A Spanking is Due

by hojichasunrise

Summary

Follow-up to Respite in the Meadow. Adora has caught on to Glimmer's ploy and decides to punish her. Glimmer… likes this.

Adora frowned as she hugged the pillow, her eyebrows furrowed in agitation. Glimmer's bed was a minefield of dozens of blankets and pillows thrown into a suspended bird-nest, and she herself was yet again dishing out gossip and cattiness on everyone they knew. It had been happening with increasing frequency and Adora was beginning to suspect Glimmer was putting on a show of it, but she was still deciding as to the reason. Adora interrupted her mid-rant by asking, "I thought you liked Bow."

"He's just the worst! Yesterday I was telling him a story and the whole time he was poking away at some device he was tinkering with and he didn't hear a word I said. I wanted to throw that screwdriver at his head." She threw herself onto her back and kicked her legs while clutching a pillow to her chest. "He's the worst best friend ever."

"Uh huh," Adora commented flatly. "And that's why you hang out with him all the time."

She caught the bite and sat up infuriated. "I am mad at him."

"I don't believe you. You're always mad at someone. No one can be that petty."

"How do you not believe me? Look at me," she shouted, and gestured to her own face. "I am furious at him."

She's definitely hamming it up, Adora thought while tensing her fingers into the pillow like kneading dough. Wait, after she goes on a rant like this, what does it always end in? In the meantime Glimmer had continued her monologue complaining about mundane trespasses he'd made in the last few days, each instance more innocuous than the last. Adora concluded: After she rants like this, I always cheer her up. That's what she's after. She began thinking of what might be a fair comeuppance for the trickery while her friend kept ranting.

While Glimmer was distracted, Adora got to her knees and judged the distance. Mid-sentence she pounced and landed atop her, pinning her down. She wriggled and protested, "Adora, what the heck?!"

Adora disregarded her and put both her wrists into one hand, pinning them above her head, and tried to keep her cool. You little brat, manipulating me. I'll make you pay for this. "Well, Glimmer, I just thought maybe I should take your mind off it all." This was similar to their usual progression, though Adora had never put it into such succinct words before, and the other girl was stunned feeling something was off but not quite being able to articulate why.

In the meantime, Adora used her free hand to caress her body up and down. While she was quieted, she ran a hand under her shirt and pulled it up slowly, leaving it bunched at her collar bones. Glimmer, hating clasps, always wore a sports bra that was easy to lift up. Most of her assets were in her hips and lower body, leaving slim B-cups on her chest. Adora lowered her head and nuzzled her lips against them, working around the center slowly and appreciatively. Glimmer's voice had ceased and she was waiting for her reward for her misdeeds. Feeling bitter for the trickery, Adora centered her nipple within her lips, kneading and sucking lightly to ease her into a sense of security, then firmly bit it. Glimmer jolted and gave a shout, but Adora kept her wrists pinned. Oh, no you don't. She continued her punishment by nibbling and tugging, causing her to writhe in mixed pleasure and pain.

Today's lesson: A spanking is due.

Glimmer had lost control of her voice by that point and her protests were inarticulate. Allura slipped her belt off and made sure to leave a lasting impression with a few quick nibbles . While Glimmer caught her breath, Allura moved up to tie her wrists to a support rope holding up the bed. Her friend couldn't put up any resistance, and by the time she'd finished tightening the belt she looked down in victory to see her needy, submissive, and blushing. Her small breasts still heaved at her chest and her lips trembled. Adora flipped her over and began tugging her bottoms off while her face was pressed into a pillow.

"Don't think I haven't figured it out," she said, and raised her hand. Her palm struck her ass and Glimmer's back arched in alarm. She followed it up with three more strikes. Glimmer collapsed into the bed shaking and gave a moan. Adora positioned herself on top of her body and reached a hand under Glimmer's chin, then inched a finger to her lips, circling them and pressing against the entrance. She plunged a finger into her mouth and began moving it in and out, penetrating and slackening, then added a second finger. Adora wondered if Glimmer had ever sucked Bow off as she knew just how to tighten her lips and relax her throat.

Adora pulled her fingers out, which were now coated slick, and ran her palm from Glimmer's nape slowly down her spine. Laying atop her, she could pin her body down defenseless, but she wasn't putting up any fight at all. Her entire body was primed to continue, rough or not. She has been using me. She wants to make me feel bad for her so I give her sex. Well, I'll give her something.

Her hand ran around and under her softness and pushed between the gap in her thighs so her fingers, still wet with Glimmer's saliva, could brush over her slit. She arched her back pushing her hips up, trying to coax her to enter, and Allura disregarded her and brushed over her clit. The reaction was sharp and needy. Gliding back and forth she built up a rhythm of expectation until Glimmer herself was bouncing her hips, begging for it. Instead of entering, Adora eased the hood back from the pearl to expose raw, unmitigated nerves, then touched her fingertip to it directly. Without anything softening the exposure she pressed directly into the sensation, rubbing up and down, flicking, and swirled her fingertip against the fully exposed button of flesh well lubricated by the saliva. Glimmer moaned and pressed her face into the pillows, spread her legs apart, and pushed herself against Adora's fingers. She gave herself over to raw pleasure.

Underneath her lap, Glimmer pushed her ass upwards as if begging for penetration. She wondered if Bow received the same invitation—Adora had long thought those two were a little more than friends—and she stimulated the unprotected little clit long and hard until her whole area was a sopping wet mess, denying her the fingering she knew she wanted. Glimmer's body was twitching and sweat-crested by that point.

In the mood to be mean, Adora brought her hand back and positioned her fingertips at the other entrance. Glimmer barely had time to worry before Adora pushed into her ass. Glimmer's voice raised high and shocked.

Well, well, well… I don't think Bow has been here.

Adora eased in both fingers and made a show of fucking her with them. Warmth and tightness surrounded them. She felt the quiver of pre-orgasm pulse through her friend's body. From an on-top position it was possible to stimulate her pussy from the other side of the internal wall. She could tell when she hit it—Glimmer moaned so loud that it was proof she was hitting it right. Every bit of sensation transferred straight to her G-spot and she was letting Adora know with desperate little noises.

In the Horde they had few enough pleasures in life, and Adora had been graced from a young age with the dirtiest stories anyone could imagine. Less creative minds might think the ass held nothing of appeal for women's pleasure, but Adora knew better, knew that it could be a reservoir for the deepest orgasms due to the indirect nature of the sensation balanced with just a little bit of taboo.

She experimented in rhythm and depth, taking Glimmer's shrieks and moans for measure of how close she was, and spread her fingers apart like scissors inside her. The plush internals sucked at her fingers slick and tight. As she was closing in, she laid her full weight atop to keep her pinned helpless and reached her other hand around her hips. Her clit was already primed and mercilessly sensitive. The first contact sent a wave of shivering bliss through her body.

Overwhelming stimulation rocked through her body. Adora moved in tandem, stroking with one fingertip and plunging with her other. Pinned down, Glimmer couldn't escape and the pressure built with no release. Finally she was talking again, but could only say, "Please, please, oh, Adora…" with her voice rising in desperation. Finally she screamed out in pleasure and her body pulsed through with heavy orgasm, rendering her words insensible, and she kicked at the blankets with her whole body twitching and writhing against Adora's fingers, pushing them as deep into her ass as possible like she couldn't get enough.

It took a minute of twitching and shaking for her to settle down. Adora swiped her fingers across Glimmer's slit and felt the honey-like sleekness. She took that to her own lips, tasted it, and reached up to Glimmer's mouth. She pushed in and felt her tongue hot against her finger. "Go ahead and taste yourself."

While she sucked, Adora gave a few more thrusts to her ass to sear the act into Glimmer's memory for later, then she withdrew and sat up. Glimmer, collapsed to the bed, couldn't move or speak.

Adora pulled her finger from her mouth and moved away from her, then reconsidered and gave her one last firm strike to her ass, clapping in full against her cheek. Glimmer yelped and scrunched her knees under her.

"You've been a bad girl, a real little brat," said Adora, then she climbed from the bed and left her to recover. I think she's going to have a new request for Bow soon, she thought. Maybe I'll ask to watch.
