Summary

Catra is recently named Duke of Halfmoon and is trying to find a suitor as the world enters a new age of peace. but all of these women are stuck up and snooty. then they meet adora. a princess who is an utter dork and wonderful in every sense. she's the one they've been looking for.

super soft and magical smut! catra is they/them and if you have a problem with that then fuck off! any rude comments will be deleted :)

there will be 3 total parts to this series. part one is the connection, part 2 is action packed, and part 3 is epilogue and fluff.

happy pride month to the show that changed my life and is the reason i started writing fanfiction!

catra using they/them pronouns is amazing to me and we need more it, so im adding to the tag with this new fic of mine.

See the end of the work for more notes

It was a dull party, really. Yes it was extravagant as it usually was, but the people were bland and stiff. Most likely because the current Duke of Halfmoon was looking for a future bride to court and everyone wanted to be as upstanding as possible. It grated on Catra's nerves.

They have been to so many of these damned events already and yet none of the women Catra sought out were what they were looking for. Many of the women seeking their hand in marriage were mainly in it for the rumors of great sex they could have with them. Catra was a player, they knew that their reputation was through the grapevine ever since they first fucked a princesses brains out in the gardens. Catra loved the attention and fun of it all but it became non excitable. So, they started to turn down women when they learned what they were after.

As much as Catra loves being a spectacle, they hated having their sex life on display for all to see. Sex is a place Catra has complete control over, where they are happiest, where their parents aren't hounding them about duties and what's to be expected of them in a world that forced its problems onto the next generation. Catra hates being told what to do, and when they find a suitable bride and their parents step down, they will have more power. But… Catra also doesn't want to marry some stuck up broad, they want someone exciting and fun. Someone who challenges them.

Catra has been standing for a while, turning down suitor after suitor. They dance with some and do their best to mingle but the people at this event are all from a snooty kingdom that makes Catra wrinkle their nose up. Their scents are full of strong perfumes and oils that make Catra want to gag, so instead they keep near the food to mask the smell.

Something glistens in the crowd and Catra's eyes can't help but seek it out to give them something to do. They walk a bit closer and see the shine again, but this time Catra's eyes are drawn to a young woman's chest. A large, golden medallion with a blue stone in it's center catches the light and Catra's eyes follow the necklaces chain up the wearer's neck to see her face. She is beautiful, and she is blushing. Catra doesn't know why but they want to know what caused such milky cheeks to turn such a lovely shade of rose. When their eyes meet, the woman, a blonde with piercing blue eyes, turns away and coughs into her hand. Catra goes to approach but two women come up and spark conversation with the blonde.

Then, Catra smells their mother approaching. Catra already knows it's another set up for them. Some other woman with higher status for Catra to wed to make their kingdom more dignified and strong. Ever since the victory over the Horde, marriages and unification of strong warriors has become a massive strategy. Every couple is to wed and bear as many offspring as they can to increase their numbers since so many lives were lost during the war.

Catra gets it, they do, but they don't want to be the one to clean up the mess from their parent's generation during a war that could have been prevented if action was taken sooner and the Horde wasn't allowed so many treaties and land to 'keep the peace'. Peace is something Catra wants, but not when it is at the expense of so many precious resources that become easily used for the wrong thing by a new civilization all because 'they are invalids'. Catra feels their fangs grow at the ignorance of those rulers.

“Catra, there is a guest who wishes to dance with you. Please entertain her for at least a few minutes, alright?” Their mother asks.

Catra rolls their eyes, breaking contact with the blonde to turn towards the woman who wishes for a dance. “Fine.”

In the corner of their eye, they see their other mother, Sasha, winking. It makes Catra scoff as they take their new partner's hand and begin to lead them through a simple waltz. The woman showers them in compliments which Catra absentmindedly basks in and puts on a simple smile until the dance is over and walks away, back to the food.

Taking a sip from their drink, Catra’s ear twitches to the sound of someone murmuring ‘excuse me’, ‘sorry’, ‘pardon me’, and turns to see the gorgeous blonde from earlier approaching the table. When the two make eye contact, the blonde once again blushes and timidly makes a plate and pours a drink. Catra wants to hear her voice.

“You seem out of sorts here. Is your corset too tight?” they ask and it startles the blonde, causing her to lose a couple crackers and slight spill of her drink.

“Oh, uh, me? Yeah? I guess? I don’t-- I don’t know-- I just,” she stammers and coughs, setting her plate and drink down to pick up her mess. It makes Catra smile and watch her with interest as the girl idly hums to herself to fill the awkward space. She stands back up and straightens out a bit more properly to meet Catra, and the stance looks painful to hold. “Hello! My name is-- oh. Your eyes are just gorgeous,” the blonde says in awe and then seems to come back to herself. “S-sorry! Um, I-I’m princess Adora of Grayskull, it is an honor to-to make your acquaintance, Your Grace,” she shakes out and gives a simple curtsy and bow of her head.

Meanwhile, Catra hasn’t taken their eyes off of Adora’s lips as they watch the music that is the blonde’s voice come out of her mouth like a music box. Catra regains their composure and wafts a hand at Adora. “Please, do not bother with the pleasantries, relax.”

Adora immediately slumps and exhales with relief. “Thank you, my head is killing me from having to be so rigid.” Catra couldn’t agree more and feels themself relax a bit as well in the girl's presence.

“Not your type of scene, hm?”

Shifting on her feet with nerves, Adora caves in on herself a little bit. “No, not really. I should be looking for a suitor so as to unite my kingdom with other lands to strengthen our ties across Etheria, but I honestly mostly came for the food. I’m sick of pot roast every night!” Adora yammers and seems to get lost in her ramble as she goes. It’s adorable and Catra can’t stop grinning at this complete dork.

“Well I hope our food is better than whatever you have been sentenced to eat back home,” Catra tells her through a small chuckle and sips on their wine. “Magicat’s have a strict diet but we try to accommodate everyone.”

Adora looks at Catra and beams. “The food is amazing! Truly amazing, I have actually been trying to keep my mouth stuffed so I can avoid diplomatic talks but it’s easy with how yummy everything is.”

Catra doesn’t get it. How can someone from Castle Grayskull be so informal and adorable and slack? The blonde never stops fidgeting, she rambles and stutters and doesn’t bother to mask her emotions. She is raw and unfiltered, completely open and wants to be herself. It’s incredibly endearing and makes Catra’s heart clench. Adora is different, and the way she complemented their dual colored eyes is so cherished when all their suitors do is bring up gossip and grope their arms to get what they want.

Catra wants to know more about Adora, but not in a place where others can learn of what they have just discovered. They don’t want to share this discovery, this absolute gem, of a person.

“I know a place where you can get even better food,” Catra whispers and Adora’s eyes widen with sparkles, causing Catra’s tail to sway.

“Do not lie to me, Catra, I will not be denied good food,” Adora whispers back with a smirk.

Catra holds out an arm and Adora instantly takes it. Catra melts at the soft touch as they lead the blonde out of the ball room and down several hallways until they stop at a door and open it.

Adora gasps and takes in the private kitchen as aromas fill her nose and dazzling colors of fruits and vegetables cover the tables.

"This is my personal kitchen," Catra explains and removes their jacket to roll up their sleeves and wash their hands before beginning to wash vegetables and fruits. "Only I, and select servants, are allowed back here." They blush a bit at the admittance but keep their face down so Adora doesn't see.

"Yet you bring me here," Adora says smugly.

Catra snorts as they begin chopping food. "I can't let guests assume the food out on the buffet is all that we surmount too. As Duke, I have to represent my kingdom in every fashion and class."

"Uh-huh," she hums.

"Feel free to take a seat," they tell the blonde who is still standing, but Adora seems as though she wants to say something. "Hm?" Catra prompts.

Adora flushes and gives a small smile. “May I cook with you?” Catra’s heart flutters but doesn’t stop their steady chopping. “It-it’s just that, I never get to cook at home and I’ve always wanted to eat something of my own creation. If that’s okay?” she asks quickly and looks at Catra with hopeful eyes.

She is so tender and hesitant. Catra wonders why the world would ever let such beauty feel so confined. “Of course, Princess.” And the smile Catra receives is everything they didn’t know they had been dreaming about since they could form a thought. It’s dazzling and Catra has to bite back a purr from it’s radiance.

Adora eagerly comes up to Catra’s side and fidgets with her hands until Catra hands her a knife and tells her to mimic what they are doing.

Thus, they chop, slice, and mince all the needed foods and Catra turns on the stove to warm skillets and pots. Adora watches in fascination as the butter melts into the pans and the food is dumped in to begin roasting. Catra orders Adora on what spices and herbs to grab from the cabinet and explains how much to shake and where. All the while, Adora’s tongue is sticking out in concentration with furrowed brows.

It’s incredibly adorable and so unguarded that Catra can’t help but stare and take in the lack of grace Adora emits. Not only is it refreshing, but it grounds Catra, grounds them from losing their footing and sense of self amongst the bourgeoisie.

Soon, the food is done and the two sit down at the table. Adora's mouth visibly waters and the sight makes Catra snicker.

The table is covered in a smorgasbord of cultural Magicat foods of all types. Most people found some of these types of special, unique foods gross, and thus aren't placed out on the buffet when they have guests. Catra is anxious to see how Adora takes to it.

"I don't even know where to start," Adora says with awe and scans the massive platter. Any other day, Adora would stuff her mouth, but here she is with the Duke of Halfmoon who is sharing their most precious foods. To share your home's food is an act of peace and welcome to show your good intentions. She needs to be upstanding about this.

The two share a look and there is a charge to it that Adora can't identify, but Catra seems to have an inkling it seems.

"Here," Catra starts and leans over to prick a chopped steamed vegetable on to their claw and holds it out to Adora with a smirk. "Try this one."

Adora eyes the magicat with a smug grin as well, and carefully, while maintaining eye contact, slowly leans in to eat the food right off Catra's clawed finger. Catra shivers and their tail twitches behind them as Adora eyes droop and then close as she groans with pleasure from the taste of the food.

“Oh spirits, that’s good,” Adora moans and savors the taste before getting a glint in her eye. “May I have another?” she asks with intent and is happy when Catra understands and pricks another food, something red and juicy, for Adora to once again eat off their finger.

This time, Adora takes Catra’s half lidded gaze in stride and lets her confidence guide her to stick out her tongue, so slightly, to graze Catra’s finger as she takes the red fruit. She doesn’t miss the way Catra’s purr rumbles to life and how it is quickly squashed down.

Adora finishes the piece of amazing fruit before asking Catra, “Why do you hide it?”

Catra eyes her for a long moment and Adora is prepared to retreat and apologize, her hands going up in defense, but stops when the magicat pacifies, “It’s okay.” They sigh and their eyes are downcast. “It is against social norms to be so expressive and open with strangers. Magicat’s typically wait to forge a strong, trusting bond with someone before they show such vulnerable sides of themselves. But… with you…” they look up at Adora with warm eyes. “It’s so hard to hide when I’m with you.”

Adora gasps quietly, because that admission sounds just as vulnerable as purring. “I-I didn’t know.” Then quickly points to another dish of food. “I want to know more about you and your culture, sincerely. Um- so, tell me about…” she looks at the plate of food and notes it is some type of meat. “Tell me more about this meat here?” So eager to learn every inch and pore of Catra and their people.

Catra's honey voice tells Adora about the type of bird it is and where it lives and how it is caught for meals. All the while, Adora can't take her eyes off of Catra's mouth as she drinks in the information and etches it into her memory. She isn't sure what it is, but there is something about the Duke that makes Catra so irresistible, it's as if there is a gravitational pull between them.

It's clear Adora is staring at their mouth. Catra relishes in the attention as Adora studiously takes mental notes with affirming nods and focused brows. As Catra speaks about each food on the table as they eat, they feel themselves leaning in involuntarily. And it seems, so is Adora. It's when their faces are maybe a foot apart, half of the table eaten and tasted, that the two come back to reality and assess their current positions. Catra can clearly hear Adora's heart beat racing and the way her breathing speeds up. Leaning back, to assess how they want to go forward, Catra takes a long sip of their wine, and the movement snaps Adora out of whatever trance she was in.

Adora has a clear apology on the edge of her tongue but Catra is hasty with their words to stop her. "Do not apologize, I just… I just need to know if you know of the rumors."

"R-rumors?" she asks with truth. It seems she truly doesn't know from the way Adora almost looks protective of Catra now, as if other people having the Duke's name on their tongue with negative connotations is blasphemy.

Catra nods. "Many of the suitors who come to me are looking for… specific needs to be met. And I didn't want that to taint who I am, because there is something about you that makes me feel so much more than just a title to people.” Adora’s eyes widened with shock at the gossip.

Jaw set, Adora takes in a steadying breath and leans forward after a sip of her wine as well. “I haven’t heard those rumor’s but they do not influence my decisions. I… you… I am not allowed to want for myself, only lead and do the best for my people. Searching for someone to quench my desires was never my intention. Being just a title is tiring, but I love my people. But, you also make me feel like more than just an heir or means to an end as well, Your Grace.”

“Damned titles,” Catra hisses. “I love my country, my kingdom, my people, but I, too, want to be more than that. I want to be needed by other reasons.” The words charge the air and Adora absentmindedly licks her lips, making Catra’s chest flutter and thump.

“Then what are we without them?” Adora asks, a bit afraid but imploring.

Catra can see the worry in her eyes and slowly, slow enough to let Adora reject the advance, holds Adora’s hands and they both sigh with pleasure at the uncensored touch that is shared only for them. “We are ourselves. Losing a title doesn’t make someone any less than they already are. Titles don’t give power, actions and words do. The voice of the people does.”

“Power always feels like a burden,” Adora whispers and twitches at the admission. “I shouldn’t say that, it is not fair to those I must rule.”

“Do you like ruling, Princess?” the magicat asks and Adora can’t look away from their sweet eyes.

“More than anything. I love the people with all of my heart,” she says with passion and honesty

Catra nods and gives her hands a little squeeze. “That’s wonderful, now, what does Adora want? Because Adora is just as important as the Princess.”

A look of pain overcomes Catra’s face. They feel struck by the admission but they do their best to school their expression so Adora doesn’t get the wrong idea. “Adora,” they say, “I can see it in your eyes. No one can see you, hear you, expect things from you here. Let your heart breathe, for me?” It’s a question that Catra never thought they’d ask of someone. They may have only met tonight, but Catra feels protective of her. “Open yourself to a life of your choice.”

Blood flows with heat through Adora’s body, as if Catra flicked a match and lit the furnace in her heart. Her eyes burn from the smoke it generates, she reasons for her sudden tears, because her whole life has trained her to never show such uncouth emotion that could reveal a weakness, because those who rule must be strong and impenetrable.

But.

Adora wants to break knowing she will be looked after instead of being patronized. She wants to be broken into a million pieces and be held, because the weight of the glue trying to keep her facade together leaves her sore and tired with every waking day. In Catra's eyes she sees validation, redemption, and rest. Rest that she has been starved of since her birth. Has she ever listened to her heart since her parents conditioned her not to? That you must think logically as ruler or you will make mistakes, and she must be perfect at all costs.

The person before her makes her feel as if she is incapable of being imperfect. That Adora is more than the tiara on her head and the dress that forces her spine straight can all, in fact, come off and free her. And it's okay to release the breath she is always holding— to say she needs a moment.

Adora feels so overwhelmed that words escape her. She doesn't know how else to convey what she means, but the hands around hers are gentle and kind and Adora wants to feel more of them.

Adora crosses the line. She turns her hands in Catra's and begins to entwine their fingers together and when Catra meets her halfway the room spins. There is a thrill in her fingers as they rub against Catra's furry ones. Catra is so enveloped they can't even twitch their tail or flick their ears. They should be getting back to the party, building connections, repertoire, and relationships for their country.

It all goes out the window when their palms meet and Catra can feel Adora's warmth through their fur. No amount of socializing with those at the party can even come close to the absolute necessity of the relationship they are forging right now.

Neither of them know what compels them, but the connection between their hands makes them slump towards one another, like they have been released from invisible binds. Adora sucks in a shuddering breath as their foreheads meet. Catra purrs without shame when they feel how warm Adora is against them. They're breaths dance between them and Catra can't help but nuzzle their nose against Adora's. The blonde returns the gesture, making both of their eyes slip closed as they feel one another's skin, taste one another's breath.

With women, Catra is usually abrasive and quick to get what they want. They always ask and make sure their partner is okay, but they have never taken the time to swim in the moment and float on the clouds that fill their head. Then again, no other person has ever felt like Adora. No one has made Catra feel so secure and unguarded.

Catra wants to feel this way for the rest of their life. The universe is compelling them to reach out, to admit and give over all agency and let themself fall into Adora’s arms.

“Open… open up for me. I’m right here,” Catra begs against Adora’s milky cheek and feels no shame at the softness of their voice. “You can do it.” Catra can feel the immediate war in Adora’s brain as she fights her royal instincts to just forget about her duties for a while. It’s as if the forehead touch has connected them on a magical level. Catra can feel her frustration and fear.

Adora grips her hands harder around Catra’s, as if she is afraid they will pull back if she takes too long to respond, but Catra doesn’t budge, they squeeze back and Adora can’t help the tear that falls. Her whole life has been about duty, and not to let personal quarrels interfere with one's work, or destiny, as her dad always called it. That every moment led this very day and she should never waste it.

Didn’t my whole life lead me to this moment? Adora thinks through her haze.

“Catra…” She doesn’t know what she is trying to say but she has to say something. Catra nudges their noses together again at the breathlessness in the princesses voice. Adora nudges back.

“Don’t hold back on me,” Catra requests softly, eyes still closed, because this moment is about connection, not lust and pressure. “Who are your people without you? Every part of you is necessary, every part of you is significant and needed .”

“I can’t do this on my own, I don’t know how- I…” Adora whispers, practically begging for guidance, reassurance.

Catra glides their lips to Adora’s ear, making the blonde whimper. They say, so gently and so warm, to Adora, “I will catch you, I will lead you, I will care for you.” Adora feels more hot tears prick at her scrunched up eyes. “Let me in, and I will prove it to you.”

“Please…”

“I need you to say it. Say that you are needed. Whole and complete.”

Adora squeezes their hands harder as they obey and grunt out the words. “I am needed. I am needed, whole and complete.”

“Again. My name is…”

Catra’s voice is so soft, and their hands are so firm, and their breath against her ear relaxes her. It makes her crave everything and anything that the Duke will give her.

“M-my name is Adora…”

“And I am needed.”

Her nose is dripping. “My name is Adora, and I am needed- whole and complete.”

Catra kisses her tears away with the softest lips Adora has ever felt in her life. “Let yourself be whole, take what you need, what you want, in order to be complete.” Adora shakes and trembles as energy builds in her brain. “I’m right here,” Catra pleads again and can feel their eyes get wet. “I’m here.”

The pressure builds to the brink then vaporizes. She doesn’t want to wed for function without love as if she is an empty vessel. “Kiss me.”

Catra does and it’s miraculous. Their lips hardly touch as Catra slowly presses their mouths together and now Adora can breathe. More subtle movement and their lips hold each other. Adora is breathing easier than she ever has, and she needs more.

“Again.” They kiss again and Adora never wants to stop. Their mouth is perfect against hers. She can’t help the moan that spills out and she shivers when she feels Catra’s purr against her lips. “More, hold me, please-- please,” Adora cries and Catra is quick to pull their stools closer so they can easily hug the blonde and kiss her at the same time.

As they kiss, they breathe deeply through their noses so they never have to part. It’s dizzying and pure ecstasy as they breathe each other in, taste one another, as hands and tongues roam.

Catra threads their fingers through Adora's locks and it makes the blonde crumble and put all of her weight on to Catra who holds her up.

At this point, they have been kissing and groping for several minutes, neither feels rushed and pressured but there is a tingle of… something building, almost burning, but pleasantly.

"Adora," Catra starts and Adora nods against their mouth. They can feel it too.

"Yes."

Catra swallows and growls lowly, possessively at the willingness in the princesses voice. "There's a room— around the corner—"

"Please!" Adora whimpers and gives Catra a wet kiss. "I need you."

She needs me. The words make Catra feel as if they have grown new muscle and are hasty to pull Adora along to the nearest guest bedroom. Catra can't help but giggle at how exciting this all feels. How giddy they are about sex, when normally it's so passive and robotic.

Adora giggles with a blush and gladly follows after Catra and threads their fingers together. "I've only done this once before," she admits shyly once the door is closed behind them. Her words make the racing pace in Catra's heart slow down.

They cup Adora's cheeks and give her a sweet kiss. Adora now knows about the rumors and the Duke's body count and seems worried that she won't perform well. Catra never wants someone as pure as Adora to feel inadequate.

"Don't fret, it's all about having fun and enjoying yourself. Trust your instincts," Catra consoles her and begins to remove their vest while Adora kicks off her shoes. Then they kiss again, less heated and more patiently, like they have all the time in the world to learn one another's lips.

"Beautiful, absolutely beautiful," Catra tells her as they rub Adora's knee and gently squeeze her thigh beneath her dress, making the blonde sigh and smile dreamily.

Adora has a pretty great view herself. Catra has their mane down, now loose and wild from when Adora removed the hair band during their kiss just moments before. Their shirt is tousled and their pupils are blown out as they idly purr. They are stupidly handsome and it takes everything in Adora not to moan at simply being in such a wonderful person's line of sight.

Her chest tingles, like her body did before, and suddenly Adora feels as if she has a small part of Catra within her, like they are now linked. Catra can feel it too and their body heats up from the pure arousal floods their senses.

"Do you feel that?" Catra asks and Adora nods with blissed tears in her eyes. She can truly admit she has never felt this at peace.

"I can feel it, I can feel you," Adora says wetly and sits up to pull Catra on top of her. "More of you, please?"

"I'm going to give you everything, Adora. Let someone else do the work; sound good?" Catra gently leads as they kiss along Adora's neck, straddling her hips. Adora's breathing is heavy and she can't even find the strength to open her eyes. She's so tired of being demanded of and forced to command. Catra makes her feel so relaxed and she wants nothing more than to finally lay back.

"Take me, I'm yours."

Catra purrs, loudly, and clarifies with excitement, "You're mine?" Adora whimpers a nod as she seals their lips together.

"I don't want to be anyone else's." And it's true. The words ring with such clarity and definitive annunciation that it's like a spell has been cast into existence. Adora knows magic, she is magic.

But this is something much more extraordinary and magnificent. “Catra, I want to be yours.”

Teeth sink into Adora’s neck and her response bends light, literally. The light is warm and calming as it engulfs Adora like a full body halo. It doesn’t hurt Catra’s sensitive eyes, only soothes all pain and stress and it makes Catra sink their teeth in deeper. Adora’s whole body is lit up with desire, need, and love, and the teeth in her neck only make her shine brighter. She wraps her arms around Catra and thrusts against their thigh.

Catra gets the message and leans back, looking down at the gorgeous light enveloping the blonde. The view makes their heart race with elation and gratitude to experience something so sincere and personal. Their eyes meet and Catra cups Adora’s cheek as they kiss.

“Adora, may I…?” Catra asks and cups Adora’s heat through her thick dress.

Catra kisses her hard and then trails down to the tops of her breasts that are being squished by the corset she wears. They lean back and unzip their pants. “Okay, princess.” And pulls down their pants, leaving them only in their unbuttoned tunic. Adora moans at the sight as she sinks in the bed and Catra crawls on top of her, bunching up her dress to her hips as they go.

Adora doesn’t wait to run her hands over Catra’s body as they surge to kiss. Their tongues are swirling each other as Catra begins to glide their hand to where Adora needs them most. With ease, Catra slices through her underwear and then quickly retracts their claws to press into her wetness.

The blonde gasps loudly and hikes her legs up to help keep her dress at her waist while Catra feels her, giving them easier access. Catra groans at how exquisite Adora feels in their hand and takes their time feeling every bit of sensitive skin that lives there. They feel her clit and rub slowly, making Adora moan with a whine and pull Catra tighter to her chest where Catra nuzzles into her neck and sucks.

After a while of testing Adora’s limit, they travel down to her entrance and gather up her slick to press one finger inside. The response is electric as Adora’s body bends at the spine in an arch that frees her breasts from her corset. Catra pulls out their finger and presses back in as they capture Adora’s soft breasts in their mouth.

“C-cat-ah-“ she stutters and holds Catra tight to her body. Adora is so open and wanting that the Duke thrusts in a second finger. Adora’s glow sparks back up and flickers as her thighs quiver.

Catra leans back to take in the sight below them. Adora writhing and moaning with tears on her eyelashes as she grinds down on their hand, whimpering their name with each pound to her most sensitive spots. But, it’s not enough. Something tugs at their brain and they begin to shred away Adora’s skirt.

It seems the princess knew what Catra would do because she instantly lifted her hips and helped pull it loose from where it connected to the corset. "I love your claws," Adora tells them breathlessly through a heated moan as she throws the shambled skirt across the room.

"Is that right?" Catra asks, voice low as they begin thrusting back inside Adora, sending her closer to the edge.

Adora's moans grow in pitch and her grip borders on painful against Catra's shoulders where she anchors herself. The tingling returns and Catra knows she's close, and right as Adora arches her back again, Catra unsheathes their claws and presses them into the nape of Adora's neck and shreds through the corset's offending binds. All the pressure releases around Adora's constricted breasts and it sends her orgasm into overdrive, making her shout with cries as all the tension flies out of her body, now finally leaving her loose and bare.

Catra doesn't stop pumping into her as they reclaim Adora's neck while the blonde continues to ride out each wave of ecstasy, filling the room with her First One's light. When Adora becomes limp and gasps for air, Catra slows down and pulls their fingers out. They nuzzle up next to Adora and lick their fingers clean as Adora watches with a hazy smile and pulls them close.

"Mmmmm," Adora hums, eyes closed as she rests from her orgasm. Catra lays over her, protectively, and peppers kisses across her soft, hot skin as the light of her body settles to a warm thrum that makes the magicat's eyes glow like celestial bodies.

“I love them,” Adora mumbles and Catra flicks their ear in question. “The marks you gave me. I love them all.”

With a breath of relief, Catra leans back up to kiss the girl on her sweet lips. “Do you know what those marks mean?”

Adora shakes her head.

“It means you’re my mate.” Catra purrs loudly and wraps their tail around the blonde's thigh. The smile on Adora’s face is priceless. Adora holds Catra’s face in her hands, looking them in the eye with the most gentle gaze.

“And do you know what that light means?”

Catra cocks their head. Not much is known of the First Ones since their culture and magic is so safely guarded and kept within their castle walls. But they are known to be formidable warriors with strong ties to their loved ones, much like Magicat’s.

“It means you’re it. The one, Catra,” Adora explains and it makes Catra’s pupils blow out. “Is… is that okay?” she asks softly and Catra feels their eyes burn.

“It’s more than okay. Everything in me tells me to make you mine, forever. To stop looking and call it. You’re the one for me too, Adora.”

Tears roll down Adora’s face as she connects their lips. When they pull back, Adora asks, “may I show you? Show you everything I have to give you?”

Catra isn’t sure when the last time someone else lavished them in attention; made them come, but it’s been a long while. It’s a bit nerve wracking being in the receiving end, but knowing it’s Adora settles them.

“Yes, princess.”

Adora softly leans up and presses Catra’s back into the bed. Relaxing into the bed, Catra puts their hands behind their head and smirks when they see Adora’s eyes go wide.

“You’re perfect,” Adora whispers and it makes Catra trill with delight as they share a heated kiss and nip at one another’s lips.

Taking her time, Adora tails kisses across the Duke’s shoulder and chest, working her way to their breasts and sucking, making Catra groan and writhe. Adora lavishes their breasts as she licks and tweaks their nipples, burying her face in their furry chest. When she feels Catra rock their hips into her abdomen, Adora works her kisses and groping hands down to their pelvis. She loves the feel of their body and engraved every slope and bone to memory.

She reaches where their fur grows softer and rubs their thighs as she rests their legs over her broad shoulders. Adora looks up at Catra and finds them staring back at her with a heated, soft gaze. A fang pokes out of Catra's smile and it's all the permission Adora needs to look back down at the gorgeous wet sex before her.

They're dripping, glistening with need and Adora is more than willing to provide. She's desperate to taste them. She lowers her mouth and gives Catra's folds a moaning kiss and flicks her tongue out to gather the juices and swallows. She's glowing again.

Catra's smirk falls away and they are left groaning, head thrown back in gasps. Adora continues to kiss and lick and drink up Catra. They are the greatest thing she has ever tasted. She isn't sure if what she is doing feels good but Catra's mewling seems to be a good sign.

Adora's jaw begins to feel sore and burns with aches from lavishing Catra's sweet heat. It seems Catra is aware and pulls Adora up so they can kiss properly.

"More," Catra groans and pulls her closer as their other hand guides Adora's finger down to their entrance. "Inside."

Pressing and feeling Catra, truly feeling them makes Adora gasp and absent mindedly grinds against their furry thigh. Adora needs more of Catra and yanks their tunic down and off causing the Magicat to lean up and press their breasts together. Now both sitting up, Adora can properly grind against Catra's thigh with more force to her clit as she pounds into Catra with all the strength she has, her palm rubbing their clit.

Each thrust has Catra grunting gutturally as they grow closer to their peak, holding Adora close to their chest. Adora doesn't dare let up her rhythm, not when the Duke is making such gorgeous noises and gripping onto her back like their life depends on it. They feel so good, both around her fingers and digging into her back with their claws. It sends Adora to her second orgasm as Catra grinds into her hand, pulling them down to the bed so they can ride out the orgasms together.

Catra doesn't waste a second before kissing Adora again, running their tongue through her mouth as they taste themself along her gums. The blonde whimpers as Catra once again bites her neck, sending magic through their fangs and into her nervous system, claiming her. It arouses her all over again.

"Again," Adora gasps, begs , of Catra. She goes to plead again but is silenced by Catra's lips crashing into hers.

"I got you baby, I'm not done with you yet. I want to make love to you all night," Catra proclaims and pinches her breasts as they kiss down her abdomen. "I want to taste you on my lips for the next week."

Adora quivers and feels herself gush at the words, soaking the bed and causing Catra to smirk and kiss her inner thighs. She cranes her neck to get a better look at Catra's gorgeous self as they leave mind melting nibbles and bites in her soft skin.

Licking a long strip from Adora's entrance to her clit, Catra is mindful of their rough tongue and expects Adora to hate it. What they didn't expect was for Adora to pull their face closer to her entrance, whining as her legs wrapped around their head and grinding in response.

"Don't hold back," Adora pants out and Catra loves her.

"You just tell me when to stop, my love," they say and before Adora can react to the pet name, they're pinning Adora at the hips so they have complete control over the ravishing that happens to her pussy. "Because I'm making you mine tonight, and forever."

The words are a security blanket and make the princess go limp in the sheets. She knows she will be taken care of.

And Catra doesn't hold back. They originally worried about the roughness of their tongue but when Adora gushed and flooded their mouth on the first lick, they applied more pressure. Adora sobbed and bucked her hips up for more contact. She was dripping with sweat, flushed red, shaking and trembling, gasping for breath. Adora was fucking stunning; capitavating like the stars above. Something you can look at and always feel a sense of magic.

Catra licked up all of her juices and sucked on her clit. Sucking made Adora cry out and Catra quickened their pace until Adora was throwing her head side to side and mumbling incoherent words through open mouth breaths.

Catra wasn't going to let her come yet. They pull back, and to make up for edging Adora, they pinched her hardened nipple and pressed their tongue inside her warm entrance. Catra's face was soaked and the taste, smell and sensation of it dripping down their chin was intoxicating— divine in every sense.

"Fucking perfect," Catra moaned and stretched their long tongue further inside Adora, making Adora glow brighter.

" Fu-fuwah— Ca-Cat— ah," Adora rambled and held onto Catra's hands as tightly as she could, legs wrapped around their neck and shoulders to hold them close.

Catra squeezed Adora's hand in reassurance that her soul was not actually about to leave her body. As they ate her out, Catra began to notice her walls tightening around their tongue in pretense. The signal gave Catra enough time to pull a hand free from Adora's, run 3 fingers inside her warmth and move their rapid tongue to flick and suck on her swollen bud.

Adora had tears in her eyes and was damn near suffocating Catra with how tight her legs held their face to her boiling core. She was about to fucking explode and possibly drown Catra with her orgasm. She was so close—

Three fingers pound into her sweet spot as her clit is licked with the fastest pace she ever thought possible. Then she's cumming with a scream that rips her throat. Her back arches like a snapped branch and her whole body is racked with quakes that make the massive bed creak and squeak loudly. Catra never slows down and Adora is coming again, flooding Catra's mouth who finally slows down and gasps for air as they swallow every drop of Adora's pleasure.

She is spent. Catra crawls up next to her and draws circles in her hips as they both catch their breath through needy, desperate kisses. Idly, Catra purrs and Adora could fall asleep to the sound. She curls in close and Catra rearranges them so they are both under the covers and nestled into one another.

Adora can hardly keep her eyes open and it gets even harder when Catra starts covering her face in soft kisses and scratches her back.

"I love you," Adora says after her chest stops heaving. She swallows thickly and says it again, "I love you, Catra."

Catra purrs and wraps their tail around her waist and pulls her close enough to kiss her lips, then speaks against them, "I love you too." A heated pause. "Marry me?" They ask and Adora cups their face for a searing kiss.

“Yes. Forever. I want you forever.” And the room fills with light and more stripes grow on Catra’s arms and legs at the confirmation. There is obvious magic binding their souls, knitting them together in twines. Much like reaching through a spiked fence where there is a softness on the other side they each find that replenishes their tired bones and skin, growing in new layers of tranquility neither have felt since losing the innocence of childhood. Catra can feel their fur feel more soft, mane grow thicker, and several new stripes slither over their body. Adora glows and feels her hair grow lighter and eyes become more blue. Her skin feels like air as it tightens around her taut muscles and dense bones.

They are complete.
