Summary

Kyle, also known as He-Man, is summoned before the Princess of Salineas to be rewarded for his heroic deeds. But when she tells him what his reward actually is, he can’t help but blush.

OR

Kyle x Mermista smut cuz yes

Notes

This all started when I had a dream about Mermista sucking Kyle’s dick. What started as a crackship became something real because I’m insane. My boy deserves more love than the show ever gave him 🥺

Salineas was pretty nice this time of year. The sun was going down over the horizon, visible through the mighty Sea Gate. Merfolk that preferred the land liked to come up to the great stone city when the weather was fair, and thankfully, things were pretty peaceful right now.

All thanks to Kyle.

The scrawny blonde human walked towards the royal palace, blending in with the populace. He wore a red and white shirt with grey pants and sneakers. If he were in his enhanced form, he'd be drawing loads of attention like She-Ra did. He hated the attention… mostly. It was nice to be appreciated, but still, folks coming up and grovelling at your feet was so weird and uncomfortable. He doesn't want to be worshipped! That's why he hid his identity, his powers, a part of himself, from everyone. Being recognized in the street might be fine for Adora, but for him, nothing could be worse.

Which is why he was so concerned when a messenger from the Salineas palace tracked him down and told him to go see Princess Mermista. He remembered first encountering her during a mission in the Horde, when he was on a boat with his old squad. But there wasn't really time for proper chatting. Since his full potential had awoken, he'd met her plenty of times and they'd gotten to know each other decently, but he was always careful to not mention anything about his true identity. What could she want with him? Had she figured out his secret? He tried to calm himself, but it wasn't working. As he approached the big door leading into the towering palace, Kyle gulped. He just had to see what this was about. In and out. Easy peasy.

Walking through the halls, Kyle passed a few paintings, statues and gossiping servants whispering to each other. One thing was certain about Salineas: they really loved their statues. Murals covered the walls, depicting the glory of past heroes and queens. Stained glass windows illuminated half the wall, shining light of all colors on the murals and naturally drawing his eyes to a depiction of She-Ra battling a giant monster of some kind.

Not wanting to be distracted, Kyle made his way to the throne room. He'd been here a few times as He-Man, but never as his regular self. Water fell from the ceiling in front of walls and windows. The throne, an uncomfortable-looking seat, was placed in the back of the room. The Princess wasn't there. Where was she? Kyle walked closer to the throne, past a guard or two who were clearly expecting him. Why else were they not dragging him outside? Something about this felt wrong. Kyle figured if anything went badly, he could fight his way out as He-Man. But he'd never tested his mettle against a Princess! Could he win? He didn't know and he was scared to find out.

"'Sup?"

Kyle whipped around. There she was—Princess Mermista, a brown-skinned woman with blue hair tied in a braid. She had a blue and green top and pants on, and her belly and arms were exposed. It was like some kind of casual armor. She had her arms folded, and based on her expression, she wasn't very impressed with him.

"Um, h-hi, Your Highness," stammered Kyle. "Y-You summoned me?"

Mermista nodded and made her way to the throne. "Yeah. Guards, you can go."

The guards nodded and left. It was just Kyle and the Princess now.

"So," said Mermista as she sat on her throne, "you're Kyle."

Kyle nodded. "Y-Yeah…"

"Cool. I guess I was just expecting someone more… impressive."

"W-Why?"

Mermista smirked. “Because you’re He-Man?”

Kyle froze, then scoffed. “Whaaaat? Don’t be ridiculous? Me? He-Man? Come on, get outta here. You’re crazy.”

“I gotta admit, you’ve hidden it pretty well. Only question is, why don’t you want anyone to know? What? You scared?”

“Okay, look, Your Highness, I don’t know what you’ve heard, but I’m not He-Man. Yeah? He-Man’s a tall handsome knight in shining armor. Do I look like a tall handsome knight in shining armor?”

Mermista groaned. “Please. I’m friends with Adora. I know how it works, the whole transformation thing.”

Kyle didn’t like where this was going. “Well, I can’t transform. S-Sorry, but… you got the wrong guy.”

Mermista stared at Kyle for a moment, as if silently scanning him. “Well, that’s a shame. ‘Cause I wanted to give him a reward.”

Kyle’s brow furrowed. “R-Reward?”

Mermista hopped off her throne and stepped closer to Kyle, her hands behind her back. “Yeah. I mean, he’s done a lot for Etheria and for Salineas, and I wanted to give him something.”

This… wasn’t what Kyle was expecting. “Oh? W-What were you gonna give him?”

Mermista groaned again. “Alright, I know it’s you, okay? And… well, I wanted to reward you for everything you’ve done for my kingdom. It’s not, like, a big thing, I just thought I could show you how much I appreciate you.” She sounded aloof as usual, but it still wasn’t clear what she meant.

This couldn’t go on any longer. Kyle sighed, accepting defeat. “How’d you figure it out?”

“Well, last time you were in the palace, I saw you slink away. You turned from a big muscular guy to this skinny twink in the blink of an eye, just like how Adora does it. I had my guards find out who you were and, well, now you’re here.”

Kyle was silent for a moment, taking that in. He’d really hoped he would’ve gone unnoticed, but that was too much to expect. “R-Right…”

Mermista stood before Kyle, looking at her fingernails. “Thing is… I sorta like that kinda thing, you know? You’re brave and heroic and stuff.”

Kyle nodded a little. “T-Thank you.” He wasn’t sure how he felt about this reward she was proposing. Was it wrong to want stuff? He was saving the day and not really expecting anything in return. It would be cool to have nice things, but it’s not very heroic to demand them from people whose lives he’d saved.

“Yeah. Basically, I wanna honor you,” said Mermista. “This isn’t, like, a big deal or anything.”

“W-What do you wanna give me?”

“Well… are you seeing anyone?”

Kyle’s eyes went wide. Where did that come from? “Uh… n-no.”

“Do you wanna see anyone?”

“I… could be persuaded.” Kyle couldn’t believe it. There’s no way she actually liked him, was there? This had to be a prank or something. Then again, he had spent time with her as He-Man, even saving her from an ex-Horde assassin once or twice.

“Alright, well, as it happens, I’m not seeing anyone right now, so… you know…” Mermista let that hang in the air, the implication obvious.

“Are… are you saying you wanna reward me… with yourself?” asked Kyle sheepishly.

“Yeah, pretty much. The best reward that I, Princess of Salineas, can offer: me.”

Kyle considered what she was saying. “Wow… that’s… I-I mean, I’m flattered, but… what, are you saying you wanna be my girlfriend?” He mumbled that last part. This didn’t feel real. It had to be a dream or something.

“Wife, actually. I-It’s just a way to thank you for all you’ve done, no biggie.” Mermista was trying to play it off, but she was starting to look nervous, too. She talked like she was offering to help move a couch! How was she so casual about it?

Okay, there had to be a catch to this—at least that’s what Kyle thought. “What? Y-You’ll just offer yourself up like that?”

“Why not? I’m a grown woman, I can make my own decisions. And despite all… this…” Mermista gestured vaguely to Kyle’s gangly body. “I know you’re a grown man, too, with, like, a good heart.” She started to smirk again. “Not a bad reward for saving my kingdom from a big ugly sea monster, huh?”

“I-I’m sure you would’ve dealt with it eventually.” Kyle rubbed the back of his neck. That was pretty harrowing to be fair.

“Yeah, probably.” Mermista leaned closer to Kyle, wanting him to feel her breath on his face. “But I saw what you did that day. It was pretty impressive. And, you know, seeing you help rebuild the city after it went to shit, I just… I don’t know, I thought you were, like, a man of honor or something. Like, a brave, kind, caring dude who stands up for what’s right. I don’t just propose to anyone, Kyle.”

While romance wasn’t uncharted territory for Kyle, it was still pretty unknown. “I just… you’d really… wow, I-“ He stopped when Mermista put her hands on his cheeks, then gave him a kiss! This was unbelievable! It went on for a while, Kyle’s eyes wide the whole time in surprise, until Mermista finally pulled away looking very proud of herself.

"How was that?" she asked.

Kyle felt Mermista's hands go to his shoulders. "G-Good. Yep. That was good. Ten out of ten." He breathed in and out, trying to calm himself.

"Don't tell me that was your first kiss."

"No! You caught me off-guard, that's all."

"Sure, pal. Now are you gonna accept your reward or not?"

This was a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity. Kyle's forehead started to sweat, unsure what he should do. It didn't feel right getting this kind of treatment. Weren't heroes supposed to do good and ask for nothing in return? But on the other hand… she made the offer, so clearly she saw something in him. He didn't want to be rude. She was very beautiful, too, and he'd sometimes fantasized about her and masturbated over her memory—but he had a feeling it'd be best if he never ever told her that.

"I… I accept."

Mermista took Kyle's hand. "Good boy. Now come with me. You've saved me a bunch of times; it's only fair I give you a little something… more."

She started leading him out of the throne room and back into the hallways. She'd clearly thought this through, fast walking him through the palace. Kyle saw some staff murmuring as they passed, probably gossiping, but Mermista wasn't paying attention —she didn't care about their gossip. She knew exactly what she wanted and by the whiskers of Saz, she was gonna get it!

The pair eventually reached a room with a balcony overlooking the city, the Sea Gate far in the distance. This place was very well-kept, adorned with furniture and decorations from posters to an entire shelf full of Mer-Mysteries books. Kyle had heard of them when he was here last time, but he never checked them out.

What really got his attention, though, was the bed he was being pulled towards. It was the biggest bed he'd ever seen, with loads of room for other people to share. The sheets were aquamarine and the blanket had a pattern of She-Ra on it, but… not quite her. It was more like if Mermista was She-Ra, with a magic trident and longer hair. Kyle had to admit, this wasn't at all where he thought this night was going.

But he wasn't complaining.

Mermista pushed Kyle onto the bed. "Alright. Get them off." There was so much authority in her words, mixed with playful silliness.

Kyle obeyed, hurriedly removing his shoes and pants and throwing them off the bed. He had a pair of dragon-themed underpants on, which he also did away with, revealing his cock. His skinny legs were also in full display, with some scars from his time in the Horde. Something told him he shouldn't tell her where his loyalties once lied. He kept his shirt on, wanting keep at least a little bit of modesty, though it did nothing to hide his noodly body.

"Aww, it's cute," teased Mermista. "Like a little twigget dick. Does it get bigger when you're… you know…?"

"I-I don't know, I've never checked," said Kyle, his face turning red.

"I guess we'll find out." Mermista removed her top and clam shell-themed bra, then her shoes and her pants. They pooled around her naked body, toned from years of swimming and exercising. She was like a goddess, her meaty thighs and wide hips paired with a set of abs and strong arms. She climbed onto the bed, Kyle's eyes glued to her impressive bosom.

The princess gave Kyle another kiss on the lips as her arms went around him, pulling him into a warm embrace. Her boobs pressed against his chest, sending shivers down his spine. This was really happening. He still couldn't believe it.

After a moment, Mermista maneuvered herself further down so her head was hovering right above her hero's cock. It was pretty average, not that that bothered her. She wrapped her lips around it and started bobbing her head up and down, her tongue worming around it as encouragement. Kyle looked down at what was happening and moaned, gripping the sheets. She was really good at this!

Mermista started to pick up the pace, sensing he was nearly there. Her mouth felt so moist, so warm and oh so amazing! Her rhythm was making Kyle squirm a bit as she pleasured him. His heart was pounding like he was in a race. He was getting closer… closer…

A rush of warm seed filled Mermista's mouth as Kyle caught his breath. Mermista sat upright, gulping down his semen, even licking her lips, looking right into Kyle's eyes as she did so. A little bit of sticky white fluid was going down her chin. She held out her hand and made it float off of her without touching it, then swallowed it. Kyle had seen her use her water magic plenty of times, but never for something like this.

"I… I… that was…" Kyle couldn't even form a sentence right now.

"I know," said a satisfied Mermista.

"How… how are you… so good at that?" asked Kyle between breaths.

"I have plenty of experience." Mermista looked at her fingernails. "I've been with several guys and girls before. No big deal. Have you?"

"Uh… o-only two."

Mermista chuckled. "Only two? You're telling me the mighty He-Man, who's got folks throwing themselves at your feet, has only been with two people?”

Kyle had to admit, that did sound pretty embarrassing, as was his reasoning. “I-It just doesn’t feel very noble to, you know… indulge myself. I mean, what kind of hero spreads his seed around when he’s supposed to be, like, a pillar of his community?”

“The kind of hero who’s not afraid to live a little. You’re allowed to want things. No shame in indulging yourself, babe.”

Kyle knew what she was saying was right, but it still felt like he was messing up somehow. “Right, it’s just the Horde didn’t-“ He stopped himself, realizing what he’d said. “I-I mean, I just, like, internalized a lot of things from a bunch of places. Yeah.”

“You… do?”

“Yeah! But they’re not around anymore, are they? They can’t tell you what to do.”

It was really nice to know he wasn’t being judged for his past. Granted, he didn’t choose to be in the Horde and knew too little about the outside world to justify running away—what if it was worse out there, you know? He was trapped… but not anymore.

“R-Right,” he said. “I guess.”

“That’s the spirit. Now… I don’t suppose the big guy would be willing to join us, would he?”

Kyle leaned up in bed, unsure if he heard her right. “Wait, what?”

“You heard me.”

He did, but he didn’t believe her. “Right, it’s just… what if I hurt you?”

“Oh, please,” said Mermista, laughing. “I’m a magic princess. I think I can handle He-Man.”

Kyle had never tried this before. He didn’t know what he was doing. Was he really about to use He-Man for… that? He was pretty good at healing. What if he broke her so bad that he couldn’t fix her?

“A-Alright… but just be careful.” Kyle held up his hand towards the ceiling. “By the power of Grayskull!”

His body was engulfed in a flash of white light, and when it faded, a tall knight in shining armor laid in his place. He had a gold breastplate and white pants with awesome boots and bracers. His arms were exposed, now very muscular and impressive. He was almost twice Mermista’s size, but still looked as timid and meek as he did as his regular old self. Here he was: He-Man, the most powerful man in the universe.

“So, uh… here it is,” said He-Man. “Um, you like what you see?”

“Definitely. Let’s get this stuff off.” Mermista reached for his boots.

“Oh, wait, hold on. I’ve been practicing this.” He-Man snapped his fingers and all his clothes disappeared, leaving him completely naked. His cock sprung up, ready to receive its orders. It had doubled in size and was ready for more. Being in this form gave him a massive boost in stamina.

“Well, that’s convenient.” Mermista moved herself in front of He-Man’s cock, raising her wet pussy. “You just lie back, my hero. I’ll take care of everything.” She lowered herself onto his throbbing member and with a groan, she took it all in.

After that, she started pumping herself up and down, letting her body accept it. Her hands went down to his abs. Only in this form did Kyle have a six-pack. Heck, his pecs were bigger than Mermista’s head! It really was amazing what magic could do to your body.

Mermista picked up the pace, her pussy wrapped around He-Man's cock and trying to milk it for all it was worth. She breathed heavily as she kept at it, her boobs bouncing as she went up and down, up and down. Their bodies glowed in unison, Mermista emitting a green-blue ocean aura and He-Man a golden aura like She-Ra's. He-Man bit his lip as he felt his sperm begging for release. Just a little bit more…

And there it was. He unloaded strings of cum into Mermista's aching pussy, her womb welcoming it as she got off him and laid on his chest and torso, her hands rubbing his abs. It was an endearing sight, the tall powerful hero with his magic princess fiancé lying on top of him. Their bodies stopped glowing as Mermista looked up at He-Man's face, seeing how flustered and nervous he still was.

"Well… you didn't break me," teased Mermista.

He-Man sighed in relief. "Right… was that a-as good for you as it was for me?"

"Absolutely."

"Okay… good…" In a sparkly fizzle, He-Man turns back into Kyle, who still had his red shirt on, though his member was still out, covered in pussy juice. Mermista was still on top of him, but she moved off and laid beside him when he returned to normal.

"How does it feel being all big and tall?" asked Mermista, putting her hand under Kyle's shirt.

Kyle smiled a bit. "You forget you were ever weak," he said wistfully. "So, uh, about the marriage thing… are you sure about this? I mean, we've only interacted when I was He-Man."

"So? That's still, like, who you are, right? Transforming doesn't take over your personality or something?"

"Well, no."

Mermista put her arms around Kyle and pressed his head against her boobs like they were pillows. “Then relax, dude. I’ve seen what you’re like. You’re a good guy. Really cute, too.”

Kyle thought about this. “You think I’m cute?”

“Well, duh. How can I not?”

“R-Right… and what about our kids? I mean, at some point, I’m gonna have to, you know, help you continue your bloodline.”

“Eh, we’ll worry about that later. Besides, if you can handle a hydra, I think you can handle being a dad.” Mermista kissed Kyle on the forehead, then ran her fingers through his hair. “We’ll have the whole wedding thing in a month. Cool?”

Kyle nuzzled Mermista’s assets. “C-Cool. Very cool.” This whole experience was tiring but exciting. He had a lot to look forward to with his new fiancé.
