Make my girl laugh

by masternoveller

Summary

Glimmer bets Catra can't make Adora laugh 10 days in a row.

Or

10 days of Catra attempting to make Adora laugh in different ways.

Or

Fluff (short Fluff)

Notes

One day at a time.
Tags will probably change for each day I post a new day/story.
Enjoy the fluff - or not - you don't have to do what I tell you.

See the end of the work for more notes

Day 1 - Stacks On!

The Why
After the fall of Prime and all that happened at the Heart that saved the planet, Catra had decided that she would be the best version of herself or try at least. So, she made it her life's ambition to make the girl she loves, happy, everyday. Glimmer teased and bet Catra that she couldn't make Adora laugh for ten days in a row.

Challenge accepted.

And what were the conditions of this bet?
No tickling (because apparently that's cheating…pfft!)
No pranking (no one else can get hurt (physically or mentally) because that wouldn't be Catra being the best version of herself… groan)
No one else is allowed to know about this bet apart from the 2 of them (especially Adora)
The winner of the challenge gets bragging rights (duh!) and a dinner prepared by the loser (yeah, no one really wins there…)
So, let's begin.

Day 1
Adora has dragged Catra to a small town outside Bright Moon so she can conduct a damage assessment after the defeat of Prime. Being the best version of herself, Catra only complained twice. Progress. Adora's hand holding on firmly to Catra's as they walk down the well-travelled track, they walk at a casual pace, Adora mostly talking of all the work ahead of them. Which is making Catra feel tired already. Okay, but fair enough, she did cause quite a bit of the damage when she was in the Horde to some extent, and it'd only be fair for the town if she was there in person to help with the cleanup and reconstruction of the town.
They finally get to the town after a few hours of walking and are immediately greeted by some locals who are just excited to have newcomers and not clones that have lost their way or Horde soldiers with nowhere to go. There's a mix of feelings when it comes to seeing Catra, though the shorter hair and the absence of her iconic mask, help her sink into a bit more of anonymity. The change of clothes from the skintight jumpsuit to a more comfortable shirt and pants also do the trick. Though every now and then, someone will take a second look and wonder.

"Hey Adora." Catra says squeezing Adora's hand, "I'm going to go look around if that's okay."
"Okay." Adora says with a gentle smile, "Don't go too far though, I'll miss you."
"Ugh. Sap!" Catra teases with a smile, "I'll miss you too."
Adora places a chaste kiss on Catra lips before letting her girlfriend go off to wander around the town. Turning back to the local she's talking to, they lead Adora away to show her a few of the businesses that were damaged and homes that needed to or were in the process of being rebuilt. After a while, they lead her to a community centre in the middle of the town. The sounds of children laughing and screaming in glee are loud coming from inside. Then the screaming turns to scared screaming and Adora's instincts kick in as she rushes inside to see an absolute crazy sight.

"Catra?" She whispers, confused at what is happening inside, "What's going on here?"
Catra is currently running around, fangs out and pouncing around the children in the room when she looks up at a concerned Adora.
"Oh, hey Adora." Catra says before one of the children pounces on her right thigh and she playfully falls down whilst the other children yell "Stacks on!" and they all pounce on top of Catra, covering every part of her as she squirms around on the floor, pretending to be flailing and helpless under them.
"No!" Catra play screams, "You got me! There's too many. Help me Princess!"
Catra manages to dig her arm out from under the pile of children and holds it out to Adora who giggles and reaches for her girlfriend's hand. As Catra tightens the grip on Adora's hand, instead of being pulled up by the blonde, Catra pulls Adora into the pile of kids with her.
She yelps in surprise as she's brought down letting out a play scream as well.

The kids yell “Stacks on!” and start piling onto the both of them. Adora is laughing so hard that she can barely breathe. The townspeople are all laughing at the antics of the newcomers as well, they’d be hard-pressed to believe a former Horde Commander could be providing so much joy to the town’s children right now.
The kids all jump off the pair of them when Catra loudly says, “Tag! Can’t tag back the tagger!”
All of a sudden there’s a scatter of children in all directions leaving Catra and Adora lying on the floor, panting and smiling. Adora is still laughing as Catra brings her into her arms, “Having a good day princess?
“The best!” Adora beams (and snorts!).

Day 2 - The Warmth of the Sun

Chapter Summary

It's the second day of the bet.
Catra can win this bet in her sleep.

Chapter Notes

Welcome back!
We are on Day 2 - I'm planning to release a new chapter each day (planning and doing are 2 separate things though...)
Anyways, enjoy!

Oh yeah, loving the kudos'.
Thanks!

They've just got back from town and are getting ready for a late dinner when Adora starts to tease Catra when she starts yawning.

"What?" Catra asks, "I'm not tired. Besides I think you'll be fast asleep as soon as your head hits the pillow."

"Don't be silly!" Adora chastises Catra, "I can definitely stay up longer than you."

Catra rolls her eyes, "No, you can't Adora." She places her finger on Adora's forehead just above her eyes, "Or have you forgotten the last time we tried this?"

Adora pouts, "That wasn't fair!"

"Yeah? And why's that?"

"Because!" Adora petulantly says, "I had a long day carrying and moving things for the town we were rebuilding."

"Yeah," Catra snorts, "As She Ra! Like that stuff even made you sweat."

Not one to back down from a challenge Adora frowns, “I could beat you this time.”

“Seriously Adora?” Catra rolls her eyes again, “You’re going to make me give up a good nights sleep so we can play this silly game?”

“Yes!” Adora practically beams, “Unless you’re scared of losing…”

“Pfft! You know I’m not.” Catra chides, “Okay, fine! What are the terms?”

“First one to fall asleep gives the other one a massage. For 30 minutes.” Before Catra can say anything, Adora adds, “And no complaining while the massage is in session!”

“Fine.” Catra agrees with a smirk, “I look forward to my massage.”

Adora’s stomach grumbles as Catra laughs, “Shut up! We haven’t had anything to eat since lunch.”

“I didn’t say anything.” Catra teases, “Eat up princess. It’s nearly time for bed.”

Adora raises and eyebrow at Catra, “You are so giving me a massage.”

“Keep dreaming princess!” Catra laughs again as they tuck into dinner, “But, you know, I’d massage you even if you didn’t win this bet.”

“I know.” Adora answers sweetly, “But, this way will be far sweeter.”

A wicked grin appears on Adora’s face after that statement as she goes back to eating her dinner. Catra smiles thinking, “Oh, my sweet Adora. You know you won’t win this.”

After dinner, Catra has a plan. Well so does Adora. It's the same plan. Wear each other out – (yeah, not like that – keep it PG!). Adora decides she wants to spar after dinner. Terrible idea. Really a terrible idea. By the end of the sweat inducing session, they are both keeled over trying not to throw up their dinners on the mats and get yelled at by Glimmer for being dumb.

"I won that one!" Adora announces while lying star fished on the mats.

Catra, mirroring Adora on the mat, "Yeah. I don't think it would have ended well for these mats if I went 100%"

"Hey!" Adora whines, "You aren't supposed to go easy!"

"Trust me princess," Catra breathes shakily, not sure if she's going to puke or not, "It was better this way. You won anyway. What are you so upset about?"

"I'm not upset!" Another whine, "We're supposed to be keeping each other match fit."

"Match fit?" Catra snorts, "This was your idea. I just wanted to do the obstacle course. You're the one that decided we should spar."

"Well…" Adora starts, "The obstacle course isn't fun."

"Not for you!" Catra laughs, "Too much jumping, sliding and climbing for you."

"Which suits you perfectly." Adora states matter-of-factly, "So that's an unfair advantage."

"Come on." Catra gets up and hold her hand out for Adora, "Lets go get cleaned up and get ready for not bed. You coming?"

Adora lets Catra pull her up and they race back to their room, nudging each other along the way to get back first. Being covered in fur, Adora lets Catra take the bathroom first while she grabs all their sweaty gear and puts it into the wash basket. It doesn't take long before Catra is done (she doesn't like water at the best of times, so short and sweet showers work really well).

"All yours princess." Catra says toweling off.

Adora looks her girlfriend up and down, grins as she pulls Catra in for a quick kiss, "Mmm, you smell nice."

"Yeah?" Catra replies sultry, "Damp fur smells just sooo good."

Adora giggles as she kisses Catra shoulder and then ducks off to the shower.
"Oh my stars!" Adora screams, "Catra!"

"What?" Catra walks in, concern on her face, "What's wrong?"

"Did you take a cold shower?" Adora asks completely bemused.

"Yeah. Why?"

Adora shakes her head, "Unbelievable…"

"What? I'm not waiting for the water to get warm. In and out right?" Catra flatly says, "Just like old times."

The water heats up as Adora goes under the stream, "Fine. Just warn me next time."

Catra laughs, "Sure, princess."

"Do we have to lie in bed?" Adora asks, "This doesn't feel fair. Like how do I know you aren't sleeping? It's not like I can see in the dark like you."

"Adora." Catra says, "You know when I'm asleep better than anyone. And you also know when I'm pretending to sleep."

"True…" Adora replies, "I'm not going to lose." The statement seems more like encouragement for herself than confidence and it makes Catra smile.

"Try not to fall asleep princess." Catra smugly says.

"Can we stay up and keep talking?" Adora asks.

"Whatever you want."

Adora lasts about an hour before she's dozed off half way through a story about her and Swiftwind visiting Razz, snoring softly while cuddled up next to Catra. Catra kisses her on the forehead and leans back, but can't fall asleep. After everything that's happened today, she's still too wired to fall asleep. She's still awake when Adora wakes up.
"Oh man…" Adora groans, "I fell asleep, didn't I?" Catra nods, kissing Adora on the forehead, "Did you sleep?"

Catra shakes her head, "Tried to. Couldn't."

"We've got a meeting in the morning, you know?" Adora says.

"I know." Catra replies, "It'll be fine."

They attend the princess meeting in the war room. Since Catra is not a princess and really doesn't want to participate in any of this, she sits on the couch, close to the window where the sunlight hits it just so nicely. Adora and the princess are talking about the rebuilding of basically everything and it's essentially the same thing they've been talking about since the end of the war. Catra's already made her contributions the first couple of meetings, but the amount of 'politics' has become boring and Catra is more than happy to hang out on the couch with Melog.

"Adora!" Glimmer squeals, "We can't be everywhere all the time!"

“I know Glimmer!” Adora replies, “It’s just there’s just so many people…”

“Uh, guys?” Perfuma interrupts, a gentle smile on her face, they all turn to her. She looks over to where Catra and Melog are situated, nodding in their direction.

Bow and Scorpia have hearts in their eyes as Catra and Melog are curled up together on the couch, sunning themselves whilst they napped on the couch.

Before anyone can talk, Adora quickly shuts all her friends down with a look that says, “Don’t ruin this! Or you’ll have a very angry cat and an even angrier Catra to deal with.”
Glimmer quietly calls adjournment to the meeting as everyone scurries out of the room. Adora walks over to Catra and Melog, her heart filled with love as she picks up her sleeping girlfriend in her arms and carries her back to their bed. Melog sleepily follows after Adora and settles on the foot of the bed where Catra has been tucked in. About an hour later Catra wakes up. Adora is lying in bed next to her reading a book when Catra starts to stir.
As Catra’s eyes flit open and close, she starts to stretch and in her moment of disorientation of no longer being on the couch or cuddled into Melog she yawns and stretches to the point she rolls off of the bed with a thump. Catra on instinct jumps upright almost immediately and in a fighting stance ready to attack whatever just happened. Her fur is all ruffled, her tail fluffed up and her ears high on her head and the fur on her face is smooshed from the way she slept on it. The next thing she hears is Adora in an absolute laughing mess on the bed. The book she was reading has dropped to the floor as she hunches over in laughter, tears in her eyes as she sees Catra clueless expression. Eventually, Adora regains some composure and goes over to comfort Catra, “Are you okay?”

Catra wraps her arms around Adora’s waist, “I think so. How’d I get here?”

“You fell asleep in the meeting room.” Catra groans, “Don’t worry, I made everyone leave before I brought you back here.”

Catra’s brain kicks back in, “Did you just laugh at me falling off the bed?”

Trying to contain her laughter again, Adora snorts, “I’m so sorry Catra.”

“No, you’re not.” Catra says light heartedly, “Guess I’ll be getting the massage then.”

Adora pulls Catra into her and kisses her cheek sloppily, “Of course. Anything for you. Especially when you look so cute right now.”

Catra sees her reflection in the window, “Ugh, I am not cute.”

“Awe,” Adora coos, “But look at the way the fur on your face is all smooshed to the side…”

Another laugh that is cut off with a well-timed kiss from Catra, “Fine. I’m only cute right now. And that’s it.”

“Sure.” Adora agrees half-heartedly, “Just this time huh?”

“Just give me that massage princess.” Catra grins.

Day 3 - It's Mine!

Chapter Summary

Day 3 of the bet!
It's Catra vs Melog today.
Not in a bad way though.

Chapter Notes

Here's day 3 of 10 for your daily fluff from me.
It's a short one today so you don't need to concentrate as hard.
Hope I can keep this momentum going...
Anyways, Enjoy.

“Let go of it, Melog!” Catra grunts as she fights with Melog over Adora’s blanket, “It’s mine!”

Melog grunts back, pulling harder at the fabric.
“You’re going to rip it, you big lug!” Catra threatens, “You’re going to make Adora mad if you rip this.”

With that statement, Melog lets go of the blanket suddenly as Catra falls backwards onto her back, the blanket raised up triumphantly in her hands. She smiles over at Melog, “Don’t worry buddy.” She says once she’s up and walking back over to a pouty Melog, “We can share. Alright?”

Melog excitedly pounces on Catra in the excitement of sharing this treasured piece of fabric from their favourite person in the world and Catra cackles in laughter under Melog, “Okay big guy, you can get off me now.”
Melog gets up off Catra, with the blanket in her hands she gazes around their bedroom, looking for a good spot to nap. Adora is currently out running errands for Glimmer this morning and it’s as good of an opportunity for Catra to catch up on her well overdue nap schedule. She roams around the large room before settling down on the fluffy rug in front of the open balcony doors where the sunlight is flowing through, warming up the rug. She waits for Melog to settle behind her as she rests her head on their long body, pulling Adora's blanket up and covering the two of them. Adora doesn't know that Catra has taken a liking to this particular blanket and uses every chance she can get when Adora isn't around to nap with. It's their little secret and Catra would like to keep it that way.

"Hey buddy," Catra says to Melog whilst yawning, "Wake us up in an hour, okay? I don't want Adora to see us with her favourite blanket."
With that, they both fall asleep in the warm sunlight and gentle breeze that comes from the open balcony doors.

Adora comes back just before lunch to find Catra and Melog curled up together in front of the balcony with a blanket draped over them. She coos quietly as she goes to join them. Sneaking over quietly, whilst removing her boots and jacket and placing them by their bed. Adora carefully settles herself in front of Catra, so that Catra can spoon her from behind, pulling Catra's arm to drape over herself. She closes her eyes and a content smile on her face as Catra pulls her in closer whilst she's still asleep.

The extra body heat causes Catra to rouse from her nap. She sniffs a familiar scent in front of her.
"Crap!" Catra whisper yells, "I overslept. Dammit Melog! You were supposed to wake us up before she got back!"
Melog just looks at Catra blankly, not caring and goes back to their nap. Catra looks down and sees Adora asleep in front of her, her back pressed against Catra's chest as Catra sighs and snuggles up even closer to Adora.

"Mmm…" Adora stretches out in Catra's arm, "Hey."

"Hey Adora." Catra says sleepily, "What time is it?"

Adora looks around, “I think it’s about 2ish.”

“Darn, I think I missed lunch again.” Catra mumbles, she feels the blanket still on her as she tries to nonchalantly move the blanket off of herself so that Adora doesn’t see it.

“We can still get something to eat if you’re hungry.” Adora whispers, still half asleep, stretching again, “Mmm, I really needed that nap.”

Catra laughs awkwardly as she tries to flick the blanket behind Melog, but it accidently flicks up, covering their head instead. Melog starts swinging their head wildly, trying to get the blanket off their head. Adora’s eyes go wide as she finally notices her blanket.
“Catra…?” Adora asks smugly, “What’s my blanket doing down here?”

“I have no idea what you are talking about.” Catra replies confidently. That confidence is shattered when Melog shakes the blanket one final time and it flies up and lands on top of Catra’s head. “Argh!” Catra grunts, quickly pulling the blanket off her head, gripping it tightly in her hands before turning around so Adora can’t see her face go red.

Adora starts laughing at a blushing Catra, “Catra!” Adora snorts, “You don’t need to be embarrassed!”

“Well, I wouldn’t be if you weren’t laughing at me right now.” Catra crosses her arms and tries to look angry but comes off pouty, especially since she’s still holding onto the offending item, “It’s not even that funny.”

Melog comes over and grabs the blanket out of Catra’s hands before she has a chance to move as Adora just watches the next scene unfold whilst laughing so hard, tears run down her face. Catra is chasing Melog around their room, trying and failing to get back Adora’s blanket to claim as her own. The both of them are running circles around Adora, knocking over furniture until Catra finally pins Melog down and raises the blanket up above her head like a trophy.

“Aha! Victory!” Catra proclaims to an applauding Adora, who is still laughing wildly at the sight of her girlfriend claiming victory over Melog for Adora’s blanket. Catra looks over to Adora with such pride in her eyes, “What?”

Adora pulls Catra in for a kiss, “I love you.”

“I love you too.” Catra returns.

Day 4 - It's for Science!

Chapter Summary

Day 4 of the bet, still going strong.
Catra helps Entrapta for a little science project.
On the plus side, Catra gets a cool jacket out of it.
And Entrapta gets her tiny food and data.

Chapter Notes

Day 4 people!
I know it's earlier than I usually post in the day...but what can I say...weekend!
I hope Catra is bringing smiles, laughs or happy feelings to you all.
Thanks for reading! Enjoy!

Catra got up early as she said she would, to help Entrapta with one of her experiments. So here she is. At Entrapta's portable lab in Bright Moons spare room. She's sitting on one of the many plush couches in the room, waiting to be acknowledged by the kooky scientist.
"Catra!" Entrapta greets loudly, "You came! And so early too."

"Yeah. You said to. Remember?" Catra replies, "Please tell me you remember and that I haven't left my warm bed and the warm body in said bed for no reason…"

Entrapta ponders, "Oh, of course I remember! Thank you so much for coming!"

"I, uh, brought you this." Catra pulls out a box of tiny foods for her friend, "I got them from the kitchen this morning."

"Ooh! Thank you!" Entrapta pops a few pieces into her mouth, "Okay, now, where were we?"

“I have no idea 'Traps.” Catra says a little confused as to why she was here in the first place, “Hordak didn’t want to help you with this?”

“Oh no!” Entrapta says digging through her tools, “I had to leave him back in Dryll to take care of the little robotic issue I may or may not have caused… But! He’s handling it!”

Catra lets out an awkward laugh, “That’s, uh, nice.” Catra clears her throat, “But, why do you need me for?”

“I need someone that can scale the castle walls.” The monotone explanation is just as confusing.

“Yes. But why?” Catra prods, “What exactly are you planning to do?”

Entrapta pulls out a few tools and then moves to the box she had Emily bring in for her. Opening the box, Catra’s eyes widen, “For this.” Entrapta pulls out a brown backpack.

“And…what is that?” Catra asks, nervous to hear the answer.

“This is the backup if you fall.” Entrapta explains, “This is what I want you to test.” Entrapta pulls out a brown tactical looking jacket from the box, hidden under the backpack, “I’ve designed this jacket for you specifically.”

Catra nods, “Thanks 'Traps. But again, why?”

“I worry about you Catra.” There’s no emotion in the tone of Entrapta’s voice, but Catra knows her friend wouldn’t lie, “After everything that happened, I wanted to make you something.”

“Um, Thanks 'Traps.” Catra shyly says, “But how is a jacket supposed to help me if I fall?”

“Don’t worry! It’s 78% safe! And if it doesn’t, then you have the backup!” Entrapta enthusiasm bursting through, “And if it fails… then that’s great too! It means more science and data!”

“You aren’t trying to kill me, right?”

“Of course not.” Entrapta smiles, “I have no reason to. So, I won’t.”

Catra breathes out a sigh of relief, “Okay, well, let's get started with your science stuff then.”

Its midday when Entrapta calls for all their friends to meet in the Bright Moon private gardens just outside the castle walls. All the princesses are present and are all waiting for Entrapta’s reasoning behind her unexpected but urgent presentation. Adora looks around to see where Catra is.
“Has anyone seen Catra?” She asks loudly.

“She’s part of the experiment.” Entrapta happily answers.

“Okay…” Adora unsurely says, “What’s going on?”

“Oh yes! Welcome all.” Entrapta claps her hands together and pushes her goggles up onto her forehead, “So without further ado, Catra come out!”

Catra begrudgingly steps out from behind a tree, some of the princesses clap unsurely to her appearance, “Can we please just get this over with?”

Adora snorts at seeing her girlfriend wearing a tactical jacket with a backpack. She quickly covers her giggles with her mouth as Glimmer nudges her doing the same thing. Catra glares over at the 2 of them, huffs and crosses her arms.
“Yes.” Entrapta finally replies, but not explaining a thing to the crowd, and only after typing rapidly into her tablet, “Please proceed.”

Catra groans.
Glimmer shouts, “Hey! Don’t climb the walls!”

The Bright Moon guards are quickly alerted to the queens shout and start to move in, causing Catra to climb up the walls even faster. Adora's giggles subside as she watches Catra frantically climb up the side of the castle whilst the Bright Moon guards try to figure out a way to get her down.
Entrapta is silently tapping away on her tablet as Catra scales the castle.
"Glimmer, call off the guards please." Bow softly asks, "We don't want Catra to fall."

"Oh, on the contrary, this is exactly what I thought would happen." Entrapta says without looking up from her tablet, "Please continue with how you would deal with someone climbing the walls of the castle."

"Glimmer!" Adora reinforces, "They better not hurt Catra!"

"Please do not interfere with Bright Moon's guards Adora." Entrapta pipes up before Glimmer can open her mouth, "This is all part of the experiment." She turns to Adora, "Don't worry, there's a 68% chance she will be fine. And a 22% chance she may be hurt… a little."

"What?!" Adora raises her voice as Catra yells the same thing.

"What the hell 'Traps!" Catra yells from the top of the castle roof that she has finally perched on, "This morning you said it was a 78% chance of success!"

Everyone is now looking up in concern, Entrapta the odd one out. A bright smile on her face as she watches to see the conclusion. The Bright Moon guards start to shoot their arrows up at Catra. Catra dodges the many arrows, cursing under her breath at Entrapta.
"Now jump!" Entrapta yells.

"What?!" Everyone else (apart from Catra) yell.

Catra rolls her eyes as she leaps off the top of the castle to the sounds of loud gasps and Adora looking helpless. The jacket starts to bubble and foam the faster she falls. By the time she's close enough to the ground she's completely encased in a blue bubble ball that takes the impact of the landing. The bubble bursts and returns to jacket form on Catra who lies on the floor, eyes wide open and panting. Adora runs over to check on Catra who has now sat up and doing a once over on herself to check for any damage.

"Oh my gosh! Are you okay Catra?" Adora grabs Catra's shoulders, doing a once over as well.

"Yeah, I'm fine." Catra says laying a hand over Adora's and giving it a gentle squeeze, "I think the bubble ball worked."

Entrapta comes over, "Aha! I told you it'd work!"

"Wait! You knew?" Adora asks a little annoyed, "Do you have any idea how scared I was for you?"

"Apologies Adora." Entrapta says flatly, "But…science!"

"Not helping 'Traps!" Catra growls.

"Hey Entrapta," Adora says looking at a red button on Catra's jacket, "What does this button do on the jacket?"

Entrapta looks at where Adora is pointing, "Oh, that's the foaming slime button. It turns the jacket into slime to slip away easier."

"Oh really?" Adora says with a glint of mischief in her eyes as Catra starts to back away.

"Don't you dare Adora!" Catra warns as she starts to back away, "I'm taking this jacket off now!" Catra's sprinting away from a chasing Adora trying to get the jacket off, "How do I get this off?!"

Everyone watching Adora chase Catra around the gardens is laughing as Entrapta tries to explain to Catra the very complicated method of taking off the jacket. It's at that point Adora tackles Catra to the ground, pinning her on her back.
"Gotcha!" Adora says triumphantly.

“You’re gonna get slimed too if you press that button!” Catra squirms under Adora.

Adora pushes it anyway as Catra quickly wraps her arms around her girlfriend so she can't get away either as the slime engulfs the both of them. Adora squeals loudly into Catra’s neck as the slime covers them. The feeling and the sound of slime squishing between make them laugh as Catra refuses to let go of Adora no matter how much she is protesting. The others all roll their eyes at their antics and begin to disperse.
Entrapta comes over and stands over the pair, “Thank you Catra! The experiment was a success.”

“No problems 'Traps.” Catra holds a squirming Adora in her arms tight, “Is there anything else?”

“No, I’ve got all the data I need.” Entrapta says packing up her gear, “You can keep the jacket. It’s for you after all.”

“Thanks again 'Traps.” Catra says as Entrapta waves them a goodbye.

“That was really nice of you Catra.” Adora’s eyes looking proud into Catra’s, “Can you let me go now? This slime is getting into… places.” Catra gives Adora an evil grin, “Don’t you dare!”

“Or what, princess?” Catra goads.

Adora squeals with laughter as Catra smudges slime all over her face and then pulls them even tighter together squeezing the slime up through their bodies. Catra finally let go of Adora. Adora quickly gives Catra’s lips a kiss before shoving a handful of slime into Catra’s face before running off laughing whilst Catra tries to wipe the slime from her eyes before giving chase.

“Ugh!” Glimmer rolling her eyes at her 2 friends running around laughing and making more mess in the gardens, she turns to Bow, “Make sure they don’t trudge that slime inside.”

“What? Why me?”

Glimmer kisses Bow’s cheek, “Because, I said so.”

Hearts in his eyes, Bow agrees, “Okay.”

Day 5 - Carry Me?

Chapter Summary

Adora doubts Catra's strength.
Cake ensues.

Chapter Notes

Halfway!
Hope you guys are still enjoying this...

“Glimmers going to flip if we trudge slime through the castle.” Adora states, “What are we going to do?"

Catra eyes a river not too far from where they were running around in the gardens, “I can wash off in there,” pointing to the river, “and then carry you to our room where you can shower.”

“Pfft!” Adora almost laughs, “Like you could carry me with those scrawny arms of yours?”

“Is that a challenge?” Catra raises and eyebrow at the blonde, “Because this sounds like another bet you can’t win.”

“Come on Catra,” Adora teases, “I’m too heavy for you.”

“What are the terms this time?” Catra asks, “That massage you gave me the other day was really nice...”

Adora pondered a little, “I know!” Excitement bouncing off her, “Loser has to sneak into the kitchen and get dessert tonight.”

“You’re on, princess!” Catra smirks.

They race down to the river, Adora grimacing with every step as the slime has gotten into her boots and making squelching sounds every time she puts her foot down. Catra strips off the jacket and teasingly throws it at Adora before walking almost fully clothed into the calm river.

"Brrrr! It's cold!" Catra grimaces as she goes up to her waist into the river, "Why is this water so cold?!"

Adora chuckles whilst taking her boots and socks off whilst sitting on the bank. She doesn't want to strip off anything so Catra will have to take a shower with her back in their room once they get back as she plans to get her girlfriend a little slimy when or if Catra can carry her back to their room. She rolls up the bottom of her pants to just above her knee and steps into the river.
"Uh, what are you doing princess?" Catra questions while trying to get the slime off the exposed fur and the rest of her clothes. She's completed drenched in water as she watches Adora dip her boots into the water, "Really, Adora?"

"What?" Adora asks, looking over at Catra with a smile, "My boots got slime in them. And it's so gross walking in them."

"And your socks?" Catra gestures to her forgotten socks on the riverbank.

"Ah, thanks for reminding me!" Adora moves back to the bank to retrieve her socks and dunks them into the water too. "This slime is going to be a nightmare to get out. What did Entrapta use to make it anyways?!"

Catra laughs at Adora's attempt to clean both her socks and her boot simultaneously, watching the blonde fumble a wrung-out sock back into the river, only to repeat it again in frustration when the other one falls in as well. Adora glares at Catra. Catra steps forwards and picks up Adora's socks, "What?"

"Don't act all innocent!" Adora pouts, "You slimed us."

Catra chuckles at that lie, "No, princess. In case you forgot, I told you not to push that button on the jacket." Catra wrings out her socks and throws them over Adora's head and they land almost perfectly on a tree branch to dry, “You just had to push that button.”

A cheeky grin takes over Adora’s face, “I had to do it.”

“Uh huh.” Catra nods mockingly, “Sure, you did.”

“You’re the one that held me down and smooshed it everywhere.” Adora gestures to herself and her slime-stained clothes, “Besides, are you done? I want to go back and take a proper shower.”

Catra raises an eyebrow at Adora, “Oh Adora, if you want me to bathe you, all you have to do is ask.” Catra’s sultry voice turns Adora’s face red before she’s snapped out of it by Catra’s cackling laugher, “Wow, I can’t believe how easy that was!”

“Shut up!” Adora pushes Catra’s shoulder as Catra dodges it and swiftly picks Adora up over her shoulder. Adora yelps as she’s hefted up, “Put me down, Catra!”

Catra stops a few steps from the bank, “You want me to drop you here?”

“Don’t you dare!” Adora warns grabbing whatever she can to stop Catra from dumping her into the water.

Only Catra doesn’t drop Adora into the water. The pause was momentarily as Catra starts to walk the last little bit to the bank and careful places Adora down and back on her feet. A mischievous smile on Catra’s face, “Did you really think I’d just drop you in there?”

Adora huffs dropping her boots to the grass and sitting on the bank, “Thank you for not dropping me in the water.”

“My pleasure princess.” Catra mock bows, “Now, if you don’t mind, I still need to get some of this slime off me.”

Adora watches again from the bank as Catra returns to the water to wash off. It’s not long until Catra comes up and they start making their way back to the castle. Adora's carrying her socks and Catra's jacket in her hands while Catra has Adora's boots tied by the shoelaces and hung around her neck. The short walk doesn't do enough to dry Catra off to be able to walk through the castle, so they pick a nice spot in the garden where there's a good patch of sunlight and Catra sits down on the grass to dry off. Adora drops the items she's carrying and joins Catra as they sit in silence, enjoying each other's company.

After about 20mins, Catra is feeling a lot drier. She turns to Adora, "So, how would my love like to be carried into the bedroom?" Adora almost chokes on air at the question, "Catra!"

"What?" Catra innocently asks, "There's no one hear listening."

"How would you like to carry me?" Adora whispers, looking around like someone might hear.

Catra leans into Adora and whispers back into her ear, "I asked you first."

Adora blushes at Catra's warm breath on her ear, "Piggy back?"

Catra laughs, "If that's what you want." Catra stands up, she slides the jacket back on, then pulling Adora up to her feet. Leaning her forehead onto Adora's, Catra eyes drift to Adora's lips, "How about I carry you in my arms? Like what we stipulated in our bet?"

A gentle smile pulls on Adora's lips, "If you think you can lift me?"

"I lifted you before at the river, princess." Catra reminds the blonde, "Or did you forget that too?"

"That's different. Different muscles." Adora remarks, "The bet is that you can carry me in your arms back to our room."

Catra smirks, “Sure. Where do you want me to start carrying you from?”

Adora thinks about it, “Bottom of the castle steps.” Adora smirks back, thinking that she’s got this one over Catra. It’s usually her that carries her girlfriend around. Catra’s arms don’t look like they could even lift her for longer than a few seconds. As they walk back to the castle’s steps, Adora adds, “I look forward to you bringing me dessert in bed.”

Catra just shoots Adora a smile that brims of confidence that unnerves Adora immediately.
“Ready?”

Adora nods, stepping in front of Catra to position herself. Catra snorts a laugh at the act before composing herself. Adora doesn’t know what to do with her arms, so she just puts one arm around Catra’s shoulders, “Do I need to jump up into it or are you going to sweep…woah!”

Catra swings Adora’s legs up into her arms whilst supporting her back as Adora quickly moves both arms around Catra’s shoulders.
“You good?”

Adora buries her face in Catra’s neck, not used to the sensation of being carried. She just nods and Catra lets out a chuckle as she starts walking them back to their room. Catra gets to their bedroom door, “Adora? Could you get the door?”

Adora uncurls herself from Catra’s shoulders and reaches for the doorknob, pushing the door open as Catra brings them inside and shuts the door behind her. Catra doesn’t put Adora down until they are both standing fully clothed in the shower.
“Looks like I win again.” Catra says cockily.

Adora unwraps her arms around Catra and glides them down Catra’s collarbone, “Hmm, I guess you did.” A wicked grin comes across her face as she quickly pushes the button on the jacket again and slime oozes all over them as Catra jumps in surprise.

Adora is laughing her heart out as she pulls Catra tightly in her arms. “This is payback!”

Catra laughs, “Again?! I just got dry!” Catra tries to glare at Adora but just can’t seem to be angry, “That dessert you sneak out to us tonight better be good!”

Adora and Catra snuck out after midnight to the Bright Moon kitchen and came back with a haul of cakes and other sweets. They lay their bounty on the bed and fed each other food, well Adora is laying on her back while Catra feeds her. Catra decides it’s time to get revenge for the slime incident in the bathroom when they got back.
“Hey Adora?”

“Hmm?”

“Close your eyes for me?” Catra asks innocently. “Please?”

“Okay.” Adora complies, shutting her eyes at Catra’s request.

Catra leans forward and kisses Adora’s lips sweetly, she grabs a handful of cake, ready to smear it all over Adora’s face. Just as she’s got the cake in her hands, Adora’s eyes open and with a mischievous smile of her face smooshes a handful of cake in Catra’s face.
Catra leaps back, a yelp escapes her as she falls of the bed (again??). Adora laughs as she leans over the bed to where Catra is now lying on her back licking the cake off her face.

“You’re going to pay for that, princess!” Catra threatens as she quickly gets off the floor and chases Adora around their bedroom trying to get her back, “Come back here!” They run around until they are breathless and Catra takes the opportunity to pounce on Adora, pinning her down on the bed on her back. “Ah, how sweet revenge is?” Catra says as she dips a finger into the cream on top of one of the cakes and holds it in front of Adora’s face.

Squirming under Catra, Adora's panting with laughter, "Please don't! Catra!"

Catra laughs a half evil laugh before smearing the cream onto Adora's nose and hastily licking it off. Adora catches Catra's lips for a passionate yet sticky kiss before Catra is once again smeared with cake on her face once more as Adora pushes Catra off and runs off again. They repeat this over and over again through the wee hours of the morning until an angry knock comes raps on their door.
Adora sheepishly gets up and answers it to a very sleepy and irritated Glimmer, "Guys! It's 3 in the morning. Can you please stop running around screaming and breaking things!"

Catra's in the back laughing, "Sorry Sparkles!"

Glimmers looks Adora over, the blondes face sticky and red from running and laughing. She then pushes the door a little wider and sees Catra lying on the floor with cake all over her clothes.
"So, I take it Adora's happy and laughing?" Glimmer shoots the question to Catra, hands on her hips.

"Definitely, Sparkles!" Catra laughs.

Glimmers redirects her attention to Adora, "Get some sleep. We've got that ball to attend tomorrow if you haven't forgotten."

Adora rolls her eyes at Glimmer, "It's for your birthday Glimmer. Of course, we haven't forgotten." Adora stops herself from hugging Glimmer since she's all sticky and sweaty, "Goodnight, Glimmer. Sorry we woke you."

Glimmer raises an eyebrow at Adora before nodding and then walking back to her room. Adora closes the door and makes her way back to the bed. Catra quickly crawls on top of her.
"Guess we'll shower again in the morning?" Adora asks.

"I could give you a tongue bath instead now if you want." Catra offers.

Adora snorts and laughs at the offer. Catra just smiles that Adora didn’t take up the offer as she’s way too sweetened out right now and just want to have her sugar crash right now and sleep.
“Goodnight Catra.” Yawns Adora.

“Goodnight princess.”

Day 6 - Party Time?

Chapter Summary

Day 6 and it's Glimmer's Birthday.
Glimmer has to give a speech.
Catra is bored.
Entertains Adora (and everyone else by accident).

Chapter Notes

Wow, I did not expect writing to be so much work!
Anywho...enjoy!

Bright Moon is brimming with people from all over the lands to celebrate Queen Glimmers birthday. The celebrations of Glimmers birthday start from midday when her closest friends join her for a special birthday lunch where they can privately gift give the queen her presents without hundreds of eyes on them, judging their gift choices. At night the formal celebrations are held, where Glimmer will need to address the citizens in a speech. Seems completely self-serving of course, but it is however tradition and gives the people a chance to see and greet the queen.
Catra has been helping Glimmer with her speech and has been ordered by the queen to be close by when she delivers said speech, much to Catra's displeasure. All Catra wants to do is gawk at her beautiful girlfriend in a pretty dress. But this is the price of wanting to be better…apparently.

Catra and Adora arrive at the ballroom together. Catra in a suit, escorted by Adora in a matching red dress. Catra takes every opportunity to whisper sweet nothings into her girlfriend's ear, sometimes getting a cheek kiss in return. Other times a playful shove. It doesn't matter to Catra either way. This is the girl she loves and all interactions Adora has with her are nothing but loving.
Glimmer comes around with Bow in tow, "Hi guys!" He greets, "You 2 look so good!"

“Thanks Bow.” Adora says with a blush, still not comfortable with being complimented on her looks, “You guys look really good too. I love your suit Bow and Glimmer, wow, your dress is amazing.”

Glimmer beams at the praise, “Thanks Adora, Catra helped pick it out for me.”

Adora eyes Catra, Catra returns the look with a smirk, “What?”

“So, you’ll help Glimmer with her dress but not with mine?” Adora chides, “Unbelievable.”

Catra pulls Adora into her, “Adora. I already told you. You don’t need help with clothes. You look good in everything.” She leans in and whispers the next part so only Adora can hear, “And you look even better in nothing.”

Adora blushes even harder, “Catra!”

Catra cackles, “What? It’s true.”

“What is?” Bow asks looking a little confused.

“I told Adora that she…” Catra is quickly cut off by Adora’s hand over her mouth.

“Nothing!” Adora frantically tries to recover, only for Catra to snicker behind her hand.

“Exactly what I said.” Catra smugly says as Adora rolls her eyes and pulls Catra in for a kiss.

“Awe!” Bow coos, “That’s just so cute!”

Catra breaks the kiss and glares at Bow, making him turn away in embarrassment. Glimmer clears her throat and promptly grabs Catra’s elbow, “Come on Casanova!” Glimmer pulls Catra away from their friends, “I’ve got a speech to give, and you are going to be up there next to me to make sure it goes well.”

Rolling her eyes and crossing her arms, looking ever so petulant like a child, Catra huffs out, "Fine. But I'm hiding behind the curtain once your speech is over."

"Fine with me." Glimmer smirks pulling on Catra's elbow again, "As long as you're just there for me. I don't care what you do after my speech."

A cheeky grin widens on Catra's face at Glimmers last sentence. The sparkly queen too caught up in her speech doesn't even notice Catra's 'evil' scheming. Don't worry, it's not planning to murder someone good type of evil, just not what is expected of someone standing next to the queen, even if it's behind the curtain. Soon Glimmer is standing at the front of the ballroom on the 2nd floor balcony, Catra standing on the right of her, hands behind her back, looking as formal as possible. There are other dignitaries off to the side, some sitting and most standing. They all apparently also want to get their 15mins in the spotlight. To no one's surprise, Glimmer commands the room easily and smoothly goes through the formalities tied to this type of function, despite the fact it's her birthday and everyone present is here to celebrate. Before Glimmer starts on her main speech, Catra and Glimmer exchange a nod that conveys the thought of confidence and Glimmer has started reciting the speech that they had worked on for the last week.
The conclusion of Glimmers speech is met with applause and cheering as the queen waves to the crowd and Catra leads her off to the side to sit and listen to the rest of the delegates that are waiting for their moment in the limelight.
"Thank you." Glimmer whispers to Catra.

Catra looks over and nods, "You're welcome, Sparkles. You did good."

"Now we have to sit and listen to these self-important 'delegates' talk about themselves, disguised as birthday wishes for me." Glimmer whispers with an eye roll. She sees the glint in Catra's eye, "Don't you dare Catra!" Glimmer whisper yells.

“What? I’m not doing anything…” Catra whispers back with a grin, “yet.”

Before Glimmer can grab Catra to stop her from doing whatever she’s planning to do, Catra is up and moving to behind the curtain on the side of the balcony as Glimmer tries to regain composure and the pretense of listening to the other speeches being made. All she can do is shoot angry and warning eyes at Catra who has moved far away enough, snickering back at the queen and her futile attempts to stop her.
Catra scans the crowd looking for Adora. It’s not hard for her to spot, she’s off to the side of the room with the princesses, standing looking bored watching the rest of the procession. Catra like a lunatic, moves off the side and out of the balcony and starts to scale up to the next level up, much to the dismay of the current speaker and many guests. There's a few gasps and murmurs from the crowd below.

“Uh, don’t mind me.” Catra says just before she starts to climb, “Keep going with your very interesting speeches.”

Glimmer stares daggers at Catra, but then back to the speaker, “Please continue. Ignore my advisor’s antics. She’s a little… energetic…”

Catra gives Glimmer a cheeky wink and then starts to climb up to the next balcony up as Adora covers her face to hide her amusement at the queen calling her girlfriend 1, energetic and 2, an advisor. Catra catches the hint of a giggle from Adora as she makes it to the next balcony, swinging herself over the railing and catching her breath. The crowd below had stopped paying attention to the speaker as they had watched Catra climb the walls with relative ease to most people's awe. It’s at this time that Catra decides she should probably just lay low for a few minutes so the people can go back to listening to more boring speeches. So instead, she moves out of view and leans on the back wall of the balcony, biding her time.
She waits patiently as 2 more speakers droll on with their boring and monotonous self-serving speeches before she finally pops back onto the balcony. To her surprise, Adora is looking up at her. And so are many of the people from the crowd below.

"Sparkles is going to kill me…" Catra thinks to herself before she decides now is as good of a time to lighten up the mood of the party.

Catra begins by waving to Adora, waiting until the blonde finally waves back. A beaming smile on Adora's face as she sees Catra grin back and then start to wave even more wildly to the point where she's jumped on top of balcony railing and waving like a lunatic. Adora giggles at the sight of her girlfriend. Catra stops waving and winks to Adora, bowing once and then jumping back down to the balcony floor. She decides now is the best time to test out her newly acquired miming skills have been progressing thanks to a bit of help from Seahawk. As much as she hates to admit it, the pirate has grown on her and they've become thick as thieves, often getting themselves into trouble with their respective partners.

From directly above, she can't see Glimmer, so that's a good thing. No death stares. Catra takes a deep breath in and begins with the invisible box and invisible door routine. Pretending she's stuck in a box on the balcony, pushing at the 'walls' before finding that there's an invisible door right in front of her. She puts on a surprise look on her face as she 'walks' through the door. Adora is covering her laughter with her hand. She isn't laughing loud, so no one really pays her any attention…for now.
Catra bows to Adora after the first routine before getting into the second one. It's the pretend stairs routine. She goes 'down and up' the imaginary stairs a few times, pretending she's forgotten something, or she has to go retrieve something. At the end, she returns back 'up' the stairs to the balcony with a plate with a slice of cake on it. She gestures to Adora for the cake and Adora grins, beckoning her girlfriend to come down and feed her cake. Catra looks at Adora with a cheeky grin before pulling out a handkerchief from her suit jacket pocket and covering the cake and plate in her hand. Adora looks to her with a raised eyebrow as Catra removes the handkerchief from over the plate and reveals nothing but her hand. The plate and cake disappearing altogether. Adora pretends to applaud as Catra bows once again.

There's only one speaker left, so Catra has to time this just right. She leaves the 'walking against the wind' routine until last. Using her suit jacket for the effect that it's just really windy up on the balcony, she pretends that she's being pushed back, 2 steps forward, 3 steps back to the point where she is now on the edge of the balcony. Unbeknownst to anyone else, Mermista and Spineralla are helping Catra with this one, Spinneralla using her powers to push Catra back as she tries to move forward and then Mermista causing it to 'rain', drops of water falling onto Catra. Catra glances down at Adora and sees she's visibly shaking with laughter. Other people in the crowd are staring at her as she can't contain it anymore. A few others join her as well as the other princesses in the crowd that have been watching Catra's antics. Even Spineralla and Mermista are laughing as they continue to help Catra with her shenanigans. The conniving duo hiding in plain sight in the crowd, no one seems to notice them assisting in this routine. Finally, Catra is blown back onto the railing of the balcony, Spineralla and Mermista going back to their acting of obliviousness. Catra smirks at Adora as she reaches into her suit jacket again and pulls out a bouquet of flowers and holds it out to her girlfriend. As she bows, applause and cheers ring out as the last speaker finishes up. Adora applauds to Catra, facing away from the speaker on the balcony below Catra, as Glimmer gets up again to speak.

"Thank you for all those kind words." Glimmer starts, "Could the royal advisor please make her way here?"

Catra rolls her eyes. She throws the bouquet towards Adora, helped along by Spineralla floating it along to Adora's waiting arms, and then Catra swings herself back down to the balcony below. She whispers to Glimmer, "Yes?"

Glimmer smirks before turning to the crowd in front of her, "Everyone, this is my royal advisor Catra. Please join me in applause for her contributions to today's celebrations." Glimmer nudges Catra, “Oh, did I forget that I have camera’s all around for my birthday speeches?”

Catra’s face goes red as the realisation of her antics have been broadcast around the castle, “Sneaky, Glitter…” Catra mutters, “Can I go now?”

Glimmer laughs but nods as the applause and cheers continue until Catra is out of the spotlight and back next to Adora.
“Awe, I can’t believe Glimmer knew the whole time!” Adora laughingly wraps her arms around Catra, “That was just so good!”

Catra grins, shrugging off any embarrassment she may just felt now that Adora's arms are wrapped securely around her, “I’m going to kill Seahawk! I knew he was going to blab about it.”

Adora laughs again into Catra’s neck, squishing the flowers between them, “Thank you. I think Glimmer loved it as well. It’s not exactly a birthday present but I haven’t seen her laugh that hard in a while either.”

Catra rubs her cheek against Adora’s face, “Mmm, I’m not trying to impress her you know?”

“I know.” Adora says smugly before that is replaced with a sweet smile, “It’s all for me. I know.”

Day 7 - Striking a Chord

Chapter Summary

Catra and Bow bond over Bow's guitar.
Or Catra makes fun of Bow's guitar skills.

Chapter Notes

Woah, it's been a whole week of fluff.
Long and short fluff.
Only a few more days left of this fluff...

“Bow?” Catra asks holding the guitar in her hand, “Are you sure you know how to play this?”

Bow gives Catra an affronted look, “Of course I do!” he snatches the guitar out of Catra’s hands and strums a chord (badly) before his face drops, “No, no I don’t know. I thought I could just wing it.”

Catra snorts back a laugh, “Sorry buddy!” she says trying to stop herself from laughing harder, “How did you plan to serenade Glitter if you can’t even play the darn thing?”

“I don’t know!” Bow whines, “What about you? Do you know how to play it?”

Catra takes the guitar back and eyes it, “I've seen other people use this before. Can’t be that hard, right?”

Bow collapses back onto the couch, “It’s hard. Harder than making my trick arrows!”

“Do you know any…what do you call it, places to put your fingers on the strings?” Catra tries to move her fingers around the neck of the guitar, concentrating really hard on not letting her claws scratch at the instrument.

“They’re called chords. And yeah, I know the names of the chords and where they go.” Bow reaches out and show Catra a few chords that he knows, “I just can’t get my fingers to press the right ones well enough to make it sound good.”

Catra presses her fingers on a few strings and strums one of the chords. Bow’s eyes light up with the sound of a clean chord being played, “Oh man!” he whines again, “That sounds so much better than when I tried to play it before.”

Catra chuckles at his reaction before she asks, “Can I borrow this?”

Bow looks at Catra, a little sad that he has been practicing for months now and can barely string together enough chords to make a good sound, yet Catra has picked it up relatively quickly. Instead, his demeanor changes and he looks at Catra with admiration, “Catra, I want you to have this.”

“Uh, what?” Catra asks holding the guitar in her hand loosely, “I don’t want to take this from you. I’m just happy to borrow it for now if that’s alright.”

Bow defeated sighs, “No, I don’t think I can play it as well as you can.”

“Dude,” Catra tries to comfort, “It’s not about who’s better. I’m sure you’ll get the hang of this soon. But thanks for showing me some of the chords though.”

Bow lights up, “You’re welcome Catra!” he smiles widely at her, she half expects him to hug her but he doesn’t, instead he sits back and relaxes with his hands behind his head, “You can borrow it for as long as you like.”

With that, Catra stands up, guitar in her hand and nods to Bow, “Thanks. I’ll have it back to you before you know it.” She then swings the guitar over her shoulder by the strap and steps out onto the balcony.

“Hey! Where are you going?”

“Rooftop.” Catra replies simply. Seeing that Bow expects more than that, she elaborates, “I just want some privacy, if that okay?”

Bow nods and Catra climbs up to the castle roof to tinker around with her newly borrowed toy.

Catra and Adora have just finished dinner and head back to the room. Adora goes inside their bedroom first before stopping in her footsteps when she sees the set up in the middle of the room. Catra smirks as she closes the door. It was exactly the reaction she was after. She'd set the room up before dinner so she could serenade Adora with a song she had just written and learned to play. She’s moved the cushions off the couches and formed a pile of pillows in the middle of the room with the guitar tucked in securely amongst them.
“What is this Catra?” Adora whispers, almost afraid to shatter the moment.

Catra chuckles, “Bow showed me how to use a guitar. So, I thought I’d play for you.”

Adora has hearts in her eyes as she pulls Catra in for a kiss. Catra smiles into the kiss as she leads Adora to the pile of pillows on the floor and reluctantly breaks the kiss so she can get set up to play for her biggest fan.
“When did you even have time to learn this thing?” Adora gestures to the guitar, “Bow’s been trying for ages and he still… well, please don’t tell him this.” Catra nods as Adora continues, “He’s kind of terrible at it.”

Catra laughs at that statement, “It’s true. But he tries so hard though.” Adora smiles knowing her secret is safe, “Don’t worry princess. He is very aware. But I won’t tell him what you really think.”

Adora snorts, “You better not!”

Catra leans in and kisses Adora on her lips, “I won’t.” Adora licks her lips after the kiss, “Now, are you ready to swoon over me?”

Adora laughs sweetly at Catra being cocky, she nods, “Of course. I can’t wait.”

Catra picks up the guitar and starts playing a few chords. This is just a bit of an intro before she finds it in herself to actually sing to Adora. She breathes in a few grounding breaths, looking into Adora’s reassuring eyes before she starts to sing.

(For those of you that don’t know this song, it’s called For You To Notice by Dashboard Confessional)

I’m starting to fashion an idea in my head
Where I would impress you
With every word I said
Would come out insightful, brave, smooth or charming
And you’d want to call me
And I would be there every time
You’d need me
I’d be there every time
But for now I’ll look so longingly waiting
For you to want me, for you to need me, for you to notice me

She finishes the song and looks up to Adora with hearts in her eyes for Catra. Catra gives Adora a lopsided smile as Adora pulls her back in for more kisses.
“That was amazing Catra!” Adora praises, “I loved it.”

“Thanks princess.” Catra replies, “Don’t tell Bow though. I don’t want him to get jealous.”

Adora throws her head back and laughs wholeheartedly, “Oh, Catra. He’s got nothing on you!”

Day 8 - Game On!

Chapter Summary

Adora and Catra are invited to game night with Spinerella and Netossa

Chapter Notes

Woah! Day 8 already...
2 more days left... think I'm getting fluffed out.
Thanks for reading!
And as always, enjoy!

Catra fidgets with her new jacket as Adora knocks on the door of Spinerella and Netossa's house.
"You look fine!" Adora reassures Catra about the new jacket that Entrapta gave to her a few days ago, "Stop fidgeting, they aren't going to care. They like you, remember that."

Catra breathes out, "I know." She lets her hand slip into Adora's, "Sorry. I've just never been to a game night before."

Adora chuckles at Catra's admission, it's not exactly like she didn't know but it's cute that Catra is feeling nervous about something that's supposed to be relaxing and fun. Instead, she kisses Catra on the forehead, "Don't worry. It'll be fun. And if it's not, we can go. Alright?"

Catra nods, "Yeah, okay." She leans against Adora's head, "But don't leave because of me. I don't want you to hold yourself back from having a good time because of me."

"Catra." Adora sighs, "If you aren't having a good time, then I won't be either. Okay? Just, give this a chance? For me?"

"Yeah, alright." Catra nods with a small smile.

The door swings open, “Finally!” Netossa greets, “Took you two long enough!”

“Dear, leave them alone.” Spineralla scolds her wife, “At least until they come inside.”

The older women step aside and gesture for Catra and Adora to go inside. Adora takes her boots off as Catra wipes her feet on the mat in the doorway, taking off their jackets and handing it to Spineralla eagerly waiting to hang them up. Netossa leads them into a larger room further inside their house that is set up with chairs around a round table.
“What are we playing?” Adora asks taking a seat on one of the chairs while Catra sits next to her, “I haven’t been to a game night before.”

Catra’s eyes go wide as she stage whispers to Adora, “What do you mean you haven’t been to a game night before?!”

Spineralla giggles at Catra and Adora’s not so subtle whispers, “Don’t worry you two. We're just playing some card games tonight. Nothing too crazy. It’s just supposed to be fun.”

Netossa and Spineralla both sit down at the table, Netossa bringing a box up to the table. “This game is called Deciding.” Netossa explains the rules of the game while pulling out cards, some dice and some paper with a few pencils to write on. She adds, “Just so you know, I do get a little bit competitive when it comes to this game. Just a warning.”

Catra and Adora look at each other, concern on their faces.

It turns out Catra is actually really good at the game. It’s a strategic game that requires each player to decide which player to steal from and which player to give to. Basically forming alliances and enemies that can change on a whim. The goal is to be the last player with the highest attacking cards left. Catra had teamed up with Spineralla to defeat Netossa. It was hard not to laugh when Netossa had realised her mistake of trusting her wife in this game and the look on her face was priceless. Adora had tried to do things on her own, only to be targeted by both Catra and Spineralla. So now it was just down to the unlikely alliance of Catra and Spineralla, both holding 3 cards each.

“Well, it seems you are quite the opponent.” Spineralla states trying to distract Catra, “But can you defeat me?”

Catra raises and eyebrow, grinning with a fang poking out, “What can I say? Beginners luck perhaps?”

Adora snickers at the banter. Netossa rolls her eyes at the terrible banter, “You two are horrible at the trash talking.”

Adora and Spinerella giggle at Netossa's frustration of being the first one out of the game. Spineralla turns to her wife, “Sorry love, but you know I’m not good at it.”

“Playing innocent huh?” Catra counters, “And here I thought Adora had a knack for that.”

“Hey!” Adora protests, shoving Catra’s shoulder making her cackle, “I am innocent!”

Catra laughs harder as Adora shoves her again trying to get her into a headlock that Catra quickly ducks out of the way of, “Okay! Okay!” Catra grins, “Fine, you are very innocent!”

Adora sits back down, crosses her arms and nods in agreement as Spineralla and Netossa laugh at their antics. “Thank you.” Adora finally acknowledges, a smile on her face as she tries to be serious.

Catra turns back to the game, “So Spinny. Are you going to play a card?”

Spineralla smirks at Catra, Netossa mirrors the look as she peeks over to look at her wife’s cards, “I think I have this love.” Spineralla confidently says to her wife as she plays her last 3 cards.

Catra’s eyes go wide, a look of shock on her face as she sees the cards on the table. There’s a brief moment of silence as Catra looks stunned. Adora finally speaks up, “Catra? Are you okay?”

Netossa and Spineralla both looking very smug, staring at Catra’s reaction, “Think that’s us for the win kid!” Netossa proudly announces.

“Oh?” Spineralla says pretending to be confused, “So now we’re a team?”

Netossa rolls her eyes, “Of course dear. Your win is my win.”

As the two wives continue to banter and speak affectionately to each other, Catra plays her cards and slaps the last card on the pile with a smirk. “Sorry ladies.” Catra says standing up, “But I believe I won.”

The other three of them look down at the cards Catra has just put down on the table. Netossa and Spineralla are stunned as they realise that Spineralla has lost. Her last 2 cards have no impact against Catra's and thus ending the game. Adora looks up to Catra in shock. Then out of nowhere she bursts out laughing upon realisation that Catra had just bluffed her way throughout the entire game until the end. Holding onto the last 3 cards that mattered when everyone thought they were still in the deck. “Unbelievable!” Adora manages to get out once her laughter subsides, “How? How did you manage to keep those cards to yourself?”

Catra wraps an arm around Adora’s shoulder, “See, this is why I defeated you so many times back then.”

Adora snorts back a laugh, “Uh, you never defeated me.”

A smirk on Catra’s face, “Sure, Adora.”

“You didn’t!” Adora protests, “Tell me one time when you did!”

Catra leans into Adora's ear, "How about I show you when we get back to our bed?"

Adora's face goes red before she giggles nervously, whispering back to Catra, "I can't wait."

Now it's Catra's turn to go red as Adora laughs harder at the reaction she just elicited from her girlfriend. Catra clears her throat as she stands, "Thanks for having us over guys. It was a lot of fun. But Adora and I have to go now…"

A wicked grin on Catra's face makes Adora blush again, "Yes! Thank you so much for having us over! I can't wait for the next one." Adora quickly gets up and grabs Catra by the hand dragging her to the door, "But I think it's time for us to get going." She does a fake yawn as Spineralla hands their jackets back and Netossa opens the door for them.

Catra steps out first with Adora following closely and excitedly behind before they hear Netossa clear her throat, "Ahem."

Adora turns quickly, "Hm?"

"Forget something?" Netossa says with a smirk.

"Uh, no?" Adora answers patting down her jacket, "I don't think so."

Netossa rolls her eyes before gesturing to Adora's boots. Catra laughs loudly as Adora does the walk of shame back to put her boots back on. Before softly thanking Netossa and Spineralla again and running towards Catra.
"Hey lovebirds!" Spineralla yells after them, "Try to keep the noise down. Glimmer is still reeling from the other night of you two being so noisy!"

Catra grins as Adora tries to shrink back into herself. Catra yells back, much to Adora's dismay, "No promises!"

Day 9 - To Adventure!

Chapter Summary

It's time to set sail with the sea princess and her pirate.
Will it be smooth sailing for Adora and Catra who have joined them for the day?

Chapter Notes

Got them day 9 feels...
Only 1 day left after this...
Anyways...I hope this chapter is just as fluffy. Or watery. Or blazing.
Thanks for reading this fluff!
Enjoy!

"Welcome aboard!" Seahawk greets, while Mermista rolls her eyes, "It is an honour to have such good friends to join me and my dearest Mermista on a new adventure!"

"Seahawk! Calm down. You're going to scare them off." Mermista scolds the pirate, "Just promise you won't set this boat on fire while we are still on it."

Seahawk quickly pecks Mermista on the lips, quickly muttering, "No promises!" before promptly walking away.

Mermista groans. "You guys can swim right?"

"Not my favourite thing in the world, but yeah. I can if I have to." Catra responds with a smirk, "Adora's floats pretty well too."

Adora giggles and playfully nudges Catra who grins back at her like an idiot.
Mermista groans again, "Can you guys knock that off? I get it, you guys are in love or whatever."

"Where are we going anyways?" Adora asks.

As Seahawk unties the rope anchoring the boat to the pier, he answers, “We are going to pick up Bow and Queen Glimmer from one of the small holiday islands not too far from here.”

“Sounds romantic.” Catra says turning to Adora, “Though, I’ve done the whole being stuck on an island thing and it is definitely not romantic.”

“That’s because you were there alone.” Adora rolls her eyes, “I mean it could be nice? Together.”

They finally set sail, Seahawk and Mermista chatting happily away as Catra and Adora lean against the side of the boat, looking out at the water watching the land get further and further away. The wind picks up and the boat starts to move faster in the water, the waves splashing up harder against the boat. A rogue wave splashes up, making Catra yelp and jump back suddenly as Adora giggles next to her.
“Oh, you think that’s funny huh?” Catra asks with her hands on her hips.

Adora nods whilst still giggling, “You’re going to get wet Catra. We are on a boat after all.”

Catra looks up and see’s the crow’s nest on top of the mast. She looks around and thinks it’s perfect. She winks at Adora and without a word starts climbing up the main mast up to the crow’s nest. Perching herself on top and looking out over the boat and endless ocean. She looks down at Adora who is staring up at her, hand over the top of her forehead, trying to shield the sun glare. Catra calls down, “Think I’m going to be pretty dry from up her princess!”

Catra catches a grin from Adora, “Oh no you don’t! You can’t stay up there the whole time!”

“Yes I can!” Catra teases, “What are you going to do about it?”

Adora looks around, thinking of the best way to climb up. She eventually settles on going up the rope ladder on the side of the mast. The ladder doesn't look too safe, but when Adora's determined, well she's going to overlook things like safety.
"Uh, princess? Are you sure you want to climb that?" Catra asks a little worried.

"What? Think I can't get up there?" Adora grunts as she continues to climb the rope ladder, "This thing is hard!"

Catra scoffs, "It's about the same as climbing a rope Adora, you know, like in the obstacle course?"

"Shut up!" Adora grunts again whilst Catra starts gathering some rope in her hand, "I hate the obstacle course!"

Catra chuckles, "I know." Catra ties the end of her rope to the bottom of the crow's nest, "But, I had to learn to take a hit or 5… so, suck it up, princess!"

Adora continues to struggle up the ladder as Catra watches on. Mermista and Seahawk come back out and Mermista's eyes widen, "What are you 2 doing?"

Catra chuckles again, "I'm getting out of the way of the waves and Adora's trying to come up to pull me back down." Catra answers as Adora continues to struggle up, teasingly Catra adds, "That's if she even makes it up."
Mermista rolls her eyes whilst Seahawk cheers Adora on.

"You know I can send the waves up to get you from anywhere?" Mermista says with a smug look on her face, "I am the princess of the sea, after all."

"I am well aware, sea princess!" Catra yells down, "Don't forget I'm covered in fur. And as I recall, you don't particularly like the smell of damp fur!"

"Mm, true." Mermista agrees, dropping her smug look, "Sorry Adora, you're on your own for this one."

Adora just huffs. Catra still has the rope clutched in her hand waiting for Adora.
"Nearly…there…" Adora grunts again, she's about 2 metres away from the perch Catra is on when the ladder snaps, "Woah!" Adora screams as she starts to fall.

Springing quickly into action, Catra swings down on her rope and manages to catch Adora mid-air as Mermista yawns, flicking her wrist and catching the both of them in a watery net before dropping them both safely into the water with a large splash. They both pop up onto the water's surface, Catra with a relieved look on her face and Adora smiles sheepishly.
Mermista flicks her wrist again and the waves sweep the pair back into the boat, plopping them onto the deck soaking wet.
Adora looks at a very drenched Catra and starts laughing.
Catra crosses her arms over her chest, "What's so funny?"

"I told you, you'd get wet!" Adora snorts.

"Mm, yeah Catra." Mermista smirks, "You should have definitely expected that."

Catra gets up, pulling Adora up with her, "Yeah?"

Adora nods whilst giggling more, Mermista still has a smug look on her face as she adds, "What's the matter Catra, afraid of a little bit of water?"

Catra grins wickedly at Adora and Mermista, grabbing each of their wrists in hers as she begins to shake her fur out. Water droplets fly all over the other 2 as Catra dries off her fur as quick as she can while holding on tight to the 2 princesses who are shrieking loudly as water droplets hit them.
"Ugh!" Mermista groans as she wipes her face of water, "That was uncalled for!"

Adora wipes her face too, "Catra!"

Catra grins as Mermista's glares daggers at her, the sea princess raises her arms as Catra quickly ducks behind Seahawk who takes the full brunt of Mermista's watery attack. He stands there stunned, unmoving as Mermista groans again, "Seahawk! Move!"

Catra shadows Seahawks movement, evading all of Mermista's attack as Adora watches on laughing at Catra's wiliness whilst getting Seahawk drenched and Mermista more frustrated. Eventually Mermista has had enough of Seahawk and picks him up with a watery net and moves him to the other side of the boat leaving Catra exposed.
"Uh, let's not get too hasty…" Catra surrenders, her hands up.

Mermista smirks, "Sorry Catra." With a flick of her wrist, Catra is swept up and dumped back in the ocean, before being swept back up and plonked back onto the boats deck. "That'll teach you."

Catra crawls over to Seahawk, sitting next to him against the side of the boat, "The sea princess is harsh." He nods with a smile, "I like her. Reckon she'll be angry if I do it again?"

Seahawk grins, "Well, there's only one way to find out my dear sea-cat."

"Don't call me that." Catra quips, nudging the pirate, she looks over at Adora who's currently laughing with Mermista and looking over at Catra, "I think that's my cue to shake out my fur over your princess and mine." A mischievous grin on her face as she gets up and walks over casually to the 2 unexpecting princesses.

"To adventure!" Seahawk proclaims loudly as there's another loud shriek as Catra shakes off again, wetting the 2 princesses again.

No one is dry by the time they pick up a very confused looking Bow and Glimmer.

Day 10 - King For A Day

Chapter Summary

Final Chapter - Final Day of the Bet!
The children from the town Catra and Adora visited on Day 1 come for a visit.

Does Catra win this bet?
Or does Glimmer sabotage it somehow?

Chapter Notes

Oh wow, Day 10 = Last chapter!
Big finish? I don't know...maybe?
Thanks for reading, the kudos and the comments!

"Wildcat!" Scorpia calls from across the room, Perfuma hanging off her arm, "I've been looking all over for you!"

Catra turns, "Oh, hey Scorp. What's up?"

Behind Scorpia a group of 6 children stand in 2 straight lines. Scorpia just beams, "Do you remember them?"

Catra raises an eye at the children, before she turns back to her friend, "Of course I do." She then turns to the children that she met about a week ago in the town just outside of Bright Moon, "And what say you brave souls?"

In unison and to the complete surprise of Scorpia and Perfuma the children greet with a salute, "King Catra!"

"King Catra?" Perfuma asks with a raised eyebrow.

Catra laughs at her friend's confusion before turning back to the children, "At ease." The children relax a bit, smiles on their faces as Catra walks around them ‘inspecting’ them. “Now, I hope I can trust you to ensure everyone that refers to me, addresses me as such?”

The children all nod with bright smiles reply, “Yes, King Catra!”

Catra grins wider, she turns to her friends who look absolutely dumbfounded, “Now my loyal guards, I believe you have already failed your mission already.” The children look confused, “You see, you did not correct Scorpia before when she did not address me as King.”

The children all look away embarrassed, “We are sorry King Catra.” One of the children speak, “It will not happen again.”

Catra turns on her heel, “All is forgiven this time." She waves her hand flippantly. "But no more messing up. Okay?”

The smiles return to their faces as they nod in acknowledgement, “Yes King Catra.”

“Oh, and do we remember what happens if they refuse to call me King?” Catra asks, a smirk on her face as the children all nod again, “Great! Ok, well you are free to go. See me in the mess hall in an hour. And don’t forget the box.”

The children salute again before heading over to join Perfuma and Scorpia to go back to the gardens where Perfuma is teaching them about plants and horticulture. Well, more like letting the children run around and climb the trees with Perfuma and Scorpia there to make sure they have soft landings if they fall.

Catra is sitting in the mess hall with Bow and Entrapta, enjoying the food and the conversation with her friends when the door opens suddenly and a very tired looking Perfuma and Scorpia walk in, the children still in tow.
“Oh, hey guys!” Bow coos at the children, whilst sort of addressing his friends, “You guys hungry?”

The children look to Catra for guidance and Catra nods. “Yes sir!”

“Sir?” Bow says amused, “Go ahead guys, grab whatever you want from over there on the table.”

Perfuma and Scorpia plonk themselves on the couch, foregoing food and promptly falling asleep.
Catra turns to the children and smiles, “You guys tired them out, huh?”

They all turn, with mouths full of food as they all try to smile back nodding.
“Catra…?” Bow asks quietly, “What’s going on?”

One of the kids quickly swallows the food in their mouths, “That’s King Catra, sir!”

Bow gives off an awkward laugh before whispering back to Catra, “What?”

Entrapta chooses this time to pipe up, “I think the children would like you to address her as King Catra.”

Bow catches on fairly quickly, being the lovable guy he is, he plays along, “Of course. My apologies King Catra. I should not be so informal.”

The children all go back to eating once that has been remedied. Glimmer saunters in not long after and sighing. “What’s wrong, Sparkles?” Catra asks.

“Ugh! People are so dumb!” Glimmer grunts, “Seriously. How is it my problem if the weather isn’t giving them enough rain or enough sun. It’s not like I can control the weather!”

Catra chuckles as one of the children comes up to them, “King Catra.” They start, Glimmer looking confused as Bow keeps a neutral face, “Are you and Queen Glimmer together?”

The look of horror on Glimmer's face makes Catra laugh out loud, Glimmer just huffs as Catra calms down before answering, "No, we are not together. Queen Glimmer here is with Sir Bow."

The child nods, "Do you have a queen, King Catra?"

Glimmer raises an amused eye at Catra. "Yeah, King Catra." Glimmer teases, "Do you have a queen of your own?"

Catra ignores Glimmer, instead she crouches down to be eye level with the child as she answers, "No, I do not have a queen. I am currently with a princess though." A smirk on her face when she says it. At that very moment Adora walks in yawning while stretching out her arms. Catra looks up and grins, pointing to Adora, "There's my princess."

The children all turn around as Adora joins Catra, standing by her side once Catra is upright again, "Hey. Oh, hi kids." Adora greets rubbing her eyes and yawning again.

Catra kisses Adora chastely on the lips, "How was your nap princess?"

"Mm, it was good." Adora smiles as she kisses Catra again.

"Princess Adora?" Another child asks.

"Yes?"

"Would you become a Queen if King Catra married you?" the child asks innocently enough.

The look of shock on Adora's face is priceless, becoming a stuttering mess at the thought, all the while Catra cackles next to her. Eventually words come out of Adora mouth, "Uh, I mean, I love Catra and uh, well, we haven't really talked about, well…"

The children all stop, "Princess Adora?"

Adora stops her rambling, "Yes?"

“I think you mean King Catra.” One of the children says matter-of-factly.

Adora looks at Catra who is smirking, “Uh, ok. Catra?”

“King Catra!” the children shout, surprising everyone in the room.

Adora chuckles nervously, before turning to Catra and softly telling her, “I am not calling you that.”

Catra sighs, “I am really disappointed in you princess.” As she gets up to stand behind the children, “Unfortunately, the punishment for your lack of respect will be dispensed by my royal guards here.”

“Catra…?” Adora starts moving backwards, “Call off your…royal guards…”

“Sorry princess.” Catra grins, “You’ll need address me by my correct title before I can do that.”

“I’m not calling you King.” Adora says smiling, “No matter what your guards to do me.”

“Oh, Adora.” Catra steps back, “I’m sorry, but orders are orders.”

The children all close in on Adora, “Charge!” The children all pounce on Adora making her laugh as she falls onto the couch, laying on top of Scorpia and Perfuma who wake up instantly as the children pile on Adora tickling her.

“Okay! Okay!” Adora squeals with laughter, “I’m sorry! I’ll call you…King...”

The children all jump off, but don’t back off yet. Adora gives them a questioning look as one of the children speaks up, “Apologies Princess Adora, but we cannot leave you alone until you have addressed King Catra accordingly.”

Everyone in the room looks at Adora, smiles on their faces to see what she'll do. Adora crosses her arms in front of her before speaking, "I'm sorry for addressing you incorrectly your majesty." Her tone mocking, much to Catra's delight, "But as your princess, I would have thought you would have a little more respect for me than to set your guards on me."

Catra walks over, pulling Adora in by the waist, "Come on Princess Adora." A sly smile on her lips, "Just today. Make me king for a day and I'll make you my queen for life."

Adora rolls her eyes as she says softly, "Fine." Clearing her throat and saying louder, "I love you, King Catra."

Everyone in the room laughs at Adora's declaration as Catra pulls Adora in for a longer kiss when one of the children nudges Adora on the thigh, "Oh hey." She bends down, "What have you got?"

The child smiles, clutching a small box in their hand and taps Catra thigh. Adora stands back up again as Catra bends down onto one knee to speak to the child, she whispers something in the child's ear as the child hands her the box and returns to the group. Adora looks down at Catra, perched on one knee in front of her with a small box in her hand and grin on her face. The rest of their friends all breathe in, waiting with bated breath.
"Hey Adora." Catra rasps out a little more nervous than she wanted it to come out, she opens the small box revealing a simple silver ring, "Would you be the queen to my king?"

Adora half laughs and half cries, emotions all over the place. This is definitely not what she was expecting but had always been what she wanted. She looks into Catra's eyes, before she starts crying as she manages a happy "Yes!".

Adora pulls Catra up into her arms, wrapping her up tight as they kiss. Everyone else in the room cheers as the children throw streamers they had hidden in their pockets. Catra kisses Adora one more time, "Oh, just so you know… I'm only King when the children are here."

Adora laughs, “Well, then that makes you King of the children.”

“And that makes you Queen of the children.” Catra grins, “Since Sparkles here is the real Queen the rest of the time and dealing with such... important issues."

Glimmer shoots Catra a playful glare as she crosses her arms in front of her, "I'll let that one go, this time."

Catra grins wider, “Oh Sparkles, I believe you owe us dinner!”
