I'll Be With You From Dusk Till Dawn (Baby I'm Right Here)

by Princess_Cyra

Summary

Everyday is a new opportunity to learn something new, and Adora is learning that every aspect of her partner is beautiful and makes her fall more in love.

(OR)

Five times She-Ra is enamoured by her partner, and one time Lady Noire is.

One

They were trapped.

The akuma had locked them up in an empty room, walls on all sides, no windows, just one metal door that neither Lady nor She-Ra could kick down. They had tried multiple times, but it was just too strong. Lady had also used up her catacylsm, so they couldn't even destroy the door either. Overall they were having a great time.

“How do we get out?!” She-Ra asked, clearly on the verge of a panic attack as she paced back and forth, tugging at her hair while glancing at the door.

“I don't suppose your lucky charm will provide us with a chainsaw?” Lady teased her from behind, leaning against the wall in a way that was supposed to come off as nonchalant, but She-Ra could hear the anxiety beneath it.

“Oh god. That akuma is causing a rampage and we're trapped in here. We're going to fail, he'll take our miraculous, and then Shadow Weaver will get her hands on it and then we'll be failures-”

“Okay maybe let's not catastrophize right now, it's not helping anyone.” The feline grabbed her hands, pulling them away from her hair so that She-Ra wouldn't tug on it like the nervous wreck she was.

"How do we get out of here?" She-Ra asked, voice almost completely defeated.

"I could de-transform and feed Plagg so I can get my catacylsm back." Lady suggested, pulling away and gesturing to her ring. One of the paw's fingers had already gone, Lady had less than four minutes left anyway.

"What if the room has cameras? You'll be in danger!" The blonde responded in a distressed tone.

"Well, do you have a better idea?!"

"I'm sure there are worse situations to pull shit like that! This is just not it."

"Then we'll be stuck in here for a while!"

"We can come up with another plan. I'm not risking your identity like this."

Lady scoffed, apparently interpreting She-Ra's gesture as condescending rather than protective. "I can handle myself, golden girl. Besides, we're stuck in here unless you let me destroy the door!"

"I'm sure we'll find another way out."

"Pray tell, what is that other way? We've established that your kwami won't even give us pepper spray, let alone tactical gear."

She-Ra released a frustrated sigh at her partner's snarky remarks. Now was really not the time for them.

"I'll think of something!"

"By the time you think of 'something', golden girl, I will have already de-transformed, which is kind of redundant considering you want to keep my identity safe."

Like clockwork, Lady's ring beeped. She was now down to three minutes, and tensions were rising in the room.

"Maybe you can contribute something other than useless jabs!"

"I offered to catacylsm the door!"

“We can't put it past Weaver to have cameras in here!”

“At the very least we need to try! I'm already well on my way there!”

“I'm not letting you do that.”

“Well jeez mom, thanks for the concern!”

Lady's ring beeped once more, two more minutes and she'll lose her transformation. The two girls blinked, glancing down at the ring in question and finally at the door. They were no closer to solving their predicament than they were a minute ago.

“Ugh. Fuck it.” The feline shoved past She-Ra, her claws sharpening as she cried out and slashed at a nearby wall. With a sick crack, the brunette managed to slice through the concrete effortlessly, essentially creating a door for them as the concrete fell backwards and crumbled into a million pieces.

She-Ra was breathless, terrified too, but mostly in awe. Lady’s claws had just cut through pure concrete with absolutely no effort.

The feline must have noticed her gawking, because she blushed and rubbed her neck, clearly embarrassed.

“You go ahead… I'll feed my kwami and then catch up.” The feline whispered, gesturing to the exit she'd cut open.

“You got it.” She-Ra responded once she came to her senses, giving the feline a quick pat on the shoulder before running ahead, her heart still hammering against her chest at the memory of Lady carving open an exit.

God I'm so gay.

Two

She-Ra was angry. She felt like a kettle about to explode. Lady must've noticed this, because she offered to meet up at night for ice cream. Guilt radiated off the feline, and despite her anger, She-Ra agreed.

“What flavour do you want?” The feline asked, pulling out some cash to pay.

“You can pick.” She-Ra barely glanced at her partner, arm crossed over her chest while watching the river underneath her bridge. It was a mean and petty move, but the blonde felt mean and petty at the moment so she couldn't care less.

Lady's ears drooped, clearly able to recognise the reason the blonde was in such a mood. She requested the seller for two chocolate ice creams, quickly paying and handing one to her partner.

“How was your day?” Lady asked politely, tail swaying behind her while she gave She-Ra a cute smile.

“Fine.” The blonde responded in the same dismissive tone.

“Oh. Did- Did you sketch anything today? You mentioned you were working on a few projects?” She-Ra had told her partner during one of their late night patrols about her passion for fashion designing. Every meet up began with her rambling about her projects. Lady loved listening to her.

“No. I had homework.” After the train wreck of an akuma, She-Ra was filled with anger, worry, all sorts of mixed emotions. She'd just gone home and crashed into bed, hoping she'd be able to sleep it off before her patrol. It hadn't worked.

“Right… You could just tell me what's pissing you off instead of giving me the cold shoulder.”

That was enough to break her dam of emotions.

"I fucking told you to stop sacrificing yourself! I don't know how much more clear I need to be." The blonde yelled, rounding on Lady with a fierce look. The feline's eyes went wide, ears drooping, clearly caught off guard by the blonde's outburst.

"It had to be me! If you're the one who's caught I'm screwed because I don't know how to use your lucky charm! I'm not creative like that." Lady wrapped her arms around herself, and the blonde quickly noticed the gesture. She breathed in and out in an attempt to calm herself.

Don't yell at her, you know she doesn't like it. You can express your emotions calmly.

"That doesn't mean you need to go and jump in front of me. It's scary. I hate fighting you, you know that." Lady's ears perked up when the blonde addressed her calmly, her tail swaying behind her happily, clearly appreciating the calm demeanor.

"I'm sorry… I panicked." She whispered, pulling the blonde away from the bridge railing so that they could sit down on a bench and hug. "I'm not that important, you're the one who catches the akumas, clears up the destruction. You have a crucial role, if I'm not there it doesn't matter."

“Oh my god shut up. We are a team. Both of us are important. Don't you pull that excuse on me…” The blonde grabbed Lady's hand, squeezing it gently only to get butterflies in her stomach.

Lady gulped, looking away to hide her blushy face. “I'm sorry, I won't worry you like that…”

The blonde grinned at that, nudging her shoulder against the feline's. “And if you do, I'll be looking forward to your apology ice cream. Did you really want to bribe me into forgiving you?”

“It works! Otherwise you wouldn't come out to hear my apology.” The feline huffs in response, picking up her spoon to dig into her own, half melted ice cream.

“Can't argue with that.” She-Ra said with a shrug, picking up her spoon but not eating just yet. Instead she admired the feline for a minute.

What would I do without you?

Three

Today's akuma was rough. She-Ra's body ached from the effort. Physical pain was something the miraculous cure didn't fix, unfortunately. With how the akuma gave her and Lady a run for their money, it was surprising to realise that she was just an eight year old girl.

Jess, the little girl, was currently wrapped up in the blankets, looking around at the ambulance staff with fear. She-Ra and Lady were giving a quick statement to the police about the recent akuma, when they heard quiet crying.

Lady looked over her shoulder to find Jess curled in on herself, crying quietly while Priscilla rubbed her back soothingly, hoping it would calm her down.

"You keep talking, I'll go check on her." Lady whispered, giving the blonde an encouraging smile before skipping over to Jess.

"Hey there kiddo!" The feline greeted enthusiastically, kneeling down in front of the little girl so that she could talk to her at eye level.

Jess sniffled, hugging herself tighter. "H-Hi…" She mumbled, her voice so quiet She-Ra almost didn't catch it.

"What's that they give you?" Lady pointed at the doll currently clutched in Jess's tiny hands.

“Dolls…” The little girl whispered, holding them up for Lady to see. “Dolls of you and She-Ra.”

“Goodness! You're right.” She-Ra couldn't help the smile that crept onto her face. Lady was awesome at talking to kids.

“They're going to help me defeat bad guys.” Jess went on, smiling up at the feline.

“Oh you don't need the help. You're doing amazing without it.” The brunette assured, ruffling the young girl's hair.

Jess’s eyes lit up at that, she looked at Lady with awe in her eyes. “Really? You meant that?”

“I do! You know how I know that?” Jess shook her head, waiting eagerly for Lady to continue. “Today, you gave me and She-Ra a run for our money. You were so exhausting to fight! If you turn that attention around to helping people, you'll be unstoppable, kid.”

She-Ra watched as the little girl's eyes lit up. She nodded eagerly at what Lady said, assuring the hero that she would do an amazing job.

“I know you will kiddo. I believe in you. Now, why don't we play with those dolls?” Lady got up and sat down beside Jess, who eagerly handed the She-Ra doll to Lady.

“She-Ra?” The blonde turned her head over to the police officer.

“Yes?” She asked, blinking innocently.

“I asked if you wanted to detail the akuma victim's powers for us.” The police officer asked pointedly.

“Oh! Oh yes of course.”

Stop getting distracted, idiot.

Four

“Another underwater akuma. You know what that means?” She-Ra asked, turning to Lady with an exhausted look.

“Don't give me that look. You get to eat macarons while I need to eat stinky cheese.” Lady responded, looking just as, if not more annoyed, by the prospect.

She-Ra opened her yoyo to pull out said water macaron, while Lady retrieved her camembert piece as well, giving the cheese such a sour look you'd think it had killed her family.

Both of them ate their pieces in one bite, their costumes immediately switching from their regular to their water looks. She-Ra's turned into a sleeveless top paired with long pants which ended in silicone swimming fins.

“The cheese sucks, but at least I always look good.” Lady spun around, admiring her own outfit. She-Ra looked up at her partner, despite how she always instructed herself not to. She couldn't help it, her partner always looked so good in various outfits.

Her swimming outfit was a tight corset-like top (which Lady insisted was not uncomfortable to swim in), paired with long pants and swimming fins like She-Ra’s. She also had long fingerless gloves, leaving her nails to grow out and in like actual cat claws.

She looked so, so good, holy shit, it was a good time to be extremely gay.

“Earth to She-Ra, still with me, golden girl?~” She-Ra blinked, blushing when she realised Lady had been calling out to her and she hadn't heard a word being said.

“I know I look gorgeous, but you need to focus.” Lady teased, grinning eagerly at her ditzy partner. “Come on! Let's go kick this akuma’s butt!”

She-Ra nodded, the two of them leaping into the water to do just that.

Five

“Hah! Did you see how I took down those thieves today?!” Lady was jumping up and down, grinning proudly at what she'd done.

She-Ra, on the other hand, was leaning against the railing of the Eiffel Tower, watching her partner with an enamoured look. “Yup, I saw. You were awesome out there.”

“Yeah I know right? I kicked that guy right in the balls and he looked so dumb when he realised what happened! He never knew what hit him!” She cheered, jumping up and down before finally landing on top of She-Ra, curling up by her side and purring all the way.

The blonde squeaked in surprise, not expecting her partner to cuddle up to her like this. Lady wasn't a physically affectionate person, so whenever she curled up close to She-Ra, it was always a surprise.

Lady stretched before laying her head down on She-Ra's lap, grinning up at her proudly. “We showed those idiot thieves who we are! That'll teach them to not underestimate women.” The feline nudged her hair into She-Ra's hands as she spoke, a silent request for pets. She-Ra smiled, digging her fingers into Lady's ears, cooing at just how fluffy they were.

“You're cute, you know that?” She-Ra whispered, smiling down at her pretty kitty.

“No I'm not! Don't call me that blasted word… I am a scary black cat who- oh my god thats the spot…” Lady continued to push her ears into the blonde's hands, completely forgetting her argument in favour of ear scratches.

She-Ra giggled, leaning back and enjoying Lady's quiet purrs. They were calming for the blonde as much as they were for the feline. She loved it every time Lady trusted her enough to be vulnerable like this.

She really can't get more lucky beyond this can she?

“Oh I know that face.” Lady suddenly said, grinning smugly.

“I'm sorry, what face?”

“That's your oh she's gorgeous face. That's when you simp for me.”

She-Ra scoffed, rolling her eyes while still petting her partner. “I do not simp for you.”

“Yes you do! Don't lie to me!”

“Where is your proof? An argument is nothing without concrete evidence.” She-Ra declared petulantly.

“Oh don't worry! I'll make sure to shove a camera in your face next time you stare at me.” Lady responded with a shrug, winking dramatically at the blonde.

“Oh fuck off…” The blonde pushed Lady's head off her lap with a deadpan expression, watching as her partner rolled over and began to giggle at She-Ra's expression. Despite everything, She-Ra smiled at her antics. In the end, that was her annoying partner. She wouldn't sacrifice her for anything in the world.

And One

She-Ra was late to her patrol. That wasn't like her at all. She was the most punctual person Lady had ever met. Clearly, this was a sign of the apocalypse.

Why would her partner be late? She was never late to any of their patrols. Was she asleep? No that wasn't possible, the girl has three extra alarms just in case the first two don't wake her up. Maybe she's busy with homework? No she'd just bring it along to do it with Lady. Maybe… Maybe she's on a date and lost track of time, she'd been getting pretty cozy with the younger sister of those annoying reporters.

Wait… was she jealous? There's no way. She wasn't jealous. Nope, nope, she wasn't jealous. Thinking of She-Ra with that reporter girl did not make her unreasonably angry.

"Hey! I'm so sorry I'm late." Lady looked over her shoulder, the blonde stood there carrying a massive picnic basket.

"What is that?" The feline asked, pointing at the basket.

"A picnic for us! I thought we'd skip patrol today and just hangout." She-Ra sat down in front of her, opening the basket and pulling out some sandwiches.

"Skip patrol? Who are you and what have you done with my partner?" Lady joked, taking a sandwich and munching on it happily.

"Hey, we do so much for this city, we deserve this at the very least." She-Ra looked up at her and gave her a radiant smile. "You deserve this for being the best partner in the whole world."

Lady blushed all over, her cheeks lighting up while her heart pounded in her chest. "Oh." She whispered, looking away to hide her flushed cheeks.

That smooth talker!

"Now! Let's enjoy the food! I made macarons for us." She-Ra cheered, pulling out the sweet treats.

Lady's tail swayed behind her, eyes growing wide as she admired the effort her partner had gone to prepare this.

"Thanks She-Ra… for all this." She whispered, a quiet smile on her face.

She-Ra smiled back. "You're welcome."
