Catra's Fishing Trip

by MasterOfMemez96

Summary

Scubatember Day 8: Fishing

Catra has a...unique way of fishing, which involves scuba diving and her claws. Adora is just along for the ride.

Notes

Two in one day? Well, I managed to churn this one out faster than I thought, so yes. After writing the Catradora chapter for the Project Endless Ocean Luminous fic a few months ago, I wanted to write about Catra's fishing methods. Adora's here because why not. Enjoy!

To most people, the sport of fishing involved standing or sitting on the edge of a body of water or on a boat, and casting a fishing line or net out into the water, hoping that the fish would get caught. Maybe someone would use a spear instead, or maybe they would be after something other than a fish, like a turtle or an octopus, but the point still remains. This was the image most people had of fishing.

Catra was not most people.

Instead, Catra liked to be up close and personal with her prey, stalking and pouncing on them like, well, a cat. Of course, Catra couldn't breathe underwater, so she wore scuba gear to help her stay in the water for much longer than she could otherwise. Having a regulator in her mouth prevented Catra from biting the fish right away, but her claws were still available for use, and they were more than enough for catching even the hardiest fish.

Adora always accompanied her girlfriend on her fishing dives. She wasn't interested in fishing herself, she just enjoyed scuba diving and the feeling of being in the ocean. Also the thought of Catra in scuba gear and a wetsuit was just too appealing to pass up. Adora was carrying a large container to store all the fish Catra caught, and though she was much stronger than her physique would suggest, the container was starting to get a little heavy.

"Grrmm…," Catra murmured, grinning around her regulator mouthpiece as she spotted her next prey.

A large salmon had just swum into her line of sight, about three feet long. Catra had spent the last hour catching small fish under a foot in length, so she was eager to get her hands on something this big. She floated down to the rocky seafloor and slowly slunk towards her prey, making sure to stay out of sight. Her yellow eyes gleamed with anticipation behind her mask as she got within striking distance.

Once she felt she was close enough, Catra lunged forward and grabbed the salmon by the tail. The salmon thrashed around in terror as Catra sunk her claws into its flesh, not knowing it was doomed from the very moment she laid her eyes on it. Considering its larger size, Catra had to try harder to kill the fish than before, or even hold onto it. The heavy oxygen tank strapped to Catra's back made it a little harder for her to swim around freely as she struggled with the fish, but her natural agility combined with the flippers attached to her feet made up the difference.

Adora watched from a distance, wincing slightly as the salmon was gradually worn down from blood loss. Catra removed her regulator and bit the fish at the back of its head, finally putting it down for good. The salmon went limp, and Catra swam back to her girlfriend, a triumphant look on her face.

"Mmrrg…," Adora gagged into her regulator, very thankful she couldn't smell dead fish underwater as she opened the container for Catra to stuff the salmon's corpse in.

Adora checked her dive watch and found that they'd been underwater for over an hour and a half. Combined with the fact that the salmon blood was likely to attract sharks pretty soon, she figured that now was a good time to leave. She motioned towards the shore, Catra gave her the OK sign, and the two girls picked up the fish container and started making their way for the shore.

Catra was very proud of herself for killing that salmon. She'd always struggled a bit when going after bigger fish, so getting one this big was an achievement in her book. Adora may have reservations on the brutality, but even she was impressed by her girlfriend's accomplishments.

Adora gave Catra a playful wink, reaching over and ruffling her hair. Catra let out a muffled purr before setting the fish container down and pouncing on her girlfriend. The two girls wrestled in the shallows for a bit, giggling into their regulators like schoolgirls. Catra managed to pin Adora down on the rocks, the two locking eyes before they removed their regulators and kissed each other passionately.

If a container full of fish was a successful fishing trip to Catra and Adora, a container of fish and an underwater kiss was a VERY successful fishing trip.
