Catradora Hang Out (and Also Pirates and Stuff)

by Panda_lover_2569

Summary

Adora is a rebel pirate sent on a mission where she has to break into the castle through a closet window, but she accidentally goes through Princess Catra's window instead.

Notes

I saw that prompt list on tumblr and decided to write one for all of them, but couldn't decide what to start with, so I just asked my friend.
Prompt: Being a pirate and overthrowing the royal family AU (she also asked for 'the pirate captain daughter or whatever falls in love with princess' so I kinda went off of that and she said Catradora)

Adora looked up at the castle wall. ‘Jesus’ she thought ‘that must be 50 feet tall’. She let out an annoyed sigh and prepared her climbing tools. Of course they assigned her this instead of literally anything else, and on top of that, Glimmer and Bow had gotten cannon training and port lookout as punishment for their last escapade, so here she was scaling a 50 foot wall without anyone there to show off their teleportation or to nag her about safe climbing.

Finally, after 10 minutes, she got to the top and crawled through the window, only to immediately have a gun pointed at her head and her arms pinned behind her back.

“Don't move”

‘Oh, shit’ she thought. She must have miscalculated, because she was supposed to sneak in through a closet window, but from the looks of this place she’d ended up in a bedroom, and if the placement and appearance of it was anything to go by it seemed like either that of a noble guest or even a member of the royal family.

She prayed to God that it was just some rich schmuck and not an actual royal member, but she figured God was against her like most days as she turned to see Princess Catra holding the gun against her head.

“Tell me why I shouldn't blow your brains out right now.”

“Uhhhhhhhh” ‘Fuck fuck fuck fuck fuck’ she thought. Of course her brain was falling behind now of all times.

“Ugh. Pathetic.” The princess said before tying her hands behind her back. She then grabbed a nearby chair, pulling it over and typing the rope to it before tying her legs to the chair.

She stood up and pointed the gun at her head again “Now speak, criminal.”

Adora's brain finally caught up to her, but she was no more intelligent, so the only she could think to do was smirk and say

“Wow, princesses, at least take me on a date first.”

Catra's face scrunched in disgust, but she ignored the comment.

“What were doing breaking in to my room?”

“Listen,” Adora said “it's nothing personal, I just hate your family and all it stands for. I wasn't trying to break into your room, just your house… castle… place.”

Catra gave her a ‘really?’ face “You are not making this any better for yourself. If I were you I would shut up.”

Adora paused. This had not gone as planned. It was supposed to be a quick in and out. Just sneak in, kidnap a servant or something, and take them back to the ship for interrogation. But now she was tied up by the princess herself with a gun pointed at her head and no way of escaping. The only thing she could do now was try sweet talking her way out of this and that was bound to do nothing, but it was still the only chance she had.

“Come on, this is all just a big misunderstanding, why don't you let me go and I'll get out of your hair, you never have to see me again.”

“Right, let free a criminal who tried breaking into my chambers. I set you free, so you can, what, just break into my house again? Not gonna happen.”

Adora snapped, this day has been absolutely terrible and she just couldn't take it anymore “I may be a criminal, but at least I'm not evil. You royals are all the same, you hurt innocent people and still look down upon those who aren’t as powerful or godly as you, but you're worse than the filthiest criminal on the street, cause at least they have a reason for their crimes, you just do it because you can and you get away with it. You disgust me.”

Oh shit. She'd said too much, and now the princess was visibly shaking with anger. Adora and her big mouth, now was going to get shot, and all because she couldn't hold her tongue.

“You'd better shut your god damn mouth.” The princess muttered as she aimed the gun at Adora's head and squeezed ever so slightly. “You don't know what the fuck you're talking about, sea filth. You say I think I'm better than and then go on some real better than bullshit monolog- I know my family is evil, I know the kind of shit they do, the fucking lives they've ruined, and it's hell having to live with that, but not all of us are the fucking same. Just because my dad is a classist, homicidal shit doesn't mean I am too, so just shut the fuck up!” She punctuates her sentence by throwing her gun at the wall.

Adora sat there in shocked silence for a moment as the princess leaned against a nearby table, trying to calm her rage a bit. “Jesus Christ." she muttered. That had not gone how she'd expected, but then again, what did in her life?

“Listen, princess…” she started, but trailed off as she collected her thoughts. “I'm, uh, sorry for that. I didn't know you were chill.”

Catra looked at her, most of her rage gone by now “It's fine. I'm still not letting you go, but I won't kill you.”

“Uh, thanks? You do know that they'll eventually come looking for me though, right?”

“Yup. And I'll deal with it when they do, but for now, you're staying right here.” She pulled over another chair and sat in front of Adora when the blonde’s stomach growled all of a sudden.

The princess sighed and said “Of course.” she stood up and walked over to a little bell by the front of her room, ringing it before turning to Adora. “Stay there, and do not make a peep.” There was a knock on the door and she opened it to greet her servant, who thankfully couldn't see Adora from where the door was.

“Hi, Isa, could you bring me some chicken from last night's meal, and be sure to knock when you get back, thanks.”

She shut the door and went back to where she was sitting. “So what's your name, anyway”

Adora looked at her questioningly “Why do you wanna know?”

Catra shrugged “I dunno. You'll probably be here for a bit, so I might as well call you something other than criminal, don't ya think?”

“I suppose. My name's Adora, and I already know your name, Princess Catra.”

Catra rolled her eyes “Ugh, please, just Catra is fine.”

“Okay, ‘Just Catra’.”

Catra snickered, “So, you're a smartass, huh?”

“All I'm hearing is you think I'm smart”

Catra chuckled, “I did not say that.”

Suddenly there was a knock on the door and Catra stood up to go get the food, leaving Adora there to wonder, ‘was that flirting?’ She thought ‘It wasn't. But maybe it was?’ She was so caught up in her gay crisis that she didn't notice Catra untie her hands so that only her upper arms were tied to the chair. She put the plate in Adora's hands, snapping her out of her thoughts.

“This is only so you can eat your food, and then I'm putting them back, and don't try anything.”

“You got it, your royal hotness- i mean, uhhhh- fuck- uhhhhhhh” Adora trails off. She did not mean to say that, she was so caught up in her gayness it just slipped out.

Catra blushed at her words but kept her cool, amused by Adora's panic “Yeah, yeah, just eat the damn chicken”

They sat in silence as Adora ate her chicken and then fiddled with the plate awkwardly once she was done, trying to think of what to say. It had started getting dark and the others were bound to come looking for her sometime soon, but she wanted to talk to the princess a bit more, possibly get to know her.

“So, uh, what's it like being princess?”

Catra was brought to attention at the sound of the other girl's voice and thought on the question for a second.

“It's okay. It can be a bit bland, lots of meetings and training, I don't really have a lot of time for hobbies and stuff. I've tried reading but that's boring, so most of my free time is just more training. How ‘bout you? What's it like being a pirate?”

“It's difficult, lots of running and scavenging, but it's also pretty fun. We have adventures and we storm military bases, it's really fun. So I guess our lives our like complete opposites, but still not that different. I mean, I seem like just some rebellious peasant mad about my hard knock life, but really my life's exciting and thrilling. And you seem like some cruel prick who has a perfect life, but really your life is all work no play, and you're not actually that bad.”

“Huh. Yeah, I guess we really aren't that different, huh? Y'know-”

Whatever Catra was about to say was cut off by a burst of sparkle and the sudden appearance of a very colorful yelling pirate.

“Give us back our friend!” The sparkly girl yelled and kicked at her but she dodged.

“Seems your ride is here” Catra said as she walked over to Adora's seat and started untying her “You might wanna be a bit quieter before a guard hears you.” She finished untying Adora and took the plate from her as she stood up.

Suddenly a boy in a crop tops crawled through the window, out of breath “Glimerrrr” he complains

“Oh, sorry Bow” The girl, presumably Glimmer, said. “I kinda left you behind, but I guess this is all solved here?”

“Yup” Adora answered

“Yeah, just don't come back” Catra cut in “I can't promise I'll be so forgiving”

Adora smirked at her “Interesting.” She walked towards Glimmer, grabbing her by the shoulder and leading her over to the window “Duly noted. Welp, this has been fun, but now it's time for me to go” She grabbed Bow and brought him in towards her and Glimmer “See you next time, princess.” She signaled for Glimmer to teleport away, and she did, leaving Catra standing alone and feeling oddly happy.

“See you next time.”
