Summary

This is sticking very close to cannon, but it's mostly porn and fluff and character development but no plot. Even if you're more into plot, it's worth reading this short novella if you plan on reading the next in this series, which is more novel length work in progress with lots of plot because this is part of that head cannon, and will be referred to somewhat frequently. This is some pretty consent based, healing, and character aligned erotic fanfic of exactly what the title says, Catradora as they navigate taking their relationship to the next level, and the emotions they're feeling and dealing with shortly after the conclusion of the series.

First chapter is fluff, the rest of mostly sexy times and all that leads to it.

I might come back and do some edits, but the meat of this will remain the same. Have fun!

Notes

Chapter 1 is fluff
Chapter 2 is sexy - if you are just reading this to get the prelude to the longer work that follows this with real plot, you can stop after this unless you want more sexy fun times
Chapter 3 is very brief romcommy fluff
Chapter 4 is more sex - just because I wanted to show this side of Catra and let Adora get some

Just a sleepover with cake

"Okay, I think we have everything," Glimmer said through a gleeful smile, "extra pillows, comfy robes, and cake! The only thing we're missing is Bow, but he's having fun so I suppose…oh… your robe is all bunched up there, at the shoulders."

"Oh, is it?" Adora asked, looking down at her robe. She tugged it off to examine it, and Glimmer groaned, stopping her with one hand.

"No, Adora! You're wearing your jacket!"

"So?" Adora peered down at her jacket, not sure she understood the problem. There's never been a dress code for our sleepovers before…

"You're supposed to wear something comfortable."

"I am comfortable," Adora insisted, folding the robe and setting in in her lap neatly, then resting her hands on it, "I like this jacket."

"Yeah, I'm aware, you've had our tailor design you a dozen of the exact same outfit," Glimmer rolled her eyes.

"So? It's my uniform, everyone's sort of got one," Adora was starting to feel defensive, "Plus, your windows have no glass over them, so it's kinda chilly in here."

"You're just used to sleeping with a giant cat laying all over you," Glimmer said, "and I'm not talking about Melog, which'll teach me to teleport into your room unannounced."

Adora swiped up some icing from the cake and popped it into her mouth, giving Glimmer a confused look, "Why?" She said around her finger, "Mm, this is really good."

"I mean…what if you two were…you know." Glimmer flushed slightly, "Anyway, I wanted to ask you how you're feeling about Catra and Scorpia hanging out tonight. I know it's a mission to the Fright Zone to set up a protective structure around the Black Garnet or whatever, but…you know."

Adora grabbed a piece of cake, popping it into her mouth and gave Glimmer a blank look as she chewed.

"Well, I happen to know that nothing is official between Scorpia and Perfuma yet," Glimmer went on, and when that got a similar response, she huffed a sigh, "Adora, your girlfriend is hanging out with her ex! I mean, obviously, I'm not saying anything would happen, but that's still gotta be weird for you, right?"

Adora coughed, cleared her throat, then reached for the water flask they had tucked into Glimmers bed with them. "I'm sorry, what? Her ex? First off, I never said Catra was my girlfriend, second, Scorpia is not her ex."

"Uh, are you sure about that?" Glimmer asked, digging her fingers into the cake finally.

"Yeah, I mean, for one thing, Scorpia is totally ace," Adora pointed out.

"Um, okay, well, I did not know that," Glimmer conceded, then countered, "But ace doesn't mean aro, and it doesn't always mean sex averse."

"Sex?! Who's talking about that?" Adora sputtered, feeling her face heat, "I'm not talking about that, nobody's talking about that!"

"What? Yes, we were!" Glimmer insisted, then laughed, "Why do you think I said I should stop teleporting into your room?"

"Um, noooo, we don't, we didn't, I mean, maybe eventually, but we're not doing that. Yet. At this point. At all." Adora knew she was beet red, she knew she was stammering, but Glimmer wasn't interrupting, which meant it was just going to keep happening, "Not that I wouldn't…or that she wouldn't…but you know. So much happened, and then Catra has issues around touch, and I mean, that's cool, that's fine, who doesn't? I do, actually, maybe it's just us…but you know, we haven't talked about anything yet, and she's not…my…I mean she is my girlfriend, maybe? But it feels...you know…more than that."

"If you two eloped without bringing me and Bow I will teleport you into the river." Glimmer insisted.

"Oh, what? No, not that, it's just," Adora felt herself calm a bit as the focus moved away from sex, something she'd thought plenty about, but hadn't actually done, "Catra and I have a lot of history. We have a lifetime of history. You know, I don't remember when she was brought into the Horde. We're close to the same age, but I was a toddler still. She remembers it though, so she remembers a time before me. Not very well though, mostly, our earliest memories are with each other."

"So, for a time, it was kind of sisterly?"

"What?" Adora blinked in confusion, "that's another familial relation, but you know I get them confused."

"A sister would share one or both parents," Glimmer reminded her.

"I thought that was brothers." Adora popped a little more icing into her mouth, wondering what the flavor was; it wasn't one she'd had before. "Bow has a lot of those."

"Brothers are boys who share parents, sisters are girls who share parents." Glimmer explained.

"What about folks who aren't boys or girls?" Adora asked, brow furrowing.

"Siblings refers to any gender." Glimmer provided.

"Right, well, no, we definitely aren't…like that," Adora flushed again, this time not meeting Glimmer's eyes, "It's not like we didn't know. You know?"

"Know what?" Glimmer pressed.

"Okay, well, we knew we liked each other, but we were cadets. We shared a room with a bunch of other cadets. What were we going to do about it?" Adora shrugged, "I mean, we had our special places we went, and it's not like nothing happened."

"Something happened? Oh, tell me, tell me!" Glimmer wriggled and snatched some more cake.

Adora chuckled awkwardly, trailing off a little in the end. "Well, the first time we made a fortress with our mattresses and blankets, and we were up late talking. Kyle was snoring, so you know, it was pretty private because nobody could hear us over that. Tiny guy, huge snore," Adora recalled fondly, "Anyway, she told me she'd seen two force captains messing around together in the control center, Octavia and someone else I don't remember, anyway, I asked what they were doing, because, you know, I didn't know anything about that stuff."

"How old were you?" Glimmer asked.

"Well, it's hard to say…" Adora tried to think back, "we were just starting to go through puberty. I remember Catra had lost a lot of her baby fat that year, I was a little stockier than her, but she was kinda chubby when she was little. She was a cute kid. Anyway, she'd slimmed out a lot by then, so I'm guessing around ten or eleven."

"I always forget you two don't know how old you are," Glimmer sighed, "We should have asked Shadow Weaver when we had the chance."

"I'm somewhere around twenty-two, now, I think. She might not have known, time feels… different in the Horde. There's a lot of routine, every day feels a lot like every other day." Adora waved it off, "And nobody cares much about birthdays. Plus, it wasn't like either of us were born there. Anyway, I had no idea what Catra was talking about, so she asked me if she could show me. I was like, 'sure' and then she just kissed me. It was pretty quick, like, maybe two seconds long. I was totally stunned for a moment, and she kinda looked like she was either going to laugh at me or run away. I said I wanted to try again because I hadn't been ready. We kissed some more…and like, after that, sometimes, if we were really sure we were alone, we'd kiss. Sometimes she'd let me rub her ears, which always makes her purr, which is totally the cutest thing ever. She slept in my bed most nights, on top of the covers, she runs hotter than me, so I would suffocate if we were wrapped up together, but I liked having her on my feet, or if I tossed the covers, we could just spoon or sleep back to back. Once Rogelio dared Lonnie and I to kiss, or at least, I'm pretty sure that's what he said. We were about to, but Catra tackled me and kissed me instead. She hissed at everyone and sort of just…informed them all I wasn't going to be kissing anyone but her. And I never did."

"You never thought about it?" Glimmer asked, and Adora felt her face heat again.

"I mean, maybe, a few times, I've thought about other women," Adora said flushing deeper.

"Like who?"

"Um, just women. Sometimes, people we've rescued… girls just…it's the She Ra thing you know? Muscles. Everyone likes muscles. I mean, have you seen Huntara?!"

"Riiiiight," Glimmer nodded, "I do seem to remember you following your hots for her right into an ambush. Your crush almost got us killed!"

"What? Nah, we were fine, pssht," Adora waved her hand, "I mean, I don't know if this is a crush, but I've noticed Mermista and Perfuma sort of noticing me, you know, when I'm She Ra especially. They're into other people now, so not so much anymore, but early days…I maybe fed off that attention a little. Oh, and there were a couple girls at Elberon parties. And you know. I mean, nevermind."

"No, what? You have to tell me now!" Glimmer insisted.

"Well…it's not a thing, you know, it was just a few moments we had, and I felt…just a little, I mean, you know it just happens sometimes. I just let the moments pass. I don't have that many super close friendships, I mean, there's Bow but he's a guy so you know, I've never been into guys, so whatever."

"That made almost no sense." Glimmer stated.

"You, Glimmer. A couple times. Not like an ongoing crush or anything like that, just…some moments."

"Oh…me?" Glimmer pointed to herself, a bit of sparkle lighting out around her hair. "Like, you and me, me?"

"Just for a few moments!"

"Okay, what moments?" Glimmer asked, eyes wide, but looking more curious than freaked out, which Adora preferred.

"Uh…that time you saved me from Shadow Weaver's mind wipe…um…the hot springs for sure…"

"Oh, yeah, there may have been a few moments on Mystacor," Glimmer giggled, "no, I totally know what you mean now." `

"Right?" Adora said, "It doesn't mean anything, we're just close. Sometimes, you'll sort of, rage out and kick a bunch of ass in a fight and I'll just be like…that's kinda hot. Like, pretty much every time you sparkle punch someone in the face. Plus, you're super pretty, so there's that."

"Aw, thank you," Glimmer grinned sheepishly, "I won't say it's never occurred to me either, but I've got no regrets."

"I know," Adora nodded, "Anyway, so I've never kissed anyone but Catra."

"And that's all you guys ever did? Kiss?" Glimmer asked. "Even now?"

"Well, some pret-ty involved kissing," Adora nodded and gave a half grin, one eyebrow lifting, "I mean, we've had some intensely intimate moments, and sometimes we're really affectionate. She's been super cuddly since we defeated Prime a few weeks ago."

"Has she been with anyone else?" Glimmer asked.

"I don't know," Adora shrugged, "I mean, I doubt it, but it doesn't matter. She's mine now. If her and Scorpia had a thing, it was an emotional thing, because honestly, I don't think Catra was letting anyone get that close to her. She's not great at…receiving affection. Plus, Scorpia's not great at boundaries, I can't picture Catra really feeling physically safe enough to let her guard down with Scorpia. If anyone, I'd say maybe…Double Trouble. Except I think they like guys."

"What? Really?" Glimmer asked, obviously not expecting that answer.

"Yeah, she was in a bad place, her guard was down with them, but only because she was sorta…you know…falling apart. And Double Trouble was her only 'friend', they sort of vibed, that betrayal really shattered her," Adora sighed, "She's talked about them a little bit. I don't think it would have been that impactful if there hadn't been…you know, something there. At least chemistry or a crush. I would have also said maybe Entrapta but I think Catra isn't quite…robotic enough for her if you know what I mean."

"Hm, yeah." Glimmer chuckled, "Okay, do you think Double Trouble prefers to do it as themselves, or as one of their characters?" Glimmer asked.

"What? Shut up! That's! Ahhh," Adora covered her face with her hands. "We're not thinking about that."

"If I was hooking up with Double Trouble, and they wanted to be someone else, I'd ask them to be me." Glimmer insisted. "That would be really interesting. I bet Catra would totally want to hook up with herself."

"I'm not engaging in this conversation!" Adora said, moving her hands cover her ears, careful not to get icing in her hair.

The were quiet for a moment, and Adora knew Glimmer was watching her cheeks get redder, finally she dropped her hands and admitted, "I wouldn't even be jealous, I'd just beg to watch."

Glimmer cracked up and Adora hid her face again.

"I was mostly joking," Adora said, "I'd have a hard time with anyone else touching Catra now that she's mine again. I don't even like being away from her all night. I trust her, I just miss her."

"Aww, that's sweet," Glimmer said, "I'm just surprised you haven't gone further, but whatever works for you two."

"I think…part of the problem is Shadow Weaver."

"Wait…okay, explain,"

"Well," Adora grabbed a damp washcloth and wiped her fingers, then leaned over the edge of the bed and dropped it neatly into the laundry basket far below. “We were always terrified of getting caught kissing, so we didn’t do it much. Plus, you know, Shadow Weaver didn’t like our friendship. She’d use it against both of us, but she also hated it. She’d be more likely to…to be particularly terrible if she knew I was…affectionate with Catra. But I was also afraid to leave her alone, so it was a fine line, showing Shadow Weaver I care enough that she’d keep Catra around, but not so much that she’d take it out on her. But even then, I knew Catra was it for me. I mean, she never took anything seriously, so I didn’t realize she felt the same, so I’d always sort of stuffed it down. And then…what happened in the Heart.”

“Yeah, you’ve told me, that was intense.” Glimmer said, looking both sad a bit awed. “She really said that stuff to you?”

“Yeah, I think what got through to me, what I really felt, was that she wanted me for who I am, not what I can do for her. Not She Ra, not a fighter or a soldier, just…She just wanted…me. I think I realized that she’s the one person in my life who’s always loved me with no conditions. She didn’t care that Shadow Weaver thought I was special, or that I excelled at my training, or that I had magical powers. She never cared about any of that, she didn’t need those things to want me in the first place. I mean, no offence, but if I wasn’t She Ra, it might have taken much longer… if ever…for you and Bow to warm up to me.”

“What? That’s not…I mean…”

“You know, when it’s strangers, I don’t mind,” Adora drew her knees up to her chest and hugged them, “But when it’s people I care about, people who know me; I really hate it when they call me She Ra when I’m not actually in She Ra form. She Ra is something I can do, she’s part of me, but without her I’d still be me. Without me, She Ra would just be someone else.”

Chapter Summary

in which the smutty smut begins also a lot of adora-bleness and trauma processing but definitely smut!

Catra dropped her bag just inside the door of Adora's room, then made a beeline for the bed.

"Uhhh," She groaned as she collapsed on the covers, "Scorpia is great, but she's…a lot." Catra cracked on eye open to watch Adora doing push ups on the floor nearby.

"Scorpia…is very…touchy," Adora said haltingly she kept doing push-ups, "She fits…great here…Some people like that."

"Yeah, yeah, I'm the freak who doesn't like being touched unexpectedly. You'd think I'd expect it from her by now, but for some reason…" Catra mumbled, eyeing Adora's body, "you trained constantly in the Horde, how are you more muscly now when no-one is making you do it?"

"Um, I got older I guess?" Adora flipped over, stretched, then gestured to her feet, "sit on me so I can do sit ups. We were teenagers then, we're in our twenties now, we can retain more muscle. Plus, you know how sore I get after doing She-Ra stuff, just because I'm magically enhanced, doesn't mean there's no muscle strain."

Catra rolled onto her hands and feet, crouched, tail swishing, and eyed Adora.

"Wait, that's not what I…oof!" Adora exhaled hard as Catra pounced, landing on her midsection. "Okay, so much for sit ups." Adora grumbled.

Catra kneaded Adora's abs through her shirt, careful to only let her claws tear the cloth a little bit.

"You're ruining another shirt," Adora complained.

"Please, like you don't destroy them regularly anyway," Catra purred, "I bet the tailors here have like a hundred of these on hand. It's probably someone's sole job to make them."

"Eh, you're probably right, they keep showing up in my wardrobe," Adora said, then reached up and ran her fingers through Catra's short hair, stopping just behind her ears. Catra's eyes closed to slits as she leaned into the touch, resisting the initial instinct to pull away. She was glad she stayed as Adora started rubbing, moving all around the base of her ear then down just below it.

"Ow," Adora whispered, but didn't stop, and Catra forced herself to move her hands, and claws, off Adora's torso and onto the floor, doing the same with her legs to straddle her.

"So, are you my girlfriend?" Adora asked.

Catra pulled upright a bit, staring down at Adora in surprise, her purr cutting off. "Uhh, what?" She asked.

"It's just…Glimmer referred to you as that…and I didn't know if that was an official thing, or if there was something else we should be calling it…or doing…or if you know, I mean, I'm pretty sure…" Adora flushed as she stammered through her reply.

Catra smirked, and leaned down until her lips were millimeters from Adora's, effectively cutting her off her fumbling explanation. "You're such an idiot," Catra whispered, "Yes, of course I am. But I don't like the term girlfriend. I'm your Partner in Crime."

Adora's hands moved to run up Catra's sides, making her fur floof up, then settled back down, "And me? What am I?" She asked, her voice coming out husky.

"I already told you," Catra replied, "an idiot. But you're my idiot."

Catra leaned in then, and pressed her lips to Adora's, pressing her body firmly against Adora's. There's literally nothing like this feeling. Catra thought, reveling in the way their bodies just seemed to fit like they were made for each other.

Adora's hands ran up and down her sides, her back, then she felt it; Adora's fingers brushing her lower back where her shirt rode up, skin to skin, or…skin to fur as she moved her fingers closer to Catra's spine, just above her tail. Catra couldn't hold back the squeak that emerged from her throat as Adora's short nails scratched at the sensitive spot.

"Sorry, sorry," Adora immediately withdrew her hands, stiffening slightly. Catra buried her face in Adora's neck hid the heat she felt rising on her cheeks.

"Don't be," she said, her voice dropping low.

"It's just, you used to like it when I pet you there, you know, when we were little," Adora said, an Catra chuckled at the memory.

"If you tell anyone that, I'll go back to trying to kill you all the time."

"Yeah, like you were ever really trying to kill me," Adora wrapped her arms around her again, but tentatively. "You had multiple chances. You almost always left me an out."

"Adora," Catra pulled up to meet her eyes, "You don't have to be afraid to touch me. I've never been that fragile."

Adora held her a little more firmly, but contradicted Catra when she spoke, "I beg to differ," her grey-blue eyes were sad, not with pity, Catra realized, but with shared pain. "I think we're both a little fragile. I just…don't want to hurt us. And it's like, I feel like someone's going to catch us…"

"And if they do?" Catra asked, "Who cares? Everyone knows we're together."

"Yeah, but…never mind, it's stupid."

"Probably," Catra replied, "But you should tell me anyway."

"Nah, I'm good, we were doing a thing, right?" Adora tried to change the subject, "A kissing thing, there were hands, you were purring."

"I was not. Let's play a game," Catra grinned at Adora and pulled out of her grasp so she sat straddling her, upright. "It's called Strip Interrogation. You're my prisoner, and I ask you questions, and if you answer honestly, you get a reward, in the form of one piece of my clothing coming off."

Adora arched an eyebrow, "Did you just make that up? I'm pretty sure that's not how you interrogate your prisoners."

Catra laughed, throwing her head back, "Oh, Adora, so naïve," she replied, raking her claws down Adora's front, from her shoulders down to her belly, not missing the way Adora's breath caught when Catra drew across her breasts. "It's like truth or dare. Everyone knows this game. It's not how I usually interrogate, but with you as my prisoner, I'll make an exception."

"Heh heh," Adora let out a dorky little laugh, one Catra had always loved, and made her stupid flirting face, which Catra had also always loved, "okay, I'll be your captive."

"Good," Catra reached up and ran a hand over Adora's jawline, brushing a thumb over her lips and watching Adora flush pink. "First question, let's see, have you been with anyone but me?"

"N-no," Adora stammered, "Some cuddling, but nothing… no kissing, no touching. Um, a big super muscly lady hugged me once, and my face was in her boobs…does that count?"

Catra laughed, unclipping the soft leather armor she wore over her neck and shoulders, and casting it aside. "No, definitely not, but that's cute," She said.

"One might say," Adora bounced her eyebrows as she spoke, "Adora-ble."

"Any more bad puns and I'll put clothes back on."

"Yes, ma'am." Adora said, wrestling her face into a mock serious one, and letting go of Catra's hip to pop a hand up in salute.

"Okay, you dork," Catra smiled affectionately at her, not even able to pretend she didn't, indeed, find her…partner in crime entirely adorable. "Next question, now, what were you going to say to me before?"

"Hmmm," Adora groaned, covering her face with her hand. Catra caught it and pinned it to the floor by her head.

"Tell me," Catra said, "it's okay if it's stupid. You say stupid stuff all the time."

"It's just…I know she's gone, but it's like I'm scared Shadow Weaver is gonna find out," Adora said, her voice dropping to a near whisper.

Catra released Adora's wrist and scooted down, forcing Adora to drop her legs down flat. Catra lay her head on Adora's chest, hearing her heart beat up close. If she paid attention, she could hear it from ten paces away, but up close, it was impossible to ignore.

"That's not stupid," Catra admitted, "the one time she did catch us…it wasn't good."

"I don't remember." Adora said softly, "and that's kind of what scares me the most, I don't remember what happened after she had us brought in…after she told us she knew."

"Really?" Catra tipped her head up slightly, her nose by Adora's neck. She smelled like…Adora. Like soap and hempcloth and clean sweat, and a little like the sky. Like when they'd first ridden in a skiff and gone as high as the driving instructor would take them.

"Yeah, you know, she was ranting, saying all the horrible things she always said, but worse," Adora recalled, holding Catra a little too tightly, "then nothing."

"It wasn't anything out of the ordinary," Catra told her softly, running her hands under Adora's arms to grip her shoulders, "It was just the usual, only she made you watch. At one point you tried to stand up to her. Well, sort of, it was pretty half-assed, but Shadow Weaver wasn't having it. She left you in a cell overnight. She told me to go let you out when she released me in the morning."

"I remember waking up there," Adora nodded slightly, "my face hurt, did she hit me?"

"Yeah, just the once," Catra said, "she didn't do that often."

"No, she didn't," Adora sighed, "I wish I'd done more for you. I should have. You were right about that."

"No, I wasn't," Catra said pointedly, "anytime you actually tried to stand up for me it was worse. I mean, I appreciated the gesture, but really, neither of us had any power in that situation. Shadow Weaver manipulated us both into thinking you had power, that things were your fault, but they weren't."

"How are you so much more balanced about all this?" Adora asked.

"I'm not, but I have spent more time thinking about it," Catra said, "I know you; you ignore the bad things you can't punch. Adora, Princess of Denial."

"Hey!" Adora complained, then didn't protest.

"That's when we stopped." Catra brought the subject back to Adora, not wanting to let her drop it until she saw it through. "From then on, you slept under the covers, me on top."

"No more mattress fortresses," Adora agreed, "No more cuddling, or kissing, or any of it. For years I wanted to touch you, but I was scared."

"Shadow Weaver is gone," Catra said, pushing herself upright again, "you don't need to be afraid to touch me. You're like, the most powerful woman in the universe." Catra reached down to the hem of her top, then pulled it up and over her head, with some effort. Being insanely flexible helped, but it was a snug binding top so she didn't have to layer a bra on under it. Adora's eyes dropped down to her smallish breasts. Not that Adora was all that well-endowed, but if Catra had a tight enough shirt, it was all she needed for support, Adora either wore a bra or a light binding undershirt that served the same purpose. "Hey, Adora," Catra smirked at her, as Adora's gazed traveled down to her navel then back up to her boobs again. "eyes up here."

Adora seemed to put great effort into dragging her eyes up, and Catra noticed they glowed blue ever so faintly. She leaned down, "So, strongest person in the universe, I think we can agree that I'm safe with you. We're safe together."

Catra grabbed Adora's hands and placed one back on her waist, and the other she held in front of her face, nipping at Adora's forefinger lightly then lowering the hand to cover one of her breasts, feeling her fangs prick at her own bottom lip as her nipple hardened against Adora's palm. Adora's face turned bright red, and her eyes flared blue, then suddenly Catra had to close her eyes and turn her head away as a flash of light blinded her. When she looked back down, she was straddling full on She Ra.

Adora blinked at her in surprise, then Catra fell off her lap laughing, "Oh, this is priceless! I'm never going to let you live that down!”

“What?” Adora protested, “No! Damn it!” She squeezed her eyes closed and moments later was Adora again, but Catra was still on the floor in a fit of laughter.

“You… turn into She Ra… when you get turned on!” Catra gasped for breath, and wiped away an errant tear, “Oh, now I have dirt on you.”

“You better not tell anyone!” Adora insisted, her face bright red as she stood up, then grabbed Catra with both hands and practically tossed her onto the bed, then climbed over her and pinned her down, finally cutting off Catra laughter.

“Yeah? What are you going to do to make sure I keep my mouth shut?” Catra retorted, not even caring that she was purring again.

“That sounds like a question,” Adora growled, “and my answer is this.”

Adora did the one thing even Catra admitted was guaranteed to shut her up, she kissed her, hard. Catra battled her for dominance for only a moment, then quickly gave in as Adora used her superior strength to keep her pinned down. Not that she couldn’t have gotten away easily, but she didn’t want to. Once she gave in, Adora pulled back, then smirked.

“Now, since I answered honestly, I think that means I get another article of clothing, and these boot stocking things count as one.” Adora said, reaching down to tug them off. Catra squeaked, but didn’t voice a verbal protest, feeling her entire body heat. Adora noticed it too.

“You’re getting warmer,” she muttered, running her hands down Catra’s torso. “You’re always warmer, but…hm, so I’m not the only one affected.”

"Y-you're…you." Catra said in a weak defense, "And you're undressing me, what did you think was going to happen?"

"I thought you might tell me to stop," Adora admitted, "but I'm glad you didn't. Oh, that was another question I answered."

Catra's face burned, but she didn't protest when Adora slid down her body hooking her fingers inside the dark merlot knee length leggings. Adora met Catra's eyes, her gaze seeking permission. Catra was feeling too many things to name any of them, but she definitely knew she didn't want Adora to stop. She gave a slight nod, and Adora slowly pulled off her pants, leaving her only in black cotton boy shorts.

"Catra…" Adora breathed.

"Wh…what?" Catra stammered, feeling more than a little self-conscious with herself in nothing but underwear and Adora in her usual clothes, sans jacket. "What is it?"

Adora traced the outline of her underwear with one finger, making Catra's fur stand on end. She wasn't covered in it like some more feline folks were, but it ran up her spine, the backs of her upper arms, and along the back of her jawline just below her ears. And her tail of course, which wound around Adora's wrist.

"That's the last question you have clothes to pay for," Adora whispered, "and to answer it, I was just thinking how incredibly beautiful you are." With that last question answered, Adora used both hands to tear Catra's underwear, her eyes flaring from grey to blue as she tapped into She Ra's brute strength.

"Hey!" Catra protested but bit her lip as heat flared in only certain parts of her body, parts Adora now had full access to.

Adora tossed the ruined fabric to the side, then pointed at her own midriff where her shirt was ragged. "Now you know how it feels. But, hey, I like this game. I think I won."

Catra would have agreed, then Adora ran her fingers through the short slightly curled fur at the apex of her thighs.

"Oh, that's…debatable." Catra gasped out.

"Do you have to trim this, or is it like the rest of your fur?"

"Fur, it stays that short," Catra managed as Adora's fingers explored lower, but didn't quite touch her like she needed. Adora leaned down, and placed a line of kisses a and light nips down Catra's collarbone, and Catra couldn't hold back a moan of pleasure, then she growled out, "Adora, just fucking touch me."

Adora complied, cupping Catra's sex firmly, Catra's claws caught on the back of Adora's shirt, then dug in just a little as Adora's fingers parted her lower lips, sliding up to circle her clit then back down to just barely dip into her opening, repeating that pattern again and again. Catra clung to her, feeling her toes curl and as she wrapped one leg around Adora's hips, which were settled between her spread open thighs.

When Adora's mouth found her nipple, Catra couldn't help but cry out, holding Adora firmly in place with her claws. She knew she should be more careful, but Adora pressed harder against her clit, moving her fingers in a slight circle motion and she focused her attention there, and Catra couldn't control her responses.

Adora moved her oral attentions from one peaked nipple to the other, and back again, bringing Catra closer and closer to the edge. Then suddenly she surged upward, capturing Catra's open mouth in a passionate kiss, running her tongue over Catra's sharp incisors just as she slipped two fingers lower, then slid inside Catra, who curled her hips up to meet her.

Catra lost track of the kiss and left her mouth open in a silent cry of pleasure, and Adora licked and nibbled at her lips as she pressed deeper, filling her up. Then she moved down, her two fingers buried deep inside Catra, filling her in a way she'd never been filled before. Adora dragged her lips down Catra's body as if painting a line down her center, she shifted downward until her face was just over Catra's sex. Catra clung to her shoulders desperately.

"Please…" fell from her lips, then Adora's tongue slid over Catra's clit, and she saw stars. A million explosions of light, and as her entire body went rigid, Adora's fingers curling inside her, as if pulling her orgasm out of her. "Adora!" Catra gasped, "Don't stop!"

Adora's fingers worked their magic as Adora's lips sucked in Catra's clit, and her orgasm crested, launching her into outer space, then sent her tumbling back down into Adora's arms. She didn't remember Adora moving to hold her, but there she was, wrapped around Catra, holding her tightly in an embrace Catra never thought she'd be able to have with her, not outside of her fantasies. Even her dreams weren't so kind as to offer such comfort.

"You're incredible," Adora whispered against Catra's neck.

"You are," Catra said back, hoarsely, trying to catch her breath. "gimme a minute and I'll be ready…"

"No, no, not this time," Adora insisted, "I really just want to hold you."

"You sure?" Catra said, "I mean, it's not like I haven't fantasized about ripping your clothes off like, a million times."

"I'm 100% sure," Adora assured her, "I'm not going anywhere, we've got plenty of time. Next time, you can do whatever you want to me. I'm all yours."

"Whatever I want, huh?" Catra drawled, getting her bearings again.

"Well, now I'm a little scared of whatever your thinking," Adora chuckled, "But sure, Catra, whatever you want."

"You can change your sword in anything, right?" Catra asked, cuddling into Adora's embrace.

"Sure, pretty much," Adora said, "What's that got to..ah, buh…uh…I d-don't…Catra!"

Catra's laugh rang out in the room, and she didn't need to look at Adora's face to know exactly how red it was.

fun stuff though! so maybe don't skip it!

A light knock sounded on the door, and Adora looked down to make sure it hadn't woken Catra, who mumbled and rolled on her side, then curled up, not opening her eyes. Adora tossed a blanket over the slimmer woman, then placed a kiss just under Catra's ear, where her hair turned to fur and tended to floof out adorably. Catra made a little huffing sound, but between her body language and the vibration of her purr let Adora know that while she'd woken up, she had no intention of staying awake.

Adora sat up, resting a hand on Catra's shoulder for a moment, but when Catra didn't stir, she slipped away, standing carefully, and padding across the room in her socks, grabbing her boots from where they sat neatly by the door, before pushing the door open a crack, finding Glimmer on the other side.

"Hang on," She whispered, then slipped out of the door and pushed it closed, dropping her boots and stepping into them carefully, Glimmer taking her elbow to steady her. "Catra's sleeping."

"Hey, did you forget?" Glimmer asked, pitching her voice low, "Before the All Princess meeting this afternoon, we were going to meet with Entrapta and Bow about their upgrades to Mara's…oh…um, that shirt is…"

Adora looked down, realizing her long sleeve white shirt was totally shredded, "Ah, heh," she crossed her arms over her body.

"Come on, I've got extras in my room, from when we used to sneak out and come back all dirty and scuffed up," Glimmer, placed a hand on Adora's wrist, then in a cloud of pink sparkles, they teleported to Glimmer's bedroom. Glimmer released her as soon as they solidified, and turned to pull open a wardrobe, pushing aside some of Bows spare clothes to find Adora's. She grabbed a shirt and tossed it her way.

Adora turned, tugging off her ruined shirt.

"Adora! What the heck?" Glimmer flashed, vanished, then reappeared at her side.

"Huh, what?" Adora looked around, trying to spot whatever had startled Glimmer, but everything seemed in order. Or as in order as Glimmer's room ever was.

"You're all scratched up!" Glimmer held her in place, then turned her slightly to the side, "How did this happen? Were you in a fight and you didn't invite me? Even your pants are…" She trailed off as Adora looked over her shoulder, into a mirror mounted on the wall, finding her back covered in red scratches, the ones on her shoulders bleeding a little. Her pants had a very obvious claw patterned rip across the ass as well.

"Oh, that," Adora smirked, "heh, yeeeah. I can heal later if I feel like it."

Glimmer had turned a curious shade of pink, "You…oh. Right. Okay. So you two…never mind, I get why Scorpia calls her Wildcat." Glimmer muttered, "Never mind about inviting me."

Adora rolled her eyes and craned her neck to examine the scratches on her shoulder, "That's not why Scorpia calls her that, but it definitely applies," Adora grinned and turned back to Glimmer, "Still got an aid kit in here?"

After they covered the shoulder scratches, the only ones that were actually bloody, Adora finished dressing, finding an extra red jacket tossed over the back of one of Glimmer's chairs. Adora shrugged it on.

"Okay, ready for the meeting," she said as she used an extra hair tie from around her wrist to tie her hair back in her usual style.

"Really?" Glimmer said, "'Cause they can wait a bit if you wanna talk about it? I'm sure they're happy nerding out over tech stuff anyway."

"Talk about what?" Adora asked.

"The fact that things finally progressed with Catra!" Glimmer insisted, squealing a little, and teleporting from one side of Adora to the other.

"I mean, finally is a strong word," Adora said, trying to keep track of where Glimmer was, "We've only been officially together for a few weeks."

"You two were together since we rescued her," Glimmer insisted, "Even if you all never admitted it, it was obvious to the rest of us. So yes, finally."

"Okay, okay," Adora laughed, "We talked, about important things. Then we sorta just…I mean, I guess Catra laid the groundwork, but I initiated taking it to the next level, which I am proud of."

"Aww, Adora! That's great!" Glimmer flung her arms around Adora in a quick hug, "Good for you! But why not just transform into She Ra and heal?"

"I will later," Adora ducked her head, flushing a little, "We kinda fell asleep right after, but I know Catra will want to admire her handiwork. Also, apparently, I'm really good at playing Strip Interrogation. I totally won."

"Wait, what? What's Strip Interroga…no, nevermind, I think I get it."

Adora scowled, "Damn it, Catra," she muttered, "I knew she made that game up."

Glimmer squeaked as she tried to hold back a laugh, her cheeks pinking a little. "Wow. Okay. You guys are…meeting, we should go to the meeting.”

Our Whole Future

Chapter Summary

In which Adora also gets some.
Some dynamics start to be established.
Some talking.
A bunch of smutty smut. No plot. Just more wholesome catradora sexy time.

The meeting with Bow and Entrapta went pretty much as Glimmer and Adora had predicted, the techie duo nerding out and giving way more in-depth explanations than necessary. But the actual Princess Alliance meeting was mostly taken up with a check in by all of the princesses. The actual business portion went fairly quickly. Most everyone, particularly Mermista, was focused on rebuilding their kingdoms after the war. Adora noted immediately how quiet Catra was. While Prime's forces had done some damage, the majority of damage done to Etheria's many nations had been committed by the Horde under Catra's command, and nobody had forgotten that, least of all Catra herself. The least affected kingdoms lent their support to the others, but the real business came with the discussion of the upcoming space mission.

With King Micah in residence as regent, Glimmer felt fully comfortable leaving Brightmoon and Etheria in his hands to go on the mission to help restore magic to the universe. While Glimmer couldn't use her runestone powers off planet, her sorcery would work anywhere there was magic to tap into, and Entrapta was working on designing her a portable runestone, which would need to be recharged at Brightmoon regularly, but would give her some ability to use her sparkle and teleportation powers even in space, at least until it ran out of power.

Catra was eager to get off world, away from the awkwardness of the Princess Alliance, and to prove herself, and where she went, Melog followed. Bow was determined to go along, and of course Entrapta wouldn't miss another trip to space, and She Ra would be necessary to the mission, as it was her healing powers that would allow them to help other planets reconnect with their magic, so it was assumed that Adora was in on it, not that anyone had bothered to ask her.

Adora drummed her fingers on her desk in her bedroom, as she stared at her list of supplies for the upcoming mission. Not that she was actually reading it. The discontent she'd felt from the meeting had set her off the post meeting meal, and she hadn't felt up to going out for drinks with Seahawk, Bow, Scorpia, and Netossa. Her mood had even infected Swift Wind, who had surprisingly given her space, but also declined the invite, stating he had his own horse liberation business to tend to.

The curtains hanging around her "command center" shifted, and she felt Catra's presence draw near.

"Hey, Adora," Catra's voice came out quiet, almost a whisper, as she trailed one finger down Adora spine, then spread her hand out over Adora's back and rested her chin on the red crested shoulder of her jacket. "what are you overthinking, now?"

"Um, nothing." Adora said automatically, then remembered that this was Catra she was talking to. Not only would Catra know if something was wrong, but she'd understand Adora's worries and convoluted thoughts better than anyone else.

Maybe even better than me.

"Okay, something." Adora corrected herself with a sigh, leaning forward against her desk, putting her weight on her hands as she clutched the front edge of it. She closed her eyes and just felt Catra's body pressing against her back, felt Catra's support and her presence. This was what she'd wanted, needed, from Catra ever since she could remember, but they'd never really been free to have it before.

Not with Shadow Weaver and the Horde looking over their shoulder, and not when they were on opposite sides of things, and not even after rescuing Catra from Prime, when she was far too deep into processing what she'd been through, and they were still busy saving the universe. Crisis after crisis. Now it was over but…

"I'm glad we have a mission," Adora said finally, "honestly, it's kind of a relief. I haven't really known what to do with myself in the weeks since we defeated Prime and returned magic to Etheria. Nobody needs anything from me."

"So all that healing you've been doling out and strategizing and lifting heavy stuff was what," Catra pointed out, "Just for fun?"

"The healing is mostly done for people affected by the war," Adora reminded Catra, "having a friend who can teleport me all over the world to help people at centralized locations really helps with that. And all that other stuff…they can do it without me."

"Yeah, I mean, who even is Adora without a mission?" Catra teased, her voice quiet and raspy.

"That's part of it, I really don't know," Adora admitted, then continued, "the other part is…She Ra stuff. You know."

"I do know," Catra stepped back then tugged on Adora's hips, "Come get comfy with me and tell me though. You obviously need to work through it out loud. Letting it rattle around inside your head isn't doing any good."

Adora pushed off the desk and let Catra lead her to a window seat near the waterfall, onto a pile of cushions. Adora noted that Catra seemed to adjust much quicker than she had to the comforts Brightmoon had to offer, though it was just as common to find her napping on up on hard ledge as it was to find her burrowed in a pile of pillows, like the one that nearly camouflaged Melog as they climbed into it and settled in.

"Talk to me, Adora." Catra poked Adora's forehead with one claw, and Adora found herself pouting slightly at the old gesture she found both irritating and comforting in its familiarity.

She reached up to swat Catra's hand away, but only caught it with hers, before shifting in their pillow nest to rest against Catra's chest, letting Catra wrap her arms around her.

"Of course, I want this mission. I want to go. But nobody actually asked me if I wanted to come," Adora let out some of what was building inside then the rest seemed to pour out of her, "they just assumed I'd go, because She Ra was necessary. It was all 'then She Ra will do this or that' and how She Ra could contribute. Like, I do get it, it's the main thing I do or whatever… but…I'm still trying to figure out what I want to do, and everyone is just concerned with how they can utilize me…I mean, utilize She Ra. I know I'm being oversensitive about it, and I've been going crazy with nothing to do, but it just feels…"

"It's not actually the main thing you do," Catra said as Adora trailed off, "being She Ra? It's not even that unique. I mean, sure there's only one of you at a time, but other than the last thousand years, there's always been someone being She Ra. And you only spend like, a small amount of time as She Ra compared to how much time you spend as Adora. Even when you are She Ra, it's you, Adora that makes She Ra stand out from all the ones who came before you. It was you choosing yourself that saved the universe, not She Ra and her stupid destiny crap."

"I guess," Adora replied, still feeling uncertain.

"It's fact, Adora," Catra said firmly, "and if your friends can't see that, they're idiots. And if you can't see it, you're an idiot too."

Adora chuckled, her lips twitching up into an involuntary grin as Catra squeezed her tightly, "That's why I have you."

"What?" Catra queried, "to call everyone out on being dumb?"

"Yup, it's kind of your thing," Adora quipped, "I grow two and a half feet taller and glow, and you tell us all off whether we want to hear it or not."

"Hm, yeah, that sounds about right," Catra said, then after a few quiet moments, she added, "you could just tell them."

"Tell them what?" Adora asked, twisting her head up to peer at Catra, but only getting the view of the underside of her chin. It's a pretty chin…her skin is so smooth…I just wanna bite it. Is that normal?

"Tell them you don't like it when they keep calling you She Ra and talking about what you can do for them in terms of only She Ra." Catra explained, "Tell them to let you participate in planning as Adora, and to think of She Ra as a weapon you can wield, like Glimmer's staff, or Bow's weird arrows. Not as the end all of who you are or some tool for them to take for granted."

"I don't want to make it an issue." Adora sighed, rolling in Catra's arms so she could hold Catra back.

"It is an issue though," Catra insisted, trailing her claws up and down Adora's arms. They weren't extended, but the tips were still sharp, though she was careful not to scratch too hard, Adora noted that her jacket wasn't even getting ruined. "You have so much to offer that isn't She Ra. The way you look at things and think about them, and the fact that you're the best and most seasoned leader of the group, the Horde had its issues, but they trained you really well. You were the best of us, and you're the best of them too. You fought Prime's forces without your powers when he first landed, you faced him without your powers, stood up for Etheria and for me. You fought me without them, and managed to get through to me, even through the chip. At it's most crucial moments, you led the rebellion as Adora, not as She Ra. You know, when we were fighting each other these last few years, I knew it was you I was up against. I strategized based on your plans, and even though I knew how you think and how you plan, you still beat me as often as not."

"You're a pretty brilliant strategist too," Adora pointed out, meaning it fully, "better than me."

"Yeah, but you've got this steady determination, um… conviction. You've got conviction." Catra insisted. "It's what helped you win so often, even without perfect strategies."

"And you don't?" Adora prompted.

"I've got you," Catra shrugged slightly, "that's what drives me now. But back then? Before Prime's ship? I was a mess, Adora. I had damage, and a lot of it. I couldn't see it then, but even just a few weeks removed, it's pretty easy to see that I was just having break down after break down. I was a really good leader in the beginning, when I first started out as Force Captain in the Horde, even after I was Hordak's second in command, I was good at my job, but by the end… I was driven by my issues, and my fucked up mental state, not by logic or particularly well thought out strategy. I got everything I thought I wanted, then I destroyed it all because I was living in a state of constant…rage and fear and grief. Prime was right about that."

"Shadow Weaver and Light Hope really did a number on both of us," Adora realized, thinking of the immersive shared visions they'd gotten in the First One's ruins. "they pitted us against each other and the world."

"Yeah, they used our insecurities and triggers to manipulate us. I always thought I was too smart for Shadow Weavers mind games to really work on me, but in that way…she always had me outclassed." Catra sighed, fidgeting with Adora's jacket between her fingers.

Adora pulled out of her arms to sit up and pull it off, then discarded her shirt as well, leaving herself in an undershirt and laying back down.

"And I thought I was less…damaged than you somehow. Because Shadow Weaver…because she didn't hurt me the way she hurt you. But she got in my head…she's still there. It's what made it so easy for Light Hope to manipulate me." Adora realized. "And it's why I've fed this whole She Ra identity to my friends, to the other princesses, as if it makes up more of who I am than it actually does."

"Hey, Adora," Catra replied in a teasing tone, as if that revelation wasn't anything new to her, it probably isn't, Adora realized, "what do you, me, and Sparkles have in common?"

"What?" Adora asked, really having no idea where Catra was going with that question.

"We all almost destroyed Etheria," Catra pointed out, "Me with the portal, you by picking up that Sword in the first place, and Sparkles when she brought us out of Despondos in right into Horde Prime's lap."

"And we were all reacting to Shadow Weaver's manipulations," Adora replied as that pattern unfolded in her mind. "One way or another."

"It's easy to blame her for everything when she's really gone," Catra pointed out. "But we all made our own choices. I was triggered, majorly so, but I chose to send Entrapta to Beast Island and activate the portal. And Sparkles chose to balance the planet and try to take the power of the Heart for herself. I hear Shadow Weaver actually tried to talk her out of running off half-cocked like that. And you…"

Adora curled into herself a little, but Catra didn't let her go which helped her keep opening up.

"I chose to believe what any authority figure told me about myself, my destiny. Light Hope was always waiting for me to be primed to activate the Heart," Adora said, her voice coming out quiet and small, "and if my friends hadn't distracted me from what I thought was my mission…I'd have done it. Several times over. Do you know how many times I tried to sacrifice my life for Etheria?"

"Hey, I activated a portal I thought would kill me, just to spite you," Catra pointed out, "we've both had some borderline suicidal issues. Seriously? We need so much therapy."

Adora found herself laughing, some of the tension in her muscles easing, “So, so much therapy.” She agreed, shifting so it was her underneath Catra. For as prickly as Catra was around others, she was a master cuddler in private. Not that she was hesitant to show casual affection to Adora in front of others, but it was mostly limited to more subtly possessive actions meant to demonstrate that Adora was hers.

Adora loved getting Catra to herself, with nobody to influence either of their behavior. She reveled in the cuddles for a few more minutes, but her petting of Catra grew more bold, and Catra’s purring got louder until Melog suddenly stood and shook themself, then leaped off the pile of pillows to the floor before pacing away to climb into the little dome nest Catra had commissioned for them.

Catra squeaked and Adora laughed as the absence of their biggest, warmest pillow nearly dumped them both onto the floor headfirst.

Adora rolled onto the floor, pulling a few pillows and cushions with her so the surface wasn’t hard, but was less squishy than their little nest had been, then she reached up and motioned for Catra to come to her.

Catra obliged, slipping down into Adora’s arms and putting up no protest when Adora immediately started pulling off her clothes.

“Ever since last night,” Adora said, a little breathlessly as Catra’s body was revealed to her again. “I’ve been hungry for more of you.”

“Since the Princess Alliance meeting?” Catra mused, failing to hide her smirk, “so seeing me be universally despised does it for you, huh? Wow, Adora, you must have been a mess when I was Etheria’s baddest super villain.”

"That is not true!" Adora insisted, narrowing her eyes at Catra, but not stopping her quest to disrobe her lover, "I was very displeased with you."

"But you still thought I was hot," Catra said as if it were a given, which Adora did not appreciate. Mostly because on some level it was true.

Doesn't matter, Adora thought, then followed that thought up with, "While you've been bragging about your hotness, I've managed to get you entirely naked. So I think I win again."

"Win what?" Catra scoffed, though Adora noticed she didn't protest or pull away.

"The game." Adora insisted, "Come on Catra, everyone knows this game. Where the one who gets the other's clothes off first wins. So once again, you are my prize."

"Oh no," Catra mock gasped, hands flying to her chest, "I've lost…but wait," She rocked her hips slightly then slammed her hands into Adora's shoulders, shoving her hard against the cushioned floor, "I'm on top, I think that means I'm in charge."

"Does it?" Adora cocked an eyebrow, giving Catra the look that always managed to make her flush. Adora's eyed dropped as she noticed for the first time that Catra's blush actually started on her chest and made it's way up. Her eyes followed it as her expression shifted into a self satisfied grin.

"Uh, being on top is the win," Catra said, her tone a little uncertain. "everyone knows that."

"Sure, fine," Adora acquiesced verbally, not bothering to hide that her opinion of the matter still differed. "You just stay up there then. Winning."

She shimmied down as she spoke, Catra's purr cutting off. "What…what are you doing?" Catra asked as Adora held her in place as she slid down, until Catra straddled her chest, but didn't stop there. Catra had to reach back to steady herself against Adora's torso with one hand as Adora positioned Catra's knees on either side of her head, then gripped her thighs tightly.

"Adora…" Catra began, then let out one of the signature squeaks when Adora tugged her firmly down, Catra's core connected with Adora's open lips and questing tongue. Adora worked to split her focus between exploring and drinking in Catra's depths, and keeping a tight grip on her thighs to keep her still. She learned that Catra liked when she delved deep, and she learned that she liked it even more when she sucked her clit gently between her lips, flicking at the tip with her tongue. She learned that the tighter she held Catra's thighs, digging her fingers into soft skin hard enough to bruise, the harder Catra trembled against her, and she learned that changing up what she was doing just as Catra was at the edge, drove her completely wild.

"Adora, please…" Catra begged, not for the first time as Adora kept her close to the edge, but prevented her from tipping over. "Gah, you're trying to kill me!"

Adora pushed Catra up slightly so she could respond. "Just checking, who wins this game?"

Catra groaned, then shuddered as Adora licked her from bottom to top.

"Ffffuck, you do. You win." Catra gasped out, and Adora finally gave her what she wanted. She plunged deep into Catra, tasting the way her wetness changed, the flavor getting deeper, as she speared her. Adora could just catch sight of Catra reaching up with both hands to grab her own breasts, fingers pinching her nipples hard, as her orgasm crashed through her, and her thighs clamped down around Adora's head, muffling the very vocal cries Catra didn't seem inclined to stifle.

Adora felt a rush of adrenaline as her own arousal kicked into a higher gear, and as Catra's orgasm waned, she slipped out from under her the rest of the way, flipped around and wrapped her arms around Catra from behind. Catra had fallen forward onto her hands and knees, and Adora had to lift her up and pull her into her lap as she gasped for breath. She reached around her and slipped the fingers of her right hand through Catra's wet heat, toying with her opening.

Adora wanted nothing more than to plunge deep inside of her, but hesitated. "I really, really, want to take you like this."

Catra made a noise that sounded like assent, then nodded quickly to back it up, and Adora pressed her fingers inside, forcing herself to take her time. Adora's left hand found Catra's right breast, and began toying with her hardened nipple. Her palm ground against Catra's clit as her fingers found a spot inside her that felt different, less smooth, but made Catra's breath catch and abs flex. Adora had to physically restrain her from curling in on herself.

"Right there?" She asked.

"Y-yeah, yeah, there," Catra rasped out, and her hands clutching each of Adora's wrists. Moments later, when Catra came for the second time, she collapsed forward again, and Adora couldn't hold her that time. But instead of supporting her weight on both her knees and hands, she shifted forward as her orgasm faded, her elbows hitting the ground, and her face nestling against her forearms. "Shit, Adora…"

Adora ran her hands down Catra's back, then left one at the small of her back, Catra's tail winding around her arm. Adora slipped the fingers of her free hand between Catra's trembling thighs again, this time with a full view of what she was doing.

"Catra," Adora breathed, sucking in a breath and still smelling and tasting the other woman. Adora slipped two fingers in her again, but from her new angle, she realized she could slip in a third, filling Catra entirely. Catra rocked back slightly to meet her thrust, giving Adora the confidence she needed to start fucking her in earnest.

Most of the sounds coming from Catra were muffled then, the occasional, "Harder…" slipping out in a desperate whine. Adora shifted her free hand to hold Catra's hip, and for the first time really considered what Catra had joked about, about her sword turning into anything, but she set the thought aside for another time, enjoying the feel of Catra clenching around her for a third time.

This time when Catra slipped forward and collapsed, Adora gave her some space to recover, stretching out next to her on the floor, trailing just the tips of her fingers along Catra's sweat damped skin.

"I thought you said something," Catra panted, "About me getting to do whatever I wanted to you."

Adora rolled to face her, "Okay, well, what do you want to do to me?" She grinned, fingers toying with the spot at the base of Catra's spine, which set her purring.

"I'd rather show you than tell you," Catra said, streatching and shuddering.

"Okay," Adora grinned, "I'm all yours."

"I…can't think…when you're doing that." Catra admitted, her purr hitching then growing louder.

Adora scratched her for a few more moments, then flattened her palm and smoothed out the fur there, before running her hand up to smooth skin. Catra finally turned towards her. She pushed herself up and leaned over to place a light kiss on Adora's lips.

"Wait here." She said, then hopped to her feet. She almost stumbled, a little off center, which was out of character for her.

Adora stood up, worried, placing a hand on Catra's leg. "Hey, you okay?"

Catra gave a little laugh, "Are you kidding?" she chuckled, "I'm amazing. You made me come like, three times. Even I am gonna be a bit off balance after that."

Catra seemed to regain her equilibrium, and darted over to a dresser, where she retrieved one of her stockings, a new set since she went through them fairly quickly. Adora sat cross legged, watching curiously.

Catra returned and straddled Adora's lap, grinning at her, and Adora cocked her head curiously. "What?" She asked, "You've got a look."

"I've got a plan," Catra asserted with a nod, then her gaze turned serious, "but if you need to stop just tell me, okay? Don't force yourself to do anything you don't want or that makes you uncomfortable. Promise?"

"Promise." Adora said back, feeling the weight of those words even though the subject matter was lighter than the only other promises they'd made to each other. The ones about staying together, having each other's backs, about protecting each other. Promises they'd both broken at times, creating rifts that were still healing. But maybe that made it even more important to make new promises, ones that they could and would keep.

"Close your eyes," Catra whispered.

Adora did without hesitation. I trust her completely. She thought, her heart feeling like it was swelling even as her stomach swooped when the soft cloth met her skin as Catra used it to blind fold her. Catra's lips ghosted over hers again, but before Adora could deepen the kiss, Catra had pulled away and was moving of off her.

"I'm gonna get ready," Catra said, "But you need to just… sit there, and…and talk to me while I do when I need to. Tell me…

tell me what you like."

"I like you." Adora said immediately.

"No, dummy," Catra huffed, "Tell me what you like in bed. You know, like, I know you haven't had sex before me, but how do you like to be touched, when you touch yourself."

"Oh…I…don't um…I don't do that often." Adora felt her face heat.

"That would explain a lot," Catra replied, her voice further away, "But when you do, what do you like?"

"Well, like, usually I have to be quick or quiet, because there's always people around, even here," Adora said, "It's kinda just…it's not sexy. Sorry, I wish…but it's all just about relieving tension mostly. Like…okay, well, there was this one time in the after we stole Mara ship from you in the Crimson Waste, we were only able to get it so far out of the Crimson Waste, we had to stop to rest, and I had my own tent. I um…this is embarrassing."

Adora recalled that she'd been thinking about Huntara, remembering sharing a tent with her on their way to their mission. She recalled what she had imagined, an intense wrestling match, muscles straining, sweat making them slick, Huntara pinning her down with her calloused hands, filling her up…The imagery had been intense.

"Um, okay, so I guess," she stammered a bit trying to find the words Catra had asked for, "I usually just, you know, as a quick thing, go for my clit, with two fingers, just…get the job done you know? But that time…Bow was sleeping in the ship, and Perfuma had made a little tent out of vines because the ship creeped her out, and I had my small camp tent tucked between some trees. Glimmer was on watch from the top of the tree canopy over where the ship was hidden. I had more privacy than usual. I uh, I put my fingers inside."

"How many?" Catra asked.

"How many fingers?" Adora replied, rubbing one of her biceps nervously. "Two…well, two at first, but then I managed three, but I couldn't like…finish like that, from being filled, but it felt good. I wound up sort of…grinding against my hand."

"Oh, Adora," Catra said, a slight teasing tone on her voice which actually set Adora at ease a little, "You even have to top yourself. Okay, I'm ready, but keep the blindfold on, just stand up."

Catra's voice moved closer, and then Catra's slim fingers were sliding hers. They were about the same height, but Catra had slimmer longer fingers, just slightly.

"I can't use my fingers inside you," Catra whispered, "not without some sort of protection, because you know, claws. But don't worry, I had something made for us."

"Wait, what?" Adora asked, confused. "Something made?"

"Well, not that I need any help," Catra said, a slight indignance to her tone, but just in case you were into penetration, I wanted something I could you know…meet that need."

"You made this thing when?" Adora asked.

"Um, well, okay, so Entrapta made it, she has all sorts of stuff…I'm sure you can imagine…anyway, I brought up the issue of my claws to her, and she made me this like, a week or so ago."

"Wait," Adora stopped their progress towards the bed, "You planned for this?"

"You didn't think we'd be going there?" Catra replied.

"Oh, well, I did…" Adora said, feeling a little foolish for asking, and worried about using something untested that Entrapta had made.

"Don't worry, I tested it out, it works great," Catra said. "And I'll show you before we use it, if you don't want to, we don't have to. But I think you'll be fine with it."

"I have questions for you later about this testing process," Adora said, "But right now I just want to get to the part where the blindfold comes off."

Adora followed Catra's physical prompts and moved to the bed, then sort of crawled forward and then sat. Finally, after a rustling of cloth, the blindfold was taken off. Adora blinked, take a moment to make sense of what she was looking at.

"Catra," She whispered as her eyes took in the thin gauzy sheets surrounding them, lit up from string lights just outside them.

"Did you build us a blanket fort?" Adora examined the firm cushions used for supports, and the bit of rope used to tent the blanket a bit at the top. It looked a lot like the blanket and pillow forts they'd built back in the horde, just more pastel and a bit bigger, bearing a slight resemblance to a makeshift tent they'd learned to make as kids just before… "It's just like the one we made in the Fright Zone, when we had our first kiss. But like, way nicer. Damn it, Catra…"

"What, what's wrong? I shouldn't have reminded you of… are you crying?" Catra moved in, her hands cupping Adora's face.

"No," Adora blinked back the surge of tears that had threatened, "I mean, maybe a little. This is so…sweet. Do you have any idea how sweet you are?"

"I am not sweet," Catra grumbled, dropping her hands. "Now lay down and let me ravage you."

Adora laughed, snorting a bit as she fell back onto the firm mattress. Catra stretched out next to her on her side, they eyes finding eachothers in the soft light cast by the string lights.

Adora lay still, watching Catra's face as Catra started running a hand over her torso, tracing the seams of her shirt. Her skin heated at the soft touch, and it took a few minutes for her to realized Catra had extended her claws and was carefully slicing through the fabric. Adora sucked in a breath, feeling her skin prickling as she shuddered and her long sleeved shirt fell away. For once, she had no desire to complain about the ruination of her clothes.

Catra sliced through her binding top as well, slowly, as if unzipping it. "Is this okay?" She asked, her voice husky and barely above a whisper.

"Yes," Adora gasped out struggling to stay as still as possible. Catra leaned over her, her lips brushing against newly exposed skin as the fabric gave way easily. "Please," she wasn't sure what she was begging for, more, certainly, but more what? More touch? More of Catra? More of exactly what she was already getting? All of it, she wanted all of it.

Catra worked slowly, taking her time as she peeled Adoras clothes from her body, finally leaving her naked, and fully exposed. They'd seen each other naked in communal showers before, but that had been sneaked peeks as they rushed through washing in cold water in the Fright Zone.

Catra trailed her claws over Adora's skin, raising goosebumps, but careful not to so much as scratch her. Adora trembled, feeling something coiling inside her.

"Do you have any idea how gorgeous you are?" Catra whispered, "Thinking about your body, watching you fight, watching you train, watching you pace when you think, watching you in all those commanding poses you strike when you're planning a mission. You as She-Ra is hot, for sure, very impressive, but you as Adora will always be my favorite. This is the you I know, I'm not sure when it happened, somewhere along the way, but my heart has been housed in this body, I'm sure of it. It beats for you, along side yours, in your chest, at your mercy. And I wouldn't have it any other way."

Adora clutched at the thin sheet beneath her as Catra spoke trailing fingers over her skin, brushing her lips over hardening nipples. She felt like she'd just run halfway across the Crimson Waste, struggling to catch her breath, overheating as Catra hovered over her. Finally, Catra's lips were close to her own again.

"Kiss me, Catra," Adora breathed out, "I need to feel you, all of you."

Catra's lips touched first, but was followed by her body pressing down against Adora's, legs intertwining, hips pressed to hips, breasts soft against breasts. Adora warped her arms lightly around Catra's torso, not wanting to steal back control quite yet, but unable to resist the urge to touch, to feel her.

Catra pulled back slightly, "You'll keep my heart safe, won't you?" Catra whispered, sounding vulnerable.

"I promise," Adora replied, pulling Catra's body, a bit warmer even than her own heated flesh, against her firmly.

Catra smiled then, a real smile, no ego or teasing, just a moment of joy. "This feels really good, us naked together." She said.

"It might be the best thing I've ever felt." Adora agreed.

"Oh, just you wait," there it was, the smirk was back. Adora angled her face just slight a nipped at Catra's adorable chin.

"Did you just bite me?" Catra squeaked, "I'm the biter!"

"Could have fooled me," Adora tilted her head and nipped at Catra's neck, which had her letting out a different sort of sound, a sort of high pitched whine as her hips pressed down. Adora giggled, running her hands up and down Catra's back. Catra pulled away but not far, tugging Adora with her so they lay on their sides.

Slowly, they took their time exploring each other's bodies, finding spots that made them laugh or gasp or tense with pleasure, until Adora felt warm and soft and weirdly liquidy.

"I've never felt like this before," she said, reclining on the mattress as Catra stroked higher and higher along her thighs.

"What, relaxed?" Catra said, her tone slightly teasing, but full of affection.

Adora laughed lightly, "Is that what this is? I'd say I should have been doing it more often, but I think I needed you to help me get here." She admitted, then spread her thighs apart slightly, "Oh, wow, that feels…really good."

"That pillow by your left shoulder," Catra said, "There's a box under it."

Adora reached up, curious if this was the item Entrapta had made. She found a long box, like one she'd seen Spinerella gift Netossa a new choker necklace in.

Adora opened it, then stared, puzzeled at the odd collection of straps and polished stones she found inside. Five pearlescent oblong stones, each attached to a thin silk strap that led to more straps.

"What…is it?" Adora asked confused and a bit suspicious, "what does it do?"

"Here," Catra reached for it, sitting up and straddling one of Adora's thighs, which was distracting as her wet heat met Adora's bare skin. Adora bit down on her lip to stifle a moan, and her hands went to Catra's waist as Catra took the box from her.

Catra pulled out the contraption, setting the box aside, and deftly attached it to her hand and wrist.

"There's wires inside the silk parts, insulated ones, whatever that means. Anyway, see…" Catra opened and closed her right hand.

"It covers your claws," Adora realized, then arched a brow, "And makes your fingers longer, oh…and it changes colors."

"It glows a bit once it warms up," Catra admitted, "and there's room inside for my claws to extend, but if I do, it activates the stones if I turn it on here."

She set her hand against Adora's abs, the stones cool on her skin, but Catra's palm warming her where she touched.

Catra fiddled with something by the wrist cuff, then extended her claws. There was a barely audible click and hum, and the Adora jerked slightly as the stones vibrated softly.

"The warmer it is, the more they do that." Catra said, then glanced at Adora shyly. "I've never…I didn't tell you before, I've tried to have sex before. In the Horde, a few times. I'd find some rando soldier, and just…but I'd always panic, and I couldn't do it, particularly letting anyone inside. I managed to top someone once, but I was limited on what I could do because, well, claws. And I didn't want to use my mouth. I didn't trust anyone enough for that. I mean, I don't know where they've been, you know?"

Adora chuckled, "I sort of figured your story went something like that," she admitted, "but if you think this thing is safe, I'm down for whatever you want to do with it."

"Whatever I want to do? Dangerous words…" Catra leaned down and nipped at her lower lip, and Adora's grip on Catra's waist tightened as she pressed her thigh up into her.

"Catra, show me what that thing can do."

Catra slid her hand down, not wasting anymore time as she slipped her fingers between Adora's legs, she ran the smooth stones over her heated sex, the temperature contrast bring all of Adora's attending there. Adora released Catra's waist, running her hands up over her sides then up to her shoudlers before pressing down gently.

"I want your mouth on me, your fingers inside," she breathed, her need sparking and making her bold, "I want you feeling and tasting me while you fill me up, Catra."

Catra let out a soft whimper as she ground down against Adora's thigh, but she obeyed, slipping down smoothly, lowering herself as she toyed with Adora's opening. Adora was relaxed, fully, for the first time perhaps ever, and inside she ached for Catra. She closed her eyes, sliding her hands into Catra's hair, then toying with the base of Catra's ears. She felt Catra tense, then shudder slightly, her breath coming in soft puffs against her clit. Adora pressed down, not hard, just enough to encourage Catra, until Catra's hot slightly rough tongue slid over her folds, then circled her clit. The touch was so warm and soft and intense all at the same time Adora let out a throaty moan.

"Yes, like that, right there, Catra," She tightened her grip on Catra's hair and ears, "Circles, yes, like that, and inside…"

Catra slid one finger inside, letting out of muffled moan, then a second finger joined.

"More…yesss," Adora groaned as Catra slid three fingers inside, gently massaging her inner walls in a way she hadn't even been able to imagine. The stones were heating, somewhere between her body temperature and Catra's. As Catra's tongue kept circling her clit slowly, her fingers found a spot inside her that made her limbs feel tingly then a bit numb, and she hissed and her hips bucked slightly, causing Catra's lips to close around her clit.

"Oh, fuck…" Adora swore, something she didn't usually do, "Oh….okay, that's…yes, that…"

Catra took the encouragement as it was intended and sucked and licked Adora's clit simultaneously, fumbling a bit, but finding a rhythm as her fingers worked that spot inside Adora steadily.

"Just," a new tension swelled in Adora, something she'd never felt before, "just like that, don't you dare stop…"

As the tension increased, Adora's back arched, and she felt the familiar heat of She Ra filling her, she held it tightly though, not letting her self change forms, but she felt the light leaking out of her, blinked to find it filling the space, she knew her eyes would be glowing blue, her skin with golden white light, but as long as Catra didn't stop what she was doing, then the stones began to vibrate…and she exploded, or it felt like she exploded. She'd had orgasms before, but this was something different, rolling through her but also still building, it filled her and flowed out of her in every direction, then spiraled in again. She could feel Catra, not just on her body, in her body, but also Catra's whole form, she could sense Catra's toes curling, her body trembling, she could sense Catra's awe and a sense of worship Adora was certain she'd never be worthy of, but beyond that, the energy that flowed and spiraled visibly around and through them in whisps and spirals, was the love they shared, the love they were no longer denying.

When Adora came, the space around them went white, and for a moment, they were suspended, Catra buried deep inside her, their hearts beating in time, pleasure filling every space around them, pressing them together as if merging them into one being.

As the light faded and Adora came down, she realized she had a death grip on Catra's hair, and she loosened it slightly, pulling her up. Catra obliged, letting Adora do most of the work but keeping her fingers buried inside her. Adora pressed their lips together in a passionate kiss then rolled them, pulling Catra close. Catra's fingers slipped out of her, and Adora reached down and unclasped the wrist band, pulling the contraption off and setting it aside.

Adora gathered Catra's wrists and pinned them above her head, pressing down hard against Catra, who wound her legs around Adora's hips and gave a desperate moan as she rocked her sex against Adora's pelvis.

"What you do to me," Adora whispered, "Nobody else can do. I'm entirely yours, and you are entirely and completely mine."

Catra nodded in agreement, seemingly unable to find words.

Adora leaned down to whisper in Catra's ear, "I've been working on making something for you too." She whispered, "Mostly in my head, but you gave me the idea. Do ya wanna see it?"

Catra made a little chirping purr and nodded again, clearly unable to form words. Adora had never seen her like this, but had a feeling she was just falling into her feral, non verbal side. It had taken Catra awhile to talk when they'd first met, not because she didn't know how, but because she didn't feel safe enough. Adora sensed this was different, this was because she was tapping into Catra's most primal self, her purring, her scent filling the small space, and the way she clung to Adora and rubbed against her were all cues that Catra wanted what Adora was willing to give.

Adora leaned in to Catra's ear again, "If you need me to stop, tell me or bite my ear," she said, still wanting to give Catra a way to communicate her needs, "bite me anywhere else and I'll keep going."

Catra groaned, then bit Adora's shoulder lightly. Adora felt Catra's tail slide along her hip, and watched as her ears twitched, felt her body rock under her, seeking more friction where she needed it most.

Adora leaned to the other ear and whispered, "For the Honor…of Greyskull."

Catra's claws tightened as Adora shifted, her body glowing and swelling, but Adora focused on what she was trying to create, the thought that had been playing in the back of her mind since Catra had brought it up.

She felt it swelling between her thighs, but she took a moment to banish her armor, which was trying to materialize. She didn't want anything but this one thing between them. She felt the smooth leather wrap around her hips and thighs, then the press of something cool and firm against her sex, molded to fit against her, and just a bit inside her, from there it extended out, and she pulled back from Catra to give it enough room.

She wondered for a moment once the light faded, if she'd made it too big. She didn't have much to reference, she'd only ever seen biological version flaccid, and had some idea that they tended to grow a bit, but came in different sizes for different species. So she'd aimed for something about the length of her hand, recalling how she'd wanted to go deeper when fucking Catra, but it had come out thicker than she'd intended.

Catra took one look at it though, and shuddered, her legs hooked around Adora, heels digging into Adora's ass pulling her in. Her purr was going full force, so clearly she wasn't overly intimidated.

Adora marveled at how much smaller Catra seemed like this, being She Ra, she found it all to easy to pin Catra in place with one hand, steady herself with the other, and shift her hips to press the head of the summoned member to Catra's sex.

Catra nipped at her chest, and Adora involuntarily rocked forward, the golden member pressing deeper inside Catra, who let out a slightly pained whimper and panted a bit, but didn't resist, keeping her legs wrapped tight around Adora. Adora trembled with the effort it took not to fully possess her, and finally released

Catra's wrists, moving her arm down to grip Catra's hip as she drove into her fully in one smooth motion.

Catra cried out, but her hands came up around Adora's neck and she raised her hips to meet her. It took Adora a few moments of experimentation, but she found a rhythm, shifting so her weight was on her elbow, and she held Catra close as she fucked her with slow but firm strokes of her hips. The toy pressed against her with each thrust. It didn't take long before Catra tensed, letting out a hoarse shout and digging her claws into Adora's skin slightly, her whole body trembling like she was being electrocuted.

Adora felt herself tumble over the edge just after, but it was a controlled fall, the orgasm powerful, but not intense as before.

She rolled again, this time sitting up and warping Catra's legs around her hips, then lowering Catra back down over her cock. She released She Ra slowly, focusing to maintain the cock tightening the straps and legnthing the part inside of herself slightly as she returned to her normal size.

"I like this better," She murmured against Catra's lips, "Because I can kiss you and fuck you at the same time."

Catra purred, then managed some words, "Like when you swear." She sounded a bit breathless, and Adora loved it.

They kissed, exploring each other's mouths, nipping at lips. Adora enjoyed feeling how if she moved against Catra's tongue in one direction it was silk soft, but in the other it was a bit rough. Catra had started to move against her again, shifting so she was on her knees and could control her body more, Adora thrust up to meet her, as the heat built between them again.

Before, it had been tender and emotional, but this was more raw, more physical. They moved faster, the heat between them palpable as Catra's breath came faster.

"Adora," Catra gasped out, her movements faltering slightly, "Adora…"

Adora gripped Catra's hips and used all her strength to force Catra's body up and down as she thrust against her, "Are you going to come for me one more time, Catra?"

Catra whined and nodded, biting her own lip, her incisors showing.

"Then do it," Adora's voice came out as a harsh command, "Come for me, Catra, show me how much you love me inside you like this."

"Fuck!" Catra's voice came out high, and she shuddered, then tensed, grabbing Adora and holding on to her like she might go flying off into space if she didn't.

"There, like that, yes," Adora pulled Catra down hard, filling her, commanding the toy to swell just a little.

Catra shouted, claws sinking into Adora's shoulders as Adora ground up into her.

"Oh…oh fuck, Adora," Catra gasped as her body gave one last convulsion, then went limp. Adora slowly shrank the cock, then dispelled it entirely, which made Catra squeak in surprise. "That! That felt weird, when it goes away, like…static."

"Sorry," Adora chuckled, "you okay?"

"Yeah, wow," Catra struggled to catch her breath, and Adora just hugged her arms around her, sliding one up to sink into her hair. They pressed their foreheads together. "Mostly I just need you, but that was really, really fun."

"Was it okay that I used She Ra?" Adora asked, "I feel like I should have asked first."

"I wouldn't have asked you to do it," Catra admitted, "but I'm glad you did, and if you ever want to, you can do it again. Mostly I just want you, but…I mean…it was really hot. Not as crazy as when you went all supernova when I was inside you though. That was like, save the universe level magic. I feel kinda bad you wasted it on me."

"Uh, you deserve save the universe magic," Adora leaned in and kissed her, "we deserve it."

"I kinda want to sleep in here," Catra said, "But our pillow fortress smells too much like sex. We might suffocate."

Adora laughed, "It's probably more intense for you," She pointed out.

Catra rolled out of Adora's lap and collapsed on the bed, purring contentedly. "You break it down," she said, "I'm to well fucked to even move."

Adora reached out an gave Catra's ass a soft squeeze on one side, and Catra gave a half hearted hiss, then sighed. "Actually, that's kinda nice." She mumbled into the sheets.

Adora laughed and opened up the fort a bit, enjoying the cooler air on her sweat slicked skin.

We should shower, she thought, then stretched out next to Catra, who immediately turned towards her and cuddled into her. Maybe after a short nap…

As her eyes drifted closed, she felt that liquid relaxation feeling sweep over her again, and knew it was something she could always find in her lover's arms.

Suddenly, the uncertainty of the future wasn't stressful or intimidating, but exciting as it spread open before her.

We've got our whole future, and we can make it into whatever we want.

These adventures continue in a follow up series that is less smut and more plot, but with some smut sprinkled in with all the feels.
