than Adora's had ever been. She hoped Catra would get through it eventually, as she had.

The celebration was going deep into the night. It was in honor of the war's end, and the liberation of all peoples that were living in fear under the Horde banner. It would likely go on until the early morning.

It was Glimmer's speech—a revelry of their triumph against the Horde—that ended the night for Catra.

"I'm gonna go," was all Catra whispered.

By the time Adora had registered what she'd said, Catra was already halfway to the other end of Bright Moon's courtyard, heading off to who-knows-where.

Adora nudged her way through the crowd, trying to follow.

By the time she'd crossed through the mass of people, her girlfriend had vanished.

She excused herself from the party. The idea of Catra wandering off with emotionally troubling thoughts was more than enough to pull her away from the celebration.

It didn't take long for Adora to find her. She was exactly where Adora had expected her to be, hiding in their room in Bright Moon's castle.

The door to their oversized wardrobe was ajar, signalling that Catra had tucked herself away in there. It contained the few handfuls of clothes that they owned. Any larger and it would be a walk-in closet, which made it a great place to escape into.

Their room's light was off. The only illumination came from the natural light of Etheria's moons pouring in through the bay windows. Adora crossed the room without turning on the light, and found Catra sitting alone in the darkened space.

Catra avoided Adora's eyes when Adora climbed into the wardrobe with her. She sat down across from her, their knees brushing together.

Catra was still dressed in her suit from the party. It was a good sign, but Adora knew it would still take some convincing for her to come back to the celebration.

"What's wrong?" Adora asked.

Catra was hugging her knees, curled up against the world, but she didn't pull away when Adora leaned forward and took her hands into her own.

"Catra?"

In response, Catra shuffled forward and deposited herself in Adora's lap. She leaned her cheek against Adora's chest.

Adora cradled her close, feeling Catra's tail wrap around them as she did so.

Catra was quiet for a few moments, holding one of Adora's hands in her own. She began tracing the back of it with the soft touch of one hirsute finger.

The feeling would've been soothing if Adora wasn't so worried about what was going on in Catra's mind.

Adora waited, letting her girlfriend work through her feelings. She knew not to push her. Catra was the kind of person who needed her space, and grew frustrated when anyone tried to rush her.

After some time, her girlfriend finally spoke.

"It's just that...they're celebrating the triumph of everything that I'd worked to destroy. I threw everything I had into ruining the lives of everyone at that party. I worked so hard. I pushed myself over the limit to hurt the whole world." She examined a scar on the back of Adora's hand, her claw lightly tracing over it. It was one of the many marks of battle that blemished Adora's body.

"I'm happy it's all over," Catra continued, "but I can't celebrate like they can. I don't deserve it."

"You do, Catra. You deserve to be happy," Adora said.

Catra hesitated, then nodded.

"Maybe I do. But I don't deserve to celebrate like them. Not when it was me who hurt them. I just don't belong at that party."

"But you–"

"Adora. It's okay," Catra said.

She sounded so calm and resolute. And Adora had no real argument against her words. If Catra felt she didn't belong at a party—one that was celebrating the downfall of the Horde—then that was how she felt.

All she could do as a fellow ex-soldier of the Horde was sympathize. From her own experience, she knew Catra would be working through confusing feelings. She'd be wondering if she deserved friendship or freedom after what she'd done. Even if the people she'd hurt had forgiven her.

"You can go back to the party if you want," Catra said.

She slipped away from Adora and got to her feet, leaving Adora's lap feeling cold.

The needy part of Adora's mind ached at the loss of touch. There was a small and desperate part of her that wanted to be holding Catra at all times. A feeling that told her to never let go, lest she lose her best friend again.

"I'd rather stay in with you," Adora said.

"I was just going to go to bed early. It's okay, you go on and have fun."

Adora got to her feet, idly taking hold of one of Catra's hands.

"I wanna stay. We've hardly had any time alone together since...you know."

Since the Horde fell. Since we saved the universe. Since you kissed me and I realized that we loved each other, that we've always loved each other.

It had all happened only five weeks ago. It's amazing how much time and energy went into repairing things after a war. There had hardly been any time to celebrate afterwards. Rebuilding the damage had become Adora's focus. Catra's too. But finally, it was all winding down. People had shelter over their heads again. They finally had enough food to eat, clean water to drink. The immediate danger was over, and Etheria was beginning to stabilize. Adora could rest, and for once in her life she was okay with slowing down.

"Okay...I'd like that," Catra said.

They stood there smiling and examining each other's eyes, only minutes later realizing that they were still standing inside their ridiculously oversized wardrobe.

Adora laughed, then led Catra out of the confined space, holding her by the hand.

They crossed the room together, walking toward their bed. The mattress was huge. Big enough to easily fit four people. Or five or six, if everyone was feeling intimate. Just another extravagance that Adora still found to be a bit much for her.

Adora let go of Catra’s hand and sat on the side of their enormous bed.

"Let's cuddle," Adora said, kicking off her pumps.

She was still wearing her dress, but she'd change into pajamas later. Right now she wanted to hold her girlfriend.

She stacked some pillows for a lounging backrest and deposited herself against it, waiting for Catra to join her.

Catra shrugged off her suit jacket and turned on the bedside lamp, bathing them both in warm light. She climbed into bed with her. Again she sat in Adora's lap, resting her head against her shoulder.

Adora wrapped her arms around her girlfriend.

Nights with Catra often turned into this, always cuddling, with one of them cradling or spooning the other. Sometimes it had been on a shared bedroll, camping out under the stars after a long day of rebuilding homes. Other times, it had been here, collapsing into their massive bed and passing out after an exhausting day. They'd get five or six hours of sleep before having to wake and go back to work.

For the first time, they would have nothing to do the tomorrow, or the day after. They could doze off or stay up late, whatever they wanted. This newfound freedom put Adora at a relieving ease like she'd never felt before.

As the two of them lay together, Adora soon began running her palm up and down Catra's back.

Catra made a contented noise, then sighed deeply against Adora's chest. Her tail swished side to side in a lazy pattern.

Minutes of stroking her back, and soon Adora's palm wandered upward, feeling the soft fur on Catra's neck. She lingered there, before going on to lace her fingers within the thick and messy hair on Catra's head.

"Are you gonna keep it short?" Adora asked, running her fingers through Catra's locks.

"Nope. Why?"

"Just wondering. It makes you look handsome, especially with the suit."

"Handsome, huh?" Catra said with a playful edge in her tone.

"Yeah."

"And when I've got long hair and I'm not wearing a suit, how would you describe me then?"

Adora pictured Catra from before their lives had been upturned by everything. The scruffy mane of hair. The form-fitting uniform. The mischievous way Catra had always carried herself.

"Still handsome."

Catra seemed satisfied with that answer. She settled back against Adora with a slight smirk resting on her face.

Adora continued to play with Catra's hair, marveling at the fact that their relationship had built to this. There was a sense of trust that hadn't been there before. A closeness now existed between them, forged after living through so much shared pain, only becoming stronger after moving past it together. Like the toughened skin of a scar, their relationship would be all the harder to break apart again.

It wasn't the path she would have chosen for either of them. There had been better ways to realize that they both needed healing. But neither of them had had the insight back then that they had now. In the end, the hardest path was the one they'd been forced to walk. She was at least grateful for its conclusion, despite the pain along the way. Their lives could've turned out a lot worse, given the tumultuous events of the last few years.

Her hand moved toward Catra's neck, and she felt the scar there. It was a tiny bald spot in her fur, where the Prime's clones had implanted the chip against her spine.

She felt Catra tense, as though touching the scar brought back bad memories.

Adora whispered an apology, moving her hand elsewhere and kissing the top of Catra's head.

At this, Catra settled back down, relaxing her body against Adora's.

Again she began brushing Catra's locks with her fingers, playing with her hair. She wrapped strands around her finger until it was even messier than usual.

The motions set her girlfriend to purring, eyes closed and relaxed.

Adora moved to stroke the fur against her neck, then felt along her throat, her hand not-so-subtly searching for the source of the rumbling.

"What are you doing?" Catra asked, but tilted her chin up, giving Adora more room to feel her.

"Getting to know you," she said, then clarified. "Finding out where the purring comes from."

She tracked it down to a vibrating spot just behind her adam's apple. The alternating rhythm of the purring noises coincided with the rise and fall of Catra's chest.

"Find it?" Catra tilted her head up even more, meeting Adora's eyes.

"Mhm."

Adora stared into those heterochromatic depths, relishing the look of fondness that was pouring out of them. Fondness for her. A confirmation of the feelings they both shared for one another.

She traced up Catra's neck, then ran her finger along her hirsute jawline. Her thumb came up to caress Catra's cheekbone, where the fur was thinnest going across the bridge of her nose. Behind the sparser fur Adora could make out a light dusting of freckles.

How did I end up with a girl so beautiful?

Catra raised her arm, cupping Adora's cheek.

"You're smooth," Catra murmured, fingers stroking Adora's skin.

"And you're soft."

The corners of Catra's mouth flitted upward. Her eyes darted briefly to Adora's lips. She then licked her own, moistening them.

Adora knew what she wanted, and she was happy to give it, so she leaned in and kissed her. Deeply.

Catra grabbed the nape of her neck, holding Adora close and ensuring the kiss wouldn't end.

It went on for a long time.

There was a neediness to the kiss—one that only allowed brief breaths before they re-immersed themselves into it.

Catra's tongue brushed lightly against Adora's lips. It was an invitation. One that Adora had been growing increasingly familiar with.

She opened her mouth to Catra's. Tongue met tongue, and they entwined with one another.

They'd only kissed like this a handful of times before. It was always brief, and in stolen moments of privacy together. In their efforts to rebuild Etheria, there just hadn't been the time nor the place for it.

She wasn't sure how Catra felt about these kisses, but they always left Adora feeling hot. They left her with an intense and unresolved feeling of lust. It was an instinct she could not chase, as they'd both been far too busy to explore it any further.

Now they were finally alone. No fatigue-filled day of construction. No endless supply distribution to those in need. No campouts with the Best Friend Squad as they traveled from town to town, providing urgent necessities. This was their time. Their night. And they were alone in their own bed.

That lustful feeling was manifesting again now. Starting as a warmth deep in Adora's abdomen, it began to grow within her.

Catra did not let up, nor did Adora want her to. She would have stayed locked into this messy, hungry embrace for eternity if she could've.

Catra’s hands did not remain idle either. One arm wrapped around Adora's waist, hand rubbing the small of her back. The other she kept on Adora's chest, toward the top, where the fabric of her strapless dress ended. Her nails stroked along the skin of Adora’s collarbone, eliciting repeated shivers from her.

Eventually, they had to pause for the sake of getting oxygen.

Breathless and blushing, they let their momentum slow, until stopping altogether.

Lips hovered against one another, and Catra's panting breaths warmed Adora’s chin.

"Wow," Catra breathed.

"Yeah, wow," she agreed.

They both chuckled, ending in a shared look of coyness.

The brief expression set a curtain of tension between them. It hung in the air, not wanting to be acknowledged, but needing to be addressed.

Neither of them spoke, as neither knew what to say or do now.

Adora would be happy to continue kissing, but she knew if they kept going like this, it would leave her wanting more. Already she could feel wetness gathering down below, and she didn't want to spend the rest of the evening without any resolution.

She didn't know if Catra was feeling the same, or if she was ready to continue this line of passion in any way. This was new territory for both of them.

"So that was…" Adora started, trailing off as words failed her.

"Hot?" Catra said.

"Yeah," she said, half laughing, half exhaling with nerves.

Another moment passed. Catra was biting her lip, avoiding her eyes.

Adora hoped that their long, passionate kiss hadn't been a mistake. If they were progressing too quickly for her girlfriend's wishes, the guilt was sure to eat her up. They'd been together for barely six weeks. Was it normal to have things develop so far in such a short amount of time? Was she wrong to want Catra in that way right now? So soon?

Catra shifted in her lap, slipping away from her.

She kept a hand on Adora, a palm against her hip. It was a signal that she wasn't pulling away, or retreating inward. She sat alongside Adora, her tail curling around herself.

"The more I want you, the more I feel like I don't deserve you," Catra said, not looking at her as she said it. Instead she spoke toward the far wall. "I wish I didn't feel that way."

Adora didn't quite know what to say to that.

Sometimes she didn't feel like she deserved Catra either, but everyone deserves happiness.

To Adora, Catra was that happiness.

Catra flopped over onto her side, sighing once she hit the mattress.

Adora shifted herself on the bed until she was lying on her side as well, her body close to Catra's.

"Remember earlier, when you agreed that you deserved happiness?" Adora asked.

Catra nodded.

"You do. You deserve having someone who loves you," Adora said.

Catra looked at her then, her eyes laced with doubt.

"I love you," Adora said, more sure of this than any truth she'd uttered in her life.

"Adora…" The name came out almost as a whimper.

Adora leaned in until their foreheads touched, making sure Catra could see every detail of her expression, so that there was zero uncertainty in the truth of her words. "I love you so much," Adora said.

Catra grabbed her in an embrace, pulling her close.

"I love you too," Catra said, her voice muffled by the crook of Adora's neck.

Catra's breath warmed her there, nuzzling her face against her skin.

It wasn’t long before Catra's lips brushed against her skin as well. Her kisses came light along Adora's neck

Catra lingered there, her gentle mouth kissing and suckling against Adora's neck. Soon she moved to Adora's jaw, nipping the skin there until Adora turned her head to meet her.

Their lips joined once again. The kiss that followed was slow and passionate. It was slow to build, but soon the yearning behind it grew into a tempest.

Adora shifted her body, moving more of herself on top of Catra, instead of lying alongside her. Her elbows propped her weight up, while her hands—eager to lay upon Catra in any way possible—cupped either side of Catra’s face. Her thumbs stroked Catra’s cheeks as they kissed, feeling the soft fur there.

Catra's hands found their way onto Adora's body. They traveled up and down her sides, moving from thigh to ribs, and then back again.

Being touched like that reawakened the lust within Adora’s lower region.

Catra broke the kiss, but she didn't pull away.

Even as she spoke, her moistened lips brushed against Adora's. "Kiss me like you did before."

Her voice was soft and needy.

Adora rejoined their lips, opening her mouth against Catra's. Again they made out, tongues meeting and swirling around one another. Saliva passed between them, rolling around their mingling tongues.

Catra's hands soon grew braver, moving to Adora's front, running them along her chest. She avoided Adora’s breasts, hands skirting around their curve. It was as though she was afraid to touch them, afraid to cross that line.

Catra was so close to her. Adora could feel every gulp of air between their kisses. Every shift of Catra’s body under her. Every subtle touch from Catra’s fingers. She could smell every intimate scent, from Catra’s sweet breath, to the subtle and rich aroma of her body. Catra's natural fragrance was an underlying, familiar musk, overlaid by the flowery spiciness of her preferred shampoo.

Adora broke the kiss to get more of it, pressing her face against Catra's neck and inhaling. To her, it was a smell that registered so deeply as 'Catra.' One that she knew she would never get enough of.

Heat had gathered in Adora's panties, wetness too.

Adora kissed her neck, pressing her lips—still damp with saliva—deep into the fur until she reached the skin underneath. Catra’s fur clung to her mouth, but she didn't care. She wanted to kiss her. It didn't matter where.

Catra's breath started quickening in the excitement of the moment. Adora’s breathing matched it, her own mood building with the intensity of their passion.

There was an unignorable wetness in the junction of Adora’s thighs now. Soon her body wouldn’t just be requesting attention down there, but demanding it, needing a resolution to all the desire that was penning up inside her.

"Adora…" Catra breathed.

Adora had never heard her name spoken with such lust. She kept nuzzling at Catra's gorgeous neck, relishing the scent of her girlfriend. Again she heard her name uttered by Catra. It wasn't a call for her attention, it was something else. It was like an affirmation, a way to let her know how much Catra was loving everything about this moment.

Adora wanted to hear more.

She nibbled at Catra’s neck, drawing teeth across flesh in a firm but gentle way.

Catra gasped at the change in texture. Her fingers dug into Adora’s sides, sending Adora into a fit of giggles.

Adora's elbows shook, and she collapsed against her girlfriend, laughing into her shoulder.

"Sorry," Catra said, beginning to snort with laughter as well.

Catra stroked along her shoulders until the laughter subsided.

"You're so ticklish," Catra teased.

Adora nodded, propping herself up on her elbows with a silly smile plastered on her face.

Their eyes met, and they held each other's gaze.

It struck her how there was zero awkwardness in the moment. She couldn't imagine looking into anyone else's eyes like this. Not without one of them eventually looking away in embarrassment.

Catra kept her hands busy with exploring, running her palms over Adora's form. Still she made an effort not to touch anywhere too intimate.

It was like there was a boundary between them. Some unseen line that, if crossed, would lead them down a road of uncharted territory. Adora wanted to cross that line, but wasn’t sure if Catra would want to follow.

Adora knew that if she wanted to find out, she would need to give Catra her consent. She couldn’t see Catra taking the leap otherwise. They’d been taking their relationship very slow up until this point, stepping forward with care, both afraid to ruin such a good thing.

"You know," Adora said, lowering her voice to a sultry purr. "You can touch me a little more thoroughly, if you like."

Catra's wandering hands froze, her expression uncertain. There was a brief flash of fear behind her eyes. She glanced down at Adora's chest, looking at the modest amount of cleavage that Adora’s dress was presenting. There was yearning behind her expression, but also a hesitancy.

When Catra raised her eyes back up, Adora gave her a little smirk of affirmation.

She knew how Catra was feeling. This was new territory for them, and there was only ever one chance at completing a milestone in a gratifying way. Adora felt that shared fear within herself right now. She too was scared that she would do something to screw this up, ruining the moment, or worse.

Something like this couldn't be planned or strategized. There was no manual, nor was there training. Nothing. There was only one thing to do about it. They would have to wing it, press on, and hope for the best.

Adora arched her spine, rolling her shoulders back. She puffed out her chest in what she hoped was a sexy and tantalizing manner.

Catra licked her lips at the sight of her.

That, at least, reassured Adora a little.

It was then that Catra raised a trembling and tentative hand.

Her palm closed over Adora's breast.

Adora let out a satisfied breath at her touch. Even with the fabric in the way, the brush of contact excited her nerve endings.

Catra's hand began gently kneading her, still trembling with anxiety.

"That feels good," Adora murmured, trying to calm Catra's nerves, and hoping her own worries would dissolve as well.

It did feel good. It was unlike any of her own explorations of her body. The sensations were completely different when they came from someone else's hand. Amplified. More intense.

Adora shivered to her core when a thumb passed over her nipple, making it grow erect with arousal. She began showing through the fabric of her dress.

She looked down at Catra's chest, and found a similar display. Catra’s silk dress shirt fit tight across her torso, and she was showing too. Adora could easily make out the small bump at the peak of each breast.

Having been blessed with a small bust, Catra rarely wore a bra. It was possible that she never wore one at all. Adora had never asked outright, but she could never recall a time where she'd noticed Catra actually wearing one. She could, however, occasionally tell when she wasn't.

Catra’s hand retreated from her chest.

Adora held back a noise of annoyance at the sudden lack of sensations. She'd only just begun to have them explored.

Then she saw why Catra had taken her hand back. She was undoing her shirt.

Adora stared in wonder as Catra's hands released button after button.

Catra revealed her furry chest like the slow raising of a stage curtain.

There was a tuft of darker fur at the center of her chest, set between her breasts. The colour of the fur there matched the charcoal-brown hair on her head. More unbuttoning revealed another line of this darker fur around her navel, which tapered to a point above her belly button.

As Catra released more buttons, Adora followed this thick trail of dark fur downward, watching it become denser and longer as it reached Catra’s belt line, giving Adora a thrilling hint to what awaited below.

Catra finished unbuttoning, but did no more. She kept her shirt tucked in, and did not uncover her breasts.

It took Adora an embarrassingly long moment to realize that Catra wanted her to do the rest.

Adora closed her mouth, which had stupidly been hanging open for the entire display. She moved to open the shirt.

Her hand was quivering, as Catra's had been, when she reached for the fabric. It was a combination of nerves and unbridled excitement. Both emotions were fighting so hard that it was manifesting into physical trembles.

She tried to mentally force her hand to still itself, but couldn't do it. Even with a deep and steadying breath, it persisted.

All she could do was ignore it, and try not to feel too embarrassed by it. It helped that Catra had been feeling the exact same way just a moment ago.

With her annoyingly shaky hand, she parted Catra's shirt to reveal more of her body.

Catra’s breasts were conical in shape, noticeable as such even when she was lying on her back. Brown nipples poked through the fur, her areola hidden beneath the strands.

Adora looked at Catra's face to gauge her reaction, but Catra was not looking at her. She was staring off to the side, lips pursed, eyes worried.

“Hey.” Adora leaned in close, pressing her body against hers. “You’re amazing.”

Catra shook her head, but she could see the shy smile that Catra was biting back.

“You are.”

Adora leaned in closer, pressing her lips to Catra’s cheek.

Catra quickly turned toward her and pressed her mouth to hers. The move was full of hunger, so much so that their teeth clinked together in their haste to connect. Tongues swirled against one another, sloppy and uncaring.

Adora snaked her hand up between their bodies and groped Catra’s bare breast. Her fingers sank into the thick fur and began kneading the soft flesh underneath.

Catra’s hand came up to meet Adora’s scalp. She immersed her fingers into her blonde locks, but was hindered by the ponytail. She fumbled at the scrunchie holding Adora's hair in place, and eventually freed Adora’s locks from it.

The hair tumbled around their faces like a golden wave.

Catra ran both hands through the mess of strands. Her claws—the tips recently filed down until they were safely rounded—scraped against Adora’s scalp.

It didn't hurt, but it the feeling of her claws were harsh. It sent chills straight down Adora's spine. The feeling mingled with the aching heat in her nethers, intensifying the lust within her.

Adora’s hand continued fondling its way over Catra’s chest. Her thumb caressed Catra’s nipple, circling the sensitive bud and stirring the fur around it. Her touch elicited a soft whimper from Catra. The noise formed deep within Catra’s throat, passing through their kiss and rumbling their entwined tongues.

Adora gave up on holding her weight up with one hand while exploring with the other. The effort on her arm was becoming too much. She lowered herself onto Catra’s body, pinning Catra under her. As they pressed together, she felt Catra’s leg rise up between her thighs, pushing against the place that was screaming for stimulation right now.

She didn't expect the pressure of Catra’s thigh against her. It drew an indignant and uncontrolled moan from her. Thankfully, it was muffled by their kiss, and Catra hadn't been able to hear her unsexy noise.

She separated her lips from Catra’s and exhaled deeply. Her breath trembled as she did so.

“You okay?” Catra asked.

Catra shifted under her. Her thigh—likely unintentionally—applied another modicum of friction to Adora's mound.

Adora inhaled through her teeth, lifting her hips away from Catra.

"Yeah–." Adora's breath caught. She swallowed, breathing deeply a few more times, trying to collect herself. "Yeah. Yeah, I'm okay."

"You sure?"

"Yeah I'm just…I'm really turned on right now."

"...Yeah?"

Adora didn't miss the hopeful intonation in Catra's voice. Hearing it was like chugging a tall glass of cold water when her throat was completely parched. It was a relief to know that she wasn't acting on her lust too quickly. That there was a hint that Catra was likewise interested.

Adora leaned her head forward, nuzzling the space under Catra's ear. She immersed herself in that wonderful scent of hers, so much more potent when she had her nose against her fur.

"I want you," Adora said, murmuring it right into Catra's feline ear.

Catra's hands grabbed her hips, pulling them closer.

"Adora…"

Hearing the need behind the breathy sound of her name was all the consent she needed.

Adora pressed her knee up between Catra's legs, intending to return the sensations she'd just felt.

When they made contact, Catra pursed her lips to cover her moan. It sounded more like a stifled whimper, sourced deep within her throat.

Catra's nails dug into Adora’s hips. It didn't break skin, but it was enough to cause pain.

Adora hissed in discomfort.

"Sorry," Catra said.

Her fingers relaxed, and the pain ebbed.

"It's okay," Adora said.

Adora pressed again. This time, the grip of Catra’s nails stayed gentle.

Again Catra whimpered, her own hips rocking forward against Adora's thigh.

Adora could feel the heat coming from Catra’s crotch, even through the layers of fabric between them. It warmed her thigh at the place of contact.

Adora adjusted herself, positioning her hips so they could both grind against one another.

It was a great relief when she pressed herself against Catra’s thigh, knowing she had the consent to continue to do so. Finally, that growing ache to pleasure herself—the one that had been building since that initial kiss—could be satisfied.

Adora rested her forehead against Catra’s, staring deep into those endless and beautiful, heterochromatic depths.

She started to move.

Her hips gyrated slowly at first, experimenting with the new sensations blooming from her core. Catra soon followed suit, rocking herself against Adora with her own tentative movements.

Adora had no idea what she was doing. It seemed neither did Catra. There was no rhythm to their motions. They were going off of instinct, chasing whatever arousing sensations they could conjure up with their shared friction. It was exhilarating. She couldn’t help the silly grin that spread across her face.

Catra saw her smile and matched it.

Whether Catra's grin was from a shared understanding, or simply from being swept up in the moment, Adora didn’t know. Either way, it was beautiful to see.

They broke into giggles simultaneously. With their faces so close, they kept their laughter quiet and restrained.

Soon their giggles subsided, turning to heavy breaths as Adora sped up her pace. Catra’s exhales were warming her face, filling her nose with the rich smell of her breath.

Adora could feel her dress riding up her thighs a little more with every gyration of her hips. Soon it was high enough that Catra’s wandering hands found the bare skin of Adora’s upper thigh. Catra then hitched the dress up the rest of the way.

With the dress bunched up around her waist, there was an immediate change in the texture between them. Without the extra layer of fabric, the motions felt smoother. Her panties glided too easily against Catra's pants.

Catra’s fingers began caressing Adora's exposed rear. She traced along the hem where Adora's underwear ended and her skin began.

Their gazes stayed locked. Adora observed all the tiny twitches in Catra’s face muscles. Listened to the subtle hitches of her breath.

She noted how flushed Catra’s skin was under the sparse fur across the bridge of her nose, all a result of the sensations from their shared movements.

Adora had never known it could feel so good to be wanted like this, not just physically, but emotionally. The desire in Catra’s eyes could sustain Adora for the rest of her life. Yet at the same time, she knew she would never get enough of it.

"Catra…" she breathed, again slipping a hand up between their bodies to caress Catra's breast.

Her wandering hand made Catra pinch her eyes shut and bite her lip, a needy groan escaping her throat.

Adora changed the angle of her hips, trying to get more friction out of the smoother, tighter fabric that now acted as the barrier to Catra's leg. The silk was damp with her natural lubricants, making it harder to gain any friction. She thrusted harder, faster, biting back the whimper that wanted to escape her mouth.

Adora crashed her lips against Catra's, muffling the primal moan that came out of her.

It was a noise she'd never driven herself to make while masturbating, but had always known lay somewhere within her. She was too afraid to know how it sounded now, especially at this essential moment. What if Catra laughed at it? Or was turned off by how Adora sounded?

She kept her lips on Catra's, intending to quiet any further noises with the kiss.

Catra snaked her fingers under Adora's panties, both palms groping her rear. Her hands encouraged Adora's hips toward her every time Adora thrusted.

Catra's gyrations came up to meet every one of hers. They were matching a rhythm now. Bodies moving in tandem with each other.

Adora kneaded Catra's breast in a repeated circular motion, paralleling the motions of their rocking hips.

Catra broke their kiss with a heavy inhale of breath.

“Wait, Adora.” Catra said, halting the movement of her hips.

Adora stopped moving too. When she did so, she found herself trembling. Not from nerves, but from her body protesting at the sudden absence of sensation.

She felt Catra begin to shift under her.

“Can we–?” Catra moved, and Adora followed her lead.

They changed position, switching so that Adora's hips were now between both of Catra’s thighs. Catra opened her legs wide, knees in the air, and splayed out under Adora.

Adora wasn’t so sure it would work as well this way, but she was perfectly fine with experimenting.

“–try it like this?” Catra finished.

Adora nodded, pushed her crotch against Catra’s, then started moving.

It was definitely a less pleasurable position for Adora. She couldn’t get a very good angle like this. She tried propping herself up by her arms, like she was holding herself at the peak of a pushup. That helped her a little bit.

Adora made sure to keep herself pressed against Catra's mound with every movement, never separating. Even when she pulled away, it was only to relieve a bit of pressure before thrusting forward again.

After a moment, Catra also adjusted her position under her, angling her hips further upward. When Adora began thrusting against her like this, Catra started breathing hot and heavy.

“Feel good?” Adora asked.

Catra nodded.

For Adora, this position didn't feel as pleasurable, but she wanted to make this experience feel good for Catra too. She was fine with doing it like this for a while, so long as Catra was enjoying it.

Holding herself up like this, Adora had a perfect view of Catra’s body under her. Catra’s shirt was splayed wide open. Adora could watch the subtle bounce of Catra's breasts, which moved every time the force of her thrusts reverberated through Catra's body.

The trail of dark fur around Catra’s navel caught her eye again, and she found herself following it to stare at the thickest part poking out from her waistline. Her curiosity almost halted everything. She wanted to undress Catra and see what was waiting for her at the end of that lushious trail. She barely resisted the urge, if only not to ruin the current momentum, which Catra was so immersed in.

Catra was panting was heavy now. She was freely letting out little moans and whimpers without filter.

Her fists closed around the fabric of Adora’s dress, below her breasts. She tugged at it, pulling her dress down an inch.

Focusing in on Adora’s cleavage, Catra tugged again, pulling down the fabric some more.

Adora could feel herself starting to pour out from the top of her dress, losing support with each tug. Soon the tops of her pink areola were visible. When Catra saw that, she gave one eager heave and pulled the dress down all the way.

They fell free, hanging bare over Catra's chest.

Catra palmed both of them with a satisfied smirk of victory.

Adora matched the smirk, then closed her eyes and hummed in contentment as Catra’s thumbs began teasing her nipples, rolling over and around them.

Adora kept her eyes closed, focusing in on all the sensations and sounds of this moment.

Catra’s hands kneaded and fondled her, but the pace of her explorations soon slowed. Her moans were growing increasingly inconsistent as well. Some were soft, reserved, while others were sudden and loud.

Soon Catra's hands idled, as if too focused on the pleasure of Adora’s humping to even concentrate on feeling her up.

When Adora opened her eyes again, she found Catra’s had closed. Her head lay back against the bed, and her breathing was quick and deep. Her brows furrowed in concentration. Her mouth hung open, emanating irregular moans.

Catra was only loosely holding Adora's breasts now, too focused on herself to do anything with her hands.

Adora smiled at the sight of her, lost in her pleasure. She picked up her pace, thrusting herself harder against Catra, faster as well.

The change elicited a gasp from her girlfriend.

A film of sweat had formed on Adora’s brow, across the bridge of her shoulders, and back of her neck. Her biceps were bulging, and arms trembling from the effort of holding herself up like this for so long.

“Don’t stop,” Catra breathed.

“I won’t.”

Adora kept her pace as is, hard and fast, her heart pounding in her chest. She was panting with the effort. Her body was starting to protest at keeping this up for so long, but she wouldn’t stop. Couldn’t. Not while Catra was so alive in the moment, making those wonderful vocalizations. All because of her.

Catra’s legs closed around Adora's hips. Her breaths became hitched and erratic, punctuated by her erotic noises.

“Don’t stop,” Catra said again. “I think I’m close.”

Thrill filled Adora when she heard that. Even though her muscles were starting to ache, she held on for Catra. No amount of bodily pains would stop her now. She wanted to see this.

A bead of sweat began trickling down Adora's nose, but she did not halt to wipe it away. She wanted to make this happen, more than anything she wanted that.

Adora's breaths were coming out in huffs now. The pain in her arms was blocking any pleasure she was getting out of this, but she didn't care about that right now. Her goals had shifted.

Adora kept moving, pressing herself hard against the source of Catra's radiating heat. She kept her rhythm steady, matching the speed of Catra's hips eagerly gyrating against her thrusts. There was no conscious effort to their motions now. It was completely instinctual, both perfectly in tune with the other.

Catra’s hands left Adora’s breasts and shot to her hips, fingers gripping into them.

“Adora…” Catra spoke between increasingly quick breaths. “I think I’m gonna come…”

“I’ve got you,” Adora promised. “I’ve got you.”

“I’m gonna come.” Catra got the words out in one quick breath, then inhaled deep. “I’m gonna–!” Her mouth locked wide open mid-cry. Her expression turned to one of pure, sensual anguish.

Catra's back arched under her. Her hands quivered against Adora's hips, unable to do anything more than hang on as Catra lost herself.

Adora still did not stop moving. She kept on rocking her mound against Catra’s, not daring to shift her hips from the right spot. Not daring to let up the pace. She wanted this to be perfect for Catra.

Catra’s breath came back in a sudden sharp exhale. She sucked the air back in almost violently. Her claws dug into Adora’s hips, then moved to her rump, tugging Adora so close that neither of them could even maintain their movements.

Catra’s expression relaxed for just a moment, as did her grip on Adora’s bottom.

Adora took that as a signal to keep going. She pushed her hips forward, grinding herself into Catra's nethers.

Catra cried out. Her brows furrowed even deeper. The difference between an expression of pain and an expression of pleasure was indiscernible on her face. She moaned Adora’s name, rasping it out as if she couldn't manage any other words right now.

“I’ve got you,” Adora said again, and thrust herself forward. She wanted to draw this out, then commit the image to memory forever. Catra looked so beautiful right now, lost in this ephemeral moment of pure ecstasy.

Catra pulled Adora's hips close, grinding hard, gritting her teeth and groaning through them. The primal noise ended in a gasp, and Catra's eyes widened.

She pushed Adora's hips away, signaling Adora to halt.

“Stop,” Catra said, her breath shuddering. “Wait. Stop. Stop.” Her words were urgent, pleading.

Adora obeyed, halting all motion.

Her arms shook with the effort of holding herself up. The droplet of sweat hanging from the tip of her nose finally fell, landing on Catra’s chin, and disappeared into the fur.

Catra was trembling under her, recovering from the final throes of her orgasm.

Adora collapsed against her, panting heavily.

She could feel Catra’s hips twitching and spasming under her.

Catra sighed a long breath of air, as if she’d been holding it for far too long. She wrapped both arms around Adora’s middle, holding her tight.

A sharp ache rushed into Adora’s arms and shoulders. She must’ve been holding up her body weight for ten minutes, maybe more. And all while repeatedly shifting her weight forward and back.

It was over now. She'd made Catra come.

A singular feeling of giddy joy spread through Adora, and she nuzzled her sweaty face against the side of Catra's head.

I made Catra come. The thought hit her over and over again.

There was still a deep need, hot and blooming, in Adora's core, but she was content to ignore it until she’d rested a bit. She needed to take this moment in.

She lay against Catra’s body, her own toplessness meeting Catra’s. She relished the feeling of soft fur against her skin. It felt better than any blanket, warm and inviting. Catra’s chest rose and fell in evermore calming breaths under her.

Catra raised an arm and combed her fingers through Adora's hair.

“You were amazing.” Catra sounded almost drowsy.

The gravity of what had just happened washed over Adora. It felt unreal. Truly it was like a dream had come true, like something impossible had somehow been made possible.

Adora never imagined her first time would be like this, a lustful and unplanned event, dry-humping each other with their clothes only halfway removed. It was a far cry from her pictured ideal, but it wasn't remotely a disappointing experience. This had been more amazing than any fantasy she could've come up with.

Their relationship had just changed forever, and like any change, it would come with its own uncertainties and anxieties, many of which were flooding into Adora’s mind right now. There were still a million complications that could rise up. Adora knew these were all self-conscious worries, but that’s what made them feel so terrible.

They hadn’t even seen each other fully naked yet.

Right now there were a dozen things she could imagine Catra disliking about her, whether it be parts of her body, or her performance in bed, going forward.

Despite those anxieties, there was also a feeling of hope and delight blooming in Adora’s mind. She knew that there could only be more shared pleasure, intimacy, and love ahead of them. They had so much to learn about each other, and this single moment was nothing if not exciting. Who knows how much fun lay ahead of them now that this frontier had opened?

Adora whispered “I love you” into Catra’s feline ear, then kissed the peak of her jawline.

“I love you too,” Catra said, turning to meet her with a kiss of her own.

Catra pushed some of Adora’s hair out of the way, then leaned into the meeting of their lips. She touched Adora's shoulder, giving it a little push.

Adora took the hint and rolled away from Catra, but didn't let go of her.

Catra shifted herself until she was on top of Adora, pressing her into the bedsheets.

They kissed like that for some time, eventually slipping into a more lustful rhythm. Their tongues licked their way into each other's mouths, probing and dancing together.

Hands were not idle, especially now that there was plenty more unclothed space to explore on each other.

Adora only barely resisted the urge to reach down and stimulate herself during the entire session.

Catra eventually pulled away from her, separating their lips with a wet smack.

As she rose, Adora lifted her head after her, chasing her lips for one last bit of contact.

Catra smirked and gently pressed Adora back down. She seemed a lot more confident now, which Adora was glad to see.

Catra sat up until she was on her knees, sitting alongside Adora's legs. The dress shirt was hanging loosely off of Catra's shoulders. She shrugged it off, throwing it aside, leaving her completely topless.

Adora didn't miss how handsome her girlfriend looked while wearing nothing but her suit pants.

Catra eyed the crumpled dress that was still bundled around Adora’s waist. “Let’s get this off,” she said.

Adora straightened her legs, allowing Catra to slide the piece of clothing down her body. Catra tossed the dress aside on a nearby chair.

Adora was now wearing nothing but panties in front of Catra. White panties, which were probably see-through right now, considering how wet she was feeling.

No one had ever seen her like this.

Adora kept her legs closed, pulling her knees up toward herself. She was suddenly very aware of how naked and vulnerable she was.

Catra’s smirk was reassuring. The way her eyes darted up and down Adora’s body, filled with desire. It told Adora that she was safe to reveal all of herself to her. That there would be no negative judgement, no matter what.

“Can I see you?” Catra asked, tracing her index claw up and down Adora’s calf.

Heat crept up into Adora's face. If she hadn’t been blushing already, she was now.

She opened her legs for Catra. Not reluctantly, but there was a small, passing hesitation that slowed her movement. She couldn't help the shyness that threatened to overtake her actions. She'd never shared any part of herself so intimately before.

Catra’s eyes followed the line of one leg as it parted from the other, her gaze eventually leading her down to the junction. She fixated on that spot once it was revealed.

Adora glanced down at herself, and indeed she was so wet that her thin panties exposed everything underneath. The fabric clung to her skin, messier than she’d ever seen herself being. Granted, she’d never been this worked up and hot before.

The times Adora had taken care of herself had usually been quick moments in the shower, rubbing herself to completion as swiftly as she could. She'd always been chasing her orgasm rather than allowing it to build organically. Her sessions were always spur-of-the-moment, with frustratingly rushed endings. She’d never had a time in her life where she could build herself up like this.

The ache that was in her was like nothing she’d ever felt before. It wasn’t frustration, it was more like the pause in a journey. A journey that was meant to be enjoyed along the way, speeding up and slowing down as she desired, until she eventually reached the climactic ending with the woman she loved.

Catra began running her hands up and down Adora’s thighs, her claws repeatedly brushing over the waist of her panties.

“You can take them off,” Adora said, narrowing her legs so the underwear could be slipped off of her.

Catra bit her lip with barely-restrained excitement. She took the waist of Adora's panties in hand.

They peeled away from Adora's mound, leaving a string of her secretions clinging between the fabric and her skin. The strand of thick, clear fluid stretched an impressive distance before it finally snapped.

"Wow," Catra murmured.

Catra rolled Adora's underwear all the way down her legs, removing them entirely. She grinned once she had the panties in hand.

She examined the fabric, then ran her thumb over the slickest spot.

“That’s all for me, huh?” she said, fixing Adora with a sultry gaze.

Adora nodded, feeling a rush of embarrassment that warmed her face. She didn't know why. Perhaps because it felt like she was sharing an intimate compliment with Catra. After all, her wetness was, in its own way, an admittance of her attraction to Catra.

When Catra lifted her thumb from the panties, the slick fluid clung to her fur there. She appeared to be very pleased with herself.

Catra deposited the panties on the bed beside her, turning her full attention back to Adora.

Adora had closed her legs in her moment of coyness, but Catra gently pried them open again. She fixated on Adora’s mound, where Adora was swollen and flushed with pent-up arousal. Catra had a hungry look in her eyes.

She moved to touch Adora, fingers brushing the skin all around Adora's folds. She ran her tempered claws through the modest amount of hair above her clit.

Adora didn’t feel embarrassed about her personal grooming work, but it had been some weeks since she’d shaved or trimmed. The carefully pruned inverted triangle that she'd shaped was now surrounded by short, blonde hairs.

Adora would hazard a guess that it wouldn’t have mattered how she styled or trimmed her pubic hair, or even if she let it grow out completely natural. Catra would have loved it regardless. That confidence helped her relax a little.

Then Catra did something Adora wasn’t expecting. She lowered her head between Adora’s thighs.

Adora watched it happen, but it didn’t register. Her brain only caught up just before contact, making her heart jump in her chest with panic.

Adora gasped at the sudden and unfamiliar feeling of a warm tongue sliding up through her heated folds.

Negative concerns immediately ran through her mind. Was she clean enough? Did she taste okay? Did she smell okay?

Catra gave no hint to the answers. She continued to slip her tongue through Adora's folds, focusing on no particular area and licking over every part she could.

Adora dropped her head back and tried to enjoy it.

But she couldn’t. Not with those worries swirling around in her head.

“Catra? Wait. Wait a second.”

Catra lifted her head, expression concerned. “Yeah?”

“Are you sure you want to…you know, lick me there?”

“Yeah.” She cocked her head. “You okay, Adora?”

“I don’t know, it’s just–” She fumbled to find words that weren’t embarrassing. Unsurprisingly, she failed. “Is everything okay down there? Do I taste okay?”

“Yeah, you don’t taste bad or anything.”

“Are you sure?” Adora found herself fidgeting in her anxiety, itching the back of her hand.

Catra lifted her head a little more, fixing Adora with a concerned, serious expression. “Adora, if you don’t want me to go down on you, we don’t have to. You can say no.” She shrugged. “I can use my fingers instead, or we can, you know, go back to what we were doing earlier, if you’d prefer that.”

“It’s not that,” Adora said. “I just don’t want you to be grossed out by anything.”

“Adora, you're not gross. You’re lovely, and you taste lovely,” Catra said.

“You’re not just saying that?”

Catra planted a kiss on Adora’s inner thigh. “No.”

Adora looked for any sign of a lie in Catra’s eyes, but already knew she wouldn’t find one. Indeed, there was only truth and concern there.

If there was something wrong, or if Catra was uncomfortable, she would let Adora know. There was no need for Adora to continue drilling her.

"Do you want me to keep going?" Catra asked.

Adora bit her lip, then nodded. She let her head flop back against the bed. Closing her eyes, she intended to focus on the sensations rather than worry about her body.

Catra did not immediately return to her folds, instead she traced her lips across Adora's inner thigh. She focused her efforts around that area, using lips, tongue, and even a little teeth, to bring back the mood.

Adora was grateful that Catra was easing her back into it, as she'd lost some of her libido to that terribly awkward moment. She settled into the bed, letting Catra take care of her, and focused on herself.

Oddly enough, it was the nibbles Adora enjoyed most. She wasn't expecting to like that so much, but the harsh texture of teeth against her skin was such a lovely contrast to everything else. The sensation balanced itself on the edge of pain, accentuating the pleasure, and built her excitement as a result.

As Catra passed from one leg to the other, she exhaled hot air against Adora's nethers, making Adora shiver. She planted a brief kiss there as well, not lingering, but teasing the potential sensations in the near future.

Catra continued her foreplay on the other thigh, and soon Adora could feel herself beginning to flow down below again.

Catra's hands cradled Adora by the hips, thumbs subtly caressing her.

Nervousness that had plagued Adora's mind was starting to melt away, replaced by the growing anticipation of this new experience, and where Catra would lead her within it.

With a sudden burst of affection for her girlfriend, Adora sought out Catra's scalp with her right hand—one of the only parts of her that she could reach without straining her arm.

Adora laced her fingers into those brown locks, fingertips massaging the hard scalp beneath.

Catra hummed contentedly against Adora's skin as she suckled at it.

Adora moved her free hand to her breast, teasing herself and adding to the sensations pulsating throughout her. She took her nipple between thumb and forefinger, giving herself repeated squeezes, and occasionally twisting gently.

Adora was becoming hot to her core once again. That deep part within her urged her to seek the road to satisfaction. Her hips gave an involuntary twitch, as if taken hold by an urge to seek something to grind against.

Now that her need was growing insistent, she wanted the foreplay and the teasing to end. She wanted some quick motions, something hard to press herself against and then grind repeatedly.

As if sensing her urge, Catra turned her attention toward the place where Adora needed it.

There was no haste in Catra's actions. She took her time, planting kisses on Adora's outer labia, not licking anywhere too sensitive yet.

"You're so wet," Catra purred.

Catra's fingers touched near Adora's mound, stroking the skin along her edges, before spreading her folds open.

Adora opened her eyes, looking to find Catra examining her nethers with a curious expression.

She dropped her head back against the bed and willed herself to remain patient while Catra explored. She busied herself with fondling her own breasts and stroking Catra's hair.

Adora found that Catra's feline ears would flick involuntarily every time Adora's fingers brushed against them. This little discovery drew an amused smile to Adora's lips.

Catra gave no indication that she noticed this. She seemed too fascinated with Adora right now to pay attention to anything else.

"I'm glad you slowed me down," Catra said. "I didn't get a chance to look at you properly."

Adora felt her face grow warm. Part of her had always worried that she didn't look normal down there.

She looked at Catra again, and found that her girlfriend was staring at the space between her legs with pure infatuation, face barely inches away. She was spreading Adora's folds with thumb and finger, observing details therein.

Adora lay her head back again, finding she felt a little pleased with herself. It felt good to be wanted, to be sexy.

Now if only Catra would press on.

Adora closed her eyes and waited.

When Catra's lips finally returned, they only brought more kisses.

Adora squirmed in Catra's cradling hold, almost whining indignantly at the lack of the stimulation she was growing so desperate for.

She wanted more. She wanted friction, she wanted to haul Catra up to her and start humping against her leg again. She wanted to kiss her girlfriend. To make love and grind against her until Adora could finally come.

As if sensing her need, Catra's tongue returned to her at last.

Adora's breath hitched in her throat. Her palm squeezed the breast she'd been kneading, digging her fingertips into the soft flesh. She was as unprepared for the second time as she'd been for the first.

Catra's tongue was unlike any sensation she'd experienced before. More nimble than Adora's own fingers, and softer than any improvised toy. It was hot, even against her aroused flesh, and it felt as amazingly slick as it slid between her labia.

Catra licked her from bottom to top, gathering her secretions upon her flattened tongue. She stopped briefly, and Adora heard her swallow down the fluid before returning.

Again, Catra slid her tongue bottom to top, then reversed the action. As she brushed over Adora's entrance, her tongue stiffened, pressing into her.

Adora cupped her hand over her mouth, stifling a noise somewhere between a yelp and a moan. The other hand closed on a fistful of Catra's hair, barely refraining from tugging on it.

Catra pressed her face against Adora's mound, sliding her tongue into her as far as it would go. It wasn't much—her tongue was quite short compared to a finger—but the sensation of being opened was enough to pull ridiculous noises out of Adora, all of which she muffled with her hand.

Catra's arms shifted from their cradling position around Adora's hips. Her hands instead slid up Adora's tummy, then dragged their nails back down.

The maneuver ended with Catra's hands gripping around Adora's thighs. She used them as leverage to press her face as hard as she could against Adora, driving her tongue that much further into her.

Catra flicked her tongue in and out of her, the tip faltering just before true penetration.

It left Adora wanting more. She wanted to be filled with that tongue, opened fully.

Just when Adora couldn't take any more, Catra shifted her attention higher up.

When her tongue slid over Adora's clit, Adora nearly spasmed. She hadn't realized how sensitive she'd become in her anticipation.

Thankfully, Catra started slow, each pass of her tongue making Adora whine against her own palm.

Adora released her other hand from Catra's hair, afraid she would lose control of herself and pull it too hard. Her arm shot down to the bed, slamming into the mattress and seizing a fistful of blanket that she could abuse instead.

Catra was applying evermore pressure with each stroke of her tongue, building the intensity.

Adora nearly screamed when Catra increased the pace

Catra flicked her tongue over her clit in repeated and rapid motions, lapping with a vigor that drowned out everything else in Adora's mind.

Adora squirmed in place, digging her fist into the bed. Her hand squeezed the blanket with everything she had, while the other struggled to muffle her vocals.

The heat that was in her core spiked with Catra's actions, growing with an energy that was begging for release. She knew her own body well enough to know that, if Catra kept going like this, she would tip over her peak.

Catra slowed herself down, leaving Adora panting, and the built up energy began to subside.

A hirsute finger touched Adora's folds, sliding through them like a gentle massage, before the tip settled at Adora's entrance.

"Yes," Adora said, her voice a high pitched whine. "Yes, yes."

Catra entered her.

Adora mewled into her palm, overwhelmed by the feeling of penetration.

In three short strokes, Catra's finger was buried into her up to her final knuckle.

"You make such cute noises," Catra purred.

Adora shook her head, but didn't care to protest beyond that right now.

Slowly, Catra began to move her finger in and out.

It surprised her how unnoticable the texture of Catra's fur was once it was inside her. There was some feeling around her entrance of the matted hairs, but once inside, all she could feel was the volume of Catra's finger opening her up.

When Catra’s tongue went to work against her clit again, Adora lost all sense of her surroundings. Driven by instinct, she started rocking her hips, thrusting up against Catra’s mouth.

Adora’s blood thumped in her ears. Through Catra's efforts, her heart was now set at a thundering pace. She moaned aloud, too lost in herself to care about how she sounded anymore. She wanted Catra to hear her. She wanted her to know how good she was making her feel.

With her hand no longer stifling her noises, Adora reached down, seeking out Catra’s hand. When her fingers touched Catra’s, they laced together. The two of them held onto each other as Catra continued to pleasure her.

Adora craved further contact, and returned her other hand to the back of Catra’s head, pulling her as close as possible. It did nothing, as Catra’s face was already pressed as far against her as it could be, but all the same, Adora tried to bring her closer.

As she held onto Catra’s locks, she reminded herself to be gentle, to not tug her hair when she finally lost herself. The moment would be on her soon, she knew.

“Catra,” she breathed. “Another finger. Please. Please.”

Catra fulfilled her request, and stretched her with another digit.

Adora cried out, quivering as Catra filled her further.

Catra continued to lap at her clit, not letting up her pace one bit.

“C-circle your tongue,” Adora stammered through hitched breaths.

Catra changed her rhythm from quick vertical movements to repeated, rapid rotations. Her tongue worked the hood of Adora’s clit to-and-fro, exactly how Adora preferred when using her own fingers.

Adora was outside reality now. It was only her and Catra, connected as one, together in this moment.

"Yes, yes, yes," Adora moaned, each word punctuating a rotation of Catra's tongue. "Yes, yes, yes, yes, yes–AHH!" Her hips jutted upwards, her climax falling upon her unexpectedly. It crashed down on her nerves like an abrupt wave of warm water. She rasped Catra's name with the last breath she could muster before she lost herself. She didn't even think to announce her arrival, but surely Catra knew what was happening.

Every muscle in her body tensed, holding her form arched in place. Even her breath caught in her lungs. The moment held her for an eternity, then released in waves that shook her entire body.

Catra continued to lap at her, fingers thrusting in and out.

The orgasm amplified Adora’s sensitivity, growing to the point where she couldn’t tell if she was feeling pleasure or pain from Catra’s licking. The cluster of nerves crowning her folds were on fire with sensation, turning her into a writhing mess.

Her fingers clenched Catra’s hand, and she received a squeeze of reassurance in return. She only barely refrained from pulling Catra’s hair with the other hand. The single thought to not accidentally hurt Catra somehow managed to penetrate her clouded mind.

Adora did not pull away, even when the rapid pressing of Catra’s tongue did become too much for her. Even when it felt almost painful. She gritted her teeth, groaning and hissing through them, letting the agony of the moment wash over her. She didn’t want it to end.

The orgasm didn't stop quickly. It receded over time, like waves lapping at the beach as the tide lowered.

Catra slowed her movements in tandem with Adora's subsiding, agonizing pleasure.

When it ended, and Adora lay there panting and shiny with sweat, Catra finally stopped. Her tongue pulled away, leaving Adora's folds open to the air, which felt far too cool against her heat.

Catra's fingers then retreated as well.

Adora groaned through pursed lips as Catra slipped them out of her.

"You make such sexy noises when you come," Catra said.

Adora hummed in agreement, too exhausted to speak.

She wasn't so sure what she thought about her own noises yet, but she could at least believe that Catra found them sexy.

She glanced down at Catra, finding her sucking the fingers that had been inside her. Catra smiled with her eyes when she saw Adora looking.

Catra pulled her fingers free from her mouth with satisfied popping noise. "Mmm," she hummed, then lowered her head back down to Adora's folds.

Catra kissed her there, a quick and gentle peck on her clit.

The feeling of it was electrifyingly strong. Adora was still feeling incredibly sensitive down there.

She whimpered. Her hips winced away from the contact.

"Sensitive?" Catra asked.

Adora nodded.

"You're so cute," Catra cooed.

Catra crawled up to her, and Adora opened her arms automatically, needing to embrace her as soon as she could.

Tender Hands

Chapter Summary

> Adora and Catra wind down with some fluff, massages, and other intimate explorations. The conversation turns heavy when Catra finds how deeply scared Adora's back is because of her, but some reassurances from Adora bring the lightness back. After that, they're both ready for more lovemaking, and Adora is dead set on finally seeing what's waiting at the end of Catra's dark and furry treasure trail.

Chapter Notes

> This is the chapter where the body hair, pubic hair, scent kink, hair kink, and bush worship tags really come into play. Catra's a very furry woman, and Adora loves it.

See the end of the chapter for more notes

It was only when Adora had Catra pressed close that she realized how much she longed for contact in her afterglow. She had this sudden and powerful need to be near Catra, holding her close. She saw herself being able to stay like this for the whole night, bundled together and cozy.

Catra nuzzled into her neck, nipping and kissing the skin there. Her teeth were gentle, caring. Her breath came out hot, condensating the skin it passed over.

With Catra's body weighing on her, Adora didn't want to move. She wanted to be under her girlfriend forever, safe from the world.

As they cuddled, Catra's shifting thigh came dangerously close to brushing against Adora's nethers. Adora closed her legs, ensuring Catra had to straddle her hips instead.

Adora wanted to guard against Catra brushing up against her clit, whether it was intentional, or by accident. She needed to calm down a bit before she could take any more contact down there.

Her muscles were still quivering now and then. It was like some symptom of her agonizing bliss lingered, ebbing away over several minutes.

They laid together for some time, peering into each other's eyes and examining the details on each other's face. Adora noticed the fur around Catra's mouth had become disheveled, matted with slick.

Adora cupped Catra's cheek, her thumb caressing the wet fur around Catra’s mouth. She brushed the short, tousled strands back into their natural direction.

"I made a mess of you," Adora said, moving her thumb to brush Catra's upper lip next.

Catra smirked, looking pleased with herself.

Catra waited as Adora finished brushing her fur into its proper place. Soon she was purring at the contact.

Adora couldn't do much to groom away the natural lubricant—it was too adhered to the stands—so the fur remained slick with her essence.

It was still a bit matted once she was finished, but at least it wasn't pointing in wild directions anymore.

Catra leaned in for a "thank you" kiss. Their mouths met, and Adora could taste a hint of herself on Catra's tongue. It was a tangy taste that Adora could never decide if she liked or disliked. She hoped Catra had enjoyed it, at least.

They made out for some time, and soon Adora was gasping for air between kisses.

When they separated, Adora was out of breath again—and only just after calming herself down.

“I can’t believe we just did that,” Catra said, breaking into subdued giggles, as if she’d gotten away with doing something naughty.

The sound of her joy was contagious, and Adora fell into a fit of snickering along with her. They both tried to stifle their laughter, which made them laugh even harder.

Adora clutched her girlfriend close as they both shook with giggles.

Eventually they were able to ground themselves, and the laughter subsided.

Catra sat up, straddling Adora's hips with a big smile plastered over her face. She slipped away from Adora's hold, but not out of reach.

Adora was glad not to lose bodily contact. Right now, she wanted that forever. This moment was perfect, as far as she was concerned.

She grasped Catra's hands, locking their fingers together.

“I didn’t think this is how tonight would go,” Catra said. She shifted slightly, getting more comfortable in her place atop Adora. There was still a damp stain on Catra's pant leg—the lingering evidence of where Adora had been grinding herself against her.

“Catra, do you think we’re moving too fast?” Adora asked.

Catra tilted her head.

“What I mean is–” Adora continued. She hoped she could explain without sounding like she didn’t want more nights like this. “–I don’t know if it’s normal for couples to be doing this so soon.”

Catra scoffed. “Who cares what’s normal? We should do whatever we want.”

“You don’t feel like we’re rushing?”

She shrugged. “Do you?”

Adora bit her lip. “I don’t know. I’m glad we did this.”

“I’m sensing a 'but' there.”

“Not so much a ‘but.’ I’m just worried about going too fast and… and messing this up.”

“Adora, I’ve been thinking about doing this for a while. You’re not gonna mess this up because you started having sex with me. I wanted this. A lot.” Catra blinked, as if suddenly realizing something. “Wow, that was surreal to say out loud.”

Adora was floored.

They’d only been together a little over a month, and Catra had been thinking about this for a while? What did that mean? Had she started thinking about this a few weeks ago, or was it longer? Had been thinking about this before they’d gotten together? Maybe even before their falling out, when Adora had left the Horde?

“How long?” Adora blurted out.

Catra tensed, staring ahead blankly. “Uhhh…”

“You don’t have to answer,” Adora added.

Catra bit her lip, contemplating nervously. “I’ll say…it’s definitely been on my mind a lot more often these past five weeks.”

So she thought about me that way before we got together. Interesting.

“What about you?” Catra asked. The question came out with hints of hesitancy.

Adora felt her face flush hot, like she’d been caught doing something bad.

A stupid reaction. Why should she be embarrassed? It was clear they’d both liked each other long before she’d become She-Ra.

“Sometimes I thought about it,” Adora admitted. “Back when we were in the Horde, I mean. But I never did anything about it back then.”

“Yeah, I know,” Catra laughed, then paused in realization, seeing Adora's arched eyebrow. “Wait. You mean–”

Adora sighed. “Yeah, I mean that.”

“So that means–” Catra said, grinning mischievously, “–that you’ve been doing something about it these last few weeks?”

Adora couldn’t stop embarrassing herself tonight, could she?

“Yes,” Adora said, and pursed her lips. She couldn’t believe she was admitting to masturbating to her imaginings of Catra. For some reason that felt embarrassing, even right after having sex with her.

“When?” Catra said, leaning forward and squeezing Adora’s hands. She was clearly enjoying this line of questioning.

“Sometimes when I'm showering,” Adora admitted.

“Yeah?” Catra’s grin grew wide. “I think about you in the shower too.” She winked.

Something in Adora's chest did a flip. Never would she have imagined that Catra was thinking about her while doing that. Before today, she’d never considered that anyone would think about her in that way.

Catra continued. “And sometimes I think about you…in another place.”

“What other place?”

Catra let out a wicked giggle, toying with Adora's hands as she held them. “You’re gonna think I’m so dirty.”

“Now you have to tell me.”

Catra was blushing hard now. She bit her lip, unable to suppress her smile.

“What other place?” Adora urged.

“Promise not to be weird about it? It’s kinda freakish.”

“I promise,” she said.

She really wanted to know. What location could be so bad as to make Catra act so bashful about it?

Catra took a deep breath. “Okay. Sometimes, when we’re sleeping together, spooning you makes me horny,” she said. She stared at one of their pillows instead of Adora. “Really horny. So, I wait until you fall asleep, then I move away from you a bit. Carefully, so I don’t wake you up. And I masturbate for a while.”

Adora’s mouth dropped open. “Wow.”

“Yeah.” Catra still didn’t look at her. Clearly this was a lot for her to admit.

It was a lot to take in too. Catra had been pleasuring herself right next to her while she slept. Adora waited for feelings of betrayed trust or disgust to wash over her, but they didn’t. She knew the act was perverted. Shouldn't she be feeling some kind of negative emotion in reaction? That wasn't what came to her though. Instead she felt…flattered? Elation?

"That was kind of messed up of me, huh?" Catra said.

"A little bit," Adora said.

Catra's ears drooped.

Adora quickly added, "but it's kind of hot too."

Catra's ears rose again, and she dared a shy glance in Adora's direction. "Yeah?"

"Yeah." Adora detached her hands from Catra's, placing them on Catra's waist instead. She began tracing her girlfriend's curves. "Do I really make you that horny? Just from cuddling?"

Catra nodded. She puffed out her chest as Adora's hands travelled up to her breasts.

"Something about your body against mine is just…" Catra let out an uncharacteristically dreamy sigh.

"Takes the restraint right out of you?"

Catra snorted a laugh. "I have restraint."

"Oh, sure."

"I do!" She raised her arms, locking her fingers together behind her head. "Most of the time."

Adora drank in the sight of her girlfriend, arms up and eyes half lidded. She looked like a remarkably handsome seductress. If any time she was glad for Catra showing off, it was right now, striking this sexy pose for her.

Adora laced her fingers into the thick, charcoal fur that was prominent in the center of Catra's chest. The dark strands were concentrated mostly between her breasts, but she noted that there were some of those longer, charcoal-coloured hairs around her nipples as well. And of course there was the treasure trail on her tummy that kept drawing Adora's gaze. Right now though, Adora's eyes were on the dark, sweat-dampened fluff of Catra's armpits.

A thrill jolted through Adora at the mere thought of her girlfriend's scent there. Catra’s deodorant had such a lovely, rich spice to it. She would love to take it in from the source rather than just brief wafts of it by proxy. And there was, of course, the underlying scent to enjoy as well.

Still, Adora didn't dare sit up and try to smell her. She'd gathered that her particular kink toward aromas wasn't the norm. She didn't want to leave her comfort zone by sharing it with Catra just yet. Maybe, in time, she would tell her girlfriend about that part of her sexuality. For now, she would take things slow.

As Adora continued to admire Catra's furry body, it struck her that Catra's dark fur placement was reminiscent of the typical body hair locations on many peoples of Etheria. She wondered if she would find more of those dark hairs on Catra's legs. More eagerly, she wanted to see the end point of that handsome trail of dark fur on Catra's navel.

With one hand still petting Catra's chest fluff, Adora lowered the other to stroke along Catra's thighs. They were still unfairly covered in fabric.

She wanted to change that.

Curiosity burned within her. She was tempted to push Catra off of her and take the rest of her girlfriend's clothes off, but that action seemed a little too crude for this moment.

She decided to hint at what she wanted instead, and sent both of her hands to Catra's waist. There she traced around Catra's beltline, fingers brushing through the soft fur of her tummy.

Catra lowered her arms, hands closing on Adora's wrists. There her palms travelled up Adora's limbs, coming to rest on her shoulders. Her strong hands began kneading Adora's muscles there, releasing a tension that Adora didn't even know she had.

Adora let out a contented moan. Her desire to see Catra disrobed became a foggy thought, replaced by this new and intense satisfaction.

Catra smirked as her massaging hands moved along to Adora's collarbone. Her palms pressed firmly into the flesh, easing away a deep ache. Adora had never even noticed it was a part of herself, but she'd always needed this release of tension. The relief of it was intoxicating.

Adora's fingers, only barely remembering what they'd been doing, pressed their tips down Catra's beltline.

“Not yet," Catra said in a low, soothing voice. "I’m gonna give you a massage.”

“You just want an excuse to touch my boobs,” Adora complained. But she let her hands drop onto Catra's thighs anyway.

“Well, duh.”

Catra's hands did indeed travel to Adora's breasts next, but her touch wasn't like before. Where once there had been passionate urgency, now there was a slow but gentle curiosity.

She traced over Adora's form, not stopping at any particular place. Not even lingering when a single circling of a nipple drew out a subtle, but vocal, reaction from Adora.

Adora realized then that the touching was only exploratory. Catra was doing it not with any particular goal in mind, but simply to take in the details of Adora's body. Now that things had slowed down between them, Catra wasn't trying to keep the mood shifted towards sex. This was something else. Something softer, but equally intimate. It was Catra getting to know her.

As Catra's hands continued to caress all over her chest and shoulders, Adora decided that she could wait a little longer to see the rest of Catra's physique. They had all night together. They had the rest of their lives together. Why rush? Catra was enjoying herself. She didn't want to spoil it for her.

And not only did Adora delight in making her girlfriend happy, but the sensations of those massaging hands were becoming so soothing that—for entirely selfish reasons—she didn't want it to end.

Adora closed her eyes. Her breathing had begun to slow in her growing state of relaxation. She took a deep breath, craving the oxygen.

Catra took Adora's arm in hand, tracing along her bicep.

"I love your muscles so much," Catra mumbled.

Adora grinned. "Yeah?"

"Yeah. Flex for me?"

Adora chuckled, then obliged her by flexing the arm Catra was holding.

Catra's hands stroked over the hardened flesh. "That's hot," she whispered.

Adora laughed in delight. She was glad to know that the part of herself she worked very hard at was so appreciated.

When Catra finished with her arm’s various muscles, she turned her attention to Adora’s hand.

She began massaging her fingers one at a time, taking each knuckle and rolling them between thumb and forefinger. When she finished there, she did the same for the other hand.

It was soothing, and made Adora feel just a bit drowsy. Her eyelids drooped as she stared at Catra with a dumb smile plastered on her face.

Catra saw her staring, grinned, and leaned down to kiss her.

Her lips pressed against Adora's, lingering briefly. There was no hard passion or heat behind it. Catra's contact was only a quick deliverance of love before she sat up again.

"Turn over for me?" Catra said, lifting her weight off of her.

All too happy to let her keep doing what she was doing, Adora flipped herself onto her belly. She crossed her arms before her, settling her forehead into the crook of her elbow.

Catra let out a hiss of air, as though she's been stung.

"Catra?"

No answer came.

She felt Catra's weight return, settling onto her thighs.

The massaging hands didn't return.

"I did this?" Catra's voice came low, and riddled with inner pain.

The scars, Adora realized.

"Catra? It's okay," Adora said, trying to inject as much truth as she could into her voice.

Catra traced the claws of one hand lightly across Adora's back, following the lines of where she had buried them in Adora's flesh during the Battle for Bright Moon.

Adora knew there were twin claw marks there, starting at her shoulder blades and trailing down several inches. In the time since then, they hadn't faded. The lines were still pink.

"I'm so sorry," Catra said. "I'm so, so sorry."

Adora twisted herself back around. "Hey, I know. I know."

Catra looked at her with such a defeated expression, ears low, eyes swimming.

Adora pulled her down and embraced her.

Catra settled into her arms. Her hands curled into fists, and her body tensed.

"What matters now is that I love you," Adora told her. "That part of our life is over, and I forgive you," Catra nodded, but said nothing.

"Hey, you hear me?" Adora gently nudged Catra away so that she could look her girlfriend in the eyes. "I forgive you."

"I know, but…" Catra took a steadying breath. "I did a lot of lasting damage."

Adora knew she wasn't only talking about Adora's back, or only about Adora in general.

Adora recognized this guilt. She'd grown accustomed to feeling it in herself, and had eventually learned to deal with it. Move beyond it. Now she often saw the same guilt in Catra.

"We'll do what we can to fix it. What we can't fix, we'll make up for in other ways."

Catra's gaze fixated on the bedsheets rather than on her. Adora could see her mind working through her emotions.

Adora waited, resting a comforting hand on Catra's waist.

"Thank you," Catra eventually said, and again settled back against her. "I love you."

"I love you too."

Adora stroked her back, tracing the fur along her spine.

"Sorry to kill the moment. I just…I hadn't seen your back before. I didn't know it was that bad."

"Yeah…but it's pretty sexy, right? Big scars?" Adora said.

Catra snorted. "I'm being serious."

Now that Adora had gotten her to smile, she had to keep going. "Yeah, but come on, I know you like muscles. You must like scars too. It's a package deal when you're with an eight foot tall warrior goddess, after all."

Catra chuckled. "I suppose."

"I must've left a couple on you over the years," Adora said. "And I kinda like scars too."

"Oh?" Catra said. She sat up, straddling Adora's hips again.

"Show me a couple."

Catra smirked and shook her head. "Alright, you weirdo."

She held out her arm, parting some of the fur just above her elbow. There was a long, thin bald spot hidden below the strands.

"This is where you cut me when we were trying to scout another opening into Salineas," Catra said.

Adora rubbed the back of her neck. "Yeah, I tried to use the flat of the blade as often as I could. Sorry."

Catra just smiled and shrugged. "It's fine." She offered up her other arm. "You got me again over here, at the shoulder." She began to dig through the fur on her right arm. "...somewhere around here."

Adora shooed Catra's hand out of the way and began to search for it herself.

She parted areas of the fur until she found it, another thin slash near Catra's bicep.

"What about this one?" Adora asked, sliding her thumb along it.

"Skirmish outside of Dryl," Catra said.

That had been a rough fight. The Horde were looting Entrapta's castle while Adora and her friends were trying to stop them. Little did the Rebellion know that the Horde were actually there to pick up some things under the permission of Entrapta herself.

"Ahh," Adora nodded, remembering. She pointed to her jawline, under her cheek. "Same battle you scratched me here."

Catra leaned in. "It's a bit faded, but I see it." She planted a quick kiss against the scar. "I don't remember giving you that one."

"I don't remember getting a lot of my scars." Adora said. "Like this one." She showed a small scrape along her forearm. "It was there after a fight early in the war. No idea how I got it."

"I have a few like that," Catra said. "I think I have a couple on my back too. Could never check though."

"Oh? Where abouts?"

"One up on my shoulder blade and another above my tail, to the right."

Adora grinned. "Well I'm not gonna pass up a chance to examine you. Lay down."

Grinning, Catra climbed off of her. She settled down on the bed and rolled onto her stomach. Her tail began swishing through the air, as it always did whenever she was excited.

"And don't think I'm done with you." Adora said, sitting up.

She traced a hand down Catra's bare back. When she reached Catra's bottom, she gave one of Catra's cheeks a squeeze through the fabric.

"I'll get these pants off of you soon. It's not fair that I'm the only one naked," Adora said, trying out a sultry tone.

"Mmm," Catra hummed, pulling over a pillow to rest her head on. "I'm looking forward to it."

Now that Catra was lying down, her fur patterns were on full display. Long bands of terra-cotta brown fur covered her body in symmetrical form. A long, vertical strip of dark fur also trailed along her lower spine, melding into her tail. It mimicked the trail along her navel in the front.

Catra's tail was idly swishing side to side in the air. Adora took it in her hand, sliding it through her palm. She felt the sections of vertebrae under the fur, through the skin. Each bone was slightly smaller than the last.

Near the base of her tail, where it disappeared into the pants fabric, there was a button along the waistline, securing her tail in its special opening. The pants were tailored for people with rear appendages, allowing for both modesty and tail freedom.

Adora ran her hands over the slight curve of Catra's bottom, giving it another appreciative squeeze.

Her middle finger circled the opening where Catra's tail poked through. Then she sank it through the hole.

She slid her finger through the crevice under Catra's tail, giving a slow stroke between her cheeks. The fur there was warm with body heat.

Catra's tail lifted, encouraging further exploration.

Adora didn’t want to linger there. Not yet.

Instead, she retreated her finger, and began focusing her efforts overtop the fabric. She guided her hand over Catra's bottom, trailing along until her fingers were down between Catra's thighs. She followed the curve of her girlfriend’s body. Her fingertips found themselves approximately at Catra's entrance, where she gave a light press through the fabric.

Catra gasped at the application of pressure.

"Just teasing," Adora cooed, removing her hand. "But I'll be back there soon."

She leaned down and pressed her lips behind Catra's ears.

"I can't wait to see what you have for me under those clothes," she murmured against her fur.

Catra made an impatient noise into the pillow.

"Shhh," Adora soothed. "I promised to examine you first."

Again, Catra pouted, her vocalizations muffled by the pillow.

Smiling, Adora mounted herself upon Catra's rear, just as Catra had done to her earlier. “We’ll get to the good stuff soon.”

Catra's tail came to coil around Adora's waist, settling into place there.

Adora set out on her task to search for scars, but mostly, she was marvelling at Catra's back. Even though Catra's form was hidden under a layer of fur, she could see the impressions of a fit woman. Muscles could be read in the peaks and valleys of her lean body.

Her fingers combed through the fur on Catra’s back, following the lines of her physique. She began kneading around Catra’s shoulder blades. There she could sense the subtle vibrations of purring reverberating through her body.

As she massaged, her thumbs parted the fur, revealing the bronze skin underneath.

Scars would be hard to spot in this, she knew, but she was happy enough to try. It was the perfect excuse to get to know Catra's body.

Until tonight, she'd kept her hands fairly restricted, not daring to touch Catra in any way that might be taken as lustful. A touch on the waist here, a brushing of fingers on her spine there, but nothing beyond that.

Now that they'd made love, Adora didn't feel any discomfort touching Catra anywhere on her body. It was as though a metaphorical gate had been opened, and now nothing was off limits. She had complete trust in Catra, and had no doubt in her mind that her girlfriend felt the same about her.

She bent forward, pressing her face into the fur between Catra's shoulder blades. The scent of her girlfriend sent blissful tingles to her brain.

She planted a kiss there before sitting back up, wiping a strand of fur from her lips.

"It's hard to find anything in all this fur, babe," Adora said.

"'Babe?'" Catra said. Her tone spoke of a coming onslaught of teasing.

Heat rushed to Adora's face. She'd never called Catra by that pet name before. It seemed like the right moment to try it out, but as soon as she'd said it, she just wanted to take it back.

Catra wiggled under her, spinning herself so that she was lying on her back instead. She had the most mischievous smile plastered across her face.

"I'm your babe now, am I?"

Adora bit back a smile and shrugged. Why was she smiling? She'd just said something so incredibly embarrassing.

Yet, she didn't want to run away or hide. In fact, she didn't want to take her words back.

"Baaabe," Catra said, drawing out the word with a sexy vocal fry and smirking at her.

Adora had never been able to work up the courage to try out a pet name when they'd first gotten together. But now, she knew it was okay. Adora could try out things like this in front of Catra. She could mess up, embarrass herself, and it would always be fine.

Being comfortably imperfect was part of who they were together. It was why they could be such good partners.

"Baaaaabe," Catra said again, sounding it out to herself. She swept back her bangs, then tucked her hands behind her head. "Yeah, that sounds good on me."

Adora laughed. "It does."

Catra fixed her with that meltingly hot half-lidded gaze of hers. "I think it would sound good on you too."

"Yeah?"

"Yeah. C'mere, babe."

Adora laughed again, and leaned forward to kiss her. Adora's blonde locks fell around their faces once they got close.

"You think you're so smooth right now, don't you?" she said, brushing her lips against Catra's.

"I'm always smooth," Catra said, and kissed her.

Adora dragged her fingers up Catra's torso before coming up to cup the sides of her face.

She licked against Catra’s lips, then pressed her tongue between them.

With enthusiasm and smiles, Catra received her. Her purrs echoed into their joined mouths.

Every breath tasted of Catra. Smelled of Catra.

Clawed hands came up to clutch at Adora's back, digging at her skin and pulling her closer.

She left Catra's mouth, moving instead to dig her face into the crook Catra's neck. She bit lighty through the fur, raking her teeth against the skin.

Catra moaned her assent.

Her hand flew up to Adora's scalp, combing through her loose hair.

The other hand disappeared from its place on Adora's back, reappearing between their bodies.

Adora assumed the motion was meant for her, but as the hand approached their joined hips, Catra's legs were the ones that parted for it.

Catra began rubbing herself. The noise of fingers scrubbing fabric harmonized with Catra's increasingly heavy breaths.

"Impatient," Adora chidded.

Catra nipped playfully at her ear. "Only because you're a tease."

Adora's mound bumped the arm Catra was using to masturbate. She gave the surface a light press, testing her sensitivity.

Taking it as an invitation, Catra's upturned her busy hand, and set it to work on Adora instead.

Two of Catra's fingers touched lightly against Adora's hood, beginning with delicate, slow circles. The little bundle of nerves underneath sent a violent twitch through Adora's lower body.

She whimpered against Catra's neck.

Catra paused her movements. "Still sensitive?"

Adora nodded.

"Want me to stop?"

"Yeah," she said. "I just need some more time."

Catra's hand retreated, instead choosing to trace her claws over the curve of Adora's hip.

"Poor thing," Catra said in a babying voice. "I was being so gentle too."

Adora burst out laughing. "Shut up."

She rolled off of Catra, falling onto the bed beside her. She slid her arm under Catra's back, pulling her close into a cradle.

"Maybe I should see how sensitive you are," Adora said, leaning her face close to Catra's.

Catra pecked her with a kiss on the nose. "Maybe you should."

Smiling, Adora brought her free hand down on Catra's tummy, then slid it down to Catra's groin.

Catra opened her legs wide for Adora's approaching hand. She sighed with palpable relief when Adora pressed her fingers against her.

The fabric there felt damp and hot under her fingers.

Adora lingered for only a moment, stroking the surface until Catra's breath hitched for more.

When Adora pulled her hand away, she dragged her fingers up through the thick, dark strip of hair across Catra's belly button.

"I love your treasure trail," Adora said, working her fingers through it.

"Yeah?"

"Mhmm, it's sexy."

Adora's fingers moved toward Catra's waistline. She teased the fur along the edge for a moment, then flicked open the button of her pants.

"Can't wait to see what's at the end of it."

Catra let out a breathy chuckle. "Just a fair warning, I don't trim or anything."

"That's all right." Adora began unzipping Catra's fly.

She felt Catra's shoulders relieve a little tension.

"Were you worried I wouldn't like that?" Adora asked.

Catra shrugged. "I guess. Since you'd cleaned up yourself down there, I thought, maybe…"

Adora gave her a reassuring kiss. "I like your fur." She ran her hand up Catra's chest, raking through the thickest of the fur between her breasts. "Actually, I love it."

With her girlfriend's smile secured, Adora returned her hand to the open fly of Catra's pants.

Her fingernails traced along the edge, flicking up the elastic waist of Catra's underwear.

Catra's eyes locked on Adora's hand, and Adora followed her gaze.

Together they watched her hand slip into Catra’s boxers.

The first things Adora sensed were the intense warmth and humidity trapped down there.

Her fingertips found a mass of disheveled hair, all of it damp. Catra's breath caught as soon Adora’s fingers brushed against it.

Adora eagerly pressed into the tangle of curls. The wet strands clung to her skin.

Her knuckles brushed against the inside of Catra's boxers. The fabric there was coated with a layer of slick.

She further immersed her hand into the thicket between Catra’s thighs. She found that much more of Catra's secretions were trapped inside it all.

"You are a mess down there," Adora teased.

Catra looked away, her expression turning embarrassed.

Adora leaned in close, and whispered in her ear. "I like that I make you so wet."

To punctuate her statement, Adora pressed her middle finger all the way through the tangle of hair. She found the smooth folds underneath, and started with a probing stroke bottom to top.

Catra whimpered quietly at her touch.

Adora smirked at her, and let her finger come to rest against the hooded nub at the top of her folds.

She brushed some of Catra's bush out of the way, then began working her with slow circles.

Catra gasped hard, furrowing her brow. She clamped her palm over the bulge in her pants that was Adora's rotating hand.

Adora brought her movements to a standstill. "Tell me if it's too much," she said.

"Keep going," Catra breathed. "Please. Keep going."

Catra rolled in Adora's cradling arm, turning her body toward Adora. Their lips found each other, connecting with a delicate press.

Adora began stirring her fingers against Catra's hood.

Catra's hand slid up to grip Adora's arm—the one that had its hand down Catra's pants. She grasped it in a way that told Adora to keep going, but also that she could easily stop the movements if they became too intense for her.

Smirking, Adora increased her speed. By a lot.

Catra threw her head back, pursed lips quieting another whimper of pleasure.

Adora chased after those lips, following some primal instinct to be as close as she could be to her lover. She leaned in for another kiss, staring into Catra's eyes as she did so. She could read the twitches in Catra's brow, a reaction to the pleasure that her fingers were bringing.

"Do you like it like this?" Adora asked. "Or–" She changed her technique, settling Catra's clit between two digits. She began stroking her fingertips up and down between her labia. "–do you prefer it like this?"

Catra's response came when she suddenly arched her back, moaning some incoherent affirmation.

With a confident grin forming on her face, Adora began massaging vertically through Catra's folds. She dragged her fingers over her clit each time, working back her hood with every cycle of movement.

Catra's hips began to writhe in Adora's grasp. Her breathing became erratic and heavy.

"Are you close?" Adora asked. The signs were there, and she didn't want to end this yet.

"I think so," Catra breathed. "You feel so good."

Adora slowed her movements to a crawl, then stopped entirely.

"I haven't even undressed you yet," she teased.

She removed her hand from Catra's boxers. Her fingers were shiney with slick. A stray pubic hair clung to her middle digit.

"Told you I was hairy," Catra said, sounding breathless.

"You sure are."

Adora picked the strand off and flicked it away.

Before she could do anything else, Catra took hold of her wrist again. She brought Adora's hand to her mouth.

Realizing what she was doing, Adora extended the two fingers with the film of lubricants all over them.

Catra took them in her mouth. Her lips puckered around them, and she sucked the fluid away. Her tongue finished the job by licking its way all over Adora's digits.

She eyed Adora the whole time, as if to say "do you like this?"

Adora did like that, and she wouldn't have been able to keep the grin off of her face if she'd wanted to.

Catra let her fingers go, then swallowed the mixture down.

"That was hot," Adora said.

"I know," she purred.

Catra then reached under herself and undid her tail button.

Before Catra could start undressing herself, Adora sat up and took the waist of Catra's pants in hands. She wanted to be the one providing the service. It would be sexier that way. Plus she wanted Catra to be lying on her back and relaxing.

Catra leaned back, settling herself into the soft mattress. She watched Adora with anticipation in her eyes.

Cloth in hand, Adora began sliding Catra's pants down. She revealed fur-covered thighs, and soon the rest of Catra’s legs were bared.

Black boxers remained, and she took those in hand next.

"I wanna go down on you," Adora said. "That okay?"

Catra nodded, a bashful smile forming on her face.

Only in Adora’s wildest fantasies had she imagined what was about to happen.

Adora rolled the boxers down Catra's thighs, revealing a wild thicket of dark hair at the junction. The strands glistened beautifully, catching the light from the bedside lamp.

She slid the boxers off the rest of the way, freeing Catra’s legs.

Even with thighs splayed wide, Catra's bush was full enough that it almost entirely hid what was underneath.

Adora reached out, parting aside the untamed hair. She brushed her thumb against the prominent inner labia that she found underneath, making Catra's hips twitch.

Snatching up a pillow, Catra readjusted her position for optimal comfort, then settled the pillow under her head.

Adora took in the sight of her fully nude girlfriend. She soaked up every detail, as though some part of her feared she would never get to see such perfection again.

"Like what you see?" Catra said, tail swishing side to side.

"Definitely," Adora said.

She turned her attention back to that wonderful place between Catra's thighs.

Laying herself down on her tummy, Adora brought her face close to Catra's bush.

As she leaned in, an unmistakable aroma came up to meet her. A sharp and rich muskiness—no doubt intensified by all the damp fur. It wasn't an off-putting fragrance, but rather a natural pungency that made her want Catra even more.

Adora trailed her nose close along Catra's inner thigh, inhaling the wonderful smell of her.

As she drew closer to Catra's mound, the scents changed. Her dampened bush increased the strength of her musk, but there was another smell too. Something delightfully strong, almost earthy.

Adora followed the smell to its source. She found it most intense when her nose finally brushed against the wet hairs around Catra's folds. It wasn't a scent that she'd call offensive—she would guess even people without her particular infatuation with smells wouldn't be turned off by it—but it was certainly a strong aroma.

Unable to resist the urge, she pressed her nose into the thick, damp hair above Catra's folds and inhaled deeply. The sharp smell filled her nose, making her brain soar.

Her lips swept against the soft curls, tickling her skin.

She pressed her face further into the mass, wanting more, nuzzling into it. Again, she sniffed in the wonderful scent.

"Do I…smell good?"

Adora looked up to find Catra watching her with an amused expression, one eyebrow raised questioningly.

Embarrassment welled up within her. She buried her face against Catra’s thigh, attempting to hide. And for some reason, she also wanted to laugh.

And why not? It was funny.

Sniffing her girlfriends pubes. Such a silly thing to do.

The thought of actually having done it made her start to giggle uncontrollably.

"What're you laughing at?" Catra said, smiling along in a desire to be included, but was frowning in confusion as to what the joke even was.

"Sorry," Adora said, through her giggles. "Yes. Yes, I like the way you smell."

Catra eyed her with a puzzled expression. "You're so weird," she said.

"I know," Adora said, and kissed Catra's inner thigh.

Catra reached down and tucked some of Adora's blonde locks behind her ear, then caressed a gentle claw over her cheek.

"Don't know how I'd put up with it if you weren't so pretty," Catra said.

She thinks I'm pretty.

Adora already knew that Catra felt that way about her already. Yet, hearing it gave her an exhilarating wave of pride in herself, despite Catra having told her before.

"I like your smell. And I like that you're so hairy," Adora admitted.

"That's good to hear, because I shaved once and it was stupidly itchy. Never again."

Adora laughed. "It's alright. I wouldn't ask you to."

Catra reached down and combed her fingers through her pubes. "It looked really stupid anyway. One bald spot on my whole body."

"Anything would look good on you."

Catra chuckled. "Usually true, but you wouldn't be saying that if you'd seen it."

It was hard to imagine Catra with nothing but stubble down below. Everything about her fur looked so right as it was.

"Now," Catra dragged her fingers through the hair around her nethers again, then parted it. She spread open her dark labia, revealing the vibrant pink inside. "I think you mentioned going down on me?"

"I might've," Adora said with a smirk.

She bowed her head towards Catra's glistening core. Her brain went into overdrive, nervousness and excitement battling for attention inside herself.

There was no time to let the thoughts manifest before she'd closed the distance. The flat of her tongue met the spread between Catra's lower lips, and she got her first taste of another woman.

Catra's natural lubricants had a tang similar to sweat, though without the saltiness. It was a neutral flavour, neither good nor bad. She licked bottom to top, as Catra had done to her.

Catra let out a happy sigh. "Your tongue feels really nice."

Both of Catra's hands found their way to Adora's scalp, where they gathered her loose hair into a ponytail.

Smiling against Catra's folds, Adora continued to explore. She probed around Catra's inner labia, familiarizing herself with the landscape.

She soon found Catra responded well to licks between her inner and outer labia. Quick strokes there set her to moaning softly and rocking her hips forward.

Contented with the results, Adora decided to explore a little lower. She found Catra's entrance. The flesh there was slick and ready, pouring out warmth.

Extending her tongue as far as she could manage, Adora pressed into her girlfriend.

Catra whimpered, bucking against the penetration.

Deep inside, Catra tasted different. She was tart and sweet there, almost like a mild syrup.

Adora strained her tongue to its limits, enjoying both the taste and the sound of Catra, who was mewling for Adora's efforts.

She pressed in as far as she could. The wet curls around Catra's entrance coated her cheeks in fluid.

She relished the messiness of it all. The unfamiliar smells. The strange tastes. Everywhere was wet, and there was dishevelled hair all around her. Going down on Catra was a lovely foray into the unknown. And it was fun.

"Adora," Catra breathed. "I want you to finger me."

Happy to oblige, Adora pulled away. She licked her finger, coating it with saliva. Lining it up at Catra’s entrance, she eased into her.

Only one stroke and she was fully inside.

Catra's hips shivered.

"More," she begged. "Two fingers. I need two."

Adora added another finger.

Catra whined as Adora slid into her. Her heated, silky walls contracted around Adora's digits.

"Good?" Adora asked.

Catra began gyrating her hips against Adora's palm. "Move," she whimpered. "Please."

Adora rocked her hand forward, moving in tandem with Catra's hips.

Catra dropped her palm onto the back of Adora's hand. She began pulling Adora in with each thrust of her fingers, encouraging her to go deeper.

The other hand was still holding Adora's ponytail. Though as Catra lost concentration, some blonde locks started falling loose.

Adora returned to licking among Catra's folds, teasing the area.

After a moment spent there, Adora moved higher. Her tongue found Catra's sensitive bud, swollen and protruding from its hood.

On contact, Catra cried out her name.

Adora started with rotations of her tongue. She circled Catra’s clit in quick movements, feeling it pulse against her.

She curled her thrusting fingers up inside Catra, finding a soft, ribbed area that was familiar to her.

Curious if that place would make Catra feel good too, Adora started massaging it. With each stroke, her fingertips pressed lightly against the spongey flesh.

The response was immediate. Catra screamed Adora’s name, arching her back. Her hips gave a light jolt against Adora’s face.

Remembering that Catra preferred vertical movements, Adora changed her technique. She began sliding her tongue up and down, licking over Catra’s clit, rather than circling.

“It feels so good,” Catra gasped. “I love you. I love you.”

Adora unbowed her head. “I love you too.”

Catra grabbed Adora’s scalp with both hands. She pushed Adora back down with some gentle forcefulness.

“Don’t stop, babe. Please,” Catra said.

Once again, Adora found her nose buried in that wonderfully aromatic tangle. She grinned as she sniffed it in.

Her tongue resumed its work, as did her fingers.

“I feel warm, like before,” Catra said. “Don’t stop.”

Adora didn't respond with words. Her actions acted as her voice right now.

She settled into an unending repetition of friction. She drove her tongue over Catra's clit in the exact way that made her girlfriend writhe the most. Her fingers thrust over and over, curling against that ridged spot inside Catra until her back began to arch.

She licked and fingered her girlfriend, driving her further toward the edge. She could read the end approaching in Catra's huffing breaths.

Catra's grip on Adora's ponytail held fast. Adora couldn't have lifted away if she'd wanted to. But, by the stars above, she didn't want to be anywhere else in the universe right now.

With a buck of her hips, Catra let out a gasp of air. The sound of Adora's pumping fingers turned to sloppy, wet splashing. Droplets of fluid flung themselves in every direction.

"I'm coming!" Catra rasped.

Over the arching form of Catra's body, Adora could see the anguished expression of orgasm on her face.

Adora grinned against Catra's hairy mound and continued to lick her.

Catra cried out, pulling Adora's head close.

Adora's fingers coaxed more squirt from her girlfriend. The fluid gushed against her thrusting hand, splashing everywhere. It made a satisfying mess. Adora could feel the warm drops landing on her chin, neck, and wrist.

Catra gulped in breaths of air. Her muscles unclenched, and her curving spine straightened.

No signal came for Adora to halt, so she didn't relent.

"Don't stop," Catra said in a slurred voice.

Adora didn’t even slow down. She kept the pace steady, fast.

Again, Catra gasped. Her spine curled, her internal walls pulsed around Adora's fingers.

"Adora, I'm–" Her voice cracked, turning to a shrill whine.

Adora's pumping fingers and massaging tongue guided Catra through her second orgasm in a row.

When it began to recede, the grip on Adora's locks loosened.

"S-slow down," Catra gasped. "I'm done. I'm done."

Adora reduced the strokes of her tongue to gentle kisses. She slowed her thrusting fingers, then removed them entirely.

Catra gave a heavy, satisfied sigh. Her head flopped back against the pillow, body still trembling.

"Wow," she said, and began to laugh.

"I take it I did pretty good?" Adora asked.

"Mhmm." A broad smile crossed Catra's face. "I've never came twice in a row like that before. I didn't think multiple orgasms were a real thing, did you?"

Adora shrugged. "I never really thought about it. Sometimes I have a hard enough time getting one, let alone two."

She examined the film of Catra's slick coating her fingers, then licked them clean. She savoured the unfamiliar taste, salivating for it, before swallowing it all down.

"You didn't seem to have much trouble with it today," Catra said. She fixed Adora with that arousingly sultry gaze of hers.

Adora grinned. "Nope, I did not."

She crawled up into Catra's arms, curling her body against her girlfriend's.

“You were amazing,” Adora said.

Catra embraced her, arms and tail coiling around Adora’s body.

They leaned their faces close until they were touching. They laid like that for a while, breathing each other’s air and coming down from the excitement of lovemaking.

Adora reached up and caressed Catra’s cheek, tracing the contours of her face.

“That thing you did with your fingers…” Catra said.

“Yeah?”

“It felt really good. How did you do that?”

Adora demonstrated with her fingers, curling two of them forward. “I just did this.”

She returned her hand to Catra’s face, brushing her bangs back.

“Hmm,” Catra frowned. “I’ll have to try that next time I’m alone.”

“You mean when you’re horny and I’m sleeping next to you?” Adora said, tracing her finger down the bridge of Catra’s nose.

Catra laughed. “In that situation I might just wake you up instead.”

“I think I’d like that,” Adora said, and gave Catra a deep kiss.

Catra gave a pleased hum as their lips met. She pulled Adora closer, arms around her torso. Their legs lay in a tangle together.

Adora relished the feel of billowy fur against her naked body. She smiled into the kiss everytime Catra’s lower curls brushed against her thigh, leaving wet streaks on her skin.

There was no equivalent in Adora's life to the kind of self-pride she felt right now, knowing that she was the reason Catra was so soaked down below.

They parted their kiss with warm sighs.

“I’m a little sleepy, Adora. I don’t think I can go again.”

“That’s okay. We’ve got all day tomorrow.”

Catra grinned. “You’re right.” She nipped Adora’s chin. “I’m gonna spend all day seeing if I can get two orgasms in a row out of you too. Maybe more than two, actually.”

Warmth bloomed in Adora’s diaphragm at those words. She bit her lip and rocked her mound forward, pressing against Catra’s thigh.

If Catra had been willing, she would have definitely encouraged another round. But it was late. Catra's eyes were getting droopy. And Adora herself was starting to feel the late hour.

She pulled her hips back from Catra and took a steadying breath, willing herself to wane away her arousal.

"Should we change the sheets before we go to sleep?" Adora asked.

Catra opened her sleepy eyes and looked down at the mess near her thighs. There was a scattering of wet spots in the fabric where she'd came.

Catra shrugged. "I don't wanna get up. We can do it tomorrow." She flopped her head back down on the pillow.

"Dirty girl," Adora teased. But she joined her girlfriend anyway, settling down next to her.

They were both a mess. Catra's fur was damp and matted all over her pelvic area. Adora's skin was clammy from sweating so much. Changing the sheets wouldn't do much to keep their bed clean tonight. And who knows what they'd get up to in the morning?

Adora reached down and grabbed the blankets at the base of the bed. She tugged the fabric overtop of them both.

She turned away from Catra and waited to be spooned. It took only a second for Catra to scooch forward and fold herself against Adora's back.

Catra's arm draped over Adora's waist. Adora took Catra's hand and closed it under her own, pressing it against her breast.

They settled in together. Catra's warm breaths exhaled against Adora's neck, where Catra's face rested.

"Shower with me tomorrow morning?" Adora asked.

“That sounds nice,” Catra murmured.

They laid like that until Catra’s breaths turned deep and steady, and Adora knew her girlfriend had drifted off.

Adora smiled at how wonderful her life had become. It might have been a hard road, but it had been worth it for this.

She was happy.

Catra was happy.

They had each other, and they deserved the joy that they gave each other. Better yet, all the signs pointed toward the future being even better.

With those pleasant thoughts on her mind, Adora soon fell asleep too, anticipating tomorrow.

Chapter End Notes

> That's it for this fic. I hoped everyone who stuck through to the end enjoyed it. Maybe I'll write more for this pair, but for now I've got some other WIPs to finally finish and post. Some are for the SPOP fandom, and some are stories from other IPs.
> Of the next SPOP WIP fics I'm most likely to finish and post, the first is a Perfuma/Scorpia smut fic, in which Perfuma is trans. And the other is a Lonnie/Kyle/Rogelio poly triangle fic, also mostly smut. If you're itching for either of those, lemme know in the comments.
> Also, note that this chapter has not been beta read, proofread, or edited by anyone but me. Feel free to point out any errors or inconsistencies I've probably made, so I can make corrections.
