I Finally Found Someone - To Dive Into Quicksand With

by masternoveller

Summary

Post Horde Prime, Adora needs a break from fixing things back in Bright Moon.
So... Adora and Catra get sent to the Crimson Waste for a short 'mission' to deliver a message to Huntara personally.

Will they get there in one piece?
Probably, yes...

I had time so... here it is.
Hope you like it. 😁

“You know, Darla could have dropped us off way closer?” Catra groans as she follows Adora through the desert sands of the Crimson Waste, “Besides, why can’t Huntara come and see us in Bright Moon?”
“Catra! Quit complaining.” Adora chastises, “This was your idea.”
Catra scoffs at Adora pointing it out, “Yeah, but I thought for sure Sparkles wasn’t going to go for it. Seriously? What was she thinking? Sending us out here! Of all people, she knows that one, I’m a screw up and two, I have zero intention to deliver whatever dumbass message she has for the sand princess.”
“Okay, first off. You are not a screw up.” Adora corrects with a stern look on her face that tells her magicat not to mess with her, “And two, Glimmer gave me the message. Not you. And three, can you please not refer to Huntara as the sand princess?”
“Oh, my bad.” Catra sarcastically replies, “Didn’t know you still had the hots for her.”
“I do not!” Adora groans, “Would you please quit it?”
“Just admit it, princess.” Catra drawls, crossing her arms over her chest as she walks past the blonde, “If you had a choice between her and me, I would be your second choice.”
“That is not true, Catra.” Adora catches up to the magicat, and stops her dead in her tracks, “You know that’s not true, right?”
“I don’t know.” Catra drops her head, her ears lay flat on her head as she sighs and looks down at her feet, “I just feel like I’ve been nothing but a burden to everyone.”
“You totally haven’t though.” Adora tries to comfort the magicat, “You’re not a burden or anything else like that. The war literally only ended and people just need… time.”
“I know, I know…” Catra throws her head back, “But it would also explain why Sparkles was so quick to go with my stupid ass idea to go see Huntara in person for something that can be done via the tracker pads or whatever Entrapta is building.”
“Maybe she trusts you more.” Adora smiles, “I mean, you were once the ruler of this place…”
“Ugh, don’t remind me.” Catra groans as they start walking again, “I’m not that person anymore.”
“What? A badass who can handle a whip and takes out guys like Lashor?" Adora quirks an eyebrow at Catra.

"Not that. That part is fine." Catra replies.
"Then?"
"The part where I've got nothing to lose." Catra elaborates, "The part where I'm ruthless and…"
"Catra." Adora pulls Catra to a stop before pulling her into her chest for a hug, "You're not that person anymore. I mean, you're still a badass. But you're a badass that saved the freaking planet!"
Adora chuckles at her own description, her heart becomes lighter when she can feel a slight shake of Catra's shoulders, indicating the magicat was quietly doing the same. Catra pulls back first, "Uh… what was the message that Sparkles wanted to give to the sand princess?"
Adora grimaces a little and Catra pulls back to get a good look at the blonde, "Uh… well…. Here's the thing…"
"There's no message. Is there?" Catra deadpans, "Sparkles just wanted me out of the city, didn't' she?"
"Not exactly." Adora grimaces again and then shoots Catra a shy smile, "It was…"
"Spit it out, princess." Catra groans.
"It was to get me out of the city." Adora blurts out quickly, "I needed a break."
"Oh." Catra's ears perk back up in surprise, "You needed a break?"
"Yeah." Adora replies sheepishly, "Glimmer… and the rest of the princesses think I've been going too hard with fixing things…"
"Because you have." Catra confirms, "Heck, I've been telling you that for weeks, Adora!"
"I know!" Adora grunts back before softening back apologetically, "I know. I didn't want you to have to worry about me too…"
"You're such an idiot." Catra shakes her head as she pulls Adora in for a chaste kiss, "But… you are my idiot after all… so, what did I expect?"
"Hey!" Adora laughs wetly, trying to push Catra away only to be held in place by the magicat with an intense look on her face, "What?"
"I love you. And I need you to look after yourself as much as you look after me." Catra says with so much honesty that Adora can only stare back dumbfounded, "And I know we are both damaged… but you've got me. And I've got you. Together… we kind of make one perfect part."

Adora leans in again and presses her lips onto Catra, holding her magicat tight in her arms as they embrace under the hot sun of the desert, sweat rolls down their faces the longer they stay still and this time Adora pulls back, "Wow…"
"Don't ruin it." Catra chuckles as they rest their sweaty foreheads against each other, "Also… this is gross. We should keep moving."
Adora shakes her head with a soft smile on her face, "Stay… just a little longer."
Catra sighs, despite the heat she says, "Okay."
"I don't think I'll ever get use to that." Adora whispers.
"To what?"
"Kissing you." Adora giggles, "I can't believe I get to just… kiss you."
Catra wants to tease the blonde over that, but she can't find it in herself to do it, instead she leans in and presses another kiss on Adora's lips.

"Do you know where you're going, Adora?" Catra asks as Adora mumbles something under her breath as she tries to make head or tails from the information on the tracker pad, "Do you want me to navigate?"
"No. It's fine. I've got it." Adora frowns down at the device in her hands, "Bow uses this all the time, no problem. It shouldn't be so hard…"
Catra laughs at Adora's lack of understanding for the technology in her hands, "Are you sure? You look like you're struggling…"
"Am not!" Adora snaps back annoyed at being questioned, "Just… give me minute to figure this out."
"Sure, princess." Catra replies as she hides in the shade of a rather large rock and then she feels the ground shake a little, "Uh, Adora?"
"Not now, Catra!" Adora pleads.
"Adora…" Catra tries again as the sand starts to move in the distance.
"Catra! Can't you see that I'm… Hey!" Adora is cut off when Catra grabs the device out of the Adora's hands and turns the blonde to face the impending danger coming towards them, "Oh… that's not good."

"What's not good?! What is that!?" Catra beings to panic a little, taking a few steps back and getting ready to run, "What is it?!"
"Run!" Adora grabs Catra by the arm and tugs her to start running.
"What are we running from?!"
"Sand Snakes!" Adora huffs out as they quicken their pace on the soft sand, "Very bad! Run!"
"Can't you go all She-Ra on them?!" Catra huffs as she gets down on all fours and starts to sprint of faster in the sand, leaving Adora in her wake before rolling her eyes at her much slower girlfriend, grabbing Adora and throwing her onto her back and then sprinting off once again away from the sand snakes, "Not a word to anyone about this!"
Adora nods, "Trust me… being saved by riding on you… you know what… just run…"
Catra laughs, high and squeaky as she feels Adora's arms wrapping tighter around the magicat's body for grip, "Hold on, princess."
"I am!" Adora groans and then yelps a little when Catra begins to speed up, pouncing around the rocks and then up a rock face and out of reach from the snakes, she finally comes to a stop, standing upright, Adora still hanging on, her eyes closed as she hears Catra chuckle and then realises that they've stopped moving.
"You can ride me anytime you want, Adora." Catra drawls and Adora groans, a blush covering her cheeks as she 'dismounts' off the magicat, "Don't forget to leave me a positive review. I think… five stars would do."
Adora rolls her eyes at the magicat who just smirks back. Catra yelps this time when Adora grabs her by the face and pulls her into a hard kiss, before pulling back, "Hm… can't fault the service… five stars…"
Once they've caught their breath, Catra looks around and points out the seedy bar that they know Huntara will most likely be in, "I could use a drink."

Adora narrows her eyes at the magicat, “You’re not getting drunk.”
Catra just grins back without another word.
“Ugh. Come on, it’s still really hot out here. The sooner we get there, the sooner we’ll be out of this heat.” Adora points out, “And I’m not going to drag your drunk ass out of the bar.”
Catra shakes her head with the same grin, “Wouldn’t expect you to, Adora.” She looks down at her nails, “Besides, I’m not the lightweight here… am I?”
“I’m not drinking either.” Adora declares, “And neither should you. This is a diplomatic mission after all.”
Catra laughs, “It totally isn’t. This is Sparkles way to get you to unwind.”
“Whatever. No getting drunk.” Adora sternly says.
“Okay, fine.” Catra reluctantly agrees, “Sober sex it is.”
“Wha…? Catra!” Adora whines.
“What’s the matter, princess?” Catra smirks, “You just said no drunk sex.”
“I didn’t say anything about… sex… at all!” Adora tries to keep her fluster at bay.
“Eh, we’ll see.” Catra continues to smirk before grabbing Adora’s arm, “Come on, does your tracker pad show us the best way to get down there?”
Adora pulls out the device, glad that conversation is over, “Uh… I think it says… to go… that way!”
“Give me that.” Catra snatches the device out of Adora’s hand and leaps up a few rocks to get out of Adora reach.
“Hey! Give that back! Catra!” Adora throws her head back in annoyance, “Get back down here!”
“Adora. This does not say that at all.” Catra jumps back down to the same level as the blonde, “This isn’t even the right map.”
Adora snatches the device back, “I don’t need a map.”
“Clearly…” Catra grumbles under her breath, “Look, I’ve been here before. Do you want me to lead?”
“No. I’ve got it.” Adora declares she grabs Catra by the wrist, “We’re going this way.”

“Far out… it’s so hot!” Adora wipes the sweat off her brow, “We should have been there by now!”
“Yeah, real surprising.” Catra grumbles under her breath.
“Hey! I don’t see you helping!” Adora glares at the magicat.
“Uh, yeah! Because you won’t listen to anyone else.” Catra points out a little angrily, “That’s probably why Sparkles wanted you to take a break!”
“Oh, you did not just say that!” Adora glares a little more at Catra, “I listen! You’ve just been snippy the whole time!”
“Snippy?” Catra says a little shocked, “What exactly have I said that has been snippy?”
“Nothing. Forget I said anything.” Adora grumbles as she trudges forward.
“Adora. Wait.” Catra calls out.
But Adora’s still too angry and irritated by the fact that they are lost and it’s all her fault that she doesn’t see what she’s about to step into, “Woah! Catra!”
Catra leaps forward and grabs Adora by the arm, “Seriously, princess…” Catra grunts out as she tries to pulls Adora out before losing her footing and ending up in the quicksand too, “Are you okay?”
“Catra!” Adora starts to panic, “What do we do?!”
“We need to stop panicking.” Catra looks into Adora’s eyes and the blonde nods, “You’ve been in quicksand before, right?”
“Yeah…”
“And… how did you get out last time?” Catra asks calmly despite the feeling of getting sucked in.
“Glimmer teleported me out after I dived in after her.” Adora recalls trying to stay calm, “But… she’s not here! What do we do?!”
“Okay… pay attention.” Catra keeps intense eye contract with Adora, “Are you listening?”
Adora nods, taking a loud gulp.
“Okay.” Catra calmly says, “We need to try to get ourselves onto our backs. Do you think you can do that?”
“I’m stuck! I don’t think…” Adora starts to panic again.
“Adora!” Catra snaps before softening her voice again, “You can do this. Trust me.”

Adora nods.
"Okay, we just need to move back and forth a little bit at a time." Catra tells her, "Just to loosen the sand around our legs, okay?"
Adora nods again, "How… how do you know this?"
"I… I just do, okay." Catra replies as they start to make progress slowly, "You're doing really well, princess."
"Now what?" Adora asks a little calmer now that she can move her legs a little, "Also… I think I lost my boots…"
Catra chuckles at that, "Think you can lean back now?"
"Yeah… I think so." Adora tries to lean back and is surprised that she can, "Okay… now what?"
"Try getting to the edge." Catra instructs as she reaches down into the quicksand.
"Okay." Adora backstrokes extremely slowly to the bank, "Catra?" When there's no response from the magicat, Adora tries to look over and tries again, "Catra! Catra, where are you?!"
"Chill, Adora." Catra grunts as she pulls herself out with the whip that's she's managed to retrieve from her hip and managed to sling it around a fairly solid tree dead tree trunk, "I'm coming. Just keep backstroking, Adora."
"Oh… stars! You scared me!" Adora lays back down and keeps moving slowly towards the edge, "You could have answered me!"
Catra chuckles, "Don't get your panties in a twist, Adora. I'm right here."
Adora huffs, "With that attitude, you're not getting into my panties.""
"Awe… not even if I pull you out?" the magicat teases.
"Well, you haven't pulled me out yet, have you?" Adora looks up and back at Catra, "Get me out and we can talk."
Catra grins as she walks over and this time uses the whip to anchor her so she doesn't fall in again, reaching out her arm to Adora, "Coming?"
Adora pulls her arm out of the quicksand and Catra grasps the blonde's forearm, "You got me?"
"I've always got you, Adora." Catra tells her with more weight in those words than just this moment, "Come on, just…"
And with one grunted heave, Catra pulls Adora out of the quicksand making the pair tumble backward onto the soft but not sinking sand, Adora landing on top of Catra with an "Oof!"

Winded, Catra groans out before smirking up at Adora, "You okay, Adora?"
"Yeah. Had a soft landing." Adora grins back, using the fact she's on top to lean down and kiss the magicat on the lips without any resistance, before pulling back, taking off some of her weight from Catra, "Are you okay? I didn't… crush you or anything, did I?"
Catra wraps her arms around the blonde, pulling Adora back down with a yelp and for another kiss, "So… does this mean I get to get into your panties later?"
Adora snorts out a laugh, shoving Catra back in the sand as the magicat laughs out squeakily as they wrestle in the sand. And when they manage to push and shove all the way into the tavern, Adora pulls Catra into her, "Hm… I wonder how the Crimson Waste will take to their ruthless former leader being under me…"
"Is that a promise, princess? Catra smirks back at Adora and the blonde blushes, "Someone's… shy…"
"Shut up!" Adora whisper shouts at the magicat who starts to cackle.
"Come on, Adora." Catra tugs Adora forward towards Huntara who simply eyes them with a head shake, "Hey. Adora's got a message for you."
"Oh, yeah?" Huntara turns her attention to Adora, "And what would that be, blondie?"
"Uh…" Adora's mind goes blank because there's actually no message to give her, none from Glimmer anyway as Huntara just rolls her eyes at the pair.
"Let me guess." Huntara sighs, "The sparkly one wanted the pair of you out of her hair. Am I right?"
"Not… not exactly." Adora mumbles under her breath.
Catra shrugs, "Would have been nice to be sent somewhere that wasn't a literal desert. But, eh, a vacation is a vacation, I guess."
"This is not a vacation!" Adora corrects out loudly, before calming down a little, "It's not."
There's a buzzing on the table that Huntara was just sitting at, and the large woman walks over to pick it up. It's a video call from Glimmer, "Hello."
"Huntara! Great! Are Adora and Catra there?" Glimmer asks a little frantically, “We lost their signal about an hour and a half ago…”

“We fell into quicksand… it must have went down with my boots…” Adora sheepishly replies as Huntara flips the screen around to show the pair, “Uh, hi Glim.”
“Oh, thank the stars! We were so worried!” Glimmer says before frowning at the pair, “What the heck, guys?!”
“Sorry Sparkles.” Catra chuckles as she throws an arm around Adora’s shoulder, “That’s what happens when you send us out to this… place.”
Huntara growls at the magicat who just grins back at her, Glimmer’s voice comes through again, “Huntara?”
“Yes.” Huntara grunts back.
“Can you keep an eye on them for the next couple of days?” Glimmer asks, “I wouldn’t usually ask this, but Adora needs a break and she’s not getting any in Bright Moon.”
“What do I get in return?” Huntara grins back.
Glimmer huffs back, “Look. If you want me to get Adora to go all She-Ra on you or have Catra resort to taking over your city…”
“Okay!” Huntara laughs, “It’s fine. I’ll take free accommodations and meals the next time I’m in Bright Moon. Not to mention the free…”
“Yes. Fine.” Glimmer quickly agrees, “Just keep it legal!”
“Deal!” Huntara grins, hanging up the call before looking over at the pair, “Now… what to do with you two…”
“Just give us your best room, sand princess.” Catra suggests, “I plan to get into Adora’s panties for the next few days if I’m not getting black out drunk.”
Huntara quirks an eyebrow at Catra before slapping the magicat on the shoulder and sharing a laugh while Adora blushes, flustered, “Catra!”
“What?” Catra smirks at Adora, pulling the blonde into her chest and then dipping Adora into a heated kiss before bringing her back up, “I know, no drinking.”
Adora nods a little swept up in Catra’s arms, “Uh…” she turns to Huntara, clearing her throat, “Can we get that room, please?”
“Sure thing, blondie.” Huntara smirks at the pair, “Just… try not to break anything.”
As Huntara holds up a key, Catra quickly snatches it out of her hand, “Upstairs, right?” the large woman nods before the magicat turns to Adora, ducking down a little, “Get on, princess. Time to go for a ride.”

“Catra!” Adora admonishes but obliges and gets onto Catra’s back as the magicat piggy backs her upstairs to their room for a little… down time.

End Notes

Well, now to get back to trucking... haha (writing my trucking fic that is...)

I hope you liked reading this one shot... thanks to Locke for commenting the idea!
Thanks for reading.
Chuck us a kudos if you liked it.
And as per usual, comment away, they are always welcome.
Also, I hope I used the write desert and not dessert... 😬🤔😁
