We Fell (In Love) On Ice

by xAsleepxForeverx

Summary

Castaspella finally decided to simply drag Shadow Weaver along for some ice-skating.

Coincidentally, Shadow Weaver ends up enjoying it over time.

-Mystacor; Ice Skating Rink-

The Mystacor Ice Skating Rink Had been around for a long time now. Alot of Mystacor's people enjoyed it, Especially during what would be Winter Time, Or really, During the Winter Solstice. And Castaspella, Especially enjoyed Skating there Every Night.

Castaspella had finally managed to Convince Shadow Weaver, Who had been staying in Mystacor again, With her now, To come along. Of Course, Shadow Weaver tried to back out, Saying she had no idea how to Ice Skate. But Catsaspella told Shadow Weaver that she would Teach her and that she would eventually enjoy it too.

"Don't worry, Shadow. I'll teach you." Castaspella chuckled lightheartedly, "I'm sure You'll do alright once you slowly get the hang of it.

Once they walked inside the Building, It was clear it would be just the two of them tonight. The Head Sorceress grabbed a couple pairs of skates before coming Back to Shadow Weaver who was sitting on one of the benches outside the rink, And had taken her mask off too since it was just the two of them.

"Ready Shadow?" Catsaspella spoke quietly after having gotten her skates on and helped Shadow Weaver get her own skates on.

"I'm… Not so Sure about This…" The older woman spoke in a quieter tone which clearly showed how nervous she was.

"I promise you that It'll be Fine." The younger woman smiles before holding her hand out, Helping Shadow Weaver to her feet and helping her balance in the skates.

As soon as she was standing, Shadow Weaver held onto Castaspella, Clearly not wanting to Fall already. The Head Sorceress gently led her onto the Ice. And that's where the older sorceress got more nervous.

Castaspella held both of the older woman's hands, Helping her stay balanced and guiding her along the ice.

"See? You're doing okay so far, Shadow." Castaspella chuckles.

"Only because I'm holding onto You…" Shadow Weaver muttered. But then Castaspella let go of one of her hands.

"Wh- H-Hey!" The older sorceress suddenly yelped, Clearly not ready to let go yet.

"You have to try balancing on your own at some point." The younger sorceress grins.

Then, Castaspella let go of Shadow Weaver's other hand, Letting her balance on her own. The older sorceress stilled almost immediately, afraid to move.

Though After a couple minutes of just standing still, She finally moves forward. But the moment she did, She fell off balance and fell backwards, hitting the ice. Now she was embarrassed.

At that, Castaspella started to giggle.

"Have a nice fall there Shadow?" The Head Sorceress joked around now after pulling the other woman to her feet.

"…Shut Up." Shadow Weaver just mutters, Clearly embarrassed.

To that, Castaspella laughed. Clearly, She found Shadow Weaver being embarrassed, amusing.

"Here, Try following what I do." The younger woman spoke calmer now, Then started to skate again, Holding the older woman's hand, guiding her.

Slowly, Shadow Weaver at least started to get the hang of moving forward along the ice. But seconds after Castaspella let go of her hand again, She slipped up and fell again almost immediately.

But this time, She managed to accidentally pull the younger woman with her, and so they both ended up falling.

Shadow Weaver was on her back with Castaspella on top of her.

Neither had any idea on what to say now. For a moment, they just didn't move. Until the younger sorceress finally pushed herself off of the older one.

"…Sorry." Shadow Weaver mutters again, Though this time, She had the faintest smile on her face.

"Look at that. You're actually smiling for Once." The head sorceress couldn't help but tease her now.

The older sorceress glanced away, Trying to hide her faint smile from view. Now she was just shy.

Finally, After about an hour of occasionally falling and the Younger Sorceress teaching her, the older sorceress had gotten the hang of moving along the Ice, And was now gliding along with Confidence. She was even balancing on her own now.

And the Younger Sorceress could tell the dark sorceress was starting to enjoy it.

"Finally enjoying yourself?" Castaspella chuckles as she starts skating beside Shadow Weaver.

"I suppose I'll admit that it's rather… Fun." Shadow Weaver finally admitted after what felt like an Eternity, Which in reality was just a minute.

"See? You should've come along with me Sooner." The younger sorceress started to lightly tease again.

"Correction. I did not come willingly. You dragged me along." The older sorceress huffed back, "But I suppose maybe You're right either way."

"I'm always right." Castaspella once more spoke before doing a little spin on the ice.

When the older woman saw her do that, she was tempted to try that herself. But the small fear of screwing up and falling again held her back for now.

For a while, the older sorceress's and the Head Sorceress's movements were in Sync, Their movements Graceful as they continued to glide along. And at one point, They were even holding hands again.

The Older Sorceress's smile had even grown now, Which made the younger sorceress smile herself finally. It was a joyful, carefree moment between the two.

Though, as they continued to skate, Unspoken tension slowly began to rise between them. A romantic type of tension. They both had feelings for one another, but neither of them would admit it. Not yet at least.

-About a week later…-

For about a week now, Shadow Weaver and Castaspella had been coming back and skating together just about every night.

The two of them enjoyed it a lot. But still, neither had admitted they had feelings for the other.

But it was starting to become painfully Obvious now how neither wanted to confess first

-Back at the Ice Skating Rink-

Castaspella and Shadow Weaver were once again back at the rink. Both women were skating around hand-in-hand, enjoying themselves again.

And recently, The Head Sorceress had begun teaching Shadow Weaver some more advanced ice-skating moves, such as longer spins and bigger jumps

At first, the dark sorceress would almost instantly mess up. But after a few tries, she would slowly begin to get the hang of it.

It took a lot of practice to master one of the moves. But after getting the hang of it, she had fun doing it.

Who knew she would like ice-skating this much?

After a while, Both women took a seat.

"I've taken a notice to your mood, lately." Castaspella broke the silence. "Ever since we began ice-skating together, you've been calmer. More happy."

It was true. Since they started skating together a week ago, Shadow Weaver had become more calmer with her students. She had even been more happy around Castaspella.

"…I suppose getting to do this with you has simply been enjoyable." Shadow Weaver slowly began to admit how she felt. "Getting to do this with you every night, getting to spend time with you like this, has been something I've grown to love doing."

A light blush appeared on the Head Sorceress's cheeks. She wanted to do it, to confess her feelings or just outright kiss the older woman. But what if the other woman wouldn't return it?

" I uhm…" The Head Sorceress started to speak, but then hesitated for a moment. "I could say the same about you, Shadow…"

The tension from before came back now. And it was stronger. Much stronger.

Both women wanted to tell the truth, to admit their feelings for the other. But neither wanted to say it first.

But it was clear as daylight now. They had fallen in love and both of them knew the other felt the same.

Yet they couldn't admit it outright.

Castaspella had been about to speak, to finally admit it first. But she didn't get the chance to do so when Shadow Weaver out of nowhere leaned in and pulled her into a deep kiss.

The Head Sorceress was shocked, to say the least. But then she leaned in closer, and returned the kiss.

"Well? I think its clear enough now…" The dark sorceress broke the silence after they separated.

"It is…." The Head Sorceress replied after what felt like forever. "Would you… Be interested in dating?.."

The dark sorceress didn't answer. Instead, she pulled the younger woman into another deep kiss.

The answer was clear. Yes.

In the end, all it had taken for them to finally admit their feelings wasn't words. It was a single kiss.

And ice-skating together had over time helped in its own way. It brought them closer then ever.
