Sweeten the Kitty

by yagirlStatic

Summary

"So."

"So."

"I hear Mermista met Melog," Glimmer says.

Catra throws her head back. "I can't believe I got gaslit by my own fucking cat," she complains.

-OR-

Five times Melog drives off one of Catra's hookups, and one time they don't.

Notes

Thank you ResFlower for betaing.

this is Res's prompt I can't be blamed for anything.

Title is taken from a saying in gambling.

See the end of the work for more notes

1.

"So, how was the date?" Glimmer asks, with far more excitement than is actually merited.

"Oh, it was a fucking disaster , Sparkles." Catra slumps in her chair , exhaling as she does.

"Come on, it cant have been that bad. Y ou ignored my rescue text"

Catra groans, putting an arm in front of her face. "In hindsight, that was not the move."

Glimmer leans forwards, eyebrows raised. "Spill."

"W ell, it started off okay, but god, once we got back to my apartment"…

Catra twists the knob and opens the door to her apartment. The date was...okay . Not great, not the worst she's ever had. Normally, it wouldnt have been quite up to standard for bringing the woman back to her place, but she's been going through a bit of a dry spell. And, well, Huntara's biceps are the size of Catra' s head, which is a plus.

"Give me just a second," she says, setting her keys down on the small table next to the door . "I need to feed my cat."

"Y ou have a cat?"

"Y eah, Melog. Had them for a year or two now," she says, with a soft smile.

"I dont like cats. They stink."

Catra crosses her arms, raising an eyebrow. "Thanks for sharing, I guess?"

"That thing will never actually love you. It'll eat you if you die."

"I think you should leave." She's never really understood that argument—it's not like she'd be alive to care—but this bitch isn't seeming like somebody worth reasoning with.

"Oh come on, it's just a fucking cat, don't be like that. We can still have a nice time." Huntara leans down towards Melog. Melog hisses and shrinks away from her, tail puffing up more than Catra has ever seen before.

Catra, on the other hand, snarls, unsheathing her claws. She's not sure what this bitch is going to do if she gets her hands on Melog, but she has no interest in finding out. "If you touch a hair on their head, I will gut you like a fish. Get the fuck out of my apartment before I call the cops."

"Ok, Jesus." Huntara backs towards the door, hands up, then slips out. "Crazy bitch," Catra can hear her mutter through the door.

"So she really just said 'cats smell and are incapable of love' to the literal cat person, huh?" Glimmer asks, her eyes wide open in shock.

"Fuckin' tell me about it, right?"

2.

"So."

"So."

"I hear Mermista met Melog."

Catra throws her head back. "I can't believe I got gaslit by my own fucking cat," she complains.

Catra ignores Melog's first meow, because their dinner time isn't for another couple of hours, and she's a little preoccupied at the moment with the woman straddling her, her mouth on Catra's neck and Catra's fingers in her hair.

Melog's second meow is a bit more plaintive, though, and gets Catra to start worrying a little bit.

"Wait, wait. Give me a second," Catra says, gently pushing Mermista off of her, halfway through receiving a hickey. "Melog?"

They hobble into the room on three legs, front left paw raised.

"Shit, Melog, are you okay?" Catra rolls out of bed and tries to grab their paw to inspect it, but Melog hisses at her and scurries backwards under the bed as best they can without using the paw in question. Crap.

She turns to the other woman, still in her bed. "I'm sorry, I should really take care of this," she apologizes with a grimace.

Mermista groans. "Really bad timing, but I get it. Gotta take care of your buddy. I'll find my shirt and get out of your hair."

"Appreciate it." Catra drops to the floor, hoping Melog will be close enough for her to drag them out, but they're wedged in the back corner.

Dammit. She's going to need to resort to treat bribery with this.

"Was there even anything wrong with them?"

"No. Vet did a full workup, and nothing. Then I took them home and the little bastard hops out of their carrier and prances around like they own the place." Catra's tail lashes as she finishes recounting the story.

"Ouch. How much did the vet visit set you back?"

Catra sulks. "I don't wanna talk about it."

3.

"Catra." Glimmer sounds disappointed. Which is fair.

"I mean, it's not like anything actually happened."

"Catra."

"Fine, I'm a terrible person, I've got it, can I go now?" Catra snaps.

Glimmer sighs. "You're not a terrible person. You just did something stupid. And maybe a little cruel. But mostly stupid."

Catra has not been having a particularly wonderful time. Her partner for a group project had decided to plagiarize their half, and then tried to tell their professor that she's the one that did it. So she's stressed, okay? She got a zero, she has to go talk to the honor council, and even if she doesn't get expelled, if she fails this class she's going to lose her academic scholarship, and then her moms are going to have to—she's stressed, okay?

So she wanted to blow off some steam. She's never really been into the bar scene, and she doesn't feel like waiting until she trusts somebody on Tinder to not try to kidnap her or some shit. And Scorpia thinks she's hot, so what's the harm?

Okay. Scorpia more than thinks she's hot. Scorpia really, really likes her. And she's been kind of ignoring it, because she doesn't want to deal with that right now, and...okay, yeah, she kinda fucked up.

Catra had sat the two of them down on the couch while she tried to get a bit more suggestive about things. Melog had hopped up on the back and started gnawing on Scorpia's carapace. Scorpia had lit up like a damn Christmas tree and shouted "Kitty!"

And right now, Catra's trying to console Scorpia, who's crying over the fact that Melog immediately hissed at her and ran away as soon as she tried to pet them, even though she has "so much love to give."

So, instead of letting some of that stress out, now she just feels guilty, too.

Glimmer pinches the bridge of her nose. "Did you at least get a chance to let her down gently?"

Catra purses her lips and exhales. "I think she got the gist of it, but I told her I'd explain it tomorrow. Not looking forwards to that."

"It's the right thing to do."

"Yeah, yeah, I know."

4.

"You been doing okay? You've seemed kinda down these last few weeks."

"Well, I figured I'd double down on the string of bad decisions I've been making."

Glimmer grimaces. "Oh god. What was it this time?"

"Not what. Who."

Catra has not heard wonderful things about DT. She hasn't really even heard good things about them. But here she is, having let them talk their way into coming back home with her anyways.

"Let's move this somewhere a bit more private, kitten."

Catra's ear twitches back. Something about the way they keep using that nickname just rubs her the wrong way, but it's not like anybody's exactly lining up for this, so she's just going to grin and bear it.

DT leads the way to her bedroom, with her reluctantly in trail. Melog is lounging on the comforter, and they hiss as DT enters.

"Shoo." They flick their hands dismissively. "I said shoo."

Melog does not shoo, so DT seems to think it wise to suddenly lift them up in an attempt to remove them physically. Before Catra can think to stop them, Melog yowls, swiping out a paw, and DT drops them and stumbles back, clutching their face. Catra can see blue blood welling up around their fingers.

"You need to control that thing, kitten," they growl at her.

Catra's torn between apologizing, being mad at her cat, and being mad at the person that called her cat "that thing," so she just kind of stands there while DT storms out.

"Well, couldn't have happened to a better person."

"Can't really disagree with you there."

5.

"So, are you good?"

Great question. Catra's resting her head on the table and generally looking like she's given up on life, she's sure. "I'm going to do it. I'm going to dump Melog into one of those anonymous drop boxes at the humane society."

Glimmer stifles a laugh. "What'd they do this time?"

"Can you just wait here for a second?"

"Sure thing, kitty cat. Not like I had plans or anything."

Catra rolls her eyes. Same old Lonnie.

She slips into the apartment and grabs the bag of treats she keeps in the cupboard. She pops open the seal, and a thump can be heard moments later, quickly followed by a dark gray cat skittering across the floor. Melog still hasn't quite grasped the concept that carpet and tile have different amounts of grip, so instead of coming to a halt in front of her, they go sliding into the wall. They shake their ears, then meow insistently.

"Yeah, yeah, yeah." Catra grabs the cat with one hand, bag of treats in the other, and unceremoniously carries them into the bathroom. She dumps them on the floor, sets down two treats for the trouble, and then shuts the door.

Catra wastes no time getting Lonnie into the bedroom. There's exactly one thing she's interested at the moment, and it's not casual conversation. Right as Catra tugs Lonnie's pants down, though, Melog lets put an ear piercing yowl.

God dammit.

She gives Lonnie's pants another tug, trying to get them off before she can say anything, but Melog just yowls again, even louder this time.

Catra collapses, her face coming to rest in Lonnie's cleavage.

I'm actually going to kill them," she mumbles.

Glimmer's howling with laughter. It feels distinctly unsympathetic.

Catra throws her arms out wide in exasperation. "I mean for god's sake, Sparkles! What does a girl have to do to get laid around here?"

Glimmer tones down the laughter approximately 3% and manages to fit a few words out. "Go to their room instead of yours, maybe?"

"Ew, no. I'm not fucking in a college dorm. I have standards, it's why I live off-campus."

"You're being uncharacteristically cheery."

"Maybe I'm just filled with natural zest for life, Sparkles. Have you ever considered that?"

Glimmer narrows her eyes. "Bullshit. You were humming. You don't hum. What's gotten into you?"

Catra shrugs. "Well, you know how your foster sister Adora is visiting?"

"Obviously. I'm the one that told you. Why?"

"I mean, you're the one that asked what's gotten into me, you tell me," Catra says with a smirk.

"What do you—eh, fucking gross, Catra! What the hell?" Glimmer makes a gagging noise. Catra cackles. "She's my sister, I don't need to hear about that! Melog drove everybody else off, they couldn't send her running too?"

"You know, I don't have to come in if you don't want."

"It's not that. It's just... well, if I explain it it's going to seem like a shitty excuse to send you away. Which it isn't. Promise." The blonde is one of the hottest people she's ever seen. She usually isn't much of one for height differences, but the way Adora has been smirking while looking down at her? God.

Catra holds her breath as she unlocks her door, gently easing it open. She ushers Adora past her, holding a finger to her lips, only to have her hopes dashed moments later by a loud meow coming from the couch.

"Oh! Who's this?"

"That's Melog. They— hey, wait, don't—" Catra tries to warn Adora as she picks them up, but Melog just purrs and butts their head up against the bottom of Adora's chin.

"Unbelievable," Catra mutters. Melog glances at her, a smug little look on their asshole face, then tilts their head, providing the most area under their chin for Adora to scratch.

Shaking her head, Catra shuts the door, then gestures towards her room with her head. Adora crouches down, gently lowering Melog to the floor, where they immediately start rubbing against her legs. Adora chuckles, holding out a fist, which Melog sniffs a couple times, then headbutts gently.

Catra hisses under her breath, ears pinned back. Melog looks back at her, then gets one more rub against Adora's legs before hopping back up on the couch, curling up where they'd been sleeping before Catra opened the door and closing their eyes.

When she looks back at Adora, the blonde has an amused smile on her face. "A bit possessive, are we?"

Catra growls, grabbing Adora's wrist and pulling her into her bedroom, shutting the door and then flopping down on the bed. "Look, I love that little furball to death, but they've driven off basically every hookup I've ever tried to bring back here." She's not counting Huntara. That bitch had ruined it herself.

Adora raises an eyebrow. "Is that what this was supposed to be?"

"Um...no?" Catra says, but she can't manage to suppress the little lilt at the end that she knows has to make it entirely clear to Adora that this was, in fact, supposed to be a hookup. "We could watch something. Or you could go and hang out with Sparkles if you want. I don't want to take up all your time."

Very convincing. Great job, Catra. She covers her face with her hands.

"Hmm." She can feel the bed shift as Adora repositions herself, jostling Catra slightly. Suddenly, there's a pressure at her wrists, and then she's looking at Adora again, her hands pinned to the pillow above her head, Adora straddling her.

"So, uh"—

"Shhhh." Adora fixes her with a stare.

"Yes ma'am," Catra whimpers.

"Good girl." Adora's gaze roams up and down Catra, and even fully clothed, she feels more exposed than she ever has before. Adora takes her free hand and slowly trails it up Catra's body, starting at her stomach, and ending at her chin, which she grasps, softly but firmly. She brushes her thumb over Catra's lips, and Catra opens them without even thinking.

Adora cocks her head, looking Catra dead in the eyes with a confident smirk. "Are you sure that's not what this was supposed to be?" Without waiting for an answer , she slides her thumb forwards. Fuck, Catra can feel it on her tongue.

"Oh, dear lord in Heaven," she mumbles around the finger in her mouth.

"So yeah, Melog loved her . We're going out again tomorrow ."

End Notes

yeah, that’s not what gaslighting is, but Catra is suffering from severe lack of fuck, cut her some slack.

Im on Twitter!Come hang out;unlike Melog, Idont scratch.
