The Glare My Lens No Longer Captures

Posted originally on the Archive of Our Own at http://archiveofourown.org/works/30983861.

Rating:
General Audiences

Archive Warning:
No Archive Warnings Apply

Category:
F/F

Fandom:
She-Ra and the Princesses of Power (2018)

Relationship:
Adora/Catra (She-Ra)

Characters:
Shadow Weaver | Light Spinner (She-Ra), Catra (She-Ra), Adora (She-Ra)

Additional Tags:
Mentioned Shadow Weaver | Light Spinner (She-Ra), Shadow Weaver | Light Spinner's A+ Parenting, POV Adora (She-Ra), Personal Growth, Yes I'm a simp for catra lmfao fight me, Not Beta Read, One Shot

Language:
English

Series:
Part 3 of Photography Au

Stats:
Published: 2021-04-29 Words: 445 Chapters: 1/1

The Glare My Lens No Longer Captures

Posted originally on the Archive of Our Own at http://archiveofourown.org/works/30983861.

Rating:
General Audiences

Archive Warning:
No Archive Warnings Apply

Category:
F/F

Fandom:
She-Ra and the Princesses of Power (2018)

Relationship:
Adora/Catra (She-Ra)

Characters:
Shadow Weaver | Light Spinner (She-Ra), Catra (She-Ra), Adora (She-Ra)

Additional Tags:
Mentioned Shadow Weaver | Light Spinner (She-Ra), Shadow Weaver | Light Spinner's A+ Parenting, POV Adora (She-Ra), Personal Growth, Yes I'm a simp for catra lmfao fight me, Not Beta Read, One Shot

Language:
English

Series:
Part 3 of Photography Au

Stats:
Published: 2021-04-29 Words: 445 Chapters: 1/1

The Glare My Lens No Longer Captures

by DragonOtakuKip

Notes

I had a creative writing assignment in English soooooo lmfao I HAD to do it jshakjsdgfkd

Weaver had always expected much out of Adora. She'd shower her with praise and presents when she succeeded. Adora always wanted to succeed, to get that "affection" she craved in a house full of other children. Then Catra came. A small magicat girl-- a rare, protected species-- with a fierce growl and sharp claws. Weaver didn't like her. Adora was fascinated . Every time she approached her she took the smaller gap given as a success. Weaver admonished her for trying to be nice to Catra, but Adora didn't mind.

As they grew older, Catra and Adora grew inseparable. Adora would still be succeeding in classes and sports, as she had her entire life under Weaver, but the praise Weaver gave her didn't matter to her anymore. She got good grades because Catra helped explain things to her. She did well in games because Catra cheered for her. Weaver still hated Catra, but neither of them minded. They weren't afraid of her words or actions anymore. Her praise didn't make Adora's heart soar like Catra's purrs did.

Once they got the DSLR and made sure Weaver couldn't legally confiscate it from them, that was it. Nothing Weaver said meant anything to Adora. Not even her praise. The praise of doing good work and the needling of needing to be even better went in one ear and out the other. Weaver meant nothing, and now Adora and Catra had each won awards in their city, county, and state. The two of them were set to go to college for photography together. There was nothing Weaver could do-- she couldn't even claim Adora as the poster child she'd raised her to be for her fostering, because it was Catra who had publicly led the two of them against Weaver for ownership of the camera and had entered them into all of their competitions.

In Adora's childhood, Weaver's manipulative praise had been her entire world, her purpose, her drive, her happiness. If Weaver had known that taking in one more government-protected girl would take away all those years of hard work, Adora has no doubt she would've gotten her adopted out or just found a way to dispose of her quickly. But she didn't. Now Adora is living happily with her girlfriend in a high-end apartment in Etheria, both of them semi-famous-- or maybe just famous-- for their work.

And Weaver is somewhere in a breaking-down house, probably still full with too many foster kids. Or she would be, but Catra and Adora had reported her to Child Protective Services years ago. Adora is happy to report the woman is rotting in jail, far away from her perfect life.

Please drop by the Archive and comment to let the creator know if you enjoyed their work!