a total mess

by kittensnakes

Summary

There's something so rewarding in topping the school's bad girl.

Especially when no one can know.

Notes

This is inspired by a tweet by amlli, I am terrified of her seeing this and like hating it or something- (a lot of anxiety around this piece), it has taken WAY too long to finish this one off too. anyways, if she does see this, I am so sorry and also thank you- I have your redbubble catrouble poster on my wall and they watch me sleep. Amazing, talented artist.

See the end of the work for more notes

“I fucking hate you, Sparkles.”

“Can you calm down? I moved my hand for a second- a single second!”

Her hand is gingerly placed back down just above the girl’s right knee, squeezing lightly and not at all high enough for the scowl to leave Catra’s face. Glimmer’s eyes glance to her cloudy ones, causing her to scoff involuntarily, rolling her hand up her leg another inch.

“You are so clingy,” she shakes her head, keeping her eyes on the road as she uses one hand to maneuver them into the parking lot, “just wait until I tell Adora about this.”

She can tell Catra’s trying to shuffle away from her touch but finds herself trapped under Glimmer’s vice grip on her lower thigh, squirming and hissing, “you will do no such thing- unless you want me to tell Bow about your weird sleep apnea.”

She was right, she couldn’t- but the comment earns her a quick slap to the side of her leg, Glimmer ignores the exaggerated “ow!” that comes out of her passenger, coasting through the filled lot to make it into the single filed line.

It’s not often that they talk about their crushes, it usually leaves room for words spoken with vitriol and no orgasms, which was the exact opposite of what they wanted from their arrangement.

Their arrangement? Believe it or not, mutual hatred leads to a strange case of sexual attraction. After weeks of bickering on a biology project, they decided to work on anatomy instead (gross- but true, Glimmer will never forget that cannibalistic look Catra had on her face, a tad daring and a ton aggressive, as she pushed her into the empty storage unit connected to the classroom).

This had been going on for months, it was nearly impossible not to find out about Catra’s enamoration with her childhood-best-friend-turned-enemy and for her to find out about Glimmer’s in turn. Neither of them really felt like letting any of that out anytime soon, this was the best course of action for any sexual frustration, they figured.

Plus, Catra was wicked hot- she couldn't be that mad about needing to touch her in order to save her face from getting scratched.

And it was nice, almost refreshing to hangout with someone as cynical as Catra- a tough break from the aggravating optimism or the constant need-to-please from either Bow or Adora. A little bit of herself felt more grounded, able to let some bitchiness slide out of her lips without judgement or self help books.

"Move up, bitch, you're blocking the rest of the line," Catra's voice interrupts her train of thought rather jarringly, she gruffs and obliges, moving up to just shy of the ticket stand, a few cars blocking their view of the full stand.

"You're so annoying," thank god Catra is wearing a skirt today, she's easily able to pinch the skin just shy of her upper thigh, she can hear the tiniest of squeals leave under the girl's breath.

"Annoying is the new sexy," Catra recovers, nonchalantly speaking as she leans back, pushing lightly into Glimmer's touch- hand now smoothing circles at her mid thigh.

"You would like that, wouldn't you?" she barely says it, she can see from the corner of her eyes the way Catra perks up at the change in tone.

Catra squeezes her thighs together, the only thing stopping them from fully closing is Glimmer's first in between the two. Glimmer glances over before making the executive decision to go all the way, cupping the girl's full length through her underwear.

She can barely hear the alteration in Catra's breath as she switches gears and makes her way up to the booth, rolling down her window as she lets a single finger slide up and down the line of her panties.

“Hey, just two tickets please,” the man bobs his head and takes the twenty that Glimmer had pulled out for him- running back into his stand to grab change, she whispers to Catra, “keep quiet, you don’t want anyone to hear you, don’t you?”

Catra shakes her head, eyes clenching together as Glimmer finally pushes her underwear away, letting her fingers run along her clit and entrance.

“Your change, ma’am,” he comes back, causing Glimmer to stop involuntarily, “just keep going straight, the cones should direct you.”

She nods her head and without another word, rolls up her window and steps on the gas. Not paying too much attention to parking but to the way Catra is tensing up, subtly starting to roll her hips into her hand- soundly pants leaving a hung open mouth.

“You’re such a mess- we haven’t even gotten snacks yet,” Glimmer scoffs teasingly, dipping her fingers quickly in-an-out of her folds, making Catra gasp and buck forward, head hitting the back of the seat.

Catra chokes out a groan, “shut up! Just do what you wanted to do!”

Her hatred for Catra overstood her sexual attraction, she grins- making a sharp turn towards the concession stand rather than the stalls. She hears Catra hiss and Glimmer pulls her whole hand away, a scowl much more pronounced ringing throughout the car.

“I wanted a snack, pervert,” she speaks concisely, not bothering to check the fact Catra’s shaking and she’s practically won, “you wanted something dirty.”

Catra makes too many sounds of excuses to be recognizable as Glimmer parks the car and bounces out the door, winking tauntingly before she runs up to the back of the long and treacherous, five-person line.

She can’t stop her foot from thrumming against the bubblegum covered concrete as she waits for a medium thing of popcorn, a blue raspberry slushie, and Hot Tamales (for Catra, but like, that totally isn’t her favorite candy). Catra glares at her through the windshield enough that it makes Glimmer snap her head back and flip the bird before she receives her order.

And truly, she does try to take all the time in the world getting back to her car but her feet ignore her, making tiny, Mr. Krab-like steps to the car and swinging the door open.

Catra, despite her previously shown turmoil, had recovered with a maniacal grin on her face- pointed eyes leading hers down the plains of her half covered torso to-

Oh- she’s not wearing anything else past her bralette like top, her unshorn heat glistening in the dying sunlight- staring her directly in the eyes, not begging, commanding her.

Catra no longer looks at her desperately, like before, now with this profound understanding that she could do anything she wanted to get what she needed, and right now she played her final cards and she needed to tell Glimmer what to do.

So she did, manicured fingers lightly tracing over her clit, prodding with the heels of her fingers to massage, doing enough to leave Glimmer gagging on the short sip of blue raspberry slushie she had.

“See something you like, princess?” she taunts, sharp brows raising as her voice goes breathy.

It was her turn to say, “shut up,” grimacing, she starts the car once more and hastily makes way to a spot, parking sloppily in the far back corner of the theatre.

She immediately pins Catra to her side of the car, kissing her for the first time that day with careless anger, biting the girl’s bottom lip before forcing her tongue inside. Catra returns with equal fervor, leveling the playing field by attempting to pin Glimmer down, meeting her halfway on the full seat- taking some advantage by wrapping herself around the girl's hips.

Glimmer groans into her mouth, bumping her chest into Catra's hand as it gropes one of her breasts, still contained in her top, "how are you so good at this?"

"Maybe you're just easy to please," she rolls her hips down on Glimmer's, making her buck up instantly, "you like that, princess?"

"Do it again and we'll see," Catra does, indeed, doing it again, and again, and enough times that Glimmer can feel herself rub against the denim of the shorts, shifting uncomfortably beneath her, now oversensitive as Catra moans purposefully in her ear.

"Knew I could get a rise outta you," Catra beats her at the game of payback, bouncing up and down on her lap as she gropes her own chest, putting on a show with a malicious, toothy smile, "such a mess."

The repetition of her own words makes her blood boil, momentarily given strength to push Catra down on the seats and straddle her hips, properly caging her.

"My car, my rules," she makes up on the spot, trailing a hand down the brunette's sharp jawline, "rules say that you bottom."

Catra squirms beneath her, "you're not the boss of me!" Glimmer slides her hands between her own hips and slips it between Catra's legs, trailing a finger up and down. Catra easily forfeits, sighing, "fine, you win. Happy?"

"Very," Glimmer gives her a shimmering smile, grinding her hips against hers, taking both of the girl's wrists and pinning them above her head- just at the window sill.

She'd never admit to this, but Catra looked beautiful when she was underneath her- and it wasn't necessarily a physical thing either (though she liked the way her hair flayed across whatever surface it may be). It was how she looked back up at her with something so contradictive to her usual arrogance and dominance, almost shy.

Knowing Glimmer did that to her was absolutely breathtaking.

Catra squirms with anticipation under her, huffing as Glimmer trails her finger along her folds, up her belly button, between her ribs, drawing circles along her bralette before slipping her hands beneath. Enough times doing this has Glimmer overthinking on how sensitive Catra's tits were, how easy it was to get her whole body to pull into her hands with a simple squeeze. Always, Catra would give a weak moan and a weakly thrown-together comment.

"Down , girl," there's an underlying beg in her voice, cracking when Glimmer obliges and takes her hands from the girl's wrists and to her waiting core.

"I don't get a 'thank you?" Glimmer smirks through her words as she slips two fingers into her entrance, scratching her inners lightly with clipped nails.

Catra makes a high pitched, keening sound, rolling into her all over again and bunching her face together, Glimmer fucking loves it. If she wasn't so focused on how if she moved her fingers forty five degrees forward, southwest, it makes the bridge of Catra's brows pinch together, she would love to bask in her success.

But she can't because Catra is being so selfless, for once, giving her all her warmth in the palm of her hand. She can't even take a breath of exhilaration as she stretches her short-hand to reach between her clit and g-spot, rubbing her thumb in tight circles around her clit and curling two fingers inside her.

"All this for me?" Glimmer coos, thrusting roughly into her, just once, enough to make Catra yelp and moan, legs starting to shake from built impatience.

"Just do something already!" she grunts, curses flying freely from her lips like curses from a sailer. She needs to get what she wants, is all Glimmer can translate and what she realizes she wants to give to her- but her fingers are continuously, ever-so building her up and breaking her back down.

Harsh movements along her whole system: pulling down her top to aggressively squeeze at her chest as she moves inside of her, twisting and pulling her fingers in out like so delicately practiced before. It's so, so rewarding to see Catra's whole body curl from under her, to feel her muscles tense before her and touch the hardened skin with a soft stroke, knowing it'll only cause more from her.

Something so rewarding in topping the school's bad girl.

Something so rewarding in knowing this stayed between them.

She would think about the beautiful guiltiness in fucking her best friend's ex friend, something so religious in knowing the flavor between her hips and not having to say a damn thing when she got home to Bow; where she would find him waiting on her twin sized bed in her dorm, early to their weekly Grey's Anatomy binge, probably thirty minutes early since he expected her to be there- unknowing in the fact that Glimme skipped band practice to pick up Catra, who became a slightly different person when they were alone, but no one could know. Glimmer knew everything about her the rest of the school did not, knowing everything about her the Adora forgot.

And it shames her in knowing she won't be able to stop thinking of her when she gets back home. But it's a beautiful thing to be guilty of, being a part of this total mess she made of her, of both of them.

Catra's body is coming to an end, her system overloading- limbs twitching and eyes clenching shut, Glimmer really takes it as a sign to hurry up, practically slapping her hand into her pubic bone to get the final rise out of her, Catra processing the action in her breaking body by weakly grinding into her, streaming curses equally as feeble as her body's movement. Glimmer's body feels equally as distorted as she feeds all her remaining exhilarated energy into her.

It's when she sees Catra claw at the sill that she knows it's time. Her vision zooms in on how her lips open in a gasp before she spindles into curses and squeals. Her body rocks more erratically, touching down into the palm of her hand with everflowing wetness, and now all Glimmer can do is watch.

Catra soon finds herself unwinding all across the connected seat, carelessly heaving and uncaringly dumping limbs like a toddler dumping legos onto a floor- so free from a deep plunge, exhilarated, nothing left but the air she's panting out. Glimmer quirks a brow unknowingly and breathes deep, "that good enough for you?"

"God I fucking hate you," the unravelled girl says just above a groan, throwing an arm over her eyes in embarrassment, "but fuck, that was good- it's your turn."

Glimmer laughs dryly, only to peak competition in the other girl, "you think you can even get up?"

"Jesus, you really think you're all that, don't you? Sparkles," she pushes herself up, shifting over on her seat as if she were ready to buckle up, but halting halfway to meet her face.

Glimmer nearly growls, how aggravated this girl makes her- but still, she does her best to remain unaffected, perking up a brow, "I mean, I pretty much made you scream for me."

Catra shot her a look that soon broke into a daring smirk, "you scared I'm gonna be better than you, princess?"

She pushes it to the side that she's heard her call Adora that numerous times, and swallows, even if they've had this fight a hundred times before and she knows there's no real competition, as if the memory of Catra writhing beneath her dissipated as she spoke, "shut up."

“Great. So it’s agreed, I eat you out?” Catra lightly pushes her backwards, losing her dominance as she says, “if that’s okay with you?”

She fakes a huffy sigh, “fine, I guess you can eat me out.”

There’s a look of glee on Catra’s face, unadulterated childness as she tells her to lean against her door. She understood only half of why Catra got so excited (though, she would never say it) to eat her out- the first time she did, Glimmer had to pull her up by the hair to get her to stop- it wasn’t much of a problem, though.

Glimmer treadily laughs as Catra pushes down her shorts and underwear in one swipe, nearly scared of ripping it with those long, black nails. Catra, now leaning towards the floor of the car to spread apart the girl’s thighs- taking a look at the black, coarse lushness between them before diving in, a cat-like roughness to her tongue as she takes a long, flat lick; Glimmer feels as if she would combust if Catra didn’t have a steadying hand on either one of her legs, rubbing in smooth circles like Glimmer was doing not too long before.

Catra repeats the motion over-and-over until she can feel Glimmer twitch under her hands and tongue- it would be so embarrassing, for her to be moaning quietly, like this, every now and then, if they hadn’t done this a dozen times before. She can feel the girl below her look at her everytime she releases a high-pitched sigh, a look of predatory and succession, pride in not being the only one to deteriorate in this car.

She quickens her pace, no longer flat licks but quick tongue swivels around her clit, intervals end in kisses and some suction, leaving Glimmer to slam her hand against the steering while gripping it tightly.

Her head randomly peers out the window, straight gaze interrupted by the steering wheel as she’s right against the door’s handle, the two characters wrapped in each other's arms and committing to a half-assed performance of this is the world’s first kiss. She's able to focus on the narrative only for a moment before Catra grazes her teeth along her clit- forcing out a squeal in response.

"Fuck! Hey! No biting," Glimmer tugs her hair, ignoring her own pleasure from the act- Catra does nothing but lick her lips.

"Eyes on me," is all she says before she goes back down, a chill running through her at the brisque words.

Glimmer's not too far by her end goal now, her orgasm becoming a wider and wider light at the end of the tunnel. She keeps her eyes on Catra, hand combed between puffy curls as she works fervently with her tongue, lips wrapping around her clit fully as her tongue laves it.

She lets out a heavy exhale before her body absolutely gives in, quietly in it's deathly way- loud enough in her ears that she barely makes a sound as she cums. Catra knows she's done well, it's all over her face- but there's only a look of silent astonishment in her eyes as Glimmer finds a way to open hers again.

"Good enough for you?" Catra asks breathily, she figures it's supposed to come off as witty and cunning but fails to do so, all Glimmer can do is turn a light pink.

"I- um, the movie started," she hides behind her hands and shuffles to her side of the car, only placing her hands on the steering wheel once she has a steady balance, seating, and her gaze could be fully away from Catra.

"Did you wanna stay and watch it?" Catra asks, complete and sudden indifference in her tone.

"Not really, we missed everything important," she says, not letting Catra say another word as she reverses and drives out the lot.

They stay incredibly silent until Glimmer hears the tiniest voice, not even realizing it was hers until after she said it, "that was fun."

She hears Catra breathe and smooth her palms on her bare thighs, recently putting back on her skirt as Glimmer decided to wait until she was in dorm territories, “yeah, it was, Sparkles.”

She turns on the radio in sheer awkwardness, only for it to go to one of those weird, praise-y chants from the Prime Ministries, Catra forces out a loud, gawking laugh, “dude, I fucking love these.”

Glimmer smiles at her, not expecting her start singing on, taking a low bravado as she sings long. She soon follows her lead and sings in the highest pitched voice possible, triggering Catra to snort and giggle, which nearly caused her to veer off the road because of how cute the sound was.

And soon, “Lord” Prime himself was on full blast as they made it past campus parking and to Catra’s residence hall, nearly missing where to drop her off because of how Catra had every word memorized.

“I’m worried by how much you know these commercials,” she parks, sending a teasing look to the girl.

“Something about cult-y religists really turns me on,” she jokes in turn.

“Not car sex?”

“That too,” she smiles, truthfully, she adds, “I had fun tonight. I’ll see you later, just text me or something.”

Before Glimmer can say a thing, Catra tensely comes up to kiss her cheek before she quickly hops out of the car and rushes as cool as she can to the door to her hall. Glimmer watches her leave, not leaving her lithe figure until she’s turned right past those windowed-doors.

When she looks down, she recognizes the black lace still on her passenger seat. Catra had left her underwear on purpose.

End Notes

It wouldn't be a kittensnakes approved hook up if they weren't 58.6729% in love with each other, would it?

Anyways, happy belated she-ra day! Long live Catradora, majority of my works are on them or Catrouble if you would like to partake. If not, I hope you enjoyed this one :o).
