Wine and Late Night Intentions

Posted originally on the Archive of Our Own at http://archiveofourown.org/works/36341605.

Rating:
Mature

Archive Warning:
Creator Chose Not To Use Archive Warnings

Category:
F/F

Fandom:
She-Ra and the Princesses of Power (2018)

Relationships:
Adora/Catra (She-Ra), Adora & Catra (She-Ra)

Characters:
Catra (She-Ra), Adora (She-Ra)

Additional Tags:
Catra (She-Ra) Needs a Hug, Lesbian Catra (She-Ra), Adorable Adora (She-Ra), Adora (She-Ra) Needs a Hug, Hopeless Lesbians, can't have a good story without some trauma, thanks for that Shadow Weaver., Abusive Shadow Weaver | Light Spinner (She-Ra), Shadow Weaver | Light Spinner's A+ Parenting, Catra seriously just needs some affection, Lesbian Disaster Adora (She-Ra), I'm folding like a lawn chair with all these feels, Someone sedate me, Chugging wine by the case as we speak, One Shot, one shots hit different, enjoy this content ya filthy animals, my emotions are unhinged at this point, Fluff, Fluff and Angst, because why the hell not, Hurt/Comfort, Emotional Hurt/Comfort, Spicy Scenes, probably ending in sex, guaranteeing sexy time at least, how do we end up at that point? Just read and find out, stay slutty my friends ;), Cussing, Catra and Adora will cuss but especially Catra

Language:
English

Stats:
Published: 2022-01-10 Completed: 2022-10-22 Words: 12,876 Chapters: 4/4

Wine and Late Night Intentions

Posted originally on the Archive of Our Own at http://archiveofourown.org/works/36341605.

Rating:
Mature

Archive Warning:
Creator Chose Not To Use Archive Warnings

Category:
F/F

Fandom:
She-Ra and the Princesses of Power (2018)

Relationships:
Adora/Catra (She-Ra), Adora & Catra (She-Ra)

Characters:
Catra (She-Ra), Adora (She-Ra)

Additional Tags:
Catra (She-Ra) Needs a Hug, Lesbian Catra (She-Ra), Adorable Adora (She-Ra), Adora (She-Ra) Needs a Hug, Hopeless Lesbians, can't have a good story without some trauma, thanks for that Shadow Weaver., Abusive Shadow Weaver | Light Spinner (She-Ra), Shadow Weaver | Light Spinner's A+ Parenting, Catra seriously just needs some affection, Lesbian Disaster Adora (She-Ra), I'm folding like a lawn chair with all these feels, Someone sedate me, Chugging wine by the case as we speak, One Shot, one shots hit different, enjoy this content ya filthy animals, my emotions are unhinged at this point, Fluff, Fluff and Angst, because why the hell not, Hurt/Comfort, Emotional Hurt/Comfort, Spicy Scenes, probably ending in sex, guaranteeing sexy time at least, how do we end up at that point? Just read and find out, stay slutty my friends ;), Cussing, Catra and Adora will cuss but especially Catra

Language:
English

Stats:
Published: 2022-01-10 Completed: 2022-10-22 Words: 12,876
Chapters: 4/4

Wine and Late Night Intentions

by MackAttack007

Summary

A planned quiet night at home for Adora after a very long and stressful week turns into anything but quiet when someone shows up at her doorstep uninvited. It's late at night and she wasn't expecting anyone.

Old feelings begin to force itself up while Adora tries to keep herself in check. This is NOT how Adora planned for her evening to go, but she just couldn't resist helping the late night visitor.

Will Adora be able to navigate her feelings while helping this uninvited visitor or will this turn into the, record breaking, worst evening ever?

Lots of questions, but stubborn individuals leave little time for answers.

Notes

⚠️ WARNING ⚠️: Contains lots of fluff, hurt and comfort, and we might end up having a ✨ spicy ✨ chapter, but we'll see where this all leads.

Thanks for giving this story a shot. I will post trigger warnings at the beginning of each chapter if there are any.

This is a one shot, but it could end up being a few chapters. We'll see where it takes us.

Enjoy. 😈

See the end of the work for more notes

The Uninvited Visitor

"There you are!", I groaned as my finger tips were grazing my favorite wine glass and my tip toes were running out of flat surface for leverage. After the hectic week I've had, all I simply wanted for my evening was a glass of wine or two, my favorite spicy romance novel, and a date with my couch. A pop of the cork was the only sound to be heard followed by me pouring a generous amount of wine into my glass. My senses were infiltrated with the smell of watermelon and berry notes. I sigh at the refreshing and familiar smell. This rosé wine will forever have a special place in my heart for personal reasons. I physically shake my head at the memories that bubble up to the surface. I can't get lost in the memories right now. Not again. I'll try to save those emotions for another night. With a glass of wine in hand and my novel in the other I am finally ready for ultimate relaxation. Just as I sit down and begin to melt into the couch, the doorbell rings. I moan as I stand up and let out a slew of complaints all the way to my front door. I peak through the peephole and oddly enough, I don't see anyone. I shrug my shoulders and begin to head back to the couch where my wine and book were waiting for me on the end table. That was odd. Why would someone be ringing my doorbell this late at night and not even be there when I looked? Probably some kids are playing a joke on me. My thoughts were suddenly interrupted when my doorbell rang again. I stopped and slowly turned back around towards my door. My eyebrows furrowed together in confusion. This seems very suspicious. The hair on the back of my neck is beginning to stand up and goosebumps are spreading all across my body. Something doesn't feel right. I stealthily make my way over to the table next to the door. I reach above the table and carefully remove my sword from its resting place on my wall. I whisper, "For the honor of Grayskull," and turn into an 8 foot tall kick ass weapon. I open the door in a fighting stance with the sword firmly grasped in my hands above my head ready to strike. I freeze. My eyes go wide. Remember those memories I didn't want to think about earlier? Well, they've made their way back to the forefront of my mind instantly. My emotions started to get the better of me. Before I could completely spiral out of control in an obvious way, I pushed down the emotions quickly. The person in question was holding onto the door frame on both sides of the door with all the strength she could muster, breathing heavily, shivering from the downpour of rain outside, clothing was torn, cuts accompanied some of the torn areas, and she looked at me through dazed eyes. It looks like she's been assaulted. I look closer at her eyes. Did someone drug her? My stance weakened, but my guard is still up against the girl. She is the absolute last person I would ever expect at my doorstep.

"Hey, Adora."

A shiver ran down my spine at her words. Her voice pierced through me.

"I am in pain."

"Do you mean emotional pain or - Oh God! That's a lot of blood!"

"Pain. Yes."

She moved her one shaky hand off the door frame and exposed some of her side underneath the ripped clothing.

My heart began to beat faster.

"Why did you ring the doorbell like it was just some normal day?"

Catra raised an eyebrow at me.

"Did you expect me to pound on the door like some wild animal? My manners might not be the best, but they're not dead."

She laughed lightly, but her smile didn't reach her eyes.

"Why?"

“Fine, I’ll just come in guns blazing, as loud as I can possibly be, and bang on your door for good measure. Your neighbors will love me. My bad. I’ll try harder next time.”

Catra rolls her eyes in exasperation.

“No, I just wanna know why you keep parting your hair in that dorky way.”

Catra glared at me while I let out the loudest belly laugh. I haven’t laughed like that in so long. It felt nice. After my laughing fit died down, I looked up at Catra to catch a small smile growing ever so slightly. Catra trying to hide her smile just made my heart flutter a bit more. It almost felt like old times.

“Are you done laughing at my expense?”

“Only if you’re done making it so easy.”

Catra lets out a small laugh and begins to shake her head at my antics.

“Some things never change with you.”

We shared a momentary glance that only lasted for a second, but held so many questions and emotions swirling around between us all at the same time. Reality came crashing in when Catra let out a strangled yell in pain. She began to buckle under her own weight. I move forward trying to assist her with standing.

Catra holds her hand out stopping me in my tracks before I could touch her, “Don’t touch me.” It came out in a hushed tone. Almost like she wanted me to, but not all at the same time.

“Who did this to you?”

“Should that really be a question right now? I’m kinda bleeding out here.Quit asking so many questions.”

I narrow my eyes.

“I’m going to be asking a bunch of questions since you, of all people, are at my doorstep in the middle of the night.”

Her eyes don’t meet mine.

“Catra, please tell me what happened.”

“I…just…I just didn’t know where else to go…”

“Catra, can you-,” she began to sway in the entryway. Using my best judgement, against Catra’s will, I moved quickly to catch her before she completely blacked out. She reeked of alcohol.

“Didn’t think I’d be in your arms again, Princess.”

I opened my mouth to make a snarky comment, but before I could, Catra passed out in my arms.

My thoughts started reeling. Who assaulted her? Who drugged her? Why did they do this? Why was she their target? My assumption would be they drugged her drink and then had their way with her. Catra is strong. So, whoever drugged her and then assaulted her, clearly didn’t think they could handle her sober.

I swiftly scoop her up into my arms and quickly make my way to my bedroom. Catra needed some immediate medical attention. That’s the only fact that seems obvious right now. If she thought I was asking a lot of questions now, just wait until she wakes up.

Shower Thoughts

Chapter Summary

> Catra gets herself caught in some sticky situations in this chapter.
>
> Shower Thoughts. I wonder what that's about? 🧐

Chapter Notes

> ⚠️ WARNING: This chapter contains some mentions of abuse and trauma. Readers discretion is advised thank you. ⚠️
>
> Will we find out what happened to Catra? Keep reading and stay slutty my friends.
>
> Read the end of chapter notes please.
>
> Enjoy. 😈

See the end of the chapter for more notes

Everything is black. For a split second, I truly believed that the only explanation was that I was dead. I had to be dead. Knowing me, that would be my luck. It seems to be the route my life has been going. My heart began to race and accompanied with that my head began to pound with splitting pain. I groan for a moment. All theories of me being dead are completely over as I slowly pull my hands up towards my face to find a pillow over it. Is it weird that I'm kinda disappointed that I'm still alive? Well, whatever. I let out another groan as I can hear a distant noise making my head pound a bit more. I sit up really fast to be met with searing pain in my side, my pounding headache still raging on, and my muscles seem to be really sore. I gradually opened one eye to glance around the room. The light coming in through the window was blinding, but even more annoying than the light was that dumb sound making my head throb even more since it's become louder after removing the pillow from my face. I take my pillow and throw it at the old fashioned bell alarm clock clanging around on the dresser across the room. Once the room is completely quiet I take the other pillow on the bed and throw it back over my face. It only took a few seconds for me to shoot right back up in bed and frantically begin to look around. The curtains are a different color than I'm used to, the walls and side tables have photos on them, and the bed comforter smells like spring with a swirly pattern all over it. In the photos people were smiling and that alone was a dead giveaway. This is NOT my living quarters. I ball my hands into fists and rub my eyes vigorously, almost as if to wake up from a horrible dream. While my fists are still rubbing my eyes I hear the door slowly open. In the absolute silence of the room I hear a small creek of the door that just about deafens me. The sound of the door alone was enough to send shivers down my spine and launch my stomach spiraling. I begin to scramble from my spot on the bed to the complete opposite side of the king size mattress. This mattress was huge, but somehow it wasn't big enough.

"Stay away from me!," I shouted as the door began to open wider without me seeing who was entering. "It wasn't my fault! I told you everything I knew. I swear! I promise I don't know anything else," I exasperated as my body began to shake. Tears began to appear. I could feel them, but instead of letting them out I pushed them away. I already knew the consequences of what would happen if they saw a single tear. I dug my fingernails into the palms of my hands to cease my shaking. Without any warning, hands were on me. I already know how this one is going to end. The beating of my life all over again. My arms and legs start thrashing all around trying to get away from them.

"No, stop!"

"Catra!"

My eyes dart open to come face to face with concerned eyes interlaced with a level of calm I've only seen from…

“Adora?”

“Yeah, Catra it’s me.”

My head is swimming in all the emotions and questions I have. I don’t know where to start. So, instead I stay silent. I begin to look at Adora and assess the situation. Her hands were wrapped firmly around my wrists to stop them in their tracks. Her, all too familiar, scent invaded my nostrils. The smell of vanilla and pine needles assaulted all my senses. Adora’s earthy smell mixed in with notes of vanilla ground me and help me to physically relax just a small bit. I still have an itchy feeling all over my body and the need to physically run pushing its way to the front of my thoughts. I begin to try and wiggle my wrists loose from Adora’s firm grip with no such luck. So, I began to move my legs and try to raise my hips up off the bed so I could make a run for it. That’s when my eyes went a bit wide and fully realized where Adora was located. Her legs were a little bit tangled with mine, but her torso was firmly placed between my legs and it became more evident as she lowered herself deeper onto me when she noticed me still trying to get away. Her presence shot fire all over my body at her physical contact. Everything about her was intoxicating. It was becoming too much. I can’t handle this.

“Catra, hey, you need to relax,” Adora spoke in soft hushed tones. She was trying her best to relax me. I’m hearing what she’s saying, but I still feel like I need to run. I can’t breathe. She’s too close.

“Talk to me, Catra. Did you have a bad dream?”

I blink a few times.

“No, I didn’t,” my response was shaky. I thought I had more confidence behind that statement, but Adora’s expression said otherwise.

“Can you tell me what’s wrong?”

Adora wants to know what's wrong? What's wrong? Well, for starters you're literally laying on top of me, in between my legs, your smell is intoxicating, and I can't think straight when she's in the same room as me let alone her being on top of me! And she wants to know what's wrong? I open my mouth to speak, but quickly clamp it shut. Adora looks at me expectantly. I try to speak again.

"No, I don't want to talk about it."

I do want to talk about it though.

"Are you sure, Catra?"

"Yes, I'm sure. Do you even know where you're laying?"

Adora looks down and then back up at me.

"I needed to get you to stop thrashing around. This was the only way I could do that."

"I don't need your help. Get off me."

My words didn't match my internal conflict. My mind screamed get off but my body craved her touch.

"Okay, I'll move. But you have to promise me not to just run away."

I narrow my eyes at her.

"Some of us are pretty good at breaking promises. So, I'm not promising you anything."

Adora locked eyes with me and let out a tired sigh.

"I'll give you some space."

My heart screamed for her to stay. Adora began to untangle herself from me and created space between us. As her body heat faded from me, my heart began to ache unbearably. She sat at the end of the bed while my back rested against the headboard. She seemed miles away, even though she was only a few feet away from me.

“Why am I in your house? Did you kidnap me or something?”

A confused expression came across Adora’s face.

“You were the one that came to my house late last night.”

“I did?”

“You don’t remember?”

I scratch my head searching for answers about last night, but it’s a total blank. Nothing was coming to mind. I started to semi panic due to the last thing I could remember was seeing Shadow Weaver enter the bar that I was occupying. Everything else after that was blank. Adora’s senses were keen as usual, she could sense the shift in the air. She placed a calming hand on my leg.

“I’m here whenever you want to talk about it, okay?”

I don’t say anything. I just let the silence ring on.

“Right now, focusing on you getting better should be top priority.”

I scoff and knock her hand off my leg. The quick movement made my headache raise its ugly head again. My hand quickly went up to my head but the rest of my body groaned in all the sudden movements. I also smelled something very potent. I soon found out that a horrible smell was coming from me. I sniff my armpit and I scrunch my nose up in disgust. I look away towards the open bathroom door. A shower sounds really nice at this point. Actually, anything to get away from Adora sounds nice right now. I began to try and stand up, but I noticed very quickly that all I had on under these covers were my sports bra and boxer briefs. Some brief bandaging was covering me in various spots, but that’s it. My face betrays me and begins to burn bright red.

“Adora, why am I practically naked?”

“I had to attend to your injuries.”

“So, you took all of my clothes off?”

Adora nodded her head, like it was the obvious answer. But I could still tell she didn’t know what I was getting at.

“Adora, you do know you’re magic right?”

“Yeah I know that. I turned into She-Ra and then carried you to my bedroom.”

I freeze and look around really quick. I’m in Adora’s bedroom. Fuck. My face burns even brighter if that’s possible. My heart begins to pick up the pace in my chest. I clear my throat.

“You’re magic, and you used your magic to carry me to your bedroom instead of healing me without taking my clothes off?”

Realization finally came to her. It was Adora’s turn to have a bright red blush spread across her cheeks. She began to fidget at the long sleeves of her shirt. She took the fabric in between her forefinger and thumb. Rubbing the fabric ever so lightly. Adora has always been a texture person. She would always run her fingers through my fur or hang on to the hem of my shirt and run the fabric between her forefinger and thumb whenever we were standing close.

I physically shake my head to loosen up all the memories that kept pouring in. I quickly announce, “I’m taking a shower,” before pushing through the pain and standing up on my feet. Adora stood up just as fast.

“Let me heal you with my magic before you take a shower.”

“No, thanks,” I quickly voice before rushing past her towards the bathroom located in Adora’s bedroom.

“If you let me heal you, it’ll probably make your shower more enjoyable.”

“I like the pain.”

“You, what?”

My eyes go a bit wide as I realize what just came out of my mouth. Adora’s going to think I’m some kind of masochist.

“Forget it,” I mutter as I quickly open the door to the bathroom and lock it behind me just as fast, while leaving flustered Adora in my wake. I slapped my hand over my eyes in frustration, but was rewarded with a sharp pain that radiates down through my head. Which in return made me equally aware of the throbbing in my side where a rather large bandage covered. I was a mess physically, emotionally, and mentally. That all was expected, but one thing I didn’t anticipate was getting turned on at the slightest things Adora would do. The way she would fix her ponytail, putting a hand on my knee, and the way she would speak softly to me, are just a few examples. I could feel the goofy smile on my face. Is this what I’m attracted to? Normal interactions? Above everything else she was literally laying in between my legs while we were both in her bed. Wait…Adora was laying In between my legs on her bed. My cheeks began to burn again along with my heart pounding in my chest like a drum. How could someone not get turned on by anything Adora does? A shiver ran down my spine as my mind began to roam with the possibilities of nearly anything I could do with Adora. I shake my head and try to bring myself back to reality, but my brain seems to keep me in a lust filled fog. A cold shower would probably do the trick. I need to clear my mind in some way. The water begins to sputter out of the shower head and I strip off my undergarments. If this shower doesn’t do the trick, then I’m going to need a different distraction and some distance. Letting Adora get close to me will only cause her pain. I can handle the pain, but I don’t want Adora to suffer. Shadow Weaver made herself very clear. Adora is their target and I’ve thrown them off her trail multiple times. I’ll do anything to protect Adora. Even if that means I have to take a few punches here and there. Maybe they've caught onto me? By the looks of these injuries, it seems like Shadow Weaver has made herself known and definitely was trying to send me an unforgettable message. My hands begin to slightly shake. I ball my hands into fists and use my nails to cause indentations in the palms of my hands. I get into the shower and let the cool water trickle down my body. This is a much needed distraction, until the thoughts of Adora start invading my mind again. I shake my head under the cold water and let out an audible groan. This is going to be tougher than I thought and this cold shower isn't helping to cool me off. The heat that was building inside me is still there and growing stronger by each passing moment.

Chapter End Notes

Thanks so much for reading! 😭 I'll probably be posting one more chapter with this one shot.

Kudos and comments are highly appreciated.

THANKS SO MUCH. 👏🏻 ❤️

Tea With A Side of Feelings

Chapter Summary

> Adora has to navigate some unknown feelings. Tea and deep conversation is needed before anything else can happen between them. It'll be a struggle for Catra and Adora, but they've fought in huge battles, survived brutal trainings, and vanquished foes. A little tea and conversation can't be that bad…right?

Chapter Notes

> Hey everyone! It's been a long time since the last update, but life has been kinda crazy right now. This chapter is super long compared to the other chapters. Check end of chapter notes for an updates regarding the "one shot" story. Not sure if it's really considered a 'one shot' anymore. Haha! Thanks for still sticking around and reading this story. I've truly had so much fun writing it so far. I'm squealing right along with all of you through these chapters. 🥰
>
> ⚠️ WARNING ⚠️
>
> MENTIONS OF TRAUMA ARE WITHIN THIS CHAPTER. IT IS BRIEF, BUT I WANTED TO WARN ALL OF YOU.
>
> Stay groovy my friends.
>
> Enjoy! 😈

See the end of the chapter for more notes

I stood there with my mouth hanging slightly open and my eyes wide in pure shock. Did Catra just say what I think she said? A light blush sprouts up on my cheeks at the mere thought of Catra liking a bit of pain and thinking about what that could mean. I shake my head to disperse the thoughts. Catra is going to need a new set of clothes and I can make some tea for us while she is in the shower. I walk over to the door and yell, “Catra! I’m going to leave some extra clothes for you on my bed. I’ll be back later,” All I could hear was the sound of running water. I thought for a moment she didn’t hear me until I faintly heard an, “Okay.”

I rummaged through my dresser drawers and successfully found a T-shirt with some joggers. This clothing should make Catra comfortable to lounge around. They might be a bit big on her, but it’ll be nice to just relax. I take the folded up clothing and lay them on my bed, ready for whenever Catra would be done with her shower. I quickly exit my bedroom and make my way towards the kitchen so I can get some tea started. Hot tea should warm Catra right up. Personally, I don’t need to be any warmer. Catra alone makes me hot enough to put volcanos to shame. I slow blink a few times and look around the kitchen as if someone was there that could read my thoughts. I can’t believe that thought crossed my mind just now. My thoughts were then assaulted, clearly against my will, with images of a naked Catra in my shower covered in suds and asking in desperate need to be scrubbed. Something out of the ordinary started to happen. It’s hard to put into words what I’m feeling since I don’t feel it often. I rarely feel this around certain people, but with Catra it tends to happen often. Almost like, butterflies started in my abdomen, but worked its way lower. A funny feeling started to rise in my lower regions when I suddenly snapped back to reality as the tea kettle whistled loudly. My cheeks were scorching hot, my stomach had massive butterflies, and there was an unsatisfied ache beginning between my legs making itself well known by throbbing persistently. I physically shook my head, cleared my throat, and pulled the tea kettle off the stove and began making our cups of tea. I don’t know what that was or what I’m feeling, but all I know is I need a good distraction. Part of me believes I won’t have time to distract myself before Catra is done with her shower. I let myself think about her wearing my clothing. The oversized look on her. The fabric soaks up all of Catra’s scent. I inhale deeply, just imagining Catra’s scent gently entering my senses like a distant memory becoming vividly clear. The scent of clean laundry and lavender linger in my thoughts. Just the idea of that makes me audibly groan lightly. Hanging out with the girl I've had a massive crush on since…I can't even remember when it started, her wearing my clothes, laying in my bed, and us being in the same room together had me feeling really weird. Again, those random butterflies came back in the pit of my stomach.

I breathe out in a pained sigh. I know I want Catra. I definitely want Catra, but she's so distant and cold towards me that I don't feel like she feels the same way I do. So, I'm going to do what I do best, push down my undying feelings and just forget about them forever. Sounds simple enough. I can do that. This will be a piece of cake.

I grab the cups of tea and make my way back towards my room. I stop in front of my door and my heart begins to pound a bit faster in my chest. My chest suddenly becomes tighter and a bit heavy. I take a deep breath in and exhale a shaky breath out. That breath didn't alleviate my chest in the slightest. "Come on Adora, pull it together," I whisper to myself as I hit my knuckles lightly on the door. I heard shuffling and then a quiet but stern "Come in," made its way to my ears. I push the door open to find glowing eyes staring at me over the mountain of various blankets all tucked in around her. Every inch of her was covered except a place for her eyes to look out. I smile to myself.

"Do you have enough blankets there?"

Catra's ears twitch. My heart skips.

"No, I honestly could use a few more."

I set the cups of tea down gently on the end table next to the bed.

"Oh! I could go get you a few more. Just give me a sec-"

A high pitched laugh erupts from the tower of blankets and a hand shot out to stop me from leaving.

“Adora, no, I was just kidding. I’ve got plenty,” Catra’s elevated laugh tapered off into a quick level of silence.

We locked eyes only for a moment as she quickly dropped my hand. I stood there slowly swaying from side to side. I didn’t know if Catra wanted me to even stay. The silence was deafening, so I decided to make myself scarce.

“I’m gonna go and give you your spa-”

“Your home is a wreck. You could’ve at least cleaned the bathroom,” she retorted in a ‘matter of fact’ tone interlaced with mischief.

I pivot on my heel and meet those captivating eyes once more. My heart skips again.

“Had I known I was going to have company at three o’clock in the morning, I’m sure I would’ve,” I quickly retorted.

Catra actually graces me with a genuine smile at my snarky response. I smile back, but I notice her eyes hold something else there. It was almost like a flicker of longing. I couldn’t quite place what was behind those eyes. I could feel whatever it was in the air between us. It just hung there like an unspoken secret ready to burst forward. Out of all the other times I’ve looked into those captivating eyes, it just felt completely different right now. And there was that weird feeling making itself known again. Right in my stomach.

“Are you going to stand there all night or are you going to drink your tea?”

“To be honest, I don’t know if I should stay or just go.”

There was a long pause. My heart began to race again out of embarrassment. Catra obviously doesn’t want me in here and she can’t even bring herself to say it.

“I’m just gonna go.”

I turn to leave when I feel a hand firmly grab my wrist.

“No, stay.”

I raise an eyebrow as I turn back to look at her.

“Please.”

That ‘please’ was rushed out in a whisper. To my surprise I saw a semi blushing Catra, who couldn't make eye contact with me, and the blankets fell down to her waist in her attempt to reach out for me. Her mane was well contained and fell delicately and wild all at the same time below her shoulders. Pieces of hair were still wet around her temples. Baby curls were forming around her face. That was one of my favorite attributes of Catra. The little curls that would frame her face. Her hand grazed down and found its place within my hand.

“Please stay, Adora,” she reiterated with more confidence this time.

I quickly realized I hadn’t said a single word.

“I-of, of course I will, Catra.”

She gently let go of my hand, I internally groaned at the loss of warmth, and she replaced her hand with a warm cup of tea that brought a different kind of warmth back to me. It wasn’t Catra’s warmth, but it’ll do.

“Sit down, dummy.”

“Dummy? Oh wow, I haven’t heard that in a long time.”

“Well, we haven’t seen each other in a long time.”

I swirl my tea around in my cup as I get lost in memories that wash over me.

“Hey, Um, I’m so-sorry.”

My eyes snapped up to look at Catra, but again, she couldn't look at me.

"What are you sorry for?"

Catra started mimicking me and swirled the remaining bit of tea around in her cup.

"I'm sorry for how I reacted and treated you earlier. I'm not good at these things so just drop it, dummy."

"It's okay. A lot happened in one night. But I still have a lot of questions."

Catra nodded her head almost as if it was approval to continue.

"What happened to you Catra and how did you end up on my doorstep?"

"To be honest, I don't have a clue how I ended up at your doorstep."

"Do you remember anything?"

"I do remember some things actually."

"Can you tell me about the things you remember?"

Catra was silent.

"Do you know who did this to you at least?"

Catra physically tensed at my last question. She started squeezing the mug in her hand so hard that I thought it was going to shatter. Her knuckles began to turn white. I gently reached forward and took the mug out of her hands and placed both of the mugs on the end table. I quickly went back to Catra and scooped up her hands into my own. They were tense at first, but quickly melted into my own.

"We can take a break if this is too much for now."

“NO, I really do want to talk about it. I-I just don’t know how.”

I brushed my thumbs across her knuckles.

“Okay, I have all the time in the world. We can take this slow.”

Catra breathed in a shaky breath and it came out just as shaky.

“Okay, well, I was having a good time at this bar that Scorpia and I would hang at. Scorpia couldn’t make it that night for some reason, so I went alone. I remember drinking a few drinks. The door to the bar opened and in walked…”

Catra looked up at me for reassurance. I smiled softly at her and gradually moved forward to gently press our foreheads together. It’s an old trick I had learned helped ground Catra when she was getting flustered.

“It’s okay. I’m right here.”

Catra physically relaxed a bit, but was still tense.

“Okay, um, the person that walked in was, uh, Sh-Shadow Weaver.”

It was now my turn to tense at just the mention of that wretched woman’s name. Catra noticed the change in me so she let go of my hands and put her hands on both sides of my face. She made me look at her.

“Hey, you were gone there for a split second. Where did you go?”

“Oh, uh, it’s nothing. You said, Shadow Weaver was the one that walked in?”

“Yeah, she came up to be asking very particular questions about…”

Catra almost seemed like she didn’t want to say the next part.

“Go on, Catra. It’s okay.”

“She was asking questions about…y-you.”

My eyes went wide.

“Why? I’ve been away from her for so long. I thought she forgot about me. What does she want? Why was she asking you?”

Catra moved her hands down to my shoulders which were now heaving up and down due to my deep breaths between every question. I thought I had a good handle on my emotions when it came to Shadow Weaver. Apparently, I still have some work to do.

“Adora, take some calming breaths here. That’s a lot of questions,” she chuckles to herself. My breathing slowly evens out. All that could be heard was the sound of my alarm clock ticking away somewhere and the questions that lingered in the air between us. And I don’t mean just the questions about Shadow Weaver.

“I don’t think you should be the one comforting me. I should be comforting you.”

I lightly nudge Catra with my shoulder. A small smile begins at the corner of her mouth.

“You know, I’ve always had to be the stronger one. Now, I’m emotionally and physically stronger than you.”

I turn my body to fully face Catra. My eyes narrow in on her.

“Excuse you.”

Catra runs her hand through her hair.

“Don’t act like this is new information, Adora.”

I squint at her and I begin acting like I’m looking for something. I bring my hand up to my chin to really put on my thinking face while my eyebrows furrowed together. Catra cocked her head and currently has a puzzled expression on her face.

“What’re you looking for, Dummy?”

“Oh, nothing. Just trying to see where you get your audacity and lies from.”

I couldn’t hold back the smirk that made its way across my face. I see a flabbergasted Catra sitting in front of me. Her mouth slightly open and her eyes wide. I couldn’t help but burst into a fit of deep belly laughs.

“You’re gonna be sorry, Adora.”

“Oh yeah? Why’s that?”

I look up at her from my laughing fit to see a more predatory gaze in her eye with a mischievous grin plastered on her face. Without me realizing, she unraveled herself out of the mountain of blankets and was on all fours crawling closer to me across the bed. My eyes widened. I broke out into a cold sweat, but my body was on fire all at the same time. The beating in my chest was so intense I could feel the pounding in my ears as well. Her eyes were softly glowing in the dim lighting of my bedroom. Her tail was swaying playfully. Catra was wearing my shirt, but as she was crawling towards me the oversized shirt fell just enough down the front of her that I could definitely see her exposed chest. A deep red blush betrayed me and revealed itself to Catra. My body betraying me made me flustered, but it seemed to give Catra more confidence as she crawled agonizingly slowly towards me. She was just an arms length away when she spoke so softly. I almost had to strain to hear her over the pounding in my ears.

“Take back what you said.”

“Make me.”

The statement was so quick and bold. I can’t believe that just came out of my mouth. It shocked both of us a bit, but Catra recovered quicker than I did. Catra laughed lightly. My eyes never leave hers.

“Fine, it’s your funeral.”

Before I could retort any kind of snarky comment Catra pounced on me. Literally. Pillows went flying off the bed. The blanket mountain that Catra was occupying earlier is now demolished as her and I roll around on the bed fighting for dominance. Giggling and the sound of struggling are the only noises to be heard. I go easy on Catra at first, just to give her the small fleeting taste of victory until I fully show her who’s really in charge here. Catra pins me down with both of her hands on either side of my face and my wrists are firmly held in her grasp. She straddles me and all that can be heard is panting for a few moments. Catra has a wicked grin from ear to ear in her feeling of victory. Well, I can’t have that so I’m going to cause a small distraction.

“I told you I was the stronger one, Adora. You just don’t listen.”

“Are you sure about that?”

“Who’s the one on top again? Oh, yeah, that’s right. That’s me.”

I smirk.

“I love it when you’re on top of me. You look so beautiful from this angle.”

Catra’s eyes go wide and her grip around my wrists loosen just enough. Now is my chance. She won’t suspect this at all. I pull my arms in Catra’s grasp to my sides and thrust my hips upward which in turn makes Catra’s center of gravity move forward on top of me. I quickly wrap one arm around her and roll on top of her. It was my turn to pin her wrists underneath my hands next to the sides of her face. I’m straddling her as I look down on her with one eyebrow raised.

“You let your guard down. How vulnerable of you Catra. That’s so embarrassing.”

I swear, I could see Catra’s ears turning red along with her face burning the brightest red I’ve ever seen. She won’t make eye contact with me. The beautiful woman laying underneath me seems to be looking everywhere except at me.

“Don’t play with my emotions like that.”

My eyebrows knit together.

“What do you mean?”

“You know exactly what I’m talking about. Don’t lie just to get me off guard so you can win our wrestling match.”

I blink a few times. I didn’t know what to say. I’m confused on where Catra was coming from. So, I just remained quiet. Apparently Catra couldn’t handle the quiet. She began to squirm underneath me.

“I already know how you truly feel about me, Adora. So, don’t lie just to get your way with me.”

Tears began to prick at the corners of Catra’s eyes. Realization washes over me in waves. I get a sinking feeling in the pit of my stomach.

“Your empty words hurt more than any beating I could have received,” Catra’s voice cracked on the last word. “Get off of me, now.”

“Catra, look at me,” I said in the absolute softest and most hushed voice I could muster. If a pen would drop it would drown out the sound of my hushed voice. She still refused to meet my gaze. It absolutely crushed my soul that Catra believes I’m using her just to get what I want. I waited patiently, but when her movements underneath me became more desperate, I knew I needed to be honest with her. That’s the only way I could possibly think to calm her down. I guess it’s now or never right?

“Hey, listen. If you’re not going to look at me, then at least listen,” my statement doesn’t make her movements lessen. I never thought I would be saying this ever, let alone right now. Here goes nothing.

"I meant every word earlier," my words are rushed and I'm sure Catra could hear the shake in my voice vibrating off every syllable. It's my turn to look everywhere except into Catra's eyes. There's no way I could handle her gaze right now. Her movements stopped and out of the corner of my eye I could see her finally looking at me. Well, I can't back out now. "Catra, I really meant every word. I think you are so beautiful and I hate it that you don't see what I see. When I look at you, I see so much kindness buried deep beneath mountains of sarcasm and mean comments. But you have a heart and I know it's there because I've seen it in action. Your heart is reflected in the way you look out for me when you try to make it seem like you don't care. Your heart is in every sarcastic comment and every playful wrestling match. I wish you would see your own worth and actually accept that you're worth all the kindness and goodness this world has to offer. I know you care about me, but I really don't think you care for me in the same way I care for you." The silence hanging between us lingers for far too long in my personal opinion. I get the feeling I've crossed a line. Every inch of me is screaming to just take back everything I said. To do anything to clear out the awkwardness that's lingering in the air. I slightly opened my mouth to take back everything I just said when I heard light chuckling coming from underneath me. I glance down while raising an eyebrow.

"Who's being the embarrassingly vulnerable one now?"

I could feel my cheeks starting to get a tiny bit warm. I don't mind Catra's snarky banter, but it's becoming too much right now. This truly is embarrassing.

"Catra, with the way you were reacting, I really don't think you have room to be making me feel stupid and embarrassed."

Catra's eyes go wide for a moment.

"Adora, I didn't, I-I didn't mean to make you feel that way."

“Then why would you say that in the middle of a serious conversation?”

Catra cleared her throat, looked away, and responded with, “I make jokes or joke with others when I’m nervous.”

So, I make her nervous. She needs distance.

“You need space then, Catra. I’ll give it to you”

I let go of Catra’s wrists and began to sit up to stop straddling her. As I was raising my pelvis up to remove myself from her, I feel Catra’s hands quickly plant themselves firmly on my waist and pull me back down to continue to straddle her. Her hand’s firm grip never left my hips as I looked down directly into her eyes. This was definitely a new development that I wasn’t expecting. There was a flicker of something in her eyes that started launching my stomach into butterflies, but the butterflies worsened after her one question.

“Did you mean the part about you liking me on top as well?”

The conversation took a giant shift. I slow blink a few times because honestly, my mind is completely swimming right now and frankly, I can’t think straight.

I could feel Catra’s hands beginning to roam up my sides very delicately. So delicate, as if not to break some kind of spell that had fallen over us. I just stared awestruck into Catra’s eyes as she failed at attempting to hide the smirk that couldn’t be contained any longer. I realized I haven’t said anything at this point. I open my mouth to try and make some kind of coherent sentence but Catra shushes me by putting her finger against my lips gently.

“All I need is your consent, Adora.”

“M-my what?”

Catra chuckles lightly.

“You really are a dummy,” Catra retorts as she slowly puts her hands behind my neck and gently pulls me closer to her face while the smirk on her intoxicating lips remains the same. At this point, I'm practically laying on top of her and our lips are inches away. I honestly don’t know what Catra wants from me. She said something about consent? What does that even mean? Consent for what exactly? For her to hug me like this? This isn’t anything new. My inner conflict must have shown everything outwardly on my face, because Catra stops instantly and the smirk on her face falls to a neutral expression. Concern begins to show through in her features.

“Adora, if you don’t want to do this I totally get-,” I panic. “NO!” Now, Catra’s face changes to complete confusion. All I know is, whatever seems to be happening currently between us feels so right. I don’t want this feeling to fade away. No, I CAN’T let this feeling fade away. Not when I just found it. So, I blurted out the first thing that came to mind. But, apparently it came out a lot more forceful than intended by the look on Catra’s face. I clear my throat and avert my gaze to somewhere on the wall turning my face fully away from Catra. She gently starts playing with the hairs on the nap of my neck while she patiently waits for me to continue, but I never do.

Catra clears her throat, “uhm, Adora?”

I don’t turn my head to look at her. Catra apparently doesn’t like that so she gently takes my head between her hands and has me directly look her in the eyes as she speaks.

“There we go. Now I can see those beautiful blue eyes of yours.”

I start to shift gently on top of her just out of pure awkwardness. Catra’s eyebrows raise for a second, but go back down to normal just as fast.

“Adora, why don’t you tell me what’s going through your head right now?”

“I-uh, I just don’t know how to describe what’s going on in my head.”

“Okay, how about we start off with something basic?”

I shake my head in a yes motion.

“Alright, Adora, do you know what consent means?”

“Of course I do! It means like, permission doesn’t it?”

“Awesome! Yes, consent does mean permission. Now, do you know what I was asking consent for?”

“To give me a hug like we are now!,” I smile with pure confidence bursting on my face. I nailed that question. I only begin to frown a little bit when Catra bursts into laughter.

“Adora, that’s completely adorable, but that wasn’t what I was asking consent for.”

“It wasn’t?”

Catra shakes her head no with a smile on her face. Okay, I’m totally lost.

“Then…what were you asking for consent? Nothing we’re doing is new.”

“I would have to disagree with you there, Princess.”

“Catra, I don’t understand what you’re ask-,” She cuts me off.

“Adora, Can I take your ponytail holder out of your hair?”

I blink a couple times because it’s such a random odd request. Nobody has ever asked to do that.

“Um, yeah, you can Catra,” she gently moves her hands from the back of my neck to my ponytail and slowly takes out the hair tie that was restraining my honey blonde hair. The hair cascades around us as it freely falls to the sides of my face. The feeling of letting my hair down gave me such relief. A relief I didn't even realize I needed. "Can I run my fingers through your hair?," I nod my head in a yes motion but Catra doesn't move. "I need to hear you say yes, Adora." I blink a few times again processing what she just said.

"Yes."

"Yes what, Adora?"

"Yes to what you just said."

"And what did I just say?"

I roll my eyes.

"You asked if you could run your hands through my hair and I said yes."

"That's my girl," Catra practically purred. My eyes went a bit wide and I could feel myself feeling something that I've never felt before. I just couldn't put my finger on the emotion. I've been staring directly into Catra's eyes this whole time, but now suddenly they've changed. Her pupils were dilated, I could feel her heart practically beating out of her chest, her scent filled my room with lavender and fresh laundry. That damn smirk had made its way back onto her face making me feel even more emotions I can't describe.

Catra began agonizingly racking her fingers through my hair very slowly. I closed my eyes as she made her way in various directions on my head. She left no spot unexplored. My scalp started getting goosebumps as she delicately unsheathed her nails and scratched my head lightly. After experiencing what Catra was doing to me, I couldn't help but let out a small moan as she was working her way across my scalp. She stopped for a brief second, but continued working again just as fast as she stopped. I slowly opened my eyes in a daze and Catra was staring at me with that same look I couldn't place.

“Do you like this?”

I hum in content.

“Good. I’m glad you do,” her massaging lasts a few more minutes before it stops and she resheaths her nails again.

“All done Catra?”

“Not fully.”

I look at her expectantly. Her breathing begins to pick up and her heart rate rises again.

“Adora, can I, can I kiss you?”

My eyebrows shoot straight up and now my own heart starts beating so hard and fast that I could’ve swore it would pound out of my chest right then and there. My breathing begins to pace itself quickly. Catra keeps lying underneath me waiting patiently for my response. I take a shaky breath in and respond.

“Are you sure?”

Catra looked surprised with my question.

“What?”

“Are you sure you want to kiss me? I feel so broken. I come with a lot of baggage, Catra,” I stated in such a hushed tone. Catra tucked some hair behind my ear and said something I’ve never heard anyone say before, let alone Catra.

“Adora, I am sure I want to kiss you and let me tell you why. I want to kiss you because to me, just telling you how I feel isn’t enough. I feel like I need to show you how I feel. Also, I know you seem to be insecure about parts of you, but to me, I just see more parts for me to love.”

“I-I, don’t know w-what to say, Catra. Nobody has ever said something like that to me before.”

“Yeah, yeah just let it go Princess,” Catra laughs awkwardly as she begins to sit up.

I pushed Catra back down into the bed.

“Where are you going?”

“I was going to collect my things and go.”

I squinted in confusion.

“You just asked to kiss me, then you give that beautiful response, and now you’re just going to leave?”

Catra became quiet.

“What’s going on Catra?”

“…”

“Did I say something wrong?”

“No.”

“Am I the problem here?,” I began to get closer to Catra’s face. I see a slight blush on her cheeks.

“NO. You’re not a fucking problem.”

“Then what’s wrong?”

Catra lets out a frustrated sigh.

“You, just, DO things to me that I can’t describe!,” Catra finishes her statement in exasperation. I raise one eyebrow.

“So, the problem IS me?”

“No, Adora, you're not the problem.”

“It sounds awfully a lot like I’m the problem here,” I sit up away from Catra, but still keep the close proximity.

“No! You’re not! Listen, I’ll try my best to explain,” Catra swallows hard. “The problem is whenever you’re around I get these weird feelings in my stomach. Almost like my stomach is upset, but it’s not. Like, the feeling of winning in a fight or giving someone a birthday gift.”

“Um, Catra, I’m not sure what you me-.”

“I’m not done,” She exhales a shaky breath and runs one hand through her hair. “Shit, I just get those feelings in my stomach whenever you come around and they get worse the closer you get to me. My heart starts pounding in my chest like I had been running a marathon when all I’ve done is look at you. Like, when we were training together and you would give me a smirk from across the room because we were killing it in combat, I would feel it right here,” Catra took my hand and placed it on her chest. “Don’t even get me started on how your laugh makes me feel. That’s a hard one to explain. Kinda like…eating my favorite food on a Saturday morning and no Shadow Weaver in sight. Oh! And your smell is intoxicating,” Catra’s eyes rolled to the back of her head after the last statement. When I saw Catra do that, I started feeling something myself. I also had a hard time placing the feeling. “I can’t help but get these feelings whenever I’m around you. I don’t know how to describe them, but I feel them often,” Catra ended with a giant smile plastered on her face and my hand was still resting on her chest.

“OH MY GOSH,” my legs begin to move trying to push myself off of Catra frantically.

“Adora! Hey! What’s wrong?!”

“I MAKE YOU SICK! You need to stay away from me Catra since I keep making you feel like this!”

“Wait…what?”

“Let me go Catra! This is for your own good!”

“Adora, stop! You don’t make me sick.”

“But, you just said-.”

“I know what I said, but I’m not sick! It’s a totally different feeling, dummy,” Catra chuckles, grabs the back of my neck and pulls me forward so we’re touching foreheads. Oddly enough, I began to relax. My breathing started to match pace with Catra’s. I thought this was a grounding technique for her, not me. She grabbed my hand again and placed it on her chest while holding the back of my neck to keep my forehead pressed against hers. After a few breaths Catra spoke again, but if I wasn’t listening intently I would’ve easily missed it. Her words came out in a breathy whisper across my lips.

“You also do this to me.”

“Do what?”

“You calm me like nobody else can.”

There was a long pause before I decided to break the silence with my own whispering question.

“Catra, would it be okay i-if I, um, if I kissed you?”

Catra’s eyes went wide.

“You, you want to kiss me?”

“Yes, but I needed to ask for consent first, right? That’s what we talked about earlier.”

“Um, yeah, you’re not wrong for asking to kiss me first.”

“Okay…,” silence fell between us. I know I asked to kiss her, but I was suddenly frozen in place. Catra seemed to be waiting patiently.

“Kiss me, Adora, before I lose my nerve.”

That was everything I needed to hear. I adjusted myself so I was fully straddling Catra now, our foreheads still pressed together, and I moved both of my hands to cup her face. The moment was here. I was finally about to kiss Catra.

Chapter End Notes

> WOW. That was A LOT. I hope you guys enjoyed this chapter as much as I enjoyed writing it. We got to see some of Adora’s POV again! Let me know what you thought in the comments below.
>
> Kudos are much appreciated. 🥰
>
> The next chapter will be our final chapter in this “one shot”. Thanks again for being apart of this and reading! The next chapter won’t take nearly as long to post. I promise. 🫶

My Turn

Chapter Summary

> Things are seeming to get a little bit “heated” between Catra and Adora. Everything else seems to have melted away except the high sexual tension between each other. Will they pump the breaks on this emotional rollercoaster or will they ride it out and see where it takes them? In this final chapter, we’ll just have to see where late night intentions truly take our favorite ladies.

Chapter Notes

> Hey everyone! 👍🏽
>
> I’m hoping you enjoy this final chapter! This smaller one shot/story has been incredible to write and I’m so glad you all have enjoyed it this far. This story might be coming to and end, but I’m sure more one shots will be in our future. Be on the look out for those! Thanks so much for all of your support and I hope you love this last chapter. 🫶🏽
>
> Disclaimer below 👇🏽
>
> ⚠️ WARNING ⚠️
>
> THIS CHAPTER CONTAINS SEXUAL CONTENT. READERS USE YOUR OWN DISCRETION WHILE READING THIS CHAPTER. THANK YOU.
>
> As always, enjoy reading my lovelies. 😈

See the end of the chapter for more notes

Adora’s hands felt like fire on my face. She was beginning to lean in and those feelings intensified in my stomach. I felt sick, but at the same time I felt excited. This is it. I was finally about to kiss Adora. A part of me was screaming to stop and not cross this line, but an even larger part of me wanted this so badly that I felt like I had no other choice but to give in to my desire. To finally let my heart win. Even though our eyes are closed, I knew the moment our lips connected. Our lips grazed together so delicately, almost like a whisper, before finally locking together. This might sound cheesy, but it literally felt like fireworks were going off inside my stomach. I had to remember how to breathe while kissing Adora. Our kiss was very innocent and didn't last long, but damn, it felt like it lasted hours for myself. Our lips made a small popping sound as we separated and I took advantage of the moment to just take some deep breaths.

"Wow…," Adora stated in a breathy manner while still catching her breath.

"Wow yourself, Princess," I retorted and laughed while catching my own breath.

As our breathing came back under control a comfortable silence filled Adora's room around us.

"Well, this was fun Adora but-"

"I want to kiss again."

"You what?"

"I said, I want to kiss again."

"I thought this was a one time thing?"

"Who made those rules?"

I scratch my head. Would kissing her again be a good idea? Once was fine, but twice?

"Catra, don't tell me you're just a scardy cat."

My eyes snapped up to meet hers and all I could see was a glint of mischief in her eyes while a smirk began to break out across her face.

"You know what happened years ago when you last said that," I warned.

"Yes, I remember. We were in the training room and you had one of those big sticks. It was still worth saying it to you," Adora finished with a 'matter of fact' tone.

I adjusted her lightly on my lap, "I'm going to have to change around my punishments if you thought saying that was still a good idea."

"I'll take whatever punishment you want to give me," Adora whispered rasply as she traced lazy circles just below my collarbone.

I swallow hard. My grip around her waist tightens.

"Fine. Don't say I didn't warn you."

"Oh, I'm so scared, Catra. What are you going to d-"

I close the gap between us fast and crash my lips into hers. She lets out a small gasp of surprise, but quickly recovers by wrapping her arms around my neck and pulling me even closer, if that's even possible. I begin to worry about consent from Adora when my hands begin to roam, but as my hands are roaming I'm met with breathy moans echoing into my open mouth. That was all the consent I needed for the time being. Doing this much with Adora sounded like it was okay. This quickly turned into a make out session that lasted for a while. What essentially made us break away from making out was when my roaming hands grazed just under her breasts along her rib cage. Adora kept her arms firmly around my neck keeping me in place while breaking away from the kiss. We both are slightly panting as Adora tries to speak.

"What were you doing?"

“Just, uh, kissing you?”

Adora sharpens her gaze on me, “So, your hands kiss me now?”

I shift my weight nervously underneath Adora while she’s sitting firmly in my lap and seeming like no intentions of moving.

“Yes?,” I’m looking everywhere except at Adora within this moment.

“Catra, how far are you wanting to go?”

The question caught me off guard. I snap my head back in her direction and make eye contact with her.

“Um, to be honest Adora, if we go any farther, I really don’t think I’ll be able to stop.”

Silence fills the room. Was I being too honest? Maybe I shouldn’t have said that. Oh jeez, what if I make her way too uncomfortable? I know the basics of sex, but does Adora? I have way too many questions. While I’m getting lost in my own thoughts I hear Adora speak.

“I give you consent,” Adora spoke in such a quiet voice. It was almost like I was listening to her private thoughts. I blink a few times, unsure if I heard her correctly.

“Wh-what?”

Adora blushes and looks away.

“It’s totally fine if that’s not something you want. You know what? Forget I even said anything,” Adora lets out an awkward laugh and begins to loosen her grip around my neck and shoulders.

“You give me consent for what, Adora?”

Adora snaps her eyes back to meet mine. She clears her throat and then swallows hard.

“I-I give you consent to have sex with me.”

“Okay, now, are you going to ask me?”

“Ask you what?”

“For my consent, Adora,” a smile begins to grow on my face as I’m teasing her.

“OH, oh my gosh. Um, yeah. Catra, do I have your consent to have sex with you?”

I didn’t realize hearing her question would stir something deep inside me. Whatever this feeling is, I really like it.

“Hell yes you can, Adora.”

Adora wasted little time by pushing me backwards onto the bed as she was still straddling me. She started kissing my collarbone, then up my neck, and making it to my jawline. I hummed at her intimate grazes. When she made it up to my lips I caught her by surprise when I grabbed her by the waist and flipped us over on the bed. So, now I’m the one on top. A shocked Adora now lays underneath me.

“My turn.”

“I didn’t even get to-,” I silenced her protests in a deep passionate kiss. I could feel her body was stiff at first, but she finally relaxed fully into me.

The kissing started out slow, but quickly intensified. Adora’s hands were in my hair pulling me even closer and my hands were tracing the outline of her perfect figure. I placed my knee between Adora’s legs while my lips found the spot right behind her jaw line. Adora let out a breathy moan. She slowly began roaming her hands down my chest, cupped my breasts, and rubbed lightly. I was beginning to suppress my own moan. Adora wasted no time in continuing her journey downward. She stopped right at my waistline where my joggers were located. She made small circles with her fingers on my pelvic area, but would dip below the waistband every so often. I finally let out my own moan as she dipped below my waistband again. I felt actual electricity after I moaned. I looked into Adora's eyes and they looked different. They looked more like a vibrant blue color. They looked like her She-Ra eyes, but she wasn't transformed.

"Catra, I love the sounds you make when I tease you."

A deep laugh vibrates through my chest, "Just wait, Princess. I'll make noises come out of you that you've never heard before."

Adora smirks.

"Well, I don't think these clothes are going to take themselves off," Adora wiggles her eyebrows at me.

"Allow me."

I run my hands down Adora's chest, slowly graze over her breasts, which makes her arch off the bed some, and lastly I rake my hands down her midsection towards the hem of her shirt. I pull off her shirt slowly and Adora in return pulls my shirt off as well. We take turns undressing each other as slowly as we wish until we're down to just the undergarments. Oh my gosh, I'm going to see Adora naked. That just now came to me that I'm going to literally see all of Adora. I get to see Adora's breasts. Oh, shit. Adora looked at me expectantly. So, I swallowed hard and fully examined her bra. She was wearing one kinda like mine. We both wore sports bras.

"Raise your arms up, Adora," She raised her arms as instructed and I began to gently pull her bra over her head. When her breasts became visible they literally took my breath away. They were as perfect as I have always envisioned. When I began to reach out to touch her breasts, Adora grabbed my hands and forced them into the air.

"My turn, Catra," she whispered as she grabbed my sports bra and slowly pulled it over my head. The cold air hit my breasts immediately and my nipples were already at attention. Before I could look into Adora's now glowing blue eyes, I dropped to my knees in front of her and slowly pulled down her underwear. I was captivated by every inch of her. I stood up and slowly ran my fingers up Adora's thighs. Adora took in a shaky breath and did the same thing as me. She dropped to her knees but when nothing happened, I looked down to see what was going on. Adora has her hands behind her back, looking up at me with a smirk on her face as she slowly leans in where my underwear waistband was located. My eyes went wide in anticipation. She gently bit the elastic waistband to the underwear and slowly pulled it down the length of my body. By the time she got to the point where I could take off the underwear, my head was completely swimming in everything Adora. I literally couldn't think straight. Not like I wanted to anyway.

"Cat got your tongue, Catra?"

I blink a few times.

"No, why?"

"I tried talking to you and you were completely spaced out. Got lost in my eyes didn't you?"

I take a long lasting look over her body. Every curve. Every freckle. Every part of her that she doesn't seem to like. It's all mine. All. Of. It.

Adora shifts uncomfortably and begins to reddin in her face.

"Yeah…it was your eyes I definitely got lost in." Sarcasm rolled thickly off my tongue. I was rewarded with higher sexual tension within the bedroom.

It's now or never.

I eagerly took my spot on top of Adora. I began licking and sucking at the base of her neck where it met her shoulder. She let out a muffled moan in pleasure. I felt completely in control of the situation until…I wasn't anymore.

Very quickly, I was the one that suddenly was on top of Catra. My one hand had both of her hands clasped tightly together above her head and pressed onto the bed. While my other hand was free to roam anywhere it pleased. I was met with a wide eyed Catra underneath me. I was drinking in this beautiful sight.

Catra was trying to make coherent sentences, but was failing miserably. I laughed.

"Full sentences, baby."

"H-how did y-you get on top like-just how?!"

I look over myself while keeping Catra firmly in place with one hand. I have a noticeable six pack now, I am much taller, and the last detail was my eyes obviously glowing blue when I caught myself in my mirror across my room.

"Oh wow, looks like I turned into She-Ra on…accident?"

"Don't lie to me, you just wanted to be on top!"

"Um, yeah I did, but I didn't think She-Ra would come out. I can go back to normal."

"WAIT."

"Catra?"

"I mean, why not use this new body of yours for a bit and then go back to normal a little later?"

"I mean…as long as you're okay with that, Catra."

"I'm more than okay with it, Princess."

"Alright."

I lean down to where my lips hovered just above Catra's. She quickly got impatient and began trying to get her hands out of my grasp. I internally laughed. Torturing Catra was just to easy and way to fun. She gets flustered so easily whether she wants to admit that or not.

"Could you stop with the teasing and get this show on the road, dummy."

"Patience, Catra." I hum beside her ear.

Catra lets out an audible huff. I roll my eyes and laugh a little bit.

My free hand begins to roam up Catra's thigh moving towards her inner thigh. I begin to trace circles on the inside of Catra's thigh. She begins to squirm more underneath me. My hand skips over her pelvic area and begins roaming over her torso.

"Oh come the fuck on," Catra lets out an exasperated sigh.

I let out a low chuckle. I could feel goosebumps rising up on her skin underneath my touch. Catra is more than ready for me, but I love taking my time. It just makes her crazy it seems like and I can't get enough of it.

My lips make rough contact with her neck right behind her jawline. I could feel Catra stifling a moan. My rough and sloppy kisses make their way down her neck and stop at the spot that connects her neck and shoulder. I bite lightly at the skin there and suck hard. Catra takes in a sharp breath and lets out one of the best moans I've ever heard. Let's be honest, it's the only moan I've ever heard that I've caused, but still, it's the absolute best moan. I decide it's time to let go of her hands so then I could have both hands to work my magic.

I let go of Catra's hands and she immediately runs her fingers through my hair and rests her arms around my neck pulling me in even closer.

Not many words were exchanged as I began my descent down towards the spot she wanted me the most to explore. Delicate kisses above her navel had her like puddy in my hands. Honestly, she was already completely melted before I even got this far. This is just an added bonus.

I could hear Catra's breathing become a little bit more frequent as obvious actions are about to take place next.

I look up at her. We make direct eye contact. She encourages me to continue. I nod my head and lower my mouth. I hover just above her curls. I breathe out. The curls barely move but they elicit a groan from the one who created these curls. I smile. I put one hand on each knee.

"Baby, I'm going to need you to open your legs as wide as you can."

Catra looked at me confused.

"What?"

I smile. I begin to take one finger on both thighs and draw lines towards her pelvis and then back out to her knee. Over and over again. Catra's eyes flutter a bit.

"Sweetie, you're not focusing very well. I need you to listen carefully."

"Uh..m-mhmm."

"Okay. Now, I need you to open your legs as wide as you can. But don't make it uncomfortable for you."

"O-kay."

Catra did as instructed.

"Mmmm…that's my girl."

I could already see her glistening in what little light was in the room. I part her lips a little more with both of my thumbs. I massage her lips lightly. I'm met with a low moan. I take my thumb and go up to the peak of her inner labia and find a little nub there. Now, after all my research and diagram reading, this has gotta be the Clitoris. Well…maybe. I very lightly apply pressure. I rub gently. Catra's hips buck. A shocked squeal escaped past her lips.

"What the hell did you do to me?!"

I laugh lightly.

"Catra, it's okay. I just found a really good sweet spot for you."

Catra's cheeks turn a light shade of pink.

"I can do it again if you like."

"Uh, y-yeah. Do it again."

My thumb makes contact with her clit again. This time I move my thumb in a circular motion lightly over the top of it. Catra moans in approval and her hips begin to grind upwards into my hand.

"I-I need m-more."

I raise my eyebrow in question.

"You need more of what, Catra?"

"I j-just need more of y-you."

My eyes widened and I felt a burst of electricity and magic charge through me, but my thumb was still on Catra's clit when the surge went through me. Catra arched her back as the surge met her.

A sharp intake of breath followed by a lingering moan rang out in the room. Catra's claws unsheathed. I could feel them scratching mercilessly down my back. When did Catra put her hands on my back? I didn't even notice. I could feel Catra's tail snaking around my thigh and it felt like she was holding on for dear life.

I adjusted myself so I could still please Catra while I hovered over her at the same time. Her tail caused beautiful friction. I wanted to kiss her. No, I needed to kiss her. I connect to Catra's lips in a desperate heated kiss. Catra's body jolted and relaxed just as fast.

Desperation filled the room. Loud moans. Open mouthed kisses. Catra's thrusting is urgent. Both of us are getting lost in each other. Unable to get enough of the other. My thumb kept its place on Catra's clit. Relentlessly pleasing the girl beneath me. Her hips moving in rhythm with my hand as it makes direct contact with her.

"Adora, I-I'm so close," Catra whimpered.

Warmth began spreading across my lower abdomen. It built rather quickly, but just as fast as it came, it released. When it was released, I could feel another electric shock pass through my body and exit my thumb while touching Catra. I was immediately met with Catra's moan loudly in approval as she reached her climax. Her nails racked down my back, strong thighs squeezing me desperately, her tail squeezing my thigh just as tightly, and I held her close through it all while her body rode out the orgasm. At least that's what my research called it. Catra was showing all the obvious signs of reaching what they call an orgasm. Wait…was this too short? Should I have gone longer? My research did talk about people having sex for hours at a time per session. Did I disappoint Catra?

While I began spiraling into my own thoughts, Catra seemed to be unphased to my internal battle. Catra lazily put her hands in my hair and gently brought our foreheads together. She let out an airy sigh. My stomach started doing gentle flips.

"Where did you learn to do all that?"

Catra is twirling a strand of my hair with her finger.

“I…uh…j-just lots of…research?”

Catra blinked.

“You studied for this like it was a mission or some sort of test?”

“Yeah…”

“You’re such an idiot.”

Catra let out a high pitched laugh. I could feel my cheeks turning red. Catra’s laughing stopped once she noticed I wasn’t laughing.

“Adora, what’s wrong?”

I couldn’t meet her gaze when I asked my question.

“Was I…really that bad, Catra?” I barely finished my sentence when I felt Catra’s hands cup my face and force me to look her directly in the eyes.

“Adora…I could barely make coherent sentences and you have the audacity to ask if you were bad?”

I shrug my shoulders.

“I just feel like I didn’t make things last long enough since it was my first time. My research was say-”

“Stop.”

I blink a few times.

“Stop researching constantly and going by the textbook all the time. Just do what feels right. As long as it’s consensual of course.”

Catra added a wriggle of her eyebrow for effect. I couldn’t help but laugh at her antics.

“Wait…,” Catra looked like she just had a revelation.

“What? Is something wrong, Catra?”

Catra swallows hard.

“This…was your…first time? Like, ever?”

I clear my throat.

“Well, yeah. It’s always been you, Catra. I just didn’t see anyone else.”

Catra’s glowing eyes widened.

“It’s always been you, Catra. I love you. I always have.”

It was Catra’s turn to look away from our intense gaze.

“You don’t have to say it, Catra. But I know you love me.”

Catra’s cheeks began to turn a shade of light pink.

“What makes you think I love you? You big dummy.”

I let out a low chuckle.

“Well, if this doesn’t prove your love, then I don’t know what else will.”

I used my thumb to gesture towards my back. Catra sat up slightly and looked towards my back.

“OH MY GOD.”

Numerous claw marks covered my back. Some of the marks were red while others had blood seeping through the cuts.

“WHY DIDN’T YOU STOP ME!”

“Because I loved every second of it.”

“…excuse you?”

“I absolutely loved the pain you inflicted on me. It made me feel like I was doing something right. I’ve never felt anything like it.”

“I need to get you bandaids or something.”

Catra sits up. I pin her back to the bed and straddle her.

“No need. Have you forgotten I’m literally a magic princess with healing powers?”

Catra’s cheeks darken.

“Yeah…that seemed to have slipped my mind after…everything.”

Catra shivered.

“Are you cold? I can get you more blankets. Do you want something to eat? What about a drink? I’m sure I have my remote around here somewhere. We could watch something together!”

“ADORA.”

I look down at her from my straddle position.

“Look…all of those things sound so awesome, but all I want is for you to stay right here.”

I smile.

“Anything for you, Catra.”

Catra’s content grin turns into a Devilish smile.

“Don’t you know I always win, Princess?”

Before I knew it my world was quickly turned upside down. Suddenly, I’m the one being pressed into the bed while Catra straddles me.

“It’s my turn to play,” Catra whispered while she lazily traced the grooves and ridges of my abdominal muscles. My eyes began to glow a blue like they did previously. Is this going to become a common thing now with my eyes? Catra leans down close to me, but instead of kissing me she hovers close to my ear.

She whispers a breathy, “I love you too, you idiot.”

I wrap her up into a giant bear hug. All that could be heard was laughter echoing off my bedroom walls and the sounds of contentment. We enjoyed each other fully, snacks were had, and lots of sleep was required. Don’t worry, Catra made sure that I was aware that cuddling was mandatory. Apparently it’s a thing that “couples” do. My research isn’t complete on the title of “Girlfriend,” but I’m working on it. Sometimes late night intentions are the best ones we have. Oh…and some wine. Can’t forget about the wine.

Chapter End Notes

> WOW. Thanks so much for being apart of this ride. This was so much fun and it definitely won’t be my last story. Keep your eyes peeled for various other stories! 👀
>
> Thanks again lovelies! 🫶
>
> Leave Kudos and comments please. I’d love to hear your favorite parts.

End Notes

Thanks so much for reading. 😱🥰 This is a one shot, but there could end up being a few chapters. We'll see where it takes us.

Please drop by the Archive and comment to let the creator know if you enjoyed their work!