Setting The Curve

by Uncreativity

Summary

It's studying time.

Adora would rather spend her time in Physiology 201 napping her stresses away rather than paying attention to the content. Catra, ranked 1st in the class (a fact she lets people know regularly) extends a hand to help.

Adora would be delighted at the opportunity, if only she believed Catra had good intentions.

Which she knows good intentions and Catra are two elements that never mix.

But, she's desperate. So, time to be schooled by the tutor.

If only she weren't so damn sexy.

Notes

This is just a little something I whipped up for a good friend of mine, bud, as you read this, know that I have endless love for you- I hope you enjoy this fic, and I hope you have the best birthday you've ever had. Enjoy your day, enjoy this fic. You're amazing and I'm so grateful to be able to call you a good friend of mine, your insight, humor, and presence is such a well-lit light in my life currently, you keep me going- so I give this to you to pay it forward. Enjoy my friend <3

Adora had no clue how she ended up here.

Like, none whatsoever.

The rugby player sighed loudly before sliding her phone in the back pocket of her jeans, she leaned against one of the bollards in front of the 24/7 library at Bright Moon University. Adora was going through a rough patch in her university experience, to say the least. Physiology 201 was absolutely kicking her ass and if she didn't get her act right she'd be benched for the next few games in their season, or until her studies improved.

Adora couldn't help that she dozed off during class.

Or didn't study.

Or had trouble paying attention.

Or that she wasn't even sure if she wanted to take the physiology course.

Adora, a sophomore in college, was an exercise science major, the young 20-year old's livelihood coming from her time spent through rigorous physical education from a young age. Adora had started powerlifting and playing rugby in middle school and found that she enjoyed the physical demands and discipline sports brought her. She loved the competition and excitement, she thrived off of the intense energy. The way her body had transformed after committing to a strict diet and intense workout regime she didn't mind either. She never considered herself overly attractive, Adora knew with the bright blonde hair and blue eyes that she stuck out in a crowd, but she never assumed it was because of her looks.

But, 25 pounds of muscle gained later…

She jumped a few shirt sizes, her old tees too tight around the bulk of her arms and chest. And, Adora's jeans fit around her waist and her legs a little tighter as well- but still, she couldn't for the life of her figure out why she was stared at all the time. Especially in the locker room of the rugby team at Bright Moon, it wasn't until her best friend and teammate, Glimmer, finally clued her in on the fact she was, and Adora quoted, "A hot piece of ass" that Adora saw herself a little differently.

She finally clued in on the stares she got on campus and at random parties Glimmer would drag Bow and her off to.

Adora was attractive and she saw herself like that.

This was also another reason she was distracted in Physiology 201.

Since she clued into how attractive she was, without vanity of course, even despite Glimmer's insistence that a little vanity was okay- Adora was distracted by other attractive women as well. Of course, Adora had noticed girls she was into before the revelation about her body and confidence, she'd had crushes on girls from high school and transitioning into college, but after seeing herself in a different light the way she was attracted to people was simply heightened.

Physiology 201 was kicking her ass, and Adora didn't only mean by the extensive coursework about the human body's anatomy and functions, but also the classes' star student thoroughly enjoyed putting her through the wringer.

Adora didn't hate Catra, she was too stubborn to allow herself to develop such a negative emotion for someone.

They simply did not mix well.

Catra was enigmatic and cunning. Adora noticed her doing of f just as much as she did during labs or lectures and yet she was always able to come up with the right answer on something.

With the same snark and matter-of-fact sprinkled into her tone as well.

t unnerved Adora.

t didnt help that Catra was intelligent in an, "I could brag about this, but Iwont" kind of way , Adora noticed the woman's aura, her essence just seeped out a confidence that Adora found herself drawn towards.

She got on Adora's nerves but she couldnt deny how attracted she was to the woman- she began to reminisce, doing of f in front of the library, the memory of the first time she met Catra playing in her head.

"Early bird gets the worm"?

Adora felt like she jumped several feet in the air at the intrusion of the unknown voice.

Her blue gaze picked up from staring at her phone in her lap. She turned her head and saw a pair of heterochromatic eyes staring back at her. Adora gulped loudly because she made sure to come to this lecture extra early, even before the Professor showed up, and she was certain she had been the only one in the lecture hall-

"Are you deaf or something"?

Adora jumped again at the voice, even though its speaker was sitting right behind her. She was still trying to figure how the woman snuck into the class and in the row of seats behind her own undetected-

Adora glanced back at the woman, gorgeous brown complexion, the green-and-blue pair of heterochromatic eyes, chestnut short tousled hair that fell into her face. Adora gulped when she smirked at her, the expression coming off in a way that reminded her of something unmistakably feline. Her blue eyes narrowed when the woman picked her hands up, waving them in motions that Adora couldnt understand.

"What are you doing?" Adora finally found her voice.

She dropped her hands, brushing a piece of her hair from her face, and giving Adora a playful tilt to her head, "W ell, Iwas signing something to you, but now Iknow you arent deaf, probably just hard of hearing or something." She mumbled of f the latter portion of her statement and Adora's eyebrows furrowed.

"Im not hard of hearing, you just scared me-"

"I had a feeling-" The woman laughed in Adora' s face, "Y ou should've seen your fucking face when Isnuck up on you-" She clapped her hands loudly as her laughter increased in volume.

Adora's hands balled into her fists in her lap as her mouth pursed.

The woman noticed and grinned again, bright white teeth with shockingly pointed canines gleamed back at her. "Hey , sorry, Iget my kicks off of laughing at people- Im Catra," Adora stared at the hand offered to her. t was slightly calloused, with violet polish on the nails and long and angular fingers. She gulped at the warmth in the extremity when she shook Catra's hand, the grip firm and the feeling of Catra's fingers sliding along hers bringing a chill down her spine, their eyes locked again and Adora saw the teasing expression on Catra's face once more.

"Im Adora," She managed a small smile as Catra' s own grin widened, Adora wasnt certain she liked the look on the woman' s face.

"Hey Adora." Catra tested it on her tongue. Adora wasnt fond of the shiver that traveled down her spine at the sound of her voice from Catra's mouth.

Her voice was just- the perfect amount of softness and rasp all rolled into one. When Catra teased it dipped lower into a register that made Adora's back stiffen and her eyes widen, she wanted to pant and just beg for Catra to say her name like that again- Adora felt she was going to have to be on alert when in the presence of Catra and that revelation didnt comfort her in the slightest.

Catra ran a thumb over the back of Adora's knuckles while their hands were still interlocked, Adora watched as another piece of her tousled hair fell into her face, she gulped.

"It's nice to know who I'll be making my bitch this semester-"

"Wait- what?"

Catra cackled and Adora sputtered at the wink she threw her. Catra dropped Adora's hand and she opened her mouth to retort, about to demand an explanation for whatever that meant, but the door swung open to the lecture hall, and more students piled in. Adora tried to calm herself, settle down, but knowing the presence of Catra behind her, the distinct spice of her perfume and the warmth Adora could feel from her body kept her too distracted to even listen to the lesson.

Adora stiffened at the memory, dragging the toe of her sneaker against the asphalt a few times. She leaned more of her weight against the bollard and felt her cheeks getting hot, not only by the memory but also by Catra's actions afterward. She kept her word, Adora felt like her bitch. Not a day went by in the semester where she wasnt subjected to some kind of scrutiny by Catra, even on exam days Adora still wasnt safe. Wherever she sat in the lecture hall, Catra would perch herself directly behind her, always having a comment about her grades, the way she dozed off during class- Catra even had the nerve to check Adora's mid-term paper over her shoulder and announced in her ear just how many questions she had gotten incorrect.

Adora flushed even more when she remembered Catra's prediction was spot-on.

Catra led the class, in every single test, something Adora despised when she brought it up, but also she couldnt help the way her thighs clenched whenever Catra schooled students during lecture or when she'd find a mistake that the professor made. Adora usually strongly disliked students like Catra, but the mirth in her eyes when they locked, the sound of her voice when she teased, how she carried herself whenever she walked into the lecture hall kept Adora on edge and anticipating everything the woman might do.

"You havent blinked in over a minute, Im impressed-"

The rugby player jumped then groaned loudly at Catra's presence. She was leaning against a bollard, opposite of her own outside of the library, Adora had no clue of how long she had been standing there.

"Would you stop doing that? And were you just staring at me?" Adora fired off the two questions exasperated and Catra's hands rose in mock surrender.

"Whatever do you mean Adora?" Her tone was exaggeratedly innocent and Adora noticed how she had ignored her second question, but she knew better than to speak about that fact.

"Let's just get this over with," Adora spoke again and propped herself further off of the bollard, standing up straight. She pulled the backpack flush to her and watched as Catra didnt budge.

The pair stared at one another and Adora recognized the whimsy in the woman's eyes- she didnt like it.

"What?" Adora crassly spoke and Catra had the nerve to act surprised.

"Hmm?" Catra responded in kind and Adora sighed, already fed-up from her actions and they hadn't even started studying yet.

"What is it Catra? What do you possibly have to say that's going to insult me or get on my nerves?" Adora heard the comment leaving her lips and her eyes locked on Catra who stayed in the same position, but she took a moment to flick some of her short hair from her face.

"I'm just a little wounded Adora -" She wanted to close her eyes in bliss at how good her name sounded from Catra's lips, "-you don't seem to be particularly excited to study with me tonight," Catra feigned a pout then grinned, her sharp canines exposed to Adora.

She sucked her teeth and squared herself to Catra, "Do you honestly think you've given me a reason to?" Adora spoke and looked at Catra.

The rugby player wanted to yell at the woman when she merely gave a sheepish shrug and a half-assed attempt at a look of apologeticness.

Adora continued, "First of f it's 10 at night, I don't know what psychopath likes to study now-"

"-I'm a night owl Adora, besides, since you agreed to my studying services, you agree to work on my terms," Adora's eye twitched when Catra cut her off. She ha- strongly disliked, when Catra did that.

"Psychopath-" Adora reiterated and frowned at the grin Catra served her, clearly not offended by the jab, "Secondly, I'm not even sure why you're doing this-"

“I’m tutoring you, I want to help, that’s literally the purpose of the job,”

Adora frowned again when Catra’s voice butted in on her comment for a second time. She glared at the woman who gave her another forced apologetic glance.

“That’s what you’re doing, but why are you doing it? You get joy out of seeing me in trouble with our professor, literally failing on exams, never knowing what I’m doing during labs,” Adora finished and crossed her arms.

Adora watched as the heterochromatic gaze flickered towards her arms for a moment. The bulk was visible from the material of her shirt and Adora wasn’t sure how she felt about the expression in Catra’s gaze, was she checking her out?

Her rapid thoughts were cut off when Catra finally straightened up from the bollard. Adora’s brain short-circuited and she took a moment to survey her outfit, she gulped.

It was yet another thing that attracted her to Catra regardless of how badly the woman pissed her off.

Catra was always dressed to kill for class. Nice dresses, smart pants, her treasure trove of skirts. To the frilly blouses, tight turtlenecks, and collared shirts that always exposed her angular neck and collarbones. Adora looked at Catra before her and wanted to groan at the black-and-white pleated skirt she wore, tanned taut legs on display, to the tight cropped sweater that exposed the chiseled midriff of the woman, thigh-high white socks, and the black ankle platform boots that look like she stepped out of a catalog for 1970’s fashion.

Adora sucked in a breath and adjusted the oversized red sweatshirt on her torso from her high school rugby team, she wore faded blue jeans that were so worn in one of the knees that it was fraying, and the pair of red-and-white canvas sneakers that Adora had the decency to wash every once in a while.

"Dont worry about my motives Adora, just be grateful that the girl who sets the curve for every single one of our exams is willing to take some time out of her day to help you," Catra' s voice was neutral, no hints of teasing or mischief in the tone, Adora found the fact she couldnt detect an ounce of her usual personality in the comment more intimidating than if she actually were able to.

Catra wordlessly turned on her heel and began towards the entrance to the library, she gave a look over her shoulder at Adora, then raised her eyebrow in question. The rugby player forced her legs to move as she followed Catra into the building, letting the woman lead her to a set of tables near the back of the library. The building was quiet, not just for the fact it was a library , but also it was 10 at night and the only occupants seemed to be the tutors and librarian, who were near the entrance of the premises.

Adora sighed and slid into the seat at the table Catra stopped in front of. She watched as Catra pulled a chair to sit at the head of the table, the angle she sat at in a way caged Adora into the corner of the building. Adora tried to ignore that fact and began pulling out her notes and laptop from her bag, finally clueing in on the fact Catra hadnt brought any materials from the course with her .

"Where' s your stuff?" Adora made sure to keep her voice low , knowing with the vaulted ceilings and large open space of the library that her words could travel pretty far.

Catra smirked and stretched back in her seat, Adora wincing at the sound of her back popping as Catra sighed, "it' s all up here," She pointed one of her fingers to her head, tapping at her temple a few times.

Adora gave her a doubtful glance and Catra rolled her eyes, "You're in good hands Adora, trust me," her voice dipped again and the rugby player wanted to bite her lip at the sound of it.

She squared her blue gaze on the papers in front of her , chicken-scratch handwriting and poorly written notes stared back at her. Adora wanted to give up immediately.

Adora could feel Catra's eyes on her and she fought the urge to cover her notes up with her hands, ashamed by her lack of a work ethic and effort when it came to this class.

"So- we're past the midway point of the semester , and that means we've finished the integumentary system, muscles, and the bones- how did you feel about those?" Catra posed the question for Adora.

The rugby player was floored at the professionalism in her tone, she didn't want to get her hopes up and accidentally put too much faith in Catra, but it seemed like tutoring her was something that she was going to take seriously. Adora was even shocked that the woman didn't take the time to ream her when it came to her shitty note-taking ability, which was something entirely within Catra's comfort zone.

"Integumentary was okay , I was fine with muscles until the sliding filament theory, and I drowned completely during the bones- I know practically nothing," Adora tried to not let her head hang too far , she waited for a few beats and then rose her gaze to meet Catra's blue-and-green eyes.

Adora was shocked at the empathy she saw in the gaze, not even an ounce of judgment she could detect from her classmate.

"Okay , this next exam is going to cover the brain so we'll study that last-"

"What- why?"

Catra paused when Adora had cut her off. The rugby player opened her mouth to apologize but closed it when a laugh escaped Catra's lips.

"Wow- I see why you hate when I do that, it's totally brutal," She grinned and Adora felt the corners of her mouth twitch before she let a small smile cross her own face.

"We'll do the brain last so it can be the freshest material on your mind, and cover topics you aren't 100% about so you can write better notes. The neurology exam is in 2 days, your next match is in 4 days, I'll get the professor to grade your exam earlier so we can see if you'll be eligible to play," Catra spoke calmly and Adora's eyebrows kept rising farther up on her head.

"How do you know when my next match is? How would you get the professor to grade my paper early? Also, my notes aren't that bad-" Adora spoke the latter statement stubbornly.

"Yes they are Adora, your notes are that bad-" Catra gave her a playful glance.

"I know your rugby schedule because I knew I'd be tutoring you-" Catra spoke that statement as if it were obvious.

"And, I have my ways with the professor, acing the class comes with its perks," she winked at Adora, who immediately flushed and dropped her head to look back at the shitty notes in her binder.

Catra was annoying, always on her nerves, and so snarky- but, she also winked at Adora a lot. The rugby player could probably sit on Catra's actions all day and find no sense of logic for them, to Adora it felt she was all over the place, Catra's actions always keeping Adora on her toes because one moment she was embarrassing her in front of the entire class and the next she was dipping her voice into that lower register and peering at Adora with lidded eyes.

She was fucking confusing.

"So, any complaints about how we're going to study for the next few days together?" Adora listened to the question that was posed for her.

With the odd professionalism and empathy Adora detected from Catra, to the lesson plan and confidence the woman seemed to have when it came to tutoring her- she truly didn't have any complaints.

That fact was very unsettling because Adora always had something to worry about when it came to Catra.

"No, not really ," Adora spoke softly and Catra grinned again, placing her phone on the table.

Adora watched as the fingers slid across the touchscreen and headed towards the timer, Adora met the gaze Catra gave her when she looked up from her phone.

"What are you doing?" The rugby player murmured and Catra set a timer of 25 minutes on her phone before clearing her throat to answer.

"Pomodoro," Catra responded and Adora felt her head creep backward in confusion after the word left Catra's lips.

"Bless you" Adora responded in kind and blushed when Catra rolled her eyes playfully.

Catra laid her hands on the table, Adora's eyes darting towards the extremities- objectively speaking, Catra did have nice hands, but knowing they were so nice and trying not to stare at them was a battle Adora knew she was losing.

"Pomodoro is a studying technique, it calls for shorter intervals of content in between small break periods- when I study , which isn't often-" Adora watched her smirk and loathed how attractive Catra was when she was cocky, "-I use Pomodoro, it' s very effective,"

"So-" Catra continued and hovered her finger over the start button for the timer, "-well do 25 minutes of studying and 5 minutes of rest, then repeat, are you ready?"

Adora nodded and Catra pressed the timer, ripping out a piece of paper from Adora's binder, and began doodling a makeshift picture of a hand.

Catra passed the piece of paper back towards Adora, her mouth set in a serious line, "Name the carpals," Adora sighed before mentally dusting the cobwebs off of coursework she barely had any idea about in the first place.

This was going to be a long 25 minutes.

Four Pomodoro sessions later, when Adora's head throbbed, and her hand was sore from the rigorous note-taking, was when Catra gave her an extended break. Especially because Adora could feel her face reddening from how hard she was exerting herself from thinking.

"How do you feel?" Catra spoke cooly as she leaned back in her chair.

After the ringing in Adora's ears faded and she could form a coherent thought without her brain thumping in protest, she picked her gaze up to look at Catra.

"Like I just finished a rugby match," Adora huffed out and heard Catra chuckle.

"Mental exertion, it's more like physical exercise than you may think," Adora heard Catra respond and shook her head.

"I feel like I'm going to be sore tomorrow, but in my fucking brain-" Adora groaned and balanced an elbow on the table, placing her head in her palm and pushing her notes away from her with her other hand.

Her head lulled to the side in her hand to see Catra smirking at her, clearly satisfied with the physical state she was in.

Salt, enter wound. Rub rigorously.

"So, what do you do? You know, besides being an ass and torturing me?"

The question rang and Adora managed to hide her glee at the brief shocked expression that came across Catra's face.

Granted, the question was out of left field, and Adora just let it fly from her lips.

But, a small part of her was incredibly curious. She knew practically nothing of her classmate, besides the fact she was physically flawless, had killer fashion, and was annoyingly intelligent.

Catra gave her a weird look, the first time hesitance and genuine apprehension crossed her features, at least, the first Adora's ever noticed.

"C'mon, humor me, you're whipping me into academic shape, I could at least learn a thing or two about you during the experience," The explanation came together and Adora was surprised by how much sense it had made.

The two shared an entire semester together already and spent a lot of time conjointly, at Adora's chagrin, but, it was still time spent.

Adora couldn't fathom the fact she wasn't able to name more she knew about Catra besides her last name, which was Avila.

"I like to knit,"

Adora was so caught up in her inner monologue that Catra's words almost slipped by without a comment.

Almost.

"Knitting?" Adora clarified and Catra shrugged.

"It's relaxing, I like reality tv because I know it's formulaic, so I sit down and predict an entire season while knitting myself a blanket," her words were calm.

Catra looked so comfortable now, a stark contrast from the slight discomfort that the topic at hand had posed initially. She was relaxed in her chair, looking at Adora so openly, it was one of the first times Adora had interacted with Catra without animosity or feeling like she was battling someone wearing a mask.

Adora didn't really know what to feel at the acknowledgment that Catra was allowing her to see this side of her personality, vulnerability and all- why Catra was displaying this to her.

"Neat," was all Adora was able to muster.

Catra chuckled, "I bare my soul to you and all I get is a neat? Okay, I see how it is,"

"Telling me two facts about yourself is hardly baring your soul' so, let's not be so dramatic here," Adora was quick to shoot back.

The banter was domestic for once, they played off of each other well. Without academics in the way, Adora might've convinced herself on a blue moon that she could keep up with Catra's snark.

Then, she wanted to laugh at herself for even entertaining the thought.

"I also pole dance,"

Now that addition, Adora heard that right off the bat.

The thought of Catra's toned and lithe body circling around a pole, moving tantalizingly, in ill clothing, sweat rolling down her back, her neck, her thighs-“Adora..you alright there?” Catra asked and Adora felt her face turning every shade of red.

Her gaze found purchase on Catra’ s face, the heterochromatic eyes looking at her in a manner that was- flirty?

The thought of Catra performing for her-

“Y -yeah” Adora wanted to sob at the stutter in her voice.

“Y ou okay there?” Catra asked further and her head tilted to the side.

She was overexaggerating the innocence in her tone, which made Adora believe that there was something to be read in between the lines, something of significance she wasn’t quite picking up.

“I’m fine, just a little shocked-”

“Why?”

Catra’s reply was lightning fast, Adora could barely keep up with the banter.

She cursed herself again for her earlier thinking, even fathoming the thought of matching Catra’s pace was ludicrous.

“I just don’t hear about many people pole dancing for leisure,” It was true, but Adora’s words were meek, it sounded like she was lying.

“Good point-” Catra chuckled, flashing her white teeth again, her eyes landing on Adora once more.

“I suppose the other medium of pole dancing enthusiasts are strippers,” Catra spoke calmly .

Her cool-headedness a stark contrast to the tumultuous storm rioting freely in Adora’s mind. Something had just shifted during that very moment. Gone went the comfortable and cool Catra Adora was just introduced to, this Catra was choosing her words carefully, trying to beg the question. She was calculating, seemingly without a motive, and by all that is divine- remarkably sexy.

"You're not going to ask me if I'm a stripper?"

"No,"

"Why?"

"Because." Adora trailed, her brain firing on all cylinders, "You could've just said that, you don't seem like a person to say that you pole dance without adding the fact you also strip- I don't think it's something that you would hide,"

Catra looked pensive for a moment, but relaxed again, crossing her legs. Since she was sitting at the head of the table, it was right in Adora's eyesight.

Adora looked down, because she was only human.

Tanned, toned, legs greeted her, she tried to keep her prying eyes to a brief glance, but looking back up into Catra's gaze- she wasn't brief enough.

Adora's face reddened even more.

"You like my legs?"

Fuck. Adora didn't know if it was a trap, she froze, but Catra's expression didn't falter- she was harboring genuine curiosity, but Adora knew it was a trap lying in wait.

"Your legs?" She answered the question, with a question.

Adora bought herself time, but considering the slight adjustment Catra made in her chair, her voice omitting slight sighing noise, gravelly and sending chills down Adora's spine as she moved closer, Adora had just wished she answered the damn question in the first place.

"Yes Adora, my legs- the ones you stare at all the time," Catra purred out, her words dripping like honey. Paced out perfectly and smooth, Adora could feel the warmth, wanting to bask in it even though she felt like she was in danger.

"I stare at them all the time?" Adored echoed and Catra chuckled again.

"You do, why do you think I suddenly started wearing more skirts halfway through the first semester?"

Wait- what-

"It was cold as shit out, but I just lived to see the look on your face whenever I strolled into class in a skirt-"

Adora was hearing but barely processing.

"You're so cute when you try to hide it as well, sneakily looking up from your binder, or seeking me out whenever I take a bathroom break, I can feel your eyes on me from when I stand up to when I sit back down in my seat-"

What the fuck was happening?

"I guess, in a way , I'm dressing up for you-"

The ringing was back in Adora's ears.

"I like knowing the fact you're bombing the class is because you're too busy thinking about ways to fuck me-"

That took all the air from Adora's lungs.

Blue eyes met the heterochromatic pair, the stare held, and kept holding.

Until Adora broke it.

"Catra, what are you saying?" Her voice trembled, but she couldnt stop it to save her life.

Catra managed a chuckle of whimsy, but her eyes were as intense as they could be.

"What youve been thinking Adora, Ive seen you, Iknow exactly what you want-"

A hand went towards Adora's thigh, the extremity was warm and sent a jolt down Adora's spine, her gaze went down and recognized Catra's hand on her leg. Her thumb was caressing over the material of her jeans, Adora picked her gaze up and saw Catra's own, hooded eyes and a lip that was caught between her teeth.

"You want me, dont you?" Catra finally asked the million-dollar question.

Adora froze, her thigh locking up and she felt Catra's grip tighten for a moment. Her entire hand now moving in a caressing pattern over Adora's thigh, the action soothing the woman who could feel her nerves flaring up from the fervor of the conversation.

"Dont deflect-" Catra uttered.

"Wha-" Adora tried.

"Dont fight it, whatever it is you feel, you push it down when youre near me- how badly you crave my body, Idont want to see you fight anymore, Iwant to see you take the thing that you want-" Catra was leaning in now, over the corner of the table, entering Adora's immediate vicinity.

Her grip tightened ever so slightly on Adora's thigh, the pounding of Adora's heart thrummed from her chest to between her thighs, where a familiar ache settled itself, unable to be satiated unless things moved further in the direction Adora couldnt fathom theyd go in.

"Take what I want"Adora trailed, feeling Catra come closer , their faces near.

The heat, it was gathering, from the lust, but also their bodies. The want was searing through Adora's inhibitions and Catra's words- they pulled on the strings to her desires like a puppet master, assembling her in the direction she wanted and giving the push to get those things done.

"Take it Adora-"Catra whispered.

Adora could feel her walls breaking down.

"Take me-"She followed and moved, hands gripping the armrests to Adora's chair when she shifted, straddling Adora in her seat.

The fear from the situation had almost been eradicated from Adora's mind, she was ready to give Catra whatever she wanted, serve her in the manner she felt like she was supposed to. However, reality came jogging back into her psyche.

They were in a library, in public.

Adora froze, Catra felt it, as she was perched on the woman' s lap.

"Aht-"Catra shushed the protests that weakly fell from Adora' s lips.

"Shh, it' s okay, stay here with me-"The honey returned to Catra' s tone.

Adora's fear only rising for the movement washed away the second she felt Catra's finger press flush to her lips. Her hands, which were gripping the armrests slowly moved to Catra's waist, she gripped her body, Catra feeling so good in her hands.

"That' s it- take it Adora-"Catra egged her on.

Their faces were so close at this point, the two were simply breathing in each other's air, the connection they felt was magnetic, Adora felt like nothing would ever break her away from this moment.

"Take me -"

"Please-"

"Please take me Adora-"

Catra was beginning to rock in her lap, her hips moving fluidly as the undulation began grinding the apex of both of their thighs in unison, Catra leading the movement as Adora controlled the pace. They exhaled in each other's mouths, Catra continuing to whisper pleas to Adora.

"Please fuck me Adora-"

"Say that again," Adora's voice was gruff, the roughest she's ever heard herself speak.

Her lips gathered at Catra's throat, kissing the skin, moving Catra faster in her lap.

Catra's hands, which were placed on her shoulders, moved to Adora's face, which Adora felt Catra grip so their eyes locked- she saw the bottomless pit of desire and need in her gaze, the wanton look on her face, the slight tremble of Catra's mouth.

"Fuck me Adora," it was said with impunity.

Then Adora leaned up to close the gap between the two of them, their lips met with a clash of tongue. Catra's mouth a sensuous serpent as it danced with Adora's, the rhythm was set and they each followed, passing the lead off to one another, and relishing in the ecstasy of the moment. If Adora hadn't guessed, the fact Catra was a phenomenal kisser wasn't something she'd ever doubt, her mouth being one of her shining points- and the way Catra sucked Adora's bottom lip into her mouth, teasing the muscle, before popping it back, Adora blessed all that is divine once more.

They each broke away, with twin concaving chests and lungs that begged for air, but Catra pulled her back in, Adora able to taste more of the woman she'd been yearning for ever since she saw her . Adora's grip tightened around her waist, starting up the rocking once more that had ceased, Catra followed as soon as Adora introduced the action once again, the pair swallowing each other's sighs of pleasure as their lips never broke apart.

Her hands moved on autopilot from Catra's waist to her bare thighs, gripping flesh in her hands as Adora relished in the feeling of Catra atop her. Having the woman in her arms, right at her grasp, right where she needed her- Adora was getting drunk off the reality alone.

Catra put a hand to the waistband of the skirt, making the motion of pulling the garment off, but Adora gripped her wrist, keeping their eyes together.

"Keep it on-"She practically growled out and Catra swallowed hard, nodding her head obediently.

But, as quick as the compliance came, a diabolical smirk filled Catra's features just as fast.

"You like my skirt huh?"Catra' s comment was filled with snark.

Adora didn't reply , just hefted her skirt further up her thighs and groped the flesh of her ass. Feeling the weight in her hands and gripping the skin like she's always wanted to do caused residual pleasure to ripple up Adora's entire body, she never knew how much she was holding herself back until Catra finally made her face the facts.

"You like the way my legs look in this one, yeah?"Catra prodded on.

"You like the way you can just see my ass in it, especially when it's windy-"Catra gripped the back of Adora neck and moved her head to the side, nuzzling her neck so her lips were near her ear , "I bet you loved those windy days, Iwonder how many times you stared at me, besides the times Icaught you,"

She didnt speak, just allowed her hands to trail further up Catra' s thighs.

"Ibet you thought you were being smooth too-"More snark, Catra continued.

Adora trailed higher.

"Ibet you thought Ididnt know-"

Even higher.

"But Iknew- oh- "

Adora's fingers met Catra's clothed slit, the heat from her pussy emanating, Adora allowed her digits to make another pass and this time Catra met the action.

"Fuck"Catra trailed, and Adora sat enthralled at the sight of her chasing her desire.

Another pass of her fingers, this time with more pressure and Catra released a whine, deep in her throat.

Adora pressed again and concluded with a circular motion, she even felt the excess wetness from the outside of Catra's panties, a small trail of her juices coming into contact with her fingers as she masturbated Catra in a teasing fashion.

She imagined the pleasure was torture, something to moan over but not enough to build anything off of, by the creases forming in Catra's forehead- Adora imagined she was trying to maximize the amount she received from the conservative pressure in which Adora was pleasing her cunt.

But Adora knew, even a woman like Catra had her breaking point.

"Please..." It began, and it sounded so good.

"Please what?" Adora teased and almost laughed at the withering look Catra gave her.

"Dont make me say it again-" She whined and Adora withdrew her fingers completely from Catra's pussy.

Catra groaned, loudly and Adora's free hand came over her mouth, the serious reality that the two were still in public came rushing into the present.

"Be quiet-" Adora spoke through gritted teeth.

"Make me-" The reply came back.

This woman would be the death of her.

Adora hadnt known what came over her, but her hand was suddenly wrapped around Catra's throat, squeezing the flesh in a warning as her fingers underneath the skirt returned to Catra's clothed slit. They made another pass, Catra attempting to gasp but Adora increased the pressure of the choke, muting the response, and exhibiting more control over Catra.

Adora quickly moved the panties to the side and found the sopping cunt of Catra, arousal dripping into her palm. She circled her clit, teased her folds, gave Catra what she wanted but scurried away as soon as the pleasure ultimately began building too fast.

As irrational as the notion was, Adora needed this moment to last, as long as she could drag it out.

"Please-" The word came from a hoarse voice as Catra's eyes were still hooded.

She gyrated in Adora's lap, rolling rhythmic to create the friction she was continuously robbed of as courtesy of Adora's relentless teasing.

"Again," Adora demanded and Catra huffed but sighed once the fingers returned and made precise circles around her clit.

"Just like that, just like that-" Catra's voice kept in a stage whisper as she sought out, her resistance ebbing slowly as Adora could feel her spirit breaking from the consistent denial.

She pulled her fingers away again and Catra practically hissed. Eyes wide and her teeth came together with a loud clash.

"Just give me what I want-" Catra rasped out, completely exasperated.

Adora teased two fingers at her entrance, more wetness trailing down the rest of her hand as another staredown occurred between the two of them. This one arguably the most intense.

"What are you- too scared to actually fuck me?" Catra dared and Adora almost snarled.

She cursed Catra for always knowing what the fuck to say to cause a reaction.

Her grip increased the pressure around her throat, Catra's face developing into a nice shade of discoloration as Adora brought her closer.

"Just shut the fuck up already-" Adora uttered then pludged both of her fingers inside the wet heat.

Catra's cunt welcomed her, practically sucking the digits in further as Adora used the strength in her arm to drill Catra's pussy. Her thrusts began long and deep, letting the woman feel out her fingers inside, but quickly, Adora picked up the pace. Thrusts transitioned into shallow and quick, massaging the front wall inside of Catra, curling against the sensitive spot that made Catra's grip on her head even tighter.

Adora felt the crescent nails marks in her neck and on her face because of Catra's grip, the woman's eyes were in the back of her head, hips rolling to meet every single one of Adora's thrusts.

"Dont stop, dont stop-"

"Just like that-"

"So good, youre fucking me so good-"

Catra trembled in her arms, voice still hoarse from the choke as she breathed out quickly , chasing the peak of the pleasure that Adora knew was coming.

"You like that?" Adora asked and Catra practically sobbed out the affirmative.

"You like my fingers drilling this slutty cunt of yours?" Adora hadnt known she could summon phrases like that, but she supposed the situation was as dire as it could be.

"Yes Adora- fuck yes- you fill my slutty little hole so well," The words were raspy from Catra's mouth, from the choke, but also the sheer lust coursing through her frame, it affected every inch of her body.

The noises were obscene. The graphic shlick of Adora's fingers entering and exit Catra's cunt, wetness that dripped and was now coating Adora's wrist and trailing further up her arm. The sounds of Catra's hushed moans and her begs that were silenced by the choke, the sight of Catra's face reddening from the exertion but also Adora presumed the pleasure she received from the hand wrapped around her throat. The scene was something utterly provocative, two individuals wrapped up completely in one another, unable to hold off the strength in their desires a moment longer.

"I wanted this from the moment I saw you-" Adora grit her teeth and thrust harder.

Adora felt Catra lean forward and press their foreheads together. The air they shared was evermore charged with the electricity they always held for one another.

"I know- fuck -" Catra cut herself of f with a moan.

"I knew I had to take this chance, I knew I had to get you to understand that I wanted you too," Catra huf fed and pressed a deep kiss to Adora's lips.

Adora followed, leading the kiss but found Catra's rhythm falling off as her thrusts strengthened, hitting a spot inside of her with utter consistency that Catra was unable to kiss because she was too busy moaning aloud- which Adora swallowed the sounds with greed and pride.

Catra's trembles began, her thighs being the epicenter of the movement and Adora took that a sign to continue fucking into that particular spot with avidity. Her thumb smoothed over the skin of her neck as she increased pressure on the choke once more, Catra's breathing stalling as she grit her teeth, eyes rolling with such finality.

"I I'm cumming-" The phrase, concluded with full-body convulsions, was spoken through a shaky voice.

Catra came and kept cumming. Her cunt locked tight around Adora's fingers, milking the digits for all they were worth as her head fell back as she lost herself in the pleasure. Adora peppered kisses on her neck, continuing the thrusts until Catra released a deep sigh and sagged against Adora's sedentary form.

She finally let her hand fall away from her neck, finding purchase back onto Catra's waist. The pair breathed in unison for a few beats, Adora leading the charge as Catra slowly picked her head up, hazy heterochromatic eyes staring into Adora's.

She mumbled something Adora didnt catch soon afterward.

"What's that?" Adora questioned, keeping her voice soft.

"2 more sessions-" Catra murmured and shifted in Adora's lap.

The puzzled gaze on Adora's face must've been a large indication of her confusion, when Catra cracked a wicked smile after seeing her, Adora wasnt as comforted.

"2 more Pomodoro sessions, your test is in 2 days, we've still got work to do," Catra spoke, her sharp canines sparkling with the smile.

Adora sputtered for several moments before Catra shushed her again.

"I came here to do a job, now granted, we got distracted by-" She cleared her throat, "extracurriculars, but nonetheless, I'm here to tutor you," Catra spoke calmly then began detangling herself from Adora's lap.

Adora sat baffled in her seat, watching as Catra returned to her own at the head of the table, their gazes locking again as Catra flashed yet another grin.

"Besides, it'll be so rewarding when you pass your test and are permitted to play- I'll even come to your match," Catra spoke.

Adora's heart picked up again, the warmth she felt earlier sat once more in her chest, and this time the feeling came without danger.

"Regardless of the outcome of the match, I'll have to give you your congratulations on passing your exam in some way." Catra's tone turned suggestive as memories of the past few minutes flew by with rapid speeds in Adora's mind.

"How do you know I'll pass?" Adora pondered and lived for the cocky look that crossed Catra's features.

"Because I'm tutoring you and when I want something to happen- it does,"

Chills erupted on Adora's arms from the sheer confidence Catra held.

"Now , grab your pencil, and get ready," Catra ordered and hovered her finger over the timer on her phone.

Adora complied, grabbing the pencil and finding her notes. She found herself oddly calm despite the circumstances, though she had a goal in her mind.

Nothing motivated her more like a plausible goal.

A goal in the form of sharing another evening like this with Catra…

Adora knew she'd never fail another test in Physiology 201.
