(tell me) what you want

by sunstardust_

Summary

"The morning you fixed the cabinet." Catra answers the unspoken question, "I didn't know you were still here. If you hadn't dropped your tools, I probably wouldn't have even realized. I was so desperate, and it felt so good. I was scared you could smell it on me when I got up. I think about what would have happened if you had walked in all the time."

Adora moves before Catra can stop her again, lunging forward and pressing an insistent kiss to her lips. Catra welcomes her desperately, arching to push their bodies together and returning her kiss with fervor. Adora's hands skim frantically up and down her body, feeling up every inch they can find, and Catra gifts her efforts with a whimpering mewl.

Catra breaks the kiss, but Adora isn't anywhere near satisfied, so she offers her hungry kisses to Catra's neck instead. When Catra speaks, she feels it in her teeth.

"Can I show you?" she breathes, voice shaking, and Adora will never be able to tell her no.

"Yes, yes, yes," Adora bites against her skin, dragging their bodies together before forcing herself to lift off Catra enough for her to move.

Adora and Catra both have confessions to make.

Notes

Here is the second extra for the bite down (into me) universe! This one also takes place between Chapters 14 and 15 in the main story, but after the smutty jacket adventures.

This one was not originally in my plan of extras, but the number of comments on the main story have far surpassed anything I ever expected, and I wanted to do something fun to celebrate with you all and show my appreciation. Thank you thank you THANK YOU

See the end of the work for more notes

Catra's face swims into her vision, grin devilish and eyes glittering. She feels her body press against the length of hers, warm and soft, and Adora tightens her hold over her, keeping her close.

"Do you like that?" Catra leans in and asks, low and husky. Adora knows the answer is yes before she's even finished the question: she likes Catra, every part of her, and everything she does. "Do you like feeling me against you?"

Adora nods, shifting slightly just to feel Catra brush against her chest again.

The sharp edge of Catra's mouth quirks up, and Adora feels pressure on the back of her neck. It wraps around and gently cinches against the sides of her neck, and then there's a light touch to the front of her neck, too.

"I don't know things unless you tell me, Adora," Catra sings, easing the pressure back up. She shakes her hand gently, and Adora hears the metal clasp rattle in its ring, feels the leather leash brush over her chest. She swallows against the collar around her neck, and a shaky, thrilling pleasure runs through her as Catra gives her order.

"Use your words."

"I love it," she says instantly, the collar snug against the vibration of her throat. It makes everything more intense, full of sensation and possession, and knowing the leash is twisted around Catra's hand is everything she needs to surrender to the feeling.

"Do you love me?" Catra asks, leaning in until their noses brush.

Adora leans forward to meet her, seeking out her lips to show her how she loves her with the ferocity that words can't capture, but Catra pulls back before she can reach her.

That's not what she wants.

So Adora answers her, voice desperate and her entire body aching with the need for Catra to understand how she feels. "I love you so much."

And she does. She has. She will.

Catra meets her then, with soft lips and a sharp tongue, and Adora tries to swallow her whole.

But she pulls away too soon, shifting her whole body back so they're no longer touching at all.

Adora whines with the loss, she can't help it, but then Catra smiles and it's kind. She feels her hands on her legs, her hands guiding her legs apart, but her body stays just out of reach.

"I want to see you," she says, rubbing soothing circles into her knees. "I want to watch. Will you show me?"

But heat shoots down Adora's spine, filled with the desire to come and the desire to please, and she nods. She would do anything Catra asked, and pleasing herself is easy enough.

"Yes," she answers, carving a hand down her body and nestling it in the space between her legs. "I'll show you."

She starts to move, pushing her fingers into her wetness and then dragging it back up, pushing her hips against it. She grinds into her hand, wishing it was Catra's, getting off on knowing it might become hers if she's good enough. She feels the friction blossom through her body, granting her access to the pleasure that's been filling her to the brim, and she groans.

Catra likes it when she's loud, prefers it when she doesn't hold back, but this time her groan is met with silence. She grinds again, whines this time, and then there comes a giggle.

Adora looks up, but Catra isn't there anymore;the whole of her vanished. Adora swallows and feels nothing, no pressure against her neck at all. The friction between her legs is still there, still willing, but everything else has disappeared.

A cold shock of fear shoots through Adora's system, and her eyes snap open.

Light blinds her, a warm afternoon glow that would have been magical at any other time jolting her system after the deep darkness she'd been seeing behind her eyelids. She winces and stirs, coming out of her dream, and suddenly discovers several things at once.

She is not in her bed.

She is in Catra's.

She is not alone in Catra's bed.

Catra is with her.

She is curled around Catra, one arm tight under her breasts and one leg thrown over her waist, hips tilted snugly against Catra's ass.

She is very, very wet.

Adora stills like death, an icy, sinking feeling flooding her limbs.

Catra giggles again, the same one from her dream. She must have giggled out loud before Adora woke up. "That felt like a good dream," Catra's voice, quiet with sleep and muffled by her pillow, floats up to her. "I hope I was in it."

Adora's heart stops completely, freezing in her chest as Catra's words thunder through her head. The dream rewinds behind her eyes, her hands moving against her own body, and she realizes she must have been moving in real life, too.

She must have been fucking herself against Catra.

She scoots back from her like she's contagious, like her skin is on fire, like she might hurt Catra if she touches her for even a second more. The apologies spill out of her mouth before she can even think of them, automatic and urgent, as she rolls away desperately.

"I'm sorry, fuck, I'm so sorry. I didn't realize; I'm sorry—"

She sits up quickly, the rush of her own scent on the air as she moves, sending her stomach sinking through the ground. Catra must be furious with her. She's furious with herself. She never would have let herself dream about that if she'd known what it would make her body do in real life.

The sheets rustle next to her, and Catra sits up, too, leaning around her to catch her eye. "Whoa, hey, what's happening?" She sounds like she's talking to a startled animal. "What are you sorry for? I was just teasing you."

Adora catches her eye for a second before turning her face away — Catra's expression is open and soft and so, so sleepy, and it's too much to look at right now. "I didn't realize I was touching you. I didn't mean to; I'm so sorry," she continues to ramble, gut churning.

A warm hand slips over her arm, and the ice underneath her skin immediately begins to crack and melt. "You don't need to apologize," Catra says softly, shifting even closer to try and catch her eye again. "I'm not mad—honestly, it was kind of hot to wake up to. I'd only be mad if you were having a wet dream about someone that isn't me."

Adora turns to her, cold fear very slowly warming into disbelieving doubt, and looks down at Catra's hand over her skin.

Catra sees her line of sight and reaches out her other hand, too, smoothing them up and back down both of Adora's arms. It helps, the warm reassurance that she's still here, still wants to be near her and touch her after that easing her embarrassment.

"I'm serious," Catra continues. "Imagine you were me. How would you feel waking up to me grinding against you and whining in my sleep?"

Adora obediently tries to picture it: being pulled from sleep to find Catra moving against her, satiating herself while fully asleep. Using her to get off, choosing her even when she's unaware of the choice, and taking what she needs from her.

It makes her core buzz and her stomach swoop, and she thinks it would send her head spinning in the best way if it ever happened. But that's her – they both know Adora loves things like that, but it's not always Catra's preference.

"We've never talked about it," she points out, frowning. "I did it without asking."

"You were asleep," Catra rolls her eyes, "it's not like you did it maliciously. And for the record, it's perfectly fine in the future. I like knowing you're thinking of me even when you're not awake."

She smirks playfully, and Adora nods, quelling her body's lingering fear and doubt. She reaches for Catra's hand, which Catra gives to her, wrapping their fingers together tightly.

"You were thinking about me, right? What were we doing that had you so worked up?"

Embarrassment flushes over Adora's face immediately, and she turns away in an attempt to hide it. "Yeah, uh," she swallows, trying desperately to calm her shaking voice. "Yes, it was about you. Us."

The fantasy feeling of the collar on her neck returns, pressure surrounding her as she surrenders to Catra's will, and the declarations of devotion she'd made so openly fill her ears.

Her skin feels like it's burning as she recalls it all, trying to think of some way, any way, to recount it to Catra without actually having to say what happened.

Thankfully, Catra saves her before she has to.

"You don't have to tell me if you don't want to," she offers, thumb tickling over Adora's knuckles. "Not now, at least. I'd love to know, but." She drifts off, eyes flicking back down to the mattress beside them. She looks at the spot where they'd been sleeping together for a long moment, gears turning in her head, and then she looks back at Adora with mischief in her eyes. "I could tell you something first if you want."

Adora looks back at the bed—the sheets are rumpled, but nothing else is unique about the spot they'd lain in. "Tell me what?" she asks, curiosity growing as her blush finally begins to fade.

"A secret fantasy. Not exactly a dream, but it's something I've thought a lot about. Do you want to hear it?"

Adora nods, curiosity turning into excitement, and then Dream-Catra's voice floats through her head. Beyond.

"Yeah, I do."

Catra grins and leans back, laying down and tugging Adora with her. Adora turns but stays sitting, tucking her legs against Catra's so they're touching. Catra nestles against her and then pulls her hands closer, twisting them between both of hers and examining her fingers.

"I used to fuck myself in this spot," she confesses quietly, and Adora's brain short-circuits.

Everything except the feeling of Catra's hands dancing over hers and the sight of her eyes burning right into her soul ceases to exist.

"Every time you stayed over, you slept on this side," she continues, pulling her plush bottom lip into her mouth and biting it gently. "It smelled so much like you, I couldn't help myself. It drove me crazy."

Adora nods dumbly, knowing how the memories and the smell of sleeping in Catra's bed had haunted her whenever she was alone for the months between her fourth moon and getting her change. Learning that Catra had felt the same and acted on it, right where she had slept, makes her feel dizzy with desire.

"I would lay face down and just breathe you in, touching myself and wishing it was you."

Catra's words grow quieter towards the end, and Adora needs to touch her. She needs to make up for lost time. She needs to quell any fears Catra might still have that Adora didn't want her the whole time she knew her.

Adora reaches for her hips, and Catra's hands follow her, falling over her fingers as they dig into the skin just under the hem of her sleep shirt. Adora shifts, trying to get up and straddle her, but Catra grabs her forearm and stops her.

"Wait—I'm not done."

Adora's hands tighten on their own accord, but she forces herself to sit back down, eyes scouring Catra's body desperately. She's so beautiful, half-dressed and gently flushed. Adora wants to kiss her until neither of them can breathe.

"I..." Catra swallows, her eyes falling shyly from Adora's face to her arms, and she starts tracing patterns up them with her claws. It sends shivers down Adora's spine, and she needs to hear what she has to say. "I almost did it oncewhen you were here."

The words hit Adora's ears and fill her head with soft static, a confusing dizzying feeling that doesn't feel real. When she was here?

The morning you fixed the cabinet.” Catra answers the unspoken question, “I didn’t know you were still here. If you hadn’t dropped your tools, I probably wouldn’t have even realized. I was so desperate, and it felt so good. I was scared you could smell it on me when I got up. I think about what would have happened if you had walked in all the time.”

Adora feels like she is floating somewhere outside of her body. She remembers that morning, remembers forcing herself out of bed after laying awake beside Catra’s sleeping form for too long, indulging in too many simple pleasures she didn’t think she deserved. Setting to work on the cabinet to pay Catra back for the insurmountable kindness she’d shown her, just the start of paying off her debt. She remembers Catra stumbling out of her room a little while later, disheveled and so fucking beautiful, badgering her for waking her up with her helpful nonsense.

She did smell it on her, but she’d convinced herself it was nothing. Lingering arousal from the night before, Adora’s own smell of excitement mixed into hers. She’d refused to read into it any further, to give herself any false hope.

But knowing now what it had been, that Catra had been so close to touching herself on the other side of the wall — Adora can barely comprehend it.

She moves before Catra can stop her again, lunging forward and pressing an insistent kiss to her lips. Catra welcomes her desperately, arching to push their bodies together and returning her kiss with fervor. Adora’s hands skim frantically up and down her body, feeling up every inch they can find, and Catra gifts her efforts with a whimpering mewl.

Catra breaks the kiss, but Adora isn’t anywhere near satisfied, so she offers her hungry kisses to Catra’s neck instead. When Catra speaks, she feels it in her teeth.

"Can I show you?" she breathes, voice shaking, and Adora will never be able to tell her no.

"Yes, yes, yes," Adora bites against her skin, dragging their bodies together before forcing herself to lift off Catra enough for her to move.

Catra follows her to catch her lips in one last kiss, quick and rough, and then flips over and tucks her tail to the side. Adora follows her down, shifting so she's laying gently over one side of her and pressing a kiss into her hair.

She makes a noise and reaches for Adora's hand, pulling it around her until she's hugging her. Catra's tail drapes over her waist and tickles her side as it flicks with excitement, and Catra guides her hand up her ribs and onto her chest. She squeezes her breast through her shirt, and Catra's hips dig down into the mattress, searching for friction. She lets go of Adora's hand and skims her own down her stomach, and when her fingers dip beneath her underwear, it sends a whiff of her scent to Adora's nose.

They both curse in unison, Catra moaning into the mattress as she touches herself and Adora growling into Catra's hair as she watches.

Her fingers tighten, her rough handling of Catra's tit the best outlet she can give to her spiking desire, and Adora feels her sanity slip a little bit as another rolling wave of Catra's arousal fills the air.

A noise escapes Catra, high and desperate, and Adora feels her elbow bump into her bicep. Catra's arm is trembling as it moves, trying to keep her pace slow to savor the moment in the face of her mounting desire, and it's so admirable and utterly futile that Adora can't take it.

Usually, she's the one to slow things down, the one to take her time, but not today. Not upon learning how many times Catra has done this and thought of her, wished for her, begged for her.

Now, she is finally here, and she is t k her.

Adora leans against Catra's back with more weight and takes her shoulder into her mouth, teeth biting into the fabric of her shirt and her breath humid. With a grip on her, she drops her hand from her chest, stroking down until she finds the hem of her shirt and then slipping underneath it and skimming her way back up her body. She feels Catra's breath pick up in excitement, in anticipation, and she will not disappoint her.

Her fingers wrap around Catra' s chest and massage into it, fingers curling and blunt nails teasing softly over her nipple. Catra turns her face into her pillow and bites it, a long, echoing moan rising from her chest and thrumming through both of their bodies. Adora continues her attentions and feels, with no small amount of satisfaction, Catra's arm give up the game and suddenly speed up from its steady pace.

Adora strokes her nipple again and lets go of her shoulder in favor of her neck. She tucks her face into the wide collar of Catra's shirt and lavishes her skin, mixing kisses and licks and nips until she hears Catra start to pant into her pillow. Her hips twitch, down into the mattress and then up into Adora's, and then she moves.

Catra lifts her face and turns it a little, and her body follows suit; Adora rolls away just enough to give her room to move again. "Help me," Catra requests, voice low with trust and lust and lingering sleep.

Her hips wiggle, and Adora looks down to see her pushing of f her underwear, soaked and useless now, and lets go of her chest to pull them the rest of the way down her thighs. Once they get past her knees, she kicks them off expertly and then rolls back onto her stomach.

One leg lifts to the side, and she buries her face back against her pillows, hand slipping back under her hips and returning to its work. Before Adora can resume her own position, Catra stops her .

"I need your fingers," she gasps into her pillow, and as muffled as it is, it's a declaration that Adora would never miss. The words tremble down her spine and lick at her own core, the way they do any time Catra tells her what she needs. Any time Catra tells her she needs her.

Adora leans back into her, chest rising and falling with the same stuttering pace as Catra's and strokes over Catra's thigh. The tips of her fingers wrap around the underside, teasing as her grip grows softer the closer to Catra's apex she gets, and she kisses the back of Catra's ear.

"How?"

Catra whimpers, ear flickering against Adora's lips, and her hips search for her fingers. "Inside. As many as you can."

The request makes Adora's heart tremble, shaking in her chest, and she can't help herself. She bites Catra's ear, taking the edge of it into her mouth and tugging softly, and the moan that rips from Catra's mouth is unexpected and wild.

"Fuck," she whimpers as Adora's fingers finally find her core, hot and soaking, and Adora sounds her affirmation with a groan.

She doesn't release her ear as her fingers join Catra's in teasing her, dancing around her entrance to gather wetness and slowly, slowly beginning to slip one in. Every time she starts to meet resistance, she tugs on Catra's ear again, listening as a new moan spills from her mouth and feeling more wetness surge to meet her.

Finally, she gets one inside as far as it will go, but Catra is already begging her for a second. She works her up to a second, but Catra asks for even more. She's burning around her, flaming heat dripping down her knuckles, and Adora feels delirious with love and luck and lust as she drags her fingers in and out and encourages Catra to open up to another one.

"I wish I had walked in," Adora says before she can stop herself, the fantasy scene playing in her head. Hearing noises coming from the other side of the wall, the same little a and soft moans and lewd groans slipping from Catra's lips now, and deciding to investigate. Opening the door quietly, curiously, only to find Catra face down in bed, her arm buried underneath her and her hips shaking. What would she have even done if confronted with that sight? What would Catra have done? What would Adora have thought if she had heard her name escape Catra's lungs while she touched herself?

She probably would have left if she could, apologized profusely, and excused herself immediately. But if Catra had called to her if Catra had told her to stay…

"I probably wouldn't have had the confidence to do this, then," she continues, rambling into Catra's shirt, "but fuck, I never would have stopped thinking about you like this."

Catra whines loudly, her own hand stuttering and her other pushing against the bedsheets to force her hips harder into Adora's touch.

"If I had known you were thinking about me like this thinking about me when you do this." Adora tries to imagine what she would have done if she learned this knowledge months ago. If she'd known her feelings were returned so vividly. Just knowing it now is almost too much for her to handle, filling her to the brim with too much love to fit inside the suffocating cavity of her chest. She curses again, unable to come up with any further coherent thoughts, and nips at Catra's shoulder blade.

Catra wiggles underneath her, pushing her chest against the sheets and her ass into Adora's abs, reaching again for her fingers even though they're still pumping steadily in and out of her.

"I thought about you every time, all the time," Catra gasps out. "Not just like this. In the shower, on the couch, with my toys"—

Adora's hand jerks roughly, restraint slipping from her command with the open confession, and Catra lets out a crying whimper.

"Shh—" Adora hisses, forcing her hand to slow.

"Oh!" Catra pleads into the sheets, fingers fumbling under her hips to find Adora's. "Please, harder," she begs, catching Adora's wrist and urging it into her. "Stop holding back. Take me how you want me."

Adora bites down, catching shirt and skin between her teeth and letting the tension soothe her wild heart. She's scared of hurting her if she thrusts too hard, but she still can't tell Catra no.

She lets her control go, fingers speeding up from their steady rhythm into a much more frantic and rough tempo. She tries to ease the change, to give Catra time to stop her if it becomes too much, but Catra is mewling and pushing into her thrusts, and Adora can't stop herself from matching her desperation. Catra's own hand returns to its work at a furious pace, and she lets out a high sob.

"Please, I'm so close," she manages, and Adora lets go of her bite to shift up and shower her neck with kisses.

"I've got you, I'm here," she encourages between each press of her lips, "you're mine, and I've got you. I'm not letting go. Come on, cum for me." She nips Catra's neck sharply, letting the edge of a growl creep into her words and match the roughness of her hand. "Cum for me."

A loud cry rips from Catra's throat, her hips bucking wildly and her shoulders trembling. She cries until her voice jumps an octave and then cuts off, her mouth still open against the pillows in a silent scream. She ruts into her own hand and shudders around Adora's fingers, and Adora keeps kissing and talking and moving against her until her jerking body finally starts to slow. She gasps, control returning to her movements as she rolls her hips languidly against both of their hands and rocks the last few aftershocks out.

Adora feels her hand go still and drop onto the mattress and starts to slide her fingers out of her. She barely gets one knuckle out before Catra whines sharply and catches her hand, stopping it. "No—" she whimpers, voice high and hoarse. "Please don't—not yet."

Her voice breaks something inside Adora's chest, and she carefully pushes back into her as far as she can, snuggling her hand against her core and pressing a deep and tender kiss against the corner of her jaw.

"I won't. I'm right here," she reassures Catra, nuzzling into the joint between her neck and her ear and pressing another kiss to it. "I won't leave until you tell me to."

She feels Catra let out a shaky sigh underneath her, and her hand releases Adora's and slips out from under her hips. She reaches up clumsily until she finds Adora's head and digs her fingers into her hair. They stroke softly, reassuring them both, and Catra makes a soft noise.

"Can we stay here for a minute?" she asks, her voice uncommonly quiet, and Adora can't help herself from cuddling closer at the sound of it.

"Of course. Whatever you need," she whispers, tucking into Catra's neck until she makes a contented noise.

They lay there for several minutes, unmoving except for their synchronized breaths, until finally, Catra rustles.

"I don't want you to leave me, but I...want to see you," she requests.

Adora nods against her, heart tight and desperate to give Catra anything she wants. "What about a compromise?" she asks. "Do you trust me?"

"Always," Catra answers, craning her neck to try and catch a peek of her.

Adora pushes herself up and off Catra just enough to maneuver closer to her face, bending around her shoulder to catch her eye and manage a half-kiss on her lips. It's awkward, and pushes her wrist roughly into Catra, but she's smiling gratefully when Adora pulls away.

Steady but quick, Adora sits up and pulls her fingers from inside Catra. She can hear the soft noise of loss Catra makes, but before any other complaints can arise, she rolls Catra onto her back and lays over her, returning her hand to her center and cupping it warmly around her. Catra throws a leg over Adora's hip and winds her arms around her neck, digging one hand into her hair and using another to tug her jaw closer for a kiss. It' s soft but eager, a hint of desperation at the start that quickly melts into joy as she tastes her .

"This is much better ," Catra sighs, pulling Adora down to nuzzle into her.

Adora returns the gesture, leaving light kisses on every inch of her face she can reach. "Y ou okay?" she checks in.

"Y eah," Catra smiles, something heavy but happy filling her eyes. Her hands come down to cup either side of Adora' s face, fingers stroking over her cheekbones and down her lips. "Just a little overwhelmed. I justI .can't believe we're here. I can't believe this is real."

Adora huffs out a soft chuckle, nodding and brushing their noses together. "I know ."

"I." Catra starts and then drifts of f, something desperate flashing through her eyes.

Adora quiets and waits, giving her time to put together what she wants to say, but the silence stretches on. Catra stays quiet long enough that Adora eventually wonders if she even said anything at all.

"I'm really glad I told you," finally comes from her lips, but the look in her eyes has shifted from desperation to contentment. "I wanted to, but I wasn't really sure how to bring it up."

Adora half-smiles, letting the moment go and moving into the present one. "You don't need an opener for something like that," she assures her.

"Oh?" Catra asks, raising her eyebrows. "You want me to just announce out of the blue all of the times I fucked myself while thinking about you?"

"I want you to tell me about something like that as soon as you have the thought, yeah," Adora nods, her smirk crooked.

Catra grins. "Fine. Only if you'll do the same."

Adora scowls playfully but nods.

"Will you tell me what you dreamed about now?" Catra asks lightly, mismatched eyes filling with hope.

Adora feels heat begin to rise to her cheeks, embarrassed even after what they'd just done. But she wants to—Catra was vulnerable with her, and she wants to be vulnerable back. It's just—"It's not very involved"…

Catra offers her a gentle smile. "Tell me?"

Adora folds in the face of her kindness and buries her face against Catra's neck. "You have to promise not to laugh at me," she mumbles into her skin.

Catra chuckles but smooths her hands into Adora's hair and nods. "I promise. Vampire's honor."

"It's just… I've dreamed about it before," she struggles to confess. "Thought about it, um, while I"…

“Get of f?” Catra guesses.

“Y eah.” Adora swallows, letting her mind replay her traitorous fantasy. “It’ s you. Tugging a leash. Connected to a collar . On my neck.”

Catra’s silent, patient, but Adora can feel her swallow against her cheek. She gathers her courage and pulls back enough to survey Catra’s face and see how she feels about this.

Her face is impassive except for a slight uptick at the corner of her lips, revealing a glistening fang. But down, between her legs and against Adora’s hand, she feels her twitch.

Adora can still smell her in the air and on the fingers tangled in her hair, and the scent twists with her own arousal.

“Uh,” Adora stumbles to fill the silence, “that’ s sort of it. Just you in control of me. Telling me what to do. Watching me while I get off.”

Catra’s silent for a few more seconds before she licks her lips and lets out a rattling breath. “Is that something you want to explore?” she asks tentatively.

Adora’s stomach somersaults. “Um. maybe? I don’t know . I like the idea but I’ve never done something like that.”

Catra nods. “I like the idea, too.”

“Y ou do?” Adora rushes to ask, surprise and excitement tangling in her chest.

“Fuck yes,” Catra breathes, dropping her plain face for a wicked grin. “I love it. Do you want to get of f now?”

Adora blinks, her mouth going dry. “W. What are you thinking?”

Catra’s hands slide down to tickle her jaw , and her leg hikes up farther on her hip, trapping Adora’s hand and pulling them closer together. "I showed you how I used to get off thinking about you. You could do the same? I can play along however you'd like me to. I don't have a collar, but…" her hands drift lower, tracing the curves of her neck and then ever so gently lacing around it. "My hands could be one, if you want. Not choking, just…"

Adora swallows roughly, feeling the gentle pressure of Catra's hands circling her neck and her thumbs on her throat. She feels like she is back in her dream, out of control, ready to vibrate out of her body with how much she wants this. How much she wants Catra.

"Yes," she croaks, voice rough with desire.

"Okay," Catra nods, expression unbelievably soft. "How do you want to do it?"

"On my back," Adora replies automatically, but she hesitates before rolling over. "But – can I kiss you first?"

Catra's smile splits wide at that, and she's pulling Adora in before she's even answered. "Of course."

She hears Dream-Catra in her head, resisting her kiss. Do you love her?

She is you and you are her.

She pours every ounce of her love into her kiss, lips heavy and insistent on Catra's lest she not understand what it means. Catra opens for her, and Adora fills her up, offering her everything that she has and everything that's left after that.

Catra is breathless when they finally break apart, delighted and dazed, and Adora feels like she is full of sunshine.

She rolls onto her back and pulls Catra with her. After a few seconds of rearranging, Adora's hands are freed, and Catra is lying tightly along one side of her, legs tangled around one of hers and hands tracing along her collarbones. Adora turns her head to steal one last kiss, soothing her mounting nerves and anticipation with soft reassurance.

Catra leaves a kiss on her nose as she pulls away, dancing her fingers up Adora's neck and then lacing them into the same collar they'd created a few minutes ago. Adora swallows again and feels the claiming pressure, feels the dizzying intensity of the feeling it sends shooting through her, and closes her eyes to it. She can feel Catra's hold on her neck most intensely, but besides that is the feeling of her warm breath on her jaw and her soft body tucked against her side. She can feel Catra's thigh holding hers close, and she can feel her own hand twitching with anticipation against her hip.

"Adora?" Catra prompts softly after a few moments of Adora lying motionless and letting the feelings sweep through her.

"Tell me what to do," leaves her mouth before she can stop it, but she feels Catra's heart speed up in reply against her shoulder.

"Show me," Catra whispers, brushing her nose across Adora's cheekbone. "Show me what you used to do when you thought about me."

Adora's hand moves immediately, possessed by her desire to please and obedient to Catra above all else. It slips between her legs and finds her already soaking; the relief even a soft touch brings her has her sharply inhaling. Her throat moves against Catra's hand, and the pressure sends more wetness to blossom between her legs, making a loud, slick sound as she gathers it up and spreads it around.

Catra groans into her neck, hips twitching against her side and face skimming her jaw. She can feel Catra turning to look down, to watch her hand as it works between her legs, and her entire body feels like it's burning alive with heavenly fire.

She had always felt a heavy guilt when she got off to the thought of Catra—a fear that Catra would never want her to think of her that way, that she would be disgusted if she ever found out. Hearing Catra's enjoyment as she watches, feeling her react in pleasure against her as she moves, cradles something deep inside of Adora, and soothes her in a way she never could have expected.

"Good girl," Catra purrs, her chest vibrating against her bicep, and it's not the words she wanted, but they send her reeling all the same.

Adora's hips buck into her own hand, and she rubs down harder, pleasure rapidly filling up her body as she gives Catra what she wants by giving it to herself. There's no stopping the way her wrist speeds up, and her body rolls into it; there is only the mixture of desires inside of her that builds up with every stroke.

She can feel Catra's breath speeding up to match hers, and she can smell both of their scents thick in the air. The same fingers that drove Catra over the edge are pushing her to her own height, and she wants to open her eyes and watch Catra watching her, but she is scared that if she does, she'll wake up again.

The same fear that hit Catra earlier hits her now – the overwhelming disbelief that they have actually made it this far, that they are in this moment together.

She wishes Catra would ask her if she likes this, right now.

She wishes Catra would ask if she likes her, right now.

She wishes she could tell her that she loves her, right now. That she's loved her for quite some time.

That she'll love her for the rest of her life.

Without opening her eyes, Adora turns her head, nuzzling Catra's cheek in search of her lips. Catra seems to understand and meets her, clumsy and passionate and gasping.

When she pulls away, Adora pries her eyes open, forcing herself to see that this is real. That they are here, that they have made it here, and that Catra is with her.

Catra is always with her.

She finds Catra's eyes, gold and cerulean pools that hold everything she wants in life, everything she desires. The tender look she finds reflecting back at her through them sends her sharply over the edge, not waiting for her to be ready. An unstoppable electric heat builds suddenly inside of her body, and she tilts her head back, chasing the feeling of Catra's hands on her neck.

"Harder," she whines, and Catra's fingers tighten instantly, one thumb stroking up her throat while her hands hold her, safe and firm.

Her resolve snaps, and she surrenders to it, throwing her head back and letting her body rise as it starts to shudder. The heat is pulsing through her body, begging for release into Catra's hold, and her hand works ferociously until it suddenly blossoms through her.

Some sort of noise erupts from her, but she can't hear it, can't hear anything but Catra's answering words, unintelligible to her brain but familiar and safe and soothing all the same. She pours out all of the feeling inside of her, the desire and longing and love that's been vying to reach Catra since long before her dream, and it leaves her body with a relief she's never felt on her own before.

It leaves her body with the relief of knowing it's wanted, reciprocated, held with reverence, and the tenderest of grasps.

She falls into the sheets with a shaky gasp and feels Catra crawl over her; she opens her eyes just enough to see Catra bending to press kiss after kiss against her throat. She tries to raise a hand to pull her closer, but she feels exhausted—drained and spent and filled with sluggish satisfaction.

After a moment of struggling, she manages to slap an arm around Catra's waist – it's useless, but Catra seems to understand what she wants and finally drops her body down on top of her.

That's it, she breathes, pressing her kisses to her chin and cheeks. "That was so good, so hot. I love watching you touch yourself."

Her words fill Adora with the same sunshine she felt earlier, and she nods as vigorously as she can.

"Feel so," she slurs, words drowning with fatigue but still impassioned.

"You liked this?" Catra finally asks, voice filled with hope and something else, something more tender.

"I loved it," is all Adora can manage, her tongue too heavy in her mouth as it holds all of the words she can't say.

She waits for the next question, every hammering beat of her heart begging to be heard as it claws against her chest…

But the next question never comes.

"I loved it," she repeats, wishing she could say what she really means.

End Notes

Thank you so much for reading, I hope you enjoyed! Let me know what you thought in the comments!

I have lots of other extras still planned and am taking my time writing them between my other works, so make sure you subscribe to the bite down (into me) series or to me so you don't miss them when they arrive :) You may have also noticed now that my works are locked to registered users to try and protect them from AI scraping - if you know anyone in need of an invitation, I have lots left I can send out!

As always, thank you for all the love and support! If there's any extra scenes you'd like to see from this universe (smut or fluff) let me know in the comments and I might just add it to my list!

There's a new playlist just for the extras and you can listen to it here!
